YOU'VE BEEN INVITED TO JOIN APSA!

Dear Colleague,

I hope that you decide to join the American Political Science Association! It is the leading professional organization for the study of political science, serving over 11,000 scholarly individuals, departments, and institutions in more than 90 countries.

Consider some of the many ways APSA helps diverse communities of scholars, teachers, students, and practitioners, bringing wide-ranging interests, methodologies, and perspectives to the analysis and conduct of government and politics. As a member, you'll receive access to four leading journals in the field, first-hand monthly updates on programs, jobs and opportunities, discounts on services, products, and events, including our Annual Meeting and Teaching & Learning Conference.

In a nutshell, APSA offers a great deal of support for political scientists entering the profession, as well as political scientists flourishing within the profession. They have the best teaching and learning resources, professional development services, grants, fellowships and funding opportunities, diversity and inclusion programs, and so much more! Here's a few highlights in brief you can learn more about:

Programs & Opportunities

APSA works to promote excellence in scholarship and teaching, diversity and inclusion in the profession, and scholarly research and information in political science, for both graduate students and undergraduates, through a number of programs such as the Ralph Bunche Summer Institute, APSA Mentoring Program, Congressional Fellowship Program, Small Research Grants Program, and many more.

Career Resources

Members get access to the APSA job portal, eJobs. It's the most comprehensive database of jobs related to political science that is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes. APSA also offers a range of information on careers in political science for both graduate students and undergraduates, including booklets, brochures, annual meeting events, and online resources for grants, scholarships, and internships.

Annual Meeting

We produced an outstanding Annual Meeting in San Francisco with topics and discussions led by scholars from across the globe on most current news and events. It's a great opportunity to share your research and network with scholars in a big way! More than 6,000 people attend and just about 12,000 discussion panels, networking receptions, poster panels, and business meetings are held at the meeting.

I hope this is more than enough perks, information and benefits to convince you to join! This year, APSA is working towards more opportunities to increase the value of each members' experience with a number of professional development offerings that include access to more career resources, webinars, and a series of presentations and seminars at events nationwide.

Join us in these exciting endeavors and together let's make 2018 our best year! Visit www.apsanet.org to become an APSA member!

Sincerely,
Your Colleague
