

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

October 2016 | Volume 5, Issue 10

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4
American Government and Politics 10
Comparative Politics 64
International Relations 119
Methodology 181
Non-Academic 198
Other 199
Political Theory 248
Public Administration 272
Public Law 293
Public Policy 308

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

October 2016 | Volume 5, Issue 10

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (10 listings)

American Government and Politics 10 (120 listings)

Comparative Politics 64 (115 listings)

International Relations 119 (126 listings)

Methodology 181 (41 listings)

Non-Academic 198 (1 listings)

Other 199 (98 listings)

Political Theory 248 (50 listings)

Public Administration 272 (37 listings)

Public Law 293 (26 listings)

Public Policy 308 (71 listings)

Total listings this issue 695

Resources and Guidance on Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for October

ADMINISTRATION

Middle Tennessee State University

Rank: Chair

Middle Tennessee State University seeks applications for Chair of the Department of Political Science and International Relations (#128005). Start date for this position is August 1, 2017.

The department consists of 15 full-time faculty members and offers undergraduate degrees in Political Science (including a popular pre-law concentration) and International Relations and a Masters in International Affairs. Ideal candidates will be committed to shared governance and collaborative leadership. Candidate must have earned PhD in Political Science, eligible for rank of Associate or Full Professor, with expedited tenure considered. Subfield specialization open. Record of experience in departmental and/or university governance will receive special consideration.

Responsibilities of the chair will include providing academic leadership for the Department, representing the Department within the University and broader communities, managing resources and staff, facilitating planning and assessment, and teaching and mentoring students.

To apply or for additional information visit <http://mtsujobs.mtsu.edu/postings/3834>. All applicants must complete an on-line application. Submission of application letter, curriculum vita, teaching philosophy and research/creative activities statement must be attached via online system. Additionally, applicants must supply contact information (including email) for a minimum of three individuals (in the sections provided) that may be contacted at any point during the search for letters of recommendation and references. Applicants may submit unofficial transcripts, published articles, or text that display their successful professional activity. Begin review date is November 7, 2016. MTSU is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that values diversity in all its forms. Women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2116

Ohio State University

Rank: Mershon Center for International Security Studies Director/Academic Department Professor

Units: Mershon Center for International Security Studies/Academic Department

Position: Director (50%) and Professor (50%)

Rank: Professor

Description:

The Ohio State University seeks a director for the Mershon Center for International Security Studies. The Center is the intellectual center on campus for the study of national and international security in a global context. It brings together top faculty from across campus and beyond to promote multi-disciplinary collaboration, high quality scholarship, and public outreach that addresses the questions central to security studies, broadly defined. Ohio State's Office of International Affairs and the College of Arts and Sciences sponsor this position jointly. The director will be expected to pursue an active research agenda and to carry a half-time teaching load in his or her department.

Qualifications:

The Mershon Director must hold a PhD or equivalent degree and have a record of successful publication and teaching that justifies appointment at the rank of full professor. Experiences in governmental, inter-governmental, and/or non-governmental institutions and agencies dealing with security issues are desirable, as is significant experience of international engagement and collaboration generally. Applicants should have a track record of academic leadership including grant seeking and institution building. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:

The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries (see <http://liveworkplaycolumbus.com/>). Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions:

Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/8055>. All applicants should submit a curriculum vitae and a cover letter briefly (1-2 pages) explaining why they are interested in the position and describing their vision of international security studies going forward. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled but those received by October 24, 2016, will receive priority consideration. Inquiries may be directed to Richard Herrmann at Herrmann.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2094

Marquette University

Rank: Harry G. John Professor of Urban Studies and Director of the Center for Urban Research, Teaching, and Outreach

Marquette University seeks a scholar of urban studies to fill an endowed professorship and to serve as Director of the Center for Urban Research, Teaching, and Outreach. The center fosters scholarship and teaching on urban studies across the Way Klingler College of Arts and Sciences, and promotes community engagement. The John Professor and will hold tenure in the Department of History, Political Science, or Social and Cultural Sciences (which includes Sociology, Anthropology, Criminology, Social Welfare and Justice). A joint appointment may be sought. The Director reports to the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The area of scholarship may include but is not limited to: race, poverty, social movements, the environment and sustainability, urban planning and development, and/or carceral reform.

Successful applicants will have:

- a scholarly record reflecting a tenured associate or full professor in their field.
- administrative experience.
- vision for implementing relevant, campus-wide public programming and outreach in urban settings.
- a commitment to research and teaching.
- a record of success in obtaining and administering grants.

In addition to administering the center, the John Professor will teach two courses per year in his or her field. Salary is commensurate with experience and rank.

Duties and responsibilities include:

1. Oversee center programming and budget, and supervise Assistant Director.
2. Develop and implement strategic plan for Center.
3. Teach two courses per year.
4. Maintain active scholarly profile with research, publication, and professional service.
5. Foster community engagement and outreach in accord with university's strategic plan (see <http://www.marquette.edu/strategic-planning/>).

Required knowledge, skills and abilities include:

1. Ph.D. with four-seven years of college teaching experience.
2. Demonstrated evidence of teaching effectiveness and advancing scholarship commensurate with the appointment to a senior rank with tenure.

Preferred knowledge, skills and abilities include:

1. Prior administrative experience.
2. Proven success in winning external funding.

All applications for this position must be received through Marquette University's electronic recruiting system (<http://employment.marquette.edu/postings/6293>).

Please attach 1) a letter of application; 2) a Curriculum Vitae; 3) a one-page vision statement for the Center for Urban Research, Teaching, and Outreach (called "Other document" in the system); 4) a Statement on Teaching Philosophy, including evidence of teaching effectiveness; 5) unofficial transcripts.

Also, three letters of recommendation—at least one of which must address the candidate's administrative experience—may be attached to an email sent to sam.harshner@marquette.edu or mailed via USPS to: Sam Harshner
History Department
Marquette University
PO Box 1881
Milwaukee, WI 53201-1881

The deadline for applications is November 15, 2016.

Marquette University, an EOE that values diversity, is a Jesuit, Catholic university with a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs. Our campus is located in downtown Milwaukee, WI, a racially diverse city with convenient access to many government and private and nonprofit agencies, and ripe with opportunity for community engagement and research. Find out more about the city at <http://choosmilwaukee.com/>. We seek candidates who understand and respect the University's Mission Statement, which can be found at <http://www.marquette.edu/about/mission.shlml>. Candidates from underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2053

University of California, Davis

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Social Ecological Systems

Subfield(s): Other, Administration, Administration

Assistant or Associate Professor of Social Ecological Systems

Department of Environmental Science and Policy, University of California, Davis

Title: Assistant or Associate Professor of Social-Ecological Systems. The Department of Environmental Science and Policy in the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences at the University of California, Davis is recruiting an Assistant/Associate Professor Social-Ecological Systems with a preferred emphasis in governance and quantitative approaches including but not limited to network analysis, mathematical models, computational models, and empirical research. The candidate will be part of a cluster hire in a new Network Science and Complex Systems group with membership that spans UC-Davis and provides opportunities for cutting-edge, integrative science. This is an academic year (9-month), Assistant/Associate Professor tenure-track/tenured position with teaching, research, outreach/engagement and service responsibilities.

Responsibilities:

The Department of Environmental Science and Policy is seeking applicants with a background in political or policy science, network science, sustainability science, decision science, systems modeling, or other disciplinary or interdisciplinary programs with rigorous quantitative training combined with knowledge of environmental governance and policy. The appointee is expected to establish a competitively funded research program that uses social-ecological approaches to address critical or emerging issues such as climate change, food security, invasive species, water management, energy systems, transportation, or other issues. The teaching load is 2.5 courses per year, including a general environmental science/policy course (e.g. ESP1 or 10), a graduate methods course that complements the network science and complex systems group, and a new undergraduate course on sustainability and social-ecological systems. Capacity to teach courses in environmental impact analysis (ESP179) or environmental law (ESP161) is also desirable. The appointee will regularly advise undergraduate and graduate students. Participation in and development of outreach/engagement programs, and performance of departmental and university service is expected. This position is expected to work with extension educators and partners in allied industries.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. or equivalent degree in a field of quantitative social science, network science, systems analysis, other discipline with rigorous quantitative training and knowledge of environmental policy and governance. Strong quantitative skills in network analysis, mathematical/computational models, and statistical analysis including programming tools for computational social science and data carpentry. Post-doctoral experience is preferred. Evidence of research excellence is expected. The candidate should have the ability to develop and instruct undergraduate and graduate courses and the ability to develop and conduct extramurally funded research in integrated science teams.

Salary:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applications:

Application materials must be submitted via the following website: <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu>. The position will remain open until filled. To ensure consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2016.

Required application materials include: 1) curriculum vitae including publication list, 2) up to three publications, 3) transcripts if the applicant is within five years of Ph.D. degree, 4) statement of research agenda including past accomplishments and future research plans relevant to position, 5) statement of teaching accomplishments and philosophy, 6) Statement of Contributions to Diversity; and 7) the names, addresses, including e-mail, of four professional references. Additional inquiries should be directed to recruitment chair Mark Lubell at mnlubell@ucdavis.edu; 530-752-5880.

UC Davis is an affirmative action/equal employment opportunity employer and is dedicated to recruiting a diverse faculty community. We welcome all qualified applicants to apply, including women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The UC Davis statement on diversity is available at http://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/diversity/equity_inclusion/index.html.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1979

Universidad de los Andes

Rank: Six faculty positions in Public Management, Public Policy, Law and Public Policy, Political Dimensions of Public Policy, and Global Policy

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government at Universidad de los Andes is pleased to invite applications for up to six (6) permanent faculty positions, with start dates in January (preferable) or August (if necessary) of 2017, in the following areas:

Public Management: strategic planning within the public sector, finance and budgeting, public management, leadership in the public sector, and organizational development, among others.

Public Policy: any sub-field (including public health).

Law and Public Policy: regulations, public sector contracts, legal and normative frameworks for public policy and public management, ethics, the politics of judicial processes and criminal law, among others.

Political Dimensions of Public Policy: the politics of public policy, analysis of actors related to public policy, interest groups, local, regional, and national politics, among others.

Global Policy: the role of international organizations in development, issues in global governance, global activism and transnational actors, among others.

Requirements

Those applying should meet the following requirements:

- Ph.D. in hand (candidates about to defend their dissertations will also be considered).
- Demonstrate a commitment to excellence in independent research, including but not limited to publications in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed journals and/or books published at academic presses of recognized quality.
- Show a commitment to excellence in teaching, as demonstrated through experience in the classroom and strong teaching evaluations.
- Research and teaching areas: Public Management, Public Policy, Law and Public Policy, the Politics of Public Policy, and Global Policy.

Position

The School is interested in hiring up to six full-time candidates at the levels of Assistant or Associate Professor.

Application process

Participants must prepare the following documentation:

- Cover letter, specifying current topics of research and main areas of interest, which the candidates will be expected to develop at the Universidad de los Andes School of Government.
- Two letters of recommendation from researchers or academics with first-hand knowledge of the candidates' abilities.
- Description of general teaching areas and examples of courses of interest.
- CV that includes:
 - o Publications
 - o Presentations at conferences
 - o Participation in research projects, including the specific role played in each
 - o Awards, grants, and other honors received
- o Courses taught, including the following information: institution of instruction and level of instruction (undergraduate or graduate). Course evaluations are optional.
- o Name and contact information of two academic references (in addition to those who wrote the letter of recommendation).

Please send applications via post or email (the latter preferred) to:

Adriano Cano Cuervo
General Secretary
Alberto Lleras Camargo Government School
Universidad de los Andes
Cra. 1 No.19 - 27, Bloque AU, Piso 3.
Bogotá – Colombia

Email: a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co

Description of the School of Government

The Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government seeks to improve the quality of public policies and public administration by training students to become effective leaders in their respective fields, working from positions within the different branches of government to those in academic research. It empowers individuals to analyze issues critically and to shape public opinion responsibly.

The School of Government fosters the study of public issues within Universidad de los Andes by creating the appropriate environment for debating the most critical matters confronting the country. It proposes technical, interdisciplinary solutions to problems of a social, economic, and political nature that are prevalent in Colombia and in other countries in the region.

Additional information

For further information on the available positions, please contact Adriano Cano Cuervo, General Secretary of the School of Government at a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co.

For further information about the University or the Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government, including its programs and activities, please visit our website <https://egob.uniandes.edu.co/index.php/es/>

Universidad de los Andes is an equal opportunity employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, or disability status. If you are unable to complete the application process due to an impairment or disability, please contact Adriano Cano at a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS: OCTOBER 30, 2016 at 11:59 pm (COT)

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1962

University of Georgia

Rank: Dean of the School of Public and International Affairs

The University of Georgia (UGA) invites applications and nominations for the position of Dean of the School of Public and International Affairs (SPIA).

The School of Public and International Affairs, which was established in 2001, is now ranked by U.S. News & World Report as the nation's fourth best public affairs graduate school and the nation's second best among public universities.

Led by a group of over 50 talented faculty members, SPIA is home to the Departments of International Affairs, Political Science, and Public Administration and Policy. The School currently enrolls more than 1,600 undergraduate students and over 300 students who are pursuing master's and doctoral degrees. SPIA is honored to call four Rhodes scholars, two Marshall scholars, three Carnegie Junior Fellows, and three Truman scholars graduates of its programs. Departmental faculty and students have continued to distinguish themselves with honors and awards. Teaching, research and service are part of the highly valued mission in SPIA. For more information, please see: <http://spia.uga.edu/>.

The University of Georgia, a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities, is the state's oldest, most comprehensive, and most diversified institution of higher education. UGA was founded in 1785 by the Georgia General Assembly as the first state-chartered University in the country and is consistently ranked among the top 25 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 65 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton.

UGA employs approximately 1,700 full-time faculty and more than 7,600 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 36,000 students including over 27,500 undergraduates and over 8,500 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 17 schools and colleges, as well as a medical partnership with Augusta University housed on the UGA Health Sciences Campus in Athens. Additional information about the University of Georgia is available at: <http://www.uga.edu/>.

The Dean will provide energetic and visionary leadership, as well as principled administrative guidance and advocacy for the mission of the School in teaching, research, and public service. The Dean serves as the chief academic and administrative officer of the School, reporting to the Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. The Dean's duties include overall responsibility for leadership of the School; strategic planning and analysis of School operations; research productivity with an emphasis on increasing external funding; curriculum development for departments, centers and programs in the School; budget development; fundraising; faculty recruitment; and liaison with department heads, center directors, program directors and School staff.

Candidates should have a terminal degree such as a Ph.D. (alternate terminal degrees will be accepted) in International Affairs, Political Science, Public Administration and Policy, Economics, Law, or a related field, a distinguished record of scholarship, and qualify for tenure at the full professor level. A minimum of two years of experience in a discipline related to public and international affairs is required. The successful candidate should have a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching and research, be able to manage and advocate for a diverse college with multiple departments and centers, be an effective internal manager with good budgetary skills and the ability to work in a collaborative and collegial manner with a diverse faculty and staff, encourage externally supported scholarship and student funding, and have the ability to be a successful fundraiser with foundations and individual donors.

Applicant screening will begin immediately. Candidates are encouraged to submit their materials by Sunday, November 27, 2016; however, screening will continue until the position is filled. The application packet should include a cover letter detailing how the applicant's credentials and experience meet the needs, responsibilities, and qualifications stated above; a current curriculum vita; and contact information for three references (who will not be contacted without further correspondence with the applicant).

All applicants must apply online at FacultyJobs@UGA. Please see the job posting at: <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1165>

Nominations, questions and/or other inquiries should be directed to Rebecca Rykard, Primary Consultant with the UGA Search Group, at rykard@uga.edu or 706-542-5769.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. As such, the University of Georgia is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. We not only strongly encourage women, minorities and other diverse candidates to consider applying for this position, but we also maintain that all candidates should share our commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1955

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Director of School of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Other

The University of Massachusetts Amherst invites applications for the position of inaugural Director of the new School of Public Policy (SPP) at the University's flagship campus. We seek an outstanding and active scholar committed to the study of public problems and their resolution. The appointment will be made at the rank of Full Professor or advanced Associate Professor. Building on the success of the University's Center for Public Policy and Administration, the founding director will help to lead a faculty hiring strategy, elevate the visibility of SPP as a national and international hub for policy debates, and create multi-disciplinary programs that prepare students for lifelong engagement with public issues. The Director will work with faculty and other campus leaders to raise the profile of policy-relevant research on and beyond campus, build partnerships with other campus units that create joint opportunities for policy-related research and teaching, support faculty to increase public engagement with their research, and engage in fundraising working with development staff. The Director, who will report to the Dean of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS), will work with faculty to lead efforts to establish new opportunities for undergraduates in public policy and administration and expand existing graduate programs, working in collaboration with departments in the social sciences, natural sciences, public health, engineering, information and computer science and a variety of other fields. The SPP community is interested in problems connected to inequality and has a passion for social change and engaging policy problems at all levels, locally through internationally. The new Director will work collaboratively to develop innovative programs on our main campus in Amherst, with possible new operations in Massachusetts (Boston and Springfield) and Washington, DC where students will gain valuable experience in international, national, state, regional and local governance.

Requirements:

Candidates for Director must have a doctoral degree or equivalent and an exceptional record of research, teaching, and service sufficient to merit appointment as a tenured (full or associate) professor in one of the academic departments of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to research and to undergraduate and graduate education; a vision for how a new policy school will support the campus's strategic planning goals; a commitment to increase the diversity of the faculty, student body and curriculum; an ability to serve as a vigorous champion for public policy research and teaching; and an ability to work effectively across boundaries with faculty members, students, staff, administrators, and external constituencies.

Additional Information:

The university is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University of Massachusetts Amherst is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Because broad diversity is essential to an inclusive climate and critical to the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will holistically assess the many qualifications of each applicant and favorably consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with broadly diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds in educational, research or other work activities. We will also favorably consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic degree and career.

Application Instructions:

The appointment will be effective on or about September 1, 2017. Interested candidates should apply through Interview Exchange.

Candidates should include a curriculum vitae and a cover letter with a statement about the candidate's views on the role of public policy in a public research university, along with a concise description of the candidate's research and related accomplishments.

All applications will be treated as strictly confidential & letters of reference will only be requested for candidates who are finalists.

For full consideration, ensure that your application is received by October 3, 2016, but review of applications will continue until a suitable candidate pool has been identified.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1898

University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

Rank: Professor, Director of the Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Administration

WEISER CENTER FOR EMERGING DEMOCRACIES: The International Institute (II) at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor seeks qualified applicants for the Ronald and Eileen Weiser Professorship in Emerging Democracies and the Directorship of the Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) to begin September 1, 2017. The II is interested in a scholar who conducts research on emerging democracies, broadly defined, and has interdisciplinary interests in the social sciences or humanities. The successful applicant will be a tenured faculty member in a department, such as Anthropology, History, Sociology, or Political Science.

The II brings together distinguished and diverse faculty and scholars with deep area studies, disciplinary, and international expertise to enrich the university's intellectual environment and to provide the U-M community with the knowledge, tools, and experience to become informed and active global citizens.

The WCED promotes scholarship to better understand the conditions and policies under which democracies emerge and autocracies endure, past and present. WCED takes a multidisciplinary perspective that is sensitive to the historical, social, cultural, economic, and political contexts in which democracies do or do not emerge. While WCED initially focused on transitions in Europe and Eurasia, the II welcomes applications from faculty working in any region.

QUALIFICATIONS

The University will give greatest consideration to the following qualifications:

1. Academic Accomplishment: The candidate should have a strong record of scholarly excellence and be well known in his or her field. The candidate should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, including a statement of teaching philosophy and experience.
2. Administrative Experience: The Director is responsible for overseeing budgets and staff, working with departments and colleagues to promote area expertise, monitoring faculty committees, and overseeing development activities by cultivating ties to people and institutions outside the University in support of WCED activities. The candidate should have a significant administrative background and should be capable of managing a complex organization.
3. Vision and Strategy: The Director is responsible for setting the intellectual agenda and developing WCED programming that will fuel the center's continued growth and global engagement. The candidate should have the ability to articulate and execute a vision for a major interdisciplinary research center.

This is a university year appointment. Applications received by October 3, 2016 will be given first consideration. All applicants should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and names of suggested reviewers. Please provide a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence, and a statement of current and future research plans.

The University of Michigan is an AA/EO employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University is supportive of the needs of dual career couples.

Applicants to this position can apply online via <https://webapps.lsa.umich.edu/apply/1041>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1775

George Mason University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Conflict Resolution (Tenure-Track)

George Mason University

Assistant Professor of Conflict Resolution (Tenure-Track)

The George Mason University School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution (S-CAR) invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor of Conflict Resolution. The position begins late August 2017. George Mason University has a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff, and strongly encourages candidates to apply who will enrich Mason's academic and culturally inclusive environment. The School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution is committed to the development of theory, research and practice that generate new and innovative approaches to conflict analysis, resolution and transformation. Having established the world's first M.S. program in conflict resolution in 1983, S-CAR is home to degree programs at the B.A./B.S., M.S., Ph.D., and Certificate levels and has an affiliate M.S. program in Malta. With four vibrant centers and multiple projects and programs, S-CAR faculty and students are engaged in significant research and practice worldwide; nationally; and locally, in the Washington, D.C., metro area. S-CAR is a Commonwealth Center for Excellence, recognized for its leadership in the field and its world-renowned faculty. For more information about the school, go to: <http://scar.gmu.edu/>.

Responsibilities:

The responsibilities for this position include:

- Teaching two courses per semester (including undergraduate instruction);
- Maintaining an active research and/or practice agenda;
- Participating in curricular development and other service activities; and
- Contributing to the school's intellectual life.

Qualifications:

The School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution seeks highly qualified applicants whose work strengthens or complements the department's current offerings. Candidates with expertise in any subfield will be considered. Several areas are of particular interest, including: engaged scholarship; organizational or multiparty conflict resolution; critical peace building; and conflict and its resolution in relation to gender, environment, poverty/inequality or arts/media. The department is interested in candidates who engage directly with today's real-world conflicts through intervention, advocacy, consultation, evaluation and other forms of practice. S-CAR invites applicants from a variety of academic disciplines or interdisciplinary backgrounds, and representing various methodological and regional areas of expertise, both domestic and international. Applicants should have completed their Doctoral degree or plan to defend their dissertation by August 1, 2017. For full consideration, applicants must apply for position number F8299z at <http://jobs.gmu.edu/>; complete and submit the online application; and upload a CV, two writing samples (second writing sample may be uploaded into field marked "Other Doc" in the Additional Documents section), a cover letter that includes a statement of interest, and a list of the names and e-mails of three referees who have agreed to write letters of recommendation upon request. For additional information, please contact James Moon, Search Administrative Coordinator at jmoon6@gmu.edu or Dr. Susan F. Hirsch, Search Committee Chair.

George Mason University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, committed to promoting inclusion and equity in its community. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/zxbc7b9qd4>

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1707

University of Georgia

Rank: Margaret Hughes and Robert T. Golembiewski Professor of Public Administration

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Administration

The University of Georgia's School of Public & International Affairs, Department of Public Administration and Policy invites applications for The Margaret Hughes and Robert T. Golembiewski Professorship in Public Administration. Appointment begins in August 2017. The position is an endowed professorship, held by a full professor with an outstanding record of scholarship, teaching, and professional activity in public administration, including any subfield of public administration.

A Ph.D. in public administration, political science, or other appropriate discipline is required. Teaching is primarily at the graduate level and includes courses in public administration and/or subtopics in public administration. Successful candidates will contribute to both our MPA and Ph.D. programs and demonstrate national and international leadership in research, combined with excellence in teaching and public service. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references.

Please apply using the FacultyJobs@UGA online system (<https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1001>). Include in your application (1) a cover letter (2) a curriculum vitae and (3) contact information for three references. If you have questions or would like more information, please contact Laura Bayne at 706-542-9660 or lbayne@uga.edu. Applications received by November 15, 2016 are guaranteed full consideration.

The University of Georgia is ranked 4th among Public Affairs programs by U.S. News & World Report. For more information, visit padp.uga.edu.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1614

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning approximately June 26, 2017. Candidates should have teaching and research interests in any area of American politics, as well as expertise in political theory. Responsibilities include teaching core courses on American government and national security, introductory political theory, and upper division American government courses; maintaining a strong record of teaching and research; academic advising; and service on department and Academy committees. A doctoral degree in political science (or a closely related field) is required by the starting date. The position is open to U.S. citizens.

The United States Air Force Academy (USAFA), located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution that awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead in the United States Air Force in service to our nation. Faculty applications are invited from candidates who can contribute to this mission by interacting with cadets, both in and out of the classroom, as instructors and mentors. The student body consists of approximately 4,000 men and women representing every state and several foreign countries. The Academy faculty is an integrated group of military and civilian educators. The curriculum includes core academic and professional courses, and 27 disciplinary and interdisciplinary majors. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences.

The U.S. Air Force Academy is an Equal Opportunity Employer and provides reasonable accommodation to qualified applicants with disabilities. The Air Force believes that diversity is essential to accomplishing its mission. The Air Force Academy highly values individuals who have a demonstrated ability to work successfully with and help develop individuals of diverse backgrounds and perspectives. For the Air Force, diversity encompasses: personal life experiences, geographic background, socioeconomic background, cultural knowledge, educational background, work background, language abilities, physical abilities, philosophical/spiritual perspectives, age, race, ethnicity, and gender.

For detailed application requirements and to apply, go to www.usajobs.gov. Type in "USAF Academy" under Location, and "professor" under Key Words. Scroll down until you locate this position. Applications must be received by November 14, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/14/2016

Date Posted: 9/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2141

University of Louisville

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of Louisville is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity, Americans with Disabilities Employer, committed to community engagement and diversity, and in that spirit, seeks applications from a broad variety of candidates.

Position Description

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics with a focus on political behavior to begin Fall 2017. While specific research focus within this broad framework is open, candidates should have demonstrated research potential. The successful candidate should be able to teach several undergraduate courses in areas of departmental need, such as parties and elections, interest groups, political behavior, public opinion, media and politics, and/or introduction to American government. In addition, the successful candidate should be able to teach the graduate seminar on American politics. The ability to teach undergraduate and graduate research methods will also be viewed favorably, as will ability to offer "applied politics" courses at the undergraduate or graduate level. Salary is competitive. Ph.D. preferred, but ABDs considered. The Department of Political Science has a diverse full-time faculty of 20 with about 400 undergraduate majors and 20 MA students. The University of Louisville is a state-supported metropolitan research university located in Kentucky's largest metropolitan area.

Interested candidates must apply online at www.louisville.edu/jobs, Job Opening #33378, and attach a curriculum vitae. In addition, applicants send a cover letter, a sample of written work, graduate transcripts, teaching evaluations (if available), and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Rodger A. Payne, Chair, Department of Political Science, University of Louisville, Louisville, Kentucky 40292. The deadline for applications is October 31, 2016.

Faculty/Administrator

To apply for this position, follow the "Online App. Form" link below and then click on the "Apply Now" button. You must answer all required fields and submit your application by clicking the "Submit" button. Detailed instructions are available at louisville.edu/jobs in the "My Career Tools" section. Vacancies are routinely removed from the jobs portal around 7:00PM on the deadline date. If the posting description requested that you follow up and mail or email other documents, your application will not be considered complete until those have been received by the department.

NOTE:

Only ONE attachment can be uploaded per application. If you wish to include a cover letter or other documents, please combine them as one document with your resume/cv, save the document with a simple short title that contains only letters, spaces, or numbers, and then upload.

Computers are available for application submission at the Human Resources Department located at 1980 Arthur Street - Louisville, Kentucky 40208. If you have any questions or problems please contact, Center for Faculty Personnel - FACPERS@louisville.edu or by phone 502-852-5301

If you require assistance or accommodation with our online application process, you may schedule an appointment at (502) 852-6542 with Employment Services at the Human Resources office located at 1980 Arthur Street, Louisville, KY 40208.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 9/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2152

University of Colorado Denver

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Political Thought

Specializations: American Politics, Political Thought: Historical, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

The Political Science Department at the University of Colorado, Denver, invites applications for a Political Science specialist to fill a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor, starting August 2017. Applicants should have areas of expertise in the field of American Political Thought, with a critical approach to such issues as: race, gender, class, GLBTQ, disability or age. Applicants focusing either on historical or current perspectives in these fields are encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate will be rostered as a tenure-track assistant professor in either the Political Science Department. This position comes with research, teaching and service expectations. The standard teaching load is 2/2 (four courses an academic year), at both the undergraduate and graduate level.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited university; track record of engaging and innovative teaching; record of scholarly achievement or promise of future scholarly achievement; areas of expertise in the field of American Political Thought, with a critical approach to such issues as: race, gender, class, GLBTQ, disability or age.

GENERAL QUALITIES DESIRED: The Political Science Department is interested in candidates who can create innovative American studies courses. The Department values candidates with a record of, or interest in, community engagement.

SALARY AND BENEFITS: Salary is commensurate with skills and experience. The University of Colorado offers a full benefits package. Information on University benefits programs, including eligibility, is located at <https://www.cu.edu/employee-services>.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS Applicants should submit an electronic application packet by visiting the links referenced below. The packet should contain the following materials:

- A Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vita
- Graduate Transcript
- Research Writing Sample
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness, including a syllabus for a proposed American Political Thought course, teaching evaluations, and a statement of teaching philosophy
- Applicants should also have three letters of reference mailed to the same address.

To apply for this position go to <http://www.cu.edu/cu-careers>. Reference job posting 06808.

The direct link for this job position is: https://cu.taleo.net/careersection/2/jobdetail.ftl?job=06808&lang=en&sns_id=mailto#.V-G6Kvfp2Ao.mailto Formal review of applications will begin December 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Colorado Denver is dedicated to ensuring a safe and secure environment for our faculty, staff, students and visitors. To assist in achieving that goal, we conduct background investigations for all prospective employees.

The University of Colorado Denver is committed to recruiting and supporting a diverse student body, faculty and administrative staff. The university strives to promote a culture of inclusiveness, respect, communication and understanding. We encourage applications from women, ethnic minorities, persons with disabilities and all veterans. The University of Colorado is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment.

For more information, contact Search Committee Chair, Professor Christoph Stefes, at christoph.stefes@ucdenver.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2149

Arizona State University, West Campus

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics

The School of Social & Behavioral Sciences seeks to hire a tenure-track assistant professor in the area of American politics. The successful candidate will be expected to develop a program of research with national and international reputation in American politics that engages or has a bearing on issues of socio-economic justice or human rights.

The successful candidate's research should focus on the way the study of American politics can shed light on some dimension of socio-economic inequality in the United States. For example, research can focus on the way political institutions or processes shape economic policy or economic outcomes; issues related to the representation of ethnic or racial minorities, of gender, or of sexual orientation; the politics of immigration and border control; or the politics of incarceration and prison reform. The social science program in the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences is characterized by interdisciplinarity, methodological pluralism, and a social justice orientation. Because of our unique characteristics and because of our interdisciplinary configuration, our faculty often teach courses that cut across disciplinary boundaries and courses in the Social Justice and Human Rights masters program. The successful candidate will demonstrate deep commitment to student learning and engagement and an ability and willingness to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in American politics, Social Justice and Human Rights, Methods, and related subjects. The successful candidate will conduct and publish original research, conduct service for the school, the profession, and the community, and demonstrate potential for leadership in the profession. We encourage our faculty to seek external funding where available and appropriate and would value experience with or ability to seek such funding.

Required Qualifications: a Ph.D. in political science by time of appointment; evidence of an ongoing research program on the themes outlined above and a level of publication consistent with experience; and evidence of successful college/university teachings.

Desired Qualifications: An interest and ability to teach quantitative or qualitative methods courses; an ability to seek external funding where available and appropriate.

Application procedure: Send the following items electronically to Jamie.Howell@asu.edu 1) a letter of application, 2) a current curriculum vitae, 3) three samples of scholarly work and 4) the names and contact information for three references (references will not be contacted without candidate notification). Please reference job # 11693 with your application materials. Application deadline: November 7, 2016; if not filled, every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. See <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and the complete non-discrimination statement at: <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/7/2016

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2128

Norwich University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

The Department of History and Political Science at Norwich University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall 2017 semester. The successful candidate will teach and do research in the fields of American politics and public policy and will teach undergraduate courses in Intro to Public Policy, the survey course in American Politics, the U.S. Presidency, Legislative Process, State and Local Politics, Research Methods (with emphasis on quantitative methods), American Citizenship, and a Capstone Senior Seminar in the candidate's field of expertise. The successful candidate will also manage the Political Science Internship Program and facilitate the growth of public policy studies across the university. While a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential, Norwich University is committed to junior faculty developing scholarship through a supportive faculty development program.

Qualifications: To be eligible for appointment at the assistant professor rank, candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a Ph.D in a public policy-related field. Highly qualified ABDs may be considered for appointment at the instructor level. Review of applications will begin September 16, 2016 and remain open until the position is filled.

Please submit a letter of interest, which includes your preferred substantive American politics and public policy focus, curriculum vitae, three current letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, statement of teaching philosophy): <https://norwich.interviewexchange.com>

Norwich University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is committed to providing a positive education and work environment that recognizes and respects the dignity of all students, faculty and staff. Reasonable accommodations will be made for the known disability of an otherwise qualified applicant. Please contact the Office of Human Resources at nuhr@norwich.edu for assistance.

All candidates must be authorized to work for any U.S. employer. A post offer, pre-employment background check will be required of the successful candidate.

Norwich University offers a comprehensive benefit package that includes medical, dental, vision, group life and long term disability insurance, flexible-spending accounts for health and dependent care, 403(b) retirement plan with employer match, employee assistance program, paid time off including parental leave, and tuition scholarships for eligible employees and their family members.

Norwich University is a diversified academic institution that educates residential students - both military and civilian lifestyles - and working adults across the globe. Norwich offers a broad selection of traditional and distance-learning programs culminating in baccalaureate and master's degrees, and graduate certificates. Founded in 1819 by U.S. Army Capt. Alden Partridge, Norwich is the oldest private military college in the country and the birthplace of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC).

Norwich University takes positive action to insure that all applicants for employment are considered, and employees are treated in compliance with applicable laws and regulations governing non-discrimination on the basis of gender, gender identity, race, ethnicity, national origin, color, religion, disability, sexual orientation, age, genetic information or veteran's status. As an institution of higher education, Norwich is dedicated to learning, emphasizing teamwork, leadership, creativity, and critical thinking and encourages applications from qualified individuals who will help us achieve this guiding value.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2124

California State University, Sacramento

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor - American Identity Politics

Specializations: African American Politics, Latino Politics, Asian American Politics

The Government Department at California State University, Sacramento seeks candidates who specialize in American identity politics to fill a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in Fall 2017. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in Political Science, Political Sociology, or related field. ABD candidates will be considered; if ABD, candidates will be required to complete the doctoral degree by January 2018. Applicants are expected to have a strong commitment to college teaching and to be able to teach a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in identity politics in the United States, especially courses in race and ethnicity, such as: Latino politics, Native-American/indigenous politics, Asian-American politics, or African-American politics. Furthermore, applicants are expected to have the ability to teach introduction to American government (GOVT 1) and a class on the politics of the underrepresented (GOVT 165). Candidates are required to demonstrate potential for scholarly achievement and to have strong substantive and methodological training, though the position is open with regard to methodological approach. Candidates must have a demonstrated commitment to working with a diverse student body and a diverse community. Furthermore, experience in promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of a diverse student body is preferred, as is experience in working with a diverse community and interest in working with a proposed academic center on race, ethnicity, immigration, and social justice at Sacramento State.

Review of applications will begin October 31, 2016 and the position will remain open until filled. An applicant can find the full vacancy announcement at, and must apply through, the Sacramento State jobs website at <http://www.csus.edu/about/employment>.

Applicants must submit the following: (1) cover letter addressing qualifications; (2) current curriculum vita/resume; (3) names and contact information of 3 references who will speak to the professional qualifications of the applicant; (4) unofficial transcripts of all graduate work (official transcripts required if invited for an interview); (5) writing sample; (6) teaching evaluations and syllabi (if available); (7) statement of teaching philosophy. Applicants are encouraged to include a statement of commitment to and experience working with a diverse student body and community. In addition, applicants should have three letters of recommendation emailed directly by the writer to govt-identity-hire@csus.edu. Inquiries can also be made to govt-identity-hire@csus.edu.

California State University, Sacramento is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and has a strong institutional commitment to the principle of diversity in all areas. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, gender identity/expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, marital status, veteran status, or disability. Sacramento State hires only those individuals who are lawfully authorized to accept employment in the United States. It is the policy of California State University, Sacramento to provide reasonable accommodations for qualified persons with disabilities who are employees or applicants for employment. If you need a disability related reasonable accommodation as part of the application and/or interviewing process, visit <http://www.csus.edu/hr/departments/equal-opportunity/index.html>. The University is committed to creating an education and working environment free from discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual violence, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking. For more information on mandatory training for new employees, visit <http://www.csus.edu/hr/departments/equal-opportunity/Information%20for%20Job%20Applicants.htm>. Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Crime Statistics Act and Campus Fire Safety Right-To-know Act Notification. For additional information, visit <http://www.csus.edu/aba/police>. Background Check: A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with California State University, Sacramento. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current California State University, Sacramento employees who apply for the position. Child Abuse and Neglect Report: The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in the California State University Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2114

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor – American Politics

Position Summary:

Gettysburg College invites applications for a one year Visiting Assistant Professor position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2017.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department of Political Science seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory and advanced courses in these two subfields. A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/3.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/1875>. A curriculum vitae, cover letter, writing sample, transcripts, and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 15, 2016 for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Dr. Donald Borock at dborock@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2113

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 2017. Candidates should have a primary research and teaching interest in American Politics with a principal focus on American political institutions. A Ph.D. degree is required. Candidates with ABD status will be considered but they must possess a Ph.D. degree by the time of appointment. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. The teaching load is four classes per year, a 2-2 load.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Policy and Administration, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 15 faculty members, 197 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 Ph.D. students. The department has strong ties to several research centers within the University, including the Social Science Research Center, the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, and the Stennis Center for Public Service. More information is available on the department at <http://www.pspa.msstate.edu>. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Brian Shoup, at bds223@msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at <http://www.msujobs.msstate.edu/> (PARF #493890) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, and a curriculum vita. In addition, please send three letters of recommendation to Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin October 21, 2016, and the search will remain open until filled. MSU is an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, disability status, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We always welcome nominations and applications from women, members of any minority group, and others who share our passion for building a diverse community that reflects the diversity in our student population.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2095

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.
- Possess a proven interest in the Simon Center's mission of promoting a proper understanding of America's founding principles and applying them to inform contemporary policy debates.

Location

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2017 to August 2018. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- 1.) A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- 2.) C.V.
- 3.) One academic writing sample and one or two non-academic pieces, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Dani Doane
Senior Program Manager
B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: dani.doane@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2090

Harvard University

Rank: Harvard University Environmental Fellows Program

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

APPLICATION DEADLINE: JANUARY 18, 2017

The Harvard University Center for the Environment created the Environmental Fellows program to enable recent doctorate recipients to use and expand Harvard's extraordinary resources to tackle complex environmental problems. The Environmental Fellows will work for two years with Harvard faculty members in any school or department while also strengthening connections across the University's academic disciplines.

The Award:

The fellowship includes a salary of $64,000 per year, employee health insurance eligibility, up to $2,500 reimbursement for relocation expenses, and a $2,500 annual allowance for travel and other professional expenses.

The Harvard University Center for the Environment expects to award approximately six fellowships for the 2017 cohort. The Center will organize a co-curricular program to ensure that the fellows get to know each other and each other's work. All fellows will attend biweekly dinners with their colleagues, faculty members, and guests.

Program Requirements:

- Candidates for 2017 Environmental Fellowships should have received their terminal degree between May 2013 and August 2017. (Fellows must have filed their dissertation before starting their appointment in September 2017.)

- Candidates with a doctorate or equivalent in any field are eligible, and they may propose research projects in any discipline. Applicants without a Ph.D. may apply if they have studied in fields where the Ph.D. is not the typical terminal degree. All successful candidates will be able to demonstrate experience performing scholarly research.
- Each candidate must secure a commitment from one or more Harvard faculty members to serve as a mentor and to provide office or lab space for the two-year fellowship.
- Candidates may have received their degrees at any university in the world. Foreign nationals are eligible for fellowships, though study at Harvard requires proficiency in English.
- Candidates who received terminal degrees from Harvard, and post-docs currently working at Harvard are eligible for the fellowship provided their research and host arrangements take them in new directions and forge new connections within the University. Harvard candidates should not propose to continue to work with the same professors or lab groups with whom they are currently associated. No candidate should propose to work extensively with his or her thesis advisor.
- Harvard is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.
- Successful candidates should be prepared to commit to work at Harvard for the full two years of the fellowship. This fellowship requires residency in the Cambridge area and any fieldwork trip must be scheduled for the summer or January recess.

Application Requirements:

1. Please complete the online application form found at <http://environment.harvard.edu/application by January 18, 2017> and attach the relevant supporting documents as PDFs:
 - a. curriculum vitae including list of publications;
 - b. detailed research proposal where applicants should explain their specific reasons for applying to a Harvard residential environmental fellowship (maximum of five pages, references counted separately). Note: While applicants should discuss the proposal with their potential faculty hosts, the final product should clearly be the work of the applicant; and
 - c. up to three publications/writing samples.
2. Three letters of reference, including one from the applicant's dissertation adviser.
3. A letter of support is also required from the applicant's host committing to serve as a mentor and explaining his or her commitment to the proposed research, including the provision of office or lab space.

Applicants are encouraged to ask their referees and hosts to email letters of reference as PDFs or, if necessary, as Word documents attached to the emails. Referees and hosts should send their letters directly to the attention of Jean Gauthier at the Center at environmental_fellows@harvard.edu.

If you have questions about the fellowship or application process, please contact:

Jean Gauthier
Harvard University Center for the Environment
26 Oxford Street, 4th Floor
Cambridge MA 02138
617-495-0368
jgauthier@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/18/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2016
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 2084

Florida State University

Rank: Political Science/African American Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Public Policy

Specializations: African American Politics, Caribbean, Civil Rights & Liberties

Florida State University is embarking upon a Diversity and Inclusion initiative, which can be found online at http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=diversity/diversity_initiatives. As part of this initiative, the Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci?q=node/1>) and the FSU African American Studies Center (<http://coss.fsu.edu/aas/>) seek applications for a tenure track or tenured faculty member to participate in their programs. The Department has twenty-two tenured or tenure track and two non-tenure track faculty that serve a large undergraduate program, a master degree in applied politics, and a PhD program. African American Studies is an interdisciplinary undergraduate program that offers BA and BS degrees.

The position is open with respect to candidates' specialization, and they may have doctoral degrees in African American Studies, Political Science, or other related disciplines, with evidence of scholarship and teaching with respect to African Americans and the African diaspora. Teaching will include at least one course in the African American Studies core curriculum, a second course at the nexus of race and politics, and other courses in the political science curriculum. The candidate's tenure home will be in Political Science. Candidates should have strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital city, with a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions. Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) through (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files must be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search.

Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Political Science/AAS Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer; racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2083

Radford University

Rank: Tenure Track Position in Constitutional Law

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment to teach courses in Constitutional Law beginning August 10, 2017. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Candidates should possess: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (Candidates with both a Ph.D. and a J.D. are preferred. ABD will be considered); (2) the ability to teach Constitutional Law and other courses as assigned (preference for candidates who can also teach Political Theory); (3) a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching; and (4) a productive program of research in the discipline. The successful applicant will be expected to advise students interested in pre-law.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit the following electronically: (1) a letter of application; (2) a current and complete curriculum vita; (3) a statement of teaching philosophy; (4) evidence of teaching effectiveness; (5) a research sample; (6) names, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional/academic references and (7) copies of unofficial transcripts. All materials should be directed to Reginald Shareef, PhD., Chair, Search Committee at rshareef@radford.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. To receive full consideration, applications must be received by October 15, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/15/2016
Date Posted: 9/20/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2081

Saint Anselm College

Rank: Endowed Jean Chair of American History and Government

Jean Chair of American History and Government

The History and Politics Departments at Saint Anselm College invite applications for the endowed Jean Chair of American History and Government. The Chair is named in honor of Joseph Jean, a New Hampshire businessman and philanthropist, and alumnus of the College, class of 1953. The committee will consider applications from advanced assistant professors through full professors, granting appointment with tenure to tenured faculty, and appointments on the tenure track to those without tenure.

The appointment will be made in either the History Department or Politics Department depending on the candidate's Ph.D. degree. The committee encourages applications from historians working on U.S. political or constitutional history and from political scientists working on American political development in an area other than political institutions. The committee also prefers scholars who take an interdisciplinary approach to their subject matter or could foster collaboration across these two departments.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach two courses per semester. These will include both existing department course offerings and new courses to be developed for the department in the candidate's area of expertise. Since a 2/2 teaching load constitutes a reduced annual teaching load, the endowed chair must demonstrate correspondingly higher levels of scholarly productivity and leadership in public outreach activities. Other duties include advising, curriculum development, and committee service.

Applicants must submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability and research potential (samples of scholarship, articles or conference papers) and academic transcripts to the attention of Dr. Beth Salerno, History Department Chair, via the college website at www.anselm.edu/hr. Three letters of recommendation are required and should be submitted in PDF format via email to the department faculty assistant, Robin Allard, at rallard@anselm.edu. Inquiries can be made to Dr. Beth Salerno at bsalerno@anselm.edu or 603-641-7049. Review of applications and supporting materials will begin October 30, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Required Skills

Ph.D. and record of excellence in scholarship and teaching required.

Required Experience

Candidates need a minimum of four years full-time teaching experience, and candidates for associate or full professor should be widely recognized for their distinction and professional accomplishment.

Founded in 1889, Saint Anselm College is a Catholic, liberal arts college in the Benedictine tradition. The community includes approximately 2,000 students, 150 full-time faculty members and 380 full-time staff in addition to the monks of Saint Anselm Abbey.

Successful candidates will be able to assist the college to further its strategic goals for institution-wide diversity and inclusiveness.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2071

Whittier College

Rank: American Politics

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position in American Politics beginning Fall 2017.

We are particularly interested in the following areas: American politics and political methodology as well as courses in one or more of the following: women's studies, minority politics, environmental studies, and/or state and local politics emphasizing California.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. prior to September 2017 (ABD considered). The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach six courses and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as Freshman Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Review of completed applications will begin September 25, 2016 (for full consideration, complete applications must be in by October 10 2016). Please email (PDFs preferred) a letter of application that includes a reference to teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation sent by the references to Michael J. McBride at mmcbride@whittier.edu. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Professor Michael J. McBride, Chair, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EOE employer. More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/15/2016
Date Posted: 9/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2070

Brown UniversityRank: Racial Inequality Postdoctoral Research Associate*Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, American Government and PoliticsSpecializations: United States, African American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist TheoryRACIAL INEQUALITY POSTDOCTORAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATE

DESCRIPTION: Brown University invites applications for a two-year Postdoctoral Research Associate in Racial Inequality to be jointly shared by the Watson Institute for International & Public Affairs and the Center for the Study of Race & Ethnicity in America. We seek a scholar with interests in racial inequality/structural racism in the post 1970s U.S. in areas such as: urban poverty, social and cultural theories of racism, gender, segregation, housing or welfare.

The successful candidate will teach one course per year in a Watson Institute related program, collaborate on the vision, design and implementation of CSREA programming related to his/her research areas each year on a key topic in contemporary racial inequality studies, and be expected to actively participate in the intellectual life of CSREA (including regular participation in the CSREA research seminar), the Watson Institute and the University as a whole.

QUALIFICATIONS: Scholars with a Ph.D. in Sociology, American Studies, Political Science, History, Social Theory, African-American Studies or a related discipline in the Humanities or Social Sciences will be considered. Dissertation must be signed by August 1, 2017.

INSTRUCTIONS: Candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, writing sample (15-20 pp), a personal statement (1 page) and the names and addresses of three referees through the Interfolio posting: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36251>

The application deadline is November 15th, 2016. Review of applications will begin November 17th, 2016, and final notifications are expected to go out by March, 2017. This two-year Postdoctoral Research Associate appointment will be effective August 1, 2017, and is not renewable.

EEO STATEMENT: Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

For more information, please visit:

<https://www.brown.edu/race> | <http://watson.brown.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/15/2016Salary: $50,000 - $59,999eJobs ID: 2050Fordham University -- Rose Hill Campus*Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics*Specializations: Congress, Legislative Studies, Political Parties & Organizations

The Department of Political Science at Fordham University (Rose Hill) invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor. Qualified candidates will have a research focus on Congress and legislative politics, and political parties. Candidates should also have related research interests in campaigns and elections from either a behavioral or institutional perspective. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to the department's graduate program in Elections and Campaign Management. We seek candidates whose work is theoretically sophisticated and methodologically rigorous. We would especially welcome candidates who have substantive interests in race, ethnicity, sexuality, or gender. We invite candidates with an ability to make a positive contribution to the department's climate fostering inclusiveness and diversity.

Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor Costas Panagopoulos, Search Committee Chair, via Interfolio (<https://secure.interfolio.com/apply/37635>): letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required. Review of applications will begin on October 15.

Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from all backgrounds. Fordham is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 10/15/2016Date Posted: 9/15/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 2044University of Nevada, Las Vegas*Rank: Assistant Professor American Politics/Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas invites applications from well-qualified individuals for a full-time, nine-month tenure-track position in American Politics. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level, commencing fall 2017. In addition to teaching introductory courses in American Politics and courses in his or her areas of expertise, the successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate courses in public policy. Preferred qualifications include the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in research methods. Other responsibilities include: engaging in research leading to scholarly, peer-reviewed publications; mentoring undergraduate and graduate students; and providing appropriate levels of service at the department, college and university levels. The department offers BA, MA, and PhD degrees in Political Science.

For more information go to:

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176345790&Title=Public%20Policy%2FAmerican%20Politics%20Assistant%20Professor%20%5B17037%5D&aID=584>

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/15/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 2052

Vanderbilt University

Rank: John L. Seigenthaler Chair in American History

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

The College of Arts and Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from distinguished scholars for appointment to the newly-created John L. Seigenthaler Chair in American History. Named for the civil rights champion and passionate advocate of First Amendment rights, the chair recognizes exceptional scholarship on the history of civil rights, broadly defined, and the full range of civil rights movements. The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and an exemplary record of publication in humanities, social sciences or law. The final appointment will be in a department corresponding with the candidate's training and scholarship.

Applicants should upload a single PDF containing a letter of interest and complete curriculum vitae to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7858>. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2016. Files will continue to be accepted until the search is complete. Inquiries and nominations may be sent to Professor Jefferson Cowie (j.cowie@vanderbilt.edu).

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional faculty. Women, minorities, and members of other underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2051

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Assistant Professor- Human Security

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, Environmental Policy

POSITION SUMMARY AND QUALIFICATIONS

This position is a junior-level tenure eligible faculty position in the area of human security to support undergraduate programs in Political Science. The faculty member will have demonstrated experience working and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

POSITION RESPONSIBILITIES

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's commitment to developing a program in human security. We are looking for researchers who study issues related to organized crime, state violence, refugees/migration, environmental politics, climate change, natural disasters, chronic poverty, and transnational social movements. This can include scholars who focus on domestic linkages to human security issues.

TEACHING

This position in human security contributes to the political science department's curriculum through teaching undergraduate courses

such as: human security, human rights, environmental politics, public policy, women in global politics, issues in world politics, and politics of race, class and gender, and future courses related to the above list of human security topics. Strong preference will be given to candidates who will teach our capstone senior seminar and/or research methods.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit a CV, cover letter, names of 3 references, and evidence of excellence in teaching with your online application. Questions should be directed to Dr. Ravi Perry at rkperry@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2016. Start date will be August 16, 2017.

Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1877

Drake University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American politics

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Public Opinion, Political Psychology

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of assistant professor with a focus on political parties, elections, and political behavior broadly defined. Salary is competitive with peer schools and dependent on qualifications and experience. Appointment becomes effective August 2017. Ph.D. or advanced ABDs with strong evidence of completion prior to August 2017 will be considered. Course responsibilities will include introductory American politics, The American Electoral Process, Methods in Politics, and upper-level courses appropriate to the individual's research and teaching expertise. Demonstrated commitment to experiential learning and community engagement is strongly preferred. The Department offers a B.A. degree in Politics, and the regular teaching load is 3-3.

Located in Des Moines, Iowa, Drake University is a mid-sized private University with a mission to provide an exceptional learning environment that prepares students for meaningful personal lives, professional accomplishments, and responsible global citizenship. The University is dedicated to fostering collaborative learning among students, faculty, and staff and integrating the liberal arts and sciences with professional preparation. Drake University is an Equal Opportunity Employer (EEO) dedicated to building a culturally and intellectually diverse and pluralistic community committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourages applications from all qualified applicants.

Drake has emerged as a national hub for political activity, offering extraordinary opportunities for research, teaching, and student learning. Located in the state capital, the University has hosted four presidential debates, and dozens of presidential candidates have organized events on campus. In addition, Iowa features competitive elections at the local, state, and national levels. The Political Science Department attracts energetic and engaged students from the Midwest and from across the country interested in the Iowa caucuses and experiential learning opportunities in campaigns and elections, public policy, party activism, political communication, and government. Des Moines has been ranked by Forbes as the “Best City for Young Professionals” and the “Best Place for Business.” The Des Moines metro area (with a population of approximately 600,000) boasts short commutes, affordable housing, a dynamic emerging arts scene, and excellent community events. For more information visit <http://www.drake.edu/hr/>.

The search committee will begin review of applications on October 14, 2016. Applicants should submit a cover letter that speaks to teaching philosophy and research interests, a current curriculum vita, any available teaching evaluations, and letters of reference at <https://drake.HireTouch.com>. To be assured of full consideration, all application materials should be received by Friday, October 14. Position open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2031

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Specializations: Congress, Legislative Studies, American Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. The position is offered for one year starting in August 2017, with an expected salary of $62,000 plus benefits. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Batten faculty member, Craig Volden, on research related to the Legislative Effectiveness Project.

A PhD degree in Political Science or related discipline is required. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are also required. Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred.

To apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0619566, and complete a candidate profile. Include a CV, contact information for three references, a cover letter and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Legislative Effectiveness Project during the postdoc. Please review <http://thelawmakers.org> for more information about the project.

For immediate consideration, please apply by October 15th, 2016. The position will remain open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2030

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics (Institutions and Behavior)

Specializations: American Politics, Legislative Studies, Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in American Politics to begin July 1, 2017. We are interested in candidates with expertise in legislatures, institutions and behavior.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/36525>. Review of applications and nominations will begin September 5, 2016, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2027

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics (Race, Ethnicity, Migration)

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in American Politics, specializing in the study of race, ethnicity, and migration. The position will begin July 1, 2017.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/35941>. Review of applications and nominations will begin September 5, 2016, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Vesla Weaver (vesla.weaver@yale.edu or 203-432-3237), Search Committee Chair, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2028

DeSales University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Full-time. Prospective candidates should be able to teach undergraduate courses in American government, political philosophy and public policy. Preference will be given to candidates who are able to employ both quantitative and qualitative analysis. Ph.D. in Political Science is preferred.

The mission of the political science major is to provide, within the liberal arts program of DeSales University, an education in its academic discipline and, consonant with the philosophy of the University, to incorporate the Christian humanist perspective as developed by St. Francis DeSales and his spiritual heirs into its course of studies. The program in political science emphasizes the policy analysis approach in its curriculum. This emphasis serves to coordinate and integrate the various courses and disciplines that the student studies during his/her college career. It seeks to develop the student's analytical skills, as well as his/her oral-written communications skills. It helps to provide the student with marketable skills, particularly when the student undertakes an internship or study abroad.

DeSales University is a Catholic liberal arts institution on a beautiful 450-acre campus in the Lehigh Valley of eastern Pennsylvania, approximately one hour from Philadelphia and two hours from New York City. Traditional-age students (1,700), evening-degree students (800), and graduate students (800) comprise the student body of 3,300. As a member of the Lehigh Valley Association of Independent Colleges, DeSales University participates in cooperative programs with Lehigh University and with Cedar Crest, Lafayette, Moravian, and Muhlenberg Colleges. EOE

Contact: Dr. Brian Kane, Head of Division of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, at Maryanne.Charlton@desales.edu. Position open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2021

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Studies

Assistant Professor of American Studies

The Department of Leadership and American Studies at Christopher Newport University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Studies, effective August 21, 2017. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. The successful candidate will have a teaching/research focus and expertise in the study of America's origins, America's intellectual or economic tradition, religion in America, or America's place on the world stage. Teaching responsibilities will include the American Studies core, including AMST 100, the foundations of America, and AMST 200, the evolution of America, or AMST 300, a course that focuses on America's role in the world, as well as an upper level course in area of the individual's expertise. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to become a fellow in the University's Center for American Studies, an interdisciplinary center that promotes teaching and scholarship on America's founding principles and history, economic foundations, and national security. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. The Ph.D. in American Studies or closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank. ABD candidates who will not hold the Ph.D. by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2016 freshman class of 1,225 students was selected from nearly 8,000 admission applications, and presented high school GPA and SAT score middle 50% ranges of 3.5-4.0 and 1080-1240, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please send a letter of application, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies are acceptable for initial screening), syllabi and other evidence of teaching style and effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation to:

Director of Faculty Recruitment
Assistant Professor of American Studies Faculty Search
Search #8363
Christopher Newport University
1 Avenue of the Arts
Newport News, VA 23606-3072

Or facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu

Review of applications will begin on October 14, 2016. Applications received after October 14, 2016, will be accepted but considered only if needed. Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully committed to Access and Opportunity.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2006

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Government Faculty Position (Rank Open) & Faculty Director of the Reiff Center (International Human Rights, Conflict Resolution, Ethnic Conflict, & Genocide Studies)

Government Faculty Position (Rank Open) and Faculty Director of the Reiff Center (International Human Rights, Conflict Resolution, Ethnic Conflict, and Genocide Studies)

Christopher Newport University invites applications for the position of Government Faculty and Director of the Reiff Center, effective August 21, 2017. The successful candidate will have an appointment in the Department of Government with teaching and research responsibilities in the areas of international human rights, conflict resolution, ethnic conflict, and genocide studies. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. In addition, applicants must have a promising scholarly agenda and commitment to taking an active part in the life and work of the University. The nominal teaching load is 2-2. An earned Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. Exceptionally well-qualified candidates will be considered for appointment at a higher rank with tenure. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

The duties of this position will also include administrative leadership of the Reiff Center. The Reiff Center's mission is to pursue the study of ethnic conflict, conflict resolution, human rights violations, and genocide through research, campus visits by those with expertise and/or experience in these areas, classes investigating these subjects, and study abroad experiences for students interested in these topics. The Reiff Center currently has an endowment of $500,000, and this academic year is receiving an additional endowment gift of approximately $200,000. Named in honor of Dr. Theodore R. Reiff, a retired physician, medical educator, and researcher, the Center applies historical, political, social, and international perspectives to its initiatives. For more information visit <http://cnu.edu/reiffcenter/>.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2016 freshman class of 1,225 students was selected from nearly 8,000 admission applications, and presented high school GPA and SAT score middle 50% ranges of 3.5-4.0 and 1080-1240, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please send a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies acceptable for initial screening), statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of recommendation to:

Director of Faculty Recruitment
Government Faculty and Faculty Director of the Reiff Center Search
Search #8528

Christopher Newport University
1 Avenue of the Arts
Newport News, VA 23606-3072
Or facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu

Review of applications will begin on October 12, 2016. Applications received after October 12, 2016, will be accepted but considered only if needed. Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.

Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully committed to Access and Opportunity.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/11/2016

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2003

Ohio State University

Rank: American Politics and Director of Democracy Studies

Description: The Department of Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at The Ohio State University invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of associate or full professor. The successful candidate will have a sustained record of high quality scholarship in the quantitative study of mass political behavior, institutions, or policy making processes. The successful candidate will serve as the Director of the emerging Democracy Studies Program, an interdisciplinary community of faculty from the fields of political science, law, public administration, history, philosophy, communications, and others (see <http://u.osu.edu/democracystudies/>). Through high-profile research projects and other collaborative activities, the Program supports thoughtful inquiry into issues relating to the institutions, processes, and norms of a healthy democratic society. The Director will be responsible for leading the Democracy Studies Program and helping to promote its growth. Beyond serving as the Director, the selected candidate will teach courses within the Department of Political Science. This position is partially funded by Ohio State's Discovery Themes Initiative, a significant faculty hiring investment in key thematic areas in which the university can build on its culture of academic collaboration to make a global impact.

Qualifications: Candidates must have a doctoral degree in political science or a related field. Appointment is contingent on the University's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The OSU campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries (see <http://liveworkplaycolumbus.com/>). Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Please submit applications via Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7886>. Complete applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement describing experiences and abilities relevant to the Director position. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled, but those received by October 15, 2016 will receive priority consideration. Inquiries may be made to Professor Kathleen McGraw at mcgraw.36@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2001

Ohio State University

Rank: Race and Gender in Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Description:

The department of political science seeks candidates for a tenured or tenure-track position in the study of race and/or gender in politics.

We welcome applications from scholars studying comparative politics and international relations, however, we are especially interested in applicants who study race and/or gender as they pertain to politics in the United States. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding.

This position is part of a larger initiative at Ohio State to increase faculty diversity and to promote research and teaching on topics central to race, ethnicity, sex, and gender as well as disparities in modern society linked to these categories. The Division of Social and Behavioral Sciences intends to hire at least eight new faculty members under this initiative. The new cluster of faculty will be able to build a network with many committed professors already at home in the College of Arts and Sciences in the Diversity & Identity Studies Collective, the Department of Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies, and the Department of African American and African Studies. Graduate certificates in this area of inquiry and undergraduate bridge programs are also being built to support this initiative.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a PhD in political science or expect to have that degree by Autumn 2017. It is possible the successful candidate could have a PhD degree in a cognate field such as sociology or social psychology but a PhD in political science is preferred. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:

The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries (see <http://liveworkplaycolumbus.com/>). Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions:

Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7871>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Applications received prior to October 15, 2016 will receive priority consideration. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2000

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics (Stamford Campus)

The Department of Political Science at University of Connecticut is seeking to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the area of American Politics, beginning in the Fall of 2017.

The successful candidate will provide undergraduate teaching and service at the University's Stamford campus, but will occasionally have the opportunity to teach a graduate seminar and contribute to the research opportunities at the University's main campus in Storrs. The UConn Stamford campus is located 40 miles from New York City. Reappointment and tenure will be determined by the Department of Political Science at Storrs, with input from the Stamford campus.

The University is entering a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencect.uconn.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hip-optimized_1). As part of these initiatives, UConn has hired approximately 500 new faculty members at all ranks during the past four years. We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for this faculty position in the Department of Political Science.

The Department of Political Science has 39 faculty members, over 500 undergraduate students and 60 graduate students, and actively engages in research in American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory, and Public Law. Our faculty have enjoyed recognition for their scholarship both nationally and internationally. The department has traditionally featured an active Colloquia series that highlights scholars from UConn and other universities, as well as opportunities for collaboration with the Human Rights Institute, Africana Studies Institute, Asian and Asian American Studies Institute, Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Program, El Instituto, and many others. For more information about the Department, please visit www.polisci.uconn.edu

The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to research and scholarship through extramural funding, high quality publications, and generate impact as measured through citations as well as aspire to gain national recognition as through honorific awards. In the area of teaching, the successful candidate will share a deep commitment to effective instruction at the undergraduate and graduate levels, development of innovative courses and mentoring of students in research, and outreach and professional development. Newly hired faculty will also be expected to broaden participation among members of under-represented groups; demonstrate through their research, teaching, and/or public engagement the richness of diversity in the learning experience; and integrate multicultural experiences into instructional methods and research tools.

The search is open to applicants with any substantive focus prominent in the American politics subfield.

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by the start date of the appointment; evidence or promise of a strong research/publication record; the ability to teach courses in political science at both the graduate and undergraduate levels; and a primary focus on American politics. Candidates from a wide range of methodological approaches will be considered, but all candidates must demonstrate strong promise in their research program. The ability to teach introductory quantitative methods is preferred. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, tenure-track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2017. The successful candidate's primary academic appointment will be at the Stamford campus with the possibility of assignment at UConn's main campus. Salary is competitive based on experience and qualifications.

To Apply

Select "Apply" to be redirected to Academic Jobs Online to complete your application. Please submit the following: a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a statement describing teaching and research interests, writing samples, and (if available) course syllabi and teaching evaluations. Your letter of application should include a statement indicating the candidate's commitment to diversity (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions in Academic Jobs Online to direct three reference writers to submit letters of reference on your behalf.

Review of applications will begin on October 15 and will continue until the position is filled. Employment of the successful candidate is contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check. (Search # 2017095).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

The University of Connecticut is committed to building and supporting a multicultural and diverse community of students, faculty and staff. The diversity of students, faculty and staff continues to increase, as does the number of honors students, valedictorians and salutatorians who consistently make UConn their top choice. More than 100 research centers and institutes serve the University's teaching, research, diversity, and outreach missions, leading to UConn's ranking as one of the nation's top research universities. UConn's faculty and staff are the critical link to fostering and expanding our vibrant, multicultural and diverse University community. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer, UConn encourages applications from women, veterans, people with disabilities and members of traditionally underrepresented populations.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/15/2016
Date Posted: 9/9/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2009

James Madison University

Rank: Assistant Professor- U.S. Government and Public Policy
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR- U.S. GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC POLICY- {Job link #0407599}- The Political Science Department at James Madison University is seeking a tenure-track faculty member specializing in U.S. Government and Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning with the fall 2017 semester, pending budgetary approval. A doctoral degree in political science (or a closely related field) is required by the starting date for appointment as Assistant Professor; candidates at the ABD level can be appointed at the rank of Lecturer. The successful applicant will teach an introductory-level course in U.S. government and a research methods course required for all political science and public policy & administration majors. Areas of specialization should include health policy, economic policy, and/or comparative public policy.

The department seeks candidates with strong teaching and research skills. Review of applications will begin October 6, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for this position candidates must apply online at Joblink.jmu.edu regarding reference posting number {# 0407599}. On that website, candidates will post an application letter, vita, relevant teaching evaluations, unofficial graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, course syllabi and an example of research. Salary shall be commensurate with experience. The College of Arts and Letters (CAL) at JMU serves as a cross-disciplinary center of intellectual inquiry and practice on campus. All programs in the college are committed to fostering rigorous, constructive dialogue in classrooms, local communities, and the larger world.

James Madison University is committed to a diverse and inclusive community and to maintaining a work and educational environment that is free of all forms of discrimination. This institution does not tolerate discrimination or harassment on the basis of age, color, disability; genetic information, national origin, parental status, political affiliation, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or veteran status. Anyone having questions concerning discrimination should contact the Office for Equal Opportunity: (540) 568-6991.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1980

Pacific University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and Government at Pacific University in Oregon invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in American Government with a specialization in public law. The appointment will begin fall 2017. This is a tenure-track position, contingent on available funding.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in US Politics and Public Law that would include Introduction to US Politics, Constitutional Law, and Civil Liberties. Interest in teaching courses on the politics of race and/or gender would also be desirable as would experience teaching environmental politics. The teaching load is five courses per year (3-2).

For more information on Pacific University, please visit www.pacificu.edu. Details about the Department of Politics and Government can be found at: <http://www.pacificu.edu/future-undergraduates/academics/areas-study/politics-government>

Eligibility:

A Ph.D. in Political Science at time of appointment is strongly preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. Ability to assist students involved in the College's pre-law organization would also be advantageous.

Required Application Materials:

- Application letter addressing the position description, above.
- Curriculum Vitae
- Evidence of teaching success
- Names and contact information for three professional references
- Three letters of recommendation

Deadlines:

Applications should be received by October 14, 2016. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Application materials must be submitted electronically, PDF preferred, to Ms. Jennifer Teeter, Administrative Assistant to the Social Sciences: teeterj@pacificu.edu. Please reference "Assistant Professor position in Politics & Government" in the subject line of your correspondence.

Pacific University is an Equal Opportunity Employer that values a diverse workplace. We encourage women and members of underrepresented groups to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1981

Sweet Briar College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Sweet Briar College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American government. We seek candidates with experience beyond the Ph.D., including proven teaching at the undergraduate level and evidence of potential for scholarly publications consistent with an Assistant Professor appointment. Candidates should have research and teaching interests in American government and politics, public policy, or constitutional law. The normal teaching load is 3:3.

The successful candidate will be an engaged scholar-teacher who will be central in building the government and international affairs program for the future; will collaborate with colleagues across different disciplines and be open to contributing to a variety of majors and programs; will shape and participate in campus academic life; and will work closely with undergraduates on research and as a mentor in pursuing careers in public service, academe or the professions.

Candidates ready to work with a diverse student body are especially welcome. Sweet Briar prides itself on creating a learning environment that encourages young women to fulfill their highest potential. Leadership in all walks of life is fostered by the special connections our faculty make with their students, and Sweet Briar women translate their academic experiences into interesting and important lives.

Applications should be sent by email to governsearch@sbc.edu. Applications should include: 1) a cover letter; 2) a CV; 3) a statement on teaching, research, institutional experience, and future plans; 4) the names and full contact information for 3 references; and 5) a writing sample (journal- or chapter-length publication preferred). Items 1-4 should be in a single PDF file; item 5 may be in the same file or a separate PDF. Review of applications will start November 1, 2016.

Sweet Briar College (www.sbc.edu), located on 3,250 scenic acres in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains near Lynchburg, VA, is a nationally-ranked, independent, residential, liberal arts and sciences college for women. As an Equal Opportunity Employer, Sweet Briar College is committed to enhancing our community and encourages applications from qualified individuals with varied backgrounds, experiences and ideas who would increase the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1974

Texas Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics--Behavior

Specializations: Political Psychology, Gender Politics & Policy, Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Texas Tech University is seeking applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2017. The department is seeking candidates with research and teaching specialization in American Political Behavior. Candidates who study the political psychology and/or race/ethnicity/gender politics are especially encouraged to apply. We prefer candidates with strong quantitative or formal methods training and the ability to teach graduate methods courses. Evidence of excellence in teaching and research, and a commitment to attracting external funds are also highly valued. Service duties include program-building, as well as commitment to extra-curricular activities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected. The successful candidate will have his/her PhD in Political Science completed by the start of the appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, contact information for three references, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants for the position will start to be reviewed on 10/15/2016. For questions about the position, contact Dr. Dennis Patterson, Chair, Department of Political Science; dennis.patterson@ttu.edu. These items should be submitted at <http://www.texastech.edu/careers/>. The requisition number is 8508BR.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, though their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1970

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2017 to June 30, 2018. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition 1600685.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2016 for appointments beginning in September 2017. Awards will be announced in March 2017.

Please address any inquiries to:
 Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
 James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
 Princeton University
 83 Prospect Avenue
 Princeton, NJ 08540
 E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1846

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the year from September 1, 2017 to September 1, 2018 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> by December 1, 2016; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2017. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, please go to requisition #1600687.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
 Executive Director
 James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
 Princeton University
 83 Prospect Avenue
 Princeton, NJ 08540
 E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
 Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1847

Princeton University Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar or Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars and/or post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the 2017-2018 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines at any career stage, but any applicant who has yet to complete the PhD must have turned in a final draft of the dissertation by July 1, 2017.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Please note that (only) candidates who currently hold faculty appointments and are applying to visit CSDP for 2017-2018 while on leave from their current institution must apply directly to CSDP at this link: https://csdpapp.princeton.edu/csdp_application.php. All others must apply online at <https://jobs.princeton.edu> -- Requisition # 1600740 and submit a cover letter (optional), CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of two references.

The deadline for receipt of complete applications, including letters of recommendation, is November 30, 2016 at 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions? Email csdp@princeton.edu or phone Michele Epstein, Assistant Director of CSDP, 609-258-6493.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the university's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/30/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1952

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Psychology, Education Policy

The University of Richmond is seeking a social scientist for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies (JLS). Although ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have completed a Ph.D. or Ed.D. in public administration, public policy, educational policy, political or social psychology, sociology, or a related field, by August 23, 2017.

JLS is a collaborative, inclusive community of scholars in anthropology, economics, history, literature, philosophy, politics, social psychology and religion. We seek applicants who study, or have the potential and desire to study, leadership by drawing on their disciplinary expertise to inform their work. We are particularly interested in candidates whose demonstrated scholarly interests focus on the analysis of policy or processes related to justice and explaining social and economic inequality.

Applicants should have the potential and desire to teach in an interdisciplinary undergraduate liberal arts environment. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses related to his or her disciplinary training and to contribute to the curriculum by teaching such required courses as Leadership and the Social Sciences and Theories and Models of Leadership. In their cover letter, candidates should demonstrate how their scholarly and teaching interests connect, or have the potential to connect, to leadership, broadly construed. (See <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> for more information.) The JLS supports the University's commitment to promoting an inclusive campus community. For full consideration, applicants must specify in their cover letters how they are prepared to contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The first school of leadership studies and a highly ranked business school enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

Inaugurated in 1992, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies is an independent academic unit of the University and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies. With the aim of educating students for and about leadership, the Jepson School offers a challenging liberal arts curriculum delivered by means of a rigorous and innovative pedagogy. Candidates should submit a letter of application and curriculum vitae, and provide the names and emails of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. Review of applications will begin September 20, 2016; applications will be accepted until October 10, 2016. Preliminary phone and/or Skype interviews will likely be conducted; we anticipate inviting candidates to campus in November 2016.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

The University of Richmond is an Equal Opportunity Employer by both policy and practice. Applicants are considered for all positions without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, marital or veteran status, or the presence of a non-job-related medical condition.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/10/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1569

Saint Lawrence University

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in American Politics; Congress or Minority Politics

Specializations: Congress, African American Politics, Latino Politics

The Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics.

Primary Responsibilities: The successful candidate will teach in the area of Congress or minority politics. Additional areas of expertise are welcomed in the areas of public policy, state and local politics, or American political thought. The candidate will be prepared to teach courses in their area of expertise as well as an introductory course on American Politics. The teaching load is three courses per semester and the position begins August 2017.

Minimum qualifications: Candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field in hand preferred, though ABD candidates may be considered.

Review of applications will begin on October 10, 2016

Interested applicants must apply online at <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/830> and upload a graduate school transcript, cover letter indicating teaching and research interests, curriculum vita, writing sample and evidence of teaching effectiveness. These documents can be uploaded in the "Applicant Documents" section of your application. Additionally, three confidential references are required [the required information in the reference contact information section of your application will be utilized to send a system-derived email requesting a recommendation letter from each reference].

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive in Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

The University is committed to and seeks diversity among its faculty, staff and students. Such a commitment ensures an atmosphere that is diverse and complex in ways that are intellectually and socially enriching for the entire campus community. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups, as well as from individuals with experience teaching or working in a multicultural environment, are encouraged. St. Lawrence University is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

For additional information about St. Lawrence, please visit <http://www.stlawu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1947

University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Rank: Raymond Dawson Bicentennial Professor of Political Science

American Politics. The Department of Political Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications for the position of Raymond Dawson Bicentennial Professor of Political Science, effective Fall 2017. We seek an accomplished senior scholar in any area of American politics. Review of applications will begin October 1 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applications from women and minorities are particularly welcome. The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity employer that welcomes all to apply, including protected veterans and individuals with disabilities.

To complete a full application for the position, please follow this link: <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/105253>

Please attach your cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a sample of current research on this site.

Departmental contact person is Shannon Eubanks; Department of Political Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, CB# 3265, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3265. The web address is <http://www.unc.edu/depts/polisci>. Informal inquires may be directed to Frank Baumgartner, Chair of the Dawson Search Committee, at Frankb@unc.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1943

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for full-time appointment during the 2017-2018 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical and computational research techniques with contemporary social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health, the role of party networks in contemporary American politics, and methods for addressing post-treatment bias in experiments. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by attending seminars, consulting with faculty and students on research, etc. QSS fellows also join a broader community of postdoctoral social science researchers at Dartmouth that includes scholars at the Neukom Institute, the John Sloan Dickey Center, and the Dartmouth Society of Fellows.

The stipend for the QSS fellow is $50,000 with a $5,000 account available for equipment, travel, and research materials. Subject to consultation with the QSS Chair, there may be an opportunity for the fellow to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend. The fellowship can be extended through the 2018-2019 academic year subject to the approval of Nyhan and the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2017
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application Instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests no longer than two pages that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2016. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/37062.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1934

Georgetown University

Rank: Multiple positions--African American Studies

Seizing this pivotal moment in Georgetown's history, the Department of African American Studies invites applications for at least four open-rank positions, which have an anticipated start date of August 1, 2017. This first set of hires inaugurates a multi-year hiring initiative and is an integral part of Georgetown University's plan to expand African American Studies, and establish a Research Center for Racial Justice. We seek scholars who have an ambitious research agenda, a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching, and an earnest desire to help build the newly formed department and participate in other university service. Currently, our strengths lie in African American studies and its intersections with literary studies, sociology, history, and performance studies. Building upon these fields, we seek cross-disciplinary, multi-disciplinary, and trans-disciplinary scholarship that strengthens African American Studies' capacity in psychology, visual studies, philosophy, political science, economics, women's and gender studies, and law and criminology. More specifically, we seek applicants whose research interests engage with one of the following topics:

- Structural and cultural causes of and solutions to black inequality
- Black cultural productions and responses to legacies and impacts of slavery, Jim Crow segregation, and imperialism in US institutions
- How Black intersectionality informs equality and social justice

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D. in African American Studies or related fields by July 1, 2017. Senior candidates with administrative and departmental leadership interests and experience are especially welcomed. All applicants should specify the rank for which they are applying in the letter of interest.

Applicants without tenure should submit a letter of interest, C.V., writing sample (10,000 words or less), three letters of recommendation, and dissertation abstract (if the candidate is ABD).

Applicants with tenure should submit a letter of interest, C.V., writing sample (10,000 words or less), research statement (current and future projects, or career narrative), and names, telephone numbers, and email addresses for three referees.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the positions are filled.

Applicants without tenure should submit applications at <https://apply.interfolio.com/36591>

Applicants with tenure should submit applications at <https://apply.interfolio.com/36594>

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1933

Monmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor American Politics

Specializations: African American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

Monmouth College, a selective, private, residential liberal arts college in Illinois invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics beginning July 2017. A Ph.D is required for this position but ABD candidates will be considered.

Candidates must show enthusiasm for interdisciplinary teaching and for participating in general education, including Monmouth's Integrated Studies Curriculum and advancing a growing Pre-Law Program. A commitment to the liberal arts and an appreciation for the small college learning environment is essential.

Located in the welcoming community of Monmouth, Illinois, the college is a member of the prestigious Associated Colleges of the Midwest. Following the adoption and implementation of a groundbreaking interdisciplinary general education curriculum and the continuation of a bold strategic plan entitled "Think Anew, Act Anew," the college is now prepared to move confidently forward as an innovator among liberal arts colleges. The college has invested $120 Million into campus facilities since 2002 and this year Money Magazine ranked Monmouth 28th out of 736 "Best Colleges" in the Most Affordable Private Colleges category. The Princeton Review named Monmouth a "Best in the Midwest" in its 2015 Best Colleges Survey.

Send letter of application, resume and the names and telephone numbers of three references to: Farhat Haq, Chair, Political Science Search Committee, Monmouth College by e-mail to: facultysearch@monmouthcollege.edu. Review of applications will begin October 17, and continue until the position is filled.

Monmouth College, an Equal Opportunity Employer, is committed to diversity and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Monmouth does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, national origin, ancestry, disability, age, military service, marital status, sexual orientation, pregnancy or other factors as prohibited by law in its employment policies.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1939

Cornell University

Rank: Distinguished Professorship in American Politics

Cornell University invites applications for a distinguished professorship for a position beginning July 1, 2017. We seek to hire a senior scholar of American politics with a distinguished record of scholarship and teaching. Interested prospective candidates should submit a letter of application and curriculum vitae. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7740>. Individuals who are interested in learning more or who wish to nominate someone for the position may contact Stacy Kesselring, sk866@cornell.edu. We will begin to review applications starting October 1, 2016, and will continue until the search is completed. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply.

Diversity and Inclusion are a part of Cornell University's heritage. We are a recognized employer and educator valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1924

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 27, 2017. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2018, or one semester. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire women and men to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: Dr. David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6K-160, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to David.Sacko@usafa.edu. Applications received by September 21, 2016 will receive primary consideration. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1919

University of the Incarnate Word

Rank: Assistant Professor in Government and International Relations

Assistant Professor in Government and International Relations (tenure-track, 4-4 load) beginning August 2017.

The successful candidate will have the ability to teach upper division courses in American government, judicial politics and/or public law and a wide range of lower division courses within the field. A strong commitment to undergraduate education is essential.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in American Politics (ABDs considered) with a specialization in judicial politics or public law by July 2017.

The successful candidate will have at least one year of demonstrated university-level teaching experience in the discipline.

Official duties and responsibilities of faculty members at the University of the Incarnate Word include teaching, scholarship, service, and professional activities. In all matters, faculty are expected to maintain the highest standards of professional ethics consistent with the UIW mission.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1920

George Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of assistant professor. This position is pending final budgetary approval.

Basic Qualifications: Applicants must have an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda as evidenced by working papers or publications, and be able to teach graduate and undergraduate courses as indicated by research presentations and/or teaching assessments. The Department expects applicants to have strong substantive and methodological training, as demonstrated by completed coursework, but has no preferred methodological approach. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs will be considered but must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the date of appointment.

Application Procedure: To apply please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/36801> and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching/research interest (including a summary of teaching evaluations, if available), and sample publications. In addition, please send at least three letters of recommendation to pscjobs@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 9, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

The university and department have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply.

Employment offers are contingent on the satisfactory outcome of a standard background screening.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1904

Lund University

Rank: Postdoctoral research position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Quantitative Methods

The postdoctoral position is part of the research project "Explaining radicalization and political violence", a four-year interdisciplinary collaboration among researchers from the Department of Political Science at Lund University and the Departments of Psychology at Lund and Gothenburg University. The project is funded by The Marianne and Marcus Wallenberg foundation with Professor Hanna Bäck as project leader. The project aims to study the psychological mechanisms that lead an individual to become radicalized and/or to use political violence, and investigates such mechanisms by the cross-fertilization of political science and psychology. One of the project hypotheses focuses on the causal relationship between social exclusion or rejection and the likelihood of radicalization. The project applies a multitude of methodological approaches, and is for example based on experimental and survey studies, in addition to analyses of online material/social media.

The post-doctoral fellow will be expected to carry out research that contributes to the fulfilment of the project's overall research objectives. However, the fellow will also conduct independent research and will be free to develop his or her own theoretical ideas, and choose the methods that he or she finds most appropriate. The position is full-time and fixed-term for two years, and the holder of this post will be expected to conduct research (about 80 %) and to teach (about 20 %). In order to allow the research group to function as a team, the post-doctoral fellow will be expected to have the Department of Political Science in Lund as their main place of work.

Eligibility for employment as a postdoctoral researcher is restricted to applicants with a PhD degree in a relevant subject. Priority is given to applicants who have completed their PhD less than three years prior to the deadline for applying to the post. The three-year limit can be extended in cases of parental leave, sickness leave or similar circumstances occurring after the PhD defense. Applicants who have yet to complete their PhDs are welcome to apply but should demonstrate that they will receive their PhD degree before 1 January 2017.

We seek candidates with a PhD in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Psychology), and competence within the areas of political behavior broadly defined, or political psychology. We are particularly interested in candidates with a background in quantitative or experimental methods. Research skills and academic promise will be the main selection criteria, but teaching skills will also be considered. Proficiency in spoken and written English and the ability to teach in English is a requirement. The ability to conduct research independently and the ability to participate in international research collaboration are very important considerations.

The Lund University job application portal should be used when applying.

For further information, see: <https://lu.mynetworkglobal.com/en/what/job/jobID:111445/>

Your application must contain:

- * a cover letter (describing why you are interested in the position and what makes you suitable for it),
- * a CV (which includes information on degrees, completed courses, work experience, and publications),
- * a copy of your Ph.D. diploma (or a document describing when you will finish your Ph.D.),
- * two article-length writing samples (approximately 10000 words), and
- * two letters of recommendation.

For further information on the position, please contact:

Professor Hanna Bäck

+46 46 222 01 61

Hanna.Back@svet.lu.se

<http://www.svet.lu.se/en/hanna-back>

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1907

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Assistant Professor - Cyber Security

Specializations: Intelligence, History & Politics, Science & Technology

Cyber Security, Policy and Strategy

Department of Defense Analysis

Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill an open-rank tenure track position with expertise in cyber security, information technologies, and national security policy and strategy. The successful candidate can be from any relevant academic discipline, but will be an expert in information and cyber issues with a focus on contemporary conflict. The position will require teaching and research related to the proliferation of cyber and information technologies and their impact on national security and military operations. A broad knowledge of US national security policy, as well as of the relevant international security literature is also required. Both deep technical expertise and extensive knowledge of the causes and character of social and political conflict are required. The successful candidate will be expected to teach mid-career military officers from the Information Operations and Special Operations communities across all branches of the military and from allied countries, advise thesis work, engage the broader professional cyber/information technology communities of practice, and secure sponsor funding on these topics.

NPS provides graduate education to military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government. The preferred candidate will have teaching experience and a publication record commensurate with their academic experience. The candidate must also have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in the areas of irregular and information warfare, campaign planning and operational art, and strategic decision-making. Position responsibilities include teaching, research, service, and thesis oversight. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for tenure-track faculty is four graduate courses per year. The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, about 120 miles south of San Francisco. The Defense Analysis Department offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to 150 in-resident students (on average), a cross-disciplinary teaching and research faculty of 40-plus personnel, and three respected research centers, the Defense Analysis Department provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st Century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in any relevant discipline (e.g., Computer Science, Information Sciences, Electrical Engineering, International Security, Political Science, International Relations, Security Studies, History, Law, Sociology, Government, etc.).
- U.S. citizenship. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Strong publication record in the above fields.

Additional preferred qualifications:

- Experience teaching graduate students.
- Operational experience in either the US military, intelligence or interagency communities is desired.

The position is now open and the application period will close on 10 October 2016. Candidates should submit their materials via email to daborer@nps.edu. Email Subject Heading: Cyber Security, Policy and War Search.

Include curriculum vitae, a cover letter, sample publication(s), three letters of recommendation, and other supporting materials.

Address electronic cover letter to:

Dr. Douglas Borer, Chairman, Cyber Security, Policy and War Search, Department of Defense Analysis, 589 Dyer Road, Room 103F, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA, 93943.

Do not send paper applications.

Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Relocation expenses, including recruitment/relocation incentive, may be authorized in accordance with applicable regulations.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to: Identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc...)

Additional Veterans' information: If you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://www.dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>. For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1914

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Law and/or Judicial Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of public law and/or judicial politics for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2017-2018 academic year. Searching for a colleague with teaching and research expertise in American politics, constitutional law, civil rights and liberties, and an area of specialty, who will advise students as part of the college-wide pre-law program, and who will develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to the undergraduate and MA program. The successful candidate will teach an introductory course in American politics and public law/judicial politics as well as other courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels in the area of expertise. Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science or a related field.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=3214>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

The University is committed to equal opportunity, affirmative action, and eliminating discrimination and harassment. Miami University does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, genetic information, military status, national origin, pregnancy, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or protected veteran status in its application and admission processes, educational programs and activities, facilities, programs or employment practices. Requests for all reasonable accommodations for disabilities related to employment should be directed to ADAFacultyStaff@miamioh.edu or 513-529-3560.

Miami University's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report with information on campus crime, fires, and safety may be found at: <http://www.MiamiOH.edu/campus-safety/annual-report/index.html>. Hard copy available upon request. A criminal background check is required. All campuses are smoke- and tobacco-free campuses.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1879

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Health Care, Lesbian & Gay Studies

The University of Virginia Arts & Sciences Women Gender & Sexuality Program invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position. We seek candidates dedicated to our mission and passionate about teaching in a world class institution.

Candidates are sought who teach and conduct research in the general area of LGBTQ Studies. Field of specialization within LGBTQ Studies is open, but candidates in any area of LGBTQ health, especially those who work from a global perspective and/or in relation to race and ethnicity are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates from other areas of the humanities and social sciences are also welcome.

In addition to developing external funding to support research endeavors, candidates will be expected to teach and provide service to the University, WGS Program, and professional organizations.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2017, with an anticipated start date of July 25, 2017. Applicants must be on track to receive a Ph.D. in the relevant field by June 2017 and must hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment.

To apply candidates must submit a Candidate Profile through Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>), search on posting number 0619405 and electronically attach the following: a cover letter of interest describing research agenda and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a sample article- or chapter-length scholarship (Attach to Writing Sample 1) and contact information for three references. In addition, please have reference letter writers email letters directly to wgsuva@virginia.edu

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVa should be directed to: WGS Program, wgsuva@virginia.edu.

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment. The University of Virginia assists UVA faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1888

Eastern University-St Davids

Rank: Assistant Professor American Government

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Assistant Professor American Government
Political Science Department
2016-2017 AY Replacement Search

The Department of Political Science at Eastern University, a university of the liberal arts and sciences located in St. Davids Pennsylvania, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning in the fall of 2017. We are seeking to fill a position in American Government with preference given to individuals who can contribute to Political Theory. Candidates should desire to participate in the liberal arts core by teaching courses that explore the intersection of faith, reason, and justice. A Ph.D. in hand is preferred but ABD candidates nearing completion are also encouraged to apply. Please note that a J.D. is not sufficient for this appointment.

Eastern University is a Christian university of the arts and sciences that integrates faith, reason and justice for students in its undergraduate, graduate, Seminary, urban, professional and international programs. Applicants should have a religious commitment compatible with its mission and be willing to endorse by signing Eastern University's doctrinal statement. The university complies with federal and state guidelines of nondiscrimination in employment; members of protected classes encouraged to apply.

This description is intended to describe the general level and nature of work performed by the person/people assigned to this position. It is not to be construed as an exhaustive list of duties and responsibilities of the person/people so assigned.

Review of applications will begin January 1, 2017. Applicants are requested to send a cover letter including a brief statement of your faith, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations (or portfolio), unofficial copies of graduate transcripts, and three professional letters of recommendation/reference to jobs@eastern.edu or by mail to:

Eastern University
Office of Human Resources
1300 Eagle Rd.
St. Davids, PA 19087-3696

All positions remain open until filled.

Interested candidates participating in the APSA Annual Meeting should contact Dr. Sharon Gramby-Sobukwe to arrange an on-campus visit and interview.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1874

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2017.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2017.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01172>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1869

Texas Tech University

Rank: American Politics --Institutions

The Department of Political Science at Texas Tech University is seeking applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2017. The department is seeking candidates with research and teaching specialization in American Political Institutions. Candidates who study the executive branch (presidency and/or bureaucracy) are especially encouraged to apply. We prefer candidates with strong quantitative or formal methods training and the ability to teach graduate methods courses. Evidence of excellence in teaching and research, and a commitment to attracting external funds are also highly valued. Service duties include program-building, as well as commitment to extra-curricular activities. Service to the department, college, and the university is expected. The successful candidate will have his/her PhD in Political Science completed by the start of the appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, contact information for three references, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants for the position will start to be reviewed on 10/15/2016. For questions about the position, contact Dr. Dennis Patterson, Chair, Department of Political Science; dennis.patterson@ttu.edu

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, though their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1864

Dartmouth College

Rank: Associate or Full Professor

The Latin American, Latino, and Caribbean Studies Program at Dartmouth College (<http://lalacs.dartmouth.edu/>) seeks to hire an Associate or Full Professor in Latino Studies to begin in the fall term of the 2017 academic year. The position will be a joint appointment in LALACS and a Social Science Department (Anthropology, Geography, History, Political Science, or Sociology). We seek a colleague with a demonstrated record of achievement (for example, in border issues, gender, health outcomes, immigration, labor markets, law, politics, or transnationalism in Latino communities) and who is committed to creative scholarship and teaching who complement and augment the LALACS program's interdisciplinary strengths. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2016. Complete applications should include a letter of interest, a current CV, names of three references, and representative reprints. Applications should be submitted to Interfolio apply.interfolio.com/36759

Dartmouth has an undergraduate student body that is over 40 percent nonwhite and an even balance between men and women. It also has a burgeoning postdoctoral program: currently eight postdoctoral fellows have LALACS interests. Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 11/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1856

Williams College

Rank: Open Rank - Political Science/Leadership Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Development, History & Politics

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Leadership Studies invite applications for a joint, open-rank position beginning in 2017-2018. The Program in Leadership Studies is an interdisciplinary program focused on the phenomenon of leadership within a wide variety of social, cultural, and historical contexts. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and upper-level courses related to theories and facets of leadership as well as other areas of expertise. Particular areas of interest include but are not limited to: activism and social movements, political history and development, religion, gender, political decision-making, and political thought and culture.

Candidates should have the Ph.D. in hand by September 2017. Please upload a letter detailing current research interests and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (one article, book chapter, or conference paper), evidence of teaching success, and three letters of recommendation to Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/36741. We will begin review of applications on September 15; any application received by October 1 will receive full consideration. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field, and applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences if hired. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: <http://dean-faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/>.

Williams College is a coeducational liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (<http://www.williams.edu>). Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Interested candidates may contact the chairs of the respective units, James McAllister (jmcallis@williams.edu) and Justin Crowe (jec3@williams.edu), with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1853

Lafayette College

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Department of Government and Law invites applications for a tenure-track position in American politics at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in the academic year 2017-2018. The Department will consider candidates with specialties in any subfield of American politics, except public law and public policy. Candidates should be prepared to teach an introductory course in American Politics, courses concerning national political institutions and/or processes, and advanced courses in their areas of expertise. The Department welcomes candidates with additional expertise in the politics of race, ethnicity, and citizenship. Candidates will also be expected to make a contribution to the College's interdisciplinary programs and maintain an active research agenda.

Lafayette College is committed to creating a diverse community, one that is inclusive and responsive, and is supportive of each and all of its faculty, students, and staff. All members of the College community share a responsibility for creating, maintaining, and developing a learning environment in which difference is valued, equity is sought, and inclusiveness is practiced. Lafayette College is an equal opportunity employer and encourages applications from women and minorities. Located within 70 miles of New York and Philadelphia, Lafayette

College is a highly selective undergraduate institution with significant resources to support faculty members in their teaching and scholarship.

Applications should include a letter of intent, curriculum vitae, sample of scholarly work, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching ability (including, if available, syllabi and teaching evaluations), and three letters of recommendation. Please address how your scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and/or community service might support Lafayette College's commitment to diversity and inclusion articulated in the College's diversity statement (<http://www.lafayette.edu/about/diversity-statement/>).

Please upload application material electronically through Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/36763> by September 30, 2016. Questions may be directed to Helena Silverstein, Department Head, at silversh@lafayette.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 8/18/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1835

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2017 to June 30, 2018. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition 1600686.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2016 for appointments beginning in September 2017. Awards will be announced in March 2017.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1845

Syracuse University

Rank: American Politics

Syracuse University
American Politics

The Department of Political Science seeks two tenure-track Assistant Professors in American Politics. The search is open to candidates whose teaching and research focus on either political institutions or political behavior. We have particular interests in recruiting candidates who study race, American political development, and public policy. The political science department is housed within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, which is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. We seek candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission and have interdisciplinary interests. Successful candidates may be invited to affiliate with the Campbell Public Affairs Institute or one of Maxwell's other interdisciplinary centers (<http://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field or a credible expectation of completing all requirements for the Ph.D. by August 2017.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobops.com/>) and attach online the following: a letter of interest and a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

In addition, applicants will be required to provide the full email addresses of three references.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 1, 2016. However, the department will continue to consider applications until this position is filled. We encourage dual career academic couples to apply as well.

Syracuse University is an EO/AA employer and particularly encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1844

Gettysburg College

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor – American Politics

Position Summary:

Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2017.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department of Political Science seeks candidates in the subfield of American Politics specializing in judicial politics. The successful candidate will have an active research program of scholarship and is expected to offer an introductory course in American Politics, teach upper-level courses in judicial politics, and teach a required research methods course. A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/2.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/1830>. A curriculum vitae, cover letter, writing sample, transcripts, and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by October 15, 2016 for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Dr. Donald M. Borock at dborock@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1826

Loyola University Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics with expertise in Political Institutions)

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics with expertise in political institutions)

Loyola University Chicago, College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall 2017, pending funding approval. The department seeks applicants in American politics with expertise in political institutions. The successful applicant will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 500 majors and minors. For information about the department, please visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as graduate courses in our M.A. and Ph.D. programs. The applicant will be expected to teach upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses in the area of political institutions, as well as an introductory American politics class.

Qualifications: The successful applicant is expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Applicants for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Applicants should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Applicants should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest outlining the applicant's qualifications to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three recommendations or evaluations from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

John Frendreis, Professor and Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road

Chicago, Illinois 60660

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications should be received by September 30, 2016.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a Transformative Education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about Loyola's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission/. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativeed. Applications from women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities are especially encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1817

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Wilf Family Department of Politics seeks qualified candidates for four tenure-track assistant professor positions. We welcome applications in all sub-fields; however we hope to hire at least one assistant professor in American Politics and another assistant professor in International Relations. The department seeks excellent scholars with a rigorous theoretical and empirical approach to the study of politics. The positions are to begin September 1, 2017 pending budgetary and administrative approval. NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Qualifications:

Candidates must possess a PhD by September 2017, in political science or a cognate discipline. S/he will have a record of excellent research that has been published or otherwise disseminated in a manner appropriate to career stage, and have the potential to be a future leader of the profession in his or her field of expertise. Candidates should also have proven ability as excellent teachers at undergraduate and/or graduate level.

Application Instructions:

Please apply online at:

apply.interfolio.com/36758

with a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching and research statements. Applications should be received by September 26, 2016. Candidates are strongly encouraged to supply a link to their professional website; this will enhance their applications by allowing the search committee easy access to additional information that might be needed.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber, who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read <http://as.nyu.edu/page/diversityinitiative>. EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/26/2016
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1801

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Political Economy Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Political Economy, Research Methods, Quantitative Methods

Stony Brook University, Department of Political Science
 Political Economy Assistant Professor
 Required Qualifications: Ph.D. degree, or ABD.
 Preferred Qualifications: Demonstrated interest in the field of behavioral economics. Experimental approaches to studying political science questions in American or Comparative politics. Advanced methodological skills. Empirical research or an ability to teach graduate game theory.

Responsibilities & Requirements: The Department of Political Science seeks to hire in the field of Political Economics beginning Fall 2017. The Department is particularly interested in the field of behavioral economics and those running incentivized experiments to study political economy questions in American or Comparative politics. The Department of Political Science contains several experimental labs and has an active subject pool. While we are mostly interested in empirical research, an ability to teach graduate game theory is a plus. The Assistant Professor will be responsible for teaching, research and departmental service.

Special Notes: This is a tenure track position. Applications will be reviewed at the junior level. FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA. Internal and external search to occur simultaneously. Anticipated Start Date: Fall 2017

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

Application Procedure: Interested individuals should complete the Academic Jobs application process online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7584>. Interested candidates should submit a State employment application, curriculum vitae, cover letter, and samples of written work. In addition, please arrange to have three letters of professional recommendation submitted on your behalf. Electronic submission via Academic Jobs Online is highly preferred.

Alternatively, submit above mentioned materials to:

Chair, Political Economics Search Committee #7584
 Department of Political Science
 Social & Behavioral Sciences Bldg., S701

Stony Brook University
 Stony Brook, NY 11790-4392

STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY IS AN AFFIRMATIVE ACTION/EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER. WE ENCOURAGE PROTECTED VETERANS, INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES, WOMEN AND MINORITIES TO APPLY.

IF YOU NEED A DISABILITY-RELATED ACCOMMODATION, PLEASE CALL THE UNIVERSITY HUMAN RESOURCE SERVICES DEPARTMENT AT (631) 632-6161 OR THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL HUMAN RESOURCES DEPARTMENT AT (631) 444-4700.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE TITLE II CRIME AWARENESS AND SECURITY ACT, A COPY OF OUR CRIME STATISTICS IS AVAILABLE UPON REQUEST BY CALLING (631) 632-6350. IT CAN ALSO BE VIEWED ON-LINE AT THE UNIVERSITY POLICE WEBSITE AT <http://www.stonybrook.edu/police>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1811

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field for multiple appointments at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2017. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: formal theory, analytic political philosophy, modelling, and quantitative methods. Successful candidates must hold, or expect to soon complete, a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing past and/or potential contributions to diversity and leadership (further information about this statement is at: <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html>). All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01163>) for position: Assistant Professor, Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 18, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1820

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Kinder Institute Professor of Constitutional Democracy
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Job Description

The Department of Political Science at the University of Missouri invites applications for the Kinder Institute (Assistant/Associate/Full) Professor of Constitutional Democracy to begin in the Fall Semester 2017. The position is open rank in Political Science and holds a joint appointment with the Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy.

Started in 2014 and supported by a generous grant from the Kinder Foundation, a family philanthropic foundation established by Rich and Nancy Kinder, the Kinder Institute is an interdisciplinary academic center at the University of Missouri dedicated to promoting excellence in teaching and scholarship on American political thought and history, broadly construed.

The successful candidate will teach four classes per year, maintain an active research and publishing agenda, contribute to undergraduate and graduate education, and participate in the intellectual community and activities of the Kinder Institute.

Qualifications

Applicants must demonstrate a track record of excellence in teaching and publication in a subject area that advances the mission of the Kinder Institute. Special consideration will be given to candidates whose prior work bridges subfields in political science and reflects the potential to teach courses in the area of political institutions and/or political and constitutional development. A Ph.D. in political science is required at the time of the appointment.

Application Materials

Applicants should use the online application system available at <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic/index.php>. Apply for Job ID 20828. See here for a direct link to this job:

https://myhr.umsystem.edu/psp/tamext/COLUM/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&SiteId=9&JobOpeningId=20828&PostingSeq=1.

Applicants should include a statement of teaching philosophy, and an outline of a current research agenda in the "attachments" portion of the system. Applicants should merge their CV with a brief cover letter and upload the document in the Resume/CV section of the application. Candidates at the rank of assistant professor should also include three letters of recommendation. Candidates at the rank of associate or full professor should may provide the names and contact information for three references.

All letters of recommendation should be sent to politicalscience@missouri.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016.

Other Information

For more information about the Kinder Institute, including descriptions of all faculty, graduate and undergraduate programs, please visit democracy.missouri.edu.

The University of Missouri is fully committed to achieving the goal of a diverse and inclusive academic community of faculty, staff and students. We seek individuals who are committed to this goal and our core campus values of respect, responsibility, discovery and excellence.

Benefit Eligibility

This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at <http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits>

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of Missouri is an equal access, equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is fully committed to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. Equal Opportunity is and shall be provided for all employees and applicants for employment on the basis of their demonstrated ability and competence without unlawful discrimination on the basis of their race, color, national origin, ancestry, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status. For more information, call the Associate Vice Chancellor of Human Resource Services/Affirmative Action officer at 573-882-4256.

To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility & ADA Education at 573-882-5835.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1813

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Associate or Full Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications for a tenured appointment in American Politics at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin July 1, 2017. Position is open with respect to substantive focus within American Politics. Successful candidates must hold a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, the names of at least five independent reviewers, and a statement summarizing contributions, or potential for contribution, to diversity and leadership (information about the required diversity statement is at <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html>). All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01170>) for position: Associate or Full Professor of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 18, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1805

Hendrix College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Hendrix College invites applications for a tenure track position for an Assistant Professor of Politics to begin in August 2017. The College seeks to extend its tradition of excellence in teaching and scholarship by attracting faculty who combine mastery of their disciplines with broad intellectual interests and commitment to the aims of a liberal arts college. The successful applicant will teach the basic public policy course; one or two upper level, policy specific courses, and generally contribute to the department's American politics offerings. The successful applicant also will teach a section of Research Methods and participate in the Department's undergraduate research seminar, as well as the college's program in engaged learning. Training that would allow the development of a course in some aspect of political behavior is also a plus. Doctorate is expected by the start date; ABD will be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter addressing the candidate's interest in teaching in a demanding liberal arts environment, a curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate and undergraduate transcripts, as well as a statement of scholarly interest. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be requested sent via e-mail to facultyrecs@hendrix.edu. Address cover letter to Dr. Kimberly Maslin, Politics/IR Department Chair. Review of materials will begin October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Electronic submissions are strongly encouraged and can be submitted at <https://goo.gl/PcAgQE>. Hendrix is a distinguished liberal arts college located in Conway, Arkansas, thirty miles from Little Rock at the foothills of the Ozark Mountains. The College, affiliated with the United Methodist Church, has a strong commitment to excellence in teaching liberal arts. Hendrix College strives to maintain an environment free from discrimination and harassment, where employees treat each other with respect, dignity and courtesy. The College adheres to the principle of equal educational and employment opportunity without regard to age, race, color, religion, gender, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, or national origin.

The following person has been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination policies: Shawn Goicoechea, Assistant

Director of Human Resources & Title IX Coordinator 1600 Washington Ave, Conway, AR 72032 501-450-1415 goicoechea@hendrix.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1784

University of Chicago

Rank: Collegiate Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Political Theory

The University of Chicago Society of Fellows is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor. The Fellows are members of the College Faculty whose primary responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program.

Core courses in the Humanities typically deal with fundamental issues and texts in history, philosophy, and literature. Currently, the Core is organized into seven year-long sequences: Readings in World Literature; Human Being and Citizen; Greece and Rome: Texts, Traditions, Transformations; Philosophical Perspectives on the Humanities; Media Aesthetics; Reading Cultures; and Language and the Human. For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/humanities-course-descriptions>

Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. Currently, Fellows teach in four of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society; Classics of Social and Political Thought; Power, Identity, and Resistance; and Social Science Inquiry. Some Fellows also teach in the History of European Civilization Core sequence. European Civilization is taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents.

For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/social-sciences-course-descriptions>

The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. degree no later than August 31, 2017. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in their original scholarship as well as in teaching.

In most years, Fellows teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. Each Fellow also has the opportunity to design an independent course and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical in the third year of residence. The annual salary for 2017-18 will be $67,650. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2017.

To apply for these positions, please see our web site at <http://fellows.uchicago.edu>. The web site will be available to accept applications beginning August 31, 2016.

Important deadlines:

On line application deadline: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 14, 2016.

Deadline for receipt of letters of recommendations: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 28, 2016. This includes letters of recommendation from your three recommenders or those received from a dossier service.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-0681 or email dneibel@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1785

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- American Politics- Behavior

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, pending budgetary approval. Qualified candidates will have a research focus on elections and political behavior. We seek candidates whose work is theoretically driven and methodologically sophisticated and that relates to or complements the department's growing strength in experimental research (regardless of the mode of observation or analysis). We also particularly welcome applications from candidates working on issues pertaining to identity, diversity, or inclusion.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer, 2017. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTU5>. Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1783

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- American Politics-Institutions

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh is conducting a search for an Assistant Professor in American Politics, pending budgetary approval. Qualified candidates should have a primary research program that focuses on the study of American political institutions. Priority will be given to candidates whose work bridges two or more institutions (legislative, executive, or judicial), and also have both strong analytical and methodological skills. We strongly encourage applications from candidates whose research intersects the study of institutions and issues related to diversity and/or inclusion.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer, 2017. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference; references will receive email notification with instructions about submitting their letters. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTU4>. Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1782

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. The position is open with respect to subfield within political science, and we are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries. This is a cross-school, cross-disciplinary effort focused on integrating social, political, cultural and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty in the College of Arts and Sciences (Politics, Economics, Environmental Sciences), the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences, and the School of Architecture.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

We welcome applications from candidates in any--or some mix--of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics.

Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science by May 2017 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment, although those still at the ABD stage in August 2017 may be appointed as acting assistant professor. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold a PhD at the time of application and must have an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>). Search on posting number 0619320 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Applicants at the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (EnviroAsstPro@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 12, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2017, with an anticipated start date of July 25, 2017.

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVA should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (EnviroAsstPro@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1774

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis seeks candidates for one position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of American politics to begin Fall 2017 or later. The search is open with respect to substantive specialization within the study of American politics. Duties include research and publication, course teaching, student advising, and department and university service. Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required. In addition, candidates at the associate professor rank must, through research and publication, have made a significant contribution to one or more subfields in Political Science. Washington University in St. Louis is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status.

Files received by October 1 will receive full consideration. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, at least three letters of reference, writing samples, and other relevant materials. All applications and supporting documentation should be submitted electronically through the Washington University HR system (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>). Candidates should create an account, search for job requisition number 34389, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Letters of reference can be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

Please note: in order to attach materials to your application, you must EXIT the Wash U jobs site then log back in using your established username and password. Click on "Applications" then "Add Attachment" to upload additional materials.

If you encounter difficulties with the application process, please email Sarah Crean, sarahcrean@wustl.edu, for additional instructions. All other questions may be directed to Heather Sloan-Randick at (314) 935-5852.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1776

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor, Field Open

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor, field open, whose research and teaching expertise are focused on public policy and racial justice in American society. These issues include, but are not limited to, criminal justice; economic, social, and political inequality; health; education; and urban studies, among others.

The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift which allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service.

Electronic applications are required and candidates should submit applications here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7621> The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1770

Hope College

Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American and Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Hope College political science department invites applications for a tenure-track appointment beginning the 2017-18 academic year. We seek candidates who are equipped to offer courses in one or more of the following areas: American politics and institutions, comparative politics (open regional focus other than Africa), and research methods. The position also includes exciting opportunities to participate in Hope's highly regarded Washington D.C. honors program. Candidates should have a demonstrated ability to combine teaching excellence with genuine scholarly promise, and should be committed to the character and mission of a liberal arts college firmly rooted in the Christian faith. PhDs and ABD candidates who have made substantial progress on the dissertation are encouraged to apply.

Application Instructions

As part of the online application found at www.hope.edu/employment/faculty, candidates will upload the following documents: a cover letter including a paragraph clearly addressing the ways in which you will support the mission of Hope College (www.hope.edu/about/mission.html), a curriculum vitae, a description of your current research program, and a statement of your teaching experience and approach to teaching. Additionally, please arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to jobs@hope.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 15th, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions regarding the position may be directed to David Ryden, department chair, at ryden@hope.edu.

About Hope College

Hope College is a four-year liberal arts college where academic excellence and vibrant Christian faith join together in a supportive and welcoming community. Hope offers an academically rigorous, co-educational and residential education to 3,200 undergraduate students from more than 40 states and 45 countries. Affiliated with the Reformed Church in America since its founding in 1866, Hope College is known for its invitational ecumenical Christian atmosphere, friendly campus community, and well-balanced academic and co-curricular offerings. Hope's beautiful campus is located just steps from award-winning downtown Holland, Michigan and less than seven miles from Lake Michigan.

Hope College is recognized as a national leader in undergraduate research and scholarship and for providing exceptional professional preparation and life-changing educational experiences that equip our students for success after graduation. The college has consistently ranked among the nation's top liberal arts colleges and is featured in the book Colleges That Change Lives.

Hope College is financially sound, with more than 40 consecutive years of balanced budgets, an endowment of approximately $200 million and no deferred maintenance, and over $140 million invested in the construction of new facilities during the past 12 years. The college completed its newest buildings, the Kruienza Art Museum and the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts, in 2015 and will open the Jim and Martie Bultman Student Center in 2017.

In 2015, Hope College launched its 10-year strategic plan, Hope for the World: 2025, which consists of six goals, focused on: academics; Christian formation; global engagement; community; reputation and influence; and value. Developed by the campus community, the strategic plan supports the college's mission, "to educate students for lives of leadership and service in a global society through academic and co-curricular programs of recognized excellence in the liberal arts and in the context of the historic Christian faith."

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1769

St. Edward's University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics (Public Law & Methodology)

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The School of Behavioral and Social Sciences invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Political Science to begin in August 2017. We seek a broadly-trained scholar with the ability to teach judicial politics, constitutional law, research methods and social science statistics. Preferred candidates must demonstrate a commitment to incorporating quantitative literacy skills into his or her courses. Applicants will also teach courses in the university's General Education program and in the candidate's areas of interest within American Politics.

In line with the St. Edward's University mission statement, the campus is actively engaged in the pursuit of social justice and candidates must demonstrate an appreciation and commitment to diversity. An inclusive faculty body is highly valued as we strive to create a diverse learning environment to prepare our students for success in a global and multicultural world.

The successful candidate will teach four courses per semester (with the opportunity to apply for course reduction to pursue research opportunities), advise undergraduate students, and participate in the wider life of the university and community. Scholarly activity is expected, especially to the degree that it may involve or inspire undergraduate students or have positive contributions to teaching and learning.

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science, be committed to teaching and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduate students. Applicants must be compatible with the educational goals of the School of Behavioral and Social Sciences and the Mission Statement of St. Edward's University which requires faculty to teach students the skills needed to be independent and productive and encourages individuals to confront the critical issues of society and to seek justice and peace.

St. Edward's University is an independent Catholic university founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross and chartered in 1885. It has a current enrollment of over 5,000 undergraduate and graduate students. The University has a long history of welcoming a variety of cultural backgrounds, which has led to a diverse community, and a designation as a leading Hispanic-serving institution. The campus is located on a hilltop overlooking downtown Austin, the capital city of Texas, with a metropolitan population of over one million residents.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until October 1, 2016. Applicants will apply at <https://stedwards.applicantpro.com/jobs/441930.html> and attach the following: A cover letter discussing your qualifications and how your record of teaching, service and research demonstrates your commitment to diversity, inclusion and your experiences or interest in global initiatives as emphasized in the mission of St. Edward's University. CV; teaching statement; research statement summary (1 page); transcripts (unofficial at this stage or a list of courses in which you enrolled in graduate school) sample teaching evaluations and a list of three references. Competitive entry-level salary for 9-month contract; additional opportunities for summer teaching and/or development may be available.

St. Edward's University is an equal opportunity employer and hires only U. S. citizens and documented workers. Applications from minorities and women are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/10/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1764

American University

Rank: Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

AY2016-17

School of Public Affairs

American University

American University's School of Public Affairs (SPA) invites applications from accomplished scholars for the position of associate dean for undergraduate education. This position includes a faculty appointment at the rank of (advanced) associate or full professor in the Government Department or the Department of Justice, Law & Criminology beginning June 1, 2017. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. The position offers the unique professional, research, social, and cultural opportunities of a top-ranked school and university located in Washington, DC. In addition, the associate dean for undergraduate education will play a critical role in formulating school policy and be part of a dynamic leadership team.

The School of Public Affairs offers four undergraduate majors, four undergraduate minors, and three highly selective enrichment programs (SPA Leadership Program, Politics, Policy and Law Scholars, and SPA Honors). SPA has approximately 1300 engaged undergraduate students who are research focused and use DC as their laboratory. The associate dean for undergraduate education will provide leadership in the area of undergraduate education and will be responsible for handling all issues that arise concerning undergraduate students in the school. The associate dean directs the activities of the assistant director of recruitment and retention, four academic advisors, enrichment program directors, and serves as the school's Academic Integrity Officer. Duties will also include teaching one course a year in one of the School's degree programs.

American University is reshaping the composition and experience of its undergraduate student body. The University is committed to diversifying the student body in terms of racial/ethnic diversity, geographic diversity, and diversity of socioeconomic status. American University received a record number of undergraduate applications for Fall 2016, resulting in an admit rate of approximately 25 percent. The number of students with SPA undergraduate majors has increased over the past several years. American University is undertaking a multi-year initiative to reinvent the student experience through reimagining service delivery, a focus on student success, and modernization of the undergraduate curriculum. We are looking for an associate dean who will embrace the opportunity to participate in this initiative and shape the future of SPA's undergraduate programs.

Qualifications

Candidates must possess a distinguished record of scholarship in one of the academic fields encompassed by the school's undergraduate programs and meet American University's standards for appointment with tenure at the associate or full professor level. Preference will be given to candidates who have held leadership positions at the university, school, department or program level and who can also provide evidence of advancing their university's academic standing, scholarship, or research productivity.

Application Process

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 16, 2016, and continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/35978>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vita, statement of administrative experience and contact information for three references. Electronic submissions are preferred.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of many centers of government, business, research, and arts located in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1756

Morehouse College

Rank: Assistant Professor -- Public Law

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates should be trained in the area of American national government, with a specialization in public law, and should be prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, and civil liberties.

Responsibilities include teaching courses (a 2-2 load), advising, and mentoring students; executing administrative duties related to the pre-law program; developing and maintaining a scholarly research and publication agenda; and service to the department and the College. We also encourage faculty to be active in soliciting external funding through grants and other sources. The start date for the position is August 2017, and possibly January 2017 if a suitable candidate is identified and appointed. Minimum qualifications include a PhD in political science; commitment to excellence in teaching; evidence of a productive research program; and service to the profession and community.

A successful application will consist of the following: a letter of application providing detail on how the candidate meets the qualifications for the position and why they are a good fit for Morehouse College in particular (no more than 2 pages); a current curriculum vitae (no more than 4 pages); a statement of teaching philosophy (no more than 2 pages); research/scholarship agenda (no more than 2 pages); three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates also have the option of sharing the following: sample syllabi (no more than 2 courses); samples of research (no more than 2 samples); teaching evaluations or summaries of evaluations (no more than 2 courses, but if submitted, only submit full class evaluations and not samples of class evaluations)

All application materials must be submitted online: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36489>

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until September 30th. We will be interviewing at the APSA Annual Meeting Placement Service on Friday, September 2nd and Saturday, September 3rd. Applicants who wish to be considered for an APSA interview should send a cover letter and CV, by August 22nd, to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Andrew Douglas (andrew.douglas@morehouse.edu).

Morehouse College is an equal opportunity employer. No employee or applicant will be discriminated against in any condition of employment because of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, veteran status or any other status protected by law.

About Morehouse

Morehouse College is a private historically black liberal arts college for men whose mission is to develop men with disciplined minds to lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of black people. Since the founding of the College in 1867, the faculty, staff, and leadership have worked to inspire, nurture, challenge, support, and engage students with the expressed intent of fomenting a very special kind of development.

Morehouse has a very proud tradition of having developed leaders, with the most notable of course being Martin Luther King, Jr. (class of 1948). Each era has defined the qualities of a Morehouse Man—an expression of the expectations we have of our graduates—a bit differently, but there are some enduring constants. Backed by nearly 150 years of history, we see our work as helping to shape men of acuity, integrity and agency; men who will commit to brotherhood, standing together with their peers to cheer, challenge and support each other; and men who will strive to lead consequential lives, to not just do well for themselves, but to do good in the world.

Our strong legacy is continued now as we claim a number of successes. Morehouse is the number one baccalaureate origin institution for black male doctorate recipients in science and engineering, life sciences, physical sciences, social sciences, education, and humanities over the decade ending 2012 according to the National Science Foundation. We are the top producer of underrepresented minority physics baccalaureates among non-PhD granting institutions over the three years ending in 2013 as measured by the American Physical Society. And the College just this year became the only non-majority college or university to have produced four Rhodes Scholars. Our graduates include not only men like King and Julian Bond, but Spike Lee, David Satcher, Eddie Glaude, Jim Shelton, and many more operating in and out of academia in some way.

The College offers instructional programs in three divisions—business and economics, humanities and social sciences, and sciences and mathematics—as well as extracurricular and co-curricular activities that, combined with the academic program: foster the development of oral and written communication skills; foster appreciation of world cultures, artistic, creative expression and the nature of the physical universe; promote understanding of the specific skills needed to pursue professional careers and graduate study; and cultivate the personal attributes of self-confidence, tolerance, morality, ethical behavior, spirituality, humility, global perspective, and commitment to justice.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1757

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: American Politics - Race, Ethnicity, and Politics

Specializations: African American Politics, Latino Politics, Immigration Policy

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University New Brunswick anticipates hiring 12 new faculty members over the next 4 years, mostly at the Assistant Professor level. Our needs extend to all subfields, although they are particularly strong in American Politics, International Relations, and Methods. As part of this initiative, we now seek applicants for a full time, tenure track Assistant Professor position in Race, Ethnicity, and Politics, beginning September 1, 2017. Our preference is for someone whose scholarship focuses on the United States, who can teach courses such as Race and Ethnicity, Immigration Policy, and/or standard courses in American Politics, although we will also consider applicants whose research has a more comparative focus. Ability to teach methods at the undergraduate or graduate level a big plus.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36596>. Review of applicants will begin on October 1 and continue until the job is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 1751

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: American Politics/Political Psychology/ Political Institutions/Experimental Methods

Specializations: Political Psychology, American Politics, Political Behavior

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University New Brunswick anticipates hiring 12 new faculty members over the next 4 years, mostly at the Assistant Professor level. Our needs extend to all subfields, although they are particularly strong in American Politics, International Relations, and Quantitative (Statistical) Methods. As part of this initiative, we now seek applicants for a full time, tenure track position in American Politics/Political Psychology/ Political Institutions/Experimental Methods, beginning September 1, 2017. We are searching for someone whose research employs the experimental method as a primary research tool, and who will take advantage of the department's Center for the Experimental Study of Politics and Psychology. Ability to teach the design and analysis of field and laboratory experiments, along with standard courses in American politics, a must. Skills with data mining/big data or other advanced statistical methods a plus. We are targeting the junior level with this search, but in extraordinary circumstances a more advanced candidate will be considered.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36593>. Review of applicants will begin on October 1 and continue until the job is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 1747

Baylor University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, Political Thought: Historical

Baylor University is a private Christian university and a nationally ranked research institution, consistently listed with highest honors among The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Great Colleges to Work For." Chartered in 1845 by the Republic of Texas through the efforts of Baptist pioneers, Baylor is the oldest continuously operating university in Texas. The university provides a vibrant campus community for over 15,000 students from all 50 states and more than 80 countries by blending interdisciplinary research with an international reputation for educational excellence and a faculty commitment to teaching and scholarship. Baylor is actively recruiting new faculty with a strong commitment to the classroom and an equally strong commitment to discovering new knowledge as we pursue our bold vision, Pro Futuris. (www.baylor.edu/profuturis/).

Baylor seeks to fill this open-rank faculty position within the College of Arts & Science. The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for a position in American Politics, with emphasis in American constitutional law and political thought, especially that of the Founding Era, beginning in the fall of 2017. Established research and teaching credentials in these fields are expected, and interests in constitutional principles and the modern political thought in which they emerged will be especially welcome. The search is open in rank. Applicants will be expected to contribute immediately to the flourishing BA, MA, and PhD programs in the department. Review of applications will begin as they are received, and to assure full consideration applications should arrive by October 1, 2016.

Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in Political Science in the field of American Politics. Please submit a letter of application, current curriculum vitae, official transcripts showing highest degree conferred (ABD, also send official transcript of completed Ph.D. hours), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing samples, and a statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Send application materials to:

Professor David Nichols, Search Committee Chair

Baylor University

One Bear Place #97276

Waco, Texas 76798

254-710-3161

David_Nichols@baylor.edu

Materials may be submitted electronically to: Jenice_Langston@baylor.edu

To learn more about the above position, the College of Arts and Sciences, and Baylor University, please visit the appropriate URL: http://www.baylor.edu/artsandsciences/?_buref=1172-91940 or www.baylor.edu/hr/facultypositions.

Baylor University is a private not-for-profit university affiliated with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, Baylor is committed to compliance with all applicable anti-discrimination laws, including those regarding age, race, color, sex, national origin, marital status, pregnancy status, military service, genetic information, and disability. As a religious educational institution, Baylor is lawfully permitted to consider an applicant's religion as a selection criterion. Baylor encourages women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1740

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of California, Merced opened in September 2005 as the tenth campus of the University of California system. In keeping with the mission of the UC to provide research, teaching, and public service of the highest quality, UC Merced provides educational opportunities at the undergraduate, masters and doctoral levels through three academic schools: Engineering; Natural Sciences; and Social Sciences, Humanities and the Arts.

The School of Social Sciences, Humanities and Arts invites applications for two positions in either Political Institutions or Political Behavior with a substantive focus in American Politics, Comparative Politics, or International Relations, at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track).

In order to be considered, the selected candidate must have a PhD in political science or a related field at the time of appointment.

The anticipated start date for this position is July 1, 2017.

Applications must be submitted online. Completed applications, including letters of recommendation, must be received no later than September 15, 2016 to receive consideration. Applicants are required to submit 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of research; 4) a statement of teaching; 5) up to two writing samples; 6) a list of references with contact information including mailing address, phone number, and e-mail address; and 7) a contributions to diversity statement.

The Contributions to Diversity Statement should describe your past experience, activities and future plans to advance diversity, equity and inclusion, in alignment with UC Merced's mission to reflect the diversity of California and to meet the educational needs and interests of its diverse population. Some faculty candidates may not have substantial past activities. If that is the case, we recommend focusing on future plans in your statement. A more developed and substantial plan is expected for senior candidates. For additional information on what should be included on your Diversity Statement, please visit <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html#Are-there-any-guide-lines-for-wr>.

Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted online. After an application is submitted, the letters of reference should be electronically uploaded by the letter writers (instructions will be provided by the application system). Letters of reference should be received no later than September 15, 2016.

The University of California, Merced is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, students and staff.

Salary is commensurate with education, experience, and UC academic salary scales.

For additional information, please contact Courtenay Conrad at ccorad2@ucmerced.edu.

To apply, please visit <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00369>.

Applicants will be notified when the final candidate has been selected.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 9/15/2016
Date Posted: 8/8/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1715

Temple University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration
Specializations: Criminal Justice, Education Policy, Health Care

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position in public policy. We will consider candidates at any rank. We seek candidates pursuing a program of theoretically-informed empirical research on important public policy issues and processes who would be able to take an active role in our new Master of Public Policy Program. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching focuses upon education policy, health policy, or criminal justice policy. Expertise in bureaucracy and public management, policy analysis, the intersection of law and public policy, program evaluation, and budgeting is especially valued. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as evidence of external grant/fellowship support. Temple University, an urban research university in the heart of Philadelphia, values those who are able to work with diverse students and colleagues. Candidates at the entry level are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to: Prof. Gary Mucciaroni, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Temple University, 408 Gladfelter Hall (025-22), 1115 Polett Walk, Philadelphia PA 19122-6089. We prefer electronic applications; please submit these to the Department Coordinator, Latasha Goodman lgoodman@temple.edu. Dossiers will be reviewed as they arrive, but to guarantee full consideration, applications must be received by October 3, 2016. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women and persons of color.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/3/2016
Date Posted: 8/4/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1734

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2016. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in political science with a primary field of American Politics and a secondary field in public affairs/policy. A focus on women and politics is highly desirable. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will teach the introductory American government course, as well as advanced undergraduate courses and Master's level courses in Public Affairs/policy. Candidates will also advise students and serve the department, university, and profession.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science or related field
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence
- Demonstrated potential for research and publication

Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers a Bachelor and Masters in Government as well as the Bachelors in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has 5 full-time Government faculty members (plus 5 full-time History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 115 undergraduate Government majors and 20 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Tim Hoye, at THoye@twu.edu. Review of applications will begin on Nov. 1, 2016.

Texas Woman's University strives to provide an educational environment that affirms the rights and dignity of each individual, fosters diversity, and encourages a respect for the differences among persons.

Discrimination or harassment of any kind is considered inappropriate. Texas Woman's University is committed to equal opportunity in employment and education and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, veteran's status, or against qualified disabled persons.

Individuals may qualify for a Veteran's Employment Preference or a Former Foster Youth Employment Preference at Texas Woman's University over other applicants for the same position who do not have a greater qualification. If you believe you may qualify, click here for more information and instructions on how to claim an employment preference: <http://www.twu.edu/recruitment-selection/6589.asp>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1731

Boston College

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Boston College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position, beginning September 2017. We are looking for someone who combines a broad interest in American politics with special interest in the politics of regulation. We are interested in applicants who study any form of government regulation. Applicants should have a solid background in the study of American political institutions and policymaking, and be able to teach at least one course on the politics of environmental regulation. Applicants should have completed the PhD or be very near to finishing. Rank will be Assistant Professor or Instructor, depending upon degree status.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Interested candidates should upload a letter of introduction, including research and teaching interests; curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; and writing sample; and, if available, evidence of teaching excellence to the Interfolio online system at APPLY.INTERFOLIO.COM/36473. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be uploaded to Interfolio by the individual writers. Completed applications must be received by October 15, 2016. No email or U.S.P.S. applications will be accepted.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/3/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1726

Colby College

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor in American Government and Politics

The Department of Government at Colby College seeks applicants for a tenure-track assistant professor to teach American government and politics, commencing September 1, 2017. We seek highly qualified candidates who have demonstrated excellence in teaching and research and who are committed to working with an increasingly diverse student body. With ten faculty members and 180 majors, the department is a thriving community of scholars with broad interests and a strong commitment to deepening our expertise and offerings in the politics of diversity. We are open to sub-fields within the broad field of American government and politics; our preference would be a political behaviorist or social movement scholar who specializes in public policies related to race, ethnicity, income equality, gender, and/or sexuality. The successful applicant will teach at least one section of Introduction to American Government and Politics, one section of an introductory course in multi-methods research, and additional sections in the candidate's area of expertise, chosen in consultation with the department chair. The teaching load is 4 courses the first year, 5 courses per year thereafter, with the possibility of a repeat preparation. An interest in developing an advanced course in quantitative methods is also desirable.

Applicants should send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, statements expressing the candidate's teaching experience and research agenda, three letters of recommendation, a representative sample of current scholarship, evidence of teaching excellence, and a graduate school transcript to: apply.interfolio.com/36428. To be considered for an interview at the APSA in September, application materials should be submitted by August 15, 2016. We will accept applications until the position is filled. Questions about this position should be directed to: governmentsearch@colby.edu

Colby is a private, coeducational liberal arts college that admits students and makes employment decisions on the basis of the individual's qualifications to contribute to Colby's educational objectives and institutional needs. Colby College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, religion, ancestry or national origin, age, marital status, genetic information, or veteran's status in employment or in our educational programs. Colby is an Equal Opportunity employer, committed to excellence through diversity, and encourages applications from qualified persons of color, women, persons with disabilities, military veterans and members of other under-represented groups. Colby complies with Title IX, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in an institution's education programs and activities. Questions regarding Title IX may be referred to Colby's Title IX coordinator or to the federal Office of Civil Rights. For more information about the College, please visit our website: www.colby.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1723

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Service

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Political Economy, Public Finance & Budgeting

The Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service at New York University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position with appointment to begin September 1, 2017. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise and a record of research in financial management, budgeting, accountability and performance, or the design of institutions. Successful candidates will contribute to our Master of Public Administration and new Master of Science in Public Policy programs and will have demonstrated excellence in research. A Ph.D. in public administration, political science, or a related field is required and must be conferred by August 31, 2017.

NYU Wagner is a multidisciplinary school that prepares public service leaders to translate ideas into actions that have an effective and lasting impact on the public good. The School's nearly 40 full-time faculty members are trained in a wide variety of disciplines and share a commitment to addressing issues of public importance in their teaching and research. Wagner faculty members collaborate with other schools and departments across the university, including the Stern School of Business; the Steinhardt School of Education; School of Law; Politics, Economics, and Sociology departments; and the College of Global Public Health.

Candidates should complete the application available via the link below and submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, two completed research papers, and three letters of reference.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/36182>

NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and is strongly committed to diversity within its community.

Applications received by October 30, 2016 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/30/2016

Date Posted: 8/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1708

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for a position in the field of American Politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time.

For best consideration apply by September 1, 2016.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1696

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for a position in the field of Comparative Politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time.

For best consideration apply by September 1, 2016.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1697

University of Oklahoma

Rank: Associate Professor

The Carl Albert Congressional Research and Studies Center at the University of Oklahoma seeks an established scholar who is also a skilled and enthusiastic instructor as an associate professor.

The Center is a nonpartisan institution devoted to teaching and research related to the United States Congress and to strengthening representative democracy through engaged and informed citizens. The Center was established in 1979 as a living tribute to the ideals, leadership, and accomplishments of the Honorable Carl Albert and houses one of the largest congressional archives in the country.

The new hire will teach four courses each academic year, contribute to the core American Politics and Government curriculum and civic engagement mission of the University, and provide administrative leadership for the Center's diverse array of services and programs including shared editorial responsibilities for Extensions - the Center's biannual journal, the Julian J. Rothbaum Lectureship, and the Center's undergraduate leadership and service learning initiatives - Capitol Scholars, Community Scholars and N.E.W. Leadership.

The position will be jointly appointed to OU's Political Science Department, which houses a doctoral program with major fields in American politics, public administration and policy, comparative politics, political theory and international relations. Center faculty enjoy substantial travel and research support and work directly with talented undergraduate and graduate students. In addition, faculty members enjoy strong relationships with interdisciplinary research and teaching centers at OU, including the Nonprofit Leadership Program, the Center for Applied Social Research, the Center for Risk and Crisis Management, the Political Communication Center, the College of International Studies, Institute for American Constitutional Heritage, and the Environmental Studies Program. As the flagship institution for the state of Oklahoma, faculty work with state policy-makers and leaders of public, non-profit, tribal, and private organizations.

Qualifications

The successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science and be able to demonstrate an active research agenda in congressional studies, legislative behavior and institutions, or congressional policy-making. The successful candidate should also have an established publication record in high-quality outlets and a commitment to teaching and mentoring undergraduate, masters and doctoral students. Scholars with an interest in interdisciplinary collaborations or digital humanities are encouraged to apply.

Application and Deadline Information

The position will begin in August of 2017. Applicants should use <https://ou.taleo.net/careersection/2/jobdetail.ftl?job=162365> to submit: a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching experience, interests and philosophy, two published articles of significance, and the applicant's teaching evaluations from the most recent two years. Three letters of recommendation should also be sent to mcrae@ou.edu. Initial review of applications will begin on October 14, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Graduate transcripts may be requested by the committee.

For more information, please contact the search committee Chair:

Cindy Simon Rosenthal, PhD
Director & Curator
Carl Albert Congressional Research and Studies Center
630 Parrington Oval, Rm. 101
Norman, OK 73019
Phone: 405-325-6372 E-mail: csrosenthal@ou.edu

About OU

OU is a Carnegie-R1 comprehensive public research university known for excellence in teaching, research, and community engagement. OU serves the educational, cultural, economic and healthcare needs of the state, region, and nation from three campuses: Norman, Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City, and Tulsa Schusterman Center. OU enrolls over 30,000 students and has more than 2,700 full-time faculty members in 21 colleges. In 2015, OU became the first public institution ever to rank No. 1 nationally in freshman National Merit Scholars enrolled.

Norman is a culturally rich and vibrant community located 20 miles south of Oklahoma City. With outstanding schools, amenities, and a low cost of living, Norman is often cited in "best places to live" rankings. Visit <http://soonerway.ou.edu> and <http://www.ou.edu/flipbook> for more information. The greater Oklahoma City metropolitan area has a population of over 1.25 million residents and offers all of the culture, dining, entertainment and amenities typical of a modern metropolis.

OU complies with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, age, religion, disability, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices, or procedures. We invite all qualified applicants to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1705

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in American politics, to begin July 1, 2017, pending budgetary approval. The search is open with regard to substantive focus. In coordination with a multi-department hiring initiative in the College of Arts and Sciences, the department will especially welcome applications from scholars whose work includes critical perspectives on race, ethnicity, gender, and sexualities. The successful candidate will also contribute to the Department's research and teaching in quantitative and/or other innovative research methods.

Candidates should submit a letter of application, research and teaching statements, a curriculum vitae, one writing sample, and arrange for three reference letters to be submitted through <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7523>. The search committee will begin reviewing applications on September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1678

CUNY, Hunter College

Rank: Tenure Track Position-Open Rank

The Hunter College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position in either U.S. public law or American political behavior to begin in Fall 2017. The priority is to hire in public law but a second appointment in political behavior is possible. Appointments may be made at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor. For public law, the department seeks a scholar with research and teaching interests in constitutional law, broadly understood. We also expect the successful candidate to share in the teaching of the department's historically-oriented introductory American government course. For political behavior, applications are welcomed from candidates focused on political participation broadly construed.

The department places a high value on both effective teaching and strong scholarship. Hunter College, located on Manhattan's Upper East Side, is a part of the City University of New York, and has a vibrant and exceptionally diverse student body. In addition to teaching undergraduates at Hunter, many department members are part of the CUNY Graduate Center faculty and participate in the doctoral program. A Ph.D. is required for appointment at a professorial rank; the department prefers completion of the degree by the start of the appointment. For appointment as associate professor, substantial publication and teaching experience are required; for appointment as full professor, evidence of an established professional reputation, a strong and sustained publication record, and substantial teaching experience are required. Salary is commensurate with rank and experience. Hunter College is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Please apply online by accessing the CUNY Portal on City University of New York job website <http://cuny.edu/employment.html> and navigating to Careers at CUNYfirst. Current users of the site should access their established accounts; new users should click on the appropriate link to register. Please send cover letter, CV, a writing sample, graduate school transcript, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please arrange to have three confidential reference letters mailed to: Chair, Public Law Search, Department of Political Science, Hunter College, CUNY, 695 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10065. Please direct queries via e-mail to polsci.search@hunter.cuny.edu. To assure full consideration, candidates should submit all application materials by 9/16/16. The department will continue to review applications until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1665

University of Rochester

Rank: American Politics - Open Rank

American Politics. As part of our new initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications from candidates working in any area of American Politics for tenure-track positions in all ranks starting July 1, 2017. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 9, 2016, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates for a tenure-track position should submit the following documents: c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and a transcript. Candidates for a senior position should submit only a letter of interest and c.v. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting/positions/show/3792>

For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.rochester.edu/college/psc/>
EOE Minorities / Females / Protected Veterans / Disabled

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/9/2016

Date Posted: 7/25/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1653

University of Rochester

Rank: Methods - Open Rank

Methods. The Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications from candidates who specialize in Methodology for tenure-track positions in all ranks starting July 1, 2017. We are particularly interested in candidates who apply their research to American Politics. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 9, 2016, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates for a tenure-track position should submit the following documents: c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and a transcript. Candidates for a senior position should submit only a letter of interest and c.v. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting/positions/show/3802>

For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.rochester.edu/college/psc/>
EOE Minorities / Females / Protected Veterans / Disabled

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/9/2016

Date Posted: 7/25/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1654

University of Rochester

Rank: Political Economy - Open Rank

Political Economy/American Politics. As part of our new initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications from candidates working in Political Economy for tenure-track positions in all ranks starting July 1, 2017. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 9, 2016, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates for a tenure-track position should submit the following documents: c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and a transcript. Candidates for a senior position should submit only a letter of interest and c.v. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting/positions/show/3792>

For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.rochester.edu/college/psc/>
EOE Minorities / Females / Protected Veterans / Disabled

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/9/2016

Date Posted: 7/25/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1656

University of Rochester

Rank: Race & Ethnic - Open Rank

Specializations: Latin American, African American Politics, Asian American Politics

Race and Ethnic Politics. As part of our new initiative in American Politics, the Department of Political Science at the University of Rochester invites applications from candidates working in any area of African-American politics, Asian-American politics, Latina/Latino-American politics, Native American Politics, or other areas in American race and ethnic politics, for tenure-track positions in all ranks starting July 1, 2017. The University of Rochester, an Equal Opportunity Employer, has a strong commitment to diversity and actively encourages applications from candidates from groups underrepresented in higher education. We will consider all applications received by September 9, 2016, although we will continue to accept applications after that date. Candidates for a tenure-track position should submit the following documents: c.v., research statement, teaching statement, letters of recommendation, samples of written work, and a transcript. Candidates for a senior position should submit only a letter of interest and c.v. Materials should be submitted on-line: <https://www.rochester.edu/faculty-recruiting/positions/show/3792>

For more information on the University of Rochester Political Science Department: <http://www.rochester.edu/college/psc/>
EOE Minorities / Females / Protected Veterans / Disabled

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/9/2016
Date Posted: 7/25/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1655

Washington College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Washington College is seeking an American politics specialist for an entry-level appointment as Assistant Professor of Political Science, tenure-track, beginning August 2017. Ph.D. should be in hand or very near completion; salary is competitive. We seek candidates whose graduate transcripts, teaching experience, research, or other experience demonstrate preparation to teach courses in American political institutions, especially the American Presidency, Congress and the Legislative Process, and Parties and Interest Groups—and several other upper level courses in areas such as Minority Politics and Media and Politics. The ability to offer a basic research methods course would be an added benefit and the candidate will also teach our introductory level course in American politics as well; faculty are also expected to periodically contribute to the college's first year seminar program. As we have expertise in the following areas already, we are not seeking candidates who specialize in public law, political theory, or religion and politics. Teaching load is three courses per semester. Some senior thesis advising, undergraduate advising, and occasional internship supervision are required.

Washington College, founded in 1782, is a selective liberal arts institution of 1500 students that emphasizes excellence in teaching and a commitment to scholarly research. It is located on Maryland's Eastern Shore, about 1.5 hours from Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. For more information about the college please consult the college's website (<http://www.washcoll.edu>) and the department's website (<http://polisci.washcoll.edu>).

Applications should be submitted by October 10, 2016. Materials should be directed to the attention of Dr. Melissa Deckman, Chair, Department of Political Science; e-mail: mdeckman2@washcoll.edu. Please send letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts from all institutions attended, three letters of recommendation, and teaching evaluations, if available, through our online portal at https://higherdecisions.com/wcm/current_vacancies.asp. If unable to combine additional materials into one document to upload to Consensus, please send materials to politicalscience_search@washcoll.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Candidates who wish to be interviewed at the APSA Convention's job placement services in Philadelphia should e-mail or call after August 15 to request an appointment. Washington College is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to a diverse cultural environment and encourages applications from women, minorities, disabled persons, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/10/2016
Date Posted: 7/25/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1652

Bryant University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Legal Studies

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of History and Social Sciences at Bryant University invites applicants for a tenure track Assistant Professor in the area of Legal Studies to begin in August, 2017. Candidates must apply by October 31, 2016.

The successful candidate must possess a JD with an advanced degree in law or a related discipline. We encourage the applications of candidates with expertise in the areas of law, ethics, human rights, and the interdisciplinary study of law. We expect that the candidate will have strong communication skills as a classroom instructor and as a presenter of research findings to others.

The successful candidate must be prepared to teach introductory courses in domestic and international business law and a range of advanced topics. The position requires a commitment to quality teaching, research, and university service.

Certain requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate persons with disabilities.

Throughout its more than 150 year history, Bryant University has earned a distinguished reputation for innovative academic programs and technology that are marketplace driven and highly attuned to the emerging needs of industry and society. Bryant's close-knit, student-centered community of scholars delivers challenging academic programs that integrate business and the arts and sciences, with an emphasis on real-world application and a global perspective. Abundant co-curricular opportunities, service learning programs, internships, and practicums allow students to put theory into practice while building character and leadership skills.

Bryant University is comprised of the College of Business and the College of Arts and Sciences. Bryant's academic programs are distinguished by an integration of business and the arts and sciences with a global perspective. Bryant is located on a 428 acre campus in Smithfield, RI, which is situated 15 minutes from Providence, RI, and 45 minutes from Boston, MA.

The Department of History and Social Sciences houses four disciplines: Legal Studies, History, Sociology, and Political Science. There is a Legal Studies minor and a Politics and Law Major.

Candidates must submit their application electronically at <https://employment.bryant.edu>. The application process will require the inclusion of a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, and evidence of quality teaching experience. The applicant should be prepared to include contact information for three references; listed references will be notified electronically to submit a letter of support to your application.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 7/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1637

University of Denver

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Congress, Presidency, Public Opinion

The Department of Political Science at the University of Denver invites applications for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor to start in fall 2017 in the field of American Politics. To complement existing faculty strengths, we are most interested in candidates with research expertise in one or more of the following subfield specialties: Congress, the executive branch, public opinion, and political psychology. We particularly encourage applications from those with the desire and ability to teach research methods at an undergraduate level, and we welcome the incorporation of experiential learning opportunities in the curriculum such as internships, simulations, or service learning. The position requires teaching the equivalent of two courses per quarter across three quarters per year in the Political Science department, covering a range of upper division American politics courses, introductory courses, and other university requirements. Courses should be taught in a variety of lecture and discussion formats. Faculty at the University of Denver balance their commitment to undergraduate education with the pursuit of rigorous research involving such scholarly works as books, peer-reviewed scholarly articles, and conference presentations. The person holding this position would also be expected to contribute to University and departmental service.

The Department of Political Science is an undergraduate-only department with small classes, intensive writing assignments, and close interaction between students and faculty. We aim to develop student's capacity to think and act in the world that will serve students long after they graduate.

Essential Functions

- Teach the equivalent of six courses per academic year.
- Advise students.
- Pursue a fruitful research agenda that results in published work.
- Contribute to University and departmental service.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities

- Expertise in one or more of the following subfield specialties: Congress, the Executive Branch, Public Opinion, and/or Political Psychology.

Required Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related social science field, or be near the completion of one. If ABD, the degree must be completed no later than the summer of 2017.
- Experience teaching undergraduate courses in Political Science.

Preferred Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through <https://dujobs.silkroad.com/> to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted.

Once within the job description online, please click New Resume/CV at the bottom of the page to begin application. We will give priority to applications received by September 23, 2016, but will consider applications until the position is filled. For questions regarding this position, please contact: Doug Booth, douglas.booth@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

- CV
- Letter of interest
- Research & teaching statements
- Inclusive-excellence statement (The separate inclusive-excellence statement should be a succinct description of how the candidate's research, teaching, and/or service contributes to inclusive excellence and involves effective interaction with members of historically under-represented communities. See <http://www.du.edu/cme/resources/inclusive-excellence.html> for more details.)
- Evidence of scholarly work
- At least three recommenders should provide letters of recommendation, which can be emailed to polisci@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

The University of Denver is committed to enhancing the diversity of its faculty and staff and encourages applications from women, minorities, members of the LGBT community, people with disabilities and veterans. The University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1630

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at the University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor teaching public administration/public policy beginning August 2017. The position requires the ability to teach upper level courses in public administration and public policy (these could include introductory public administration, public personnel administration, public financial management and public policy; other related courses could also be developed). The teaching of an introductory American Government course is expected. Candidate must demonstrate excellence in teaching and potential of research agenda. Research focus is open but should not duplicate existing faculty specializations. PhD in Political Science must be in hand by the time of appointment. Prior university teaching experience strongly preferred. Responsibilities include a 4/4 teaching load (a minimum of 2 preparations per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, and broader community.

Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. USCA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Under a three hour drive from Charlotte and Atlanta respectively, the University of South Carolina Aiken has consistently ranked among the top three public baccalaureate colleges in the South by U.S. News & World

Report's annual "America's Best Colleges" guide. USCA is also a recipient of The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Best Place to Work" designation, with top honors for collaborative governance and confidence in senior leadership, and has been designated a Military-Friendly School by Victory Media. Founded in 1961, USC Aiken has grown to serve more than 3,200 students on its beautiful 453-acre campus. USC Aiken is a comprehensive liberal arts institution with talented faculty committed to active learning through excellence in teaching, undergraduate research, scholarship, and civic engagement. A 15:1 student-faculty ratio allows for highly engaged pedagogies with USC Aiken selected as the college of choice by students from 29 states and 20 countries. According to the National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE), USC Aiken seniors rank the campus as contributing to their knowledge, skills and personal development at rates significantly higher than other institutions that participate in the survey. Visit: www.usca.edu

Applicants must apply online at:

<https://uscjobs.sc.edu/applicants/jsp/shared/frameset/frameset.jsp?time=1468858963397>

Applicants must fully complete the online application form and upload a letter of interest and current curriculum vitae there. Applicants should send separately three letters of reference, a sample syllabus, a teaching statement, and a writing sample (e.g. article, paper, chapter length) to:

Mrs. Carol McKay
College of Humanities and Social Sciences
471 University Parkway
Aiken, SC 29801

The application deadline is September 30, 2016. Additional materials may be sought at a later date from applicants selected for telephone interviews.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/18/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1631

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science and Economics invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning in Fall 2017. The position is open to candidates specializing in public policy, public administration, or a related field, with a particular focus on the politics of health policy. Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2017. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 20, 2016. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://rowanuniversity.hodesiq.com/jobs/assistant-professor-of-political-science-aft-glassboro-new-jersey-job-5301829>. Rowan will have representatives at the APSA annual meeting in Philadelphia. Please email Lawrence Markowitz to request a meeting at markowitzl@rowan.edu.

Submit a cover letter, a C.V., unofficial transcripts, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/20/2016
Date Posted: 7/15/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1625

Rice University

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for one tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2017. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant or associate professor. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. We are especially interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in the area of democratic representation, particularly as it relates to the study of underrepresented minorities, either in the U.S. or cross-nationally.

Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by November 1, 2017. The application deadline is September 15, 2016, but applications will be accepted until the search is closed. All applications should be submitted electronically via <https://jobs.rice.edu/> (from this page, select "Faculty," then choose "Assistant Professor of Political Science" or "Associate Professor of Political Science," according to your level). A complete application for candidates at the assistant professor level will include (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) graduate school transcripts, (4) two writing samples, and (5) three letters of recommendation. Candidates who currently hold the rank of associate professor are asked to submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and information for at least three references.

Equal Opportunity Employer – Females/Minorities/Veterans/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 9/15/2016
Date Posted: 7/12/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1611

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of assistant professor with a specialization in American political institutions, to begin August 2017. The successful candidate will have a productive and rigorous research agenda, excel in the classroom, and seek ways to integrate their scholarship and teaching. Candidates should have an active research agenda focused on the U.S. Congress and be prepared to teach introduction to American government and upper-division courses on Congress and the Presidency. The Department is interested in candidates who can also add to our course offerings in one of the following areas: public policy, political parties and interest groups, race/ethnicity and politics, or gender and politics. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester, and all faculty can apply for a competitive course reduction of one course per academic year. A PhD is preferred, but the College will consider ABDs if the degree will be granted by time of appointment. Applications received by September 16, 2016, will receive full consideration.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ is a highly selective institution that has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its nearly 6,000 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of NYC and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. The School of Humanities and Social Sciences enrolls over 2,000 majors in 14 academic programs. The Department of Political Science includes seven tenure-line faculty positions and supports over 160 political science majors and 100 international studies majors. For more information, visit www.tcnj.edu.

Please submit the following materials to ampolsearch@tcnj.edu as email attachments: 1) a cover letter describing qualifications and research and teaching interests, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) unofficial graduate transcript, 4) up to two scholarly writing samples, 5) relevant sample syllabi, 6) evidence of teaching effectiveness, and 7) contact information for three to five references. Applicants should also have at least three referees submit confidential letters of recommendation directly to ampolsearch@tcnj.edu.

Representatives of the department will conduct informational interviews with potential candidates at APSA in Philadelphia. Interested candidates should send an electronic copy of their CV to ampolsearch@tcnj.edu. Please contact Daniel Bowen (bowend@tcnj.edu) with any questions about the position.

The College of New Jersey is an Affirmative-Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/16/2016
Date Posted: 7/12/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1610

Missouri State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Missouri State University invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-track appointment in American Politics at the assistant professor rank. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach undergraduate courses in Political Behavior and Quantitative Methods, as well as the introductory American politics course. While ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment in August 2017. The successful candidate will be able to enhance the Public Affairs mission of the University and should demonstrate a commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. The successful candidate should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and service and possess an identifiable research agenda which demonstrates the potential for a sustained record of scholarship leading to publications in peer-reviewed journals.

The department of political science has 17 full-time faculty members with over 150 students in the undergraduate major and in two graduate programs; Master of Public Administration and Master of Global Studies. Missouri State University is a selective-admission, comprehensive, and multi-campus university system with an enrollment of over 20,000 students, 150 undergraduate majors, and 47 graduate programs. MSU is located in Springfield, MO, with a metropolitan population of over 400,000, in the heart of the Ozarks region of Southwest Missouri.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with background and experience. Consideration of applicants begins September 16, 2016 and continues until the position is filled. Employment will require a criminal background check at University expense.

Missouri State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action/minority/female/veterans/disability/sexual orientation/gender identity employer and institution. We encourage applications from all interested minorities, females, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and sexual orientation/gender identity.

Apply online at <https://jobs.missouristate.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/8/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1600

Stanford University

Rank: Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields

Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields.

The Stanford Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields. The term of appointment would begin September 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than three pages).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions.

The committee will begin reading applications on September 16, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should apply on line through AcademicJobsOnline.org

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/16/2016

Date Posted: 7/8/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1604

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2017 semester.

Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics or Comparative Politics with U.S. expertise), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2016, and position will remain open until filled.

Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in Philadelphia, PA.

The University of Redlands is committed to increasing the diversity of the university community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and/or experiences in the area of inclusivity. Strongly preferred are candidates with demonstrated experience working with diverse student populations. The University of Redlands is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access Employer and actively encourages applications from minority and other members of underrepresented groups. The University of Redlands does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, disability, age, marital status, or sexual orientation in its programs and activities.

In compliance with The Americans with Disability Act, if selected for the interview process and accommodations are needed please call (909) 748-8040.

SUBMISSION OF A RESUME OR APPLICATION INDICATES AGREEMENT THAT THE UNIVERSITY MAY VERIFY ANY AND ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED THEREIN
MEMBERS OF UNDERREPRESENTED GROUPS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY
AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/1/2016

Date Posted: 7/7/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1593

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor (Public Policy)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno is soliciting applications for a tenure-track, full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Public Policy to begin in the Fall semester of 2017. The focus is on a Policy generalist who can offer courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels covering policy theory, policy implementation, and ideally policy analysis. We are open to a variety of substantive policy areas candidates may be pursuing, but those with a link to environmental and/or energy policy are preferred. Research methodology is open, although candidates with statistical methods skills and the ability to teach an MPA course in Policy Analysis are strongly preferred. The selected applicant will be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower division undergraduate, upper division undergraduate and graduate MA/MPA/PhD). Courses will include offerings in support of a traditional MPA curriculum. Applicants should demonstrate a strong potential for research publication and there is an expectation that the individual hired will have some ability to attract external funding.

Position is open until filled, but review of applications will begin October 7, 2016.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field in hand by August 15, 2017 for appointment as an Assistant Professor. A background check may be conducted on the candidate(s) selected for hire.

To apply online: <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/21273>

HR will attempt to verify academic credentials upon receipt of hiring documents. If the academic credentials cannot be verified, HR will notify the faculty member that an official transcript of their highest degree must be submitted within thirty days of the faculty member's first day of employment.

The University of Nevada, Reno is committed to Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action in recruitment of its students and employees and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, creed, national origin, veteran status, physical or mental disability, and sexual orientation. The University of Nevada, Reno employs only United States citizens and aliens lawfully authorized to work in the United States. Women, under-represented groups, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/6/2016

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1591

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: tenure track appointment, health policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Department of Political Science at the College of the Holy Cross invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment in political science to begin in August 2017. We are seeking an applicant with demonstrated expertise in U.S., comparative, or global health whose teaching will contribute to both the political science major and the College's emerging Health Studies Program. Health Studies has thus far been a part of the College's student-designed major program through the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies. In response to rising student demand and faculty interest, the College is now in the process of creating a formal program. Candidates for the new position will be expected to design and teach an introduction to health policy course that will serve as a foundation for students who will go on to specialize in various "tracks" within the Health Studies major, which may include Public Health and Global Health. The successful candidate will also offer advanced courses in health policy and other electives within the Department of Political Science in the subfield of either American Politics or Comparative Politics, or International Relations, depending on their area of specialization.

This position carries a 3-2 teaching load with a full-salary one-semester research leave prior to tenure review, and generous sabbatical and fellowship leaves for tenured faculty. Tenure track faculty are eligible for travel support and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's published policies. All full-time appointments offer competitive salaries and include full benefits.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate commitment to, and excellence in, undergraduate teaching at the introductory and advanced levels as well as scholarly achievement. Ph.D. in Political Science or imminent completion required.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please submit a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above, curriculum vitae, statement on teaching, transcripts, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

In your cover letter, in addition to describing your research and teaching interests, please address how your scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and/or service might support the College's mission as a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college (see <http://www.holycross.edu/about-us/mission-statement>) and its core commitment to diversity and inclusion. For more information, please visit <http://holycross.edu/diversity>.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to <https://apply.interfolio.com/35993>.

Review of applications will begin on September 16 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will be done by Skype or at the APSA conference September 1-3 for those who will attend the meeting. Questions about this search may be directed to Vickie Langohr, Chair, at vlangohr@holycross.edu. Candidates are encouraged to contact Prof. Langohr in advance to express their interest and availability for an interview at APSA.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 2,900 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community.

Holy Cross aspires to meet the needs of dual-career couples, in part through its membership in the Higher Education Consortium of Central Massachusetts and the New England Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (<http://www.newenglandherc.org>). The College is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and complies with all Federal and Massachusetts laws concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action in the workplace.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/4/2016

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 1580

Bethel University

Rank: Political Science Faculty (Three Year Appointment)

Bethel University College of Arts & Sciences in St. Paul, MN is seeking applications for a full-time, three year faculty appointment in the Department of Political Science, to begin Fall 2017.

Responsibilities: Teach seven courses or equivalent per year. Teaching assignments may include American Government and Politics, American Political Institutions, Modern Political Thought, American Political Ideologies, and American Public Policy, as well as participation in an interdisciplinary, team-taught General Education course. Other faculty responsibilities include promoting and coordinating pre-law advising, academic advising, faculty committee service, and departmental assignments as appropriate.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science; ABD will be considered. Teaching experience preferred, including demonstrated ability to teach courses in American Government and Politics, and Political Theory in particular. Candidates must be strongly committed to the educational mission and evangelical Christian orientation of the university. They must demonstrate the ability to contribute to Bethel's anti-racism efforts and cross-cultural understanding.

Salary and rank commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Apply online at www.bethel.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/1/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1577

Wheaton College

Rank: Tenure-track Position in American Politics

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Wheaton College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant or associate professor level in American Politics to begin in 2017. Expertise in political behavior, race and politics, or peace and conflict studies is highly desirable but not required. Ph.D. is expected and teaching experience is preferred.

Send a letter describing teaching experience, personal commitment to the Christian faith, and a current curriculum vitae to Dr. Bryan McGraw, Chair, Department of Politics & International Relations (bryan.mcgraw@wheaton.edu). Additional application instructions will be sent to candidates whose expertise aligns with position description.

Representatives of the department will conduct interviews with potential candidates at the 2016 APSA meeting in Philadelphia. To be considered for an APSA interview, please send the above information to the Chair prior to APSA. Review of completed applications will begin September 15 and continue until the position is filled.

Wheaton College is an evangelical Protestant Christian liberal arts college whose faculty and staff affirm a Statement of Faith and adhere to the lifestyle expectations of the Wheaton College Community Covenant. The College complies with federal and state guidelines for nondiscrimination in employment. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply. Read more about Wheaton College and its programs at www.wheaton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 6/18/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1553

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Urban Politics, Economic Policy, Health Care

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public policy to begin August 2017. The Department seeks candidates with a research and teaching specialization in any of the following areas of public policy: health policy, social policy, economic development, community development, sustainable development, intergovernmental relations, state and local government, and/or urban policy. Expertise in these areas is expected to be in the context of the United States. Candidates also must possess the capacity to contribute to departmental efforts to increase community outreach and engagement with government officials and practitioners in the greater Montgomery area. A completed Ph.D. is required prior to appointment.

Teaching responsibilities normally include undergraduate courses offered to political science majors and graduate courses in the candidate's area of expertise in the Department's NASPAA accredited master's degree program in public administration. Opportunities exist to teach doctoral courses. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate degree in political science and a master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu and upload a cover letter identifying teaching areas, teaching philosophy and research agenda, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), one writing sample, and a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

Public Policy Search Committee
Department of Political Science and Public Administration
Auburn University at Montgomery
P.O. Box 244023
Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 6/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1549

Colgate University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (2 positions in American Politics)

The Department of Political Science at Colgate University invites applications for two appointments in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning fall semester 2017. High scholarly promise and demonstrable excellence in teaching are essential. Candidates are expected to have completed a Ph.D. prior to or shortly after the date of hire. The department seeks candidates whose research and interests center on one or more of the following subjects: elections, public opinion and voting behavior; parties and interest groups; state politics and federalism; bureaucracy and policy implementation; political psychology; urban and local politics; political communication, gender and politics, and environmental politics. Americanists with an interest in comparing the U.S. to other democratic political systems are also invited to apply.

Teaching includes a mix of introductory and upper-level courses to satisfy a five-course annual load. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in all-university programs, including the Liberal Arts Core Curriculum. Applicants must submit a letter of application, current vita, three letters of recommendation, a short writing sample, and evidence of successful teaching via <https://> academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/7283. Colgate strives to be a community supportive of diverse perspectives and identities. All applications should speak directly to the candidate's ability to work effectively with students across a wide range of identities and backgrounds.

Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2016. Address any additional questions or correspondence to: Professor Michael Hayes, Chair, American Politics Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Colgate University, 13 Oak Drive, Hamilton, NY 13346 (Email address: mhayes@colgate.edu). Applicants with dual-career considerations can find postings of other employment opportunities at Colgate and at other institutions of higher education in upstate New York at www.upstatenyherc.org. Colgate University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer; women and candidates from historically underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1508

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure-system position in American Government and Politics. Rank is at the level of Assistant Professor. Position begins August 16, 2017. Special consideration will be given to those with research and teaching (graduate and undergraduate) interests in minority politics and, in particular, racial and ethnic politics in the U.S. context. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching ability, and the promise of attracting external funding.

The closing date for applications is October 1, 2016, though later applications may be accepted if the search remains open. You must apply for this position via Michigan State University Applicant Page (MAP), posting number 3464. Please access the MAP system at <https://jobs.msu.edu>. Please submit your curriculum vitae, a cover letter, a research statement, one sample of your written work, a teaching statement, and a diversity and inclusion statement, which should discuss your ability and experience working with underrepresented student populations. Please also arrange for at least three reference letters to be submitted.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal opportunity employer, committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applicants and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities. Please contact Ryan Black (rblack@msu.edu), chair of the search committee, with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 6/1/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1510

American University

Rank: Director, Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies and Associate or Full Professor in American Politics

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Presidency, Congress

Position Announcement

Director, Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies and Associate or Full Professor in American Politics

Department of Government

School of Public Affairs

American University

The School of Public Affairs at American University invites applications for a faculty position at the rank of associate or full professor to serve as the Director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies (CCPS) beginning August 1, 2017. The Director is responsible for developing and facilitating high-profile research projects and creating public programming that draws on the expertise of AU faculty and leading analysts from the Washington, DC community and beyond. The Director should ensure that CCPS contributes to the national dialogue about Congress, the Presidency, campaigns, and elections. The Director must secure external funding to support CCPS work and enhance the School of Public Affairs' prominence as a venue for high impact research and policy analysis.

Since its establishment in 1979, CCPS has facilitated collaborative research projects, organized hundreds of forums and conferences related to American politics, promoted curriculum development, and connected its work to policymakers, journalists, students, and academics who put research findings into practice. The new Director will be expected to continue that legacy and position CCPS to become even more influential.

Applicants should hold a doctoral degree in political science with a focus on American political institutions – Congress or the Presidency – and related subfields including campaigns and elections. We seek to recruit candidates who are theoretically sophisticated, methodologically rigorous, and have demonstrated success in externally funded research, high impact publications, and teaching. Depending on qualifications, the candidate will be hired at the rank of either Associate or Full Professor and will be suitable for tenure at the time of hiring.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/35010>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vita, statement of research interests, statement of vision for CCPS, and contact information for three references. Electronic submissions are preferred.

The Center for Congressional Presidential Studies has organized over 300 conferences and academic forums since its founding. The research focus of the Center has been on Congress and the presidency, U.S. elections and issues and policies facing the two institutions. The Center staff consists of full time and part-time affiliated faculty, graduate students, and an administrative staff member. See website: american.edu/spa/ccps for details on all Center videos, programs and publications. The Center publishes the refereed journal, Congress and the Presidency, since 1984. The Center has successfully solicited funding for its research, educational activities, and student scholarships since its founding and has sponsored over thirty visiting research fellows

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of many centers of government, business, research, and arts located in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu. American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 5/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1475

Iowa State University

Rank: Lecturer

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Iowa State University invites applications for a Full or Part-Time Lecturer position to teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses within one or more of the political science subfields: Theory and Methods, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, or Public Policy Administration. The appointment duration may be one semester to three years depending on department need and it may be Full-Time or Part-Time.

Required Education and Experience: MA or MPA in Political Science or related discipline, or JD. Evidence of scholarly and teaching activities.

Preferred Education and Experience: ABD or Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline.

Evidence of scholarly and teaching activities

To apply for this position, please click on "Apply to this job" at <http://www.iastatejobs.com:80/postings/18263> and complete the Employment Application. Please be prepared to enter or attach the following:

- 1) Resume/Curriculum Vitae
- 2) Letter of Application/Cover Letter
- 3) Contact Information for Three References
- 4) Statement of Teaching Interests/Experience
- 5) Statement of Teaching Evaluations- Optional- Please attach as "Other Document(s) 1"

If you have questions regarding this application process, please email employment@iastate.edu or call 515-294-4800 or Toll Free: 1-877-477-7485.

All offers of employment, oral and written, are contingent upon the university's verification of credentials and other information required by federal and state law, ISU policies/procedures, and may include the completion of a background check.

The Department of Political Science has 15 tenure track faculty and a vibrant MA program which serves approximately 32 students and an undergraduate major with approximately 260 majors. Please visit the following site for additional information about the Department at <http://www.pols.iastate.edu/>

Iowa State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, age, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, marital status, disability, or protected veteran status, and will not be discriminated against. Inquiries can be directed to the Director of Equal Opportunity, 3350 Beardshear Hall, (515) 294-7612.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 4/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1433

Washington & Lee University

Rank: Professor of American Government

American Government

Associate/Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics at Washington and Lee University invites applications for a tenure-line position in American Government teaching introductory and advanced courses in American political institutions (Congress, presidency, Supreme Court and constitutional law, political parties, etc.). The successful candidate will also direct our Washington Term program—an annual 6-week course in Washington, DC, during the University's spring (April/May) term—which entails teaching a seminar on-site, arranging relevant speakers, and facilitating field experience for students seeking internships focused on Washington politics and policy-making. Rank is open, but significant experience working in Washington and/or with internships is essential. Initial interviews will be conducted at the APSA annual meeting in Philadelphia, with priority consideration given to candidates interviewed there. Review of applications will begin immediately, but to ensure full consideration please submit complete applications before August 1. A completed Ph.D. is required for an interview. To request an interview, email PoliticsSearch@wlu.edu.

Washington and Lee is a highly selective university devoted to the teaching of the liberal arts. We are committed to excellence in teaching and to the research and professional activity that support it. Situated in the Shenandoah Valley, three hours southwest of Washington, DC, the university enrolls approximately 1,800 undergraduates and 315 law students. All application materials must be submitted electronically to PoliticsSearch@wlu.edu addressed to Lucas Morel, Politics Department Head. Your letter of application should describe why you wish to teach in a liberal arts setting and how your experience equips you to direct a Washington, DC program. Include a curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation that speak to teaching and research abilities.

Women and minority candidates are especially encouraged to apply. The term of appointment begins July 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/14/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1405

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Director of African American Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Specializations: African American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

DIRECTOR, AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES PROGRAM

The University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) seeks a dynamic scholar and leader for the position of Director of African American Studies. Founded more than twenty years ago, African American Studies at UTEP offers a rich mix of programming linking students, faculty, staff and members of the community in the El Paso border region and beyond. This context provides exciting opportunities to explore the intersections of African American and Latina/o experiences and draw on UTEP's important civil rights history.

The Director of African American Studies is a member of the UTEP College of Liberal Arts Chairs' Council and has responsibility for leadership of the academic program and research activities associated with African American Studies. The Director generally teaches one course each semester and could also participate in UTEP PhD programs related to their scholarly and research interests. With staff assistance, the Director serves as an advisor for the UTEP Black Student Union and a mentor for many students enrolled in programs throughout the University. The Director works with the UTEP Black Alumni Network (UBAN) and with community partners to build support for African American Studies and address relevant social issues at UTEP and in the El Paso community. The Director and staff, working in collaboration with UTEP students, affiliated faculty, campus organizations and other University and community officials, sponsor a variety of events and activities throughout the year, including Black History Month programs, and initiate new avenues of engagement and outreach.

Required Qualifications: Candidates should have a Ph.D. in African American Studies or a related academic disciplinary area, and possess a strong record of scholarship commensurate with an appointment as Professor or Associate Professor with Tenure in an appropriate UTEP academic department or program. Demonstrable experience in serving in an administrative role, engaging in community outreach, and initiating and expanding a new program is highly desirable.

About UTEP and El Paso: Located in one of the largest binational communities in the world, The University of Texas at El Paso is unique among research institutions. UTEP enrolls more than 23,000 students, close to 80% of whom are Latina/o and a majority of whom are the first in their families to attend a university. Ranked overall among the Top 10 universities in the nation by Washington Monthly and #1 for contributing to student social mobility, UTEP is dedicated to becoming the first national research university with a 21st century student demographic. The African American Studies program is housed in the College of Liberal Arts, which is the largest college at the University. In addition to playing a major role in the delivery of the University Core Curriculum to all UTEP students, the College of Liberal Arts serves approximately 7,000 students with majors in 13 departments and 10 programs, including Women's and Gender Studies, Religious Studies, Chicano Studies, Asian Studies and African American Studies.

Application procedures: To apply, applicants must submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita, a recent publication related to the field, and names of three references with their complete contact information. Review of applications will begin April 11, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Application materials, in one PDF file, should be emailed to: Dr. Maryse Jayasuriya, Search Committee Chair, at mjayasuriya@utep.edu

The University of Texas at El Paso is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation or gender identity in employment or the provision of services.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1377

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Kinder Postdoctoral Fellowship in Political Science

The Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy at the University of Missouri invites applications for the Kinder Postdoctoral Fellowship in Political Science for the 2016-2017 academic year, with the possibility of renewal for AY 2017-2018. The Kinder Institute is an interdisciplinary academic center dedicated to revitalizing teaching and scholarship on American political thought and history, broadly understood to include the origins and development of the nation's constitutional and democratic traditions as well as their application and reinterpretation in later periods and around the world. Our mission and activities are detailed on our website, <http://democracy.missouri.edu>.

The Kinder Postdoctoral Fellow will teach two political science courses per year on subjects appropriate to the Institute's mission as well as conduct research, and will be expected to be in residence at the University of Missouri during the academic year, contributing to the life of the Political Science Department and participating in Kinder Institute discussions and events. We are particularly interested in applicants whose research focuses on American constitutional and political development and/or American political thought and who would benefit from collaborating with one or more current MU faculty members. Candidates are encouraged to consult the websites of the Department of Political Science (<http://politicalscience.missouri.edu>) and Kinder Institute for information on current faculty research interests and to contact potential faculty collaborators directly. The Kinder Postdoctoral Fellow will receive a salary of $50,000 plus full benefits and will be provided with office space and staff support. Additional funds for travel and research are available from the Kinder Institute and the university. A Ph.D. in Political Science or Government is required by the time the fellowship begins in August 2016.

Applicants should send a letter of interest, research proposal of no more than 10 pages, curriculum vitae, two emblematic examples of their written scholarly work, sample syllabi for courses they would be interested in teaching, and three letters of recommendation (sealed or under separate cover) to: Thomas Kane, Kinder Institute Communications Associate, University of Missouri, 112 Read Hall, Columbia, MO 65211-7500. Materials also can be sent electronically, using Kinder Postdoctoral Fellowship Application in the subject line, to KaneTC@missouri.edu. Specific questions concerning the fellowship should be directed to Justin Dyer, Professor of Political Science and Director of the Kinder Institute, at DyerJB@missouri.edu.

The University of Missouri is an EO/AA employer. Women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. To request ADA accommodations, please contact our ADA Coordinator. Review of applications will begin on March 1, 2016, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 2/26/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1311

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Part-Time Instructor(s)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Middle Georgia State University has part-time employment opportunities for instructors for face-to-face classes on all campuses (Macon, Warner Robins, Cochran, Dublin, and Eastman) for day, evening, and weekend classes to start Fall 2016 or later in the fields of history and political science. We have particular needs for instructors who are interested in teaching one or more of the following courses:

POLS 1101 American Government

POLS 2501 Domestic Issues

POLS 2601 Intro to Public Administration

The Macon campus is located just over one hour's drive southeast of Atlanta.

Minimum Qualifications: To qualify for a teaching position, candidates are required to have a minimum of a master's degree in political science or a master's in another field with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the discipline.

To Apply: Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest with a current CV or resume, unofficial transcripts from both undergraduate and graduate courses, a list of at least two professional references including email and phone contact information, and statement of teaching philosophy, preferably combined as an attachment in a single PDF file, to Dr. Christopher N. Lawrence, assistant department chair, at christopher.lawrence@mga.edu. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis. Informal inquiries welcome.

Middle Georgia State University is a Unit of the University System of Georgia, EEO/AA/M/F/V/D.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/5/2016

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 1170

University of San Diego

Rank: Professor of Practice, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a non-tenure track Professor of Practice in public administration and public policy. Candidates must have a Master's degree or PhD in political science, public administration, public policy, or a closely related field, teaching experience at the community college or university level, practical experience in local or state government, and the capacity to integrate theory with practice.

The successful candidate must be qualified to teach courses in American politics, urban politics, public policy, and/or state and local government. The teaching load is seven courses per academic year, which includes one internship class each semester. In addition, the candidate will supervise our continuously offered Washington, D.C. internship program and run a 1-unit weekend Sacramento seminar each spring semester.

As a Professor of Practice, the successful candidate must have extensive local, state, and/or national political, legal, and business connections, and will supervise the department's dynamic internship program, including the department's Washington DC internship and seminar program. Responsibilities will include developing new internship opportunities, to further enhance our students' professional development.

USD offers a competitive salary and benefits.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a CV, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of reference at their earliest convenience. The position will remain open until filled.

To apply, go to www.sandiego.edu/jobs and look for job IRC18893. Applicants must email all relevant materials— except for confidential letters of recommendation— to dickson@sandiego.edu and upload the same materials to the USD Human Resources site. References must submit confidential letters of recommendation separately to: dickson@sandiego.edu.

Please address all correspondence to Dr. Del Dickson, Chair, Search Committee for Professor of Practice, Department of Political Science and International Relations, 5998 Alcalá Park, San Diego, CA 92110

USD is a private, independent Catholic liberal arts institution dedicated to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service. USD is an Equal Opportunity employer, and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Candidates from underrepresented and underserved groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2015

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1028

University of Southern Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The University of Southern Mississippi's Department of Political Science, International Development and International Affairs in Hattiesburg, Miss., is accepting applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of American politics (political institutions). Additional strength in public policy/public administration is also desirable. The successful candidate will be able to teach Introduction to American Government and assist with the department's research methods sequences. Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. Candidates are expected to provide evidence of potential for excellence in teaching, research and service. The department serves both the Hattiesburg and Gulf Park campuses and includes a strong undergraduate program, MA and MS in political science and a Ph.D. in international development. The successful candidate will develop and teach undergraduate and graduate courses, and contribute broadly to our master's programs as well as conduct scholarly research and provide service to the department, college, university, profession and/or community.

Review of applications will begin November 15, 2015, and continue until the position is filled. A full application will include a letter of interest, curriculum vita, teaching evaluations (if available), graduate transcripts, a writing sample and at least three letters of reference. To apply, please see <http://jobs.usm.edu>

The position is contingent on funding.

The department is committed to improving its diversity in terms of race, ethnicity and gender. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer/Americans with Disabilities Act institution, The University of Southern Mississippi encourages minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities to apply.

For more information, please see the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Political Science, International Development and International Affairs website at <http://usm.edu/polisci>

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2015

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 949

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor of National Security

Subfield(s): International Relations, Non-Academic, American Government and Politics

Specializations: International Security, Intelligence, Defense

The Political Science Department invites applicants for the position of Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) of National Security to begin as early as Fall 2016. Past incumbents have been recognized national security experts who have added perspective and depth to their students' academic experience. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to undergraduate teaching and an ability to lead upper level political science courses related to topics such as: environmental security, regional security, terrorism, cybersecurity, executive privilege, arms proliferation and arms control. Assisting midshipmen with research, offering seminars and lectures and, inviting guest speakers are among the position's objectives.

The DVP position is for two years commencing in August 2016. It is non-tenure track and non-renewable. The position is administered by the Office of the Academic Dean which provides the DVP with an office and administrative support.

Applications submitted by November 1, 2015 will receive full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled.

For more information about the position and to apply, please go to www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/DVPNationalSec.php

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2015

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 776

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Berea College

Rank: Tenure-Track position in Political Science

Specializations: Developing Nations, Foreign Policy, International Political Economy

Berea College announces a full-time, tenure-track position in Political Science beginning August 2017. Responsibilities include teaching introductory Political Science courses, advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, and courses in an interdisciplinary General Education program. We seek an individual who is an excellent instructor and scholar to join a faculty of scholar-teachers. Candidates should have a Ph.D. or expect to complete the Ph.D. by August 2017. Commitment to the mission of Berea College and to superior teaching at the undergraduate level is essential. It is desirable that the candidate contribute to one or more of the following programs: African and African American Studies, Asian Studies, Economics, History, Peace & Social Justice Studies, Women's & Gender Studies, and Sustainability and Environmental Studies.

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae (CV), statement of teaching philosophy, transcripts, and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent to: pscsearch2016@bera.edu. Applicants should also complete and send the Faculty Application available at www.bera.edu/FacApp along with other materials. Review of materials will begin November 4, 2016, and continue until the position is filled.

Berea College achieved national distinction as the first coeducational and interracial college in the South. With an emphasis on service to the people of Appalachia and beyond, Berea enrolls 1,600 students from 40 states and 60 countries. The College has a longstanding commitment to interracial education; here, people of different races seek to learn from and about each other, while also living together. Berea is among the most racially diverse private liberal arts colleges in the United States. The College admits only students whose families are unable to afford the high cost of tuition and awards each of them a four-year tuition scholarship. Berea's students excel in the College's supportive but demanding academic environment, and many are the first in their families to graduate from college. The College is one of seven federally recognized Work Colleges, and all students hold a position in which they work 10-12 hours per week. Washington Monthly Magazine has consistently ranked Berea in the top 3 of Liberal Arts Colleges for its success in educating and graduating academically talented, low-income students who become service-oriented leaders in their professions and communities; in 2016-2017, the magazine ranked it number 1.

Located where the Bluegrass Region meets the Cumberland Mountains, the town of Berea (pop. 14,000) lies forty miles south of Lexington and is approximately two hours from Cincinnati, Louisville, and Knoxville. More information about Berea College is available at www.bera.edu.

Berea College, in light of its mission in the tradition of impartial love and social equality, welcomes all people of the earth to learn and work here.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2147

California State University, Sacramento

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor -- Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Movements, Gender Politics & Policy, Immigration Policy

The Government Department at California State University, Sacramento seeks candidates who are broadly trained in the field of comparative politics to fill a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in Fall 2017. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field. ABD candidates will be considered; if ABD, candidates will be required to complete the doctoral degree by January 2018. Candidates must be able to teach a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics, including introduction to comparative politics (GOVT 35 and 140) and courses specializing in identity politics, including but not restricted to ethnicity, nationalism, social movements, gender, migration, or religion. Candidates are required to demonstrate potential for scholarly achievement and to have strong substantive and methodological training, though the position is open with regard to methodological approach. Candidates must have a demonstrated commitment to working with a diverse student body. Furthermore, experience in promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of a diverse student body is preferred.

Review of applications will begin October 31, 2016 and the position will remain open until filled. An applicant can find the full vacancy announcement at, and must apply through, the Sacramento State jobs website at <http://www.csus.edu/about/employment>.

Applicants must submit the following: (1) cover letter addressing qualifications; (2) current curriculum vita/resume; (3) names and contact information of 3 references who will speak to the professional qualifications of the applicant; (4) Unofficial transcripts of all graduate work (official transcripts required if invited for an interview); (5) writing sample; (6) teaching evaluations and syllabi (if available); (7) Statement of teaching philosophy including discussion of commitment to and experience with a diverse student body. In addition, applicants should have three letters of recommendation emailed directly by the writer to govt-cp-hire@csus.edu. Inquiries can also be made to govt-cp-hire@csus.edu.

AA/EO Employer. Clery Act statistics available. Mandated reporter requirements. Background check (including criminal record check) required.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2144

Capital University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Comparative Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Capital University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor, beginning Fall 2017, in comparative politics with a focus in Latin America. The ideal candidate will also be able to participate and teach in our program in international studies and would be able to teach a General Education course entitled "Global Awareness." Candidates must have an earned Ph.D. in political science or a dissertation that is successfully defended by March 1, 2017. Candidates must show evidence of excellence in teaching at the university level, a clear research agenda, and a strong commitment to education in the liberal arts. Normal teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester.

Founded in 1830 and chartered in 1850, Capital University is a comprehensive, independent university grounded in the Lutheran tradition with 60 undergraduate majors and five graduate programs (Education, Nursing, MBA, Music Education, and Law). Capital serves approximately 2,700 undergraduates on a beautiful campus in the community of Bexley, five miles east of downtown Columbus, Ohio, and approximately 750 graduate and professional students. Capital University's Law School is located just minutes from the main campus and close to city center.

Capital University offers a rich benefits package that includes medical, dental, retirement, family education benefits, long-term disability, life insurance and free parking.

Application Process: Interested candidates should send (1) a curriculum vitae, (2) unofficial copies of graduate transcripts, (3) examples of recent scholarship, (4) examples of teaching effectiveness, (5) three letters of recommendation, (6) names and addresses of three references, and (7) a letter of interest outlining the applicant's educational philosophy and commitment to liberal arts education. Candidates who do not yet possess a Ph.D. should indicate the anticipated date of dissertation defense in the cover letter and provide a statement from their advisor about their projected completion date.

Review of applications will begin December 1, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled.

Please send materials electronically (PDFs preferred) to: politicalscience@capital.edu.

For more information on Capital University, visit our website at www.capital.edu/employment.

Capital University is an equal opportunity employer. Qualified minorities, women, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2135

Temple University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track position in comparative politics. The position is open with respect to methodology and substantive topics of research, but we are especially interested in candidates whose research centers on areas other than the Middle East, Latin America, and Asia.

Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as evidence of external grant/fellowship support. Temple University, an urban research university in the heart of Philadelphia, values those who are able to work with diverse students and colleagues. Candidates are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to: Prof. Hillel Soifer, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Temple University, 408 Gladfelter Hall (025-22), 1115 Polett Walk, Philadelphia PA 19122-6089. We prefer electronic applications; please submit these to the Department Coordinator, Latasha Goodman lgoodman@temple.edu. Dossiers should arrive by October 15, 2016, but review will continue until the position is filled. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women and persons of color.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2123

Hollins University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Advanced Industrial Societies, China, Environmental Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor of Global Politics and Societies
HOLLINS UNIVERSITY

The Global Politics and Societies (GPS) Department at Hollins University in Roanoke, Virginia invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor. This is a full-time position with a three-year appointment beginning July 1, 2017.

The new GPS department includes four separate major programs of study in sociology, religious studies, political science, and international studies and one minor program of study in social justice. Each of the programs uses an interdisciplinary approach with some shared courses and collaborative teaching based on the common research and teaching interests of faculty members.

The ideal candidate will be a broadly trained political scientist or sociologist with global research and teaching interests. Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in comparative politics and international studies, as well as upper-level electives in sociology and international studies. The faculty member will also be expected to contribute to shared courses in other GPS programs of study. Preference will be given to candidates who can also contribute to one or more of the following programs: environmental studies, gender and women's studies, religious studies, and/or urban studies. The position carries a teaching load of three courses per semester. Other duties include advising students, conducting independent studies, supervising students doing senior research projects, participating in department and university service, and ongoing scholarly activity in the form of publications and presentations.

Candidates must meet the following minimum requirements: Ph.D. in political science, sociology, or related GPS discipline completed by June 30, 2017; evidence of scholarly promise; and an excellent record of teaching at the undergraduate level. Applicants must also demonstrate a clear understanding of and commitment to teaching in a single-sex, liberal arts institution. Applications are sought from those who have demonstrated success working with diverse populations and share Hollins' commitment to preparing students for leadership opportunities in a broadly diverse, global society. Final candidates will be subject to a criminal history background check.

Qualified candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, separate statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of effective teaching, three letters of recommendation, and graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts are acceptable) to GPS@hollins.edu. Applications must be received by Dec. 1, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Hollins is an independent, liberal arts university offering undergraduate education for women, selected graduate programs for men and women, and community outreach initiatives. Founded in 1842 as Virginia's oldest chartered women's college, Hollins is best known for its creative writing program, one of the oldest study-abroad programs in the country, and extensive internship opportunities. The campus is surrounded by the Blue Ridge Mountains, and has the amenities of a mid-sized city in the immediate vicinity.

Hollins University is an equal opportunity employer. Hollins values diversity in its community, and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented populations.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2118

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for senior faculty positions in the study of armed conflict. The search is open with respect to field and rank. Candidates should submit a CV and any accompanying documents such as sample publications online at: <http://tinyurl.com/h6pz5gk>. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2017.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-5671 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2111

University of North Texas

Rank: Assistant Professor--Comparative Politics/International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of North Texas invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2017 in the broadly defined field of contentious politics in comparative politics and/or international relations. We are interested in prospective candidates who conduct research in such areas as civil society, social movements, ethnic politics, and non-state opposition groups (e.g., terrorist organizations, rebel organizations, extremist parties).

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) A Ph.D. in Political Science (highly qualified ABD candidates will also be considered) and (2) evidence that demonstrates a potential for excellence in research, teaching, and service will be required of the selected candidate. Preference will be given to candidates with strong methods skills and who are likely to publish in top-tier journals, seek external funding, and who show a willingness to work with other faculty and graduate students.

The faculty member will teach core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continue a record of robust scholarly research, direct graduate research, and provide service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 26 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly and Journal of Political Science Education. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the UNT Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site can be found at: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With nearly 38,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) a writing sample, (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., peer reviews, evaluations), (6) a copy of transcripts, and (7) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquires to David Mason, search committee chair (David.Mason@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 21, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date. UNT is an AA/ADA/EOE.

The University of North Texas System is firmly committed to equal opportunity and does not permit - and takes actions to prevent - discrimination, harassment (including sexual violence), and retaliation on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, disability, family status, genetic information, citizenship or veteran status in its application and admission processes, educational programs and activities, facilities, and employment practices. The University of North Texas System immediately investigates and takes remedial action when appropriate. The University of North Texas System also takes actions to prevent retaliation against individuals who oppose a discriminatory practice, file a charge, or testify, assist or participate in an investigative proceeding or hearing.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2115

Rhodes College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics/ International Relations

Rhodes College – Visiting Assistant Professor – Comparative Politics / International Relations

The Department of International Studies at Rhodes College invites applications for a visiting Assistant Professor to start Fall 2017. A Ph.D. in hand by Fall 2017 is required. The appointee is expected to teach introductory and advanced courses in either Comparative Politics or International Relations as well as an upper level course on international conflict. The ability to teach research methods in international studies would be a plus. The position has a 3-3 teaching load and offers the possibility for renewal up to a third year after the successful completion of the first year.

The department seeks candidates with a strong commitment to teaching and research. Successful candidates will also be those who can contribute to an interdisciplinary atmosphere. Application materials must include: a letter of application, CV, names and contact information of 3 references, writing/publication sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please address in your cover letter your interest in teaching at a liberal arts college and how your experiences with teaching, scholarship, and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values. Apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu. For additional information please contact Ms. Kim Stevenson, Departmental Assistant, Department of International Studies, StevensonK@rhodes.edu. Review of completed applications will begin on November 14 and continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2099

Seoul National University

Rank: Open and Multiple Ranks

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Seoul National University is searching for a tenure track position in either International Relations or Comparative Politics/Area Studies. The position is for foreign nationals (non-Korean citizens) and open to all ranks. We are particularly interested in a candidate specialized in Europe or Middle East with excellent research capacity and strong commitment to teaching. Candidates with other interests are also welcomed to apply.

The expected starting date is Spring 2017 or Fall 2017. Upon employment, the individual will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in English. Teaching load is one class per semester for the first year, and regular teaching load is two per semester thereafter. Housing subsidy will be available.

Please find the notice no. 373 from the website(<https://professor.snu.ac.kr/adm/public/hurt/rcrt/frame/oio/NoticeMatr.jsp#>) and be sure to send all the required documents via e-mail and to the following address by post.

- e-mail
 fs96@snu.ac.kr

- post address
 Office of Academic Affairs (Bldg. 16, Room 314)
 College of Social Sciences, Seoul National University
 1 Gwanak-ro, Gwanak-gu, Seoul 08826 Republic of Korea

The application due date is Oct 21, 2016.

Start Date: Spring 2017
Application Deadline: 10/21/2016
Date Posted: 9/22/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2102

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Inequality, Power and Social Justice

The University of California, Merced is recruiting between one and four Assistant, Associate, or Full Professors as part of a cluster hire in the area of Inequality, Power, and Social Justice focused on issues related to 1) Identity, Experience, and Representation and 2) Structural and Institutional Inequality. We seek Political Scientists who study political institutions and/or political behavior, with a substantive focus in American Politics, Comparative Politics, or International Relations. Full details are available at: <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00389>

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2096

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Tenure Track Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Tenure-track, assistant or associate professor position, open to all subfields.

The Department of Political Science at Tel Aviv University invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant or associate professor position. The position is open to all subfields, with a preference for comparative politics and international relations scholars. The term of appointment would begin October 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than two pages).

The committee will begin reading applications on October 15, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should send their applications to Shain@taux.tau.ac.il and azargat@post.tau.ac.il.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/20/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1928

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Politics and Environment

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

McGill University
 Assistant Professor, Politics and Environment
 Department of Political Science and McGill School of Environment

The McGill School of Environment (MSE) and the Department of Political Science invite applications for a joint tenure-track position in Politics and Environment. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank may be possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

The Department and School welcome applications from qualified candidates working within any subfield in Environmental Politics. The search is open in terms of methodological specialization, although candidates are expected to be able to demonstrate expertise in either quantitative or qualitative methods, or both. While all applications will be given full consideration, we are particularly interested in scholars whose work incorporates some of the following elements: is transnational in scope or has the potential to move in this direction, addresses the consequences of environmental change for public policy at various institutional levels, examines the relationships between environmental change and other phenomena such as international migration or conflict. The School of Environment is highly interdisciplinary; the successful candidate will have demonstrated an excellent capacity to work in an interdisciplinary context and to develop interdisciplinary collaborations.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students.

Applications should include a letter of motivation, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, samples of written work (up to three reprints), a teaching statement (including material pertinent to teaching skills), and a research statement. The position start date is August 1, 2017.

For more information about the Department, the School, and University, visit our web sites at: mcgill.ca/politicalscience/ and mcgill.ca/mse. The Department and School maintain close relationships with other units at McGill with interests in the environment such as the School of Public Policy, which is expected to take in its first cohort of students in 2018, the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), mcgill.ca/isid, and the Institute for Health and Social Policy mcgill.ca/ihsp.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Hudson Meadwell, hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca, or to Professor Sylvie de Blois, Director, McGill School of the Environment sylvie.deblois@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 28, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7944>

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill

Poste de professeure, professeur, Politique et Environnement
Département de science politique et École d'environnement

L'École d'environnement de McGill et le Département de science politique sollicitent des candidatures pour un poste de professeure ou professeur à temps plein en politique et environnement. Nous recherchons une candidate, un candidat au rang d'adjoint bien qu'un poste à un rang supérieur puisse être considéré dans des circonstances exceptionnelles. Le doctorat devra avoir été complété ou sur le point de l'être.

Nous recherchons des personnes hautement qualifiées dont l'expertise s'inscrit dans tout sous-domaine pertinent à la politique environnementale. Nous sommes ouverts à toute approche méthodologique en autant qu'elle s'appuie sur de solides compétences quantitatives ou qualitatives, ou les deux. Toutes les candidatures seront considérées, mais nous sommes particulièrement intéressés par des profils de recherche comportant certains des éléments suivants : portée transnationale ou le potentiel d'évoluer dans cette direction, s'adressent aux conséquences des changements environnementaux sur les politiques publiques à divers niveaux institutionnels, examinent les relations entre les changements environnementaux et d'autres phénomènes tels les migrations internationales ou les conflits. L'École d'environnement est axée sur l'interdisciplinarité; la personne retenue aura démontré une excellente capacité à travailler dans un contexte interdisciplinaire et à développer des collaborations interdisciplinaires.

Le dossier de candidature devra faire la preuve d'un excellent potentiel en recherche et en enseignement aux trois cycles, ainsi que d'une

capacité à superviser la recherche aux cycles supérieurs. Il devra inclure une lettre de motivation, un curriculum vitae, les relevés officiels d'études supérieures, trois lettres de recommandation, un exemplaire de trois publications ou des travaux de recherche récents, un exposé sur la philosophie d'enseignement (incluant tout matériel démontrant les aptitudes à l'enseignement) et un exposé sur le programme de recherche proposé. Le poste sera effectif le 1er août 2017.

Les personnes intéressées trouveront plus d'informations sur le Département, sur l'École et sur l'Université en consultant les sites Web mcgill.ca/politicalscience et mcgill.ca/mse. Le Département de science politique et l'École d'environnement maintiennent des liens étroits avec d'autres unités intéressées à l'environnement à McGill tels : the School of Public Policy, qui recevra sa première cohorte d'étudiants en 2018, the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), mcgill.ca/isid; et the Institute for Health and Social Policy, mcgill.ca/ihsp

Toutes questions au sujet de ce poste peuvent être envoyées au Professeur Hudson Meadwell hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca, directeur du Département de science politique, ou à la professeure Sylvie de Blois, directrice de l'École d'environnement de McGill sylvie.deblois@mcgill.ca.

La révision des dossiers de candidature débutera le 28 octobre 2016 et continuera jusqu'à ce le poste soit comblé.

SVP SOUMETTRE VOTRE CANDIDATURE EN LIGNE:
<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7944>

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. "On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents."

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/28/2016

Date Posted: 9/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2068

Australian National University

Rank: Lecturer- Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Job no: 511175

Work type: Continuing (Contingent Funded)

Location: Canberra / ACT

Categories: Academic

Classification: Academic Level B

Salary package: $94,287 - $107,381 per annum plus 17% superannuation

Work with Australia's highest leading University-affiliated think tank, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre

Work with the award winning Military and Defence Studies program, at the Australian Command and Staff College
Standard teaching load of two courses per year (or equivalent)

Position overview

The ANU College of Asia and the Pacific (CAP) leads intellectual engagement with the Asia-Pacific region through research, teaching and contributions to public debate, and seeks to set the international standard for scholarship concerning the region.

Based at the College of Asia and the Pacific and within the highly regarded Coral Bell School of Asia Pacific Affairs, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre (SDSC) is Australia's highest ranked and largest concentration of scholars working on strategic and defence issues.

The Lecturers in Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations will deliver a major contribution to the SDSC's educational programs, particularly its Military and Defence Studies program. This graduate program is delivered by SDSC to mid-level military officers attending the Australian Command and Staff College (ACSC), where the Lecturers will primarily be based.

We are looking to appoint outstanding scholars with particular research and teaching expertise in the following areas:

Strategic Studies
Strategic Theory
Strategic Concepts
Nuclear strategy
Contemporary Military operations
Theory and practice of air operations
Theory and practice of maritime operations

As part of our ongoing efforts to rectify historical gender imbalances in the field of Strategic Studies, we are particularly keen to encourage highly-qualified female applicants.

For information about this position please contact Associate Professor Brendan Taylor on 02 61259928 or by email brendan.taylor@anu.edu.au

<http://bellschool.anu.edu.au>

The University actively encourages applications from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. For more information on employment opportunities, contact our Indigenous Employment Consultant on indigenous.employment@anu.edu.au

ANU values diversity and inclusion and believes employment opportunities must not be limited by socio-economic background, race, religion or gender. For more information about staff equity at ANU, visit <https://services.anu.edu.au/human-resources/respect-inclusion>

Application information

In order to apply for this role please make sure that you upload the following documents:

A statement addressing the selection criteria.
A current curriculum vitae (CV) which includes the names and contact details of at least three referees (preferably including a current or previous supervisor). If your CV does not include referees you can complete these online when prompted in the application form.

Other documents, if required.

Applications which do not address the selection criteria may not be considered for the position.

To apply: <http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/511175/lecturer-strategic-studies-andor-contemporary-military-operations>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2016

Salary: $100,000 - $109,999

eJobs ID: 2067

Arizona State University

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty Positions

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University invites applications for up to two tenure-eligible faculty positions with a focus in Political Economy. At least one of the positions will be at the Assistant Professor level and the remaining position will be open rank. Applicants interested in assistant, associate or full professor ranks are encouraged to apply. Rank and tenure status will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. Anticipated start date is August 2017.

We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development). The position is also open with respect to methodology, though methodological sophistication, such as advanced statistical, experimental, or formal modeling skills, or the sophisticated use of mixed methods is expected. Grant activity for more senior appointments is also desired.

The School of Politics and Global Studies grants a Ph.D., M.A., B.S. and B.A. in Political Science and a B.A. in Global Studies. The School offers a M.A. in Global Affairs and Management in conjunction with the Thunderbird School of Global Management. The School is also developing an undergraduate degree in Political Economy with the Economics department at ASU. The successful candidates will contribute scholarship, teaching and service to advance these programs and the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies. The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University, including the Center for the Study of Economic Liberty and the Department of Economics within the W.P. Carey School of Business.

Required qualifications:

- a Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment
- Commensurate with desired rank:
 - o Demonstrated excellence in research,
 - o An established or developing research agenda in the area of Political Economy
 - o A clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals in the candidate's discipline
 - o Methodological sophistication
 - o Demonstrated excellence in teaching.

Desired qualifications:

- Research interests in line with the Center for the Study of Economic Liberty
- Commensurate with desired rank:
 - o A strong record of graduate student mentoring
 - o Evidence of or potential to establish external grant activity
- Demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities

Initial deadline for review of complete applications is October 24, 2016; if not filled, review of complete application will continue every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, please submit via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7850>, the following application materials: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample; and contact information (including email) for three references. We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search. A background check is required for employment.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

<https://www.asu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html>

<https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/24/2016

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2063

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Term Teaching Faculty

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Africa

Instructor (Non-Tenure, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a non-tenure track term teaching faculty position at the Instructor rank to begin August 2017. The position will support the Department's teaching and research mission in the areas of non-profit and civil society studies, public policy, nongovernmental organizations, and/or development.

Teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department. Specifically, this position will be charged with teaching courses in Non-Profit and Civil Society Studies, Public Policy, and Nongovernmental Organizations.

Required qualifications include a PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or a closely related field in hand by August 2017. The faculty member should have an established record of excellence in teaching. A regional concentration is also preferred to support the Department's Comparative Politics undergraduate concentration. The faculty member will have demonstrated experience working and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit a CV, cover letter, names of three references and evidence of excellence in teaching with your online application. Questions should be directed to Dr. John Aughenbaugh at jmaughenbaug@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2016. Start date will be August 16, 2017.

Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 2055

Brown University

Rank: Racial Inequality Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Specializations: United States, African American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

RACIAL INEQUALITY POSTDOCTORAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATE

DESCRIPTION: Brown University invites applications for a two-year Postdoctoral Research Associate in Racial Inequality to be jointly shared by the Watson Institute for International & Public Affairs and the Center for the Study of Race & Ethnicity in America. We seek a scholar with interests in racial inequality/structural racism in the post 1970s U.S. in areas such as: urban poverty, social and cultural theories of racism, gender, segregation, housing or welfare.

The successful candidate will teach one course per year in a Watson Institute related program, collaborate on the vision, design and implementation of CSREA programming related to his/her research areas each year on a key topic in contemporary racial inequality studies, and be expected to actively participate in the intellectual life of CSREA (including regular participation in the CSREA research seminar), the Watson Institute and the University as a whole.

QUALIFICATIONS: Scholars with a Ph.D. in Sociology, American Studies, Political Science, History, Social Theory, African-American Studies or a related discipline in the Humanities or Social Sciences will be considered. Dissertation must be signed by August 1, 2017.

INSTRUCTIONS: Candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, writing sample (15-20 pp), a personal statement (1 page) and the names and addresses of three referees through the Interfolio posting: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36251>

The application deadline is November 15th, 2016. Review of applications will begin November 17th, 2016, and final notifications are expected to go out by March, 2017. This two-year Postdoctoral Research Associate appointment will be effective August 1, 2017, and is not renewable.

EEO STATEMENT: Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

For more information, please visit:

<https://www.brown.edu/race> | <http://watson.brown.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2050

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to six visitors for the 2017-2018 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. NCGG will award one-year research positions to eligible, talented postdoctoral or more senior scholars. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Preference will be given to recent recipients of a doctoral degree. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2017 - July 1, 2018).

Application Deadline – December 9, 2016, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials and apply online at: <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition no. 1600791.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 9, 2016. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions will also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2016 - July 1, 2017).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2017.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at pтрinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2037

University of Massachusetts, Boston

Rank: Assistant Professor Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Massachusetts Boston invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative politics to be filled at the rank of Assistant Professor. The department seeks a specialist in Chinese politics, but additional expertise in the politics of one or more other countries in East Asia, South Asia or Southeast Asia (including the Indian subcontinent) would also be desirable. UMass Boston has vibrant programs in Asian Studies and Asian-American Studies, which may provide additional collaborative opportunities to the successful applicant. A typical teaching load is two courses per semester, and candidates are expected to be productive scholars with active research agendas and pedagogical commitments, as well as being active in seeking outside funding support for their research.

All candidates must hold a PhD in a relevant field or should have a reasonable expectation of earning it by no later than August 2017.

Review of applications will begin November 15, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Please include with your application a curriculum vitae, relevant transcripts, a statement of research and teaching interests, a writing sample, and contact information for three letters of recommendation. Please submit application materials online: <http://umb.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=76218>

The University of Massachusetts Boston provides equal employment opportunities to all employees and applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, gender, gender identity or expression, age, sexual orientation, national origin, ancestry, disability, military status, or genetic information. In addition to federal law requirements, the University of Massachusetts Boston complies with applicable state and local laws governing nondiscrimination in employment in every location in which the University operates. This policy applies to all terms and conditions of employment.

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/15/2016Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 2049Virginia Commonwealth University*Rank: Assistant Professor- Human SecuritySubfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative PoliticsSpecializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, Environmental PolicyPOSITION SUMMARY AND QUALIFICATIONS

This position is a junior-level tenure eligible faculty position in the area of human security to support undergraduate programs in Political Science. The faculty member will have demonstrated experience working and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

POSITION RESPONSIBILITIESRESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's commitment to developing a program in human security. We are looking for researchers who study issues related to organized crime, state violence, refugees/migration, environmental politics, climate change, natural disasters, chronic poverty, and transnational social movements. This can include scholars who focus on domestic linkages to human security issues.

TEACHING

This position in human security contributes to the political science department's curriculum through teaching undergraduate courses such as: human security, human rights, environmental politics, public policy, women in global politics, issues in world politics, and politics of race, class and gender, and future courses related to the above list of human security topics. Strong preference will be given to candidates who will teach our capstone senior seminar and/or research methods.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit a CV, cover letter, names of 3 references, and evidence of excellence in teaching with your online

application. Questions should be directed to Dr. Ravi Perry at rkperry@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2016. Start date will be August 16, 2017.

Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 12/15/2016Date Posted: 9/15/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1877Virginia Military Institute*Rank: International Relations and Political Science

The Virginia Military Institute's Department of International Studies and Political Science (IS) announces a tenure-track position (Assistant Professor) in international relations or comparative politics; specialization is open to all sub-fields. Ideally, applicants will propose course offerings that complement the department's established curriculum, specifically in terms of regional expertise (the Middle East or Latin America) and research/teaching specializations, such as humanitarianism, IPE, and civil-military relations.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science is preferred, but ABD applicants expecting to complete their dissertation prior to appointment will be considered. Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is highly valued, but not required.

As a faculty member, the successful candidate will contribute to the academic goals of the Department and the Institute through a balanced workload that includes expectations in teaching, research, professional service, and cadet development. The teaching load will be a 3-3. Consistent research engagement in the successful candidate's field is expected, as well as regular constructive engagement in the function of the Institute and cadet life beyond the traditional classroom experience.

Applicants should submit a cover letter summarizing their interest in the position and qualifications, a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, and a writing sample representative of the applicant's primary research interest online at: <http://virginiajobs.peopleadmin.com/postings/51254>

Separately, applicants should submit three letters of recommendation via e-mail to James.Hentzhezjj@vmi.edu.

To receive full consideration, all application materials should be submitted by October 15, 2016.

VMI is an Equal Opportunity Employer does not discriminate against anyone because of race, color, religion, national origin, political affiliation, sex, age, or disability. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other national service alumni are also encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 10/15/2016Date Posted: 9/14/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 2033

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics of South Asia

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics of South Asia to begin July 1, 2017.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/35940>. Review of applications and nominations will begin September 5, 2016, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2029

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor (CCP)-Tenure Track

James Madison College, Michigan State University seeks candidates for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in Comparative Cultures and Politics (CCP), an interdisciplinary major that draws on social sciences and humanities. Applicants must have substantive expertise in applied international development in India and/or South Asia. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research takes an interdisciplinary approach to issues of poverty, caste, class, religion, gender, and/or community mobilization and speaks to fields such as cultural studies, development studies, gender studies, political economy, and/or sustainability studies.

The successful candidate will teach in the introductory Comparative Cultures and Politics sequence and the upper division curriculum, including an elective course on culture/s, politics and society in South Asia and a senior capstone seminar, and contribute to the College's first year program. Applicants should demonstrate commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching in an interdisciplinary program and to achieving a substantial record of scholarship.

The teaching load is 2-3, 2-2. Ph.D. in a related field is required by time of appointment.

James Madison College (JMC) provides a liberal education in public affairs, combining the ethos of a small liberal arts college with the advantages of a large, diverse university. The faculty's primary mission is excellence in undergraduate teaching, and the college is noted for its rigorous academic standards and attention to the analytical, writing and speaking skills of its students. JMC is home to four majors (CCP, International Relations, Political Theory and Constitutional Democracy, and Social Relations and Policy) and four minors (Muslim Studies; Western European Studies; Political Economy; and Science, Technology, the Environment and Public Policy). In addition, JMC has close working relationships with MSU's area studies centers and its many international teaching and research centers.

Applicants should supply a statement, addressing how their teaching and research interests would contribute to the CCP curriculum specifically and to Madison College's curriculum and mission more broadly. Supporting materials should include a vita, transcript, three confidential letters of recommendation that speak to teaching expertise and scholarly promise, evidence of teaching approach and effectiveness, sample syllabi, and a sample of scholarship (e.g., dissertation chapter, article, conference paper). The position is posted on the MSU Applicant Page (MAP), posting #3975, and applications must be uploaded by the candidate to MSU's online job application site, <http://jobs.msu.edu>. For more information on James Madison College, visit www.jmc.msu.edu. Review of files will begin on October 13th.

MSU is an affirmative-action, equal-opportunity employer. MSU is committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applications and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Winter 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2015

Southern Methodist University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Teaching Fellowship in International Relations

The Tower Center for Political Studies at Southern Methodist University invites applications for a non-tenure track post-doctoral teaching fellowship in international relations. Preference will be given to candidates who are able to teach Introduction to International Relations and/or Introduction to Comparative Politics. The Tower Center is an interdisciplinary center sponsoring programs in public and international affairs and closely affiliated with the Political Science Department at SMU, which has a full-time faculty of sixteen administering undergraduate programs in political science, international studies, and public policy. Classes are small and expectations are high in both teaching and research. The successful candidate may, depending upon expertise, offer courses relevant to interdisciplinary programs in International Studies and Public Policy. Salary, benefits, and research support are competitive. The Tower Center teaching fellow position is a one academic year appointment (2017-2018) and is renewable for one additional year. It carries a 2x2 teaching load.

Southern Methodist University is a comprehensive university of 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students located on a beautiful urban campus just north of downtown Dallas. SMU is an equal opportunity employer. We particularly welcome applications from minority and women scholars. Applicants should email a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, three letters of recommendation to Prof. Joshua Rovner, Director of Studies, at jrovner@smu.edu. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016, but the search will remain open until the position is filled. All letters will be acknowledged. SMU will not discriminate on the basis of ethnicity, national origin, gender, disability, or veteran status. Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/12/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2013

Air War College

Rank: Professor of International Security Studies
Specializations: East Asia, Latin American, Middle East

The Air War College invites candidates to apply for a faculty position in the general national security studies field, with an emphasis on comparative and regional security, including the areas of Latin America, the Middle East, Northeast Asia, Southeast Asia, or possibly other regions (excluding Europe and Africa). The Air War College is also seeking candidates whose scholarly interests are in international political economy, and/or in American national security policy. The potential starting dates are between January and July 2017, or possibly earlier. The Air War College is located at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, AL.

Academic rank is open but the focus is for appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor. This position requires academic teaching experience, graduate-level preferred, and a suitable publication record. The position is an Administratively Determined (AD) civil service position. Responsibilities include teaching graduate level seminars in the International Security Studies core curriculum: 1) National Security and Decision-Making; 2) Regional and Cultural Studies; 3) Global Security as well as electives in area(s) of specialization; advising student research; and service to the institution. The AWC provides a dynamic academic environment for teaching and research. Responsibilities also include curriculum development, participation in war gaming and national security exercises. The academic program offers a master's degree and senior-level professional military education to senior military officers and civilian officials from the United States and to senior officers from more than 40 nations.

This position will be an initial three year appointment with a probationary first year and is renewable. While open positions are advertised in various publications, including the American Political Science Personnel Newsletter, applicants must submit their application through USAJobs.

Applicants can submit their application via the USAJobs online. If candidates prefer to not use the online feature, they can send their resume, or Optional Form 612, along with other required documents to 42 FSS/FSMC, 50 Lemay Plaza South, Building 804, Attn: Air War College faculty position, Maxwell AFB AL 36112-6334.

The OF-612 can be accessed through the Office of personnel Management's web site at www.usajobs.opm.gov. Note: this is an academic position, the selection committee strongly encourages candidates to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references.

For more information, contact Dr. David S. Sorenson Department of International Security Studies, Air War College, 325 Chennault Circle, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112-6427; david.sorenson@us.af.mil, (334) 953-6094. Or contact Dr. Chris Hemmer, Dean, Air War College, 325 Chennault Circle, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112-6427. Phone 334-953-7099, email christopher.hemmer@us.af.mil.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: 10/11/2016
Date Posted: 9/9/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2002

Ohio State University

Rank: Race and Gender in Politics
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Description:

The department of political science seeks candidates for a tenured or tenure-track position in the study of race and/or gender in politics. We welcome applications from scholars studying comparative politics and international relations, however, we are especially interested in applicants who study race and/or gender as they pertain to politics in the United States. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding.

This position is part of a larger initiative at Ohio State to increase faculty diversity and to promote research and teaching on topics central to race, ethnicity, sex, and gender as well as disparities in modern society linked to these categories. The Division of Social and Behavioral Sciences intends to hire at least eight new faculty members under this initiative. The new cluster of faculty will be able to build a network with many committed professors already at home in the College of Arts and Sciences in the Diversity & Identity Studies Collective, the Department of Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies, and the Department of African American and African Studies. Graduate certificates in this area of inquiry and undergraduate bridge programs are also being built to support this initiative.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a PhD in political science or expect to have that degree by Autumn 2017. It is possible the successful candidate could have a PhD degree in a cognate field such as sociology or social psychology but a PhD in political science is preferred. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:

The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries (see <http://liveworkplaycolumbus.com/>). Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions:

Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/7871>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Applications received prior to October 15, 2016 will receive priority consideration. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2000

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Environmental Justice and Community Resilience

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Faculty Position

Environmental Justice and Community Resilience
Department of Political Science, Purdue University

As part of a university-wide cluster hire in the area of “building sustainable communities,” the Department of Political Science is seeking applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position focused on the politics of environmental justice and community resilience. Potential areas of interest include how gender, race, class, ethnicity, geographical region, or identities affect the unequal distribution of environmental benefits and burdens and/or community resilience in the face of environmental change. We are also interested in research on efforts to address environmental and social inequalities through international, cross-national, and/or domestic political action, including but not limited to work on norms and norm change, protest and resistance movements, and community-based conservation and resilience efforts. The primary field of specialization within political science is open. The successful candidate will add to the political science department’s identified strengths in environmental politics as well as the politics of race, ethnicity, gender, and class. The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in the area of environmental politics as well as other appropriate courses in his or her subfield. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Environmental Studies, or a related discipline is required. Joint appointments are possible in other academic units participating in the cluster hire, including Anthropology, Communication, Philosophy, and Engineering. The position will begin Fall 2017.

The successful candidate will have a demonstrated potential to play a vital role in Purdue’s new “building sustainable communities” initiative dedicated to finding new approaches to addressing major environmental and sustainability challenges. Purdue’s Center for the Environment will serve as the interdisciplinary hub for this research community. Purdue also hosts several interdisciplinary undergraduate and graduate programs focused on sustainability, including undergraduate degrees in environmental & ecological engineering and natural resources and environmental science, as well as a graduate program in Ecological Sciences and Engineering. The successful candidate will be expected to participate in and contribute to these programs as well.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Annie Wheeldon (acheever@purdue.edu). Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, samples of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant’s commitment to and experience with interdisciplinary research and teaching relevant to the cluster. Review of applications will begin October 7, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Leigh Raymond (lraymond@purdue.edu). A background check will be required for employment in this position. Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 2004

Albion College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, Japan, Middle East

The Political Science Department at Albion College invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics beginning Spring 2017 for three semesters with the potential for tenure-track conversion. The department is particularly interested in candidates specializing in Japan, East Asia, or the Middle East.

Candidates should demonstrate interest and potential excellence in undergraduate teaching. Teaching responsibilities include three courses each semester in the candidate’s area of expertise or scholarly interest. The ability to teach the gateway course in the comparative politics subfield is desirable. The candidate will be expected to engage in sustained scholarly research and/or other creative work appropriate to the position.

To apply, candidates should submit by e-mail a cover letter that includes an articulation of the applicant’s teaching philosophy and scholarship, a curriculum vitae, copy of graduate transcript, and three letters of reference to lwylie@albion.edu. A Ph.D. degree (in hand or expected by the end of the Spring 2017 semester) is required for eligibility. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by October 12, 2016 will be given full consideration.

Questions about the position should be directed to Dyron Dabney, Associate Professor and Chair, at ddabney@albion.edu. or 517-629-0415.

Albion College is a private liberal arts college of approximately 1400 students, situated in a culturally diverse community in south-central Michigan within an hour’s drive of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, and Western Michigan University. Albion is dedicated to the highest quality in undergraduate education and committed to diversity as a core institutional value. The College is committed to a policy of equal opportunity and non-discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation and of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age or disability, as protected by law, in all educational programs and activities, admission of students and conditions of employment. Visit our Web site at <http://www.albion.edu>.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1998

College of William & Mary

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in European and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in European and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies

The Programs in European Studies and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies at the College of William and Mary seek applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level, beginning in August 2017.

We are two strong, interdisciplinary area studies programs at one of the best small public universities in the United States, and we are seeking a colleague with a commitment to excellence in teaching and research.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D at the time of appointment (August 10, 2017). The candidate must have demonstrated excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Candidates from all disciplines in the social sciences and humanities with appropriate expertise will be considered, pending department approval. The appointment will be jointly held in the Global Studies Program and in a host department appropriate for the candidate's discipline. Research and teaching expertise in fields such as state socialism, the First and/or Second World Wars, post-socialist societies, migration, regionalism, and identity politics are particularly welcome. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment and a demonstrated interest in comparative and trans-regional scholarship and teaching. Candidates must possess the skills to teach compelling undergraduate courses in both Russian and Post-Soviet Studies (RPSS) and European Studies (ES), as well as in the candidate's home department. The successful candidate will be expected to teach "Introduction to European Studies" and "Introduction to Russian and Post-Soviet Studies," as well as topics courses and research seminars for both programs.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statement of research and teaching interests, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation, at least one of which must speak directly to teaching ability. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference.

For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, October 7, 2016. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

The College of William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/7/2016

Date Posted: 9/8/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1995

Smith College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Indo-Asia-Pacific Politics

Specializations: India, East Asia, China

The Department of Government at Smith College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin July 1, 2017. Applicants may specialize in international relations or comparative politics relating to any part of the Indo-Asia-Pacific region, although the ability to teach courses in Chinese Politics is essential. Candidates who also have expertise in quantitative methods and/or Russian Politics are encouraged to apply. The position involves teaching four semester courses over the academic year, and will have a formal teaching commitment to the college's program in East Asian Studies. Ph.D. or ABD status in Political Science or related discipline required by time of appointment.

Located in Northampton, MA, Smith College is the largest women's college in the country and is dedicated to excellence in teaching and research across the liberal arts. A faculty of outstanding scholars interact with students in small classes. Tenure-track faculty members teach two courses each semester, mentor and advise undergraduates, and enjoy a generous sabbatical policy. The Five College Consortium, comprising Smith, Amherst, Mount Holyoke, and Hampshire Colleges and the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, provides a rich intellectual and cultural life. Details about the Department may be found at <http://smith.edu/gov/about.php>.

Submit application at <http://apply.interfolio.com/37429> with a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of courses taught, statement of research and teaching interests, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin October 17, 2016.

Diversifying the student body, faculty, administration, staff, and curriculum is crucial to the mission and vision for the College. We are committed to providing access and reasonable accommodation in the application process for individuals with disabilities and encourage applicants to request any needed accommodation(s). We value and are committed to a host of diverse populations and cultures, including, but not limited to, those based on ability, age, ethnicity, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, and veteran status.

Smith College is an EO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer. Women, underrepresented racial groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/8/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1993

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Professor/Associate Professor

Russian and East European Studies
Professor/Associate Professor

The University of Pennsylvania is seeking a transformational hire at the senior level (tenured) in Russian and East European Studies to complement existing research and teaching strengths. This search is open to any area of expertise in the humanities and social sciences, including anthropology, art history, economics, ethnomusicology, literary and cultural studies, history, musicology, politics, religion, sociology, theater studies, visual studies and other fields. Likewise, it is open to scholars of all regions and sub-regions of Russia, Central and Eastern Europe. The appointment will be in the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures, which is in the process of transforming itself into a multi-disciplinary Department of Russian and East European Studies.

Demonstrated strength in research and publication and excellence in teaching required.

Please submit applications online at: <http://facultysearches.provost.upenn.edu/postings/922>. Include a cover letter describing research and teaching experience, and a CV. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. Preliminary interviews will be conducted at the ASEEES Convention in Washington, DC, in November 2016.

The Department is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to creating a more diverse faculty (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>). The University of Pennsylvania is an EOE. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and protected veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1996

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships 2017-18

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship, in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or history. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of domestic politics and social development of China, with a focus on public policy challenges. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center are required. It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation or public talk during the fellowship period. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have completed ALL requirements for the Ph.D. degree (including the dissertation defense) by June 1, 2017.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2017 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space.

For complete information on how to apply visit: <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Applications are due January 6, 2017. Questions can be emailed to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "Postdoctoral Fellowships in China Public Policy" in the SUBJECT line.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1969

Old Dominion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Asian Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography and the Graduate Program in International Studies at Old Dominion University invite applications for a tenure-track position in comparative politics and/or international relations at the assistant professor level to begin July 25, 2017. The department has a preference for comparativists with a potential for excellence in teaching and research. The field of specialization is Asian Politics. Preference will be given to candidates with a teaching and research profile that complements existing coverage in the department. A Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses.

Old Dominion University is a state-supported, Carnegie Doctoral/Research-Extensive University with over 24,000 students. The University is located in Norfolk, Virginia, the hub of the Hampton Roads metropolitan area with a population of approximately 1.6 million. As a major recreation area known for its beaches, historical landmarks, and the Chesapeake Bay, the Hampton Roads Region also profits from its proximity to Washington, D.C., Williamsburg, and the Outer Banks of North Carolina. Boasting the largest naval base in the world, Hampton Roads also accommodates major Army, Air Force, and Coast Guard commands as well as the only NATO headquarters in North America. More information about the department and graduate program can be found at <http://www.odu.edu/pols-geog> and <http://www.odu.edu/gpis>.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief statement of research and teaching interests, sample of scholarly writing, evidence of teaching excellence if available, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Jesse Richman, Chair, Asian Politics Search Committee at <https://jobs.odu.edu>. The application review process will commence October 7, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Old Dominion University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution. Minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/7/2016

Date Posted: 9/5/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1963

Boise State University/School of Public Service/Dept. of Political Science

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor - Political Economy Specialization
(1 Tenure-Track Position)

Department of Political Science

Search # 160253

Boise State University, powered by creativity and innovation, stands uniquely positioned in the Northwest as a metropolitan research university of distinction and has a Carnegie designation as a doctoral research institution. Boise State University is home to approximately 20,000 undergraduate and graduate students. The School of Public Service is seeking a tenure-track faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in August 2017. The area of specialization for this position is Political Economy. The position will be housed in the School of Public Service with primary appointment to the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will combine a strong research record in political economy with an ability to teach upper division and graduate level courses in international relations or comparative politics. The successful candidate will also have the opportunity to teach in the School of Public Service's proposed Global Studies Program. The School requires both peer reviewed and public service scholarship on the path to tenure. The Department of Political Science is committed to promoting quality faculty research and teaching, and is strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Assistant Professor Minimum Qualification

- Ph.D. in political science by July 1, 2017.

Preferred Qualification

- Primary specialization is Political Economy

Salary and Benefits: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Application Process:

If interested in the position, please upload a cover letter (indicating your interest and qualifications for the position), curriculum vita, summary of recent teaching evaluations, two written samples of your research, transcripts and three letters of recommendation using the link below.

Required steps to apply:

1. To upload application materials and apply online: <https://boisestate.taleo.net/careersection/ex/jobdetail.ftl?job=160253>
2. In addition to uploading the application materials to the link above, please send a copy of your curriculum vita and cover letter to: schoolofpublicservice@boisestate.edu Subject line: Attn: Dr. Lane Gillespie, Search #160253

Review of applicants will begin October 1, 2016 and continue until finalists are identified.

About the University: <http://www.boisestate.edu>
 About the City of Boise: <http://boisechamber.org>
 About the Department: <http://sps.boisestate.edu/politicalscience/>
 About the School of Public Service: <http://sps.boisestate.edu>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1956

Centre College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

Assistant Professor of International Studies

Centre College seeks to fill a full-time tenure-track position in International Studies at the level of Assistant Professor beginning August of 2017. Ph.D. required at time of appointment. The ideal candidate will have expertise in International Relations and Comparative Politics, preferably with regional focus in South/Southeast Asia. Expertise in other regions will be considered. Teaching responsibilities will include Introduction to Comparative Politics, Introduction to International Relations, International Organizations, and a regional politics course. We expect that a candidate can also develop new upper-level courses in his/her area of expertise in the fields of IR and/or Comparative Politics. Prior teaching experience and the ability to teach an introductory methodology course are preferable, but not required. The program strongly encourages applications from candidates who have experience teaching and mentoring a diverse student body with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

Centre College is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. Centre strives to create an environment where differences are celebrated rather than discouraged, where the individuals have the opportunity to exchange ideas and share in the richness of mutual experiences. Please view the Statement of Community.

Centre College, a highly selective liberal arts college of about 1,400 students, has one of the nation's premier study abroad programs and is ranked among the top fifty National Liberal Arts Colleges by U.S. News & World Report. Classes are small and academic standards are high. Centre graduates enjoy extraordinary success, with entrance to top graduate and professional schools, prestigious fellowships for further study abroad, and rewarding jobs. The College is located in Danville, Kentucky, a town of 18,000 recognized for its high quality of life. It is within easy driving distance of Lexington, Louisville, and Cincinnati. For information concerning the college, visit our web site at www.centre.edu.

To apply, please go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/36366> and submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, transcripts three letters of recommendation, a statement of your teaching philosophy and a short description of your research interests. Review of applicants will begin October 1. Centre College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1954

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2017. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2017.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must have three letters of recommendation, CV, and job market paper submitted by November 30, 2016. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as from others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/30/2016

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1961

Princeton University Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar or Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars and/or post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the 2017-2018 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines at any career stage, but any applicant who has yet to complete the PhD must have turned in a final draft of the dissertation by July 1, 2017.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Please note that (only) candidates who currently hold faculty appointments and are applying to visit CSDP for 2017-2018 while on leave from their current institution must apply directly to CSDP at this link: https://csdpapp.princeton.edu/csdp_application.php. All others must apply online at <https://jobs.princeton.edu> -- Requisition # 1600740 and submit a cover letter (optional), CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of two references.

The deadline for receipt of complete applications, including letters of recommendation, is November 30, 2016 at 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions? Email csdp@princeton.edu or phone Michele Epstein, Assistant Director of CSDP, 609-258-6493.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the university's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/30/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1952

College of William & Mary

Rank: Comparative and/or International Development

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor or Associate Professor level in comparative or international development. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to high-level scholarship, outstanding classroom teaching, and collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or related field at the time of appointment (August 10, 2017) and be prepared to teach courses in comparative or international development.

Preferred Qualifications: Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods or comparative public policy, and mentoring successful undergraduate or master's level research projects is preferred.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including a statement of research and teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a writing sample. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 30, 2016. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

The College of William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment. Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/> and information on the W&M Public Policy Program is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/publicpolicy/>. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1944

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Cybersecurity and National or International Security Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Open Rank (Tenured or Tenure-track)

Cybersecurity and National or International Security Policy

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position (Open Rank) in cybersecurity and national or international security, global affairs, and governance to begin Fall 2017.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline by August 31, 2017. Applicants must have a track record of scholarship, publications, and/or research funding relating to cybersecurity. We are especially interested in candidates who link cybersecurity to broader social, political, economic, and policy questions in the contexts of national and/or international security. The position is part of a cross-disciplinary, campus-wide initiative in the area of cybersecurity. The successful candidate will demonstrate an ability to collaborate on research and grant applications with faculty in Computer Science, Engineering, and UTSA's highly regarded Cyber Security Program. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Political Science Department's proposed online graduate program in Global Affairs and/or traditional undergraduate or graduate classroom courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. The successful applicant will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses on topics such as Politics and Cyber-Security, New Global Threats, and Global or National Security Policy. Scholars doing cross-disciplinary research in applied cyber security research are encouraged to apply but an applicant's primary field must be Political Science or a closely related discipline. Applicants must demonstrate potential for research publication and a strong potential to attract external funding, and have a strong theoretical grounding in national or international security.

All applicants must provide evidence of scholarly and professional publications commensurate with the rank for which the applicant is applying. All applicants should also provide, if possible, some representative evidence of high-quality teaching – ideally in courses that address cyber security in the context of national or international security, global affairs and governance. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of courses in international relations or global affairs.

To be considered at the tenure-track Assistant Professor level, successful applicants must be able to articulate a research agenda and have an emerging record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a commitment to service.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have an established research agenda, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their respective fields of specialization and have excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Full or Associate Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to acquire external funding. Preference will also be given to candidates who can teach courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science and international relations/global affairs, and/or in such areas as environmental governance, law and institutions, compliance, and/or transnationalism.

Responsibilities: Teach, advise, and mentor undergraduate and graduate students; pursue an active research and publishing agenda; and serve the University, profession, and community.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be sent electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Copy of all graduate transcripts;
4. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
5. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
6. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
7. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1896

Australian National University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in Australian Politics and Comparative Public Policy

The School of Politics and International Relations is seeking to make a new continuing academic appointment at levels B-D (Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, or Associate Professor). This position represents a significant future investment in order to build on existing strengths in the School.

We welcome applications from outstanding candidates in Australian politics and public policy. Sub-fields are open but an ability to teach courses on either: Australian Politics, public policy, gender, and methods are desirable. Candidates will be expected to teach introductory courses in political science or public policy.

Successful candidates will have outstanding records of demonstrated excellence in research, publications, and education. As well as teaching, the appointee will be expected to have an active research agenda, supervise honours and PhD students and work collegially with other members of the School.

The standard teaching load is three courses per year, plus work with honours and graduate students.

The School of Politics and International Relations is based in the nation's capital and ranked as the leading international relations department in the country as well as one of the top 10 in the world for political science and international relations.

These positions are based in Canberra.

ANU provides attractive benefits and excellent support to maintain a healthy work/life balance and offers generous remuneration benefits, including four weeks paid vacation per year, assistance with relocation expenses, 17% employer contribution to superannuation and eligibility to apply for 6-month research leave every three years. For more information on working at ANU please visit <http://hr.anu.edu.au/employment-at-anu>

Applications close 14 October 2016.

For more information about these positions including how to apply please go to www.anu.edu.au/jobs

Enquiries: Dr Andrew Banfield, E: Andrew.banfield@anu.edu.au, T 02 6125 2679

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: $110,000 - $119,999

eJobs ID: 1938

Georgetown University

Rank: Multiple positions--African American Studies

Seizing this pivotal moment in Georgetown's history, the Department of African American Studies invites applications for at least four open-rank positions, which have an anticipated start date of August 1, 2017. This first set of hires inaugurates a multi-year hiring initiative and is an integral part of Georgetown University's plan to expand

African American Studies, and establish a Research Center for Racial Justice. We seek scholars who have an ambitious research agenda, a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching, and an earnest desire to help build the newly formed department and participate in other university service. Currently, our strengths lie in African American studies and its intersections with literary studies, sociology, history, and performance studies. Building upon these fields, we seek cross-disciplinary, multi-disciplinary, and trans-disciplinary scholarship that strengthens African American Studies' capacity in psychology, visual studies, philosophy, political science, economics, women's and gender studies, and law and criminology. More specifically, we seek applicants whose research interests engage with one of the following topics:

- Structural and cultural causes of and solutions to black inequality
- Black cultural productions and responses to legacies and impacts of slavery, Jim Crow segregation, and imperialism in US institutions
- How Black intersectionality informs equality and social justice

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D. in African American Studies or related fields by July 1, 2017. Senior candidates with administrative and departmental leadership interests and experience are especially welcomed. All applicants should specify the rank for which they are applying in the letter of interest.

Applicants without tenure should submit a letter of interest, C.V., writing sample (10,000 words or less), three letters of recommendation, and dissertation abstract (if the candidate is ABD).

Applicants with tenure should submit a letter of interest, C.V., writing sample (10,000 words or less), research statement (current and future projects, or career narrative), and names, telephone numbers, and email addresses for three referees.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the positions are filled.

Applicants without tenure should submit applications at <https://apply.interfolio.com/36591>

Applicants with tenure should submit applications at <https://apply.interfolio.com/36594>

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1933

Monmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Monmouth College, a selective, private, residential liberal arts college in Illinois invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning July 2017. We are seeking a broadly trained Political Scientist who could teach courses in international relations and political philosophy. A Ph.D. is required for this position but ABD candidates will be considered.

Candidates must show enthusiasm for interdisciplinary teaching and for participating in general education, including Monmouth's Integrated Studies Curriculum and advancing a growing Pre-Law Program. A commitment to the liberal arts and an appreciation for the small college learning environment is essential.

Located in the welcoming community of Monmouth, Illinois, the college is a member of the prestigious Associated Colleges of the Midwest. Following the adoption and implementation of a groundbreaking interdisciplinary general education curriculum and the continuation of a bold strategic plan entitled "Think Anew, Act Anew," the college is now prepared to move confidently forward as an innovator among liberal arts colleges. The college has invested $120 Million into campus facilities since 2002 and this year Money Magazine ranked Monmouth 28th out of 736 "Best Colleges" in the Most Affordable Private Colleges category. The Princeton Review named Monmouth a "Best in the Midwest" in its 2015 Best Colleges Survey.

Send letter of application, resume and the names and telephone numbers of three references to: Farhat Haq, Chair, Political Science Search Committee, Monmouth College by e-mail to: facultysearch@monmouthcollege.edu. Review of applications will begin October 31st, and continue until the position is filled.

Monmouth College, an Equal Opportunity Employer, is committed to diversity and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Monmouth does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, national origin, ancestry, disability, age, military service, marital status, sexual orientation, pregnancy or other factors as prohibited by law in its employment policies.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1937

Roanoke College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in International Relations/Comparative Politics beginning in August 2017. It is anticipated that the position will be tenure track. The position is full time with a teaching load of three courses per semester.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in at least three of the following areas: International Organizations/Law, Foreign Policy, Conflict Studies, and Global Civil Society. The successful candidate will also teach Comparative Politics of the Middle East or Comparative Politics of Asia. Preference will be given to candidates who can cover both in alternating years. All faculty members in the Department offer courses in the General Education curriculum, as well as the Department's introductory courses. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research.

Roanoke College, a nationally ranked Phi Beta Kappa institution is located in the Roanoke Valley of Virginia and is affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA). It is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should submit curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation to: Ms. Judith Pinckney, Department of Public Affairs, 119 West Hall, Roanoke College, Salem, VA 24153. Inquiries may be sent to: pinckney@roanoke.edu. Please visit our Departmental website at: <http://www.roanoke.edu/publicaf/> for more information.

Review of applications will begin on October 3 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1929

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Global Energy and the Environment

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Energy Policy, Environmental Policy, International Security

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Open Rank (Tenured or Tenure-track)

Global Energy and Environmental Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position (Open Rank) in Global Energy and Environmental Politics to begin Fall 2017.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline. Methodological approaches are open, but the Department is especially interested in attracting outstanding scholars with research and teaching expertise in global energy politics, energy security, the U.S. global energy position, the intersection of energy and environmental issues, and especially the energy-climate change nexus. The position contributes to UTSA's commitment to advancing excellence in research and teaching about the global political implications of contemporary developments in energy and environmental systems. The successful candidate will demonstrate an ability to collaborate on research and grant applications with researchers working on energy and the environment throughout the university and at the UTSA Texas Sustainable Energy Research Institute. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Political Science Department's proposed online graduate program in Global Affairs and/or traditional undergraduate or graduate classroom courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. Applicants must be willing to develop and teach courses in global energy politics and related areas pertaining to international security, geopolitics, political economy, and environmental governance.

All applicants must provide evidence of scholarly and professional publications commensurate with the rank for which they are applying. All applicants should also provide, if possible, some representative evidence of high-quality teaching - ideally in courses that address energy and environmental issues in the context of global or international security.

To be considered at the tenure-track Assistant Professor level, successful applicants must be able to articulate a research agenda and have an emerging record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a commitment to service.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have an established research agenda, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their fields of specialization, and have a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Full or Associate Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to acquire external funding. Preference will be given to candidates prepared to teach courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science and international relations, and with experience in online course development.

Responsibilities: Teach, advise, and mentor undergraduate and graduate students in the Political Science and Global Affairs degree programs; pursue an active research and publishing agenda; and serve the University, profession, and community.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, research interests, teaching experience, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Copy of all graduate transcripts;
4. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
5. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
6. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
7. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the candidate's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1932

Columbia University

Rank: Professor (Open Rank) of Modern and Contemporary Japanese Politics and Foreign Policy

The Columbia University Department of Political Science and the School of International and Public Affairs invite applications for a distinguished scholar at any academic rank, from tenure-track assistant professor to tenured full professor, to fill the Professorship in Modern and Contemporary Japanese Politics and Foreign Policy to begin July 1, 2017. A Ph.D. and the ability to do research in the Japanese language are required. Candidates will be expected to teach and sustain an active research and publication agenda involving public policy issues in contemporary Japanese politics and/or foreign relations. The candidate will be expected to play a leadership role in the Weatherhead East Asian Institute in organizing research and programmatic activities concerning Japanese politics and foreign policy.

Non-tenured applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, and at least two brief writing samples. Tenured applicants should submit a curriculum vitae and letter of interest detailing current and future research plans. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and the search will remain open until filled. Preference will be given to applications received through October 31, 2016.

To submit an application, please visit our online application site at: academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=63163

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. We are especially interested in qualified candidates whose record of achievement will contribute to the diversity goals of the institution.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1923

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 27, 2017. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2018, or one semester. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire women and men to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: Dr. David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6K-160, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to David.Sacko@usafa.edu. Applications received by September 21, 2016 will receive primary consideration. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1919

University of Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of International Affairs at the University of Georgia invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in the field of comparative politics, to begin in the fall semester of 2017. Candidates are expected to have demonstrated an ability to produce high quality research and show promise of external funding. We seek a scholar who specializes in the connections between politics and the environment broadly understood such as the impact of environmental conditions on political development, security, or migration and/or someone who explores the politics of climate change from a comparative perspective.

Minimum qualifications: Completion or near completion of Ph.D. degree in political science required. For ABD applicants, the degree must be completed by August 1, 2018

Prospective candidates should send a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction, original transcripts, and three letters of recommendation in electronic form to the UGA Faculty Job site at <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1122>. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be sent to Bill Zachmann, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 309, Athens, GA 30602 (zachmann@uga.edu). Applications received by September 30, 2016 will be assured full consideration.

Georgia is well known for its quality of life both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1922

Winthrop University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, South Asia

WINTHROP UNIVERSITY

College of Arts & Sciences

Rock Hill, South Carolina 29733

VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

TITLE: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science, Department of Political Science, Open Field

The Department of Political Science is seeking engaging teachers and active scholars to join our diverse scholarly community by applying for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor position. The department welcomes applications in all subfields; however, we are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in one or more of the following areas: Comparative Politics (Middle East, Asia), Public Administration, Public Law, and/or American Institutions. We are seeking a dedicated and experienced teacher with demonstrated scholarly achievement to join our distinguished department. Considered one of the strongest departments in the University, the Winthrop Political Science department boasts award-winning faculty who are recognized for the quality of their teaching and research alike. The department is also home to a long-standing Model UN program, which just celebrated its 40th anniversary; the Social & Behavioral Research Laboratory, which is home to the renowned Winthrop Poll; and the John C. West Forum on Politics and Policy, a major civic engagement initiative at the University. The department also collaborates with the Master of Liberal Arts program to provide a graduate Concentration in Political and Civic Engagement.

Major Responsibilities:

- Teach a variety of courses in Political Science. Our areas of need include: Comparative Politics, Politics of the Middle East, Politics of Asia, Public Administration, The Judiciary, Constitutional Law: Federalism, and Constitutional Law: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, Congress, The Presidency, Public Policy, Women and US Politics. Strong preference will be given to candidates with teaching experience and/or expertise in Comparative Politics, Politics of the Middle East, and/or Politics of Asia
- Teach both introductory and advanced courses in your areas of specialization, including graduate courses in our Political and Civic Engagement Concentration within the Master of Liberal Arts Program
- Teach a team-taught senior capstone course in Political Science
- Ability to teach research methods or experience in public opinion polling a plus

- Teach courses in Winthrop University's innovative General Education Program, including American Government, which fulfills the Constitution Requirement
- Participate in departmental, college, and university service, including student advising
- Undertake research in the discipline and promote undergraduate research
- Be an interested and energetic participant in an active department
- Other duties as assigned

Qualifications:

- The Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Policy, or a related field is required for appointment at the assistant professor level. A successful candidate who is ABD at the time of employment will be appointed to a non-tenure track position as an instructor. The successful candidate will also be required to undergo a background check prior to hiring.
- Specialization in areas among those listed above.
- Evidence of excellence in the area of Student Intellectual Development, including teaching excellence and commitment to student learning.
- Evidence in the area of Scholarly Activity, including an ongoing program of research and publication.
- Evidence in the area of Professional Stewardship, including engagement with the discipline, profession, campus, and community
- Preference is given to candidates with experience teaching the courses listed above.

Employment Conditions: A 9-month full-time tenure-track appointment with option of summer employment if funds are available. Salary is dependent upon qualifications. Pending final budgetary approval.

Position Availability: August 16, 2017

Application Deadline: Friday, November 11, 2016. Application materials received after the deadline date may be considered if an acceptable candidate has not been found.

Application Procedures:

1. Applications should consist of:
 - letter of application, including a statement of "teaching philosophy,"
 - curriculum vitae,
 - sample of representative written work (article- or chapter-length),
 - evidence of excellence and commitment to student learning,
 - three professional letters of reference,
 - all graduate transcripts (unofficial transcripts are acceptable for initial review; official transcripts are required prior to final appointment).
2. If you are attending the Annual Meeting of The American Political Science Association (APSA) in Philadelphia from September 1-4, please email Department Chair Dr. Jennifer Leigh Disney (disneyj@winthrop.edu) to schedule a meeting at the APSA Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service.
3. Applications may be submitted electronically to the following address:

PLSCJobs@winthrop.edu
 Search Committee Chair
 Department of Political Science
 346 Bancroft Hall
 Winthrop University
 Rock Hill, SC 29733
 (803) 323-2209

Winthrop University is a public, comprehensive university located in Rock Hill, SC, 30 minutes south of Charlotte, NC, that is among the very best institutions of our kind in the nation. Through an educational experience that blends liberal arts, professional programs, global awareness, and civic engagement, Winthrop University helps students develop the knowledge, skills, and values that will enrich their lives forever and prepare them for all that the future holds. Winthrop University has 5,000 undergraduate students and 1,000 graduate students. We have a diverse student population, which is 69% women and 36% students of color, and we have a 14 to 1 student/faculty ratio. For more information, visit us at www.winthrop.edu.

Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and does not discriminate against any individual or group of individuals on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, or veteran status. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/11/2016

Date Posted: 8/28/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1917

Lund University

Rank: Postdoctoral research position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Quantitative Methods

The postdoctoral position is part of the research project "Explaining radicalization and political violence", a four-year interdisciplinary collaboration among researchers from the Department of Political Science at Lund University and the Departments of Psychology at Lund and Gothenburg University. The project is funded by The Marianne and Marcus Wallenberg foundation with Professor Hanna Bäck as project leader. The project aims to study the psychological mechanisms that lead an individual to become radicalized and/or to use political violence, and investigates such mechanisms by the cross-fertilization of political science and psychology. One of the project hypotheses focuses on the causal relationship between social exclusion or rejection and the likelihood of radicalization. The project applies a multitude of methodological approaches, and is for example based on experimental and survey studies, in addition to analyses of online material/social media.

The post-doctoral fellow will be expected to carry out research that contributes to the fulfilment of the project's overall research objectives. However, the fellow will also conduct independent research and will be free to develop his or her own theoretical ideas, and choose the methods that he or she finds most appropriate. The position is full-time and fixed-term for two years, and the holder of this post will be expected to conduct research (about 80 %) and to teach (about 20 %). In order to allow the research group to function as a team, the post-doctoral fellow will be expected to have the Department of Political Science in Lund as their main place of work.

Eligibility for employment as a postdoctoral researcher is restricted to applicants with a PhD degree in a relevant subject. Priority is given to applicants who have completed their PhD less than three years prior to the deadline for applying to the post. The three-year limit can be extended in cases of parental leave, sickness leave or similar circumstances occurring after the PhD defense. Applicants who have yet to complete their PhDs are welcome to apply but should demonstrate that they will receive their PhD degree before 1 January 2017.

We seek candidates with a PhD in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Psychology), and competence within the areas of political behavior broadly defined, or political psychology. We are particularly interested in candidates with a background in quantitative or experimental methods. Research skills and academic promise will be the main selection criteria, but teaching skills will also be considered. Proficiency in spoken and written English and the ability to teach in English is a requirement. The ability to conduct research independently and the ability to participate in international research collaboration are very important considerations.

The Lund University job application portal should be used when applying.

For further information, see: <https://lu.mynetworkglobal.com/en/what:job/jobID:111445/>

Your application must contain:

- * a cover letter (describing why you are interested in the position and what makes you suitable for it),
- * a CV (which includes information on degrees, completed courses, work experience, and publications),
- * a copy of your Ph.D. diploma (or a document describing when you will finish your Ph.D.),
- * two article-length writing samples (approximately 10000 words), and
- * two letters of recommendation.

For further information on the position, please contact:

Professor Hanna Bäck
+46 46 222 01 61
Hanna.Back@svet.lu.se
<http://www.svet.lu.se/en/hanna-back>

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1907

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics or International Relations

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of comparative politics or international relations focusing on the politics of the Middle East for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2017-2018 academic year.

Searching for a colleague with teaching and research focusing on the politics of the Middle East who will develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship, provide institutional and professional service, and contribute to the undergraduate and MA program. The successful candidate will be an expert who studies some combination of the following in a Middle Eastern setting: governance, gender politics, human rights, conflict and conflict resolution (domestic and/or international), identity politics, trade and development, energy, water, agricultural, and natural resource issues, and/or environmental problems. The successful candidate will teach introductory and advanced courses at the undergraduate and graduate level in the area of expertise, including an upper-level course on Middle Eastern politics.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science or a related field.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=3238>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Patrick Haney at hanepj@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

The University is committed to equal opportunity, affirmative action, and eliminating discrimination and harassment. Miami University does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, genetic information, military status, national origin, pregnancy, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or protected veteran status in its application and admission processes, educational programs and activities, facilities, programs or employment practices. Requests for all reasonable accommodations for disabilities related to employment should be directed to ADAFacultyStaff@miamioh.edu or 513-529-3560.

Miami University's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report with information on campus crime, fires, and safety may be found at: <http://www.MiamiOH.edu/campus-safety/annual-report/index.html>. Hard copy available upon request. A criminal background check is required. All campuses are smoke- and tobacco-free campuses.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1902

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Open Rank

NORTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

International Relations/Comparative Politics/Southeast Asian Studies

The Department of Political Science and the Center for Southeast Asian Studies at Northern Illinois University (NIU) anticipate hiring a tenure-track position in comparative politics (CP) or international relations (IR), open to all ranks, beginning August 16, 2017. The successful candidate will teach classes and conduct research, in either CP or IR, with a regional focus on Southeast Asia. If the candidate's first field of study is CP it is preferred that their second field of study be IR. Although the search is open to country experts from anywhere in the region special preference will be given to candidates who have studied either Burma or Thailand. Additionally, preference will be given to candidates who can teach quantitative and/or qualitative methods courses at the graduate level.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and the strong likelihood of a sustained publication record are expected. A Ph.D. in political science

by the time of appointment is required. The Department of Political Science offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. For more information about the Department, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and for more information about the Center for Southeast Asian Studies, please visit <http://www.niu.edu/cseas/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, Illinois a welcoming and rapidly growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,800.

Applicants at the junior level must send a letter of application, curriculum vita, three letters of recommendation, appropriate transcripts, writing samples, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants at the senior level must send a letter of application, a curriculum vita, and a list of three references. All materials should be sent via email to polsSEAssearch2016@niu.edu. Specific questions about the position may be directed to Scot Schraufnagel the chair of the department of political science at sschrauf@niu.edu. File completion issues should be directed to April Davis at adavis1@niu.edu.

A pre-employment criminal background investigation is required. Northern Illinois University is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Review of completed applications will begin on October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1912

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Open Rank - Comparative Politics

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for a tenure track/tenured faculty position in Comparative Politics with a preference for scholars whose work focuses on South Asia or Southeast Asia. The position will begin July 1, 2017; Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. The successful hire will be based in the Keough School of Global Affairs, with a possible joint appointment in the Department of Political Science.

This position is part of the founding of the first new school at Notre Dame in nearly a century. The Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu/>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a master's degree, and supports undergraduate and doctoral programs.

Candidates at the junior level should submit a letter of interest, a CV and a writing sample, and should arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference through Interfolio. Candidates for a senior position are asked to submit a letter of interest and a CV.

Application materials should be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: <http://apply.interfolio.com/36961>.

Nominations and inquiries may be sent via email to:

Prof. Ted Beatty
Chair, Comparative Politics Search Committee and Associate Dean for Academic Affairs

Keough School of Global Affairs
University of Notre Dame
ebeatty@nd.edu

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled.

The University of Notre Dame seeks to attract, develop, and retain the highest quality faculty, staff and administration. The University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and is committed to building a culturally diverse workplace. We strongly encourage applications from female and minority candidates and those candidates attracted to a university with a Catholic identity. Moreover, Notre Dame prohibits discrimination against veterans or disabled qualified individuals, and requires affirmative action by covered contractors to employ and advance veterans and qualified individuals with disabilities in compliance with 41 CFR 60-741.5(a) and 41 CFR 60-300.5(a).

The University of Notre Dame supports the needs of dual career couples and has a Dual Career Assistance Program in place to assist relocating spouses and significant others with their job search. The University is also a member of the Greater Chicago Midwest Higher Education Recruitment Consortium

This appointment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Applicants will be asked to identify all felony convictions and/or pending felony charges. Felony convictions do not automatically bar an individual from employment. Each case will be examined separately to determine the appropriateness of employment in the particular position. Failure to be forthcoming or dishonesty with respect to felony disclosures can result in the disqualification of a candidate. The full procedure can be viewed at <http://facultyhandbook.nd.edu/university-policies/background-check-procedure-for-prospective-faculty/>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1903

City College of New York - CUNY

Rank: Comparative / International Relations

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, China

The Department of Political Science in the Colin L. Powell School at the City College of New York - CUNY invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics and International Relations, beginning fall 2017. We are particularly interested in candidates with research and teaching interests in the Middle East, although we will also consider specialists in South Asia, East Asia, or China. Applicants must be committed to an active program of research and publication and will have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the start date. We will review applications starting October 15, 2016.

Interested applicants should email the following materials to jwilliams@ccny.cuny.edu with the subject line "Comparative/IR Search:" (1) a cover letter describing your academic background and teaching interests and experience, (2) a CV; (3) one writing sample of no more than 40 pages, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate transcript, if you graduated less than two years ago. You must also upload your CV and cover letter to the CUNY website at: <http://> www.cuny.edu/employment.html. Follow the link to “Browse Job Openings,” and filter by City College.

CCNY is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. We encourage applications from historically under-represented groups as well as individuals who have experience with diverse student populations. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1897

Cornell University

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor

The Department of Government at Cornell University welcomes applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2017.

Applicants should apply online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7719>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation, as well as teaching evaluations and materials if available. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2016, and will continue until the search is complete. Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities and genders. We strongly encourage women and underrepresented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1886

Drexel University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Studies and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Middle East, Developing Nations, Conflict Processes

The Department of Global Studies and Modern Languages at Drexel University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Middle Eastern politics, beginning September 1, 2017. Positions are subject to final budgetary approval. The Department will consider applications at the Assistant Professor rank. Global Studies is a new, interdisciplinary department at Drexel University, building on existing strength in International Area Studies. This position will include a joint appointment with Drexel's Department of Politics, and teaching may be cross-listed with that department. Founded in 1891, Drexel University is a dynamic, comprehensive, co-op university located within walking distance of Center City Philadelphia.

We seek candidates who specialize in Middle Eastern politics, either from a Comparative or IR perspective. A background in peace studies and/or conflict resolution is a plus, although not required. Successful candidates will also be expected to pursue an active research agenda and to contribute to the Department's undergraduate curricula. This will include teaching and mentoring our outstanding undergraduate students, all of whom have foreign language proficiency and a broad, global outlook. We have a growing Arabic-language program and offer study abroad programs and co-op opportunities in conflict resolution and civic engagement.

All requirements for the PhD must be completed by September 1, 2017.

Candidates should include: 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) up to three samples of your scholarly writing; and 4) three letters of reference. Only applications submitted via Drexel's online system will be considered.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016 and continue until filled. Questions should be addressed to: Prof. Joel E. Oestreich, <jeo25@drexel.edu>.

Drexel University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, welcomes individuals from diverse backgrounds and perspectives, and believes that an inclusive and respectful environment enriches the University community and the educational and employment experience of its members. The University prohibits discrimination against individuals on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, disability, age, status as a veteran or special disabled veteran, gender identity or expression, genetic information, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions and any other prohibited characteristic. Please visit our website to view all University Policies and Workplace Postings.

Background investigations are required for all new hires as a condition of employment, after the job offer is made. Employment will be contingent upon the University's acceptance of the results of the background investigation.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1894

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor Transnational Feminism

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Women & Politics, Conflict Processes, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Assistant Professor – Transnational Feminism

The Department of Political Science and the Women's and Gender Studies Program at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln seek a tenure-track Assistant Professor with expertise in transnational feminism to begin August 2017. Applicants would hold a joint appointment with 0.40 FTE in Women's and Gender Studies and 0.60 FTE and tenure home in the Department of Political Science. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field, a record of achievement in scholarship, research focus in feminism, conflict and human rights; human security; feminist international relations; political behavior and gender; and gender and public policy, or related areas, ability to teach Sex and Gender Around the Globe in Women and Gender Studies program and have the ability to lead WGS research emphasis in Transnational Feminism. Responsibilities include maintaining an active program of research and contributing to the teaching and engagement missions of both units. The Women's and Gender Studies Program and the Department of Political Science have a strong commitment to principles of diversity and actively encourage applications from groups underrepresented in higher education. Review of applications will begin October 2, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, please go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_160174, and click on "Apply to this job." Candidates should attach a cover letter expressing interest in the position, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, a list of up to five relevant publications, and contact information for three references. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is committed to a pluralistic campus community through affirmative action, equal opportunity, work-life balance, and dual careers. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: 10/2/2016
Date Posted: 8/24/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1885

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Health Care, Lesbian & Gay Studies

The University of Virginia Arts & Sciences Women Gender & Sexuality Program invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position. We seek candidates dedicated to our mission and passionate about teaching in a world class institution.

Candidates are sought who teach and conduct research in the general area of LGBTQ Studies. Field of specialization within LGBTQ Studies is open, but candidates in any area of LGBTQ health, especially those who work from a global perspective and/or in relation to race and ethnicity are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates from other areas of the humanities and social sciences are also welcome.

In addition to developing external funding to support research endeavors, candidates will be expected to teach and provide service to the University, WGS Program, and professional organizations.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2017, with an anticipated start date of July 25, 2017. Applicants must be on track to receive a Ph.D. in the relevant field by June 2017 and must hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment.

To apply candidates must submit a Candidate Profile through Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>), search on posting number 0619405 and electronically attach the following: a cover letter of interest describing research agenda and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a sample article- or chapter-length scholarship (Attach to Writing Sample 1) and contact information for three references. In addition, please have reference letter writers email letters directly to wgsuva@virginia.edu

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVa should be directed to: WGS Program, wgsuva@virginia.edu.

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment. The University of Virginia assists UVA faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/24/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1888

Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM)

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Political Economy, Regulatory Policy, Quantitative Methods

The Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM) invites applicants for a position at the assistant professor level in the Political Science Department, commencing in August 2017. This is an open field position with preference for candidates in the fields of Comparative Politics, Political-Economy, Methods (formal and quantitative), and Political Theory (contemporary political theory along with Comparative Politics or Social Choice). Candidates should preferably have a focus on regulatory politics, or policy evaluation.

ITAM is an academic institution committed to scientific excellence and oriented to the international academic community. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to research and should possess a Ph.D. in political science, but ABDs will be considered if there is a reasonable expectation of completion by December 2016. Classes can be taught in Spanish or English. Salary and teaching loads are in accordance to U.S. standards. Candidates can interview at the 2016 APSA Meeting in Philadelphia.

Information about the Department can be found at: <http://departamentodecienciapolitica.itam.mx/es>

CONTACT: Prof. Vidal Romero, Political Science Department, ITAM, Río Hondo # 1, Mexico City, D.F. 01800, Mexico; email: vromero@itam.mx.

Application Instructions: Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research papers, research statement (2 page limit), and three letters of reference in pdf format to marta.cebollada@itam.mx by November 1, 2016.

For more information, phone: +52(55)5628-4000, x.3788.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/23/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1866

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2017.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2017.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01172>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1869

American University-SIS

Rank: Five Tenure-Track Positions (1=Senior Position)

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Foreign Policy, Developing Nations, Economic Policy

Position Announcement: Five Tenure-Line Faculty Positions
School of International Service
American University

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for five full-time, tenure-line positions to begin August 1, 2017. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. or the highest equivalent degree in a relevant discipline by August 2017.

As a school that includes a diversity of scholarly disciplines and approaches, we seek the best candidates without respect to a particular discipline. We seek scholar-teachers whose work is theoretically grounded, empirically tested, and policy relevant. Candidates should demonstrate excellence in research and teaching and a commitment to school and university service. Candidates should also share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled, except for the Development Studies position, for which review of applications will begin November 1, 2016. For more information about each position and to apply, follow the links below.

*Development Studies (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36539>

*Emerging Powers (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36554>

*Human Security (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36550>

*Race and Global Studies (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36547>

*Transnational/International Security (One Associate Professor or Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36555>

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1957, American University's School of International Service (SIS) is a top-ten school of international affairs located in Washington, D.C. SIS faculty produce transformational research and prepare our students for global careers in government, nonprofits, and business. SIS's prime location provides opportunities for research, professional training, public service, and internships in the nation's capital and around the world.

Housed in a beautiful LEED-Gold certified building which reflects our commitment to sustainability and ecological stewardship, SIS is a diverse and inclusive community of 3,000 students, 120+ full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. Our offerings feature a comprehensive liberal arts program for undergraduates, professional education in international affairs for Master's students, and a multidisciplinary program for Doctoral students. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date:
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1843

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Conflict Resolution)
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in any field of political science, with a research and teaching profile that will contribute to the department's highly successful Master of Arts Program in Conflict Resolution. The Conflict Resolution Program offers an innovative and rigorous curriculum encompassing the core skills and multidisciplinary knowledge needed to pursue diverse careers, both in the U.S. and abroad, related to conflict management and conflict resolution. The Conflict Resolution Program offers an innovative and rigorous curriculum encompassing the core skills and multidisciplinary knowledge needed to pursue diverse careers, both in the U.S. and abroad, related to conflict management and conflict resolution. Applicants should have the ability to field core courses in conflict resolution theory and research methodology. The department also has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching speak to conflict processes and their relationship to race/ethnicity, gender, youth, development, or media. A Ph.D. in political science in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester. The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7687>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Desha Girod (desha.girod@georgetown.edu). For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive before September 20, 2016, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1862

Northwestern University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Methodology (Tenure-track)
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Northwestern University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in the field of political methodology at the rank of assistant professor. The department seeks candidates who connect cutting-edge quantitative methodological issues to substantive debates in political science, particularly in domains related to comparative politics or international relations, and whose research trajectories connect with "big data" methods including machine learning, nonparametric statistics, and text as data methods. The successful applicant will teach a combination of graduate and undergraduate courses. Applications received by October 15, 2016, will be guaranteed full consideration. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. The proposed starting date is September 17, 2017. Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Applications and supporting documents will be accepted only by online submission at www.polisci.northwestern.edu. *For questions and assistance, please contact Jill Decremer at j-rubin4@northwestern.edu.

*The online portal for accepting applications will be open in early September. Once it is available, the link will be posted.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1858

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor
Specializations: Western Europe, International Security, Post Communist Europe

Start Date: Fall 2017; Salary: Competitive
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Specialization: European Politics, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2017. A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. The Department seeks a person able to teach comparative politics covering Western, Central, Eastern Europe, Russia, and the European Union. Expertise in international relations also. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, Foundations of Democracy, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

Course load is three courses per semester. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. coordination of Model EU simulation activity, study abroad, internships). SUNY Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College. We have a strong commitment to the affirmation of diversity and have interdisciplinary degree programs in the areas of Multicultural Studies.

Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

SUNY Cortland is a predominantly undergraduate state college located in upstate New York with a total student population of over 7200. The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, concentration in Law and Justice, and B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

Applicants must apply online at: <http://www2.cortland.edu/offices/hr/jobs/> For more information, contact Department Chair, Political Science Department, SUNY Cortland, Box 2000, Cortland, NY 13045.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1852

Williams College

Rank: Open Rank - Political Science/Leadership Studies
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations
Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Development, History & Politics

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Leadership Studies invite applications for a joint, open-rank position beginning in 2017-2018. The Program in Leadership Studies is an interdisciplinary program focused on the phenomenon of leadership within a wide variety of social, cultural, and historical contexts. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and upper-level courses related to theories and facets of leadership as well as other areas of expertise. Particular areas of interest include but are not limited to: activism and social movements, political history and development, religion, gender, political decision-making, and political thought and culture.

Candidates should have the Ph.D. in hand by September 2017. Please upload a letter detailing current research interests and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (one article, book chapter, or conference paper), evidence of teaching success, and three letters of recommendation to Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/36741. We will begin review of applications on September 15; any application received by October 1 will receive full consideration. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field, and applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences if hired. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: <http://dean-faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/>.

Williams College is a coeducational liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (<http://www.williams.edu>). Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Interested candidates may contact the chairs of the respective units, James McAllister (jmcallis@williams.edu) and Justin Crowe (jec3@williams.edu), with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1853

University of Miami

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time tenure-line position in the field of comparative politics at the junior or senior level. The position is open as to regional and substantive specialization. Preference will be given to candidates who have significant research experience in one or more countries outside of the United States. In the letter of interest, please include a description of such experience, including field research, language proficiencies, etc. Candidates for assistant professor should show promise of high-quality research in top scholarly outlets as well as outstanding teaching, and candidates for a tenured position should show evidence of a national reputation in their research area. The expected teaching load is 2-2, and the position will involve teaching in the field of comparative politics, including an introductory course. Fifty percent of teaching responsibilities will involve undergraduate and graduate instruction within the core curriculum in international studies. All application packages can be e-mailed to cpsearch@miami.edu. Junior scholars applying for the rank of assistant professor should submit a pdf file that includes a cv, a letter of interest, teaching evaluations if available, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a single-authored writing sample. The candidate should arrange for three reference letters to be sent directly to the department at cpsearch@miami.edu. Senior scholars applying for the rank of associate or full professor should email a cv, a letter of interest, and a list of three references to cpsearch@miami.edu. Applications received on or before Monday, October 5, 2016, will be given full consideration. Inquiries about the position can be emailed to cpsearch@miami.edu or to the Chair of the Search Committee, Professor Merike Blofield, at m.blofield@miami.edu. The University of Miami is an Equal Opportunity Employer—Females/Minorities/Protected Veterans/Individuals with Disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants and employees are protected from discrimination based on certain categories protected by Federal law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/18/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1839

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Political Economy Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Political Economy, Research Methods, Quantitative Methods

Stony Brook University, Department of Political Science
 Political Economy Assistant Professor

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. degree, or ABD.

Preferred Qualifications: Demonstrated interest in the field of behavioral economics. Experimental approaches to studying political science questions in American or Comparative politics. Advanced methodological skills. Empirical research or an ability to teach graduate game theory.

Responsibilities & Requirements: The Department of Political Science seeks to hire in the field of Political Economics beginning Fall 2017. The Department is particularly interested in the field of behavioral economics and those running incentivized experiments to study political economy questions in American or Comparative politics. The Department of Political Science contains several experimental labs and has an active subject pool. While we are mostly interested in empirical research, an ability to teach graduate game theory is a plus. The Assistant Professor will be responsible for teaching, research and departmental service.

Special Notes: This is a tenure track position. Applications will be reviewed at the junior level. FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA. Internal and external search to occur simultaneously. Anticipated Start Date: Fall 2017

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

Application Procedure: Interested individuals should complete the Academic Jobs application process online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7584>. Interested candidates should submit a State employment application, curriculum vitae, cover letter, and samples of written work. In addition, please arrange to have three letters of professional recommendation submitted on your behalf. Electronic submission via Academic Jobs Online is highly preferred.

Alternatively, submit above mentioned materials to:

Chair, Political Economics Search Committee #7584
Department of Political Science
Social & Behavioral Sciences Bldg., S701
Stony Brook University
Stony Brook, NY 11790-4392

STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY IS AN AFFIRMATIVE ACTION/EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER. WE ENCOURAGE PROTECTED VETERANS, INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES, WOMEN AND MINORITIES TO APPLY.

IF YOU NEED A DISABILITY-RELATED ACCOMMODATION, PLEASE CALL THE UNIVERSITY HUMAN RESOURCE SERVICES DEPARTMENT AT (631) 632-6161 OR THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL HUMAN RESOURCES DEPARTMENT AT (631) 444-4700.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE TITLE II CRIME AWARENESS AND SECURITY ACT, A COPY OF OUR CRIME STATISTICS IS AVAILABLE UPON REQUEST BY CALLING (631) 632-6350. IT CAN ALSO BE VIEWED ON-LINE AT THE UNIVERSITY POLICE WEBSITE AT <http://www.stonybrook.edu/police>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1811

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field for multiple appointments at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2017. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: formal theory, analytic political philosophy, modelling, and quantitative methods. Successful candidates must hold, or expect to soon complete, a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing past and/or potential contributions to diversity and leadership (further information about this statement is at: <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html>). All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01163>) for position: Assistant Professor, Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 18, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1821

Humboldt State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Politics

Faculty Tenure-Track Position Starting August 2017
Department of Politics
Job #7705

DESCRIPTION: Humboldt State University's Department of Politics invites applications for an academic year, tenure-track faculty position. We seek a broadly trained teacher/scholar of global politics.

PROFESSIONAL DUTIES: Candidates should be committed to teaching excellence and to building a strong research record. Teaching assignments are expected to include an upper-division undergraduate course in global governance and introductory courses in international relations and comparative politics. We also anticipate that candidates will teach some combination of upper-division courses on the following topics: ethnicity and nationalism, international law, political economy, foreign policy, or courses focused on a world region. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop courses within their area of expertise. Instructional assignments will be consistent with the programmatic needs of the department and students. Candidates with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged and there is opportunity to engage with the International Studies program and other interdisciplinary programs on campus.

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching; research, scholarship, and creative activity; and service to the University, profession and to the community. These responsibilities include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions. Probationary faculty are typically provided ongoing mentorship to be a successful member of the faculty. During the first year of the probationary period, teaching responsibilities will be reduced by approximately one course each semester (6 weighted teaching units per academic year). The reduced teaching load supports the establishment of research, scholarship and/or creative activities required for retention, tenure and promotion.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: An earned Ph.D. or equivalent in Political Science or related field from an accredited college or university is preferred at the time of appointment. Applicants with substantial progress towards terminal degree completion by appointment date will be considered. Completion of terminal degree is required prior to the start of the second probationary year following initial appointment.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following:

- * Evidence of, or potential for, teaching effectiveness, scholarly productivity, and expertise in global politics;
- * Commitment to and/or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds;
- * Record of, or potential for, involving students in research and scholarly activity;
- * Potential for effective teaching or teaching experience using a variety of methodologies;
- * Interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses (major, general education, etc.); and
- * Willingness to participate in the development of online learning experiences.

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit: http://www.humboldt.edu/aavp/sites/default/files/04-03%20Admin%20Memo%20Approved%20Policy%20-%20H-1b%20Process_4_4_13.pdf.

Evidence of degree(s) is required at time of hire.

GENERAL INFORMATION: The Department of Politics offers majors distinctive concentrations in "Law and Policy," "Politics of Environment and Sustainability," and "Global Politics." We are strongly committed to student-centered education, diversity, and inclusion. For more information, please visit: www.humboldt.edu/politics.

RANK, SALARY AND BENEFITS: We seek to fill this position at the Assistant Professor rank; however, rank and salary are dependent on the appointee's qualifications and experience. The current California State University Salary Schedule is available at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/aps/docs/salary/Salary-Schedule.pdf>.

Humboldt State University provides an excellent benefits package for faculty. Information about benefits plans can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/934>.

APPLICATION: Qualified candidates should submit electronically the following materials:

- * Letter of application;
- * Curriculum vitae;
- * Sample of written work;
- * Sample syllabi;
- * Teaching evaluations (if available);
- * Application for Academic Employment: <https://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/757>;
- * Supplemental Application for Academic Employment (Online Entry): <http://www.humboldt.edu/applicantsurvey/>;
- * Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review); and
- * Three letters of recommendation.

Submission of the application materials should be sent as a single PDF document, in the order listed above to:

politics7705@humboldt.edu

Signed letters of recommendation may be e-mailed or mailed separately from the other application materials. In letter of application, please refer to Job #7705.

Please direct any other questions pertaining to this position to:

John Meyer, Search Committee Chair
 Department of Politics
 Humboldt State University
 One Harpst Street
 Arcata, California 95521-8299
 Phone (707) 826-4494
 Email: politics7705@humboldt.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE: This position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications received no later than October 3, 2016. Early response is encouraged.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Evidence of required degree(s), certifications(s), or licenses(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. A background check (including a criminal records check, employment verification, and education verification) must be completed satisfactorily as a condition of employment with the CSU. Certain positions may also require a credit check, motor vehicle report, and/or fingerprinting through Live Scan service. Adverse findings from a background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position. All CSU employees are obligated to respond to and report incidents of sexual harassment and sexual violence. The successful candidate for this position will be mandated to receive relevant training on an annual basis. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty and staff of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status. If accommodations need to be made during the recruitment and interview process, please contact Human Resources at (707) 826-3626 or hsuhr@humboldt.edu.

Job #7705

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/16/2016

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1802

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Scholar, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Fellowships are awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who are expected to return to their positions, who have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and exhibit unusual intellectual promise, but who are still early in their careers.

During the academic year 2017-18, the program theme will be "The Culture and Politics of Resentment." Resentment is a powerful emotion for expressing culture and politics. Experiences and memories of humiliation, oppression, and marginalization have stimulated emotions of resentment, and produced compelling demands for political inclusion and justice around the world. Alternatively, rage against what is seen as the "tyranny of the minority," inequality, the corruption and aloofness of elites, the "foreign," and the illegitimate have generated powerful populist upsurges against the perceived enemies of a homogeneous body of "the people." The goal of the 2017-18 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the full range of phenomena involved in the culture and politics of resentment, the conditions that produce such sentiments, and the projects they advance. We invite applications from scholars whose work addresses this topic in any historical period or region of the world and from any disciplinary background in the humanities and social sciences.

Applications are due on November 1, 2016. To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. (or equivalent) no earlier than September 1, 2007. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program's theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and the candidate's ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information on eligibility requirements and the application process itself, see the program's website at <http://www.princeton.edu/funggfp/>

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1806

Stanford University

Rank: Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields

Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields.

The Stanford Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields. The term of appointment would begin September 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than three pages).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions.

The committee will begin reading applications on September 16, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should apply on line through AcademicJobsOnline.org

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/16/2016

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1800

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Associate Professor in Global Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Gender Politics & Policy, International Security

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

With this current search, the Humphrey School seeks to hire a tenure-track or tenured Associate Professor whose research, scholarship, academic leadership and service focus broadly on global policy. We will consider candidates now at the Associate Professor level, as well as candidates who are now at the advanced Assistant Professor level and may meet requirements for appointment as Associate Professor. If the candidate is hired without tenure, we would expect consideration of tenure within three years of the appointment. Although the tenure home and position will be at the Humphrey School, there will be possibilities to collaborate with relevant departments across the University of Minnesota.

The successful candidate must have strong, demonstrated applied research and teaching interests in the international policies of states and/or non-state actors, or the prospects for international coordination and cooperation in various spheres. We encourage applications from candidates who have focused on international security, transnational security threats, emerging security threats, human security, civil wars, internal conflicts, political violence, gender-based violence, gendered aspects of human security, and/or related issues. Candidates with country expertise and/or strong regional interests will also be considered. Candidates must be committed to scholarly and policy-relevant research at the highest levels; willing and able to teach in the School's core curriculum; provide leadership to its established public policy Master's and public affairs Ph.D. programs; be willing to help prepare students for professional careers; and function collaboratively in a multi- and inter-disciplinary environment.

A Ph.D. or equivalent foreign degree is required in political science, international relations, security studies, development studies, economics, public policy, sociology, anthropology, political economy, or related fields, if the candidate's focus has been on international policy and global affairs. The Humphrey School is especially interested in candidates with a demonstrated interest in public policy, broadly construed, whose approach to teaching and research is both innovative and inclusive in terms of race, gender, class and ethnicity.

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota ranks among the top ten professional schools of public affairs in the country. Situated in the vibrant, dynamic and diverse community of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, the Humphrey School's mission is to inspire, educate, and support innovative leaders to advance the common good in a diverse world. The School prepares students for leadership in public affairs in government and the non-profit and corporate sectors, and advances public affairs scholarship, service, and public engagement to address important policy issues and solve problems facing Minnesota, the nation, and the world. The School is nationally recognized for its role in examining public issues and shaping policy and planning at the local, state, national, and international levels, as well as for providing leadership and management expertise to public and nonprofit organizations.

The Humphrey School serves as a major center for public discussion and dialogue within the University and the broader community, hosting hundreds of public events each year, engaging in community-based research, and influencing policy-making at a number of levels. The School offers six master's degrees (Master of Development Practice; Master of Human Rights; Master of Public Affairs; Master of Public Policy; Master of Science in Science, Technology, and Environmental Policy; and Master of Urban and Regional Planning), as well as dual master's degrees with MBA, MSW, JD, MPH, MSCE, and MLA and graduate certificates in Early Childhood Policy, Election Administration, Nonprofit Management, Policy Issues on Work and Pay, and Public Affairs Leadership. The School also offers minors as well as early admissions opportunities for undergraduates (learn more on our website at www.hhh.umn.edu).

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School faculty consists of 31 tenure/tenure-track faculty, 13 graduate faculty and 20+ affiliate faculty members. In addition, there are 65+ staff employees who work in various administrative, research, and lecturing roles at the School. The Humphrey School of Public Affairs seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

We would like to invite you to visit our employment site to complete your application. Applications must be submitted online. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach additional documents.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, the names and addresses of three references, a sample of recent research, and a cover letter with a brief account of research and teaching interests and experience.

DIRECTIONS:

1. Select the below link to access our site.
2. Sign In to access your account, or if you are not an existing user select the New User link to create one.
3. Review the job description and select the Apply button to begin your application.

https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=312431&PostingSeq=1

If you are a current University of Minnesota employee, please use the following link instead:

https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM_EMP.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Employee&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=312431&PostingSeq=1

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 15, 2016. The position will remain open until filled. Please submit applications online and address cover and reference letters to: Search Committee for Global Policy, Humphrey School of Public Affairs, c/o Human Resources, HHH152, 301-19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Salary will be commensurate with experience. Benefits include health, dental, faculty life/disability insurance, retirement, and social security. The starting date for this appointment is August 26, 2017 or as soon thereafter as possible.

To request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1810

University of Chicago

Rank: Collegiate Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Political Theory

The University of Chicago Society of Fellows is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor.

The Fellows are members of the College Faculty whose primary responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program.

Core courses in the Humanities typically deal with fundamental issues and texts in history, philosophy, and literature. Currently, the Core is organized into seven year-long sequences: Readings in World Literature; Human Being and Citizen; Greece and Rome: Texts, Traditions, Transformations; Philosophical Perspectives on the Humanities; Media Aesthetics; Reading Cultures; and Language and the Human. For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/humanities-course-descriptions>

Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. Currently, Fellows teach in four of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society; Classics of Social and Political Thought; Power, Identity, and Resistance; and Social Science Inquiry. Some Fellows also teach in the History of European Civilization Core sequence. European Civilization is taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents.

For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/social-sciences-course-descriptions>

The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. degree no later than August 31, 2017. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in their original scholarship as well as in teaching.

In most years, Fellows teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. Each Fellow also has the opportunity to design an independent course and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical in the third year of residence. The annual salary for 2017-18 will be $67,650. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2017.

To apply for these positions, please see our web site at <http://fellows.uchicago.edu>. The web site will be available to accept applications beginning August 31, 2016.

Important deadlines:

On line application deadline: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 14, 2016.

Deadline for receipt of letters of recommendations: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 28, 2016. This includes letters of recommendation from your three recommenders or those received from a dossier service.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-0681 or email dneibel@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1785

University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

Rank: Professor, Director of the Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Administration

WEISER CENTER FOR EMERGING DEMOCRACIES: The International Institute (II) at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor seeks qualified applicants for the Ronald and Eileen Weiser Professorship in Emerging Democracies and the Directorship of the Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) to begin September 1, 2017. The II is interested in a scholar who conducts research on emerging democracies, broadly defined, and has interdisciplinary interests in the social sciences or humanities. The successful applicant will be a tenured faculty member in a department, such as Anthropology, History, Sociology, or Political Science.

The II brings together distinguished and diverse faculty and scholars with deep area studies, disciplinary, and international expertise to enrich the university's intellectual environment and to provide the U-M community with the knowledge, tools, and experience to become informed and active global citizens.

The WCED promotes scholarship to better understand the conditions and policies under which democracies emerge and autocracies endure, past and present. WCED takes a multidisciplinary perspective that is sensitive to the historical, social, cultural, economic, and political contexts in which democracies do or do not emerge. While WCED initially focused on transitions in Europe and Eurasia, the II welcomes applications from faculty working in any region.

QUALIFICATIONS

The University will give greatest consideration to the following qualifications:

1. Academic Accomplishment: The candidate should have a strong record of scholarly excellence and be well known in his or her field. The candidate should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, including a statement of teaching philosophy and experience.
2. Administrative Experience: The Director is responsible for overseeing budgets and staff, working with departments and colleagues to promote area expertise, monitoring faculty committees, and overseeing development activities by cultivating ties to people and institutions outside the University in support of WCED activities. The candidate should have a significant administrative background and should be capable of managing a complex organization.
3. Vision and Strategy: The Director is responsible for setting the intellectual agenda and developing WCED programming that will fuel the center's continued growth and global engagement. The candidate should have the ability to articulate and execute a vision for a major interdisciplinary research center.

This is a university year appointment. Applications received by October 3, 2016 will be given first consideration. All applicants should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and names of suggested reviewers. Please provide a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence, and a statement of current and future research plans.

The University of Michigan is an AA/EO employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University is supportive of the needs of dual career couples.

Applicants to this position can apply online via <https://webapps.lsa.umich.edu/apply/1041>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/3/2016
Date Posted: 8/12/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1775

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: William S. Dietrich Endowed Chair in Political Science
Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications from nationally prominent scholars to fill the inaugural William S. Dietrich II Endowed Chair in Political Science, with appointment to begin in the 2017-18 academic year, pending budgetary approval. The Chair is named in honor of the late Dr. William S. Dietrich II, a former chairman of the University's Board of Trustees who received his Ph.D. from the Department in 1984.

In filling this chair, and in keeping with the interests of Dr. Dietrich, the Department seeks candidates with extraordinary credentials in research, teaching, and mentorship in the fields of international relations or comparative politics, or whose interests cut across these and possibly other disciplinary subfields.

The Political Science Department at the University of Pittsburgh currently consists of 25 tenure stream faculty members with vibrant and varied research agendas. The Department's NRC ranking has improved dramatically over the past decade, and presently ranks between 20th and 30th among Ph.D. granting departments. It has long fostered collegiality and a culture of collaboration among faculty and graduate students. The Department benefits from numerous synergies with other units on campus, including the University Center for International Studies, a world renowned, multidisciplinary institute housing centers for area studies and for topical specializations in international studies, and the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs, a public administration and public policy school emphasizing international relations and political development. The City of Pittsburgh frequently tops "most livable city" rankings thanks to its numerous social and cultural offerings and low cost of living.

Please submit a detailed cover letter and C.V. electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTU3>. Additional information may be requested at a later date. Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/12/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1780

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. The position is open with respect to subfield within political science, and we are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries. This is a cross-school, cross-disciplinary effort focused on integrating social, political, cultural and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty in the College of Arts and Sciences (Politics, Economics, Environmental Sciences), the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences, and the School of Architecture.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

We welcome applications from candidates in any--or some mix--of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics.

Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science by May 2017 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment, although those still at the ABD stage in August 2017 may be appointed as acting assistant professor. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold a PhD at the time of application and must have an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>). Search on posting number 0619320 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Applicants at the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (EnviroAsstPro@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 12, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2017, with an anticipated start date of July 25, 2017.

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVA should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (EnviroAsstPro@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/12/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1774

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Washington University in St. Louis seeks candidates for one position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of comparative politics to begin Fall 2017 or later. The search is open with respect to substantive specialization within the study of comparative politics. Duties include research and publication, course teaching, student advising, and department and university service. Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field is required. In addition, candidates at the associate professor rank must, through research and publication, have made a significant contribution to one or more subfields in Political Science. Washington University in St. Louis is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status.

Files received by October 1 will receive full consideration. Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, at least three letters of reference, writing samples, and other relevant materials. All applications and supporting documentation should be submitted electronically through the Washington University HR system (<http://hr.wustl.edu/opportunities/Pages/default.aspx>). Candidates should create an account, search for job requisition number 34390, complete the application form and upload a CV and supporting materials. Letters of reference can be e-mailed to artsci-pschair@email.wustl.edu.

Please note: in order to attach materials to your application, you must EXIT the Wash U jobs site then log back in using your established username and password. Click on "Applications" then "Add Attachment" to upload additional materials.

If you encounter difficulties with the application process, please email Colleen Daues, cdaues@wustl.edu, for additional instructions. All other questions may be directed to Heather Sloan-Randick at (314) 935-5852.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1777

Hope College

Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American and Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Hope College political science department invites applications for a tenure-track appointment beginning the 2017-18 academic year. We seek candidates who are equipped to offer courses in one or more of the following areas: American politics and institutions, comparative politics (open regional focus other than Africa), and research methods. The position also includes exciting opportunities to participate in Hope's highly regarded Washington D.C. honors program. Candidates should have a demonstrated ability to combine teaching excellence with genuine scholarly promise, and should be committed to the character and mission of a liberal arts college firmly rooted in the Christian faith. PhDs and ABD candidates who have made substantial progress on the dissertation are encouraged to apply.

Application Instructions

As part of the online application found at www.hope.edu/employment/faculty, candidates will upload the following documents: a cover letter including a paragraph clearly addressing the ways in which you will support the mission of Hope College (www.hope.edu/about/mission.html), a curriculum vitae, a description of your current research program, and a statement of your teaching experience and approach to teaching. Additionally, please arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to jobs@hope.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 15th, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions regarding the position may be directed to David Ryden, department chair, at ryden@hope.edu.

About Hope College

Hope College is a four-year liberal arts college where academic excellence and vibrant Christian faith join together in a supportive and welcoming community. Hope offers an academically rigorous, co-educational and residential education to 3,200 undergraduate students from more than 40 states and 45 countries. Affiliated with the Reformed Church in America since its founding in 1866, Hope College is known for its invitational ecumenical Christian atmosphere, friendly campus community, and well-balanced academic and co-curricular offerings. Hope's beautiful campus is located just steps from award-winning downtown Holland, Michigan and less than seven miles from Lake Michigan.

Hope College is recognized as a national leader in undergraduate research and scholarship and for providing exceptional professional preparation and life-changing educational experiences that equip our students for success after graduation. The college has consistently ranked among the nation's top liberal arts colleges and is featured in the book Colleges That Change Lives.

Hope College is financially sound, with more than 40 consecutive years of balanced budgets, an endowment of approximately $200 million and no deferred maintenance, and over $140 million invested in the construction of new facilities during the past 12 years. The college completed its newest buildings, the Kruiuzenga Art Museum and the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts, in 2015 and will open the Jim and Martie Bultman Student Center in 2017.

In 2015, Hope College launched its 10-year strategic plan, Hope for the World: 2025, which consists of six goals, focused on: academics; Christian formation; global engagement; community; reputation and influence; and value. Developed by the campus community, the strategic plan supports the college's mission, "to educate students for lives of leadership and service in a global society through academic and co-curricular programs of recognized excellence in the liberal arts and in the context of the historic Christian faith."

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1769

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Gender and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

McGill University

Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor, Gender and Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Gender and Politics. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as Gender and Politics, Feminist Theories and Methodologies, and/or the empirical study of gender, as well as courses in the candidate's specific area(s) of expertise.

The Department welcomes applications from qualified candidates working within any subfield or methodological approach in Political Science. While all applications will be given full consideration, we are particularly interested in scholars whose work addresses the politics of gender and sexuality in their articulation and intersections with indigeneity, race, class, disability, and/or other axes of marginalization, power and identity.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students.

Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank is possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2017.

For more information about the Department and University, visit our web site at: <http://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/>.

The Department maintains a close relationship with several Centers and Institutes on campus that will be possible places of research affiliation for the successful candidate. These include: the Institute for Gender, Sexuality, and Feminist Studies (IGSF), <http://www.mcgill.ca/igsf/>; the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS) <http://www.mcgill.ca/rgcs/>; the Center for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC), www.csdcced.ca; the Center for International Peace and Security Studies (CIPSS), <http://cepsi-cipss.ca/en/>; the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), www.mcgill.ca/isid/; and the European Union Centre of Excellence (EUCE), www.centreurope-montreal.ca.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Hudson Meadwell, hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 10 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/7567>.

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill
Département de science politique

Professeur adjoint, Genre et Politiques

Le département de Sciences politiques de l'Université McGill lance un appel à candidatures pour un poste en Genre et Politiques menant à la permanence. Le candidat retenu devra enseigner au niveau des études du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs, et donner des cours en Genre et Politiques, sur les théories et méthodologies féministes et (ou) l'étude empirique du genre, de même que des cours dans son ou ses domaines d'expertise.

Le département invite à postuler les candidats qualifiés qui travaillent dans un sous-champ des Sciences politiques ou avec une approche méthodologique de cette discipline. Toutes les demandes seront examinées minutieusement, mais nous nous intéressons tout particulièrement à des universitaires dont les travaux portent les politiques en matière de différence des sexes et de sexualité dans leur interdépendance et leurs liens avec l'indigénéité, la race, la classe, l'invalidité et (ou) d'autres axes de la marginalisation, du pouvoir et de l'identité.

Les antécédents des candidats doivent démontrer un potentiel exceptionnel pour la recherche de même que l'aptitude à enseigner efficacement à des étudiants du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs et la capacité à superviser des étudiants aux cycles supérieurs.

Le département recherche un professeur adjoint. Toutefois, le recrutement d'un candidat de plus haut niveau est envisageable dans des cas exceptionnels. Le candidat souhaité détient, ou a presque terminé, un PhD.

Chaque candidature doit comprendre le curriculum vitae du postulant, son relevé de notes de l'université, trois lettres de référence, un exemplaire d'un article publié et des documents relatifs à ses aptitudes à enseigner. L'entrée en fonction est prévue pour le 1er août 2017.

Pour en savoir plus sur l'université et le département en cause, consulter notre site Web à l'adresse: <http://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/>.

Le département entretient des liens étroits avec de nombreux centres et instituts sur les campus, qui peuvent s'avérer des endroits propices à une affiliation en recherche pour le candidat retenu. Ces centres et instituts comprennent: l'Institut Genre, sexualité et féminisme (IGSF), <http://www.mcgill.ca/igsf/>; Le Groupe de recherche sur les études constitutionnelles (RGCS), <http://www.mcgill.ca/rgcs/>; le Centre pour l'étude de la citoyenneté démocratique (CÉCD), www.csdcced.ca; le Centre d'études sur la paix et la sécurité internationale (CEPSI), <http://cepsi-cipss.ca/>; l'Institut d'étude du développement international de McGill (IEDI), www.mcgill.ca/isid/; et le Centre d'excellence sur l'Union européenne (CEUE), www.centreurope-montreal.ca.

Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de cette position peuvent être envoyées au Directeur du département, Hudson Meadwell, à hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

L'étude des candidatures commencera le 10 octobre 2016 et se poursuivra jusqu'à ce qu'un candidat ait été retenu.

POSTULER EN LIGNE À L'ADRESSE: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/7567>.

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 10/9/2016
Date Posted: 8/11/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1765

University of Zurich

Rank: Assistant Professorship in Political Science with a focus on Direct Democracy and Participation

The University of Zurich invites applications for an Assistant Professorship in Political Science with a focus on Direct Democracy and Participation.

The position is for a six-year period, pending review after the first three years.

Candidates should demonstrate the potential to develop an internationally recognized research track record on the topic of direct democracy and participation, focusing particularly on the behavior of voters and elites.

The assistant professorship is related to an interdisciplinary research project on Direct Democracy and Populism in Europe, located at the Centre for Democracy Studies in Aarau. Teaching is within the BA, MA and PhD curricula of the Department of Political Science (IPZ).

The University of Zurich provides a dynamic and collaborative international environment for teaching and research, and offers generous research and teaching support. In addition, the holder of the position is eligible to apply for Swiss National Science Foundation funding, as well as many other grant programs in Switzerland and Europe.

The position will be filled as soon as possible. Candidates should hold a PhD degree in Political Science at the time of application and have an excellent record of academic achievements in the relevant field. Teaching may be carried out in English; the teaching load is two to four hours per week throughout the semester. Non-German speaking candidates are encouraged to acquire a working knowledge of German within the first two years of appointment. We specifically encourage women to apply.

The closing date for applications is September 25, 2016. Details on the application procedure are available on www.phil.uzh.ch/jobs.html. For further information please contact Prof. Dr. Daniel Kübler, Director of the Centre for Democracy Studies (Daniel.Kuebler@zda.uzh.ch).

<http://www.jobs.uzh.ch/jobDetail.php?jobID=6949>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/25/2016
Date Posted: 8/11/2016
Salary: $130,000 - $139,999
eJobs ID: 1767

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations or Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor – International Relations or Comparative Politics
 Department of Political Science
 Emory University
 Atlanta, GA

The Department of Political Science at Emory University seeks to hire an International Relations or Comparative Politics scholar with expertise in political economy, development, or conflict, to begin in the fall semester 2017. The position is tenure-track at the level of Assistant Professor, though in extraordinary circumstances a senior appointment may be considered. We welcome a range of methods and perspectives.

The successful candidate must demonstrate excellence or the promise of excellence in both research and teaching. The candidate should have completed the Ph.D. or be very close to completing the Ph.D. by September 2017. The teaching load is four courses per year and benefits are competitive.

A complete application will consist of a cover letter that includes a research statement, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching portfolio, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Application review will begin on September 9, 2016; to ensure full consideration all materials should be received by this date. To apply for this position, please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/36551> and submit your materials free of charge through Interfolio.

Emory University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer. The Department of Political Science, Emory College, and Emory University are all strongly committed to recruiting female and minority candidates. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/9/2016
Date Posted: 8/9/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1743

Morehouse College

Rank: Assistant Professor -- International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates should be trained in the area of international relations and be able to teach courses in both international relations and comparative politics. The area of specialization is open, though there is a preference for applicants who can contribute to the College's educational mission regarding African and African-American history and culture and/or the legacy of international peace and non-violence.

Responsibilities include teaching courses (a 3-3 load), advising, and mentoring students; developing and maintaining a scholarly research and publication agenda; and service to the department and the College. We also encourage faculty to be active in soliciting external funding through grants and other sources. The start date for the position is August 2017, and possibly January 2017 if a suitable candidate is identified and appointed. Minimum qualifications include a PhD in political science; commitment to excellence in teaching; evidence of a productive research program; and service to the profession and community.

A successful application will consist of the following: a letter of application providing detail on how the candidate meets the qualifications for the position and why they are a good fit for Morehouse College in particular (no more than 2 pages); a current curriculum vitae (no more than 4 pages); a statement of teaching philosophy (no more than 2 pages); a research/scholarship agenda (no more than 2 pages); three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates also have the option of sharing the following: sample syllabi (no more than 2 courses); samples of research (no more than 2 samples); teaching evaluations or summaries of evaluations (no more than 2 courses, but if submitted, only submit full class evaluations and not samples of class evaluations).

All application materials must be submitted online: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36492>

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until September 30th. We will be interviewing at the APSA Annual Meeting Placement Service on Friday, September 2nd and Saturday, September 3rd. Applicants who wish to be considered for an APSA interview should send a cover letter and CV, by August 22nd, to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Andrew Douglas (andrew.douglas@morehouse.edu).

Morehouse College is an equal opportunity employer. No employee or applicant will be discriminated against in any condition of employment because of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, veteran status or any other status protected by law.

About Morehouse

Morehouse College is a private historically black liberal arts college for men whose mission is to develop men with disciplined minds to lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of black people. Since the founding of the College in 1867, the faculty, staff, and leadership have worked to inspire, nurture, challenge, support, and engage students with the expressed intent of fomenting a very special kind of development.

Morehouse has a very proud tradition of having developed leaders, with the most notable of course being Martin Luther King, Jr. (class of 1948). Each era has defined the qualities of a Morehouse Man—an expression of the expectations we have of our graduates—a bit differently, but there are some enduring constants. Backed by nearly 150 years of history, we see our work as helping to shape men of acuity, integrity and agency; men who will commit to brotherhood, standing together with their peers to cheer, challenge and support each other; and men who will strive to lead consequential lives, to not just do well for themselves, but to do good in the world.

Our strong legacy is continued now as we claim a number of successes. Morehouse is the number one baccalaureate origin institution for black male doctorate recipients in science and engineering, life sciences, physical sciences, social sciences, education, and humanities over the decade ending 2012 according to the National Science Foundation. We are the top producer of underrepresented minority physics baccalaureates among non-PhD granting institutions over the three years ending in 2013 as measured by the American Physical Society.

And the College just this year became the only non-majority college or university to have produced four Rhodes Scholars. Our graduates include not only men like King and Julian Bond, but Spike Lee, David Satcher, Eddie Glaude, Jim Shelton, and many more operating in and out of academia in some way.

The College offers instructional programs in three divisions—business and economics, humanities and social sciences, and sciences and mathematics—as well as extracurricular and co-curricular activities that, combined with the academic program: foster the development of oral and written communication skills; foster appreciation of world cultures, artistic, creative expression and the nature of the physical universe; promote understanding of the specific skills needed to pursue professional careers and graduate study; and cultivate the personal attributes of self-confidence, tolerance, morality, ethical behavior, spirituality, humility, global perspective, and commitment to justice.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/30/2016

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1759

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Political Economy, Mexico, Public Finance & Budgeting

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. Other specializations are also welcome and will be considered by the Search Committee. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on September 19th and continue until the position is filled

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before May 2017.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

- ? Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
- ? Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages).
- ? Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
- ? Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
- ? Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2012-2015), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:

schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Additional Information:

<http://escueladegobierno.itesm.mx/>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1748

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of California, Merced opened in September 2005 as the tenth campus of the University of California system. In keeping with the mission of the UC to provide research, teaching, and public service of the highest quality, UC Merced provides educational opportunities at the undergraduate, masters and doctoral levels through three academic schools: Engineering; Natural Sciences; and Social Sciences, Humanities and the Arts.

The School of Social Sciences, Humanities and Arts invites applications for two positions in either Political Institutions or Political Behavior with a substantive focus in American Politics, Comparative Politics, or International Relations, at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track).

In order to be considered, the selected candidate must have a PhD in political science or a related field at the time of appointment.

The anticipated start date for this position is July 1, 2017.

Applications must be submitted online. Completed applications, including letters of recommendation, must be received no later than September 15, 2016 to receive consideration. Applicants are required to submit 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of research; 4) a statement of teaching; 5) up to two writing samples; 6) a list of references with contact information including mailing address, phone number, and e-mail address; and 7) a contributions to diversity statement.

The Contributions to Diversity Statement should describe your past experience, activities and future plans to advance diversity, equity and inclusion, in alignment with UC Merced's mission to reflect the diversity of California and to meet the educational needs and interests of its diverse population. Some faculty candidates may not have substantial past activities. If that is the case, we recommend focusing on future plans in your statement. A more developed and substantial plan is expected for senior candidates. For additional information on what should be included on your Diversity Statement, please visit <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html#Are-there-any-guidelines-for-wr>.

Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted online. After an application is submitted, the letters of reference should be electronically uploaded by the letter writers (instructions will be provided by the application system). Letters of reference should be received no later than September 15, 2016.

The University of California, Merced is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, students and staff.

Salary is commensurate with education, experience, and UC academic salary scales.

For additional information, please contact Courtenay Conrad at cconrad2@ucmerced.edu.

To apply, please visit <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00369>.

Applicants will be notified when the final candidate has been selected.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1715

University of Oregon

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Oregon invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning September 2017, and will consider candidates in either of two areas: International Political Economy/International Organization or Comparative Politics with a specialization in Chinese politics. IPE/IO candidates are required to have demonstrated quantitative research interests and teaching abilities and should be capable of teaching an undergraduate/graduate methods course. For comparative/China candidates, we are open to varied methodological orientations. The successful candidate is expected to conduct a rigorous research program, and to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The University of Oregon and the Department of Political Science are committed to creating a more inclusive and diverse institution and seek candidates with demonstrated potential to contribute positively to its diverse community.

Apply online at academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7568. Interested applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, employment application, one writing sample, syllabi and teaching evaluations, if available. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by September 15, 2017.

To ensure full consideration, application materials must be submitted by October 1, 2016. This position will remain open until filled. This is a paperless search; contact psjobs@uoregon.edu with questions or concerns.

The University of Oregon is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution committed to cultural diversity and compliance with the ADA. The University encourages all qualified individuals to apply, and does not discriminate on the basis of any protected status, including veteran and disability status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/5/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1736

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Comparative Politics Assistant Professor

COMPARATIVE POLITICS. The MIT Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time tenure track position in the field of comparative politics at the junior level. The search is open to scholars working in any subfield specialty. Applicants should be at or near completion of the PhD. Responsibilities include graduate and undergraduate level teaching and research supervision. MIT is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and strongly encourages applications from women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities. MIT is interested in applicants with experience and interest in communities of color, cultures other than their own, culturally diverse groups and developing and implementing curricula that address multicultural perspectives.

Applications should include a cover letter, C.V., sample dissertation chapter(s), and three recommendations. Please submit online applications to <http://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7587>.

Completed applications must be submitted by September 15th, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/4/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1733

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics of the Middle East

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics of the Middle East to begin July 1, 2017.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/35938>. Review of applications and nominations will begin September 5, 2016, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1719

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Service

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Political Economy, Public Finance & Budgeting

The Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service at New York University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position with appointment to begin September 1, 2017. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise and a record of research in financial management, budgeting, accountability and performance, or the design of institutions. Successful candidates will contribute to our Master of Public Administration and new Master of Science in Public Policy programs and will have demonstrated excellence in research. A Ph.D. in public administration, political science, or a related field is required and must be conferred by August 31, 2017.

NYU Wagner is a multidisciplinary school that prepares public service leaders to translate ideas into actions that have an effective and lasting impact on the public good. The School's nearly 40 full-time faculty members are trained in a wide variety of disciplines and share a commitment to addressing issues of public importance in their teaching and research. Wagner faculty members collaborate with other schools and departments across the university, including the Stern School of Business; the Steinhardt School of Education; School of Law; Politics, Economics, and Sociology departments; and the College of Global Public Health.

Candidates should complete the application available via the link below and submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, two completed research papers, and three letters of reference.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/36182>

NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and is strongly committed to diversity within its community.

Applications received by October 30, 2016 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/30/2016

Date Posted: 8/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1708

Stockton University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Developing Nations, Political Development, Conflict Processes

Comparative Politics

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF POLITICAL SCIENCE, Tenure-Track.

Starting Date: September 2017

A New Jersey public institution with a distinctive interdisciplinary focus and a commitment to teaching excellence seeks a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science specializing in Comparative Politics. The successful candidate will offer undergraduate courses in Introduction to Comparative Politics, advanced courses in Comparative Politics, a rotation of Introduction to Politics as well as interdisciplinary General Studies courses.

Ability to offer courses in one or more of the following areas is desired – Political Economy of Development, Nationalism and Ethnic Conflict, Politics in the Developing World, Gender and Politics, Environmental Politics, Comparative Law, Democratization, or Regional Integration. Regional focus is open.

Teaching load is three courses (12 credit hours) per semester with additional duties as negotiated under the collective bargaining agreement. Applicants with a Ph.D. in Political Science completed will be given preference, although ABD candidates in Political Science will be considered. Evidence of excellent teaching experience or a demonstrable pedagogical commitment to teaching excellence is required. A strong commitment to scholarly activity and service is also expected.

Salary is dependent upon experience. Review of applications will begin September 28, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Representatives of the Political Science program will conduct informational interviews with potential candidates at APSA in Philadelphia. Interested candidates should contact Tina Zappile (Tina.Zappile@stockton.edu) to request an informational interview (include an electronic copy of CV with interview request).

To apply please visit: <https://careers-stockton.icims.com/jobs>. Only electronic documents will be accepted. Please complete the on-line application, which will require submission of the following required documents. All required documents must be submitted in order for your application to move forward. You may upload documents using Word, PDF or Videos either as one single file or as individual attachments.

- 1) A letter of application describing qualifications and accomplishments
- 2) A curriculum vitae
- 3) Evidence of teaching excellence (student evaluations, course syllabi, teaching philosophy, professional development related to teaching)
- 4) Graduate transcripts
- 5) Three letters of recommendation/reference

- All offers of employment are contingent upon a favorable background check.
- Individuals with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact: Sharon Hunt, Recruitment Manager at 609-652-4384.
- Prospective employees may access the Annual Security Report for the University at www.stockton.edu/campuspolice or contact the Campus Police department at 609-652-4378 to request a hard copy of the report.
- Stockton University is an equal opportunity institution encouraging a diverse pool of applicants, visit: http://www.stockton.edu/affirmative_action.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1704

Boston University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor specializing in Comparative politics to begin July 1, 2017, pending budgetary approval. This search is open with respect to regional and substantive focus. The ideal candidate will address broad questions in comparative politics with innovative research methods, possibly including but not limited to experimental design, natural language processing, or network analysis. The successful candidate will contribute to the Department's undergraduate and graduate programs and to the Department's connections with the Pardee School of Global Studies.

Boston University expects excellence in teaching and in research, and is committed to building a diverse faculty and a multicultural learning environment. Please submit a letter of application that includes research and teaching statements, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and arrange for the sending of three reference letters to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7522>. Completed applications are due by October 11, 2016.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/27/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1674

California State University, Chico
Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice
 Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Position: The Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant Professor level. The position begins August 2017.

Minimum Qualifications: The minimum education requirement for appointment to this position is a Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or other related discipline. Candidates nearing completion of the doctorate may be considered; however, the doctorate must be complete prior to the beginning of the academic year in August 2017. The successful candidate's first two fields of research and teaching will be International Relations and Comparative Politics, with an emphasis on conflict/security. The regional specialization will be either Latin America or Africa. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in our Master's program by teaching graduate seminars, participating in MA thesis committees, and/or reading Master's comprehensive exams.

Preferred Qualifications: The ideal candidate will contribute to other programs in the department by teaching courses in areas such as research methods, terrorism and homeland security, or other courses that bridge our degree programs. Please see our current course catalog for a list of the department's course offerings: <http://catalog.csuchico.edu/viewer/16/POLS/offerings.html>

Responsibilities: This tenure-track position carries responsibilities in the areas of teaching, scholarship, and service to the Department and University. Teaching assignments are based upon qualifications of the individual and the needs of the department. The successful candidate should also demonstrate the following:

Commitment to and/or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds

Salary: Salary commensurate with education and experience.

The Department: The Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice offers undergraduate degrees in political science (including an option in legal studies), criminal justice, international relations, and public administration, as well as Masters degrees in political science and public administration. We have an exciting curriculum, with numerous options to meet a host of academic interests, and an active and productive faculty committed to excellence in teaching and scholarship. Over 1,000 students major in our programs. Additional information about our Department is available at <http://www.csuchico.edu/pols/>. Additional information about the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences is available at <http://www.csuchico.edu/bss/index.shtml>.

Closing Date: Review of applications will begin on October 14, 2016, and continue until the position is filled.

How to Apply: All applicants must online apply at: <http://jobs.csuchico.edu/postings/3718>

Complete online applications must include: CV, complete set of transcripts (unofficial acceptable), writing sample and teaching evaluations (if available). Three letters of recommendation MUST be submitted to the search committee chair at the email below.

Submit letters of recommendation and job-related questions to:
 Dr. Jennifer Wilking, Chair
 International Relations Search Committee
jwilking@csuchico.edu
 (530)898-5960

An annual security report disclosing crime statistics for CSU, Chico can be obtained by contacting the University Police Department (530-898-5555) or by accessing the following website: http://www.csuchico.edu/up/clery_report.shtml

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

For disability related accommodations please call ADA Coordinator at (530) 898-5959.

CSU, Chico is an EOE/Minority/Females/Vet/Disability and only employs individuals authorized to work in the U.S. The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1639

CUNY-Baruch College
Rank: Assistant Professor

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

Baruch College's Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure track position as assistant professor in the field of International Relations or Comparative Politics, open with regard to subfield. The position will begin in the fall semester 2017. Baruch, a flagship college of the City University of New York, is located in the historic Gramercy Park district of Manhattan.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must have a PhD at time of appointment and an active research agenda. Candidates with experience or interest in teaching in online or hybrid formats are preferred.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

STEP ONE - Copy and paste the link below into your browser:
https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=15254&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

To be considered for this position, please submit your application online by clicking on "Apply Now" below. Candidates should provide a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, CV, writing samples, and three letters of reference.

STEP TWO - Go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/>
 All applicants are required to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted electronically by their references as described below.

Please go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/> and enter the contact information for three (3) references. The online system will automatically send your references a request to submit a letter via the system. Full instructions will be provided.

Emailed or hard copy applications will not be considered.
 To arrange an interview at the APSA Annual Meeting contact Professor David Jones at david.jones@baruch.cuny.edu
 If you have any other questions, please contact HR at 646-660-6590

CLOSING DATE

Review of resumes begins on August 3, 2016; to ensure consideration, please apply by September 30, 2016

JOB SEARCH CATEGORY

CUNY Job Posting: Faculty

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 7/20/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1642

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in fall 2017 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, political theory, and etc.

A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untenured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untenured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 150 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has about 10 faculty members who own overseas PhD degrees, and 4 of them are in political science. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to development a new political science program. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system of the United States and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Selection will begin immediately and continue until the positions have been filled, pending administrative and budgetary approval. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend that meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews. Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/20/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1643

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics
Rank: Tenure Track Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in fall 2017 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, political theory, and etc. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untentured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untentured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 150 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has about 10 faculty members who own overseas PhD degrees, and 4 of them are in political science. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to development a new political science program. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system of the United States and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Selection will begin immediately and continue until the positions have been filled, pending administrative and budgetary approval. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend that meeting and be available for an interview. For those candidates who can attend the conference interview, please submit your application before August 15th. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews. Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1644

Harvard Business School

Rank: Tenure-Track Position: Political Science

Harvard Business School is seeking candidates for a tenure-track position in the Business, Government, and the International Economy (BGIE) unit. We will consider candidates whose research interests include international political economy or comparative political economy. The search is open with regard to methodological approach.

Candidates may come directly from Ph.D. programs or from the faculties of other universities. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2017.

All applicants should have excellent academic credentials and a demonstrated potential for conducting outstanding research. The School is particularly interested in applicants with interdisciplinary interests and strong records of, or potential for, excellence in teaching.

Successful candidates will, at the outset, teach a required first-year MBA course on the economic, political, and social environment of global business. Starting salaries will be highly competitive.

Applications must be received no later than October 1, 2016 and should include: curriculum vitae, description of research, and writing sample (preferably dissertation chapters). Three letters of recommendation should be submitted online directly to the School by the referees.

To apply or submit a letter of recommendation, please go to this website and select "Tenure-Track Position: Political Science" when choosing a position on the application:

<http://www.hbs.edu/research/faculty-recruiting>

Material that can only be sent in hard copy can be sent to: Harvard Business School, Faculty Administration, Attn: BGIE Unit Application, Morgan Hall T25, Soldiers Field Road, Boston, MA 02163.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 7/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1609

Marquette University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Tenure Track) – International/Comparative Political Economy

Specializations: Political Economy, Developing Nations, Environmental Policy

The Political Science Department at Marquette University invites applications for an entry-level, tenure-track position in international or comparative political economy. The successful applicant will focus on development or sustainable development. The position begins with the 2017-18 academic year.

The successful applicant will have demonstrated research interests in the political economy of development or sustainable development. Ph.D. or ABD (Ph.D. by August 15, 2017) with graduate course work in the area of comparative political economy and/or international political economy is required.

All applications for this position must be received through Marquette University's online recruiting system (<https://employment.marquette.edu/>). The applicant will upload the following:

*Letter of application

*Curriculum vitae

- *List of those who will be submitting recommendation letters
- *Unofficial graduate transcript
- *Writing sample
- *Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- *Syllabi (for courses independently taught and/or a sample syllabus for an undergraduate political economy course focusing on development).

Additionally, three letters of recommendation are required. Recommendation letters cannot be uploaded by the candidate. Applicants must arrange to have their recommendation letters sent to:

Dr. Lowell Barrington, Chair
 Department of Political Science
 540 N. 15th Street, 468 William Wehr Bldg
 Marquette University
 P.O. Box 1881
 Milwaukee, WI
 53201-1881 (USPS); 53233 (courier)

To receive full consideration, applicants must complete the online application process and the Department of Political Science must receive all components of their applications by October 3, 2016.

Applicants who make the list of potential candidates for on-campus interviews will be required to have their official graduate academic transcripts sent to the department chair.

Marquette is a Jesuit, Catholic university and seeks candidates who will contribute to its mission, a statement of which can be found at <http://www.marquette.edu/about/mission.php>. Candidates from underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Additional information about the university and department can be found at <http://www.Marquette.edu> and <http://www.Marquette.edu/polisci>.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/3/2016
Date Posted: 7/18/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1583

University of Toronto, Mississauga Rank: Assistant Professor - Politics of Western Europe

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one tenure-stream appointment in the field of the Politics of Western Europe. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will begin on July 1, 2017.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field by date of appointment or soon thereafter. The successful candidate will conduct scholarly research on Western Europe that addresses important, general debates in the Comparative Politics subfield. She or he will be expected to conduct innovative research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. She or he will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, or will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards for work in the field and strong endorsements by referees. Finally, she or he will be equipped to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Comparative Politics, as well as advanced courses in Western European Politics and will have demonstrated excellence in teaching through teaching accomplishments, letters of reference and the teaching materials submitted as part of the application.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/> and <http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint or conference paper), materials relevant to teaching experience (e.g., course outlines and handouts, student survey results), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Applicants should also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Edward Schatz, at polsci.utm@utoronto.ca. To receive full consideration, applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by September 28, 2016.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact lorna.taylor@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas. As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 9/28/2016
Date Posted: 7/15/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1627

Denison University Rank: Pre- or Post-Doctoral Fellow Specializations: China, South Asia, Japan

The Department of Political Science at Denison University, a highly selective liberal arts college, invites applications for a two-year pre- or post-doctoral Fellowship appointment beginning Spring 2017 or Fall 2017. One-time funding allows the Department of Political Science to offer a unique opportunity for a beginning scholar to gain valuable experience in the classroom with a reduced teaching load. We invite applications from either advanced ABDs or recent degree recipients who specialize in Comparative Politics, with regional expertise in Asia. Advanced ABDs should be at the revision stage or near completion of their dissertations to apply for a pre-doctoral Fellowship. The Fellow will be asked to teach an introduction to comparative politics of developing areas course and upper division courses in the Fellow's area of expertise and research.

The successful candidate will have broad training in political science and significant interest in undergraduate teaching in a liberal arts setting. Preference will be given to applicants who demonstrate interest in teaching and a strong commitment to excellent teaching. The prospective teacher-scholar will gain valuable teaching experience in a liberal arts setting, mentoring from faculty colleagues, and benefit from the intellectual life of the campus.

Denison offers extensive support for faculty, including professional-development funding, opportunities for student-faculty research collaboration, and a range of workshops and other opportunities to cultivate our strengths as teacher-scholars. Salary is $50,000 per annum. Full health care benefits, plus a generous stipend for research are provided as well.

Applications must be submitted online at: <https://employment.denison.edu> and should include: letter of application; curriculum vitae; contact information for three letters of reference; statement addressing the candidate's teaching interests and scholarly agenda [including estimated time frame of completion of the dissertation for pre-doctoral candidates]; transcript [official or unofficial]; at least two sample syllabi that reflect the kinds of courses the candidate would teach, e.g. a lower division introductory course in politics of developing states and an upper division course in Asian politics. Applicants should also indicate whether they will be available for an interview at the annual APSA meeting in Philadelphia PA September 1-2, 2016. The department will consider alternative interview arrangements (e.g. Skype, FaceTime) for candidates who are not attending APSA. To ensure full consideration, completed applications must be received by September 16, 2016.

Denison University is an increasingly diverse, highly selective, residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 2100 students from across the nation and around the world. Our college is committed to attracting and supporting an academically and culturally diverse faculty. Granville is located just 30 minutes from Columbus, our state capital and a city with a thriving night life and award winning cuisine. Columbus is the 15th largest metro area in the United States. To achieve our mission as a liberal arts college, we continually strive to foster a diverse campus community, which recognizes the value of all persons regardless of religion, race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, disability, or socio-economic background.

For additional information and resources about diversity at Denison please see our Diversity Guide at <http://denison.edu/forms/diversity-guide>. Denison University is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

For information, please contact:
Katy Crossley-Frolick, Chair
Department of Political Science
Denison University
Granville, OH 43023
frolickk@denison.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1622

Rice University

Rank: Assistant Professor or Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science at Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, invites applications for one tenure-track position to begin July 1, 2017. The appointment will be made at the rank of assistant or associate professor. Successful candidates will have a promising research agenda and strong analytical and empirical skills as well as aspire to the highest standards of scholarship, professional activity, and commitment to graduate and undergraduate education. We are especially interested in candidates whose research interests and expertise lie in the area of democratic representation, particularly as it relates to the study of underrepresented minorities, either in the U.S. or cross-nationally.

Candidates must currently have a Ph.D. or complete the Ph.D. by November 1, 2017. The application deadline is September 15, 2016, but applications will be accepted until the search is closed. All applications should be submitted electronically via <https://jobs.rice.edu/> (from this page, select "Faculty," then choose "Assistant Professor of Political Science" or "Associate Professor of Political Science," according to your level). A complete application for candidates at the assistant professor level will include (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) graduate school transcripts, (4) two writing samples, and (5) three letters of recommendation. Candidates who currently hold the rank of associate professor are asked to submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, and information for at least three references.

Equal Opportunity Employer – Females/Minorities/Veterans/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1611

Stanford University

Rank: tenure-track Assist. Professor or a tenured Associate Professor faculty position in Islam and gender.

Islam and Gender in the Social Sciences

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or a tenured Associate Professor faculty position in Islam and gender.

The successful candidate will be based in a social sciences department and will also be expected to contribute to the Abbasi Program in Islamic Studies' curricular and outreach efforts. A focus on the Middle East and/or Southeast Asia is preferred. The appointment can be in one of the following departments in the School of Humanities and Sciences: Anthropology, Communication, Political Science, or Sociology. Teaching responsibilities will be determined by the home department.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of teaching and research interests (no more than 3 pages), a curriculum vitae including a list of publications, and a recent writing sample. Assistant level and untenured applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org. Currently tenured applicants may submit only the names of up to three references at this time. For full consideration, materials should be received by October 3, 2016.

Please use the following link to apply: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/7445>

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as from others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/3/2016
Date Posted: 7/8/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1598

NYU Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

FACULTY POSITIONS
 Political Science – Political Theory
 NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. The positions are open rank. The expected start date is September 1, 2017. We are particularly interested in recruiting faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, global ethics, or comparative political theory.

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016. Campus visits to NYUAD will be held in October and November 2016, with the visits to NYUNY occurring in the succeeding four weeks. The review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the positions are filled. We anticipate that the successful candidates can start employment on or before August 15, 2017 subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/15/2016
Date Posted: 7/7/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1597

NYU Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS
 Political Science
 NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi is inviting applications from political scientists for faculty positions at any level (assistant, associate or full professor, tenure/tenure track - senior candidacies also welcome) to strengthen its program in Political Science, for appointment on September 1, 2017. We encourage applications from all subfields of Political Science. You may visit the Political Science program's website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016. Campus visits to NYUAD will be held in October and November 2016, with the visits to NYUNY occurring in the succeeding four weeks. The review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the positions are filled. We anticipate that the successful candidates can start employment on or before August 15, 2017 subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socials-science@nyu.edu.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/7/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1595

Stanford University

Rank: Assistant Professor position in SOUTH ASIAN STUDIES

Assistant Professor—Social Sciences

STANFORD UNIVERSITY invites applications for a tenure-line, assistant professor position in SOUTH ASIAN STUDIES to begin in the academic year 2017-18. The scholar appointed will be based in an academic department but is also expected to make contributions to the interdisciplinary study of South Asia across the university.

The appointment will be in either the Political Science or Sociology Department within the School of Humanities and Sciences. Teaching responsibilities will be determined by the home department.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of research interests (no more than 3-pages long), curriculum vitae including a list of publications, and one sample of recent scholarship. Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted by the deadline to Academic Jobs Online.

Please go to the following link to apply for this position:
<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/7402>

For full consideration, materials should be received by September 15, 2016.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/7/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1596

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2017 semester.

Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics or Comparative Politics with U.S. expertise), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2016, and position will remain open until filled.

Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in Philadelphia, PA.

The University of Redlands is committed to increasing the diversity of the university community and the curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths and/or experiences in the area of inclusivity. Strongly preferred are candidates with demonstrated experience working with diverse student populations. The University of Redlands is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access Employer and actively encourages applications from minority and other members of underrepresented groups. The University of Redlands does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, disability, age, marital status, or sexual orientation in its programs and activities.

In compliance with The Americans with Disability Act, if selected for the interview process and accommodations are needed please call (909) 748-8040.

SUBMISSION OF A RESUME OR APPLICATION INDICATES AGREEMENT THAT THE UNIVERSITY MAY VERIFY ANY AND ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED THEREIN MEMBERS OF UNDERREPRESENTED GROUPS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/1/2016

Date Posted: 7/7/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1593

NYU Shanghai

Rank: TENURE/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION Political Science, NYU Shanghai

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Comparative Politics

TENURE/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION

Political Science

NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in Political Science (rank open). The position is to begin September 1, 2017, pending budgetary and administrative approval.

Candidates must hold a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (or expect it by the start date); must have a record of excellent research and publications or presentations appropriate to career stage; and must have demonstrated teaching excellence and an interest in teaching in a diverse, international setting. Experience teaching non-native speakers of English preferred, but not required.

The terms of employment in NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions in terms of research start-up funds compensation, and include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016, and will be reviewed until the position is filled.

Members of the search committee will be available to meet interested applicants during the 2016 Annual Meeting of the APSA in Philadelphia, PA.

To be considered, applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, separate statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three pages each), and electronic copies of up to three recent relevant publications or working papers. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each reference will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.socialscience.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within the NYU Global Network University. It is the first Sino-US higher education joint venture to grant a degree that is accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, it resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community. NYU Shanghai recruits scholars who are committed to NYU's global vision of transformative teaching and innovative research.

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. There are three degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common research interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1590

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: tenure track appointment, health policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Department of Political Science at the College of the Holy Cross invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment in political science to begin in August 2017. We are seeking an applicant with demonstrated expertise in U.S., comparative, or global health whose teaching will contribute to both the political science major and the College's emerging Health Studies Program. Health Studies has thus far been a part of the College's student-designed major program through the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies. In response to rising student demand and faculty interest, the College is now in the process of creating a formal program. Candidates for the new position will be expected to design and teach an introduction to health policy course that will serve as a foundation for students who will go on to specialize in various "tracks" within the Health Studies major, which may include Public Health and Global Health. The successful candidate will also offer advanced courses in health policy and other electives within the Department of Political Science in the subfield of either American Politics or Comparative Politics, or International Relations, depending on their area of specialization.

This position carries a 3-2 teaching load with a full-salary one-semester research leave prior to tenure review, and generous sabbatical and fellowship leaves for tenured faculty. Tenure track faculty are eligible for travel support and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's published policies. All full-time appointments offer competitive salaries and include full benefits.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate commitment to, and excellence in, undergraduate teaching at the introductory and advance levels as well as scholarly achievement. Ph.D. in Political Science or imminent completion required.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please submit a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above, curriculum vitae, statement on teaching, transcripts, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

In your cover letter, in addition to describing your research and teaching interests, please address how your scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and/or service might support the College's mission as a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college (see <http://www.holycross.edu/about-us/mission-statement>) and its core commitment to diversity and inclusion. For more information, please visit <http://holycross.edu/diversity>.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to <https://apply.interfolio.com/35993>.

Review of applications will begin on September 16 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will be done by Skype or at the APSA conference September 1-3 for those who will attend the meeting. Questions about this search may be directed to Vickie Langohr, Chair, at vlangohr@holycross.edu. Candidates are encouraged to contact Prof. Langohr in advance to express their interest and availability for an interview at APSA.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 2,900 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community.

Holy Cross aspires to meet the needs of dual-career couples, in part through its membership in the Higher Education Consortium of Central Massachusetts and the New England Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (<http://www.newenglandherc.org>). The College is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and complies with all Federal and Massachusetts laws concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action in the workplace.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/4/2016

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 1580

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Latin America)

The Political Science Department at Dickinson College seeks applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor. Successful applicants will have expertise, and be able to teach courses, in aspects of Latin American Politics. Tenure-track faculty at Dickinson teach a five-course load.

Dickinson College values interdisciplinary teaching and learning, and many in the Department teach and research outside traditional disciplinary boundaries. The successful candidate will be expected to support the College's interdisciplinary program in Latin American, Latino & Caribbean Studies.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington DC and Philadelphia.

The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically via <https://jobs.dickinson.edu>. Please include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample, three letters of recommendation, a statement of teaching philosophy, sample syllabi, and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to department chair Ed Webb via webbe@dickinson.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1574

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester 2017 at the level of assistant professor. The successful applicant will be a broadly trained political scientist with a primary field of comparative politics. The candidate will be expected to develop courses in comparative public administration, comparative public policy and political economy. An ability to teach introduction to American government would be an asset. Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, or public policy are required.

Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education. Candidates with quantitative and/or qualitative methodological skills preferred. Interested applicants should apply online at the following url:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Review of applications will begin October 17.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1567

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant Professor (Political Theory)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in political theory. Preference will be given to candidates able to offer courses outside of political theory, especially in judicial politics or comparative politics. The successful candidate will show evidence of teaching excellence and will have an active research agenda supported by published research or the strong promise of such publication. We prefer applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. in political science by the appointment date.

Applicants should submit a letter of application detailing their teaching philosophy and research agenda, a curriculum vitae, summary of recent teaching evaluations, an official transcript, a writing sample, and three letters of reference. All application materials other than letters of recommendation must be submitted through the TCU online application system at https://tcu.igreentree.com/CSS_faculty. Have three confidential letters of recommendation emailed directly from the reviewer to hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu. Department representatives will attend the APSA meeting, where we will conduct screening interviews. Full review of applications begins on October 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

We are an undergraduate department of 15 full-time faculty members and approximately 350 majors. TCU is an independent, ecumenical, coeducational institution of 10,300 students located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth (pop. 830,000) is a city of rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities. The city is part of the greater Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex of 7 million people and is served by DFW International Airport.

As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 6/21/2016
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 1559

Moravian College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Foreign Policy, Conflict Processes

The Political Science Department at Moravian College invites applications for a full time, tenure track position commencing in August 2017. Candidates should be prepared to offer a broad array of classes in international relations such as American Foreign Policy, Human Rights, International Law and Organization, International Security and Conflict Resolution. Candidates should also be prepared to teach courses that entail a geographic specialization with the area being open (e.g., Africa, Latin America, Middle East and the Islamic world etc.) except for Europe and Asia. Candidates should also be prepared to teach in the College's First Year Student Seminar Program with the subject matter for the seminar being at the discretion of the instructor. Ph. D. is expected by time of appointment.

Moravian College is a selective residential liberal arts college located in Bethlehem, PA with a proud tradition of providing an outstanding education in the liberal arts and sciences for men and women. Moravian College highly values excellence in teaching as well as scholarship and seeks to nurture the development of its students through strong personal interactions with its teaching faculty. The College is approximately an hour and a half from New York City and an hour from Philadelphia and is one of six members of the Lehigh Valley Association of Independent Colleges consortium.

Moravian College values diversity, strives to attract qualified women and minority candidates, and encourages individuals belonging to these groups to apply. Moravian seeks to ensure diversity by its policy of employing persons without regard to age, sex, color, race, creed, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation or gender identity.

Applications should be submitted electronically to searchpolisci@moravian.edu. Application materials should include letter of application, current curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of effective teaching, a statement of research plans, and three letters of recommendation with contact information for each reference. Review of application materials will begin July 1 and will continue until the end of October.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/15/2016
Date Posted: 6/13/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1531

University of Toronto

Rank: Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure-stream position in Comparative Politics, with demonstrated research expertise in the politics of Russia/Formal Soviet Union. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2017.

The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St. George) campus. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must provide strong evidence of research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publications in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees. Evidence of excellence in teaching is required and is demonstrated by a strong statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, and endorsements from referees. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted online.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS word format.

Applicants should also ask at least three referees to send letters directly to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Professor Louis W. Pauly, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. To be assured of receiving consideration, applications must be received by September 29, 2016.

For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our home page at politics.utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/29/2016
Date Posted: 6/13/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1535

University of TorontoRank: Politics of Sexual Diversity*Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Other, Other

The Department of Political Science and the Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies at the University of Toronto invite applications for a full-time tenure-stream appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in the area of Politics of Sexual Diversity. This is a joint appointment between the Department (51%) and the Centre (49%) and will commence July 1, 2017.

We are looking for a candidate with research and teaching interests in the field of sexual diversity politics. The search committee welcomes a wide variety of applications from excellent candidates but will give preference to candidates with demonstrable research expertise engaging regions outside of Europe and North America and/or the politics of transnational advocacy. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St. George) campus. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must provide strong evidence of innovative research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees. Evidence of excellence in teaching is demonstrated by a strong statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, and endorsements from referees. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca> and the Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies <http://www.uc.utoronto.ca/sexualdiversity>

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted online.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS word format.

Applicants should also ask at least three referees to send letters directly to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Professor Louis W. Pauly, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. To be assured of receiving consideration, applications must be received by October 6, 2016.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 10/6/2016Date Posted: 6/13/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1536Bucknell University*Rank: Comparative Politics of Sub-Saharan Africa OR South Asia

Tenure Track Faculty in Comparative Politics of Sub-Saharan Africa OR South Asia

Start Date: Fall 2017

Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until filled

Subfield: Comparative Politics

Rank: Open

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in the Comparative Politics of Sub-Saharan Africa OR South Asia beginning in the fall semester of 2017. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach sections of a core course in Comparative Politics, courses in his or her field of specialization, and a course in qualitative or quantitative research methods.

The Department of Political Science has a distinguished record of hiring diverse faculty, whose courses expose students to a variety of racial, ethnic, and cultural perspectives, and we are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience, potential teaching excellence, and the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. or be ABD in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in Comparative Politics.

For additional information and to apply, please go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/35496>. Applications must be submitted online via Interfolio ByCommittee. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, syllabi, and teaching evaluations, along with any other relevant materials.

Questions about the position should be addressed by email to Professor Michael R. James at mjames@bucknell.edu.

The review of applications will begin on September 24, 2016.

About Bucknell University -

Bucknell University is a highly selective, predominately undergraduate, private university with approximately 3600 students. Apart from its excellent academic departments and programs, it boasts the Center for the Study of Race, Ethnicity, and Gender, which supports faculty teaching and scholarship in these areas; the Griot Institute for Africana Studies, which provides faculty and student intellectual and creative engagement with the cultures, histories, narratives, peoples, geographies and arts of Africa and the African diaspora; and the Bucknell Institute for Public Policy, which supports faculty research and teaching on issues of domestic, international, and comparative public policy. Bucknell also has a small but growing community of Asia scholars. In the spring of 2014, Bucknell introduced a 5-Year Diversity Plan aimed at enhancing the diversity of the faculty, staff, student body, and curriculum of the university. Located in Central Pennsylvania along the Susquehanna River, Bucknell is nestled in the Borough of Lewisburg, an architectural gem that has been ranked as one of America's best small towns. The Lewisburg area offers a unique combination of outdoor recreation opportunities, and appealing amenities such as art galleries, an art deco theater, historic museums, and charming independent boutiques and restaurants. In addition, the surrounding region offers outstanding schools, medical facilities, and an affordable cost of living. For those who crave the city, Bucknell is within an easy three-hour drive to Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C.

Bucknell University, an Equal Opportunity Employer, believes that students learn best in a diverse, inclusive community and is therefore committed to academic excellence through diversity in its faculty, staff, and students. We seek candidates who are committed to Bucknell's efforts to create a climate that fosters the growth and development of a diverse student body, and we welcome applications from members of groups that have been historically underrepresented in higher education.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1513

Eckerd College

Rank: Comparative Politics and Environmental Policy/East Asia

Eckerd College: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Comparative Politics and Environmental Policy/East Asia. The discipline of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level to begin September 2017. Ph.D. in Political Science required. The department seeks a broadly educated scholar trained in Comparative Politics and Environmental Policy with regional specialization in the politics of East Asia. Teach seven courses (3-1-3) per academic year, including Comparative Politics. Preparation and willingness to teach social science statistical methods required.

Candidates should have a lively interest in scholarly research and a demonstrated background in teaching excellence. Expertise in East Asian politics with any of the following sub-fields is welcome: global environmental politics and climate change, sustainability, wildlife and biodiversity, marine resources, tropical forest environments, international political economy, global security and diplomacy. In addition, field experience in East Asia, previous work in a multi-disciplinary program, and a desire to teach in study abroad programs will be a plus. Participation in an interdisciplinary, values-oriented general education program is required, including a regular rotation in the two-semester first-year program. Eckerd College, the only independent national liberal arts college in Florida, has a tradition of innovative education and teaching/mentoring excellence.

Submit a letter of application, vita, teaching evaluations, statement of teaching philosophy and teaching interests, statement of research interests, graduate and undergraduate transcripts, and contact information for three References so that letters of recommendation can be requested, via www.eckerd.edu/hr/employment. Applications must be complete by October 10, 2016. All inquiries, including APSA interviews, may be sent to Dr. Anthony R. Brunello; brunelar@eckerd.edu. EOE. Applications from women/minorities encouraged.

Will interview at APSA 2016 meeting in Philadelphia. Qualified candidates must be authorized to work in the United States for the College.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/10/2016

Date Posted: 6/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1515

Furman University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Furman University invites applications for an open rank tenure-track appointment in comparative politics to begin Fall 2017. The candidate's teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses in comparative politics and upper level courses in the area of Middle East politics. The ability to teach a Politics of Africa course and/or an introductory course in research methodology is a strong plus. S/he must demonstrate the potential for superb teaching and excellence in scholarship.

Furman University is a private, selective liberal arts college of about 2,700 residential students located in Greenville, South Carolina, which is situated in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Greenville has a thriving downtown and international community and is within a short driving distance of Charlotte, Atlanta, and Asheville. The Department of Political Science has 15 full-time members. Normal teaching responsibilities are five courses, spread over two terms, typically including two or three introductory courses and two or three upper level courses.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. We will also meet with interested and qualified candidates at the American Political Science Association convention in Philadelphia, PA. To apply please go to <https://jobs.furman.edu/postings/5738>. For any questions please contact the chairperson of the search committee Dr. Akan Malici at akan.malici@furman.edu. Furman University is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. Furman offers employment benefits to domestic partners of employees.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1505

Webster University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Department of History, Politics, and International Relations at Webster University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in international relations. The ideal candidate will be broadly trained in international relations and comparative politics, with area studies expertise in Asia, Africa or Latin America. Applicants should also be prepared to share responsibility for teaching introductory research methods. PhD in hand by the time of appointment is required. The normal teaching load at Webster is three courses per semester and, in this case, will include at least one online class per year at the graduate level. While quality teaching is the most important criterion for success at Webster, the department expects faculty to maintain an active research agenda, participate in faculty governance, and share in student advising and the administration of department programs, including curriculum assessment and student recruitment. Webster University offers substantial support for research and opportunities to teach at our overseas campuses.

The position starts August 2017. Please forward a cover letter, cv, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference to irsearch@webster.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. We will also conduct preliminary interviews at the American Political Science Association meetings in Philadelphia, September 1-4.

Webster University is committed to creating a diverse environment and is proud to be an equal opportunity employer. We are committed to maintaining a culturally and academically diverse faculty and staff of the highest caliber. Accordingly, Webster University provides equal employment opportunities (EEO) to all employees and applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, national origin, ethnicity, age, protected veteran or disabled status, genetic information, or any other characteristic protected by applicable law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/15/2016
Date Posted: 6/1/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1511

Iowa State University

Rank: Lecturer

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Iowa State University invites applications for a Full or Part-Time Lecturer position to teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses within one or more of the political science subfields: Theory and Methods, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, or Public Policy Administration. The appointment duration may be one semester to three years depending on department need and it may be Full-Time or Part-Time.

Required Education and Experience: MA or MPA in Political Science or related discipline, or JD. Evidence of scholarly and teaching activities.

Preferred Education and Experience: ABD or Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline.

Evidence of scholarly and teaching activities

To apply for this position, please click on "Apply to this job" at <http://www.iastatejobs.com:80/postings/18263> and complete the Employment Application. Please be prepared to enter or attach the following:

- 1) Resume/Curriculum Vitae
- 2) Letter of Application/Cover Letter
- 3) Contact Information for Three References
- 4) Statement of Teaching Interests/Experience
- 5) Statement of Teaching Evaluations- Optional- Please attach as "Other Document(s) 1"

If you have questions regarding this application process, please email employment@iastate.edu or call 515-294-4800 or Toll Free: 1-877-477-7485.

All offers of employment, oral and written, are contingent upon the university's verification of credentials and other information required by federal and state law, ISU policies/procedures, and may include the completion of a background check.

The Department of Political Science has 15 tenure track faculty and a vibrant MA program which serves approximately 32 students and an undergraduate major with approximately 260 majors. Please visit the following site for additional information about the Department at <http://www.pols.iastate.edu/>

Iowa State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, age, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, marital status, disability, or protected veteran status, and will not be discriminated against. Inquiries can be directed to the Director of Equal Opportunity, 3350 Beardshear Hall, (515) 294-7612.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 4/26/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1433

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Berea College

Rank: Tenure-Track position in Political Science

Specializations: Developing Nations, Foreign Policy, International Political Economy

Berea College announces a full-time, tenure-track position in Political Science beginning August 2017. Responsibilities include teaching introductory Political Science courses, advanced courses in Comparative Politics and International Relations, and courses in an interdisciplinary General Education program. We seek an individual who is an excellent instructor and scholar to join a faculty of scholar-teachers. Candidates should have a Ph.D. or expect to complete the Ph.D. by August 2017. Commitment to the mission of Berea College and to superior teaching at the undergraduate level is essential. It is desirable that the candidate contribute to one or more of the following programs: African and African American Studies, Asian Studies, Economics, History, Peace & Social Justice Studies, Women's & Gender Studies, and Sustainability and Environmental Studies.

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae (CV), statement of teaching philosophy, transcripts, and arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent to: pscsearch2016@berea.edu. Applicants should also complete and send the Faculty Application available at www.berea.edu/FacApp along with other materials. Review of materials will begin November 4, 2016, and continue until the position is filled.

Berea College achieved national distinction as the first coeducational and interracial college in the South. With an emphasis on service to the people of Appalachia and beyond, Berea enrolls 1,600 students from 40 states and 60 countries. The College has a longstanding commitment to interracial education; here, people of different races seek to learn from and about each other, while also living together.

Berea is among the most racially diverse private liberal arts colleges in the United States. The College admits only students whose families are unable to afford the high cost of tuition and awards each of them a four-year tuition scholarship. Berea's students excel in the College's supportive but demanding academic environment, and many are the first in their families to graduate from college. The College is one of seven federally recognized Work Colleges, and all students hold a position in which they work 10-12 hours per week. Washington Monthly Magazine has consistently ranked Berea in the top 3 of Liberal Arts Colleges for its success in educating and graduating academically talented, low-income students who become service-oriented leaders in their professions and communities; in 2016-2017, the magazine ranked it number 1.

Located where the Bluegrass Region meets the Cumberland Mountains, the town of Berea (pop. 14,000) lies forty miles south of Lexington and is approximately two hours from Cincinnati, Louisville, and Knoxville. More information about Berea College is available at www.berea.edu.

Berea College, in light of its mission in the tradition of impartial love and social equality, welcomes all people of the earth to learn and work here.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2147

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

Application requirements

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 30, 2016, via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/35593>

- A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits.
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.
- A copy of each graduate transcript.
- A writing sample.

- Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 30; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2017.

Eligibility and terms

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from the social sciences, including anthropology, economics, history, political science, and sociology. Scholars of all nationalities who received PhDs within three years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. For full application details see <http://watson.brown.edu/education/postdoc>.

For further information

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website <http://watson.brown.edu> or contact:

Professor Catherine Lutz, Faculty Director of the Watson Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University at catherine_lutz@brown.edu; or

Keith Brown, Director of Post-Doctoral and Undergraduate Policy Programs, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University, Brown University at keith_brown@brown.edu.

For questions about the application process itself, please contact watson_applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2117

Hollins University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Advanced Industrial Societies, China, Environmental Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor of Global Politics and Societies

HOLLINS UNIVERSITY

The Global Politics and Societies (GPS) Department at Hollins University in Roanoke, Virginia invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor. This is a full-time position with a three-year appointment beginning July 1, 2017.

The new GPS department includes four separate major programs of study in sociology, religious studies, political science, and international studies and one minor program of study in social justice. Each of the programs uses an interdisciplinary approach with some shared courses and collaborative teaching based on the common research and teaching interests of faculty members.

The ideal candidate will be a broadly trained political scientist or sociologist with global research and teaching interests. Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in comparative politics and international studies, as well as upper-level electives in sociology and international studies. The faculty member will also be expected to contribute to shared courses in other GPS programs of study. Preference will be given to candidates who can also contribute to one or more of the following programs: environmental studies, gender and women's studies, religious studies, and/or urban studies. The position carries a teaching load of three courses per semester. Other duties include advising students, conducting independent studies, supervising students doing senior research projects, participating in department and university service, and ongoing scholarly activity in the form of publications and presentations.

Candidates must meet the following minimum requirements: Ph.D. in political science, sociology, or related GPS discipline completed by June 30, 2017; evidence of scholarly promise; and an excellent record of teaching at the undergraduate level. Applicants must also demonstrate a clear understanding of and commitment to teaching in a single-sex, liberal arts institution. Applications are sought from those who have demonstrated success working with diverse populations and share Hollins' commitment to preparing students for leadership opportunities in a broadly diverse, global society. Final candidates will be subject to a criminal history background check.

Qualified candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, separate statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of effective teaching, three letters of recommendation, and graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts are acceptable) to GPS@hollins.edu. Applications must be received by Dec. 1, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Hollins is an independent, liberal arts university offering undergraduate education for women, selected graduate programs for men and women, and community outreach initiatives. Founded in 1842 as Virginia's oldest chartered women's college, Hollins is best known for its creative writing program, one of the oldest study-abroad programs in the country, and extensive internship opportunities. The campus is surrounded by the Blue Ridge Mountains, and has the amenities of a mid-sized city in the immediate vicinity.

Hollins University is an equal opportunity employer. Hollins values diversity in its community, and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented populations.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/26/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2118

University of Chicago

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Harris School of Public Policy at the University of Chicago invites applications for senior faculty positions in the study of armed conflict. The search is open with respect to field and rank. Candidates should submit a CV and any accompanying documents such as sample publications online at: <http://tinyurl.com/h6pz5gk>. No applications will be accepted after June 30, 2017.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at <http://www.uchicago.edu/about/> non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-5671 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/26/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2111

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Economics

Assistant Professor, International Economics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (formerly known as the School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of International Economics to begin July 1st, 2017.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in Economics, and an expertise in one of the following fields: international trade, international macroeconomics, or international finance. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1st, 2017.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service, and contribute to---and participate in---our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

The closing day for applications is December 1, 2016.

Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; research papers; three (3) letters of reference; and a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>).

All applicant materials should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01221>. The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 9/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/23/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2089

University of North Texas

Rank: Assistant Professor--Comparative Politics/International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of North Texas invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2017 in the broadly defined field of contentious politics in comparative politics and/or international relations. We are interested in prospective candidates who conduct research in such areas as civil society, social movements, ethnic politics, and non-state opposition groups (e.g., terrorist organizations, rebel organizations, extremist parties).

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) A Ph.D. in Political Science (highly qualified ABD candidates will also be considered) and (2) evidence that demonstrates a potential for excellence in research, teaching, and service will be required of the selected candidate. Preference will be given to candidates with strong methods skills and who are likely to publish in top-tier journals, seek external funding, and who show a willingness to work with other faculty and graduate students.

The faculty member will teach core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continue a record of robust scholarly research, direct graduate research, and provide service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 26 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly and Journal of Political Science Education. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the UNT Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site can be found at: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With nearly 38,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) a writing sample, (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., peer reviews, evaluations), (6) a copy of transcripts, and (7) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquiries to David Mason, search committee chair (David.Mason@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 21, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date. UNT is an AA/ADA/EOE.

The University of North Texas System is firmly committed to equal opportunity and does not permit - and takes actions to prevent - discrimination, harassment (including sexual violence), and retaliation on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, disability, family status, genetic information, citizenship or veteran status in its application and admission processes, educational programs and activities, facilities, and employment practices. The University of North Texas System immediately investigates and takes remedial action when appropriate. The University of North Texas System also takes actions to prevent retaliation against individuals who oppose a discriminatory practice, file a charge, or testify, assist or participate in an investigative proceeding or hearing.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2115

Rhodes College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics/ International Relations

Rhodes College – Visiting Assistant Professor – Comparative Politics / International Relations

The Department of International Studies at Rhodes College invites applications for a visiting Assistant Professor to start Fall 2017. A Ph.D. in hand by Fall 2017 is required. The appointee is expected to teach introductory and advanced courses in either Comparative Politics or International Relations as well as an upper level course on international conflict. The ability to teach research methods in international studies would be a plus. The position has a 3-3 teaching load and offers the possibility for renewal up to a third year after the successful completion of the first year.

The department seeks candidates with a strong commitment to teaching and research. Successful candidates will also be those who can contribute to an interdisciplinary atmosphere. Application materials must include: a letter of application, CV, names and contact information of 3 references, writing/publication sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please address in your cover letter your interest in teaching at a liberal arts college and how your experiences with teaching, scholarship, and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity as one of its core values. Apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu. For additional information please contact Ms. Kim Stevenson, Departmental Assistant, Department of International Studies, StevensonK@rhodes.edu. Review of completed applications will begin on November 14 and continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2099

Seoul National University

Rank: Open and Multiple Ranks

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at Seoul National University is searching for a tenure track position in either International Relations or Comparative Politics/Area Studies. The position is for foreign nationals (non-Korean citizens) and open to all ranks. We are particularly interested in a candidate specialized in Europe or Middle East with excellent research capacity and strong commitment to teaching. Candidates with other interests are also welcomed to apply.

The expected starting date is Spring 2017 or Fall 2017. Upon employment, the individual will teach undergraduate and graduate courses in English. Teaching load is one class per semester for the first year, and regular teaching load is two per semester thereafter. Housing subsidy will be available.

Please find the notice no. 373 from the website(<https://professor.snu.ac.kr/adm/public/hurt/rcrt/frame/oio/NoticeMatr.jsp#>) and be sure to send all the required documents via e-mail and to the following address by post.

- e-mail
fs96@snu.ac.kr

- post address
Office of Academic Affairs (Bldg. 16, Room 314)
College of Social Sciences, Seoul National University
1 Gwanak-ro, Gwanak-gu, Seoul 08826 Republic of Korea

The application due date is Oct 21, 2016.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: 10/21/2016

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2102

University of North Carolina, Wilmington

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Position Title: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Department: Public & International Affairs - 32421

Vacancy Number: 16F-052

Position Number: 6172

Location of Workplace: Main UNCW Campus

Summary of Position:

The Department of Public and International Affairs is seeking a Tenure Track Assistant Professor in International Relations with an emphasis on International Security and Conflict to teach in the Graduate Program in Conflict Management and Resolution (CMR). The CMR program offers both a Master's degree and a Certificate in CMR and concentrations in National and International Security (NIS) and Domestic, Social and Organizational Conflict Transformation (DSOC). This program is based on a dual-format, blended-course model which includes intensive instructional blocks utilizing face-to-face instruction, video teleconferencing and mobile access followed by self-paced but guided distance education. Candidates must be capable of excellent teaching in the Graduate Program and are also expected to offer courses in international relations at the undergraduate level, traditional class-room delivery. This position carries a 3-3 teaching load and the candidate will be expected to begin in August 2017.

Minimum Requirements:

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, International Security, or a related field required. ABDs will be considered for the position. The successful candidate is expected to maintain a productive and active research agenda producing peer reviewed research, and to participate as a department citizen through service obligations as needed.

Preferred Qualifications:

A PhD in Political Science, International Relations, International Security or related field, in hand by the start date is preferred. The focus of this hire is on Graduate CMR and undergraduate teaching in political science with a focus on International Relations (International and National Security), a secondary regional specialization in the Africa, Asia or the Middle East is considered a plus. The candidate will have the opportunity to contribute to the other graduate programs in Public Administration (MPA) and Coastal & Ocean Policy (MCOP) as well.

Primary Function of Organizational Unit:

The Department of Public and International Affairs supports the Bachelor of Arts in Political Science with Undergraduate Minors in International Affairs, Security Studies, Campaign Management, Law and Public Administration. At the graduate level, faculty support courses in the Master of Public Administration, Master of Arts in Conflict Management and Resolution, and Master of Coastal and Ocean Policy.

College/School Information:

At UNCW, the College of Arts and Sciences provides the vital foundation for the university's pursuit of excellence. Through our teaching, we educate students for lives of fulfillment in the twenty-first century. Through our research, we advance the state of knowledge and creativity in the arts and sciences. And through our outreach, we improve the quality of life in Southeastern North Carolina and beyond.

University Information:

The University of North Carolina Wilmington, the state's coastal university, is dedicated to learning through the integration of teaching and mentoring with research and service. A public institution with over 14,000 students, the university is known for its superb faculty and staff and powerful academic experience. With an array of high-quality programs at the baccalaureate and master's levels, and doctoral programs in marine biology and educational leadership, UNCW is consistently recognized at a national level for academic excellence and affordability by publications like U.S. News & World Report, Kiplinger's Personal Finance and The Business Journals. UNCW also recently earned the 2015 Community Engagement Classification from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, bestowed to higher education institutions dedicated to community involvement.

EEO Statement:

UNC Wilmington actively fosters a diverse and inclusive working and learning environment and is an equal opportunity employer. Qualified men and women from all racial, ethnic or other minority groups, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Position Type: Permanent

Job Posting Date: 09/22/2016

Priority Consideration Date: 10/30/2016

Priority Consideration Information:

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by the Priority Date; however, applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2098

Eastern Mennonite UniversityRank: Full-time Assistant or Associate Professor in tenure-track faculty position in Political Studies

QUALIFICATIONS: PhD in Political Science/Studies or related fields, including Political History, International Relations, or Public Policy. Expertise in Hispanic/Latino or non-Western research interests and experience preferred; international experience desirable. Christian faith with strong affinity for the values espoused by EMU that draw from its Anabaptist/Mennonite heritage, evidence of scholarship and/or practice in the field, and ability to contribute to university and departmental service expected.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Teaching responsibilities (typically three to four courses per semester) include primarily undergraduate courses in the Department of History. Applicants must have a strong commitment to high quality teaching and be enthusiastic about mentoring and advising students. Engagement in ongoing scholarly activity and departmental and university service is expected. Ability and willingness to take on administrative responsibilities desirable.

COMPENSATION: Nine month contract. Salary determined by education and experience. Eastern Mennonite University uses a tenure-with-review contract system.

APPOINTMENT DATE: Position begins mid-August 2017. EMU reserves the right to fill the position at any time or keep the position open.

INQUIRIES: Application review begins October 15. Applicants will be asked to respond to questions specific to EMU's mission after the initial inquiry. Send letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts (unofficial acceptable), and three letters of reference to

Dr. Deirdre L. Smeltzer, Vice President and Undergraduate Academic Dean
 ugdean@emu.edu
 Eastern Mennonite University
 1200 Park Road
 Harrisonburg, VA 22802
 (540) 432-4141

Eastern Mennonite University (<http://www.emu.edu>) is an equal opportunity employer, committed to enhancing diversity across the institution. Eastern Mennonite University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, sex, disability, age, sexual orientation, or gender identity. EMU conducts criminal background investigations as part of the hiring process.

EMU seeks faculty who have demonstrated or show promise of -teaching excellence in a Christian liberal arts environment,
 -a commitment to ongoing scholarship, and
 -familiarity with and support for Anabaptist/Mennonite Christian faith practices.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/20/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 2082Oakland University*Rank: Assistant Professor

OAKLAND UNIVERSITY

International Relations/International Political Economy – 2016/2017

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in International Relations with primary specialization in International/Global Political Economy, at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin August 15, 2017. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach an introductory course in international politics and upper-division courses in international/global political economy. Candidates will also have an opportunity to teach related thematic courses such as Globalization and IR Theory, and to develop additional courses in their area of expertise. Secondary specialization is open though the ability to teach quantitative methods and/or Asian politics is desirable.

Candidates with their Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but candidates who are ABD will also be considered, provided that they can demonstrate they are near completion of the dissertation. Candidates with prior college or university teaching experience, and those who have demonstrated scholarly productivity are especially encouraged to apply but those able to demonstrate strong potential for success in teaching and research will also be considered. Teaching load is competitive.

To apply, upload a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (unofficial copy acceptable), writing sample and a document with the names and contact information for three references to <http://jobs.oakland.edu/postings/8924>. Candidates may also upload teaching evaluations and sample syllabi if available.

The Department, housed in the College of Arts and Sciences, offers an undergraduate degree program in Political Science (B.A.), International Relations (B.A.), in Public Administration and Public Policy (B.S.), and an accredited graduate degree in Public Administration (M.P.A.) with concentrations in Health Care, Local Government, Criminal Justice, Court Administration, and Nonprofit Management.

Oakland University is a state-assisted, Doctoral/Research University offering baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral degree programs to more than 20,000 students. The 1,400-acre campus is located in Rochester, Michigan a suburban community 26 miles north of Detroit. The University hosts a residential theater company, maintains an art gallery and historic mansion, and provides an outdoor venue for summer musical events. It is convenient to many social, cultural, and recreational activities in the metropolitan Detroit area. For more information about the department, College of Arts and Sciences, and Oakland University visit our website at www.oakland.edu.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/20/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 2079

Tel Aviv UniversityRank: Tenure Track Position*Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Tenure-track, assistant or associate professor position, open to all subfields.

The Department of Political Science at Tel Aviv University invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant or associate professor position. The position is open to all subfields, with a preference for comparative politics and international relations scholars. The term of appointment would begin October 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than two pages).

The committee will begin reading applications on October 15, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should send their applications to Shain@tauex.tau.ac.il and azargat@post.tau.ac.il.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/20/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1928McGill University*Rank: Assistant Professor, Politics and Environment*Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

McGill University

Assistant Professor, Politics and Environment

Department of Political Science and McGill School of Environment

The McGill School of Environment (MSE) and the Department of Political Science invite applications for a joint tenure-track position in Politics and Environment. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank may be possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

The Department and School welcome applications from qualified candidates working within any subfield in Environmental Politics. The search is open in terms of methodological specialization, although candidates are expected to be able to demonstrate expertise in either quantitative or qualitative methods, or both. While all applications will be given full consideration, we are particularly interested in scholars whose work incorporates some of the following elements: is transnational in scope or has the potential to move in this direction, addresses the consequences of environmental change for public policy at various institutional levels, examines the relationships between environmental change and other phenomena such as international migration or conflict. The School of Environment is highly interdisciplinary; the successful candidate will have demonstrated an excellent capacity to work in an interdisciplinary context and to develop interdisciplinary collaborations.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students.

Applications should include a letter of motivation, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, samples of written work (up to three reprints), a teaching statement (including material pertinent to teaching skills), and a research statement. The position start date is August 1, 2017.

For more information about the Department, the School, and University, visit our web sites at: mcgill.ca/politicalscience/ and mcgill.ca/mse. The Department and School maintain close relationships with other units at McGill with interests in the environment such as the School of Public Policy, which is expected to take in its first cohort of students in 2018, the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), mcgill.ca/isid, and the Institute for Health and Social Policy mcgill.ca/ihsp.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Hudson Meadwell, hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca, or to Professor Sylvie de Blois, Director, McGill School of the Environment sylvie.deblois@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 28, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/7944>

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill

Poste de professeure, professeur, Politique et Environnement

Département de science politique et École d'environnement

L'École d'environnement de McGill et le Département de science politique sollicitent des candidatures pour un poste de professeure ou professeur à temps plein en politique et environnement. Nous recherchons une candidate, un candidat au rang d'adjoint bien qu'un poste à un rang supérieur puisse être considéré dans des circonstances exceptionnelles. Le doctorat devra avoir été complété ou sur le point de l'être.

Nous recherchons des personnes hautement qualifiées dont l'expertise s'inscrit dans tout sous-domaine pertinent à la politique environnementale. Nous sommes ouverts à toute approche méthodologique en autant qu'elle s'appuie sur de solides compétences quantitatives ou qualitatives, ou les deux. Toutes les candidatures seront considérées, mais nous sommes particulièrement intéressés par des profils de recherche comportant certains des éléments suivants : portée transnationale ou le potentiel d'évoluer dans cette direction, s'adressent aux conséquences des changements environnementaux sur les politiques publiques à divers niveaux institutionnels, examinent les relations entre les changements environnementaux et d'autres phénomènes tels les migrations internationales ou les conflits. L'École d'environnement est axée sur l'interdisciplinarité; la personne retenue aura démontré une excellente capacité à travailler dans un contexte interdisciplinaire et à développer des collaborations interdisciplinaires.

Le dossier de candidature devra faire la preuve d'un excellent potentiel en recherche et en enseignement aux trois cycles, ainsi que d'une

capacité à superviser la recherche aux cycles supérieurs. Il devra inclure une lettre de motivation, un curriculum vitae, les relevés officiels d'études supérieures, trois lettres de recommandation, un exemplaire de trois publications ou des travaux de recherche récents, un exposé sur la philosophie d'enseignement (incluant tout matériel démontrant les aptitudes à l'enseignement) et un exposé sur le programme de recherche proposé. Le poste sera effectif le 1er août 2017.

Les personnes intéressées trouveront plus d'informations sur le Département, sur l'École et sur l'Université en consultant les sites Web mcgill.ca/politicalscience et mcgill.ca/mse. Le Département de science politique et l'École d'environnement maintiennent des liens étroits avec d'autres unités intéressées à l'environnement à McGill tels : the School of Public Policy, qui recevra sa première cohorte d'étudiants en 2018, the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), mcgill.ca/isid; et the Institute for Health and Social Policy, mcgill.ca/ihs

Toutes questions au sujet de ce poste peuvent être envoyées au Professeur Hudson Meadwell hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca, directeur du Département de science politique, ou à la professeure Sylvie de Blois, directrice de l'École d'environnement de McGill sylvie.deblois@mcgill.ca.

La révision des dossiers de candidature débutera le 28 octobre 2016 et continuera jusqu'à ce le poste soit comblé.

SVP SOUMETTRE VOTRE CANDIDATURE EN LIGNE:
<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/7944>

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. "On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents."

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 10/28/2016
Date Posted: 9/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2068

University of California Irvine

Rank: Lecturer
Specializations: Africa, Gender Politics & Policy, International Security

International Studies
University of California, Irvine
School of Social Sciences - International Studies Lecturers
The Program in International Studies is establishing a pool of qualified applicants as Lecturers to teach courses in International Studies, including but not limited to International Political Economy, Regional Studies (Middle East and Africa), Humanitarianism, NGOs, Public Policy, Gender, and Global Trade.

These positions may be available during the Fall 16, Winter 2017 and/or Spring 20 17 quarters. We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who can contribute to the quality of our undergraduate program. The number of courses available varies by quarter and year.

Rank: Lecturer
Salary Range: $5,500 - $6,000 per course

Qualifications: Ph.D. preferred in the related area of International Studies disciplines.

Positions May Be Available: Fall 2016, Winter 2017 and Spring 2017
Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF03699>

The University of California, Irvine is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Closing Dates:
Fall 2016 Quarter, September 22, 2016
Winter 2016 Quarter, November 30, 2016
Spring 2016 Quarter, January 30, 2017

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Winter 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2072

University of Connecticut

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, International Relations/Political Violence

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut is seeking to hire an assistant or associate professor in the area of international relations, with a research and teaching focus in political violence as broadly construed. We are interested in scholars working in the areas of traditional and emerging threats to peace.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is in the midst of a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencect.uhc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for this faculty position in the Department of Political Science.

The Department of Political Science has 37 faculty members, over 500 undergraduate students and 60 graduate students, and actively engages in research in American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory, and Public Law. Our faculty have enjoyed recognition for their scholarship both nationally and internationally. The department has traditionally featured an active Colloquia series that highlights scholars from UConn and other universities, as well as opportunities for collaboration with the Human Rights Institute, Africana Studies Institute, Asian and Asian American Studies Institute, Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Program, El Instituto, and many others. For more information about the Department, please visit <http://www.polisci.uconn.edu>.

The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to research and scholarship through extramural funding, high quality publications, and generate impact as measured through citations, performances and exhibits, as well as aspire to gain national recognition as through honorific awards. In the area of teaching, the successful candidate will share a deep commitment to effective instruction at the undergraduate and graduate levels, development of innovative courses and mentoring of students in research, and outreach and professional development. Newly hired faculty will also be expected to broaden participation among members of under-represented groups; demonstrate through their research, teaching, and/or public engagement the richness of diversity in the learning experience; and integrate multicultural experiences into instructional methods and research tools.

Minimum Qualifications

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; evidence or promise of a strong research/publication record; the ability to teach courses in political science at both the graduate and undergraduate levels; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through their academic and research programs. All candidates must demonstrate strong promise (assistant) or exceptional achievement (associate) in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

Preferred Qualifications

A quantitative methodological approach is preferred, though candidates employing mixed-methods are also encouraged to apply. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, on-line instruction; and the ability to contribute through research and research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

Appointment Terms

This is a full-time, 9-month, tenure-track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2017. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Storrs campus. Faculty may also be asked to teach at one of UConn's regional campuses as part of their ordinary workload. Rank and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To Apply

Follow the link under Faculty Positions & College of Liberal Arts and Sciences on <http://jobs.uconn.edu>. Please submit the following: curriculum vitae, a letter of application, graduate school transcripts, writing samples; course syllabi and teaching evaluations (if available); a teaching statement (including teaching philosophy, teaching experience, commitment to effective learning, concepts for new course development, etc.); research and scholarship statement (innovative concepts that will form the basis of academic career, experience in proposal development, mentorship of graduate students, etc.); and a commitment to diversity statement (including broadening participation, integrating multicultural experiences in instruction and research and pedagogical techniques to meet the needs of diverse learning styles, etc.). Additionally, please follow the instructions on Academic Jobs Online to direct at least three references to submit letters on your behalf.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016. Employment of the successful candidate is contingent upon the successful completion of a pre-employment criminal background check. (Search # 2017121).

All employees are subject to adherence to the State Code of Ethics which may be found at <http://www.ct.gov/ethics/site/default.asp>.

The University of Connecticut is committed to building and supporting a multicultural and diverse community of students, faculty and staff. The diversity of students, faculty and staff continues to increase, as does the number of honors students, valedictorians and salutatorians who consistently make UConn their top choice. More than 100 research centers and institutes serve the University's teaching, research, diversity, and outreach missions, leading to UConn's ranking as one of the nation's top research universities. UConn's faculty and staff are the critical link to fostering and expanding our vibrant, multicultural and diverse University community. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer, UConn encourages applications from women, veterans, people with disabilities and members of traditionally underrepresented populations.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2069

Australian National University

Rank: Lecturer- Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Job no: 511175

Work type: Continuing (Contingent Funded)

Location: Canberra / ACT

Categories: Academic

Classification: Academic Level B

Salary package: $94,287 - $107,381 per annum plus 17% superannuation

Work with Australia's highest leading University-affiliated think tank, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre

Work with the award winning Military and Defence Studies program, at the Australian Command and Staff College

Standard teaching load of two courses per year (or equivalent)

Position overview

The ANU College of Asia and the Pacific (CAP) leads intellectual engagement with the Asia-Pacific region through research, teaching and contributions to public debate, and seeks to set the international standard for scholarship concerning the region.

Based at the College of Asia and the Pacific and within the highly regarded Coral Bell School of Asia Pacific Affairs, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre (SDSC) is Australia's highest ranked and largest concentration of scholars working on strategic and defence issues.

The Lecturers in Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations will deliver a major contribution to the SDSC's educational programs, particularly its Military and Defence Studies program. This graduate program is delivered by SDSC to mid-level military officers attending the Australian Command and Staff College (ACSC), where the Lecturers will primarily be based.

We are looking to appoint outstanding scholars with particular research and teaching expertise in the following areas:

Strategic Studies
 Strategic Theory
 Strategic Concepts
 Nuclear strategy
 Contemporary Military operations
 Theory and practice of air operations
 Theory and practice of maritime operations

As part of our ongoing efforts to rectify historical gender imbalances in the field of Strategic Studies, we are particularly keen to encourage highly-qualified female applicants.

For information about this position please contact Associate Professor Brendan Taylor on 02 61259928 or by email brendan.taylor@anu.edu.au

<http://bellschool.anu.edu.au>

The University actively encourages applications from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. For more information on employment opportunities, contact our Indigenous Employment Consultant on indigenous.employment@anu.edu.au

ANU values diversity and inclusion and believes employment opportunities must not be limited by socio-economic background, race, religion or gender. For more information about staff equity at ANU, visit <https://services.anu.edu.au/human-resources/respect-inclusion>

Application information

In order to apply for this role please make sure that you upload the following documents:

A statement addressing the selection criteria.
 A current curriculum vitae (CV) which includes the names and contact details of at least three referees (preferably including a current or previous supervisor). If your CV does not include referees you can complete these online when prompted in the application form.
 Other documents, if required.

Applications which do not address the selection criteria may not be considered for the position.

To apply: <http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/511175/lecturer-strategic-studies-andor-contemporary-military-operations>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2016

Salary: $100,000 - $109,999

eJobs ID: 2067

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) at Arizona State University invites applications for a tenure-eligible Assistant Professor in the area of Global Studies with substantive focus on political geography broadly defined. Anticipated start date is August 2017.

Consistent with the inter-disciplinary nature of SPGS, we seek applications from social scientists whose research and teaching interests engage important local, national, international and/or global social and political issues. We are specifically interested in applications from applicants whose work addresses the geographic or spatial elements of these issues, particularly as it relates to substantive areas such as economic development, economic and social inequality, public health, environmental change, humanitarian intervention, or similar topics. The position is open with respect to methodological focus; however, methodological sophistication in areas such as GIS, spatial econometrics, or other advanced statistical, experimental, or formal modeling skills, or the sophisticated use of mixed methods is expected.

Required qualifications: Ph.D. in a relevant social science discipline (political science, geography, economics, sociology, etc.) by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; an established or developing research agenda in political geography or a closely related area of inquiry; methodological sophistication; and a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching.

Desired qualifications: a record of publishing in top journals in the applicant's discipline; evidence of competitive external grants; the ability to teach courses in spatial analysis; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The School of Politics and Global Studies grants a Ph.D., M.A., B.S. and B.A. in Political Science and a B.A. in Global Studies. The School offers a M.A. in Global Affairs and Management in conjunction with the Thunderbird School of Global Management. The successful candidate will have opportunities to contribute scholarship, teaching and service to advance these and other programs at ASU. The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidate will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Initial deadline for review of complete application is October 24, 2016; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, please submit via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7852>, the following application materials: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample; and contact information (include email) for three references. We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search. A background check is required for employment.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

<https://www.asu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html>
<https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 10/24/2016
Date Posted: 9/16/2016
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 2064

Arizona State University Rank: Tenure Track Faculty Positions

The School of Politics and Global Studies at Arizona State University invites applications for up to two tenure-eligible faculty positions with a focus in Political Economy. At least one of the positions will be at the Assistant Professor level and the remaining position will be open rank. Applicants interested in assistant, associate or full professor ranks are encouraged to apply. Rank and tenure status will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. Anticipated start date is August 2017.

We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development). The position is also open with respect to methodology, though methodological sophistication, such as advanced statistical, experimental, or formal modeling skills, or the sophisticated use of mixed methods is expected. Grant activity for more senior appointments is also desired.

The School of Politics and Global Studies grants a Ph.D., M.A., B.S. and B.A. in Political Science and a B.A. in Global Studies. The School offers a M.A. in Global Affairs and Management in conjunction with the Thunderbird School of Global Management. The School is also developing an undergraduate degree in Political Economy with the Economics department at ASU. The successful candidates will contribute scholarship, teaching and service to advance these programs and the mission of the School of Politics and Global Studies. The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidates will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University, including the Center for the Study of Economic Liberty and the Department of Economics within the W.P. Carey School of Business.

Required qualifications:

- a Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment
- Commensurate with desired rank:
 - o Demonstrated excellence in research,
 - o An established or developing research agenda in the area of Political Economy
 - o A clear record of, or clear potential for, publishing in top journals in the candidate's discipline
 - o Methodological sophistication
 - o Demonstrated excellence in teaching.

Desired qualifications:

- Research interests in line with the Center for the Study of Economic Liberty
- Commensurate with desired rank:
 - o A strong record of graduate student mentoring
 - o Evidence of or potential to establish external grant activity
- Demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities

Initial deadline for review of complete applications is October 24, 2016; if not filled, review of complete application will continue every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, please submit via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7850>, the following application materials: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample; and contact information (including email) for three references. We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search. A background check is required for employment.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

<https://www.asu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html>
<https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 10/24/2016
Date Posted: 9/16/2016
Salary: Any
eJobs ID: 2063

Columbia University Rank: Assistant Professor

Columbia University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant Professor level to begin July 1, 2017. Preference will be given to applicants with a specialization in international political economy. Ph.D. required at the time of appointment. Candidates will be expected to sustain an active research and publication agenda and teach in undergraduate and graduate programs. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of three references, and a writing sample. The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2016, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women and under-represented minorities.

Please visit our online application site at <http://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=63343> to submit an application.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/15/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2046

Princeton University Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to six visitors for the 2017-2018 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. NCGG will award one-year research positions to eligible, talented postdoctoral or more senior scholars. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Preference will be given to recent recipients of a doctoral degree. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2017 - July 1, 2018).

Application Deadline – December 9, 2016, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials and apply online at: <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition no. 1600791.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 9, 2016. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions will also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2016 - July 1, 2017).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2017.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2037

University of Baltimore

Rank: Faculty (Tenure-Track Assistant Professor) Negotiations & Conflict Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, Political Behavior, Political Communication

Faculty (Tenure-Track Assistant Professor) Negotiations & Conflict Management

School of Public and International Affairs, College of Public Affairs
University of Baltimore

Vacancy Number 300690

Faculty position with benefits package

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications

Note: The position is open until filled, and completed applications received by December 15, 2016 will receive full consideration. Review of materials will begin in mid January 2017 and will continue until the search is completed.

University of Baltimore -- The School of Public and International Affairs in the College of Public Affairs invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position (tenure-track) in the M.S. program in Negotiations and Conflict Management to begin in August 2017 (contingent upon final budget approval). Candidates with the ability to teach in allied programs, including the M.A. in Global Affairs and Human Security and/or the B.A. programs in Government and Public Policy and International Studies, will be given preference. This position requires traditional classroom instruction at the graduate level but may also involve limited undergraduate and/or online instruction.

The Negotiations and Conflict Management (CNCM) program is seeking highly qualified applicants whose experience and scholarship complements the department's existing offerings. Although the scholarly specialization for this position is open, individuals that can contribute expertise related to ethnic and cultural factors in conflict, mediation and negotiation in a cross-cultural context, nonviolence, social change processes, peacebuilding, and conflict transformation will be given special consideration. Individuals with experience facilitating experiential learning and/or practicum courses will also be given preference. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and/or course development related to the above mentioned content areas will be viewed favorably.

Candidates for this position must hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment in the Conflict Management field, broadly construed to include conflict analysis and resolution, conflict management, conflict transformation, peace and conflict studies, peacekeeping operations, peace education, or a similar course of study. Applicants with degrees in related fields of study appropriate to the Conflict Management discipline (e.g. political science, international relations, public administration, public policy, and allied social science disciplines) with expertise in the above-mentioned areas are also encouraged to apply. Diverse methodological and regional areas of expertise, both domestic and international, will be considered. Candidates should have a record of scholarly activities appropriate to the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track) and demonstrate the potential for quality university instruction and service to the profession and the university. Candidates who are A.B.D. will be considered pending successful completion of their dissertation defense by August 15, 2017.

The successful candidate will be joining the well-established graduate program in Negotiations and Conflict Management (CNCM), an applied, cross-disciplinary Masters of Science program in the School of Public and International Affairs. The CNCM program is designed to expose students to conflict management in a variety of settings from the interpersonal to the international. The program's 42-credit curriculum is delivered through a series of applied courses that enable students to examine the link between conflict management theory and practice and prepares them for post-graduate success in a variety of settings in which conflict management skills are necessary.

With 3 full-time faculty members and several highly regarded adjunct faculty, the CNCM program has approximately 100+ degree-seeking students and is now in its 17th year. The School of Public and International Affairs has twenty distinguished full-time faculty with advanced degrees from an array of distinguished universities, including Harvard, Columbia, Johns Hopkins, Syracuse, Georgia, Georgia Tech, and George Mason University. The School is home to a nationally accredited Masters of Public Administration program. The College of Public Affairs is also home to several award-winning faculty members that are recipients of the University System of Maryland's highest faculty distinction, the USM Board of Regents Award, a Fulbright Scholar, and a recipient of the prestigious Paul F. Lazarsfeld Evaluation Theory Award from the American Evaluation Association.

In addition to the School of Public and International Affairs, the College of Public Affairs houses the Schools of Health and Human Services and Criminal Justice. The ability to offer courses and conduct research relevant to the College's three schools is an advantage. The College of Public Affairs is also home to The Schaefer Center for Public Policy – an applied research unit – through which grant related work can be undertaken.

The University of Baltimore is part of the University System of Maryland and serves a diverse urban professional community. The School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Baltimore offers Bachelor's degrees in Government and Public Policy and International Studies, the Master and Doctor of Public Administration degrees, the Master's degree in Negotiation and Conflict Management, the Master's Degree in Global Affairs and Human Security, and the Master's degree in Non-profit Management and Social Entrepreneurship. Interested applicants are encouraged to visit our web site for more information about the College of Public Affairs and the School of Public and International Affairs at <http://www.ubalt.edu/cpa>.

Electronic applications are required. Before submitting your application, save these four PDF (preferred format) or Word documents:

1. letter of interest
2. vita
3. one or more research writing samples

4. names of three references

The position is open until filled, and completed applications received by December 15, 2016 will receive full consideration. Review of materials will begin in mid January 2017 and will continue until the search is completed. Visit <http://www.ubalt.edu/about-ub/offices-and-services/human-resources/jobs-at-ub.cfm?&posting=1144> to access the electronic application.

The University of Baltimore is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/ADA Compliant Employer & Title IX Institution. The University of Baltimore ("UB" or "University") does not discriminate on the basis of sex, gender, race, religion, age, disability, national origin, ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender identity, or other legally protected characteristics in its programs, activities or employment practices.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2043

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor International Relations with Environmental Focus

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas invites applicants from well-qualified individuals for a full-time, nine-month tenure-track position in International Relations. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level commencing fall 2017. The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in International Relations. The department is open with regard to specialization but has particular needs in areas including but not limited to global environmental politics and/or conflict. Preferred qualifications include the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in research methods. Other responsibilities include: engaging in research leading to scholarly, peer-reviewed publications; mentoring undergraduate and graduate students; and providing appropriate levels of service at the department, college and university levels. The department offers BA, MA, and PhD degrees in Political Science.

For more information go to:

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176341945&Title=Assistant%20Professor%20International%20Relations%20With%20Environmental%20Focus%20%5B17036%5D&aID=584>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2045

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Assistant Professor- Human Security

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Security, Environmental Policy

POSITION SUMMARY AND QUALIFICATIONS

This position is a junior-level tenure eligible faculty position in the area of human security to support undergraduate programs in Political Science. The faculty member will have demonstrated experience working and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

POSITION RESPONSIBILITIES

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's commitment to developing a program in human security. We are looking for researchers who study issues related to organized crime, state violence, refugees/migration, environmental politics, climate change, natural disasters, chronic poverty, and transnational social movements. This can include scholars who focus on domestic linkages to human security issues.

TEACHING

This position in human security contributes to the political science department's curriculum through teaching undergraduate courses such as: human security, human rights, environmental politics, public policy, women in global politics, issues in world politics, and politics of race, class and gender, and future courses related to the above list of human security topics. Strong preference will be given to candidates who will teach our capstone senior seminar and/or research methods.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit a CV, cover letter, names of 3 references, and evidence of excellence in teaching with your online application. Questions should be directed to Dr. Ravi Perry at rkperry@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2016. Start date will be August 16, 2017.

Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1877

Georgia State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Georgia State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the field of International Relations, with specialization in international security/conflict or foreign policy, to begin Fall 2017, pending budgetary approval. Candidates must be prepared to teach International Relations courses at the undergraduate, M.A., and PhD levels. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate experience teaching a diverse student body. We enthusiastically encourage applications from women and minority candidates.

Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, statement of research agenda, examples of scholarly work, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and graduate transcript(s) to IRSearch@gsu.edu. Material submitted by October 15, 2016 will be given full consideration. Georgia State University is an urban research university based in downtown Atlanta. Further information about the department can be found at politicalscience.gsu.edu. Georgia State is a unit of the University System of Georgia, is an equal opportunity institution, and an EEO/AA employer. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in hand by August 2017. An offer of employment will be conditional on background verification.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2016

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 2035

Virginia Military Institute

Rank: International Relations and Political Science

The Virginia Military Institute's Department of International Studies and Political Science (IS) announces a tenure-track position (Assistant Professor) in international relations or comparative politics; specialization is open to all sub-fields. Ideally, applicants will propose course offerings that complement the department's established curriculum, specifically in terms of regional expertise (the Middle East or Latin America) and research/teaching specializations, such as humanitarianism, IPE, and civil-military relations.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science is preferred, but ABD applicants expecting to complete their dissertation prior to appointment will be considered. Teaching experience at the undergraduate level is highly valued, but not required.

As a faculty member, the successful candidate will contribute to the academic goals of the Department and the Institute through a balanced workload that includes expectations in teaching, research, professional service, and cadet development. The teaching load will be a 3-3. Consistent research engagement in the successful candidate's field is expected, as well as regular constructive engagement in the function of the Institute and cadet life beyond the traditional classroom experience.

Applicants should submit a cover letter summarizing their interest in the position and qualifications, a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, and a writing sample representative of the applicant's primary research interest online at: <http://virginiajobs.peopleadmin.com/postings/51254>

Separately, applicants should submit three letters of recommendation via e-mail to James.Hentzhezj@vmi.edu.

To receive full consideration, all application materials should be submitted by October 15, 2016.

VMI is an Equal Opportunity Employer does not discriminate against anyone because of race, color, religion, national origin, political affiliation, sex, age, or disability. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other national service alumni are also encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/14/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2033

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in International Relations

Yale University's Department of Political Science invites applicants for a position in International Relations to begin July 1, 2017.

The position is open rank. We are interested in candidates from all areas of International Relations, though we have a particular interest in those with expertise in International Political Economy and International Organization.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/36890>. Review of applications and nominations will begin September 5, 2016, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students, and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/14/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2026

Boston University

Rank: International and/or Human Development

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International and/or Human Development, beginning July 1, 2017, subject to budget approval. We are especially interested in scholars whose work focuses not only on traditional economic development themes, but also addresses outcomes in health, education, and freedom at the individual and group levels, and pays particular attention to issues of inequality. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including economics, geography, political science, development studies, and international relations, and are open to all methodological approaches. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are especially encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) three letters of recommendation, and 4) a writing sample here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/joblist7683>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Dean Adil Najam at anajam@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/13/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2018

Boston University

Rank: International Political Economy or International Economic Policy

Specializations: International Political Economy, Political Economy, Economic Policy

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for a professor, tenured faculty position in International Political Economy or International Economic Policy, beginning July 1, 2017, subject to budget approval. We are open to research in a variety of issue-areas, especially including global financial regulation, trade policy, development policy, and resource politics. We are open to all methodological approaches. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including economics, political science, and international relations. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, and 2) curriculum vitae here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/joblist7686>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Dean Adil Najam at anajam@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/13/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2020

Boston University

Rank: International Security

The Pardee School of Global Studies at Boston University invites applications for an Assistant Professor, tenure-track faculty position in International Security, beginning July 1, 2017, subject to budget approval. We are open to scholars of both traditional and non-traditional security, and to all methodological approaches. We welcome applications from scholars in any relevant discipline, including history, political science, security studies, and international relations. Candidates who have demonstrated policy experience are encouraged to apply.

Please submit 1) a letter of application describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) three letters of recommendation, and 4) a writing sample here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/joblist7685>. Questions about the position or school may be directed to Dean Adil Najam at anajam@bu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The Pardee School of Global Studies is committed to multidisciplinary, policy-relevant research and teaching.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/13/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2019

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in International Political Economy. The successful candidate should have research interests in IPE and is expected to meet departmental instructional needs that include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science or have the Ph.D. in hand by August 15, 2017. Candidates who do not have a Ph.D. but are ABD are welcome to apply. Applications received by October 15, 2016 will receive priority consideration, though we will continue screening applications until the position is filled.

Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting # 06687, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please direct inquiries to the IPE Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

The University of Colorado is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to building a diverse workforce. We encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, individual with disabilities and veterans. Alternative formats of this ad can be provided upon request for individuals with disabilities by contacting the ADA Coordinator at hr-ada@colorado.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2025

Southern Methodist University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Teaching Fellowship in International Relations

The Tower Center for Political Studies at Southern Methodist University invites applications for a non-tenure track post-doctoral teaching fellowship in international relations. Preference will be given to candidates who are able to teach Introduction to International Relations and/or Introduction to Comparative Politics. The Tower Center is an interdisciplinary center sponsoring programs in public and international affairs and closely affiliated with the Political Science Department at SMU, which has a full-time faculty of sixteen administering undergraduate programs in political science, international studies, and public policy. Classes are small and expectations are high in both teaching and research. The successful candidate may, depending upon expertise, offer courses relevant to interdisciplinary programs in International Studies and Public Policy. Salary, benefits, and research support are competitive. The Tower Center teaching fellow position is a one academic year appointment (2017-2018) and is renewable for one additional year. It carries a 2x2 teaching load.

Southern Methodist University is a comprehensive university of 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students located on a beautiful urban campus just north of downtown Dallas. SMU is an equal opportunity employer. We particularly welcome applications from minority and women scholars. Applicants should email a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, three letters of recommendation to Prof. Joshua Rovner, Director of Studies, at jrovner@smu.edu. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016, but the search will remain open until the position is filled. All letters will be acknowledged. SMU will not discriminate on the basis of ethnicity, national origin, gender, disability, or veteran status. Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2013

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Full and/or Associate Professors of International Relations

The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities invites applications for multiple tenured faculty positions in International Relations beginning fall semester 2017 (08/28/17), including those from assistant professors with records supporting tenure. Appointments will be made at the ranks of tenured professor or tenured associate professor, depending on qualifications and experience, and consistent with collegiate and University policy.

The search is open with respect to both specialty within the field and approach. Our priority is to identify candidates with a focus in International Relations Theory, International Political Economy, or the international relations of East Asia or Europe. We especially welcome applications from underrepresented groups.

Appointments will be 100% time over the nine-month academic year. Salary is competitive, and dependent on qualifications and experience.

Qualifications:

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in political science or related field is required.

Preferred Qualifications:

College/university-level teaching experience is preferred.

Candidates will be evaluated according to (a) overall quality of their academic preparation and scholarly work, (b) contribution of their scholarly research to the department's academic priorities and fields of inquiry, (c) evidence of commitment to teaching and skills as a teacher, and (d) evidence of a national and/or international reputation.

Duties / Responsibilities:

Faculty in the Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts are expected to maintain an active research program, teach and advise undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute service appropriate for the rank of appointment to the department, college, University, and profession.

The Standards for Promotion and Tenure in the Department of Political Science are available at:

http://academic.umn.edu/provost/faculty/tenure/pdf/CLA/7_12POLSCI.pdf

For information on faculty workload guidelines and principles in the College of Liberal Arts, visit:

<http://intranet.cla.umn.edu/faculty/FacultyWorkloadPrinciplesGuidelines.php>

About the Department / College / University:

The Department of Political Science is committed to excellence in graduate and undergraduate education and to the conduct of leading social science research. For further information, please visit the department website, <http://cla.umn.edu/polisci>.

Established in 1868, the College of Liberal Arts supports the University of Minnesota's land-grant mission as home to disciplines in the arts, humanities, and social sciences. The College of Liberal Arts is committed to intellectual freedom, the pursuit of new knowledge, and the belief that the liberal arts are the foundation of academic learning. CLA prepares students to be independent and original thinkers, innovators in their chosen fields; to create meaning in their lives and in their life's work; and to become productive citizens and leaders in their communities and the world. The College of Liberal Arts values diverse cultures, experiences, and perspectives as key to innovation and excellent education. www.cla.umn.edu

Founded in 1851, the University of Minnesota, with its five campuses and more than 65,000 students, is one of the largest, most comprehensive universities in the United States, and ranks among the most prestigious research universities in the world. It is both a major research institution, with scholars of national and international reputation, and a state land-grant university, with a strong tradition of education and public engagement.

The University recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting the academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds.

The University of Minnesota provides equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. To learn more about diversity at the U: <http://diversity.umn.edu>.

To request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Application Instructions:

Apply online through the University of Minnesota's Job Center: <http://www1.umn.edu/ohr/employment/index.html>.

- Job Opening ID: 312877
- Job Posting Title: Associate Professor or Professor (Political Science: International Relations)
- Job Code: 9402 / 9401
- Jobs Posted Within: Last Three Months (or greater)
- Keyword(s): Political Science

The link to the specific job posting is: https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=312877&PostingSeq=1

Applications must be submitted online. To be considered for this position, please click the APPLY button and follow the instructions. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position, and attach a cover letter, and C.V. Additional documents that may be attached include: a research statement, a writing sample, and/or references. Additional materials may be requested from candidates at a future date.

Additional documents can be attached after submission of the application by re-entering the Job Center, accessing your "My Activities" page (in the top list of hyperlinks), and uploading documents there.

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 17th, 2016. However, applications will be accepted until the positions are filled.

For questions about the position or the application process, please contact the Department of Political Science, at (612) 624-4144.

Any offer of employment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Our presumption is that prospective employees are eligible to work here. Criminal convictions do not automatically disqualify finalists from employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2011

Air War College

Rank: Professor of International Security Studies

Specializations: East Asia, Latin American, Middle East

The Air War College invites candidates to apply for a faculty position in the general national security studies field, with an emphasis on comparative and regional security, including the areas of Latin America, the Middle East, Northeast Asia, Southeast Asia, or possibly other regions (excluding Europe and Africa). The Air War College is also seeking candidates whose scholarly interests are in international political economy, and/or in American national security policy. The potential starting dates are between January and July 2017, or possibly earlier. The Air War College is located at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, AL.

Academic rank is open but the focus is for appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor. This position requires academic teaching experience, graduate-level preferred, and a suitable publication record. The position is an Administratively Determined (AD) civil service position. Responsibilities include teaching graduate level seminars in the International Security Studies core curriculum: 1) National Security and Decision-Making; 2) Regional and Cultural Studies; 3) Global Security as well as electives in area(s) of specialization; advising student research; and service to the institution. The AWC provides a dynamic academic environment for teaching and research. Responsibilities also include curriculum development, participation in war gaming and national security exercises. The academic program offers a master's degree and senior-level professional military education to senior military officers and civilian officials from the United States and to senior officers from more than 40 nations.

This position will be an initial three year appointment with a probationary first year and is renewable. While open positions are advertised in various publications, including the American Political Science Personnel Newsletter, applicants must submit their application through USAJobs.

Applicants can submit their application via the USAJobs online. If candidates prefer to not use the online feature, they can send their resume, or Optional Form 612, along with other required documents to 42 FSS/FSMC, 50 Lemay Plaza South, Building 804, Attn: Air War College faculty position, Maxwell AFB AL 36112-6334.

The OF-612 can be accessed through the Office of personnel Management's web site at www.usajobs.opm.gov. Note: this is an academic position, the selection committee strongly encourages candidates to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references.

For more information, contact Dr. David S. Sorenson Department of International Security Studies, Air War College, 325 Chennault Circle, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112-6427; david.sorenson@us.af.mil, (334) 953-6094. Or contact Dr. Chris Hemmer, Dean, Air War College, 325 Chennault Circle, Maxwell AFB, AL, 36112-6427. Phone 334-953-7099, email christopher.hemmer@us.af.mil.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 10/11/2016

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2002

Christopher Newport University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Asian Politics/ International Political Economy) #8529

Assistant Professor of Government
(Asian Politics/International Political Economy)

The Department of Government at Christopher Newport University invites applications for the position of Assistant Professor in Government, effective August 21, 2017. Applicants must be committed to undergraduate education and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduates. The successful candidate will have broad theoretical and methodological training in political science with a teaching and research emphasis in Asian politics and international political economy. In addition to upper-level courses in their area of specialization, teaching responsibilities will include an introductory course in comparative and international politics, and courses in research methods and quantitative analysis. The nominal teaching load for tenure track appointments is 3-3. The Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field is required for appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor. In some cases, exceptionally well-qualified candidates may be considered for appointment at a higher rank. ABD candidates who will not hold the Ph.D. by the time of appointment may be considered for appointment at the rank of Instructor. Phi Beta Kappa membership is highly desirable.

CNU is committed to outstanding teaching and learning, undergraduate education, and the liberal studies core; the University is seeking to shelter a Phi Beta Kappa chapter. The Fall 2016 freshman class of 1,225 students was selected from nearly 8,000 admission applications, and presented high school GPA and SAT score middle 50% ranges of 3.5-4.0 and 1080-1240, respectively. Capital improvements (approaching $1 billion) on the beautiful, 260-acre campus, located between historic Colonial Williamsburg and the ocean resort of Virginia Beach, integrate the University's liberal arts vision, nurturing mind, body, and spirit. These include the state-of-the-art Tribble Library; three new academic buildings including a newly opened integrated science building; the Freeman Center athletic complex; and the I.M. Pei-designed Ferguson Center for the Arts, which brings to Virginia the finest performing artists in the world.

Our faculty enjoy an atmosphere of collegiality and mutual respect that rewards outstanding teaching and fosters active intellectual and creative engagement. Christopher Newport University is committed to ensuring that all people are welcomed, honored and fully engaged in the life of our academic community. We recruit exceptional and diverse faculty and encourage applications from individuals who are underrepresented in their profession. Faculty are productive scholars and researchers, supported by professional development funds. Faculty and administrators regularly consult and collaborate as the University works to sustain a culture of scholarly inquiry, informed debate, and civic action that enriches students, faculty, and the surrounding community. The result is a supportive and cohesive academic setting in which the University cultivates and carries forward its mission. Competitive salary with excellent health and retirement benefits and a well-designed family leave policy further enhance the CNU workplace. For further information on CNU, please visit our website at <http://www.cnu.edu>.

To apply, please send a letter of application, current curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (photocopies are acceptable for initial screening), syllabi and other evidence of teaching style and effectiveness including teaching evaluations, and three letters of recommendation to:

Director of Faculty Recruitment
Assistant Professor of Government (Asian Politics/International Political Economy) Faculty Search
Search #8529
Christopher Newport University
1 Avenue of the Arts
Newport News, VA 23606-3072
Or facultyrecruitment@cnu.edu

Review of applications will begin on October 11, 2016
Applications received after October 11, 2016 will be accepted but considered only if needed.
Search finalists are required to complete a CNU sponsored background check.
Christopher Newport University, an EO Employer, is fully committed to Access and Opportunity

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/9/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2005

Ohio State University

Rank: Race and Gender in Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Description:

The department of political science seeks candidates for a tenured or tenure-track position in the study of race and/or gender in politics. We welcome applications from scholars studying comparative politics and international relations, however, we are especially interested in applicants who study race and/or gender as they pertain to politics in the United States. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding.

This position is part of a larger initiative at Ohio State to increase faculty diversity and to promote research and teaching on topics central to race, ethnicity, sex, and gender as well as disparities in modern society linked to these categories. The Division of Social and Behavioral Sciences intends to hire at least eight new faculty members under this initiative. The new cluster of faculty will be able to build a network with many committed professors already at home in the College of Arts and Sciences in the Diversity & Identity Studies Collective, the Department of Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies, and the Department of African American and African Studies. Graduate certificates in this area of inquiry and undergraduate bridge programs are also being built to support this initiative.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a PhD in political science or expect to have that degree by Autumn 2017. It is possible the successful candidate could have a PhD degree in a cognate field such as sociology or social psychology but a PhD in political science is preferred. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:

The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries (see <http://liveworkplaycolumbus.com/>). Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions:

Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7871>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Applications received prior to October 15, 2016 will receive priority consideration. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2000

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Environmental Justice and Community Resilience

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Faculty Position

Environmental Justice and Community Resilience
 Department of Political Science, Purdue University

As part of a university-wide cluster hire in the area of "building sustainable communities," the Department of Political Science is seeking applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position focused on the politics of environmental justice and community resilience. Potential areas of interest include how gender, race, class, ethnicity, geographical region, or identities affect the unequal distribution of environmental benefits and burdens and/or community resilience in the face of environmental change. We are also interested in research on efforts to address environmental and social inequalities through international, cross-national, and/or domestic political action, including but not limited to work on norms and norm change, protest and resistance movements, and community-based conservation and resilience efforts. The primary field of specialization within political science is open. The successful candidate will add to the political science department's identified strengths in environmental politics as well as the politics of race, ethnicity, gender, and class. The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in the area of environmental politics as well as other appropriate courses in his or her subfield. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Environmental Studies, or a related discipline is required. Joint appointments are possible in other academic units participating in the cluster hire, including Anthropology, Communication, Philosophy, and Engineering. The position will begin Fall 2017.

The successful candidate will have a demonstrated potential to play a vital role in Purdue's new "building sustainable communities" initiative dedicated to finding new approaches to addressing major environmental and sustainability challenges. Purdue's Center for the Environment will serve as the interdisciplinary hub for this research community. Purdue also hosts several interdisciplinary undergraduate and graduate programs focused on sustainability, including undergraduate degrees in environmental & ecological engineering and natural resources and environmental science, as well as a graduate program in Ecological Sciences and Engineering. The successful candidate will be expected to participate in and contribute to these programs as well.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Annie Wheeldon (acheever@purdue.edu). Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, samples of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's commitment to and experience with interdisciplinary research and teaching relevant to the cluster. Review of applications will begin October 7, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Leigh Raymond (lraymond@purdue.edu). A background check will be required for employment in this position. Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 2004

College of William & Mary

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in European and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in European and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies

The Programs in European Studies and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies at the College of William and Mary seek applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level, beginning in August 2017.

We are two strong, interdisciplinary area studies programs at one of the best small public universities in the United States, and we are seeking a colleague with a commitment to excellence in teaching and research.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D at the time of appointment (August 10, 2017). The candidate must have demonstrated excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Candidates from all disciplines in the social sciences and humanities with appropriate expertise will be considered, pending department approval. The appointment will be jointly held in the Global Studies Program and in a host department appropriate for the candidate's discipline. Research and teaching expertise in fields such as state socialism, the First and/or Second World Wars, post-socialist societies, migration, regionalism, and identity politics are particularly welcome. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment and a demonstrated interest in comparative and trans-regional scholarship and teaching. Candidates must possess the skills to teach compelling undergraduate courses in both Russian and Post-Soviet Studies (RPSS) and European Studies (ES), as well as in the candidate's home department. The successful candidate will be expected to teach "Introduction to European Studies" and "Introduction to Russian and Post-Soviet Studies," as well as topics courses and research seminars for both programs.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statement of research and teaching interests, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation, at least one of which must speak directly to teaching ability. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference.

For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, October 7, 2016. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

The College of William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/7/2016

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1995

Pepperdine University

Rank: Associate or Assistant Professor of International Studies

Specializations: Economic Policy, Africa, Latin American

Pepperdine University's Seaver College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences, located in Malibu, California, invites applications for an Associate or Assistant Professor in International Studies beginning in August 2017. International Studies, the largest multidisciplinary major in the college, seeks candidates with expertise in at least one of the following areas: political economy, economic development, NGOs, international human rights and humanitarianism, international trade. Regional expertise in Africa, Asia, or Latin America is a plus. Teaching responsibilities will vary depending on the expertise of the candidate but will include global economics. Additional responsibilities will depend on the experience of the candidate but may include providing direction and leadership for the program, coordinating the curriculum and teaching schedule in conjunction with the Divisional Dean, and overseeing the Model United Nations (MUN) team.

Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. Please submit all materials to: apply.interestfolio.com/36943.

Contact:

Professor Paul Begin (paul.begin@pepperdine.edu)

Chair, Search Committee

Pepperdine University
24255 Pacific Coast Highway
Malibu, CA 90263

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1992

Smith College

Rank: Assistant Professor in Indo-Asia-Pacific Politics

Specializations: India, East Asia, China

The Department of Government at Smith College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin July 1, 2017. Applicants may specialize in international relations or comparative politics relating to any part of the Indo-Asia-Pacific region, although the ability to teach courses in Chinese Politics is essential. Candidates who also have expertise in quantitative methods and/or Russian Politics are encouraged to apply. The position involves teaching four semester courses over the academic year, and will have a formal teaching commitment to the college's program in East Asian Studies. Ph.D. or ABD status in Political Science or related discipline required by time of appointment.

Located in Northampton, MA, Smith College is the largest women's college in the country and is dedicated to excellence in teaching and research across the liberal arts. A faculty of outstanding scholars interact with students in small classes. Tenure-track faculty members teach two courses each semester, mentor and advise undergraduates, and enjoy a generous sabbatical policy. The Five College Consortium, comprising Smith, Amherst, Mount Holyoke, and Hampshire Colleges and the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, provides a rich intellectual and cultural life. Details about the Department may be found at <http://smith.edu/gov/about.php>.

Submit application at <http://apply.interfolio.com/37429> with a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a list of courses taught, statement of research and teaching interests, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin October 17, 2016.

Diversifying the student body, faculty, administration, staff, and curriculum is crucial to the mission and vision for the College. We are committed to providing access and reasonable accommodation in the application process for individuals with disabilities and encourage applicants to request any needed accommodation(s). We value and are committed to a host of diverse populations and cultures, including, but not limited to, those based on ability, age, ethnicity, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, and veteran status.

Smith College is an EO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer. Women, underrepresented racial groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1993

University of Southern California

Rank: Robert F. Erburu Chair in Ethics, Globalization, and Development

Robert F. Erburu Chair in Ethics, Globalization, and Development
University of Southern California

The Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles, California) invites applications for the Robert F. Erburu Chair in Ethics, Globalization, and Development. The successful candidate will bring a distinguished record of innovative research and publication, embodying interdisciplinary approaches to globalization and development. We are particularly interested in a scholar who combines International Relations with either Gender Studies or Environmental Studies. Candidates with distinguished practical or policy experience are welcome to apply. The applicant must hold a Ph.D. degree. The holder of the Erburu Chair will be tenured at the full professor level in the School of International Relations, with secondary appointments in other units as appropriate. Review of applications will begin immediately and candidates should submit their materials by November 1, 2016, to receive full consideration. The appointment is anticipated to begin on August 16, 2017.

Applicants are required to complete the on-line application process. To apply, follow this link or paste in a browser: <http://jobs.usc.edu/postings/74486>. Minimum required materials include a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, and the names of three references who may be contacted by USC. Inquiries may be sent to: lcoble@usc.edu.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1999

University of Georgia

Rank: Stanley Wade Shelton University of Georgia Foundation Professorship

Specializations: Conflict Processes, International Security, International Law & Organizations

The Department of International Affairs at the University of Georgia invites Senior Associate Professors and Full Professors to apply for the Stanley Wade Shelton University of Georgia Foundation Professorship to begin in the fall semester of 2017. A distinguished record of scholarly productivity including external funding is expected and an outstanding national reputation is required. We are interested in candidates from all areas of International Relations; however, we have a particular interest in applicants with expertise in the areas of conflict and cooperation, broadly defined.

Minimum Qualifications: Ph.D., demonstrated ability in instruction, research, fundraising and obtaining external grants.

Prospective candidates should send in electronic form a cover letter indicating interest and qualifications, a current curriculum vita, and teaching evaluations demonstrating excellence in instruction to the UGA Faculty Job site at <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1123>. Questions or hard copies of letters of recommendation can be directed to Bill Zachmann, Department of International Affairs, University of Georgia, Candler Hall 309, Athens, GA 30602 (zachmann@uga.edu). Applications received by November 2, 2016 will be assured full consideration.

Georgia is well known for its quality of life both outdoor and urban activities (www.georgia.gov). UGA (www.uga.edu) is a land/sea grant institution located 75 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1985

University of Oxford

Rank: Onassis Foundation Postdoctoral Research Fellow: "The Greek Diaspora Project at SEESOX"

Specializations: History & Politics, Economic Policy, Public Opinion

The Department of Politics and International Relations (DPIR) in association with the South East European Studies at Oxford (SEESOX) is looking for a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow to engage in advanced research on the politics, economy and society of Greece, supporting a new SEESOX project entitled "The Greek Diaspora Project: Homeland Ties in Times of Crisis".

This exciting project will highlight, assess and analyse selective themes such as brain drain, social entrepreneurship, electoral and local politics, philanthropy, and the diaspora's influence in the fields of education, health or culture.

As well as participating in the research activities of the department and the SEESOX programme and the dissemination of the research output, the successful candidate will assist the Project Director, Dr Othon Anastasakis, in the setting up and the subsequent organisation and co-ordination of the project.

Further duties of the Research Fellow will include supporting the Project Director in the academic and practical organisation of workshops and conferences on the Greek Diaspora Project, to be held in and outside Oxford; and to assist in further fundraising and project design for this programme at SEESOX.

The successful candidate will hold a doctoral degree (or be close to completing a PhD) in political science, international relations or a related field or be close to com, will have a track record of research of an internationally excellent standard in the field of politics and policy-making related to contemporary Greece, and a demonstrable experience in project management.

This post will be part-time, on average 26 hours per week, and is fixed term for the period of three years, starting on 1st November 2016 or as soon as possible thereafter. The Onassis Foundation Research Fellow will be located within the European Studies Centre, St Antony's College at Oxford.

Further duties and skills required are described in more detail in the further particulars.

Applications for this vacancy are to be made online, quoting reference 125084.

To apply for this role and for further details, please follow the link below: <http://www.politics.ox.ac.uk/index.php/about/vacancies.html>

Closing date for applications is Friday noon (UK time) 7th October 2016.

Applications received after the closing date cannot be considered.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 10/7/2016

Date Posted: 9/7/2016

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 1982

University of Oxford

Rank: Department Lecturer in International Relations in association with St Catherine's College (re-advertisement)

Department Lecturer in International Relations in association with St Catherine's College

(Fixed term contract for five years, non-renewable)

Grade 7: £30,738-£37,768 p.a. (with a discretionary range up to £41,255 p.a.)

Department of Politics and International Relations is seeking to appoint a full-time fixed term Departmental Lecturer in International Relations in association with St Catherine's College. The teaching and research topic will be focused on twentieth century international history including the era of the Cold War and the two World Wars. Based in Oxford, this is a fixed term appointment for approximately five years commencing 1 January 2017 or as soon as possible thereafter.

The main duties of the Departmental Lecturer will be to engage in independent research in International Relations; to take responsibility for the organisation, supervision and teaching of Politics to undergraduates at St Catherine's College; to contribute to Departmental teaching and supervision at the undergraduate and graduate level; to participate in College and Departmental administration; and to contribute to the examining and admissions processes as necessary.

Office space and other facilities will be provided in the Department of Politics and International Relations. The post-holder will be elected to a Fellowship by Special Election with Governing Body membership at St Catherine's College and will be a member of the St Catherine's College Senior Common Room with rights of Common Table (i.e. breakfast, lunch and dinner are provided free of charge on weekdays and when the College is open).

The successful candidate will hold a doctorate in a relevant subject area and will have a strong record of independent research and publication at an international level and preference will be given to candidates with specialist research and teaching capacity that includes twentieth century international history. The ability to provide excellent class and tutorial teaching to high-achieving and challenging students is essential for this role. The post-holder will also require good communication, interpersonal, pastoral and organisational skills.

To apply for this role and for further details, please click on this link: <http://www.politics.ox.ac.uk/index.php/about/vacancies.html>. Applications for this vacancy are to be made online, quoting reference 125222.

The closing date for applications is noon (UK time) on Monday 3 October 2016.

Applications are particularly welcome from women and black and minority ethnic candidates, who are under-represented in academic posts in Oxford.

Start Date: Winter 2017
Application Deadline: 10/3/2016
Date Posted: 9/6/2016
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 1977

Old Dominion University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Asian Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography and the Graduate Program in International Studies at Old Dominion University invite applications for a tenure-track position in comparative politics and/or international relations at the assistant professor level to begin July 25, 2017. The department has a preference for comparativists with a potential for excellence in teaching and research. The field of specialization is Asian Politics. Preference will be given to candidates with a teaching and research profile that complements existing coverage in the department. A Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses.

Old Dominion University is a state-supported, Carnegie Doctoral/Research-Extensive University with over 24,000 students. The University is located in Norfolk, Virginia, the hub of the Hampton Roads metropolitan area with a population of approximately 1.6 million. As a major recreation area known for its beaches, historical landmarks, and the Chesapeake Bay, the Hampton Roads Region also profits from its proximity to Washington, D.C., Williamsburg, and the Outer Banks of North Carolina. Boasting the largest naval base in the world, Hampton Roads also accommodates major Army, Air Force, and Coast Guard commands as well as the only NATO headquarters in North America. More information about the department and graduate program can be found at <http://www.odu.edu/pols-geog> and <http://www.odu.edu/gpis>.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, brief statement of research and teaching interests, sample of scholarly writing, evidence of teaching excellence if available, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Jesse Richman, Chair, Asian Politics Search Committee at <https://jobs.odu.edu>. The application review process will commence October 7, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Old Dominion University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution. Minorities, women, veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 10/7/2016
Date Posted: 9/5/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1963

Old Dominion University

Rank: Associate Professor/Full Professor of International Studies

The Graduate Program in International Studies (GPIS) at Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Virginia invites applications for a senior position in International Studies to begin July 25, 2017.

This tenured position carries the title Dragas Professor in International Studies. Candidates should have a record of excellence in research and teaching and a Ph.D. in International Studies, Political Science, or a related field. The field of specialization is open but preference will be given to candidates whose scholarly profile complements existing coverage in GPIS. The candidate will be tenured in the Department of Political Science & Geography.

Old Dominion University is a metropolitan research university with a diverse student population of nearly 25,000. GPIS is an independent inter-disciplinary MA and Ph.D. degree granting program in the college of Arts & Letters. Information about GPIS can be found at <http://www.odu.edu/gpis>.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three samples of scholarly writing, evidence of teaching excellence, and the names and addresses of five references to Dr. Jesse Richman, Chair, International Studies Search Committee at <http://jobs.odu.edu>. The review of applications will commence October 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Old Dominion University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution. Minorities and women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 10/15/2016
Date Posted: 9/5/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1964

Boise State University/School of Public Service/ Dept. of Political Science

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor - Political Economy Specialization
 (1 Tenure-Track Position)
 Department of Political Science
 Search # 160253

Boise State University, powered by creativity and innovation, stands uniquely positioned in the Northwest as a metropolitan research university of distinction and has a Carnegie designation as a doctoral research institution. Boise State University is home to approximately 20,000 undergraduate and graduate students. The School of Public Service is seeking a tenure-track faculty member at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in August 2017. The area of specialization for this position is Political Economy. The position will be housed in the School of Public Service with primary appointment to the Department of Political Science.

The successful candidate will combine a strong research record in political economy with an ability to teach upper division and graduate level courses in international relations or comparative politics. The successful candidate will also have the opportunity to teach in the School of Public Service's proposed Global Studies Program. The School requires both peer reviewed and public service scholarship on the path to tenure. The Department of Political Science is committed to promoting quality faculty research and teaching, and is strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Assistant Professor Minimum Qualification

- Ph.D. in political science by July 1, 2017.

Preferred Qualification

- Primary specialization is Political Economy

Salary and Benefits: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Application Process:

If interested in the position, please upload a cover letter (indicating your interest and qualifications for the position), curriculum vita, summary of recent teaching evaluations, two written samples of your research, transcripts and three letters of recommendation using the link below.

Required steps to apply:

1. To upload application materials and apply online: <https://boisestate.taleo.net/careersection/ex/jobdetail.ftl?job=160253>
2. In addition to uploading the application materials to the link above, please send a copy of your curriculum vita and cover letter to: schoolofpublicservice@boisestate.edu Subject line: Attn: Dr. Lane Gillespie, Search #160253

Review of applicants will begin October 1, 2016 and continue until finalists are identified.

About the University: <http://www.boisestate.edu>

About the City of Boise: <http://boisechamber.org>

About the Department: <http://sps.boisestate.edu/politicalscience/>

About the School of Public Service: <http://sps.boisestate.edu>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1956

Centre College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Studies

Assistant Professor of International Studies

Centre College seeks to fill a full-time tenure-track position in International Studies at the level of Assistant Professor beginning August of 2017. Ph.D. required at time of appointment. The ideal candidate will have expertise in International Relations and Comparative Politics, preferably with regional focus in South/Southeast Asia. Expertise in other regions will be considered. Teaching responsibilities will include Introduction to Comparative Politics, Introduction to International Relations, International Organizations, and a regional politics course. We expect that a candidate can also develop new upper-level courses in his/her area of expertise in the fields of IR and/or Comparative Politics. Prior teaching experience and the ability to teach an introductory methodology course are preferable, but not required. The program strongly encourages applications from candidates who have experience teaching and mentoring a diverse student body with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

Centre College is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. Centre strives to create an environment where differences are celebrated rather than discouraged, where the individuals have the opportunity to exchange ideas and share in the richness of mutual experiences. Please view the Statement of Community.

Centre College, a highly selective liberal arts college of about 1,400 students, has one of the nation's premier study abroad programs and is ranked among the top fifty National Liberal Arts Colleges by U.S. News & World Report. Classes are small and academic standards are high. Centre graduates enjoy extraordinary success, with entrance to top graduate and professional schools, prestigious fellowships for further study abroad, and rewarding jobs. The College is located in Danville, Kentucky, a town of 18,000 recognized for its high quality of life. It is within easy driving distance of Lexington, Louisville, and Cincinnati. For information concerning the college, visit our web site at www.centre.edu.

To apply, please go to <http://apply.interfolio.com/36366> and submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, transcripts three letters of recommendation, a statement of your teaching philosophy and a short description of your research interests. Review of applicants will begin October 1. Centre College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1954

Pew Research Center

Rank: Research Associate, Global Attitudes

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Gender Politics & Policy, Political Development

Pew Research Center is a nonpartisan fact tank that informs the public about the issues, attitudes and trends shaping America and the world. It conducts public opinion polling, demographic research, media content analysis and other empirical social science research in the areas of U.S. politics and policy views; media and journalism; internet and technology; science and society; religion and public life; Hispanic trends; global attitudes and U.S. social and demographic trends. Pew Research Center does not take policy positions. It is a subsidiary of The Pew Charitable Trusts. The Center's work is carried out by a staff of about 150.

Position Summary:

The Pew Research Center has an immediate need for a Research Associate to support its expanding global research agenda. The Research Associate will be part of the Global Attitudes research team, which conducts worldwide public opinion surveys on major international issues. In particular, the Research Associate will work on a new initiative that will look cross-nationally at a range of topical issues, such as gender, technology or political polarization, in in-depth, innovative ways. The research will pull from the strengths across the Center to combine research on public opinion, demography, and big data. The team working on these projects will report to the Associate Director of Research, but will also work closely with the Global Attitudes team and the Director of Global Attitudes.

The Research Associate assists in the design of research projects, manages data collection, performs statistical analysis, produces charts and tables and conducts background research and data fact-checks. The Research Associate also helps to write and review research reports, as well as field requests for information from the press, government officials and other audiences.

Project Management

- Help draft project proposals
- Monitor and track project timelines
- Coordinate team assignments
- Communicate with vendors and advisors
- Coordinate topline and dataset production

Data analysis

- Conduct analysis of survey and non-survey data, including multivariate analysis and multilevel modeling
- Prepare topline, cross-tabulations and other data summaries
- Prepare tables and charts
- Explore new techniques for examining data, such as ways to use “big data” and other secondary source data that can be used in tandem with survey findings

Project design and development

- Conduct background research
- Propose research topics
- Design survey questions or data queries
- Identify and evaluate research vendors or data providers

Writing and Communication

- Write research reports
- Respond to external requests for information

Quality control

- Fact-check and number-check reports
- Check and verify translations
- Assess sampling performance and data quality
- Prepare datasets for public release

Knowledge and Skills Requirements:

- Quantitative skills, including an ability to use SPSS and other statistical programs to organize and analyze large datasets
- Strong verbal and written communication skills
- Strong analytical and research skills
- Ability to manage multiple projects at the same time
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality of all work products
- Editorial judgment and proven ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely in both verbal and written form
- Skilled in project development and management
- Ability to work collaboratively and collegially with staff from across Pew Research Center and outside organizations
- Ability to lead research teams
- Experience working with “big data” and/or secondary source data a plus
- Knowledge of and interest in international affairs strongly preferred

Education/Training/Experience:

- Master’s degree in political science, economics or similar social science field required, PhD preferred
- Proven experience with quantitative analysis
- Familiarity and experience with a range of statistical techniques, including logistic and multiple regression
- Facility with SPSS and Excel required, knowledge of Stata, R or other statistical software packages a plus
- Familiarity with data collection in multiple languages highly desirable

FLSA status: exempt

Application Procedure:

Applicants should go to: <https://jobs-prc.icims.com/jobs/4593/research-associate%2c-global-attitudes/job>. Please include a cover letter.

We are an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1958

College of William & Mary

Rank: Comparative and/or International Development

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor or Associate Professor level in comparative or international development. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to high-level scholarship, outstanding classroom teaching, and collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and the master’s level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or related field at the time of appointment (August 10, 2017) and be prepared to teach courses in comparative or international development.

Preferred Qualifications: Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods or comparative public policy, and mentoring successful undergraduate or master’s level research projects is preferred.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including a statement of research and teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a writing sample. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 30, 2016. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

The College of William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment. Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/> and information on the W&M Public Policy Program is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/> publicpolicy/. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1944

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Cybersecurity and National or International Security Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Open Rank (Tenured or Tenure-track)

Cybersecurity and National or International Security Policy

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position (Open Rank) in cybersecurity and national or international security, global affairs, and governance to begin Fall 2017.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline by August 31, 2017. Applicants must have a track record of scholarship, publications, and/or research funding relating to cybersecurity. We are especially interested in candidates who link cybersecurity to broader social, political, economic, and policy questions in the contexts of national and/or international security. The position is part of a cross-disciplinary, campus-wide initiative in the area of cybersecurity. The successful candidate will demonstrate an ability to collaborate on research and grant applications with faculty in Computer Science, Engineering, and UTSA's highly regarded Cyber Security Program. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Political Science Department's proposed online graduate program in Global Affairs and/or traditional undergraduate or graduate classroom courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. The successful applicant will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses on topics such as Politics and Cyber-Security, New Global Threats, and Global or National Security Policy. Scholars doing cross-disciplinary research in applied cyber security research are encouraged to apply but an applicant's primary field must be Political Science or a closely related discipline. Applicants must demonstrate potential for research publication and a strong potential to attract external funding, and have a strong theoretical grounding in national or international security.

All applicants must provide evidence of scholarly and professional publications commensurate with the rank for which the applicant is applying. All applicants should also provide, if possible, some representative evidence of high-quality teaching – ideally in courses that address cyber security in the context of national or international security, global affairs and governance. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of courses in international relations or global affairs.

To be considered at the tenure-track Assistant Professor level, successful applicants must be able to articulate a research agenda and have an emerging record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a commitment to service.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have an established research agenda, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their respective fields of specialization and have excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Full or Associate Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to acquire external funding. Preference will also be given to candidates who can teach courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science and international relations/global affairs, and/or in such areas as environmental governance, law and institutions, compliance, and/or transnationalism.

Responsibilities: Teach, advise, and mentor undergraduate and graduate students; pursue an active research and publishing agenda; and serve the University, profession, and community.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be sent electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Copy of all graduate transcripts;
4. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
5. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
6. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
7. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1896

Australian National University

Rank: 2 positions - Assistant/Associate Professor

The School of Politics and International Relations is seeking to make two new continuing academic appointments at levels B-D (Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Associate Professor). These positions represent a significant future investment in order to build on existing strengths in the School.

We welcome applications from outstanding candidates in international relations or international political economy. Sub-fields are open but an ability to teach courses on either: Latin American relations, Europe, gender, and methods are desirable. Candidates will be expected to teach introductory courses in international relations.

Successful candidates will have outstanding records of demonstrated excellence in research, publications, and education. As well as teaching, the appointee will be expected to have an active research agenda, supervise honours and PhD students and work collegially with other members of the School.

The standard teaching load is three courses per year, plus work with honours and graduate students.

The School of Politics and International Relations is based in the nation's capital and ranked as the leading international relations department in the country as well as one of the top 10 in the world for political science and international relations.

These positions are based in Canberra.

ANU provides attractive benefits and excellent support to maintain a healthy work/life balance and offers generous remuneration benefits, including four weeks paid vacation per year, assistance with relocation expenses, 17% employer contribution to superannuation and eligibility to apply for 6-month research leave every three years. For more information on working at ANU please visit <http://hr.anu.edu.au/employment-at-anu>

Applications close 14 October 2016.

For more information about these positions including how to apply please go to:
www.anu.edu.au/jobs

Enquiries: Dr Andrew Banfield, E: Andrew.banfield@anu.edu.au, T 011 612 6125 2679

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: $110,000 - $119,999

eJobs ID: 1936

Monmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor American Politics

Specializations: African American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

Monmouth College, a selective, private, residential liberal arts college in Illinois invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics beginning July 2017. A Ph.D is required for this position but ABD candidates will be considered.

Candidates must show enthusiasm for interdisciplinary teaching and for participating in general education, including Monmouth's Integrated Studies Curriculum and advancing a growing Pre-Law Program. A commitment to the liberal arts and an appreciation for the small college learning environment is essential.

Located in the welcoming community of Monmouth, Illinois, the college is a member of the prestigious Associated Colleges of the Midwest. Following the adoption and implementation of a groundbreaking interdisciplinary general education curriculum and the continuation of a bold strategic plan entitled "Think Anew, Act Anew," the college is now prepared to move confidently forward as an innovator among liberal arts colleges. The college has invested $120 Million into campus facilities since 2002 and this year Money Magazine ranked Monmouth 28th out of 736 "Best Colleges" in the Most Affordable Private Colleges category. The Princeton Review named Monmouth a "Best in the Midwest" in its 2015 Best Colleges Survey.

Send letter of application, resume and the names and telephone numbers of three references to: Farhat Haq, Chair, Political Science Search Committee, Monmouth College by e-mail to: facultysearch@monmouthcollege.edu. Review of applications will begin October 17, and continue until the position is filled.

Monmouth College, an Equal Opportunity Employer, is committed to diversity and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Monmouth does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, national origin, ancestry, disability, age, military service, marital status, sexual orientation, pregnancy or other factors as prohibited by law in its employment policies.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1939

Monmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Monmouth College, a selective, private, residential liberal arts college in Illinois invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning July 2017. We are seeking a broadly trained Political Scientist who could teach courses in international relations and political philosophy. A Ph.D. is required for this position but ABD candidates will be considered.

Candidates must show enthusiasm for interdisciplinary teaching and for participating in general education, including Monmouth's Integrated Studies Curriculum and advancing a growing Pre-Law Program. A commitment to the liberal arts and an appreciation for the small college learning environment is essential.

Located in the welcoming community of Monmouth, Illinois, the college is a member of the prestigious Associated Colleges of the Midwest. Following the adoption and implementation of a groundbreaking interdisciplinary general education curriculum and the continuation of a bold strategic plan entitled "Think Anew, Act Anew," the college is now prepared to move confidently forward as an innovator among liberal arts colleges. The college has invested $120 Million into campus facilities since 2002 and this year Money

Magazine ranked Monmouth 28th out of 736 “Best Colleges” in the Most Affordable Private Colleges category. The Princeton Review named Monmouth a “Best in the Midwest” in its 2015 Best Colleges Survey.

Send letter of application, resume and the names and telephone numbers of three references to: Farhat Haq, Chair, Political Science Search Committee, Monmouth College by e-mail to: facultysearch@monmouthcollege.edu. Review of applications will begin October 31st, and continue until the position is filled.

Monmouth College, an Equal Opportunity Employer, is committed to diversity and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Monmouth does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, national origin, ancestry, disability, age, military service, marital status, sexual orientation, pregnancy or other factors as prohibited by law in its employment policies.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1937

Roanoke College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in International Relations/Comparative Politics beginning in August 2017. It is anticipated that the position will be tenure track. The position is full time with a teaching load of three courses per semester.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in at least three of the following areas: International Organizations/Law, Foreign Policy, Conflict Studies, and Global Civil Society. The successful candidate will also teach Comparative Politics of the Middle East or Comparative Politics of Asia. Preference will be given to candidates who can cover both in alternating years. All faculty members in the Department offer courses in the General Education curriculum, as well as the Department's introductory courses. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research.

Roanoke College, a nationally ranked Phi Beta Kappa institution is located in the Roanoke Valley of Virginia and is affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA). It is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should submit curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation to: Ms. Judith Pinckney, Department of Public Affairs, 119 West Hall, Roanoke College, Salem, VA 24153. Inquiries may be sent to: pinckney@roanoke.edu. Please visit our Departmental website at: <http://www.roanoke.edu/publicaf/> for more information.

Review of applications will begin on October 3 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1929

Tulane University

Rank: Corasaniti-Zondorak Chair in International Politics

Tulane University's Political Science Department invites applications for the Michael A. Corasaniti and Valerie A. Zondorak Chair in International Politics. This appointment will be made at the full professor level. We seek a distinguished scholar who addresses major policy-relevant contemporary international and transnational issues. The position is open with respect to subfields in the discipline and we are receptive to a variety of substantive, theoretical, and methodological approaches. The pre-eminent candidate for the Corasaniti-Zondorak Chair will have a strong record of external funding and scholarly publication, as well as an established academic reputation, and will be expected to contribute to both graduate and undergraduate teaching and mentoring. This position affords excellent opportunities for interdisciplinary collaboration. Applications received by October 15, 2016, are guaranteed full consideration; however, the position will remain open until filled. The appointment will begin July 2017. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, describing research and teaching strengths, and current Curriculum Vitae to: apply.in-terfolio.com/36928

Queries may be addressed to Associate Professor Chris Fettweis (fettweis@tulane.edu), chair of the search committee, or to Professor Nancy Maveety (nance@tulane.edu), Political Science Department Chair. Equal Employment Opportunity Statement Tulane University is an equal employment opportunity/affirmative action/persons with disabilities/veterans employer committed to excellence through diversity. Tulane will not discriminate against individuals with disabilities or veterans. All eligible candidates are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1935

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Global Energy and the Environment

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Energy Policy, Environmental Policy, International Security

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Open Rank (Tenured or Tenure-track)

Global Energy and Environmental Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position (Open Rank) in Global Energy and Environmental Politics to begin Fall 2017.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline. Methodological approaches are open, but the Department is especially interested in attracting outstanding scholars with research and teaching expertise in global energy politics, energy security, the U.S. global energy position, the intersection of energy and environmental issues, and especially the energy-climate change nexus. The position contributes to UTSA's commitment to advancing excellence in research and teaching about the global political implications of contemporary developments in energy and environmental systems. The successful candidate will demonstrate an ability to collaborate on research and grant applications with researchers working on energy and the environment throughout the university and at the UTSA Texas Sustainable Energy Research Institute. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Political Science Department's proposed online graduate program in Global Affairs and/or traditional undergraduate or graduate classroom courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. Applicants must be willing to develop and teach courses in global energy politics and related areas pertaining to international security, geopolitics, political economy, and environmental governance.

All applicants must provide evidence of scholarly and professional publications commensurate with the rank for which they are applying. All applicants should also provide, if possible, some representative evidence of high-quality teaching - ideally in courses that address energy and environmental issues in the context of global or international security.

To be considered at the tenure-track Assistant Professor level, successful applicants must be able to articulate a research agenda and have an emerging record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a commitment to service.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have an established research agenda, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their fields of specialization, and have a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Full or Associate Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to acquire external funding. Preference will be given to candidates prepared to teach courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science and international relations, and with experience in online course development.

Responsibilities: Teach, advise, and mentor undergraduate and graduate students in the Political Science and Global Affairs degree programs; pursue an active research and publishing agenda; and serve the University, profession, and community.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, research interests, teaching experience, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vitae;

3. Copy of all graduate transcripts;
4. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
5. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
6. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
7. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the candidate's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1932

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Visiting Professor (VP) position beginning June 27, 2017. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2018, or one semester. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire women and men to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during his or her time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: Dr. David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6K-160, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to David.Sacko@usafa.edu. Applications received by September 21, 2016 will receive primary consideration. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1919

George Washington University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Political Economy, at the rank of assistant professor to begin as early as Fall 2017. The search is open as to research specialty and methodology. This position is pending final budgetary approval.

Basic Qualifications: Applicants must have an active, theoretically-oriented research agenda as evidenced by working papers or publications, and be able to teach graduate and undergraduate courses as indicated by research presentations and/or teaching assessments. The Department expects applicants to have strong substantive and methodological training, as demonstrated by completed coursework, but has no preferred methodological approach. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. or doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field. ABDs will be considered but must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the date of appointment.

Application Procedure: To apply please complete an online faculty application at <http://www.gwu.jobs/postings/36805> and upload a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching/research interest (including a summary of teaching evaluations, if available), and sample publications. In addition, please send at least three letters of recommendation to pscjobs@gwu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 9, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

The university is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer that does not unlawfully discriminate in any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, or on any other basis prohibited by applicable law.

The university and department have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty and staff. We strongly encourage women and persons of color to apply.

Employment offers are contingent on the satisfactory outcome of a standard background screening.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1905

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics or International Relations

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of comparative politics or international relations focusing on the politics of the Middle East for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2017-2018 academic year.

Searching for a colleague with teaching and research focusing on the politics of the Middle East who will develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship, provide institutional and professional service, and contribute to the undergraduate and MA program. The successful candidate will be an expert who studies some combination of the following in a Middle Eastern setting: governance, gender politics, human rights, conflict and conflict resolution (domestic and/or international), identity politics, trade and development, energy, water, agricultural, and natural resource issues, and/or environmental problems. The successful candidate will teach introductory and advanced courses at the undergraduate and graduate level in the area of expertise, including an upper-level course on Middle Eastern politics.

Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science or a related field.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=3238>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Patrick Haney at haneypj@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

The University is committed to equal opportunity, affirmative action, and eliminating discrimination and harassment. Miami University does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, genetic information, military status, national origin, pregnancy, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or protected veteran status in its application and admission processes, educational programs and activities, facilities, programs or employment practices. Requests for all reasonable accommodations for disabilities related to employment should be directed to ADAFacultyStaff@miamioh.edu or 513-529-3560.

Miami University's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report with information on campus crime, fires, and safety may be found at: <http://www.MiamiOH.edu/campus-safety/annual-report/index.html>. Hard copy available upon request. A criminal background check is required. All campuses are smoke- and tobacco-free campuses.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1902

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Assistant Professor - Cyber Security

Specializations: Intelligence, History & Politics, Science & Technology

Cyber Security, Policy and Strategy
Department of Defense Analysis
Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill an open-rank tenure track position with expertise in cyber security, information technologies, and national security policy and strategy. The successful candidate can be from any relevant academic discipline, but will be an expert in information and cyber issues with a focus on contemporary conflict. The position will require teaching and research related to the proliferation of cyber and information technologies and their impact on national security and military operations. A broad knowledge of US national security policy, as well as of the relevant international security literature is also required. Both deep technical expertise and extensive knowledge of the causes and character of social and political conflict are required. The successful candidate will be expected to teach mid-career military officers from the Information Operations and Special Operations communities across all branches of the military and from allied countries, advise thesis work, engage the broader professional cyber/information technology communities of practice, and secure sponsor funding on these topics.

NPS provides graduate education to military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government. The preferred candidate will have teaching experience and a publication record commensurate with their academic experience. The candidate must also have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in the areas of irregular and information warfare, campaign planning and operational art, and strategic decision-making. Position responsibilities include teaching, research, service, and thesis oversight. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for tenure-track faculty is four graduate courses per year. The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, about 120 miles south of San Francisco. The Defense Analysis Department offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to 150 in-resident students (on average), a cross-disciplinary teaching and research faculty of 40-plus personnel, and three respected research centers, the Defense Analysis Department provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st Century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in any relevant discipline (e.g., Computer Science, Information Sciences, Electrical Engineering, International Security, Political Science, International Relations, Security Studies, History, Law, Sociology, Government, etc.).
- U.S. citizenship. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Strong publication record in the above fields.

Additional preferred qualifications:

- Experience teaching graduate students.
- Operational experience in either the US military, intelligence or interagency communities is desired.

The position is now open and the application period will close on 10 October 2016. Candidates should submit their materials via email to daborer@nps.edu. Email Subject Heading: Cyber Security, Policy and War Search.

Include curriculum vitae, a cover letter, sample publication(s), three letters of recommendation, and other supporting materials.

Address electronic cover letter to:

Dr. Douglas Borer, Chairman, Cyber Security, Policy and War Search, Department of Defense Analysis, 589 Dyer Road, Room 103F, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA, 93943.

Do not send paper applications.

Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Relocation expenses, including recruitment/relocation incentive, may be authorized in accordance with applicable regulations.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to: Identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc...)

Additional Veterans' information: If you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://www.dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/mservice.htm>. For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1914

Northern Illinois University

Rank: Open Rank

NORTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

International Relations/Comparative Politics/Southeast Asian Studies

The Department of Political Science and the Center for Southeast Asian Studies at Northern Illinois University (NIU) anticipate hiring a tenure-track position in comparative politics (CP) or international relations (IR), open to all ranks, beginning August 16, 2017. The successful candidate will teach classes and conduct research, in either CP or IR, with a regional focus on Southeast Asia. If the candidate's first field of study is CP it is preferred that their second field of study be IR. Although the search is open to country experts from anywhere in the region special preference will be given to candidates who have studied either Burma or Thailand. Additionally, preference will be given to candidates who can teach quantitative and/or qualitative methods courses at the graduate level.

Evidence of excellence in teaching and the strong likelihood of a sustained publication record are expected. A Ph.D. in political science

by the time of appointment is required. The Department of Political Science offers B.A., B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees. For more information about the Department, please visit <http://polisci.niu.edu/> and for more information about the Center for Southeast Asian Studies, please visit <http://www.niu.edu/cseas/>. NIU is located in DeKalb, Illinois a welcoming and rapidly growing city 65 miles west of downtown Chicago. It has an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students, including a graduate student body of over 4,800.

Applicants at the junior level must send a letter of application, curriculum vita, three letters of recommendation, appropriate transcripts, writing samples, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants at the senior level must send a letter of application, a curriculum vita, and a list of three references. All materials should be sent via email to polsSEAssearch2016@niu.edu. Specific questions about the position may be directed to Scot Schraufnagel the chair of the department of political science at sschrauf@niu.edu. File completion issues should be directed to April Davis at adavis1@niu.edu.

A pre-employment criminal background investigation is required. Northern Illinois University is an AA/EEO institution and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Review of completed applications will begin on October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1912

Catholic University of Chile

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Institute of Political Science (ICP) of the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Relations. We welcome applicants with diverse regional focuses. The University strongly values diversity and we encourage members of all nationalities and backgrounds to apply.

The ICP is among the highest ranked political science departments in Latin America. Comprised of a highly international group of scholars, it is a hub of theoretical, empirical and applied research in the region. The ICP offers undergraduate, M.A. and Ph.D. programs. It admits the most talented Chilean students to its undergraduate and graduate programs, and hosts a large number of exchange students and a steady stream of visiting professors from all over the world. Santiago is a vibrant metropolitan area and a short drive from Chile's renowned pacific coast and spectacular Andean mountain range.

Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to high quality research, publication and teaching. Teaching obligations are limited to three courses per year. Fluency in Spanish is valued, but candidates who express the willingness to perfect basic proficiency are encouraged to apply. The ICP offers financial support for language classes and courses may initially be taught in English.

Salary is competitive and complemented by research grants, travel stipends, and support for international exchanges. Applicants must hold a Ph.D. degree in Political Science (or its equivalent). ABDs are welcome to apply as long as they obtain their degree by the position's starting date.

Applications should include a personal letter, curriculum vitae and a writing sample (journal article, book or dissertation chapter) that provides evidence of research performance. Applicants should also include teaching evaluations and course syllabi to assess teaching potential, graduate transcripts, an official copy of their B.A., M.A., and Ph. D. degrees, and three letters of recommendation.

Please direct informal inquiries or application packages (in either English or Spanish) via e-mail to Carsten-Andreas Schulz (searchicp@uc.cl), Chair of the Search Committee until October 17th, 2016. The position's starting date is March 1st, 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: 10/17/2016

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1890

City College of New York - CUNY

Rank: Comparative / International Relations

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, China

The Department of Political Science in the Colin L. Powell School at the City College of New York - CUNY invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics and International Relations, beginning fall 2017. We are particularly interested in candidates with research and teaching interests in the Middle East, although we will also consider specialists in South Asia, East Asia, or China. Applicants must be committed to an active program of research and publication and will have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the start date. We will review applications starting October 15, 2016.

Interested applicants should email the following materials to jwilliams@ccny.cuny.edu with the subject line "Comparative/IR Search:" (1) a cover letter describing your academic background and teaching interests and experience, (2) a CV; (3) one writing sample of no more than 40 pages, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate transcript, if you graduated less than two years ago. You must also upload your CV and cover letter to the CUNY website at: <http://www.cuny.edu/employment.html>. Follow the link to "Browse Job Openings," and filter by City College.

CCNY is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer committed to excellence through diversity. We encourage applications from historically under-represented groups as well as individuals who have experience with diverse student populations. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1897

Drexel University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Studies and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Middle East, Developing Nations, Conflict Processes

The Department of Global Studies and Modern Languages at Drexel University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Middle Eastern politics, beginning September 1, 2017. Positions are subject to final budgetary approval. The Department will consider applications at the Assistant Professor rank. Global Studies is a new, interdisciplinary department at Drexel University, building on existing strength in International Area Studies. This position will include a joint appointment with Drexel's Department of Politics, and teaching may be cross-listed with that department. Founded in 1891, Drexel University is a dynamic, comprehensive, co-op university located within walking distance of Center City Philadelphia.

We seek candidates who specialize in Middle Eastern politics, either from a Comparative or IR perspective. A background in peace studies and/or conflict resolution is a plus, although not required. Successful candidates will also be expected to pursue an active research agenda and to contribute to the Department's undergraduate curricula. This will include teaching and mentoring our outstanding undergraduate students, all of whom have foreign language proficiency and a broad, global outlook. We have a growing Arabic-language program and offer study abroad programs and co-op opportunities in conflict resolution and civic engagement.

All requirements for the PhD must be completed by September 1, 2017.

Candidates should include: 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) up to three samples of your scholarly writing; and 4) three letters of reference. Only applications submitted via Drexel's online system will be considered.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016 and continue until filled. Questions should be addressed to: Prof. Joel E. Oestreich, <jeo25@drexel.edu>.

Drexel University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, welcomes individuals from diverse backgrounds and perspectives, and believes that an inclusive and respectful environment enriches the University community and the educational and employment experience of its members. The University prohibits discrimination against individuals on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, disability, age, status as a veteran or special disabled veteran, gender identity or expression, genetic information, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions and any other prohibited characteristic. Please visit our website to view all University Policies and Workplace Postings.

Background investigations are required for all new hires as a condition of employment, after the job offer is made. Employment will be contingent upon the University's acceptance of the results of the background investigation.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1894

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Senior Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Law, Other

Social Science, Humanities and Special Operations
Department of Defense Analysis
Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill a position as Senior Lecturer

in international security with professional expertise in Special Operations. The successful candidate can be from any of a variety of academic disciplines in the social sciences or humanities. A broad knowledge of US national security policy, as well as of the relevant international security literature is required. The successful candidate will be expected to teach mid-career military officers from the Special Operations and Information Operations communities across all branches of the military and from allied countries, advise theses, and conduct research. Familiarity in the role of information in modern war is preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to engage senior civilian and military defense officials on a broad range of issues relevant to the education of students at NPS.

NPS provides graduate education to military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government. Preferred candidates will have teaching experience and a publication record commensurate with their academic experience. Candidates must also have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in areas outside of their own focus. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for those in lectureship positions ranges from four to six graduate courses per year. The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, about 120 miles south of San Francisco. The Defense Analysis Department offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to 150 in-resident students (on average), a faculty of 40-plus personnel, and three respected research centers, the Defense Analysis Department provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st Century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in any relevant Social Science or Humanities discipline (e.g., Sociology, Anthropology, History, the Classics, Philosophy, Political Science, Public Administration, Law, International Relations, Psychology, Economics, or other fields)
- U.S. citizenship is required. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Publication record commensurate with academic experience.

Additional preferred qualifications:

- Experience teaching graduate students.
- Extensive experience as a special operations professional in the US military.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 11/4/2016

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1901

Oberlin College

Rank: Assistant Professor International Relations

The Politics Department at Oberlin College invites applications for a full-time tenure track faculty position in the College of Arts and Sciences. Initial appointment begins fall semester 2017 at the rank of Assistant Professor. The incumbent will pursue teaching responsibilities (currently 4.5 courses per year) and scholarship in International Security (including state and human security); Armed Conflict (wars, weapons, arms control; cyber security; conflict resolution); and/or International Law (state/human rights and obligations). To be assured consideration, submit a letter of application, a CV, graduate transcripts, and at least three recent reference letters to <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/> by October 10, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/10/2016

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1900

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor Transnational Feminism

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Women & Politics, Conflict Processes, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Assistant Professor – Transnational Feminism

The Department of Political Science and the Women's and Gender Studies Program at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln seek a tenure-track Assistant Professor with expertise in transnational feminism to begin August 2017. Applicants would hold a joint appointment with 0.40 FTE in Women's and Gender Studies and 0.60 FTE and tenure home in the Department of Political Science. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field, a record of achievement in scholarship, research focus in feminism, conflict and human rights; human security; feminist international relations; political behavior and gender; and gender and public policy, or related areas, ability to teach Sex and Gender Around the Globe in Women and Gender Studies program and have the ability to lead WGS research emphasis in Transnational Feminism. Responsibilities include maintaining an active program of research and contributing to the teaching and engagement missions of both units. The Women's and Gender Studies Program and the Department of Political Science have a strong commitment to principles of diversity and actively encourage applications from groups underrepresented in higher education. Review of applications will begin October 2, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, please go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_160174, and click on "Apply to this job." Candidates should attach a cover letter expressing interest in the position, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, a list of up to five relevant publications, and contact information for three references. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is committed to a pluralistic campus community through affirmative action, equal opportunity, work-life balance, and dual careers. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 10/2/2016

Date Posted: 8/24/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1885

University of Oklahoma - Norman

Rank: Wick Cary Assistant Professor of Brazilian Studies (Tenure Track)

University of Oklahoma

Wick Cary Assistant Professor of Brazilian Studies (Tenure Track)

The University of Oklahoma's Department of International and Area Studies, a thriving academic department in the expanding College of International Studies, invites applications for the Wick Cary Assistant Professor position in Brazilian studies at the level of Assistant Professor beginning August 2017. This new position accompanies the recent creation of a University of Oklahoma center in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil along with a new center in Puebla, Mexico to expand the university's international presence and to enrich study abroad opportunities for OU students. We seek candidates whose research and teaching interests focus on political and economic development, energy and the environment, political institutions, or Brazil's international relations and foreign policy.

The person hired for this position will teach undergraduate and MA-level courses on Brazil as well as thematic courses in their area of expertise. Additionally, the person hired will contribute to teaching at the Rio Center. We hope to welcome a new colleague with a demonstrated commitment to fostering inclusivity and mentoring members of underrepresented groups.

The Department of International and Area Studies (IAS) offers seven undergraduate degrees to approximately 360 majors, and an MA in International Studies with 40 students enrolled. The Department has approximately 20 full-time faculty with collective research strengths in the areas of development, security, and national identity. For more information, please visit the IAS website at <https://www.ou.edu/content/cis/ias.html>. The University of Oklahoma (OU) is a comprehensive public research university with a Carnegie classification of very high research activity known for excellence in teaching and research. OU enrolls over 30,000 students and has more than 2700 full-time faculty members in 21 colleges. Norman is a culturally rich and vibrant town located just outside Oklahoma City. For more information, visit <http://soonerway.ou.edu> and <http://www.ou.edu/flipbook>.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment. The teaching load will be two courses per semester (2-2). Salary is competitive. The appointment will begin on August 16, 2017. Applicants should submit a letter of application, statements of teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, transcripts, complete sets of teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Submit all materials electronically at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7636>.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. We especially encourage applications from underrepresented groups as we continue to build a diverse faculty. The University of Oklahoma is an equal opportunity institution (www.ou.edu/eo).

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/8y2m36zvrt>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/22/2016

Date Posted: 8/24/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1884

University of Oklahoma - Norman

Rank: Wick Cary Assistant Professor, Political Economy or International Development (Tenure Track)

University of Oklahoma

Wick Cary Assistant Professor, Political Economy or International Development (Tenure Track)

The University of Oklahoma's Department of International and Area Studies, a thriving academic department in the expanding College of International Studies, invites applications for the Wick Cary Assistant Professor position in political economy or international development beginning August 2017. We are particularly interested in candidates working on political economy or international development with respect to sub-Saharan Africa or Northeast or East Asia (excluding China and the Philippines).

The person hired for this position will teach thematic undergraduate and MA-level courses in their area of expertise, as well as regional studies courses focusing on Africa or East or Northeast Asia. We hope to welcome a new colleague with a demonstrated commitment to fostering inclusivity and mentoring members of underrepresented groups.

The Department of International and Area Studies (IAS) offers seven undergraduate degrees to approximately 350 majors, and an MA in International Studies with 40 students enrolled. The Department has approximately 20 full-time faculty with collective research strengths in the areas of development, security, and national identity. For more information, please visit the IAS website at <https://www.ou.edu/content/cis/ias.html>. The University of Oklahoma (OU) is a comprehensive public research university with a Carnegie classification of very high research activity known for excellence in teaching and research. OU enrolls over 30,000 students and has more than 2700 full-time faculty members in 21 colleges. Norman is a culturally rich and vibrant town located just outside Oklahoma City. For more information, visit <http://soonerway.ou.edu> and <http://www.ou.edu/fliplibook>.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment. The teaching load will be two courses per semester (2-2). Salary is competitive. The appointment will begin on August 16, 2017. Applicants should submit a letter of application, statements of teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, transcripts, complete sets of teaching evaluations, and a writing sample. Submit all materials electronically at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7639>.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. We especially encourage applications from underrepresented groups as we continue to build a diverse faculty. The University of Oklahoma is an equal opportunity institution (www.ou.edu/eoo).

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/pzxh28rnch>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/22/2016
Date Posted: 8/24/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1883

Auburn University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Auburn University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning August 18, 2017. The successful candidate must demonstrate the ability to teach a variety of courses in International Relations including National Security Policy, American Foreign Policy, upper level courses in the broad area of national security, and courses at the PhD level. The candidate will also be expected to teach one of the university's core courses: Global Politics and Issues. Required qualifications include an earned doctorate in Political Science by the start date, for the rank of Assistant Professor. However, ABDs will be considered for the appointment at the rank of Instructor. The candidate selected for this position must be able to meet eligibility requirements to work in the United States at the time of appointment and to continue working legally during employment; excellent communication skills required. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until October 17, 2016. To apply, visit <https://aufacultypositions.peopleadmin.com>. Candidates are required to include a cover letter outlining their qualifications for the position, a current curriculum vita, an official transcript of all graduate work, contact information for three letters of recommendation, teaching evaluations (if available), a one-page statement of research program, a one-page statement of teaching philosophy, and a writing sample. Auburn University is Alabama's largest land grant university, enrolling over 25,000 students. The Political Science Department maintains a diverse faculty of 26 tenured and tenure-track members and offers undergraduate degrees in political science, health services administration, and public administration; a Master's degree program in Public Administration (MPA) with graduate certificates in Election Administration, and Nonprofit Organizations and Community Governance; a Master's degree program in Community Planning (MCP), and a PhD program in Public Administration and Public Policy. Direct questions to Dr. Paul Harris, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, 7080 Haley Center, Auburn University AL, 36849. Email: paul.harris@auburn.edu. Auburn University is an EEO/VET/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/23/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1868

American University-SIS

Rank: Five Tenure-Track Positions (1=Senior Position)
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other
Specializations: Foreign Policy, Developing Nations, Economic Policy

Position Announcement: Five Tenure-Line Faculty Positions
 School of International Service
 American University

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for five full-time, tenure-line positions to begin August 1, 2017. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. or the highest equivalent degree in a relevant discipline by August 2017.

As a school that includes a diversity of scholarly disciplines and approaches, we seek the best candidates without respect to a particular discipline. We seek scholar-teachers whose work is theoretically grounded, empirically tested, and policy relevant. Candidates should demonstrate excellence in research and teaching and a commitment to school and university service. Candidates should also share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled, except for the Development Studies position, for which review of applications will begin November 1, 2016. For more information about each position and to apply, follow the links below.

*Development Studies (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36539>

*Emerging Powers (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36554>

*Human Security (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36550>

*Race and Global Studies (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36547>

*Transnational/International Security (One Associate Professor or Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36555>

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1957, American University's School of International Service (SIS) is a top-ten school of international affairs located in Washington, D.C. SIS faculty produce transformational research and prepare our students for global careers in government, nonprofits, and business. SIS's prime location provides opportunities for research, professional training, public service, and internships in the nation's capital and around the world.

Housed in a beautiful LEED-Gold certified building which reflects our commitment to sustainability and ecological stewardship, SIS is a diverse and inclusive community of 3,000 students, 120+ full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. Our offerings feature a comprehensive liberal arts program for undergraduates, professional education in international affairs for Master's students, and a multidisciplinary program for Doctoral students. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1843

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Conflict Resolution)

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in any field of political science, with a research and teaching profile that will contribute to the department's highly successful Master of Arts Program in Conflict Resolution. The Conflict Resolution Program offers an innovative and rigorous curriculum encompassing the core skills and multidisciplinary knowledge needed to pursue diverse careers, both in the U.S. and abroad, related to conflict management and conflict resolution. Applicants should have the ability to field core courses in conflict resolution theory and research methodology. The department also has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching speak to conflict processes and their relationship to race/ethnicity, gender, youth, development, or media. A Ph.D. in political science in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester. The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7687>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Desha Girod (desha.girod@georgetown.edu). For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive before September 20, 2016, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1862

John Cabot University

Rank: Visiting Assistant/Associate Professor of International Affairs

Visiting Assistant/Associate Professor of International Affairs

John Cabot University, a four year, fully-accredited American liberal arts college in Rome, Italy, invites applications for a visiting faculty position in political science and international affairs at the assistant or associate professor rank. We seek candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, demonstrated excellence in teaching and research, and commitment to academic service. The candidate will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate courses in international relations. The ideal candidate should be a graduate of an American university or have experience in the American liberal arts educational tradition.

The appointment is for one semester, from January 1st, 2017 to June 1st, 2017 with possibility of renewal. Candidates are expected to be fluent in English, which is the language of instruction, and have permission to work in the EU. Applicants should send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, transcripts, letters of recommendation, one or two research papers or journal publications, and evidence of teaching excellence to: plsearchvisiting@johncabot.edu. Review of applications will begin September 5th, 2016. Only short-listed applicants will be notified.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: $20,000 - $29,999

eJobs ID: 1849

King Fahd University of Petroleum & MineralsRank: Assistant/Associate ProfessorKing Fahd University of Petroleum & Minerals
Dhahran, Saudi Arabia

College Name : College of Applied & Supporting Studies

Department Name : Department of General Studies

Positions/Ranks : Assistant/Associate Professor

Field/areas of specialization/experience : International Relations

The Department of General Studies at King Fahd University of Petroleum & Minerals (KFUPM) in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia invites applications for full-time faculty positions with the rank of Assistant and Associate Professor in the following field:

International Relations

Applicants are expected to hold a Ph.D. degree with a strong commitment to research and teaching. Applicants are also expected to be proficient in English (spoken and written) as the language of instruction at KFUPM is English. Candidates with Middle East expertise and experience are encouraged to apply.

Salary/Benefits: Two-year renewable contract. Competitive salary based on qualifications and experience. Free furnished air-conditioned on-campus housing unit with free essential utilities and maintenance. The appointment includes the following benefits according to the University's policy: air ticket/s to Dammam on appointment; annual repatriation air ticket/s for up to four persons; assistance with local tuition fees for school-age dependent children; local transportation allowance; two months' paid summer leave; end-of-service gratuity. The KFUPM campus has a range of facilities including a medical and dental clinic, an extensive library, computing, research and teaching laboratory facilities and a recreation center.

How to apply:

Please apply online by visiting KFUPM website at: <http://www.kfupm.edu.sa>; then click on jobs link.

You can also contact us:

By email: faculty@kfupm.edu.saCC: c-gsd@kfupm.edu.sa

By mail: Dean, Faculty & Personnel Affairs, KFUPM,
Box no. 5005, Dhahran 31261, Saudi Arabia
Fax #: +966 13 860 2429

For additional information and to download application form, please visit: <http://www.kfupm.edu.sa/fpa> or <http://www.kfupm.edu.sa/gsd>

ALL RANKS/POSITIONS WILL REMAIN VACANT UNTIL FILLED

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/19/2016Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 1829Northwestern University*Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Methodology (Tenure-track)*Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Northwestern University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in the field of political methodology at the rank of assistant professor. The department seeks candidates who connect cutting-edge quantitative methodological issues to substantive debates in political science, particularly in domains related to comparative politics or international relations, and whose research trajectories connect with "big data" methods including machine learning, nonparametric statistics, and text as data methods. The successful applicant will teach a combination of graduate and undergraduate courses. Applications received by October 15, 2016, will be guaranteed full consideration. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. The proposed starting date is September 17, 2017. Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Applications and supporting documents will be accepted only by online submission at www.polisci.northwestern.edu. * For questions and assistance, please contact Jill Decremer at j-rubin4@northwestern.edu.

*The online portal for accepting applications will be open in early September. Once it is available, the link will be posted.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/19/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1858SUNY, Cortland*Rank: Assistant Professor*Specializations: Western Europe, International Security, Post Communist Europe

Start Date: Fall 2017; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: European Politics, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2017. A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. The Department seeks a person able to teach comparative politics covering Western, Central, Eastern Europe, Russia, and the European Union. Expertise in international relations also. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, Foundations of Democracy, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

Course load is three courses per semester. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. coordination of Model EU simulation activity, study abroad, internships). SUNY Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College. We have a strong commitment to the affirmation of diversity and have interdisciplinary degree programs in the areas of Multicultural Studies.

Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

SUNY Cortland is a predominantly undergraduate state college located in upstate New York with a total student population of over 7200. The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, concentration in Law and Justice, and B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

Applicants must apply online at: <http://www2.cortland.edu/offices/hr/jobs/> For more information, contact Department Chair, Political Science Department, SUNY Cortland, Box 2000, Cortland, NY 13045.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1852

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in International Relations for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in international conflict or cooperation. Candidates must possess strong theoretical and empirical skills and can ideally be able to assist in teaching quantitative methods or formal theory. Priority will be given to interesting research that builds synergies within the department. To enhance its growing scholarly reputation, the Department encourages applications from the best possible candidates. The appointment will begin Fall 2017. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files immediately. To assure full consideration, complete applications should be received by September 15, 2016, but earlier applications are welcomed and interviews or campus lectures may be scheduled at any time. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by Fall 2017.

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional faculty. Vanderbilt is an AA/EO employer and particularly encourages applications from minorities and women.

All applicants can apply for this position by submitting a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), and three letters of reference electronically at Academic Jobs Online (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7679>).

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1857

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with a specialization in international relations for appointment as Associate or Full Professor. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in the political economy of conflict. Candidates must possess strong theoretical and empirical skills and can ideally be able to assist in teaching quantitative methods or formal theory. Priority will be given to interesting research that builds synergies within the department. To enhance its growing scholarly reputation, the Department encourages applications from the best possible candidates, especially those who can contribute to its focus on substantively important political issues and who have demonstrated excellence in teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The successful candidate will also be expected to take a leadership role in mentoring junior colleagues. The appointment will begin Fall 2017. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files immediately. To assure full consideration, complete applications should be received by September 15, 2016, but earlier applications are welcomed and interviews or campus lectures may be scheduled at any time. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional faculty. Vanderbilt is an AA/EO employer and particularly encourages applications from minorities and women.

All applicants can apply for this position by submitting a cover letter and curriculum vitae electronically at Academic Jobs Online (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7680>).

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1859

Williams College

Rank: Open Rank - Political Science/Leadership Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Development, History & Politics

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Leadership Studies invite applications for a joint, open-rank position beginning in 2017-2018. The Program in Leadership Studies is an interdisciplinary program focused on the phenomenon of leadership within a wide variety of social, cultural, and historical contexts. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and upper-level courses related to theories and facets of leadership as well as other areas of expertise. Particular areas of interest include but are not limited to: activism and social movements, political history and development, religion, gender, political decision-making, and political thought and culture.

Candidates should have the Ph.D. in hand by September 2017. Please upload a letter detailing current research interests and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (one article, book chapter, or conference paper), evidence of teaching success, and three letters of recommendation to Interfolio at apply.interfolio.com/36741. We will begin review of applications on September 15; any application received by October 1 will receive full consideration. We welcome applications from members of groups traditionally underrepresented in the field, and applicants are encouraged to state in their cover letter how they will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences if hired. All offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. Further information is available here: <http://dean-faculty.williams.edu/prospective-faculty/background-check-policy/>.

Williams College is a coeducational liberal arts institution located in the Berkshire Hills of western Massachusetts. The college has built its reputation on outstanding teaching and scholarship and on the academic excellence of its approximately 2,000 students. Please visit the Williams College website (<http://www.williams.edu>). Beyond meeting fully its legal obligations for non-discrimination, Williams College is committed to building a diverse and inclusive community where members from all backgrounds can live, learn, and thrive.

Interested candidates may contact the chairs of the respective units, James McAllister (jmcallis@williams.edu) and Justin Crowe (jec3@williams.edu), with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1853

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Wilf Family Department of Politics seeks qualified candidates for four tenure-track assistant professor positions. We welcome applications in all sub-fields; however we hope to hire at least one assistant professor in American Politics and another assistant professor in International Relations. The department seeks excellent scholars with a rigorous theoretical and empirical approach to the study of politics. The positions are to begin September 1, 2017 pending budgetary and administrative approval. NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Qualifications:

Candidates must possess a PhD by September 2017, in political science or a cognate discipline. S/he will have a record of excellent research that has been published or otherwise disseminated in a manner appropriate to career stage, and have the potential to be a future leader of the profession in his or her field of expertise. Candidates should also have proven ability as excellent teachers at undergraduate and/or graduate level.

Application Instructions:
 Please apply online at:

apply.interfolio.com/36758

with a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching and research statements. Applications should be received by September 26, 2016. Candidates are strongly encouraged to supply a link to their professional website; this will enhance their applications by allowing the search committee easy access to additional information that might be needed.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber, who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read <http://as.nyu.edu/page/diversityinitiative>. EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/26/2016
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1801

SUNY, Stony Brook University

Rank: Political Economy Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Political Economy, Research Methods, Quantitative Methods

Stony Brook University, Department of Political Science
 Political Economy Assistant Professor

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. degree, or ABD.

Preferred Qualifications: Demonstrated interest in the field of behavioral economics. Experimental approaches to studying political science questions in American or Comparative politics. Advanced methodological skills. Empirical research or an ability to teach graduate game theory.

Responsibilities & Requirements: The Department of Political Science seeks to hire in the field of Political Economics beginning Fall 2017. The Department is particularly interested in the field of behavioral economics and those running incentivized experiments to study political economy questions in American or Comparative politics. The Department of Political Science contains several experimental labs and has an active subject pool. While we are mostly interested in empirical research, an ability to teach graduate game theory is a plus. The Assistant Professor will be responsible for teaching, research and departmental service.

Special Notes: This is a tenure track position. Applications will be reviewed at the junior level. FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA. Internal and external search to occur simultaneously. Anticipated Start Date: Fall 2017

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

Application Procedure: Interested individuals should complete the Academic Jobs application process online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7584>. Interested candidates should submit a State employment application, curriculum vitae, cover letter, and samples of written work. In addition, please arrange to have three letters of professional recommendation submitted on your behalf. Electronic submission via Academic Jobs Online is highly preferred.

Alternatively, submit above mentioned materials to:

Chair, Political Economics Search Committee #7584
Department of Political Science
Social & Behavioral Sciences Bldg., S701
Stony Brook University
Stony Brook, NY 11790-4392

STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY IS AN AFFIRMATIVE ACTION/EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER. WE ENCOURAGE PROTECTED VETERANS, INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES, WOMEN AND MINORITIES TO APPLY.

IF YOU NEED A DISABILITY-RELATED ACCOMMODATION, PLEASE CALL THE UNIVERSITY HUMAN RESOURCE SERVICES DEPARTMENT AT (631) 632-6161 OR THE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL HUMAN RESOURCES DEPARTMENT AT (631) 444-4700.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE TITLE II CRIME AWARENESS AND SECURITY ACT, A COPY OF OUR CRIME STATISTICS IS AVAILABLE UPON REQUEST BY CALLING (631) 632-6350. IT CAN ALSO BE VIEWED ON-LINE AT THE UNIVERSITY POLICE WEBSITE AT <http://www.stonybrook.edu/police>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1811

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field for multiple appointments at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2017. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: formal theory, analytic political philosophy, modelling, and quantitative methods. Successful candidates must hold, or expect to soon complete, a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing past and/or potential contributions to diversity and leadership

(further information about this statement is at: <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html>). All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01163>) for position: Assistant Professor, Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 18, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1822

Humboldt State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Politics

Faculty Tenure-Track Position Starting August 2017
Department of Politics
Job #7705

DESCRIPTION: Humboldt State University's Department of Politics invites applications for an academic year, tenure-track faculty position. We seek a broadly trained teacher/scholar of global politics.

PROFESSIONAL DUTIES: Candidates should be committed to teaching excellence and to building a strong research record. Teaching assignments are expected to include an upper-division undergraduate course in global governance and introductory courses in international relations and comparative politics. We also anticipate that candidates will teach some combination of upper-division courses on the following topics: ethnicity and nationalism, international law, political economy, foreign policy, or courses focused on a world region. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to develop courses within their area of expertise. Instructional assignments will be consistent with the programmatic needs of the department and students. Candidates with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged and there is opportunity to engage with the International Studies program and other interdisciplinary programs on campus.

The primary professional responsibilities of instructional faculty members are: teaching; research, scholarship, and creative activity; and service to the University, profession and to the community. These responsibilities include: advising students, participation in campus and system-wide committees, maintaining office hours, working collaboratively and productively with colleagues, and participation in traditional academic functions. Probationary faculty are typically provided ongoing mentorship to be a successful member of the faculty. During the first year of the probationary period, teaching responsibilities will be reduced by approximately one course each semester (6 weighted teaching units per academic year). The reduced teaching load supports the establishment of research, scholarship and/or creative activities required for retention, tenure and promotion.

PROFESSIONAL QUALIFICATIONS: An earned Ph.D. or equivalent in Political Science or related field from an accredited college or university is preferred at the time of appointment. Applicants with substantial progress towards terminal degree completion by appointment date will be considered. Completion of terminal degree is required prior to the start of the second probationary year following initial appointment.

The successful candidate must demonstrate the following:

- * Evidence of, or potential for, teaching effectiveness, scholarly productivity, and expertise in global politics;
- * Commitment to and/or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds;
- * Record of, or potential for, involving students in research and scholarly activity;
- * Potential for effective teaching or teaching experience using a variety of methodologies;
- * Interest and ability to teach a broad range of courses (major, general education, etc.); and
- * Willingness to participate in the development of online learning experiences.

At the time of appointment, the successful candidate, if not a U.S. citizen, must have authorization from the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services to work in the United States. For information on the University policy on support for non-immigrant probationary faculty visa acquisition, please visit: http://www.humboldt.edu/aavp/sites/default/files/04-03%20Admin%20Memo%20Approved%20Policy%20-%20H-1b%20Process_4_4_13.pdf.

Evidence of degree(s) is required at time of hire.

GENERAL INFORMATION: The Department of Politics offers majors distinctive concentrations in "Law and Policy," "Politics of Environment and Sustainability," and "Global Politics." We are strongly committed to student-centered education, diversity, and inclusion. For more information, please visit: www.humboldt.edu/politics.

RANK, SALARY AND BENEFITS: We seek to fill this position at the Assistant Professor rank; however, rank and salary are dependent on the appointee's qualifications and experience. The current California State University Salary Schedule is available at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/aps/docs/salary/Salary-Schedule.pdf>.

Humboldt State University provides an excellent benefits package for faculty. Information about benefits plans can be found at: <http://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/934>.

APPLICATION: Qualified candidates should submit electronically the following materials:

- * Letter of application;
- * Curriculum vitae;
- * Sample of written work;
- * Sample syllabi;
- * Teaching evaluations (if available);
- * Application for Academic Employment: <https://www.humboldt.edu/forms/node/757>;
- * Supplemental Application for Academic Employment (Online Entry): <http://www.humboldt.edu/applicantsurvey/>;
- * Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies are sufficient for initial review); and
- * Three letters of recommendation.

Submission of the application materials should be sent as a single PDF document, in the order listed above to:

politics7705@humboldt.edu

Signed letters of recommendation may be e-mailed or mailed separately from the other application materials. In letter of application, please refer to Job #7705.

Please direct any other questions pertaining to this position to:

John Meyer, Search Committee Chair
 Department of Politics
 Humboldt State University
 One Harpst Street
 Arcata, California 95521-8299
 Phone (707) 826-4494
 Email: politics7705@humboldt.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE: This position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications received no later than October 3, 2016. Early response is encouraged.

It is the responsibility of the applicant to provide complete and accurate employment information. Evidence of required degree(s), certifications(s), or licenses(s) will be required prior to the appointment date. A background check (including a criminal records check, employment verification, and education verification) must be completed satisfactorily as a condition of employment with the CSU. Certain positions may also require a credit check, motor vehicle report, and/or fingerprinting through Live Scan service. Adverse findings from a background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position. All CSU employees are obligated to respond to and report incidents of sexual harassment and sexual violence. The successful candidate for this position will be mandated to receive relevant training on an annual basis. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Humboldt State University is committed to achieving the goals of equal opportunity and endeavors to employ faculty and staff of the highest quality reflecting the ethnic and cultural diversity of the state.

Humboldt State University is a Title IX/Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, protected veteran status, or any other legally protected status. If accommodations need to be made during the recruitment and interview process, please contact Human Resources at (707) 826-3626 or hsuhr@humboldt.edu.

Job #7705

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/16/2016

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1802

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Scholar, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Fellowships are awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who are expected to return to their positions, who have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and exhibit unusual intellectual promise, but who are still early in their careers.

During the academic year 2017-18, the program theme will be "The Culture and Politics of Resentment." Resentment is a powerful emotion for expressing culture and politics. Experiences and memories of humiliation, oppression, and marginalization have stimulated emotions of resentment, and produced compelling demands for political inclusion and justice around the world. Alternatively, rage against what is seen as the "tyranny of the minority," inequality, the corruption and aloofness of elites, the "foreign," and the illegitimate have generated powerful populist upsurges against the perceived enemies of a homogeneous body of "the people." The goal of the 2017-18 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the full range of phenomena involved in the culture and politics of resentment, the conditions that produce such sentiments, and the projects they advance. We invite applications from scholars whose work addresses this topic in any historical period or region of the world and from any disciplinary background in the humanities and social sciences.

Applications are due on November 1, 2016. To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. (or equivalent) no earlier than September 1, 2007. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program's theme, the candidate's scholarly record, and the candidate's ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information on eligibility requirements and the application process itself, see the program's website at <http://www.princeton.edu/funggfp/>

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/16/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1806

University of California, Irvine

Rank: Director of International Studies

The interdisciplinary Program in International Studies at the University of California, Irvine, invites applications for the position of Director of International Studies. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate or Full Professor in Anthropology, Political Science or Sociology and will begin July 1, 2017. We welcome applicants in any of these disciplines who have a strong record of scholarship, teaching and administrative experience. The program in International Studies is especially interested in candidates who have demonstrated broad interdisciplinary interests in pressing global issues. Familiarity with or interest in international experiential learning initiatives is also desirable.

The International Studies program is housed in the School of Social Sciences but also draws on faculty in the Humanities, Arts, Public Health, Social Ecology, Law, and the Business School at UCI. It is a large and cutting-edge undergraduate major, and is in the process of developing a Master program in International and Global Analysis. The new Director will be responsible for overseeing the major as well as coordinating new initiatives with the Dean and relevant departments in the School and across campus. Given its commitment to encouraging diversity, UC Irvine asks that a separate statement addressing past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion be included with the application.

Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF03666>

To receive full consideration, applications should be received by November 1, 2016, although the position will remain open until filled.

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/16/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1786

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Associate Professor in Global Policy
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations
Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Gender Politics & Policy, International Security

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

With this current search, the Humphrey School seeks to hire a tenure-track or tenured Associate Professor whose research, scholarship, academic leadership and service focus broadly on global policy. We will consider candidates now at the Associate Professor level, as well as candidates who are now at the advanced Assistant Professor level and may meet requirements for appointment as Associate Professor. If the candidate is hired without tenure, we would expect consideration of tenure within three years of the appointment. Although the tenure home and position will be at the Humphrey School, there will be possibilities to collaborate with relevant departments across the University of Minnesota.

The successful candidate must have strong, demonstrated applied research and teaching interests in the international policies of states and/or non-state actors, or the prospects for international coordination and cooperation in various spheres. We encourage applications from candidates who have focused on international security, transnational security threats, emerging security threats, human security, civil wars, internal conflicts, political violence, gender-based violence, gendered aspects of human security, and/or related issues. Candidates with country expertise and/or strong regional interests will also be considered. Candidates must be committed to scholarly and policy-relevant research at the highest levels; willing and able to teach in the School's core curriculum; provide leadership to its established public policy Master's and public affairs Ph.D. programs; be willing to help prepare students for professional careers; and function collaboratively in a multi-and inter-disciplinary environment.

A Ph.D. or equivalent foreign degree is required in political science, international relations, security studies, development studies, economics, public policy, sociology, anthropology, political economy, or related fields, if the candidate's focus has been on international policy and global affairs. The Humphrey School is especially interested in candidates with a demonstrated interest in public policy, broadly construed, whose approach to teaching and research is both innovative and inclusive in terms of race, gender, class and ethnicity.

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota ranks among the top ten professional schools of public affairs in the country. Situated in the vibrant, dynamic and diverse community of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, the Humphrey School's mission is to inspire, educate, and support innovative leaders to advance the common good in a diverse world. The School prepares students for leadership in public affairs in government and the non-profit and corporate sectors, and advances public affairs scholarship, service, and public engagement to address important policy issues and solve problems facing Minnesota, the nation, and the world. The School is nationally recognized for its role in examining public issues and shaping policy and planning at the local, state, national, and international levels, as well as for providing leadership and management expertise to public and nonprofit organizations.

The Humphrey School serves as a major center for public discussion and dialogue within the University and the broader community, hosting hundreds of public events each year, engaging in community-based research, and influencing policy-making at a number of levels. The School offers six master's degrees (Master of Development Practice; Master of Human Rights; Master of Public Affairs; Master of Public Policy; Master of Science in Science, Technology, and Environmental Policy; and Master of Urban and Regional Planning), as well as dual master's degrees with MBA, MSW, JD, MPH, MSCE, and MLA and graduate certificates in Early Childhood Policy, Election Administration, Nonprofit Management, Policy Issues on Work and Pay, and Public Affairs Leadership. The School also offers minors as well as early admissions opportunities for undergraduates (learn more on our website at www.hhh.umn.edu).

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School faculty consists of 31 tenure/tenure-track faculty, 13 graduate faculty and 20+ affiliate faculty members. In addition, there are 65+ staff employees who work in various administrative, research, and lecturing roles at the School. The Humphrey School of Public Affairs seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

We would like to invite you to visit our employment site to complete your application. Applications must be submitted online. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach additional documents.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, the names and addresses of three references, a sample of recent research, and a cover letter with a brief account of research and teaching interests and experience.

DIRECTIONS:

1. Select the below link to access our site.
2. Sign In to access your account, or if you are not an existing user select the New User link to create one.
3. Review the job description and select the Apply button to begin your application.

https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=312431&PostingSeq=1

If you are a current University of Minnesota employee, please use the following link instead:

https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM_EMP.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Employee&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=312431&PostingSeq=1

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 15, 2016. The position will remain open until filled. Please submit applications online and address cover and reference letters to: Search Committee for Global Policy, Humphrey School of Public Affairs, c/o Human Resources, HHH152, 301-19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Salary will be commensurate with experience. Benefits include health, dental, faculty life/disability insurance, retirement, and social security. The starting date for this appointment is August 26, 2017 or as soon thereafter as possible.

To request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1810

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the rank of assistant professor. The position requires outstanding research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. or evidence of substantial progress toward a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, C.V., three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and, if available, evidence of excellence in teaching. Dartmouth College combines a commitment to innovative scholarship with dedication to excellent teaching.

Application materials should be submitted electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/36630> To guarantee full consideration, all materials should be uploaded and available for review by September 7, 2016. Questions may be sent to: government.department@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1794

University of Haifa

Rank: Tenure Track Position - International Relations

Tenure Track Position – International Relations
University of Haifa

The School of Political Science at the University of Haifa invites applications for a tenure track position in International Relations beginning 1 October 2017. The position is open to individuals at all stages of their career, but candidates must have their Ph.D. by October 2017. Candidates whose focus includes International Political Economy, area studies other than the Middle East, and research methods are especially welcome to apply. Faculty are expected to achieve proficiency in Hebrew within two to three years of hiring.

Please submit a letter of application and CV including list of publications. Highly qualified candidates will be asked to provide additional materials (letters of reference and a sample of published work). Final decisions, including assignment of rank, are subject to resource availability, consideration of the Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences and the final decision of the Rector (Provost).

Applications should be sent electronically to the Division chair:
Prof. Zach Levey -- zachl@poli.haifa.ac.il

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 3/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/13/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1787

University of Michigan-Ann Arbor

Rank: Professor, Director of the Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Administration

WEISER CENTER FOR EMERGING DEMOCRACIES: The International Institute (II) at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor seeks qualified applicants for the Ronald and Eileen Weiser Professorship in Emerging Democracies and the Directorship of the Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) to begin September 1, 2017. The II is interested in a scholar who conducts research on emerging democracies, broadly defined, and has interdisciplinary interests in the social sciences or humanities. The successful applicant will be a tenured faculty member in a department, such as Anthropology, History, Sociology, or Political Science.

The II brings together distinguished and diverse faculty and scholars with deep area studies, disciplinary, and international expertise to enrich the university's intellectual environment and to provide the U-M community with the knowledge, tools, and experience to become informed and active global citizens.

The WCED promotes scholarship to better understand the conditions and policies under which democracies emerge and autocracies endure, past and present. WCED takes a multidisciplinary perspective that is sensitive to the historical, social, cultural, economic, and political contexts in which democracies do or do not emerge. While WCED initially focused on transitions in Europe and Eurasia, the II welcomes applications from faculty working in any region.

QUALIFICATIONS

The University will give greatest consideration to the following qualifications:

1. Academic Accomplishment: The candidate should have a strong record of scholarly excellence and be well known in his or her field. The candidate should provide evidence of teaching effectiveness, including a statement of teaching philosophy and experience.
2. Administrative Experience: The Director is responsible for overseeing budgets and staff, working with departments and colleagues to promote area expertise, monitoring faculty committees, and overseeing development activities by cultivating ties to people and institutions outside the University in support of WCED activities. The candidate should have a significant administrative background and should be capable of managing a complex organization.
3. Vision and Strategy: The Director is responsible for setting the intellectual agenda and developing WCED programming that will fuel the center's continued growth and global engagement. The candidate should have the ability to articulate and execute a vision for a major interdisciplinary research center.

This is a university year appointment. Applications received by October 3, 2016 will be given first consideration. All applicants should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and names of suggested reviewers. Please provide a statement of teaching philosophy and experience, evidence of teaching excellence, and a statement of current and future research plans.

The University of Michigan is an AA/EQ employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. The University is supportive of the needs of dual career couples.

Applicants to this position can apply online via <https://webapps.lsa.umich.edu/apply/1041>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1775

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: William S. Dietrich Endowed Chair in Political Science

Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications from nationally prominent scholars to fill the inaugural William S. Dietrich II Endowed Chair in Political Science, with appointment to begin in the 2017-18 academic year, pending budgetary approval. The Chair is named in honor of the late Dr.

William S. Dietrich II, a former chairman of the University's Board of Trustees who received his Ph.D. from the Department in 1984.

In filling this chair, and in keeping with the interests of Dr. Dietrich, the Department seeks candidates with extraordinary credentials in research, teaching, and mentorship in the fields of international relations or comparative politics, or whose interests cut across these and possibly other disciplinary subfields.

The Political Science Department at the University of Pittsburgh currently consists of 25 tenure stream faculty members with vibrant and varied research agendas. The Department's NRC ranking has improved dramatically over the past decade, and presently ranks between 20th and 30th among Ph.D. granting departments. It has long fostered collegiality and a culture of collaboration among faculty and graduate students. The Department benefits from numerous synergies with other units on campus, including the University Center for International Studies, a world renowned, multidisciplinary institute housing centers for area studies and for topical specializations in international studies, and the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs, a public administration and public policy school emphasizing international relations and political development. The City of Pittsburgh frequently tops "most livable city" rankings thanks to its numerous social and cultural offerings and low cost of living.

Please submit a detailed cover letter and C.V. electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTU3>. Additional information may be requested at a later date. Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1780

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, American Government and Politics

The Department of Politics at the University of Virginia invites applications for a full-time position in ENVIRONMENTAL POLITICS at the assistant professor (tenure-track) or associate professor (tenured) level. The position is open with respect to subfield within political science, and we are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across both subfield and disciplinary boundaries. This is a cross-school, cross-disciplinary effort focused on integrating social, political, cultural and scientific approaches to address environmental challenges. The initiative includes a cluster hire of at least five faculty in the College of Arts and Sciences (Politics, Economics, Environmental Sciences), the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences, and the School of Architecture.

We are especially interested in candidates who have an interest in, or demonstrated capacity for mentoring diverse students and colleagues.

We welcome applications from candidates in any--or some mix--of the subfields of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and American Politics.

Applicants at the assistant professor rank must be on track to receive a PhD in Political Science by May 2017 and must hold a PhD at the time of appointment, although those still at the ABD stage in August 2017 may be appointed as acting assistant professor. Applicants at the associate professor rank must hold a PhD at the time of application and must have an outstanding publication and teaching record.

To apply, candidates must submit an online application through Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>). Search on posting number 0619320 and submit a "Candidate Profile" that includes a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and contact information for three references.

Applicants at the assistant professor rank should have their references send letters directly to Bonnie Bragg (EnviroAsstPro@virginia.edu).

Review of applications will begin September 12, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2017, with an anticipated start date of July 25, 2017.

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVA should be directed to Bonnie Bragg (EnviroAsstPro@virginia.edu).

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1774

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Gender and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

McGill University

Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor, Gender and Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Gender and Politics. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as Gender and Politics, Feminist Theories and Methodologies, and/or the empirical study of gender, as well as courses in the candidate's specific area(s) of expertise.

The Department welcomes applications from qualified candidates working within any subfield or methodological approach in Political Science. While all applications will be given full consideration, we are particularly interested in scholars whose work addresses the politics of gender and sexuality in their articulation and intersections with indigeneity, race, class, disability, and/or other axes of marginalization, power and identity.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students.

Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank is possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2017.

For more information about the Department and University, visit our web site at: <http://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/>.

The Department maintains a close relationship with several Centers and Institutes on campus that will be possible places of research affiliation for the successful candidate. These include: the Institute for Gender, Sexuality, and Feminist Studies (IGSF), <http://www.mcgill.ca/igsf/>; the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS) <http://www.mcgill.ca/rgcs/>; the Center for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC), www.csdcced.ca; the Center for International Peace and Security Studies (CIPSS), <http://cepsi-cipss.ca/en/>; the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), www.mcgill.ca/isid/; and the European Union Centre of Excellence (EUCE), www.centreurope-montreal.ca.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Hudson Meadwell, hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 10 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/7567>.

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill
Département de science politique
Professeur adjoint, Genre et Politiques

Le département de Sciences politiques de l'Université McGill lance un appel à candidatures pour un poste en Genre et Politiques menant à la permanence. Le candidat retenu devra enseigner au niveau des études du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs, et donner des cours en Genre et Politiques, sur les théories et méthodologies féministes et (ou) l'étude empirique du genre, de même que des cours dans son ou ses domaines d'expertise.

Le département invite à postuler les candidats qualifiés qui travaillent dans un sous-champ des Sciences politiques ou avec une approche méthodologique de cette discipline. Toutes les demandes seront examinées minutieusement, mais nous nous intéressons tout particulièrement à des universitaires dont les travaux portent les politiques en matière de différence des sexes et de sexualité dans leur interdépendance et leurs liens avec l'indigénéité, la race, la classe, l'invalidité et (ou) d'autres axes de la marginalisation, du pouvoir et de l'identité.

Les antécédents des candidats doivent démontrer un potentiel exceptionnel pour la recherche de même que l'aptitude à enseigner efficacement à des étudiants du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs et la capacité à superviser des étudiants aux cycles supérieurs.

Le département recherche un professeur adjoint. Toutefois, le recrutement d'un candidat de plus haut niveau est envisageable dans des cas exceptionnels. Le candidat souhaité détient, ou a presque terminé, un PhD.

Chaque candidature doit comprendre le curriculum vitae du postulant, son relevé de notes de l'université, trois lettres de référence, un exemplaire d'un article publié et des documents relatifs à ses aptitudes à enseigner. L'entrée en fonction est prévue pour le 1er août 2017.

Pour en savoir plus sur l'université et le département en cause, consulter notre site Web à l'adresse: <http://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/>.

Le département entretient des liens étroits avec de nombreux centres et instituts sur les campus, qui peuvent s'avérer des endroits propices à une affiliation en recherche pour le candidat retenu. Ces centres et instituts comprennent: l'Institut Genre, sexualité et féminisme (IGSF), <http://www.mcgill.ca/igsf/>; Le Groupe de recherche sur les études constitutionnelles (RGCS), <http://www.mcgill.ca/rgcs/>; le Centre pour l'étude de la citoyenneté démocratique (CÉCD), www.csdcced.ca; le Centre d'études sur la paix et la sécurité internationale (CEPSI), <http://cepsi-cipss.ca/>; l'Institut d'étude du développement international de McGill (IEDI), www.mcgill.ca/isid/; et le Centre d'excellence sur l'Union européenne (CEUE), www.centreurope-montreal.ca.

Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de cette position peuvent être envoyées au Directeur du département, Hudson Meadwell, à hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

L'étude des candidatures commencera le 10 octobre 2016 et se poursuivra jusqu'à ce qu'un candidat ait été retenu.

POSTULER EN LIGNE À L'ADRESSE: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajob/jobs/7567>.

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/9/2016

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1765

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Political Economy

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and ranges from $68,000-$83,500 pa.

We are looking to recruit an Assistant Professor in International Relations (International Political Economy).

All candidates must have a research interest in International Political Economy and must also show a clear and visible strategy for future top quality research. We wish to appoint an outstanding candidate but will, among equally outstanding candidates, prefer candidates with research and teaching interests in international trade and the areas of money and finance in the world economy. We are open with respect to methodological and theoretical approaches.

Candidates will need a PhD in International Political Economy or a related field by 1 September 2017. Candidates should also have a proven or developing record of publications in refereed international journals or with highly-respected book publishers based on research that is, or has the potential to be, internationally excellent and, ideally, world-leading in terms of originality, significance and rigour. Some experience of teaching International Political Economy at undergraduate or postgraduate level is desirable.

Successful candidates should have excellent communication and leadership skills and an ability to work as part of a team with colleagues across the School.

The post will start on 1 September 2017.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

To apply for this post, please go to www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs. If you have any queries about applying on the online system, or require an alternative format for the application, please e-mail: hr.jobs@lse.ac.uk quoting reference 1574028.

The closing date for receipt of applications is 16 September 2016 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/16/2016
Date Posted: 8/10/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1763

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Security

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and ranges from $68,000-$83,500 pa.

We are looking to recruit an Assistant Professor in International Security

All candidates must have a research interest in international security and must also show a clear and visible strategy for future top quality research. We are open with respect to methodological and theoretical approaches.

Candidates will need a PhD in International Relations or a related field by 1 September 2017. Candidates should also have a proven or developing record of publications in refereed international journals or with highly-respected book publishers based on research that is, or has the potential to be, internationally excellent and, ideally, world-leading in terms of originality, significance and rigour. Some experience of teaching international security at undergraduate or postgraduate level is desirable.

Successful candidates should have excellent communication and leadership skills and an ability to work as part of a team with colleagues across the School.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

The post will start on 1 September 2017.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

To apply for this post, please go to <http://www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs>. If you have any queries about applying on the online system, or require an alternative format for the application, please e-mail: hr.jobs@lse.ac.uk quoting reference 1574399.

The closing date for receipt of applications is 16 September 2016 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/16/2016
Date Posted: 8/10/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1762

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor – International Relations or Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor – International Relations or Comparative Politics
 Department of Political Science
 Emory University
 Atlanta, GA

The Department of Political Science at Emory University seeks to hire an International Relations or Comparative Politics scholar with expertise in political economy, development, or conflict, to begin in the fall semester 2017. The position is tenure-track at the level of Assistant Professor, though in extraordinary circumstances a senior appointment may be considered. We welcome a range of methods and perspectives.

The successful candidate must demonstrate excellence or the promise of excellence in both research and teaching. The candidate should have completed the Ph.D. or be very close to completing the Ph.D. by September 2017. The teaching load is four courses per year and benefits are competitive.

A complete application will consist of a cover letter that includes a research statement, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching portfolio, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Application review will begin on September 9, 2016; to ensure full consideration all materials should be received by this date. To apply for this position, please visit <https://apply.interfolio.com/36551> and submit your materials free of charge through Interfolio.

Emory University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer. The Department of Political Science, Emory College, and Emory University are all strongly committed to recruiting female and minority candidates. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/9/2016

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1743

Morehouse College

Rank: Assistant Professor -- International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates should be trained in the area of international relations and be able to teach courses in both international relations and comparative politics. The area of specialization is open, though there is a preference for applicants who can contribute to the College's educational mission regarding African and African-American history and culture and/or the legacy of international peace and non-violence.

Responsibilities include teaching courses (a 3-3 load), advising, and mentoring students; developing and maintaining a scholarly research and publication agenda; and service to the department and the College. We also encourage faculty to be active in soliciting external funding through grants and other sources. The start date for the position is August 2017, and possibly January 2017 if a suitable candidate is identified and appointed. Minimum qualifications include a PhD in political science; commitment to excellence in teaching; evidence of a productive research program; and service to the profession and community.

A successful application will consist of the following: a letter of application providing detail on how the candidate meets the qualifications for the position and why they are a good fit for Morehouse College in particular (no more than 2 pages); a current curriculum vitae (no more than 4 pages); a statement of teaching philosophy (no more than 2 pages); a research/scholarship agenda (no more than 2 pages); three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates also have the option of sharing the following: sample syllabi (no more than 2 courses); samples of research (no more than 2 samples); teaching evaluations or summaries of evaluations (no more than 2 courses, but if submitted, only submit full class evaluations and not samples of class evaluations).

All application materials must be submitted online: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36492>

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until September 30th. We will be interviewing at the APSA Annual Meeting Placement Service on Friday, September 2nd and Saturday, September 3rd. Applicants who wish to be considered for an APSA interview should send a cover letter and CV, by August 22nd, to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Andrew Douglas (andrew.douglas@morehouse.edu).

Morehouse College is an equal opportunity employer. No employee or applicant will be discriminated against in any condition of employment because of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, veteran status or any other status protected by law.

About Morehouse

Morehouse College is a private historically black liberal arts college for men whose mission is to develop men with disciplined minds to lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of black people. Since the founding of the College in 1867, the faculty, staff, and leadership have worked to inspire, nurture, challenge, support, and engage students with the expressed intent of fomenting a very special kind of development.

Morehouse has a very proud tradition of having developed leaders, with the most notable of course being Martin Luther King, Jr. (class of 1948). Each era has defined the qualities of a Morehouse Man—an expression of the expectations we have of our graduates—a bit differently, but there are some enduring constants. Backed by nearly 150 years of history, we see our work as helping to shape men of acuity, integrity and agency; men who will commit to brotherhood, standing together with their peers to cheer, challenge and support each other; and men who will strive to lead consequential lives, to not just do well for themselves, but to do good in the world.

Our strong legacy is continued now as we claim a number of successes. Morehouse is the number one baccalaureate origin institution for black male doctorate recipients in science and engineering, life sciences, physical sciences, social sciences, education, and humanities over the decade ending 2012 according to the National Science Foundation. We are the top producer of underrepresented minority physics baccalaureates among non-PhD granting institutions over the three years ending in 2013 as measured by the American Physical Society. And the College just this year became the only non-majority college or university to have produced four Rhodes Scholars. Our graduates include not only men like King and Julian Bond, but Spike Lee, David Satcher, Eddie Glaude, Jim Shelton, and many more operating in and out of academia in some way.

The College offers instructional programs in three divisions—business and economics, humanities and social sciences, and sciences and mathematics—as well as extracurricular and co-curricular activities that, combined with the academic program: foster the development of oral and written communication skills; foster appreciation of world cultures, artistic, creative expression and the nature of the physical universe; promote understanding of the specific skills needed to pursue professional careers and graduate study; and cultivate the personal attributes of self-confidence, tolerance, morality, ethical behavior, spirituality, humility, global perspective, and commitment to justice.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/30/2016

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1759

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: International Relations/IPE

Specializations: International Political Economy, Quantitative Methods, Foreign Policy

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University New Brunswick anticipates hiring 12 new faculty members over the next 4 years, mostly at the Assistant Professor level. Our needs extend to all subfields, although they are particularly strong in International Relations, American Politics, and Methods (statistical and formal). As part of this initiative, we now seek applicants for a full time, tenure track Assistant Professor position in International Relations, beginning September 1, 2017. We have a strong preference towards someone with advanced quantitative and/or game-theoretic skills and an interest in International Political Economy, although other substantive interests in IR will also be considered. Candidate must be able to teach standard undergraduate survey courses in IR. Ability to teach a graduate level course in MLE a big plus.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36595>. Review of applicants will begin on October 1 and continue until the job is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 1750

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The University of California, Merced opened in September 2005 as the tenth campus of the University of California system. In keeping with the mission of the UC to provide research, teaching, and public service of the highest quality, UC Merced provides educational opportunities at the undergraduate, masters and doctoral levels through three academic schools: Engineering; Natural Sciences; and Social Sciences, Humanities and the Arts.

The School of Social Sciences, Humanities and Arts invites applications for two positions in either Political Institutions or Political Behavior with a substantive focus in American Politics, Comparative Politics, or International Relations, at the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track).

In order to be considered, the selected candidate must have a PhD in political science or a related field at the time of appointment.

The anticipated start date for this position is July 1, 2017.

Applications must be submitted online. Completed applications, including letters of recommendation, must be received no later than September 15, 2016 to receive consideration. Applicants are required to submit 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of research; 4) a statement of teaching; 5) up to two writing samples; 6) a list of references with contact information including mailing address, phone number, and e-mail address; and 7) a contributions to diversity statement.

The Contributions to Diversity Statement should describe your past experience, activities and future plans to advance diversity, equity and inclusion, in alignment with UC Merced's mission to reflect the diversity of California and to meet the educational needs and interests of its diverse population. Some faculty candidates may not have substantial past activities. If that is the case, we recommend focusing on future plans in your statement. A more developed and substantial plan is expected for senior candidates. For additional information on what should be included on your Diversity Statement, please visit <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html#Are-there-any-guidelines-for-wr>.

Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted online. After an application is submitted, the letters of reference should be electronically uploaded by the letter writers (instructions will be provided by the application system). Letters of reference should be received no later than September 15, 2016.

The University of California, Merced is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty, students and staff.

Salary is commensurate with education, experience, and UC academic salary scales.

For additional information, please contact Courtenay Conrad at cc Conrad@ucmerced.edu.

To apply, please visit <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00369>.

Applicants will be notified when the final candidate has been selected.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1715

West Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice at West Texas A&M University invites applications for a tenure-track position in international relations, beginning fall semester 2017. We seek candidates with a promising research agenda in the relations among nation-states in Latin America, especially issues concerning women and minorities. The ability to teach courses in American national government is required and courses in quantitative and qualitative research design is desired. Additionally, the position includes teaching a mix of introductory and upper-level courses with a 4-4 load and participation in university service.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/16/2016

Date Posted: 8/8/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1744

Dartmouth College

Rank: Endowed Chair in Transnational Studies

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for appointment to a newly endowed chair in transnational studies, which includes scholarship on the roles of both state and non-state actors in international relations, in international political economy, and in the maintenance of security and political order. The appointment is open to any rank. The successful candidate's research and teaching should enhance the scholarly reputation of the Department of Government and also advance the mission of the Dickey Center for International Understanding, making significant contributions to contemporary policy debates in the United States and/or the international community. The position requires excellence in research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or evidence of substantial progress toward a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest and CV, including names and contact information for at least three references.

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged. The review of applications will begin on September 23, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Application materials should be submitted electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/28340>

Questions may be sent to: government.department@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1739

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, International Political Economy

Assistant Professor, International Relations

About University at Albany:

Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in eight schools and colleges across three campuses.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Political Science Department at the University at Albany, SUNY is seeking a tenure-track colleague with a specialty in International Relations at the rank of Assistant Professor. For the position, we have a strong preference for candidates with expertise in international security and conflict, foreign policy, international political economy, and/or global governance. Priority will be given to candidates with promising research agendas and those that can build synergies with existing subfield members. We will also prioritize hiring a candidate with strong prospects for excellent undergraduate teaching. Candidates with a well-developed expertise in quantitative or qualitative methods and the ability to provide graduate-level training and mentoring in methods are preferred. An ability to teach the International Relations graduate field seminar is also a requirement. Evidence of successful pursuit of external funding and/or experience with online, blended, or experiential learning is a plus. Lastly, evidence of engagement in the broader academic community is a plus.

Located in a major governmental center, the department has 21 full-time members and offers degrees at the bachelors', masters', and doctoral level. International Relations is a separate graduate field with three dedicated lines, and the successful candidate may also play a role in the new Master's in International Affairs. The new colleague will be expected to teach courses in the field at the undergraduate and graduate level and assist with graduate student training and advising. Teaching load is two courses per semester. Salary and benefits are competitive. The University at Albany (www.albany.edu) is one of four designated University Centers in the SUNY system.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Candidates should have an earned Ph.D. in hand by starting date, but advanced ABDs may be considered. The degree must be from a college or university accredited by a US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Candidates must demonstrate the ability to work with and instruct a culturally and otherwise diverse population.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant Professor

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=74742>

A review of applications will start on September 9, 2016, and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/5/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1738

University of Oregon

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Oregon invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning September 2017, and will consider candidates in either of two areas: International Political Economy/International Organization or Comparative Politics with a specialization in Chinese politics. IPE/IO candidates are required to have demonstrated quantitative research interests and teaching abilities and should be capable of teaching an undergraduate/graduate methods course. For comparative/China candidates, we are open to varied methodological orientations. The successful candidate is expected to conduct a rigorous research program, and to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The University of Oregon and the Department of Political Science are committed to creating a more inclusive and diverse institution and seek candidates with demonstrated potential to contribute positively to its diverse community.

Apply online at academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7568. Interested applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, employment application, one writing sample, syllabi and teaching evaluations, if available. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by September 15, 2017.

To ensure full consideration, application materials must be submitted by October 1, 2016. This position will remain open until filled. This is a paperless search; contact psjobs@uoregon.edu with questions or concerns.

The University of Oregon is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution committed to cultural diversity and compliance with the ADA. The University encourages all qualified individuals to apply, and does not discriminate on the basis of any protected status, including veteran and disability status.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/5/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1735

University of Tennessee

Rank: Assistant Professor--International Relations

University of Tennessee-Knoxville

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position in International Relations to begin Fall 2017. While the department seeks a scholar broadly trained in theories of international politics and will review applications from all specializations including international political economy, it has a preference for candidates who can enhance our disciplinary presence in security policy/conflict processes (e.g. political violence, terrorism, civil war) and foreign policy. Applicants with a research focus on sub-state conflict processes are especially encouraged to apply. The successful candidate must have strong research skills, including training in quantitative and/or formal methods, and must have a clear research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed journals. We are particularly interested in applicants who address substantively important questions using rigorous analytical approaches. Ability to contribute to the department's methods sequence would be highly desirable. Preference will be shown for applicants with teaching and research interests that complement existing departmental interests, have a record of extramural funding commensurate with experience, and demonstrate evidence of college/university teaching excellence. The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: <http://web.utk.edu/~polisci>. The Knoxville campus of the University of Tennessee is seeking candidates who have the ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the diversity and intercultural goals of the University.

Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be sent directly to the search committee. All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science must be finished at the time of appointment. All materials should be mailed or sent electronically to: Professor Brandon Prins, Chair, International Relations Search Committee, Howard Baker Center for Public Policy, 1640 Cumberland Avenue, Room 340, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, TN 37996-3340. Review of applications will begin October 5, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Brandon Prins at bprins@utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AA/Title VI/Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, or covered veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1727

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for a position in the field of International Relations. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time.

For best consideration apply by September 1, 2016.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1698

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/?q=node/1>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor in International Relations. We are open with respect to specialization within IR, and successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to International Relations Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1690

Wabash College

Rank: Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Political Science (International Relations)

The Political Science Department at Wabash College invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position beginning July 1, 2017. We anticipate hiring at the Assistant Professor level, but will consider candidates of any rank. A Ph.D. is expected at the time of appointment.

The successful candidate will teach three courses per semester. Teaching responsibilities will include introductory International Relations and a range of upper-level undergraduate political science courses, as well as all-college courses (Freshman Tutorial and Enduring Questions). Any specialization or regional focus will be considered, but we are especially interested in candidates who are willing to develop courses on Asian, Latin American and/or African politics. An active research program and a commitment to excellent teaching are required, and we will give preference to candidates with a strong commitment to the liberal arts, college-level teaching experience, support for undergraduate research, and an ability to work effectively with a diverse student body.

This position is a Byron K. Trippet assistant professorship, which provides support for research and professional development. Wabash College is committed to immersion learning and in recent years, Political Science courses have included week-long trips to Italy, France, the United Kingdom, Germany, and Cuba. We encourage applications from candidates who are excited to participate in and expand these opportunities for immersion learning through travel.

Wabash College, a liberal arts college for men, is located in Crawfordsville, Indiana, approximately 45 minutes from both Indianapolis and West Lafayette. In addition to the amenities these cities offer, Crawfordsville is located near some of the best outdoor recreational opportunities in the state. For more information about the College and the local area, see <http://www.wabash.edu>.

To ensure full consideration, applications must be received by September 15, 2016. To apply, visit <http://www.wabash.edu/employment/home> and submit your cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, undergraduate and graduate transcripts, and e-mail addresses for three persons who Wabash College will contact to request confidential letters of recommendation. In addition to highlighting your research experience and trajectory, your cover letter should indicate which courses you have taught, which courses you are immediately ready to teach, as well as those you would be willing and able to prepare. Initial interviews will be conducted via Skype. Please direct questions to Pam Sacco, Administrative Assistant for the Social Science Division, at saccop@wabash.edu or Ethan Hollander, Chair of the Political Science Department, at hollande@wabash.edu.

The College seeks faculty and staff who are committed to providing quality engagement with students, high levels of academic challenge and support, and meaningful experiences that prepare students for life and leadership in a diverse, multicultural world. Wabash is an equal opportunity employer and welcomes applications from persons of all backgrounds.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/27/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1677

University of California, Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Political Economy

The Political Science Department at the University of California, Irvine seeks a tenure track Assistant Professor in the International Political Economy subfield of International Relations beginning July 1, 2017. Salary is commensurate with academic qualifications and experience. Applicants are required to focus centrally on IPE (rather than Comparative Political Economy) in their research record, publications, teaching, and scholarly training. IPE themes include the role of international economic institutions, international implications of trans-border movements, global impact of economic inequality, transnational dimensions of global food production, international effects of sanctions, and other topics that transcend the internal politics of states to explain international outcomes. Applicants with a variety of methodological approaches will be considered.

Candidates should apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF03410>. The online application should include: a letter of application, curriculum vitae, at least three letters of recommendation, one writing sample focusing centrally on IPE, and evidence of teaching excellence in IPE-related courses.

Given its commitment to encouraging diversity, UC Irvine asks that a separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion be included with the application. The letters of recommendation should be uploaded directly by the referees. To ensure full consideration, the online application should be completed by October 15, 2016. Applications will be accepted, however, until the position is filled.

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy. It has a National Science Foundation Advance Gender Equity Program and is responsive to the needs of dual career couples in tenure track positions.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1661

Saint Mary's College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science/Gender and Women's Studies

Specializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Gender Politics & Policy

Gender and Women's Studies / Political Science. The Department of Political Science and the Department of Gender and Women's Studies at Saint Mary's College invite applications for a tenure-track joint appointment. We seek doctorally-prepared (ABD considered) political scientists who specialize in international relations and could teach courses in international development and/or global political economy. The successful candidate must be qualified to teach courses in Gender and Women's Studies (as demonstrated by graduate certification or equivalent), with a specialization in transnational feminisms and/or international feminist movements. Teaching responsibilities include the introductory Gender and Women's Studies course, the survey course in International Politics, and upper-level courses in international relations and transnational feminisms. The teaching load is 3:3. Send a letter of application, c.v., graduate transcripts, three letters of reference, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g. teaching evaluations, statement of teaching philosophy) to Dr. Amy Cavender, CSC, at searchposcgws@saintmarys.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15. Preliminary interviews will be conducted at the National Women's Studies Association annual conference in November.

Saint Mary's College, a Roman Catholic women's college, was founded by the Sisters of the Holy Cross in 1844. Its mission is to educate women in the liberal arts tradition, focusing on intellectual vigor, religious sensibility, aesthetic appreciation, and social responsibility. Saint Mary's College is an Equal Opportunity Employer. In keeping with the College's mission, Saint Mary's is committed to increasing racial and ethnic diversity at all levels – students, faculty, and staff – and seeks applications from candidates who share this commitment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 7/25/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1657

Stetson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Relations)

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

POSITION: Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Relations)

Stetson University seeks an individual with broad interests and training in International Relations who has a desire to teach and conduct research in a liberal arts setting. Besides teaching introductory and upper-level courses in International Relations and offering innovative First Year and/or Junior Seminars, the candidate will develop courses to complement existing strengths in the Department and in one or more related programs (e.g. International Studies, Africana Studies, Asian Studies, Gender Studies, Global Development, Latin American Studies, and Russian, East European and Eurasian Studies).

QUALIFICATIONS:

A Ph.D. in Political Science is preferred, but applicants who are ABD will be considered if they are at the final stage of the dissertation process. Teaching experience beyond typical teaching assistant duties in graduate school is an advantage but not required.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

The teacher-scholar model at Stetson requires that tenure-track faculty teach three courses each semester complemented with quality scholarship and service. Primary teaching responsibilities include introductory and upper-level courses in International Relations and related sub-disciplines (e.g. migration studies, international diplomacy, international law, security studies, etc.). Other courses will be based on the candidate's expertise and may include offerings for the University's requirements in General Education, including First Year Seminars and Junior Seminars. The faculty member is also expected to mentor students academically and professionally.

Candidates should demonstrate a passion for the highest quality of teaching, combined with the ability to produce rigorous peer-reviewed academic scholarship. Scholarly activity leading to publication in peer-reviewed journals and service to the Department, the College of Arts and Sciences, the University, and the profession are required. For more information on our expectations in teaching and scholarship, our tenure policies, and our support for faculty development, please see the Office of the Provost and Academic Affairs website: <http://www.stetson.edu/administration/provost/index.php>.

THE DEPARTMENT:

The Department of Political Science (<http://www.stetson.edu/artsci/political-science/>) offers academically rigorous majors in both Political Science and Public Management. Departmental faculty contribute regularly to interdisciplinary programs such as International Studies, Russian, Eastern European and Eurasian Studies, Latin American Studies, Africana Studies, the Honors Program, and Environmental Science and Studies. We have had considerable success placing students in high-quality graduate programs in Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration and in prominent law schools. Faculty in the Department are committed to the teacher-scholar model, which involves teaching within a traditional liberal arts environment where the primary focus is extensive interaction with undergraduate students in a small class environment, while also maintaining an active research agenda.

THE COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES:

Stetson's College of Arts and Sciences (<http://www.stetson.edu/portal/artsci/>) is the largest and most diverse of the University's colleges and schools; it includes the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, education, and creative arts. With nineteen academic departments and eight interdisciplinary programs, the College is the liberal arts core of the University. A great strength of the College is its faculty of approximately 140 full-time teacher-scholars. The College offers 31 undergraduate majors and 34 undergraduate minors; six graduate degrees are offered in Education, Counselor Education, and Creative Writing. Every undergraduate major requires a senior research project, allowing students the opportunity to design and carry out independent research under faculty mentorship. Our academic programs are shaped by the values of social justice and civic responsibility. All of our courses and programs of study promote engaged learning, whereby students create connections between the classroom or lab and the local, regional, and global community. The academic programs of the College of Arts and Sciences prepare students to live significant lives, to interact with and positively affect the world around them.

THE UNIVERSITY:

Founded in 1883, Stetson University (<http://www.stetson.edu>) is a private, selective university comprised of a rich array of liberal arts and professional academic programs. Collectively, Stetson's faculty works with nearly 4000 students in undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs. The University's historic main campus, located in DeLand, enrolls more than 2,800 students in undergraduate programs in the College of Arts & Sciences, the School of Business Administration, and the School of Music. Stetson University College of Law, Florida's first law school, moved from the main campus to Gulfport in 1954, and, with the addition of the Tampa Law Center, serves approximately 1,000 students working full-time or part-time toward J.D. or LL.M. degrees. Graduate programs offered at the main campus and at Stetson University Center in Celebration include Business, Accounting, Elementary Education – Education for Social Justice, Educational Leadership, Counseling, and Creative Writing. Florida's oldest private institution of higher learning, Stetson has regularly been ranked among the best regional universities in the Southeast and was the first private college in Florida to be granted a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Stetson University provides an inspiring education that engages students with rigorous academic and creative study grounded in liberal learning and promotes civic values of personal and social responsibility. Working closely with faculty and with one another, students cultivate abilities to explore issues deeply, think critically, reason empirically, speak persuasively, and connect ideas creatively. Firmly committed to inclusive excellence, our vibrant community of teacher-scholars nurtures the potential of individual students to lead lives of significance and prepares each to meet the challenges of shaping the future—locally, nationally, and globally.

THE COMMUNITY:

DeLand is a picturesque residential community of 25,000 located 20 miles west of Daytona Beach and 35 miles northeast of Orlando. The area offers extensive cultural as well as recreational activities.

SALARY: Salary is competitive.

STARTING DATE: August 15, 2017

APPLICATION:

Applicants must send the following materials for consideration: 1) a cover letter summarizing the candidate's interest in the position and qualifications, 2) a statement of the candidate's teaching philosophy and a representative sample of teaching evaluations, 3) a curriculum vitae, 4) copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts, 5) three letters of recommendation sent under separate cover by the recommenders via e-mail or mail (at least one of which should include an evaluation of teaching ability), and 6) a statement of research interests and a description of how undergraduate students might participate in that research. Candidates are encouraged to highlight skills and experiences that demonstrate a commitment to social justice, diversity, and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin on September 20th and continue until the position is filled.

Application materials may be submitted electronically to the search committee at polisearch@stetson.edu or mailed to the following address:

Dr. William R. Nylén
Chair, International Relations Search Committee
Department of Political Science
Stetson University
421 N. Woodland Blvd. Unit 8301
DeLand, FL 32723

Stetson University is an Equal Opportunity Employer that affirms cultural diversity and inclusion as a core value of academic excellence at Stetson University. We are committed to achieving equal access in education, employment, and participation through the recruitment and retention of outstanding faculty, staff, and students from diverse backgrounds, and to meaningful academic and intellectual transformation in curriculum, research and service. We are dedicated to actions and policies that foster a community in which individuals with various identities, cultures, backgrounds, and viewpoints work together to create opportunities for engagement through rewarding and fulfilling careers and personal experiences in a culturally and racially diverse society and a globalized world. We strongly encourage members of historically under-represented and economically-disadvantaged groups and women to apply for employment. Stetson University is an EEO, ADA, ADEA, and GINA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/21/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1649

California State University, Chico

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice
Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Position: The Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice invites applications for a tenure-track position in International Relations at the Assistant Professor level. The position begins August 2017.

Minimum Qualifications: The minimum education requirement for appointment to this position is a Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations, or other related discipline. Candidates nearing completion of the doctorate may be considered; however, the doctorate must be complete prior to the beginning of the academic year in August 2017. The successful candidate's first two fields of research and teaching will be International Relations and Comparative Politics, with an emphasis on conflict/security. The regional specialization will be either Latin America or Africa. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in our Master's program by teaching graduate seminars, participating in MA thesis committees, and/or reading Master's comprehensive exams.

Preferred Qualifications: The ideal candidate will contribute to other programs in the department by teaching courses in areas such as research methods, terrorism and homeland security, or other courses that bridge our degree programs. Please see our current course catalog for a list of the department's course offerings: <http://catalog.csuchico.edu/viewer/16/POLS/offerings.html>

Responsibilities: This tenure-track position carries responsibilities in the areas of teaching, scholarship, and service to the Department and University. Teaching assignments are based upon qualifications of the individual and the needs of the department. The successful candidate should also demonstrate the following:

Commitment to and/or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds

Salary: Salary commensurate with education and experience.

The Department: The Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice offers undergraduate degrees in political science (including an option in legal studies), criminal justice, international relations, and public administration, as well as Masters degrees in political science and public administration. We have an exciting curriculum, with numerous options to meet a host of academic interests, and an active and productive faculty committed to excellence in teaching and scholarship. Over 1,000 students major in our programs. Additional information about our Department is available at <http://www.csuchico.edu/pols/>. Additional information about the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences is available at <http://www.csuchico.edu/bss/index.shtml>.

Closing Date: Review of applications will begin on October 14, 2016, and continue until the position is filled.

How to Apply: All applicants must online apply at: <http://jobs.csuchico.edu/postings/3718>

Complete online applications must include: CV, complete set of transcripts (unofficial acceptable), writing sample and teaching evaluations (if available). Three letters of recommendation MUST be submitted to the search committee chair at the email below.

Submit letters of recommendation and job-related questions to:
Dr. Jennifer Wilking, Chair
International Relations Search Committee
jwilking@csuchico.edu
(530)898-5960

An annual security report disclosing crime statistics for CSU, Chico can be obtained by contacting the University Police Department (530-898-5555) or by accessing the following website: http://www.csuchico.edu/up/clery_report.shtml

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

For disability related accommodations please call ADA Coordinator at (530) 898-5959.

CSU, Chico is an EOE/Minority/Females/Vet/Disability and only employs individuals authorized to work in the U.S. The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1639

CUNY-Baruch College

Rank: Assistant Professor

FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

Baruch College's Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure track position as assistant professor in the field of International Relations or Comparative Politics, open with regard to subfield. The position will begin in the fall semester 2017. Baruch, a flagship college of the City University of New York, is located in the historic Gramercy Park district of Manhattan.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must have a PhD at time of appointment and an active research agenda. Candidates with experience or interest in teaching in online or hybrid formats are preferred.

COMPENSATION

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

STEP ONE - Copy and paste the link below into your browser:
https://home.cunyfirst.cuny.edu/psp/cnyepprd/GUEST/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&JobOpeningId=15254&SiteId=1&PostingSeq=1

To be considered for this position, please submit your application online by clicking on "Apply Now" below. Candidates should provide a cover letter describing research and teaching interests, CV, writing samples, and three letters of reference.

STEP TWO - Go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/>

All applicants are required to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted electronically by their references as described below.

Please go to <https://www.baruch.cuny.edu/hrref/> and enter the contact information for three (3) references. The online system will automatically send your references a request to submit a letter via the system. Full instructions will be provided.

Emailed or hard copy applications will not be considered.
To arrange an interview at the APSA Annual Meeting contact Professor David Jones at david.jones@baruch.cuny.edu
If you have any other questions, please contact HR at 646-660-6590

CLOSING DATE

Review of resumes begins on August 3, 2016; to ensure consideration, please apply by September 30, 2016

JOB SEARCH CATEGORY

CUNY Job Posting: Faculty

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 7/20/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1642

Bates College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

The Department of Politics at Bates College invites applications for a tenure track position in East Asian politics, with a disciplinary focus on international relations, particularly international security. The department conceptualizes security in broad terms to include but not be limited to interstate and intra-state conflict, human security, and environmental security. We seek an individual whose research focuses on inter-Asian security and who can teach classes on East Asia, including security issues in Asia and domestic politics in the region. Candidates should have a Ph.D. completed, or nearly complete. The Politics Department has implemented an innovative curriculum that uses concentrations on broad sets of ideas in political science rather than the traditional subfields. We are interested in candidates who can enhance the diversity of perspectives in the department, who are excited to contribute to the college's ongoing commitment to social and cultural diversity and inclusion, who are attentive to the design of inclusive pedagogy, and who can connect with other disciplinary and interdisciplinary efforts at the college, especially with the Asian Studies program. To be considered for this position, candidates must directly address their experiences, strengths, and opportunities for growth with regard to inclusivity, diversity, and difference in their teaching statement. Those applying should also demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in research and undergraduate teaching. The position requires teaching five courses per year, at least two of which will be cross-listed with Asian Studies. Review of applications begins October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36206>

QUALIFICATIONS

ABD will be considered, Ph.D., preferred.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Review of applications begins October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants should submit the following:

- Letter of application
- Curriculum vita
- Statement on teaching philosophy, with attention to how it aligns with the college's commitment to supporting difference and inclusion
- Statement on research aims
- Writing sample
- Graduate transcripts
- Three letters of recommendation

Employment is contingent upon successful completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 7/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1634

Marquette University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Tenure Track) – International/Comparative Political Economy
Specializations: Political Economy, Developing Nations, Environmental Policy

The Political Science Department at Marquette University invites applications for an entry-level, tenure-track position in international or comparative political economy. The successful applicant will focus on development or sustainable development. The position begins with the 2017-18 academic year.

The successful applicant will have demonstrated research interests in the political economy of development or sustainable development. Ph.D. or ABD (Ph.D. by August 15, 2017) with graduate course work in the area of comparative political economy and/or international political economy is required.

All applications for this position must be received through Marquette University's online recruiting system (<https://employment.marquette.edu/>). The applicant will upload the following:

- *Letter of application
- *Curriculum vitae
- *List of those who will be submitting recommendation letters
- *Unofficial graduate transcript
- *Writing sample
- *Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- *Syllabi (for courses independently taught and/or a sample syllabus for an undergraduate political economy course focusing on development).

Additionally, three letters of recommendation are required. Recommendation letters cannot be uploaded by the candidate. Applicants must arrange to have their recommendation letters sent to:

Dr. Lowell Barrington, Chair
Department of Political Science
540 N. 15th Street, 468 William Wehr Bldg
Marquette University
P.O. Box 1881
Milwaukee, WI
53201-1881 (USPS); 53233 (courier)

To receive full consideration, applicants must complete the online application process and the Department of Political Science must receive all components of their applications by October 3, 2016.

Applicants who make the list of potential candidates for on-campus interviews will be required to have their official graduate academic transcripts sent to the department chair.

Marquette is a Jesuit, Catholic university and seeks candidates who will contribute to its mission, a statement of which can be found at <http://www.marquette.edu/about/mission.php>. Candidates from underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Additional information about the university and department can be found at <http://www.Marquette.edu> and <http://www.Marquette.edu/polisci>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 7/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1583

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Assistant Professor - Politics of Western Europe

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one tenure-stream appointment in the field of the Politics of Western Europe. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will begin on July 1, 2017.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science or a closely related field by date of appointment or soon thereafter. The successful candidate will conduct scholarly research on Western Europe that addresses important, general debates in the Comparative Politics subfield. She or he will be expected to conduct innovative research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. She or he will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, or will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards for work in the field and strong endorsements by referees. Finally, she or he will be equipped to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Comparative Politics, as well as advanced courses in Western European Politics and will have demonstrated excellence in teaching through teaching accomplishments, letters of reference and the teaching materials submitted as part of the application.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/> and <http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint or conference paper), materials relevant to teaching experience (e.g., course outlines and handouts, student survey results), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Applicants should also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Edward Schatz, at polsci.utm@utoronto.ca. To receive full consideration, applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by September 28, 2016.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact lorna.taylor@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 9/28/2016

Date Posted: 7/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1627

Mount Holyoke College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Political Economy

Assistant Professor of International Political Economy
Department of International Relations and Department of Politics

The Departments of International Relations and Politics invite applications for a tenure-track position in international political economy. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level beginning in Fall 2017. Ph.D. required by the start of the appointment. The ideal candidate should have broad expertise in both the theory and practice of international political economy with particular emphasis on American foreign policy since the end of World War II. Within these broad parameters, we welcome applications from political scientists whose research and teaching interests focus on any of the following: international organizations, international trade or finance, globalization, or international peace and security. In addition to courses on IPE, the successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory course in international relations on a rotating basis. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record of strong teaching at the undergraduate level and experience mentoring students who are broadly diverse with regard to race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, and religion.

The successful candidate will hold a joint appointment in the Departments of International Relations and Politics. Teaching load is 2/2. Salary is competitive.

Applications must be made online at <https://jobs.mtholyoke.edu/> by submitting a cover letter, C.V., graduate transcripts, a statement of research interests, a statement of teaching philosophy, a statement about mentoring a diverse student body, sample syllabuses, and a short writing sample no later than October 1, 2016. Applicants should also arrange to have three letters of reference submitted on their behalf. Electronic prompts to referees will be generated automatically after the completed application has been submitted.

Mount Holyoke is an undergraduate liberal arts college for women with 2,200 students and 220 faculty. Over half the faculty are women; one-fourth are persons of color. Mount Holyoke College is located about 80 miles west of Boston in the Connecticut River valley, and is a member of the Five College Consortium consisting of Amherst, Hampshire, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts.

Mount Holyoke College is committed to enriching the educational experience it offers through the diversity of its faculty, administration, and staff members. Mount Holyoke seeks to recruit and support a broadly diverse faculty who will contribute to the college's academic excellence, diversity of viewpoints and experiences, and relevance in a global society. In furtherance of academic excellence, the College encourages applications from individuals from underrepresented groups in the professoriate, including faculty of color, faculty with diverse gender identities, first generation college students, individuals who have followed non-traditional pathways to college due to exceptional talent and motivation in the face of adversity, such as societal, economic or academic disadvantages, and individuals with a demonstrated commitment to applying and including diverse backgrounds and perspectives to learning, scholarship, service, and leadership in the academy.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 7/11/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1607

Stanford University

Rank: Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields

Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields.

The Stanford Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields. The term of appointment would begin September 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than three pages).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions.

The committee will begin reading applications on September 16, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should apply on line through AcademicJobsOnline.org

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/16/2016
Date Posted: 7/8/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1603

NYU Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

FACULTY POSITIONS
 Political Science – Political Theory
 NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. The positions are open rank. The expected start date is September 1, 2017. We are particularly interested in recruiting faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, global ethics, or comparative political theory.

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016. Campus visits to NYUAD will be held in October and November 2016, with the visits to NYUNY occurring in the succeeding four weeks. The review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the positions are filled. We anticipate that the successful candidates can start employment on or before August 15, 2017 subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/15/2016
Date Posted: 7/7/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1597

NYU Abu DhabiRank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu DhabiSubfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science
NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi is inviting applications from political scientists for faculty positions at any level (assistant, associate or full professor, tenure/tenure track - senior candidacies also welcome) to strengthen its program in Political Science, for appointment on September 1, 2017. We encourage applications from all subfields of Political Science. You may visit the Political Science program's website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016. Campus visits to NYUAD will be held in October and November 2016, with the visits to NYUNY occurring in the succeeding four weeks. The review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the positions are filled. We anticipate that the successful candidates can start employment on or before August 15, 2017 subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 9/15/2016Date Posted: 7/7/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1595NYU Shanghai*Rank: TENURE/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION Political Science, NYU ShanghaiSubfield(s): International Relations, Other, Comparative Politics

TENURE/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION

Political Science
NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in Political Science (rank open). The position is to begin September 1, 2017, pending budgetary and administrative approval.

Candidates must hold a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (or expect it by the start date); must have a record of excellent research and publications or presentations appropriate to career stage; and must have demonstrated teaching excellence and an interest in teaching in a diverse, international setting. Experience teaching non-native speakers of English preferred, but not required.

The terms of employment in NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions in terms of research start-up funds compensation, and include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016, and will be reviewed until the position is filled.

Members of the search committee will be available to meet interested applicants during the 2016 Annual Meeting of the APSA in Philadelphia, PA.

To be considered, applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, separate statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three pages each), and electronic copies of up to three recent relevant publications or working papers. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each reference will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.socialscience.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within the NYU Global Network University. It is the first Sino-US higher education joint venture to grant a degree that is accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, it resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community. NYU Shanghai recruits scholars who are committed to NYU's global vision of transformative teaching and innovative research.

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. There are three degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common research interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1590

College of the Holy Cross

Rank: tenure track appointment, health policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

GENERAL INFORMATION

The Department of Political Science at the College of the Holy Cross invites applications for a full-time tenure-track appointment in political science to begin in August 2017. We are seeking an applicant with demonstrated expertise in U.S., comparative, or global health whose teaching will contribute to both the political science major and the College's emerging Health Studies Program. Health Studies has thus far been a part of the College's student-designed major program through the Center for Interdisciplinary Studies. In response to rising student demand and faculty interest, the College is now in the process of creating a formal program. Candidates for the new position will be expected to design and teach an introduction to health policy course that will serve as a foundation for students who will go on to specialize in various "tracks" within the Health Studies major, which may include Public Health and Global Health. The successful candidate will also offer advanced courses in health policy and other electives within the Department of Political Science in the subfield of either American Politics or Comparative Politics, or International Relations, depending on their area of specialization.

This position carries a 3-2 teaching load with a full-salary one-semester research leave prior to tenure review, and generous sabbatical and fellowship leaves for tenured faculty. Tenure track faculty are eligible for travel support and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's published policies. All full-time appointments offer competitive salaries and include full benefits.

QUALIFICATIONS

Candidates must demonstrate commitment to, and excellence in, undergraduate teaching at the introductory and advanced levels as well as scholarly achievement. Ph.D. in Political Science or imminent completion required.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Please submit a cover letter addressing the position requirements listed above, curriculum vitae, statement on teaching, transcripts, and three confidential letters of recommendation.

In your cover letter, in addition to describing your research and teaching interests, please address how your scholarship, teaching, mentoring, and/or service might support the College's mission as a Jesuit, undergraduate liberal arts college (see <http://www.holycross.edu/about-us/mission-statement>) and its core commitment to diversity and inclusion. For more information, please visit <http://holycross.edu/diversity>.

The College of the Holy Cross uses Interfolio to collect all faculty job applications electronically. Please submit all application materials to <https://apply.interfolio.com/35993>.

Review of applications will begin on September 16 and continue until the position has been filled. Initial interviews of selected applicants will be done by Skype or at the APSA conference September 1-3 for those who will attend the meeting. Questions about this search may be directed to Vickie Langohr, Chair, at vlangohr@holycross.edu. Candidates are encouraged to contact Prof. Langohr in advance to express their interest and availability for an interview at APSA.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT STATEMENT

The College of the Holy Cross is a highly selective Catholic liberal arts college in the Jesuit tradition. It enrolls about 2,900 students and is located in Worcester, Massachusetts, a medium-sized city 45 miles west of Boston. The College seeks faculty members whose scholarship, teaching, advising, and on- and off-campus service demonstrate commitment to the educational benefits of a richly diverse community.

Holy Cross aspires to meet the needs of dual-career couples, in part through its membership in the Higher Education Consortium of Central Massachusetts and the New England Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (<http://www.newenglandherc.org>). The College is an Equal Employment Opportunity Employer and complies with all Federal and Massachusetts laws concerning equal opportunity and affirmative action in the workplace.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/4/2016

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 1580

Rochester Institute of Technology

Rank: Assistant Professor International Relations & International Ethics

The Department of Political Science at Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT) invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor in International Relations beginning fall 2017. Completion of Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required prior to date of hire. The successful candidate will be able to teach lower-division courses in international relations and international ethics and upper-level courses in international law & organizations and human rights. In addition, the successful candidate must be able to teach and develop upper-division courses on the following: grand strategy, theory & practice of diplomacy, or intelligence & covert action. Moreover, the successful candidate will have a strong commitment to undergraduate education, with the potential for establishing an active research agenda, an ability to support the interdisciplinary efforts of the Institute and/or the College of Liberal Arts, and an ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the college's continuing commitment to cultural diversity, pluralism, and individual differences. The political science department offers an undergraduate major in political science with specializations in political institutions, politics & the life sciences, and politics & information technology. The teaching load is 2-3. This position will also have the unique opportunity to work on a number of RIT's global initiatives, including supporting the Political Science Department's engagement with RIT's current global campuses in Kosovo, Croatia, and Dubai.

We are seeking an individual who has the ability and interest in contributing to RIT's core values, honor code, and diversity commitment.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Completion of Ph.D. in Political Science or related field prior to date of hire
- Ability to teach lower-division courses in international relations and international ethics
- Interest in teaching upper-division courses on international law & organizations, and human rights
- Interest in teaching and developing courses on grand strategy, theory & practice of diplomacy, or intelligence & covert action
- Strong commitment to undergraduate education
- Potential for establishing an active research agenda
- An ability to support the interdisciplinary efforts of the Institute and/or the College of Liberal Arts
- Ability to contribute in meaningful ways to the college's continuing commitment to cultural diversity, pluralism, and individual differences.

HOW TO APPLY:

Apply online at <http://careers.rit.edu/faculty> Keyword Search: 2470BR.

Please submit: your curriculum vitae, cover letter addressing the listed qualifications and the following attachments: a brief statement on teaching philosophy; a research agenda; the names, addresses and phone numbers for three references; and a Contribution to Diversity Statement.

To receive full consideration all application materials should be received by Friday September 2, 2016.

You can contact the search committee with questions on the position at:

Dr. Lauren K. Hall, Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Rochester Institute of Technology
92 Lomb Memorial Drive
Rochester, New York 14623-5604
e-mail: lxhgpt@rit.edu

RIT is an equal opportunity employer that promotes and values diversity, pluralism, and inclusion. For more information or inquiries, please visit RIT/TitleIX or the U.S. Department of Education at ED.Gov.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/2/2016

Date Posted: 6/14/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1541

Moravian College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Foreign Policy, Conflict Processes

The Political Science Department at Moravian College invites applications for a full time, tenure track position commencing in August 2017. Candidates should be prepared to offer a broad array of classes in international relations such as American Foreign Policy, Human Rights, International Law and Organization, International Security and Conflict Resolution. Candidates should also be prepared to teach courses that entail a geographic specialization with the area being open (e.g., Africa, Latin America, Middle East and the Islamic world etc.) except for Europe and Asia. Candidates should also be prepared to teach in the College's First Year Student Seminar Program with the subject matter for the seminar being at the discretion of the instructor. Ph. D. is expected by time of appointment.

Moravian College is a selective residential liberal arts college located in Bethlehem, PA with a proud tradition of providing an outstanding education in the liberal arts and sciences for men and women. Moravian College highly values excellence in teaching as well as scholarship and seeks to nurture the development of its students through strong personal interactions with its teaching faculty. The College is approximately an hour and a half from New York City and an hour from Philadelphia and is one of six members of the Lehigh Valley Association of Independent Colleges consortium.

Moravian College values diversity, strives to attract qualified women and minority candidates, and encourages individuals belonging to these groups to apply. Moravian seeks to ensure diversity by its policy of employing persons without regard to age, sex, color, race, creed religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, sexual orientation or gender identity.

Applications should be submitted electronically to searchpolsci@moravian.edu. Application materials should include letter of application, current curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and evidence of effective teaching, a statement of research plans, and three letters of recommendation with contact information for each reference. Review of application materials will begin July 1 and will continue until the end of October.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 6/13/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1531

Lewis & Clark College

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Affairs

Assistant Professor of International Affairs: Lewis & Clark College, a private liberal arts college with 2,000 undergraduates, invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in the Department of International Affairs, beginning in fall 2017. The preferred teaching and research field is in the Global South. Ph.D. in a field central to international relations is required at the time of appointment as a tenure-track member of the faculty. The usual teaching load is five courses per academic year, with a course reduction in the first year, and there is a one-semester pre-tenure sabbatical. Preference will be given to applicants with an interdisciplinary exposure to international relations with a desire to link their areas of expertise to broader international relations questions and a capacity to weave methodological dimensions into their classes. Potential for excellent teaching and research at an undergraduate institution are essential. A complete application must include (1) a cover letter of application, which includes statements of research interests and teaching experience, as well as a description of how the applicant's teaching and/or work in the campus community will contribute to a culture of inclusion and campus diversity; (2) a statement of teaching philosophy; (3) a statement of research plan; (4) a curriculum vitae; (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness; (6) sample of scholarship (published articles, and/or works in progress); (7) graduate transcripts, and (8) three letters of recommendation (uploaded separately by the referees). All materials should be addressed to Bob Mandel, Chair International Affairs Search Committee, and must be submitted via Interfolio. <http://apply.interfolio.com/35639> Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Lewis & Clark College will conduct background checks on the finalist(s). Lewis & Clark College is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to status as a protected veteran or a qualified individual with a disability, or other protected status, such as race, religion, color, national origin, sex or age. Questions regarding Title IX may be referred to the Title IX Coordinator or OCR. The College is committed to preparing students for leadership in an increasingly interdependent world, and affirms the educational benefits of diversity. (See <http://www.lclark.edu/dept/about/diversity.html>)

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/10/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1529

Texas State University, San Marcos

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Texas State University Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track position in International Relations at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning 8/2017. We are seeking a candidate with a strong background in international security studies. Applicants must have the Ph.D. by the start of the Fall 2017 semester. The successful candidate must have a research agenda focusing on international security, geopolitical conflict, terrorism or nontraditional emerging threats. In addition, the candidate must demonstrate an ability to teach introductory international relations classes as well as advanced classes in the area of international security. Preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate an ability to teach a range of international security courses, who can teach in a second field meeting departmental needs, and who demonstrate effective interpersonal skills, potential for scholarly publication, and potential for teaching excellence.

Review of applications will begin 09/15/2016. All applications will be held in strict confidence and applicants are strongly encouraged to submit materials before the review begins. ALL APPLICANTS MUST APPLY VIA THE TEXAS STATE UNIVERSITY ONLINE PROCESS, FOUND HERE: <https://jobs.hr.txstate.edu/postings/17441>

The confidential review of credentials will continue until the position is filled. To assure full consideration, please submit the following before September 15, 2016: A letter of intent addressing required and preferred qualifications, a curriculum vita, college transcript(s), samples of scholarly work (presentations and/or publications), syllabi (if available), and three letters of recommendation.

The selected candidate will be required to provide official transcripts from all degree granting Universities.

Questions can be directed to Dr. Robert F. Gorman, Search Committee Chair—Job Posting #20170001FAC at rg06@txstate.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1522

Webster University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

The Department of History, Politics, and International Relations at Webster University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in international relations. The ideal candidate will be broadly trained in international relations and comparative politics, with area studies expertise in Asia, Africa or Latin America. Applicants should also be prepared to share responsibility for teaching introductory research methods. PhD in hand by the time of appointment is required. The normal teaching load at Webster is three courses per semester and, in this case, will include at least one online class per year at the graduate level. While quality teaching is the most important criterion for success at Webster, the department expects faculty to maintain an active research agenda, participate in faculty governance, and share in student advising and the administration of department programs, including curriculum assessment and student recruitment. Webster University offers substantial support for research and opportunities to teach at our overseas campuses.

The position starts August 2017. Please forward a cover letter, cv, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference to irsearch@webster.edu.

Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. We will also conduct preliminary interviews at the American Political Science Association meetings in Philadelphia, September 1-4.

Webster University is committed to creating a diverse environment and is proud to be an equal opportunity employer. We are committed to maintaining a culturally and academically diverse faculty and staff of the highest caliber. Accordingly, Webster University provides equal employment opportunities (EEO) to all employees and applicants for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, national origin, ethnicity, age, protected veteran or disabled status, genetic information, or any other characteristic protected by applicable law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 6/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1511

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor of National Security

Subfield(s): International Relations, Non-Academic, American Government and Politics

Specializations: International Security, Intelligence, Defense

The Political Science Department invites applicants for the position of Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) of National Security to begin as early as Fall 2016. Past incumbents have been recognized national security experts who have added perspective and depth to their students' academic experience. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to undergraduate teaching and an ability to lead upper level political science courses related to topics such as: environmental security, regional security, terrorism, cybersecurity, executive privilege, arms proliferation and arms control. Assisting midshipmen with research, offering seminars and lectures and, inviting guest speakers are among the position's objectives.

The DVP position is for two years commencing in August 2016. It is non-tenure track and non-renewable. The position is administered by the Office of the Academic Dean which provides the DVP with an office and administrative support.

Applications submitted by November 1, 2015 will receive full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled.

For more information about the position and to apply, please go to www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/DVPNationalSec.php

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2015

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 776

METHODOLOGY

Oberlin College

Rank: Post-Doctoral Faculty Position in Policy Analysis

The Politics Department at Oberlin College invites applications for a post-doctoral faculty position in Policy Analysis in the College of Arts and Sciences. Appointment is for spring semester 2017. This is a non-continuing position. The incumbent will teach one course in methods and public policy and mentor students interested in policy analysis. To be assured consideration, submit a letter of application, a CV, graduate transcripts, and at least three recent reference letters to <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/> by November 11, 2016.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2137

Duke University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

Specializations: Economic Policy, Health Care, Education Policy

The DevLab@Duke has one opening for a Post-Doctoral fellow working to develop rigorous programming, collect monitoring and evaluation data, and conduct impact evaluations of development projects. Prospective candidates are expected to have done graduate work in one or more of these areas:

- * International Development
- * Economics
- * Political Science

Successful candidates will collaborate with Professors Erica Field, Erik Wibbels, Pablo Beramendi, Edmund Malesky, Manoj Mohanan, Marc Jeuland, Robert Garlick and other members of the lab in an interdisciplinary environment. They will be expected to work with lab associates to provide timely input to development practitioners affiliated with the DevLab—including donors, implementers and evaluators—at all stages of project conceptualization, design, implementation and evaluation. Lab activities will leave considerable time for independent research, and the position offers ample opportunity for developing new research projects in conjunction with DevLab members.

There is no deadline for applying to the opening, but applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting immediately. The start date is as soon as possible, but ideally no later than January 1, 2017. The position comes with very competitive salary and benefits. The initial appointment is for one year, with options of renewal for another one or two years. For questions/information, please email lauren.faber@duke.edu.

Application Requirements

- Letters of Reference
- Cover Letter
- CV

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2100

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in Qualitative Research Methodology

LSE values diversity and strives to promote equality at all levels.

For this post, we particularly welcome applications by ethnic minorities.

Department of Methodology

Assistant Professor in Qualitative Research Methodology

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and not less than $70,161 pa inclusive

The Department of Methodology is a leading centre for research and education in social science research methods. The Department has a thriving research culture, with its members advancing research in core social science disciplines as well as in research methodology. It leads the provision of research methods education to students across the range of disciplines at the LSE. The Department is recruiting an Assistant Professor with expertise in Qualitative Research Methodology.

Candidates should have completed a PhD and have research expertise in a relevant social science discipline and/or in qualitative research methodology. They should have a track record or trajectory of internationally excellent publications. They should have the ability to teach a range of qualitative research methods to multi-disciplinary groups of students.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and person specification at <https://jobs.lse.ac.uk>.

If you have any queries about applying on the online system, or require an alternative format for the application, please e-mail hr.jobs@lse.ac.uk or contact the recruitment team at 020 7107 5205.

The closing date for receipt of applications is 1 November 2016 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2039

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in Quantitative Methods with a Focus on Network Analysis

LSE values diversity and strives to promote equality at all levels. For this post, we particularly welcome applications by women and ethnic minorities.

Department of Methodology

Assistant Professor in Quantitative Methods with a Focus on Network Analysis

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and not less than £70,161 pa inclusive

The Department of Methodology is a leading centre for research and education in social science research methods. The Department has a thriving research culture, with its members advancing research in core social science disciplines as well as in research methodology. It leads the provision of research methods education to students across the range of disciplines at LSE. The Department is recruiting an Assistant Professor in Quantitative Methods with special expertise in quantitative network analysis.

Candidates should have completed a PhD by the post start date and have research expertise in quantitative network analysis as well as, more broadly, research expertise in a relevant social science discipline and/or in quantitative research methodology. They should have a track record or trajectory of internationally excellent publications and proven ability, as evidenced by existing publications, or potential to publish in top journals in a social science discipline and/or quantitative research methodology. They should have the ability to teach a range of quantitative research methods to multi-disciplinary groups of students.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

For further information about the post, please see the how to apply document, job description and person specification at <https://jobs.lse.ac.uk>.

If you have any queries about applying on the online system, or require an alternative format for the application, please e-mail hr.jobs@lse.ac.uk or contact the recruitment team at 020 7107 5205.

The closing date for receipt of applications is 1 November 2016 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2040

York College of Pennsylvania

Rank: Research/Teaching Fellowship, Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Methodology
Specializations: Urban Politics, State Politics, Economic Policy

Research/Teaching Fellowship, Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy, York College

York College of Pennsylvania invites applications for the inaugural Fellow for its Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy.

A joint program of York College's Center for Community Engagement (CCE) and its Department of History and Political Science, the Institute for Public Policy will engage the Fellow and our students in the policymaking process by providing nonpartisan research to legislators at the City, County, and State levels of government. The Fellow will conduct research and work with advanced students to identify and define problems in the greater York community, develop policy approaches to solve those problems, and aim to achieve adoption and successful implementation of specific policy proposals via the Pennsylvania General Assembly and municipal jurisdictions in the South Central Pennsylvania region.

The appointee will hold the title of Fellow in the Center for Community Engagement and the rank of Visiting Instructor in the Department of History and Political Science. The fellowship will generally carry a two-year appointment, though in appropriate cases that time frame might be lengthened or shortened to accommodate a specific project. Among the duties of the fellow will be:

- Completing an appropriate research project or projects likely to be of interest to local residents, legislators, and civic/business leaders;
- Teaching one advanced course per semester;
- Delivering at least two public lectures for the local community;
- Disseminating the results of her/his research in appropriate scholarly and public venues;
- Collaborating with students and faculty in other appropriate York College programs such as the Center for Professional Excellence, the Graham and Eisenhart Scholars, and other CCE programming.

Funding will be provided for travel, speakers, and other appropriate initiatives of the Institute.

Requirements: The ideal candidate will hold a doctorate in a field directly related to public policy research (though ABD or MPP will be considered). The successful candidate will have a research agenda well-suited to studying local, regional, and state-level policy, and evidence of scholarly potential.

York College is committed to building a diverse college community and encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply. Interested candidates should electronically submit the following: a current curriculum vitae, letter of application, and names of three references to employment@ycp.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016. While applications will be accepted until the position is filled, for full consideration, applications should be received by October 31, 2016.

York College of Pennsylvania is an Equal Opportunity Employer. For a copy of York College's Annual Security Report, you may contact the Office of Campus Safety or visit the College's website and search for Annual Security Report.

About York College and the Center for Community Engagement (CCE)

York College of Pennsylvania (<http://www.ycp.edu>) is a private-sector, independent institution of higher education, offering over 50 baccalaureate majors in the arts and sciences and in professional fields as well as master's programs in business, education and nursing and a doctoral program in nursing. The College has an enrollment of over 4000 full time, over 500 part time undergraduate students and over 200 graduate students from 30 states and 12 foreign countries. The campus is located in South-Central Pennsylvania (50 miles north of Baltimore, MD, 30 miles south of Harrisburg, PA, and 90 miles north of Washington, DC) and offers competitive salaries and fringe benefits.

Though the Fellow will spend time on York College's main campus, the locus of the research and mentoring activities noted above would be housed in the CCE's headquarters in downtown York. The Institute for Public Policy is meant to be an objective, nonpartisan advocacy organization committed to the best practices in academic social science. The CCE hosts local government leaders, non-profit organizations, community groups, and other stakeholders, providing assistance in identifying and developing approaches to solving the community's most pressing problems. Under the guidance of the Fellow, the Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy will contribute to that mission through policy research.

The CCE's 20,000 square foot building at 59 East Market Street will open with Phase One mid-fall, 2016. Located across the street from the Yorktowne Hotel and adjacent to city, county, and state offices, the location is central to the downtown renaissance in Royal Square, the Arts District, and Central Market. This Center will be a hub for community education, meetings, and small conferences making it an ideal location for students and faculty engaged in policy research and analysis. This space will become a highly visible epicenter of policy activity.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2042

Emory University

Rank: Assistant Professor – Quantitative Methodologist

Assistant Professor – Quantitative Methodologist
Institute for Quantitative Theory and Methods
Emory University
Atlanta, GA

The Institute for Quantitative Theory and Methods (QTM) at Emory University seeks to hire a quantitative social scientist with expertise in causal inference, Bayesian statistics, or machine learning. The position is tenure-track at the level of Assistant Professor (advanced assistants will be considered). The position is a joint hire between QTM and a social science department that will be the candidate's tenure track home. Teaching load will be standard for the tenure track home and distributed between QTM and the department.

The successful candidate must demonstrate excellence or the promise of excellence in both research and teaching. The candidate should have completed the Ph.D. or be very close to completing the Ph.D. by September 2017.

A complete application will consist of a cover letter, a research statement, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, teaching portfolio, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Application review will begin on October 4th, 2016. Materials must be received by November 14th, 2016. To apply for this position, please visit apply.interfolio.com/37157 and submit your materials free of charge through Interfolio.

Emory University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Disability/Veteran employer. The Institute for Quantitative Theory and Methods, Emory College, and Emory University are all strongly committed to recruiting female and minority candidates. Women, minorities, persons with disabilities and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1984

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in quantitative political methodology. The successful candidate should have research interests in methods and is expected to meet departmental instructional needs that include teaching methods at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science or have the Ph.D. in hand by August 15, 2017. Candidates who do not have a Ph.D. but are ABD are welcome to apply.

Applications received by October 1, 2016 will receive priority consideration, although we will continue screening applications until the position is filled.

Applications are accepted electronically at <https://cu.taleo.net/careersection/2/jobdetail.fl?job=06686&lang=en>, posting #06686, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please direct inquiries to David Brown at david.s.brown@colorado.edu or by mail at Methods Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, Boulder, Colorado, 80309-0333.

The University of Colorado is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to building a diverse workforce. We encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, individual with disabilities and veterans. Alternative formats of this ad can be provided upon request for individuals with disabilities by contacting the ADA Coordinator at hr-ada@colorado.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1987

James Madison University

Rank: Assistant Professor- U.S. Government and Public Policy
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR- U.S. GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC POLICY- {Job link #0407599}- The Political Science Department at James Madison University is seeking a tenure-track faculty member specializing in U.S. Government and Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning with the fall 2017 semester, pending budgetary approval. A doctoral degree in political science (or a closely related field) is required by the starting date for appointment as Assistant Professor; candidates at the ABD level can be appointed at the rank of Lecturer. The successful applicant will teach an introductory-level course in U.S. government and a research methods course required for all political science and public policy & administration majors. Areas of specialization should include health policy, economic policy, and/or comparative public policy.

The department seeks candidates with strong teaching and research skills. Review of applications will begin October 6, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for this position candidates must apply online at Joblink.jmu.edu regarding reference posting number{# 0407599}. On that website, candidates will post an application letter, vita, relevant teaching evaluations, unofficial graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, course syllabi and an example of research. Salary shall be commensurate with experience. The College of Arts and Letters (CAL) at JMU serves as a cross-disciplinary center of intellectual inquiry and practice on campus. All programs in the college are committed to fostering rigorous, constructive dialogue in classrooms, local communities, and the larger world.

James Madison University is committed to a diverse and inclusive community and to maintaining a work and educational environment that is free of all forms of discrimination. This institution does not tolerate discrimination or harassment on the basis of age, color, disability; genetic information, national origin, parental status, political affiliation, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or veteran status. Anyone having questions concerning discrimination should contact the Office for Equal Opportunity: (540) 568-6991.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1980

Pew Research Center

Rank: Research Associate, Global Attitudes

Specializations: Quantitative Methods, Gender Politics & Policy, Political Development

Pew Research Center is a nonpartisan fact tank that informs the public about the issues, attitudes and trends shaping America and the world. It conducts public opinion polling, demographic research, media content analysis and other empirical social science research in the areas of U.S. politics and policy views; media and journalism; internet and technology; science and society; religion and public life; Hispanic trends; global attitudes and U.S. social and demographic trends. Pew Research Center does not take policy positions. It is a subsidiary of The Pew Charitable Trusts. The Center's work is carried out by a staff of about 150.

Position Summary:

The Pew Research Center has an immediate need for a Research Associate to support its expanding global research agenda. The Research Associate will be part of the Global Attitudes research team, which conducts worldwide public opinion surveys on major international issues. In particular, the Research Associate will work on a new initiative that will look cross-nationally at a range of topical issues, such as gender, technology or political polarization, in in-depth, innovative ways. The research will pull from the strengths across the Center to combine research on public opinion, demography, and big data. The team working on these projects will report to the Associate Director of Research, but will also work closely with the Global Attitudes team and the Director of Global Attitudes.

The Research Associate assists in the design of research projects, manages data collection, performs statistical analysis, produces charts and tables and conducts background research and data fact-checks. The Research Associate also helps to write and review research reports, as well as field requests for information from the press, government officials and other audiences.

Project Management

- Help draft project proposals
- Monitor and track project timelines
- Coordinate team assignments
- Communicate with vendors and advisors
- Coordinate topline and dataset production

Data analysis

- Conduct analysis of survey and non-survey data, including multivariate analysis and multilevel modeling
- Prepare toplines, cross-tabulations and other data summaries
- Prepare tables and charts
- Explore new techniques for examining data, such as ways to use "big data" and other secondary source data that can be used in tandem with survey findings

Project design and development

- Conduct background research
- Propose research topics
- Design survey questions or data queries
- Identify and evaluate research vendors or data providers

Writing and Communication

- Write research reports
- Respond to external requests for information

Quality control

- Fact-check and number-check reports
- Check and verify translations
- Assess sampling performance and data quality
- Prepare datasets for public release

Knowledge and Skills Requirements:

- Quantitative skills, including an ability to use SPSS and other statistical programs to organize and analyze large datasets
- Strong verbal and written communication skills
- Strong analytical and research skills
- Ability to manage multiple projects at the same time
- Attention to detail, including exacting standards to maintain accuracy and impartiality of all work products
- Editorial judgment and proven ability to communicate research results clearly and concisely in both verbal and written form
- Skilled in project development and management
- Ability to work collaboratively and collegially with staff from across Pew Research Center and outside organizations
- Ability to lead research teams
- Experience working with “big data” and/or secondary source data a plus
- Knowledge of and interest in international affairs strongly preferred

Education/Training/Experience:

- Master’s degree in political science, economics or similar social science field required, PhD preferred
- Proven experience with quantitative analysis
- Familiarity and experience with a range of statistical techniques, including logistic and multiple regression
- Facility with SPSS and Excel required, knowledge of Stata, R or other statistical software packages a plus
- Familiarity with data collection in multiple languages highly desirable

FLSA status: exempt

Application Procedure:

Applicants should go to: <https://jobs-prc.icims.com/jobs/4593/research-associate%2c-global-attitudes/job>. Please include a cover letter.

We are an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1958

Denison University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Data Analytics

Denison University seeks to hire two tenure-track faculty to further develop its new interdisciplinary program in Data Analytics. Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. by the August 2017 start date, and have a broad and deep formal education in Data Science or Data Analytics. New hires are normally made at the rank of Assistant Professor, but hiring at an advanced rank may be possible with significant prior experience.

For more information on Denison's new Data Analytics program, please visit <http://denison.edu/academics/data-analytics>.

We prefer to hire two individuals from different disciplines that are representative of the applied, interdisciplinary nature of Data Analytics. These individuals will join an existing group of interdisciplinary faculty to help develop the Data Analytics major within our liberal arts curriculum. Consequently, candidates for both positions must have significant formal education in Data Science/Analytics, and actively engage in research that utilizes and develops advanced data analytics techniques. The ideal candidate for one position will be a data scientist with a Ph.D. in Data Science, Applied Statistics, Computer Science, Applied Mathematics, or a related discipline. The other position will ideally be filled by an individual with a Ph.D. in the social sciences, psychology, biology, or a related field whose research significantly emphasizes data analytics techniques to address questions in their discipline.

Candidates must demonstrate successful teaching at the undergraduate level and a strong desire for pedagogical and curricular innovation within a liberal arts environment. We are seeking energetic self-starters who have a passion for bridging traditional disciplinary boundaries and an interest in linking the classroom to the wider community. Teaching responsibilities will include core courses at all levels across the Data Analytics major and potentially additional courses in the candidate's specialization (ideally with applications to Data Analytics). The typical teaching load is 5 courses per year.

The Denison faculty is a community of teacher-scholars. Therefore, candidates must also have a clearly articulated, productive research program related to Data Analytics that is able to accommodate undergraduate research and flourish in a liberal arts environment. Denison hosts a vibrant and well-funded undergraduate research program, and offers competitive professional development funds and a pre-tenure research leave following a successful third-year review.

Finally, successful candidates will demonstrate their interest in contributing to campus governance and the life of the broader Denison community. Individuals with a demonstrated interest in community outreach are especially desirable.

Denison University is an increasingly diverse, highly selective, residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 2,300 students from across the nation and around the world. We are located thirty miles from Columbus, Ohio, the state capital, which hosts a wide range of cultural and artistic opportunities.

To apply, please go to <https://employment.denison.edu> and submit

- a cover letter speaking to the areas mentioned above
- a curriculum vita
- transcripts of graduate work (unofficial acceptable for applications)
- a statement on your teaching philosophy, experience and effectiveness, including how you will engage with and foster diversity on campus
- evidence of effective teaching, including teaching materials and evaluations (if available)
- a statement on your current and future research program
- a recent article-length example of your data analytics related research
- 4 references, of which at least 2 must address teaching

We will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2016 and continue to consider applications until the positions are filled.

To achieve our mission as a liberal arts college, we continually strive to foster a diverse campus community, which recognizes the value of all persons regardless of religion, race, ethnicity, gender, color, gender identity and or expression, sexual orientation, family configuration, disability, socioeconomic status, religion, national origin, age, or military status. For additional information and resources about diversity at Denison, please see our Diversity Guide at <http://denison.edu/forms/diversity-guide>. Denison University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1951

New College of Florida

Rank: Applied Statistics

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Applied Statistics, starting in August, 2017. A Ph.D. in applied statistics or a related applied field is required. Postdoctoral or teaching experience is preferred and consulting experience is a plus. We seek an individual to help create an innovative Data Science Program in a liberal arts context. We are looking for candidates capable of designing and teaching courses and guiding research at both the graduate and undergraduate level in a highly interdisciplinary setting. We strongly encourage women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities to apply.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly-selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. New College is nationally known for its experimental, project-based approach to education. Students, with the help of faculty sponsors, plan their own academic programs through a series of semester contracts, and receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. Completion of a senior thesis is a graduation requirement.

The teaching load is two classes per semester, plus supervision of tutorials, independent study projects, senior theses and master's level projects. The College is especially interested in candidates who wish to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through teaching, scholarship and service.

A complete application includes a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation (at least one that evaluates teaching), a statement of teaching philosophy (including course proposals), and a description of proposed research (including how undergraduates would be involved). To ensure full consideration, all materials should be received by November 15, but applications will be reviewed until the position is filled. New College of Florida is an EOE institution. Please complete the application at ncf.simplehire.com. Contact jobs@ncf.edu with any questions.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1950

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for full-time appointment during the 2017-2018 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government

Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical and computational research techniques with contemporary social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health, the role of party networks in contemporary American politics, and methods for addressing post-treatment bias in experiments. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by attending seminars, consulting with faculty and students on research, etc. QSS fellows also join a broader community of postdoctoral social science researchers at Dartmouth that includes scholars at the Neukom Institute, the John Sloan Dickey Center, and the Dartmouth Society of Fellows.

The stipend for the QSS fellow is $50,000 with a $5,000 account available for equipment, travel, and research materials. Subject to consultation with the QSS Chair, there may be an opportunity for the fellow to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend. The fellowship can be extended through the 2018-2019 academic year subject to the approval of Nyhan and the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2017
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application Instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests no longer than two pages that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2016. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/37062.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1934

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science/Social Data

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position to start Fall 2017 for faculty whose substantive research interests are informed by, or inform the development of, data- or computationally-intensive techniques. We encourage applications at the assistant and early associate level but candidates at any level with exceptional records of accomplishment will be considered. The substantive research area is open although preference will be given to those candidates whose research agendas supplement existing areas of specialization within the department. Candidates should be able to contribute to our new undergraduate Social Data Analytics program (see <http://soda.la.psu.edu/>) and our graduate methods offerings. Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Candidates should have a record of publication in high-quality venues, external funding, and quality teaching credentials.

Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Application review will begin on October 1, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key) at <https://psu.jobs/job/66139>. All candidates should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1918

Lund University

Rank: Postdoctoral research position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Quantitative Methods

The postdoctoral position is part of the research project "Explaining radicalization and political violence", a four-year interdisciplinary collaboration among researchers from the Department of Political Science at Lund University and the Departments of Psychology at Lund and Gothenburg University. The project is funded by The Marianne and Marcus Wallenberg foundation with Professor Hanna Bäck as project leader. The project aims to study the psychological mechanisms that lead an individual to become radicalized and/or to use political violence, and investigates such mechanisms by the cross-fertilization of political science and psychology. One of the project hypotheses focuses on the causal relationship between social exclusion or rejection and the likelihood of radicalization. The project applies a multitude of methodological approaches, and is for example based on experimental and survey studies, in addition to analyses of online material/social media.

The post-doctoral fellow will be expected to carry out research that contributes to the fulfilment of the project's overall research objectives. However, the fellow will also conduct independent research and will be free to develop his or her own theoretical ideas, and choose the methods that he or she finds most appropriate. The position is full-time and fixed-term for two years, and the holder of this post will be expected to conduct research (about 80 %) and to teach (about 20 %). In order to allow the research group to function as a team, the post-doctoral fellow will be expected to have the Department of Political Science in Lund as their main place of work.

Eligibility for employment as a postdoctoral researcher is restricted to applicants with a PhD degree in a relevant subject. Priority is given to applicants who have completed their PhD less than three years prior to the deadline for applying to the post. The three-year limit can be extended in cases of parental leave, sickness leave or similar circumstances occurring after the PhD defense. Applicants who have yet to complete their PhDs are welcome to apply but should demonstrate that they will receive their PhD degree before 1 January 2017.

We seek candidates with a PhD in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Psychology), and competence within the areas of political behavior broadly defined, or political psychology. We are particularly interested in candidates with a background in quantitative or experimental methods. Research skills and academic promise will be the main selection criteria, but teaching skills will also be considered. Proficiency in spoken and written English and the ability to teach in English is a requirement. The ability to conduct research independently and the ability to participate in international research collaboration are very important considerations.

The Lund University job application portal should be used when applying.

For further information, see: <https://lu.mynetworkglobal.com/en/what/job/jobID:111445/>

Your application must contain:

- * a cover letter (describing why you are interested in the position and what makes you suitable for it),
- * a CV (which includes information on degrees, completed courses, work experience, and publications),
- * a copy of your Ph.D. diploma (or a document describing when you will finish your Ph.D.),
- * two article-length writing samples (approximately 10000 words), and
- * two letters of recommendation.

For further information on the position, please contact:

Professor Hanna Bäck

+46 46 222 01 61

Hanna.Back@svet.lu.se

<http://www.svet.lu.se/en/hanna-back>

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1907

Eastern University-St Davids

Rank: Assistant Professor American Government

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Assistant Professor American Government

Political Science Department

2016-2017 AY Replacement Search

The Department of Political Science at Eastern University, a university of the liberal arts and sciences located in St. Davids Pennsylvania, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning in the fall of 2017. We are seeking to fill a position in American Government with preference given to individuals who can contribute to Political Theory. Candidates should desire to participate in the liberal arts core by teaching courses that explore the intersection of faith, reason, and justice. A Ph.D. in hand is preferred but ABD candidates nearing completion are also encouraged to apply. Please note that a J.D. is not sufficient for this appointment.

Eastern University is a Christian university of the arts and sciences that integrates faith, reason and justice for students in its undergraduate, graduate, Seminary, urban, professional and international programs. Applicants should have a religious commitment compatible with its mission and be willing to endorse by signing Eastern University's doctrinal statement. The university complies with federal and state guidelines of nondiscrimination in employment; members of protected classes encouraged to apply.

This description is intended to describe the general level and nature of work performed by the person/people assigned to this position. It is not to be construed as an exhaustive list of duties and responsibilities of the person/people so assigned.

Review of applications will begin January 1, 2017. Applicants are requested to send a cover letter including a brief statement of your faith, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations (or portfolio), unofficial copies of graduate transcripts, and three professional letters of recommendation/reference to jobs@eastern.edu or by mail to:

Eastern University
Office of Human Resources
1300 Eagle Rd.
St. Davids, PA 19087-3696

All positions remain open until filled.

Interested candidates participating in the APSA Annual Meeting should contact Dr. Sharon Gramby-Sobukwe to arrange an on-campus visit and interview.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/23/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1874

Northwestern University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Methodology (Tenure-track)
Subfield(s): Methodology, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Northwestern University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in the field of political methodology at the rank of assistant professor. The department seeks candidates who connect cutting-edge quantitative methodological issues to substantive debates in political science, particularly in domains related to comparative politics or international relations, and whose research trajectories connect with “big data” methods including machine learning, nonparametric statistics, and text as data methods. The successful applicant will teach a combination of graduate and undergraduate courses. Applications received by October 15, 2016, will be guaranteed full consideration. Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States. The proposed starting date is September 17, 2017. Applicants should provide a curriculum vitae, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Applications and supporting documents will be accepted only by online submission at www.polisci.northwestern.edu. *For questions and assistance, please contact Jill Decremer at j-rubin4@northwestern.edu.

*The online portal for accepting applications will be open in early September. Once it is available, the link will be posted.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1858

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Tenure Track; Open to Subfield; Methods Specialization

This is a tenure-track, academic year position with appointment anticipated September of 2017.

Basic Function:

Applicants will be expected to teach undergraduate courses in research methodology that serves as a requirement for both the Political Science and Criminal Justice undergraduate degrees as well as teach other courses in Political Science. Expected to publish original research open with respect to subfield and advise undergraduate students. Provide service to the department, the university and the profession

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2017. Primary or secondary field in the area of Political Science research methodology. Demonstrated evidence of effective college level teaching commensurate with level of academic experience. Demonstrated expertise in a wide range of methodological approaches. Demonstrated evidence of research excellence; scholarly publications commensurate with level of academic experience. Demonstrated experience working with diverse groups/populations.

To apply, please submit materials at: <https://jobs.uri.edu/>

Instructions to Applicants

Please attach 4 (PDF) documents to your online Faculty Employment Application: (#1) A letter of application that describes your interest in this position; (#2) CV which includes the names/contacts information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and course syllabi and teaching evaluations for the last two years and/or for experience directly related to research methods instruction (as available) (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single PDF document); (#3) a brief research and teaching statement; (#4) an article-length sample of written work.

For additional questions or clarification, please contact:

Dr. Kristin Johnson
Associate Professor
Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
University of Rhode Island
Kingston, RI 02881
kristin_johnson@uri.edu

401 874-5495

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 10/1/2016Date Posted: 8/19/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1855

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Formal/Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with expertise in formal or quantitative methods for a tenure-track appointment as Assistant Professor. Candidates must possess strong theoretical and empirical skills, and have the demonstrated potential to make notable contributions to substantive literatures in political science. Likewise, candidates must also be able to demonstrate their ability and willingness to assist in teaching quantitative methods and/or formal political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Candidates who are interested in expanding course offerings within the department and broader college, as part of a college-wide effort to cultivate multidisciplinary curriculum in quantitative analyses are particularly attractive. Priority will be given to interesting research that builds synergies within the department. To enhance its growing scholarly reputation, the Department encourages applications from the best possible candidates. The appointment will begin Fall 2017. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files immediately. To assure full consideration, complete applications should be received by September 7, 2016, but earlier applications are welcomed and interviews or campus lectures may be scheduled at any time. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Among the qualifications required for hire is the Ph.D. in hand or expected by Fall 2017.

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional faculty. Vanderbilt is an AA/EO employer and particularly encourages applications from minorities and women.

All applicants can apply for this position by submitting a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a research statement, a teaching statement, a writing sample, teaching evaluations (if applicable), and three letters of reference electronically at Academic Jobs Online (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7672>).

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/19/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1860

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of Formal/Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists with expertise in formal or quantitative methods for appointment as Associate or Full Professor. Candidates must possess strong theoretical and empirical skills, and have a demonstrated record of contributing to prominent substantive debates in political science and/or positive political economy. The successful candidate will be expected to take a leadership role in mentoring junior colleagues who employ formal theory in their own scholarship, and must be able and willing to assist in teaching quantitative methods and/or formal political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Candidates who are interested in expanding course offerings within the department and broader college, as part of a college-wide effort to cultivate multidisciplinary curriculum in quantitative analyses are particularly attractive. Priority will be given to interesting research that builds synergies within the department. To enhance its growing scholarly reputation, the Department encourages applications from the best possible candidates, especially those who can contribute to its focus on substantively important political issues and who have demonstrated excellence in teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The appointment will begin Fall 2017. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 1, 2016. To assure full consideration, complete applications should be received by September 15, 2016, but earlier applications are welcomed and interviews or campus lectures may be scheduled at any time. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional faculty. Vanderbilt is an AA/EO employer and particularly encourages applications from minorities and women.

All applicants can apply for this position by submitting a cover letter and curriculum vitae electronically at Academic Jobs Online (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7678>).

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/19/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1861

University of Miami

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time tenure-line position in the field of comparative politics/quantitative analysis at the junior or senior level. The position is open as to regional and substantive specialization. Preference will be given to candidates who have significant research experience in one or more countries outside of the United States. In the letter of interest, please include a description of such experience, including field research, language proficiencies, etc. Candidates for assistant professor should show promise of high-quality research in top scholarly outlets as well as outstanding teaching, and candidates for a tenured position should show evidence of a national reputation in their research area. The expected teaching load is 2-2, and the position will involve teaching in the field of comparative politics, including an introductory course. Fifty percent of teaching responsibilities will involve undergraduate and graduate instruction within the core curriculum in international studies. All application packages can be e-mailed to cpsearch@miami.edu. Junior scholars applying for the rank of assistant professor should submit a pdf file that includes a cv, a letter of interest, teaching evaluations if available, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a single-authored writing sample. The candidate should arrange for three reference letters to be sent directly to the department at cpsearch@miami.edu. Senior scholars applying for the rank of associate or full professor should email a cv, a letter of interest, and a list of three references to cpsearch@miami.edu. Applications received on or before Monday, October 5, 2016, will be given full consideration. Inquiries about the position can be emailed to cpsearch@miami.edu or to the Chair of the Search Committee, Professor Merike Blofield, at m.blofield@miami.edu. The University of Miami is an Equal Opportunity Employer—Females/Minorities/Protected Veterans/Individuals with Disabilities are encouraged to apply. Applicants and employees are protected from discrimination based on certain categories protected by Federal law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/5/2016
Date Posted: 8/18/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1840

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2017-18 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each successful fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently, and the fellow's research agenda should be grounded methodologically in statistics or other computational techniques.

During the 2017-18 academic year, fellows will participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results. The stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000 with a $5,000 account available for equipment, travel, and research materials. Subject to consultation with the QSS Chair, each fellow may teach a one-quarter course on a subject of his or her choosing; there is an extra stipend for teaching. The postdoctoral fellowship can be extended through the 2018-19 academic year, subject to negotiation between the fellow and the QSS Chair.

Requirements:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2017.
2. Substantive interest in any social science field.
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical or computation methods.
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively.
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research.

Application Materials:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications.
- 2) Statement of research interests, no longer than two pages, that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth.
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant.
- 4) Three letters of reference.
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished.

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2016, and interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.inferfolio.com/36369

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1816

South University of Science and Technology of China

Rank: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professors in Social Sciences

JOB DESCRIPTIONS: The Institute for Advanced Studies in Social Sciences at the Southern University of Science and Technology of China invites applications for full-time tenured or tenure-track faculty positions in social sciences at ranks of Full/Associate/Assistant Professor, to begin January 2017. The successful candidates will teach general education courses covering the following four core areas: 1) Science, Technology and Society, including history of science, ethics of science, sociology of science, and policy of science; 2) Environmental Studies, including environmental history, environmental policy, and environmental and culture; 3) New Media and Visual Culture, including media and society, science, technology and arts, and cultural industry; and 4) Globalization, including transnational migration, comparative area studies, ethnographic studies and critical theories. The successful candidates will contribute to social science curricula that encourage interdisciplinary approach. Quality undergraduate teaching and mentorship, as well as innovative research and service are expected. With the exception of senior candidates with tenure, initial appointment will normally be made on a three-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement. Tenure review and promotion normally takes place before completion of the second three-year contract.

QUALIFICATIONS: Applicants should have a PhD degree in hand from an accredited institution of higher education. Senior candidates are expected to have a high international standing in the fields, with an exceptional track record of high-quality research and scholarly publications. The university teaching languages are English and Chinese. Satisfactory knowledge of Chinese is preferable but not required.

SALARY: Salary is highly competitive, and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Benefits include university subsidized housing and health insurance.

UNIVERSITY: Southern University of Science and Technology of China is a public university located in the Shenzhen Special Economic Zone, a mega vibrant city and high-tech center across Hong Kong with a population of more than 10 million people. The university is intended to be a top-tier international university that excels in conducting interdisciplinary research, nurturing innovative talents and delivering new knowledge to the world.

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae with at least three names of references by email to shss@sustc.edu.cn, preferably before 31 October 2016. Review of applications begins on November 1, 2016, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1814

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor - Methodology

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field for multiple appointments at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2017. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: formal theory, analytic political philosophy, modelling, and quantitative methods. Successful candidates must hold, or expect to soon complete, a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing past and/or potential contributions to diversity and leadership (further information about this statement is at: <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html>). All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01163>) for position: Assistant Professor, Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 18, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1823

Hope College

Rank: Tenure-Track Appointment in American and Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Hope College political science department invites applications for a tenure-track appointment beginning the 2017-18 academic year. We seek candidates who are equipped to offer courses in one or more of the following areas: American politics and institutions, comparative politics (open regional focus other than Africa), and research methods. The position also includes exciting opportunities to participate in Hope's highly regarded Washington D.C. honors program. Candidates should have a demonstrated ability to combine teaching excellence with genuine scholarly promise, and should be committed to the character and mission of a liberal arts college firmly rooted in the Christian faith. PhDs and ABD candidates who have made substantial progress on the dissertation are encouraged to apply.

Application Instructions

As part of the online application found at www.hope.edu/employment/faculty, candidates will upload the following documents: a cover letter including a paragraph clearly addressing the ways in which you will support the mission of Hope College (www.hope.edu/about/mission.html), a curriculum vitae, a description of your current research program, and a statement of your teaching experience and approach to teaching. Additionally, please arrange for three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to jobs@hope.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 15th, and will continue until the position is filled. Questions regarding the position may be directed to David Ryden, department chair, at ryden@hope.edu.

About Hope College

Hope College is a four-year liberal arts college where academic excellence and vibrant Christian faith join together in a supportive and welcoming community. Hope offers an academically rigorous, co-educational and residential education to 3,200 undergraduate students from more than 40 states and 45 countries. Affiliated with the Reformed Church in America since its founding in 1866, Hope College is known for its invitational ecumenical Christian atmosphere, friendly campus community, and well-balanced academic and co-curricular offerings. Hope's beautiful campus is located just steps from award-winning downtown Holland, Michigan and less than seven miles from Lake Michigan.

Hope College is recognized as a national leader in undergraduate research and scholarship and for providing exceptional professional preparation and life-changing educational experiences that equip our students for success after graduation. The college has consistently ranked among the nation's top liberal arts colleges and is featured in the book Colleges That Change Lives.

Hope College is financially sound, with more than 40 consecutive years of balanced budgets, an endowment of approximately $200 million and no deferred maintenance, and over $140 million invested in the construction of new facilities during the past 12 years. The college completed its newest buildings, the Kruizenga Art Museum and the Jack H. Miller Center for Musical Arts, in 2015 and will open the Jim and Martie Bultman Student Center in 2017.

In 2015, Hope College launched its 10-year strategic plan, Hope for the World: 2025, which consists of six goals, focused on: academics; Christian formation; global engagement; community; reputation and influence; and value. Developed by the campus community, the strategic plan supports the college's mission, "to educate students for lives of leadership and service in a global society through academic and co-curricular programs of recognized excellence in the liberal arts and in the context of the historic Christian faith."

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/11/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1769

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant/Associate professor in Innovative Qualitative Methodologies

The Departments of Anthropology, Political Science, Sociology, and the Brian Lamb School of Communication in the College of Liberal Arts at Purdue University (<http://www.cla.purdue.edu/>) are conducting a cluster hire for an advanced qualitative methodologist at the Assistant or Associate Professor ranks, starting in the fall of 2017.

This search is concurrent with a search for two advanced quantitative methodologists as part of a larger hiring initiative with departments in the College of Health and Human Sciences (<http://www.purdue.edu/hhs/>), seeking a total of six tenure-track or tenured faculty members (three in each College) to expand campus-wide expertise in social, behavioral, and health science statistics and research methodology. For information about the cluster see: <https://www.cla.purdue.edu/research/clusterhire/index.html>.

The successful candidates for these positions will be expected to contribute to the research and teaching programs of the departments in which they affiliate, and to collaborate with others within the cluster and across the university in interdisciplinary and extramurally funded research. Candidates will also be expected to contribute to an anticipated multi-college, shared graduate training platform to prepare students to address 21st century problems, and including an interdisciplinary graduate certification program in advanced quantitative and qualitative methodologies.

The College of Liberal Arts at Purdue includes ten academic units across the social sciences, humanities and arts and is home to or closely affiliated with a wide range of interdisciplinary programs and research centers, many of these programs focus on addressing global grand challenges, including: Center on Aging and the Life Course, Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Center for the Environment, Center on Religion and Chinese Society, Regenstrief Center for Healthcare Engineering, Purdue Policy Research Institute and the C-SPANN archives. Successful candidates should have a Ph.D. in one of the social science disciplines participating in the cluster hiring initiative, a strong publication record (for Associate-level applicants) or the promise of a strong publication record (for Assistant Professors), a research program with high likelihood of external funding, and the potential for teaching and mentoring excellence. Faculty responsibilities will include maintaining a productive research program, directing graduate student research, and teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in methodology in their home department as well as cross-listed courses.

For our qualitative methodologist position in the Cluster, we seek applicants who use innovative approaches to social and cultural research methods for the contemporary global context. They will use leading-edge methods to help understand changes in societies and cultures and to collaborate with others in building more sustainable communities; combining information, problem-solving and answering research questions in innovative ways. They will demonstrate how they use innovative methodologies and methods to work across cultural groups, disciplinary lines, organizational and political contexts, to address human problems or for policy or advocacy work. Expertise may be in one or more of the following: Research Design, textual, discourse, computer assisted or GIS analyses, multi-sited work, mixed-methods, team-based, ethnographic, participatory, comparative historical, visual and digital methods, archival, surveys, mapping, interviews, critical case studies, Evaluation or Assessment, Digital data curation and management.

A background check will be required for employment in this position. Reviewing of applications will begin on October 1, 2016, and continue until the positions are filled. Please send a cover letter outlining qualifications, vita, research and teaching statements, a writing sample, and the names of three academic references via email in PDF format to: cla-adr@purdue.edu. Questions regarding the position may be directed to Professor Melissa Remis, Associate Dean for Research and Graduate Education, College of Liberal Arts Cluster Hire Search Chair, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN, 47907 (remis@purdue.edu).

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1766

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant/Associate professor in Innovative Quantitative Methodologies

ADVANCED QUANTITATIVE METHODOLOGIES CLUSTER HIRE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS, PURDUE UNIVERSITY POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

The Departments of Anthropology, Political Science, Sociology, and the Brian Lamb School of Communication in the College of Liberal Arts at Purdue University (<http://www.cla.purdue.edu/>) are conducting a cluster hire for two positions in quantitative methodologies and/or formal theory at the Assistant or Associate Professor ranks, with initial positions starting in the fall of 2017. This search is concurrent with a search for an advanced qualitative methodologist as part of a larger hiring initiative with departments in the College of Health and Human Sciences (<http://www.purdue.edu/hhs/>), seeking a total of six tenure-track or tenured faculty members (three in each College) to expand campus-wide expertise in social, behavioral, and health science statistics and research methodology. For information about the cluster see: <https://www.cla.purdue.edu/research/clusterhire/index.html>.

The successful candidates for these positions will be expected to contribute to the research and teaching programs of the departments in which they affiliate, and to collaborate with others within the cluster and across the university in interdisciplinary and extramurally-funded research. Candidates will also be expected to contribute to an anticipated multi-college, shared graduate training platform, including a graduate certification program in advanced methodologies.

The College of Liberal Arts at Purdue includes ten academic units across the social sciences, humanities and arts and is home to or closely affiliated with a wide range of interdisciplinary programs and research centers, including: Center on Aging and the Life Course, C-SPAN Archives, Center on Religion and Chinese Society, Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Regenstrief Center for Healthcare Engineering, Purdue Policy Research Institute and Center for the Environment. Successful candidates should have a Ph.D. in one of the social science disciplines participating in the cluster hiring initiative, a strong publication record (for Associate-level applicants) or the promise of a strong publication record (for Assistant Professors), a research program with high likelihood of external funding, and the potential for teaching and mentoring excellence. Faculty responsibilities will include maintaining a productive research program, directing graduate student research, and teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in methodology in their home department as well as cross-listed courses. We are particularly interested in candidates with a substantive area of research and who have demonstrated expertise in innovative quantitative techniques. We welcome applicants with expertise in the analysis of large or untraditional data, advanced hierarchical or structural equation modeling, experimental design and causal inference, automated textual analysis, and network analysis, among other areas.

A background check will be required for employment in this position. Reviewing of applications will begin on October 1, 2016, and continue until the positions are filled. Please send a cover letter outlining qualifications, vita, research and teaching statements, a writing sample, and the names of three academic references via email in PDF format to: cla-adr@purdue.edu. Questions regarding the position may be directed to Professor Melissa Remis, Associate Dean for Research and Graduate Education, College of Liberal Arts, Purdue University, West Lafayette, IN, 47907 (remis@purdue.edu).

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/11/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1768

St. Edward's University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics (Public Law & Methodology)
Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The School of Behavioral and Social Sciences invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Political Science to begin in August 2017. We seek a broadly-trained scholar with the ability to teach judicial politics, constitutional law, research methods and social science statistics. Preferred candidates must demonstrate a commitment to incorporating quantitative literacy skills into his or her courses. Applicants will also teach courses in the university's General Education program and in the candidate's areas of interest within American Politics.

In line with the St. Edward's University mission statement, the campus is actively engaged in the pursuit of social justice and candidates must demonstrate an appreciation and commitment to diversity. An inclusive faculty body is highly valued as we strive to create a diverse learning environment to prepare our students for success in a global and multicultural world.

The successful candidate will teach four courses per semester (with the opportunity to apply for course reduction to pursue research opportunities), advise undergraduate students, and participate in the wider life of the university and community. Scholarly activity is expected, especially to the degree that it may involve or inspire undergraduate students or have positive contributions to teaching and learning.

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science, be committed to teaching and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduate students. Applicants must be compatible with the educational goals of the School of Behavioral and Social Sciences and the Mission Statement of St. Edward's University which requires faculty to teach students the skills needed to be independent and productive and encourages individuals to confront the critical issues of society and to seek justice and peace.

St. Edward's University is an independent Catholic university founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross and chartered in 1885. It has a current enrollment of over 5,000 undergraduate and graduate students. The University has a long history of welcoming a variety of cultural backgrounds, which has led to a diverse community, and a designation as a leading Hispanic-serving institution. The campus is located on a hilltop overlooking downtown Austin, the capital city of Texas, with a metropolitan population of over one million residents.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until October 1, 2016. Applicants will apply at <https://stedwards.applicantpro.com/jobs/441930.html> and attach the following: A cover letter discussing your qualifications and how your record of teaching, service and research demonstrates your commitment to diversity, inclusion and your experiences or interest in global initiatives as emphasized in the mission of St. Edward's University. CV; teaching statement; research statement summary (1 page); transcripts (unofficial at this stage or a list of courses in which you enrolled in graduate school) sample teaching evaluations and a list of three references. Competitive entry-level salary for 9-month contract; additional opportunities for summer teaching and/or development may be available.

St. Edward's University is an equal opportunity employer and hires only U. S. citizens and documented workers. Applications from minorities and women are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/10/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1764

Rutgers University, New Brunswick

Rank: International Relations/IPE

Specializations: International Political Economy, Quantitative Methods, Foreign Policy

The Political Science Department at Rutgers University New Brunswick anticipates hiring 12 new faculty members over the next 4 years, mostly at the Assistant Professor level. Our needs extend to all subfields, although they are particularly strong in International Relations, American Politics, and Methods (statistical and formal). As part of this initiative, we now seek applicants for a full time, tenure track Assistant Professor position in International Relations, beginning September 1, 2017. We have a strong preference towards someone with advanced quantitative and/or game-theoretic skills and an interest in International Political Economy, although other substantive interests in IR will also be considered. Candidate must be able to teach standard undergraduate survey courses in IR. Ability to teach a graduate level course in MLE a big plus.

As one of 34 public US institutions that belong to the Association of American Universities, Rutgers is among the leading research universities in the US and Canada. Rutgers University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, with a historic commitment to diversity. The Political Science Department is strongly committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Women, minorities, and members of under-represented groups are encouraged to apply. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability, protected veteran status or any other classification protected by law.

Applicants should send a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36595>. Review of applicants will begin on October 1 and continue until the job is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 1750

University of Oregon

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Oregon invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning September 2017, and will consider candidates in either of two areas: International Political Economy/International Organization or Comparative Politics with a specialization in Chinese politics. IPE/IO candidates are required to have demonstrated quantitative research interests and teaching abilities and should be capable of teaching an undergraduate/graduate methods course. For comparative/China candidates, we are open to varied methodological orientations. The successful candidate is expected to conduct a rigorous research program, and to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

The University of Oregon and the Department of Political Science are committed to creating a more inclusive and diverse institution and seek candidates with demonstrated potential to contribute positively to its diverse community.

Apply online at academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7568. Interested applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, employment application, one writing sample, syllabi and teaching evaluations, if available. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field is required by September 15, 2017.

To ensure full consideration, application materials must be submitted by October 1, 2016. This position will remain open until filled. This is a paperless search; contact psjobs@uoregon.edu with questions or concerns.

The University of Oregon is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution committed to cultural diversity and compliance with the ADA. The University encourages all qualified individuals to apply, and does not discriminate on the basis of any protected status, including veteran and disability status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/5/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1735

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for a position in the field of Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. This position is subject to the University's background check policy. For best consideration apply by September 8, 2016.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1699

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Formal Theory/Quantitative Analysis

The Department of Politics at Princeton University seeks applicants for a postdoctoral research associate or more senior research position in the fields of Formal Theory or Quantitative Analysis. This position involves a year of research at Princeton with the possibility of renewal for another year based on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Applications are welcome from scholars who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by the start date, September 1, 2017. The aim of the program is to nurture a diverse group of promising scholars and to increase the critical mass of scholars with interests in formal theory and quantitative methods at Princeton.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, transcript and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members.

Transcripts should be sent directly to F/Q Postdoctoral Fellowship Search, Department of Politics, 130 Corwin Hall, Princeton University, Princeton, NJ 08544. We will begin reviewing applications on February 15, 2017.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 2/15/2017

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1701

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/?q=node/1>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor in International Relations. We are open with respect to specialization within IR, and successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to International Relations Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1690

Brown University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Brown University invites applications for a faculty position in quantitative methods (any sub-field) to begin July 2017. Candidates at all ranks are welcome but must have completed the PhD by summer 2017. Review of applications will begin September 26, 2016. Candidates at untenured rank(s) should submit a cover letter identifying their primary interests as well as a current CV, writing sample, graduate transcript, teaching evaluations, and three letters of reference. Candidates at the tenured level should submit a cover letter identifying their primary interests, CV, copies of major publications, teaching evaluations, and the names of five references with contact information; the search committee will contact referees directly. Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

Submit applications to: apply.interfolio.com/36164

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/21/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1646

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in fall 2017 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, political theory, and etc. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untenured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untenured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 150 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has about 10 faculty members who own overseas PhD degrees, and 4 of them are in political science. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to development a new political science program. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system of the United States and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Selection will begin immediately and continue until the positions have been filled, pending administrative and budgetary approval. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend that meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews. Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1643

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in fall 2017 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, political theory, and etc. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untenured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untenured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 150 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has about 10 faculty members who own overseas PhD degrees, and 4 of them are in political science. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to development a new political science program. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system of the United States and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);
3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Selection will begin immediately and continue until the positions have been filled, pending administrative and budgetary approval. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend that meeting and be available for an interview. For those candidates who can attend the conference interview, please submit your application before August 15th. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews. Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1644

Stanford University

Rank: Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields

Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields.

The Stanford Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields. The term of appointment would begin September 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than three pages).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions.

The committee will begin reading applications on September 16, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should apply on line through AcademicJobsOnline.org

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/16/2016
Date Posted: 7/13/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1612

Missouri State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Missouri State University invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-track appointment in American Politics at the assistant professor rank. The successful candidate should be prepared to teach undergraduate courses in Political Behavior and Quantitative Methods, as well as the introductory American politics course. While ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment in August 2017. The successful candidate will be able to enhance the Public Affairs mission of the University and should demonstrate a commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. The successful candidate should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and service and possess an identifiable research agenda which demonstrates the potential for a sustained record of scholarship leading to publications in peer-reviewed journals.

The department of political science has 17 full-time faculty members with over 150 students in the undergraduate major and in two graduate programs; Master of Public Administration and Master of Global Studies. Missouri State University is a selective-admission, comprehensive, and multi-campus university system with an enrollment of over 20,000 students, 150 undergraduate majors, and 47 graduate programs. MSU is located in Springfield, MO, with a metropolitan population of over 400,000, in the heart of the Ozarks region of Southwest Missouri.

Salary is competitive and commensurate with background and experience. Consideration of applicants begins September 16, 2016 and continues until the position is filled. Employment will require a criminal background check at University expense.

Missouri State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action/minority/female/veterans/disability/sexual orientation/gender identity employer and institution. We encourage applications from all interested minorities, females, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and sexual orientation/gender identity.

Apply online at <https://jobs.missouristate.edu/>.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/8/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1600

Stanford University

Rank: Tenured position in Political Methodology, at the rank of associate or full professor

Tenured position in Political Methodology, at the rank of associate or full professor

The Department of Political Science at Stanford University is seeking applications for a tenured position in Political Methodology, at the rank of associate or full professor. The term of appointment would begin September 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate substantial evidence of a creative research career, impact on his or her field of study, and a commitment to excellence in teaching and advising students at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Tenured applicants should send a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, bibliography, and a brief statement of research interest (no more than three pages). Additional papers and manuscripts may be requested at a later date. The committee will begin reading applications on September 16, 2016 but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should apply on-line through AcademicJobsOnline.org.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/16/2016
Date Posted: 7/8/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1606

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant Professor (Methodology / Data Analytics)

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position beginning in August 2017. We seek an applicant with research methodology expertise in data analytics, with a focus on "big data" analysis involving volume (large quantities of data), velocity (rapidly accumulating data, including real time tools), and variety (data pulled from multiple, often unstructured, sources). Subfields and specializations are open and flexible but the successful candidate will demonstrate both teaching and research agendas in one or more substantive subfields of Political Science. Applications at the associate professor level will be considered.

We are an undergraduate department of 15 full-time faculty members and approximately 350 majors. We seek applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. in political science by the appointment date. Successful candidates will have an active and productive research agenda and evidence of teaching excellence, with the demonstrated ability to offer introductory and advanced research methods courses, the latter of which would emphasize data analytics, along with courses in their substantive area of expertise. The standard teaching-load is 3-2, and the salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a letter of application detailing their teaching philosophy and research agenda, a curriculum vitae, summary of recent teaching evaluations, an official transcript, a writing sample, and three letters of reference. All application materials other than letters of recommendation must be submitted through the TCU online application system at https://tcu.igreentree.com/CSS_faculty. Have three confidential letters of recommendation emailed directly from the reviewer to hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu. Department representatives will attend the APSA meeting, where we will conduct screening interviews. Please contact Dr. Joanne Green (j.green@tcu.edu) to schedule a meeting at the APSA meeting. Full review of applications begins on October 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

TCU is an independent, ecumenical, coeducational institution of 10,300 students located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth (pop. 830,000) is a city of rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities. The city is part of the greater Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex of 7 million people and is served by DFW International Airport.

As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 6/21/2016
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 1558

Furman University

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Furman University invites applications for an open rank tenure-track appointment in comparative politics to begin Fall 2017. The candidate's teaching responsibilities will include introductory courses in comparative politics and upper level courses in the area of Middle East politics. The ability to teach a Politics of Africa course and/or an introductory course in research methodology is a strong plus. S/he must demonstrate the potential for superb teaching and excellence in scholarship.

Furman University is a private, selective liberal arts college of about 2,700 residential students located in Greenville, South Carolina, which is situated in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Greenville has a thriving downtown and international community and is within a short driving distance of Charlotte, Atlanta, and Asheville. The Department of Political Science has 15 full-time members. Normal teaching responsibilities are five courses, spread over two terms, typically including two or three introductory courses and two or three upper level courses.

We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. We will also meet with interested and qualified candidates at the American Political Science Association convention in Philadelphia, PA. To apply please go to <https://jobs.furman.edu/postings/5738>. For any questions please contact the chairperson of the search committee Dr. Akan Malici at akan.malici@furman.edu. Furman University is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. Furman offers employment benefits to domestic partners of employees.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/1/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1505

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a 9-month academic year, tenure-system position in Political Methodology and Computational Social Science. Rank is Assistant Professor. The position begins August 16, 2017. Special consideration will be given to those who have expertise in applying Bayesian and/or machine learning approaches, broadly construed, to computationally intensive problems in social science. We encourage applications not only from candidates that have been trained in Political Science departments, but also interdisciplinary researchers whose interests intersect with political science topics. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching ability, the promise of attracting external funding for his/her research, and will have the opportunity to join the interdisciplinary Social Science Data Analytics Initiative at MSU.

The closing date for applications is October 1, 2016, though later applications may be accepted if the search remains open. You must apply for this position via Michigan State University Applicant Page (MAP), posting number 3463. Please access the MAP system at <https://jobs.msu.edu>. Please submit your curriculum vitae, cover letter, research statement, sample of written work, and evidence of teaching ability. Please also arrange for at least three letters of recommendation to be submitted.

MSU is an Affirmative Action/Equal opportunity employer, committed to achieving excellence through a diverse workforce and inclusive culture that encourages all people to reach their full potential. The University actively encourages applicants and/or nominations of women, persons of color, veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 6/1/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1509

NON-ACADEMIC

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor of National Security
Subfield(s): International Relations, Non-Academic, American Government and Politics
Specializations: International Security, Intelligence, Defense

The Political Science Department invites applicants for the position of Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) of National Security to begin as early as Fall 2016. Past incumbents have been recognized national security experts who have added perspective and depth to their students' academic experience. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to undergraduate teaching and an ability to lead upper level political science courses related to topics such as: environmental security, regional security, terrorism, cybersecurity, executive privilege, arms proliferation and arms control. Assisting midshipmen with research, offering seminars and lectures and, inviting guest speakers are among the position's objectives.

The DVP position is for two years commencing in August 2016. It is non-tenure track and non-renewable. The position is administered by the Office of the Academic Dean which provides the DVP with an office and administrative support.

Applications submitted by November 1, 2015 will receive full consideration, but the position will remain open until filled.

For more information about the position and to apply, please go to www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/DVPNationalSec.php

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/6/2015
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 776

OTHERUniversity of Wisconsin, Madison*Rank: Faculty Position in Poverty Studies

Professor of Poverty Studies Position PVL 88290

The University of Wisconsin–Madison invites applications for a faculty position in the area of Poverty Studies, open rank (tenured or tenure-track), beginning August 28, 2017. This position is part of the Chancellor's interdisciplinary cluster initiative in Poverty Studies (<http://clusters.wisc.edu/index.htm>). The initiative is designed to foster innovative, outstanding research programs that will stimulate productive interactions among faculty and students interested in poverty-related research across the campus and to expand interdisciplinary research in poverty studies.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop and maintain a vigorous, cutting-edge, highly visible poverty-related research program; advise graduate and post-graduate research in the area of poverty studies; develop and maintain extramural funding for their research program; and teach graduate and undergraduate courses or develop new courses in their area of expertise, as appropriate. Faculty hired under this initiative will have a primary faculty appointment in a tenure granting department participating in fields related to poverty studies, and will be an active affiliate of the Institute for Research on Poverty at UW–Madison. Instruction and research leadership and participation in faculty governance at the department level are expected. University and community service will also be expected as appropriate. PhD or equivalent in economics, political science, public policy, sociology, social work, or related to the departments described below.

For a tenured position, a clear record of excellence in research, teaching, and service is required. Tenure homes for candidates will reside in departments relevant to the candidate's area of expertise. Possible tenure homes include: Department of Economics, Department of Sociology, School of Social Work, Department of Political Science, and School of Public Affairs. Applicants should state their preferred departmental home in their cover letter.

Applications must include a cover letter, CV, a research statement, a writing sample, and names or letters for at least three references. Teaching statements and prior course evaluations are strongly encouraged. Submit the application https://uwmadison.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_aXDIM2GSQWlySp

Unless confidentiality is requested in writing, information regarding applicants must be released upon request. Finalists cannot be guaranteed confidentiality. University of Wisconsin is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. Women and minority candidates are urged to apply. Employment will require a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/25/2016

Date Posted: 9/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2154

Arizona State UniversityRank: Assistant Professor

The School of Human Evolution and Social Change (SHESC) at Arizona State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor with advanced expertise in social science research methods, including statistics. Anticipated start date is August 2017. This position is part of a cluster of hires, in collaboration with ASU's Institute for Social Science Research (<https://issr.asu.edu>), to advance the university's global leadership in social science methods innovation and training. We seek applicants with an established record of research that deploys advanced social science research methods to study pressing social questions that fit the intellectual mission of the School (<https://shesc.asu.edu>), and with a capacity to teach advanced statistics to undergraduate and graduate students in the range of social science programs offered across the School (e.g., global health, anthropology, and environmental social science) and the University.

The successful candidate is expected to teach advanced social science statistics and social science methods at the graduate and undergraduate level, mentor both undergraduate and graduate students, conduct collaborative research, present research findings in peer-reviewed scholarly outlets and in public fora, seek external funding, and provide service to the university and profession.

Minimum qualifications:

- Ph.D. in social statistics, sociology, policy, political science, epidemiology, econometrics, anthropology or related fields by the time of appointment
- A strong record of research accomplishments, appropriate to time since Ph.D.
- A record of or demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching

Desired qualifications:

- Evidence of success in obtaining external funding
- Experience teaching in a variety of modalities (e.g. classroom, hybrid, online)
- Demonstrated record of collaborative experiences with interdisciplinary research teams
- Demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities

Initial deadline for complete applications is November 7, 2016. If not filled, review will occur every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, please submit to <http://academicjobsonline.org> the following materials: 1) a letter of application that outlines qualifications and includes a statement of teaching interests, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) the names and email addresses of three references. Please make sure your last name appears in each uploaded file name. Please address your letter of application to Dr. Dan Hruschka, Social Science Methods Search Committee Chair. This is a paperless search; only materials submitted electronically as described above will be considered. A background check is required for employment.

ASU is ranked sixth nationally in the National Science Foundation HERD survey for social science research. The School of Human Evolution and Social Change houses programs in anthropology, global health, environmental social sciences, and applied math in the life sciences. Faculty in our School collaborate through other dynamic research centers including the Center for Global Health, the Center for Evolution and Medicine, the Center for Bioarchaeological Research, the Center for Archaeology and Society, the Institute of Human Origins and the Global Institute of Sustainability. For more information, please visit <https://shesc.asu.edu>.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at: <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/29/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2148

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Communication)
 College of Humanities & Social Sciences
 School of Political Science
 Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science and the Manship School of Mass Communication at Louisiana State University invite applications for a junior level, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Communication to begin Fall 2017. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The successful applicant will hold joint appointments in the Department of Political Science and the Manship School of Mass Communication.

Candidates will assist with the teaching load of the Departments, and should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Candidates will also conduct research in sub-specialty of primary department.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science, Mass Communication, or related discipline. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check. Application review will begin November 1, 2016, and will continue until a candidate is selected.

Apply online and view a more detailed ad at: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/LSU---Baton-Rouge/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science--Political-Communication-_R00000309. Position # R00000309.

LSU is committed to diversity and is an equal opportunity/equal access employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/28/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2136

Monterey Institute of International Studies

Rank: Professor in Terrorism Studies

Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey Professor in Terrorism Studies

Position Information
 Posting Number: F00054
 Full-time/Part-time: Full-time

Benefits Eligible?: Yes
 Hourly/Salaried: Salaried
 Typical hours per week: 40
 Band/Level: 1B
 Department: GSIPM (Graduate School of International Policy and Management)
 Location: Monterey, CA
 Hire contingent upon successful completion of the following post-offer screening:
 Criminal Background check

Position Summary:

The Middlebury Institute of International Studies at Monterey (MIIS) seeks to hire a full-time faculty member in the field of terrorism studies. The appointment will be in the Institute's MA program in Nonproliferation and Terrorism Studies (MANPTS) in the Graduate School of International Policy and Management (GSIPM). The position is open with respect to rank (assistant, associate, or full professor); for an individual with appropriate professional experience an appointment as a professor of practice is also possible. The position is also open with respect to areas of expertise within the field of terrorism studies, but we are especially interested in candidates who can teach courses on policies and strategies for responding to terrorism, such as counterterrorism, homeland security, or the roles of intelligence or law enforcement. Ability to teach one or more of our required core classes, such as introduction to terrorism, global politics, or research methods, would be a plus. Expertise in a relevant region or area in world politics, ideally complemented by appropriate language capabilities, is also welcomed. For an appropriately qualified candidate, the position may also come with an option to run our terrorism research center, MonTREP (the Monterey Terrorism Research and Education Program). An interest in serving as the director of MonTREP is not however a requirement to be considered for the faculty position. MIIS has a non-tenure, contract-based system. The initial appointment is for three years. Renewal after three years is based on performance in the areas of teaching, research, and service. Faculty work on a nine-month contract, and the standard teaching load at MIIS is 3/2. This position will report to the MANPTS Program Chair and the GSIPM Dean.

Responsibilities

Essential Functions:

- Teaching courses on terrorism and related subjects in the MANPTS program;
- Maintaining an active research agenda on topics related to terrorism and counterterrorism;
- Assisting the NPTS Program Chair and GSIPM Assistant Dean in ensuring the continued growth and success of the MANPTS Program.

Qualifications

Education:

A Ph.D. in Political Science, History, or another relevant field, with a research specialization relevant to terrorism studies, or extensive professional experience dealing with terrorism.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities:

- Expertise on topics relevant to understanding terrorism and how to respond to it;
- Ability to develop and direct research projects;
- Ability to teach courses in Terrorism Studies and related subjects;
- Collegiality and ability to work with others in an academic environment.

Experience:

- A proven track record teaching specialized courses on terrorism and/or counterterrorism, or on related topics such as homeland security, cybersecurity, intelligence, or counterinsurgency, will be a plus.
- A proven track record of publishing research, including in refereed academic outlets, will be a plus.
- A proven track record raising and managing funds for research will be a plus.

Posting Information

Close date:

Open Until Filled: Yes

Special Instructions to Applicants:

The priority application deadline is Oct. 31, 2016, but the position will remain open until filled.

Please submit the following documents with your application:- cover letter explaining qualifications for the position - c.v./resume - one writing sample - a sample syllabus if available - list of at least three references with contact info

Required Documents

1 Cover Letter

2 Resume/C V

Optional Documents

1 Syllabi Samples

2 Additional Document 1

3 Additional Document 2

To apply: <http://apptrkr.com/885559>

Copyright ©2015 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

Posted by the FREE value-added recruitment advertising agency jeid-98c1109cd4fa9440a6d38afc432dae65

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2139

Naval War College

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of National Security Affairs (Professional Practice)

Join the faculty of one of the nation's largest and most vibrant graduate teaching departments in the interdisciplinary field of national and international security studies. The Department of National Security Affairs at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island seeks to fill one vacancy beginning no later than July 2017. We invite applications from exceptionally qualified senior practitioners who are highly motivated to teach security studies courses within the resident master degree programs of the world's oldest graduate institution of professional military education. We are a blended faculty of scholars and practitioners providing professional education to mid-career students who are military and civilian national security professionals from the United States and more than sixty partner countries preparing to become the senior national security leaders of tomorrow.

Qualifications:

Associate Professor (Professional Practice) candidates must have extensive experience as a national security professional working at the strategic or theater-strategic levels including at senior ranks (minimum O-5/6 or civilian equivalent).

Full Professor (Professional Practice) candidates must have extensive experience as a national security professional working at the strategic or theater-strategic levels including in positions of significant stature (such as flag or general officer or civilian equivalent).

Candidates for both ranks must have at least a master's degree or a terminal degree that is directly relevant for at least one of the following fields: 1) international relations and regional security studies; 2) foreign policy analysis and U.S. foreign policy; or, 3) leadership studies.

Strongest consideration will be given to candidates with expertise encompassing at least two of the above fields. Additional highly desirable qualifications include: a relevant PhD is strongly preferred; a record of scholarly or policy research and publication that demonstrates future potential; teaching experience and demonstrated excellence (preferably at the graduate level); and, a demonstrated commitment to collegiality and an interdisciplinary ethos.

Responsibilities:

Specific responsibilities include: teaching within two distinctive common core graduate-level security studies survey courses; collaborating in the development of common core curricula including individual class sessions; developing and teaching elective courses; scholarly research and publication; and, college service. There is no requirement or expectation to attract external funding. Maximum teaching load excluding optional elective classes is 2/2/0 based on a 10-month trimester system. This involves teaching up to two seminar sections (single preparation) of no more than 16 students in the fall and winter trimesters, with a spring trimester and summer inter-session period devoted primarily to research, curriculum development, and college service. All positions are year-round (12-month). Initial appointment is for a multi-year contract that is renewable thereafter on an ongoing basis provided that performance expectations are met. The college is a non-tenure granting institution but has a long record of extremely high levels of faculty retention.

About the Institution:

The U.S. Naval War College is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges to award master of arts degrees in Defense and Strategic Studies (for our intermediate-rank students), and National Security and Strategic Studies (for our senior-rank students). The college is dual accredited by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to award certification in Joint Professional Military Education Phase 1 & 2.

Salary Considerations:

Salary is competitive and is accompanied by a generous federal civil service package that includes health insurance, pension and retirement savings plans (with employer matching contributions), paid vacation and sick leave, and other benefits. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with the Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Application Process:

Applications will be accepted through November 20, 2016 and must include the following: 1) a detailed cover letter that addresses the qualifications noted above; 2) a comprehensive CV; and, 3) prior teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness (if any). In addition, applicants for associate professor rank must arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent separately, and applicants for full professor rank must provide three professional references for the search committee to contact. Applicants with current or previous military service should provide military ranks and dates of service.

Applications should clearly indicate the rank being applied for and reference VA#NWC-16-22. Please submit complete applications by email to NSAvacancy2@usnwc.edu. Signed letters of reference may also be sent to this email (preferred method) or they may also be mailed to:

Department of National Security Affairs
U.S. Naval War College
686 Cushing Road
Newport, RI 02841-1207
ATTN: Jill Marion

Please direct any questions to the Department Chair, Prof. David Cooper, at david.cooper@usnwc.edu. The U.S. Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2138

WORLD Policy Analysis Center

Rank: Hilton Postdoctoral Fellowship

Overview:

The Hilton Postdoctoral Fellowship is a unique opportunity to receive advanced methods training for state of the art approaches to understanding what works to enhance equal opportunity and improve social conditions at a global scale. With mentorship from an exceptionally interdisciplinary group of experienced researchers from across the UCLA campus and around the world, Hilton Postdoctoral Fellows will contribute to building the evidence base on what works to improve the lives of the poorest and most marginalized people.

Position Description:

- Access to mentorship from across the UCLA campus and around the world in how to examine what works to reduce poverty, improve health, increase education, and achieve other key goals included in the SDGs
- Specific training opportunities in advanced quantitative methods that focus on understanding causal links between national policies and programs and outcomes
- Mentorship on how to use a unique data source that links quantitative data on national policies in 193 countries to harmonized household survey data from 90 low- and middle-income countries from the WORLD Policy Analysis Center (WORLD).

As part of a research unit with a strong culture of collaboration, the Hilton Postdoctoral Fellow will be working full time on their selected project, making use of WORLD policy data to look at implementation and impact with Dr. Jody Heymann, the Dean of Fielding School of Public Health, mentors in their field from across UCLA and globally, as well as with WORLD research staff.

This fellowship is a full-time, residential fellowship for 2 years, starting either in 2016 or 2017. Compensation for position will be in accordance with policies set by the UCLA Graduate Division.

Education/Experience:

- Applicants must have a Ph.D. in public health, public policy, political science, international development, economics, or related discipline.
- A strong background in causal inference and multilevel modeling is required.
- Excellent communication, writing, and research skills are required.
- Demonstrated interest and understanding of public policy, the SDGs or poverty alleviation.

How to apply:

To apply, please submit the following application materials to WORLD@ph.ucla.edu (include "Hilton Postdoctoral Fellowship" in subject line):

- Cover letter (elaborate why you are interested)
- CV
- Undergraduate and Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies accepted)
- Writing samples (max 5 pages)
- 3 letters of reference

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis and the position will remain open until filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

UCLA is committed to equity in employment and diversity. It welcomes applications from all races and ethnicities, all sexual orientations and identities, as well as people with disabilities, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to further diversification.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2142

American University of Sharjah

Rank: Faculty position in political economy

The Department of International Studies at the American University of Sharjah in the United Arab Emirates seeks to hire a full-time faculty member in political science with a specialization in political economy and a proficiency in multi-method research. Candidates must be able to teach both introductory and advanced courses in political economy as well as a range of courses in political science and international studies.

Successful candidates will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, a record of excellent teaching, an active research agenda, and a wish to contribute to the interdisciplinary atmosphere in the Department of International Studies.

As a university formed on the American model and with English as the language of instruction, the American University of Sharjah will give priority to candidates who have substantial experience in American models of higher education.

Application materials must include: a letter of application, curriculum vitae, names and contact information of three references, one writing/publication sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please send applications to: Dr. Mahmoud Anabtawi, Dean, College of Arts & Sciences, American University of Sharjah, e-mail: cashr@aus.edu.

Applications must be received by 30 October 2016 to receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016
Date Posted: 9/27/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2120

Ramapo College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Ramapo College of New Jersey is located in the beautiful foothills of the Ramapo Mountains approximately 25 miles northwest of New York City. Accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education, Ramapo College is a comprehensive institution of higher education dedicated to the promotion of teaching and learning within strong liberal arts based curriculum, thus earning the designation "New Jersey's Public Liberal Arts College." Its curricular emphasis includes the liberal arts and sciences, social sciences, fine and performing arts, and the professional programs within a residential and sustainable living and learning environment. Organized into thematic learning communities, Ramapo College provides academic excellence through its interdisciplinary curriculum, international education, intercultural understanding and experiential learning opportunities.

Assistant Professor of Political Science
 ONE YEAR TEMPORARY POSITION – ACADEMIC YEAR
 2017-2018

Ramapo College of New Jersey invites applications for a temporary full-time Assistant Professor of Political Science with a specialization in American public policy. Areas of policy research and methodology are open. Primary teaching responsibilities include policy courses within the political science major and public policy minor as well as introductory classes in American politics or political theory. The successful candidate will also help develop policy-related internships. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

Candidates should hold a Ph.D., in Political Science or related discipline by the time of appointment.

Applications will be accepted starting on September 26, 2016 by logging on to <http://www.ramapojobs.com>. Attach resume, cover letter, statement of teaching philosophy, research interests and a list of three references. All applications must be completed online. Hard copies of resumes and/or applications will not be accepted. Review of applications will begin after November 1 and will continue until the position is filled. To request accommodations, call (201) 684-7761.

RAMAPO COLLEGE OF NEW JERSEY
 505 Ramapo Valley Road
 Mahwah, NJ 07430

"New Jersey's Public Liberal Arts College"
 Ramapo College is a member of the Council of Public Liberal Arts Colleges (COPLAC), a national alliance of leading liberal arts colleges in the public sector.

EEO/AFFIRMATIVE ACTION

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/5fnq2g2sp5>

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 10/31/2016
Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2122

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

Application requirements

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 30, 2016, via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/35593>

- A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits.
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.
- A copy of each graduate transcript.
- A writing sample.
- Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 30; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2017.

Eligibility and terms

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from the social sciences, including anthropology, economics, history, political science, and sociology. Scholars of all nationalities who received PhDs within three years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. For full application details see <http://watson.brown.edu/education/postdoc>.

For further information

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website <http://watson.brown.edu> or contact:

Professor Catherine Lutz, Faculty Director of the Watson Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University at catherine_lutz@brown.edu; or

Keith Brown, Director of Post-Doctoral and Undergraduate Policy Programs, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University, Brown University at keith_brown@brown.edu.

For questions about the application process itself, please contact watson_applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2117

Hollins University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Specializations: Advanced Industrial Societies, China, Environmental Policy

Visiting Assistant Professor of Global Politics and Societies
HOLLINS UNIVERSITY

The Global Politics and Societies (GPS) Department at Hollins University in Roanoke, Virginia invites applications for a Visiting Assistant Professor. This is a full-time position with a three-year appointment beginning July 1, 2017.

The new GPS department includes four separate major programs of study in sociology, religious studies, political science, and international studies and one minor program of study in social justice. Each of the programs uses an interdisciplinary approach with some shared courses and collaborative teaching based on the common research and teaching interests of faculty members.

The ideal candidate will be a broadly trained political scientist or sociologist with global research and teaching interests. Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in comparative politics and international studies, as well as upper-level electives in sociology and international studies. The faculty member will also be expected to contribute to shared courses in other GPS programs of study. Preference will be given to candidates who can also contribute to one or more of the following programs: environmental studies, gender and women's studies, religious studies, and/or urban studies. The position carries a teaching load of three courses per semester. Other duties include advising students, conducting independent studies, supervising students doing senior research projects, participating in department and university service, and ongoing scholarly activity in the form of publications and presentations.

Candidates must meet the following minimum requirements: Ph.D. in political science, sociology, or related GPS discipline completed by June 30, 2017; evidence of scholarly promise; and an excellent record of teaching at the undergraduate level. Applicants must also demonstrate a clear understanding of and commitment to teaching in a single-sex, liberal arts institution. Applications are sought from those who have demonstrated success working with diverse populations and share Hollins' commitment to preparing students for leadership opportunities in a broadly diverse, global society. Final candidates will be subject to a criminal history background check.

Qualified candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, separate statement of teaching philosophy, evidence of effective teaching, three letters of recommendation, and graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts are acceptable) to GPS@hollins.edu. Applications must be received by Dec. 1, 2017 to receive full consideration.

Hollins is an independent, liberal arts university offering undergraduate education for women, selected graduate programs for men and women, and community outreach initiatives. Founded in 1842 as Virginia's oldest chartered women's college, Hollins is best known for its creative writing program, one of the oldest study-abroad programs in the country, and extensive internship opportunities. The campus is surrounded by the Blue Ridge Mountains, and has the amenities of a mid-sized city in the immediate vicinity.

Hollins University is an equal opportunity employer. Hollins values diversity in its community, and strongly encourages applications from members of underrepresented populations.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2118

State University Of New York College at Plattsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Plattsburgh invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Philosophy and Theory, with a secondary field of Comparative Politics and is open with regard to specializations. The position is expected to begin Fall 2017. The successful candidate will be committed to excellence in teaching, research, and service in an institution dedicated primarily to undergraduate education. He or She will be expected to demonstrate an understanding of and sensitivity to diversity and gender issues, as SUNY Plattsburgh is committed to ensuring that its graduates are educated to succeed in an increasingly complex, multicultural, and interdependent world.

Responsibilities Include: Instruction, engaging in scholarly activities leading to publication, and participating in department and university service including advisement. The successful candidate will be teaching undergraduate courses in normative political theory as well as other courses related to their fields of expertise. Candidates may be asked to teach courses in a distance learning format.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or Government. ABDs will be considered for appointment at a lesser (qualified) rank and salary, conditioned upon proof that the applicant's defense of dissertation is scheduled within the first year of appointment. An ABD hire will be limited to a one-year appointment, subject to renewal for one year only (2 years maximum). The successful candidate will demonstrate both a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching and a high potential for scholarship, as well as the ability to work effectively and collegially with faculty, staff, and administrators.

Preferred Qualifications: An interest in conducting research with undergraduates and the ability to broaden departmental offerings.

Salary: $50,000 minimum, plus excellent benefits. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Application materials received by October 7 will be guaranteed full consideration. Please apply to <http://jobs.plattsburgh.edu/postings/7620> and include a cover letter, Resume/CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, record of scholarly or professional works, and three letters of recommendation. Official transcripts from an accredited institution will be required prior to employment.

SUNY Plattsburgh is an equal opportunity employer, committed to excellence through diversity. As an equal opportunity employer and a government contractor subject to VEVRAA, SUNY Plattsburgh complies with hiring regulations regarding sex, color, religion, national origin, disability, age and veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2108

University at Albany

Rank: Tenure Track Faculty (3) Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security & Cybersecurity

The College of Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security and Cybersecurity at the University at Albany is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for three tenure track faculty positions in the fields of Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security and Cybersecurity. The rank for all positions is open and the positions are also open with respect to subfield specialization.

In the field for Emergency Preparedness, we are particularly interested in applicants focusing on hazard mitigation, preparation and community resilience, response, recovery, disaster policy, disaster psychology, disaster mental health, extreme weather, crisis communications, disease outbreaks, privacy and civil liberties, and continuity of operations. Candidates focusing on either public health preparedness or severe weather and emergency response are strongly encouraged to apply. With respect to the field of Homeland Security, we are particularly interested in applicants focusing on terrorism, risk analysis, immigration, border security, critical infrastructure, forensics, crisis communications, transnational crime, cybersecurity, privacy and civil liberties. In the field of Cybersecurity, we are chiefly interested in applicants focusing on risk analysis, cyber warfare, cyber intelligence, cyber-crime, digital forensics, information assurance, vulnerability assessment, critical infrastructure, cyber physical systems, governance, privacy and civil liberties.

As the first college of its kind in the nation, the College of Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security and Cybersecurity is projected to grow over the next five years as it establishes both undergraduate and graduate academic programs in emergency preparedness, homeland security, and cybersecurity. The University at Albany and the State of New York are committed to seeing the College become a global leader in education and research in these fields, and are providing significant support to the establishment and planned growth of the unit.

To apply and for further details, visit:

<https://albany.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=75667> - For Emergency Preparedness

<https://albany.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=75665> - For Homeland Security

<https://albany.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=75668> - For Cybersecurity

The University at Albany is an EO/AA/IRCA/ADA Employer.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/tsjy3fm6pw>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/21/2016

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2106

Miami University

Rank: Tenure-track Assistant Professor: Africanist social scientist with specialization in development in sub-Saharan Africa Department of Global and Intercultural Studies

Tenure-track Assistant Professor: Africanist social scientist with specialization in development in sub-Saharan Africa
Department of Global and Intercultural Studies

We seek an Africanist social scientist who will specialize in development in sub-Saharan Africa. Required qualifications: PhD (by date of appointment) in African Studies, History, Cultural Anthropology, Geography, Political Science, Gender Studies, Sociology, or a closely related field; commitment to interdisciplinary teaching and research. Strong candidates will use approaches that include study of NGOs, feminist or critical gender theories, field-based methods, and competency in an indigenous, non-colonial African language. This faculty member will make contributions to research, teaching (four classes per year academic year), and service to the department, college, and university.

We welcome details about how the applicant will contribute to the Global & Intercultural Studies Department, its major in International Studies and its co-major in Global and Intercultural Studies. The successful candidate will also contribute to some of the department's other interdisciplinary academic programs: Asian/Asian-American Studies; American Studies; Black World Studies; Latin American, Latino/a, and Caribbean Studies; and Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies.

Applications, including a letter of interest, C.V., and letters from three references, may be submitted to Miami University's job site Hire Touch: <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com>. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Direct queries about the search to the search committee co-chairs: Tammy Brown at browntl3@miamioh.edu and Gwen Etter-Lewis at etterlg@miamioh.edu. General Inquiries may be directed to Jana Braziel, Department Chair, at brazieje@miamioh.edu or 513-529-5333.

With a student body of over 15,000 undergraduate and 2,250 graduate students at its Oxford campus, Miami effectively combines a wide range of strong academic programs with the personal attention ordinarily found only at much smaller institutions. Graduate programs complement and enhance the undergraduate educational experience. Our unwavering commitment to teaching and learning is demonstrated in the University's record of exceptional retention and graduation rates, and their consistently strong and engaged alumni community.

Miami University serves the citizens of the state of Ohio, as well as a regional and increasingly national and international constituency. Miami's main campus is in Oxford, 35 miles north of Cincinnati, with two regional campuses in Hamilton and Middletown, the Voice of America Learning Center in West Chester, Ohio, and the Miami University Dolibois European Center in Luxembourg.

Miami University, an EO/AA employer encourages applications from minorities, women, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities. Miami does not permit, and takes action to prevent, harassment, discrimination and retaliation. Requests for reasonable accommodations for disabilities should be directed to ADAFacultyStaff@Miami-h.edu or (513) 529-3560. Annual Security and Fire Safety Report may be found at: <http://www.MiamiOH.edu/campus-safety/annual-report/index.html>. Criminal background check required. All campuses are smoke- and tobacco-free.

While every effort will be made to preserve confidentiality until finalists are selected, the search is subject to the Ohio Public Records Act.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2087

University of California, Merced

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Inequality, Power and Social Justice

The University of California, Merced is recruiting between one and four Assistant, Associate, or Full Professors as part of a cluster hire in the area of Inequality, Power, and Social Justice focused on issues related to 1) Identity, Experience, and Representation and 2) Structural and Institutional Inequality. We seek Political Scientists who study political institutions and/or political behavior, with a substantive focus in American Politics, Comparative Politics, or International Relations. Full details are available at: <https://aprecruit.ucmerced.edu/apply/JPF00389>

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2096

Yale University

Rank: Senior Search in Political Economy

Specializations: Economic Policy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Yale University intends to make a tenured Associate Professor or Professor appointment in the field of Political Economy, beginning July 1, 2017. The ideal candidate would be eligible for appointment jointly in the Department of Economics and the Department of Political Science.

Yale is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Yale University values diversity among its staff, students and faculty and strongly encourages applications from and nominations for women and under-represented minorities, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required.

Applications (CV, cover letter, list of contact references, and two representative writing samples) should be uploaded to <https://apply.interfolio.com/37919>. Review of applications and nominations will begin September 25, 2016.

For further information about the search, please contact Lani Colianna, at lani.colianna@yale.edu, Department of Political Science, Yale University, P.O. Box 208301, New Haven, CT 06520-8301.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2088

University of Kansas

Rank: Chairperson of Department of Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies (WGSS)

The Department of WGSS invites applications for the position of Chairperson and Associate or Full Professor of the department, expected to begin as early as August 18, 2017. The successful candidate will qualify for a tenured appointment with the rank of Full or advanced Associate Professor with research and teaching expertise in the field of women, gender, and sexuality studies (research specialization is open.) The position requires a nationally recognized program of research in the discipline of women, gender, and sexuality studies that includes a sustained record of publication and external funding, with the promise of continued productivity. The Chairperson also must communicate effectively, manage interpersonal relations, and contribute to a collegial work and learning environment. Applications should demonstrate a commitment to and experience in academic administrative roles. Candidates must also have a commitment to teaching excellence and mentorship at the undergraduate and graduate level.

The Department of WGSS began in 1972 as a result of activism by students, faculty, and community members and now boasts nine tenure-track faculty and over 70 affiliated faculty members. The department offers undergraduate majors and minors in Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies and in Human Sexuality, and a vibrant graduate program, granting M.A. and Ph.D. degrees, as well as a graduate certificate.

The University of Kansas is especially interested in hiring faculty members who can contribute to the climate of diversity in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and four key campus-wide strategic initiatives: (1) Sustaining the Planet, Powering the World; (2) Promoting Well-Being, Finding Cures; (3) Building Communities, Expanding Opportunities; and (4) Harnessing Information, Multiplying Knowledge. For more information, see www.provost.ku.edu/planning/themes/

The University of Kansas (KU) is located in Lawrence, Kansas, a bustling and progressive college town of around 94,000 located 40 miles west of Kansas City. Lawrence offers numerous cultural events, sports and recreational opportunities, local shops, and a wide range of great restaurants.

For a complete announcement and to apply online, go to: <https://employment.ku.edu/academic/7156BR> A complete online application includes the following materials: (1) letter of application describing experience and accomplishments; (2) record of productivity in research, teaching, and service as noted in CV; (3) research statement and supplemental materials (e.g., representative publications); (4) teaching statement and supplemental materials (e.g., teaching portfolio, sample syllabus, peer evaluations, student evaluations); and, (5) the names and contact information for three professional references. Questions may be directed to Professor Marta Vicente, Search Committee Chair, Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies Department, Blake Hall, 318 Blake Hall, 1541 Lilac Lane, Lawrence, KS 66045-7594; e-mail: WGSSsearch@ku.edu. Initial review of applications begins November 16, 2016, and continues as needed to ensure a large, high quality, and diverse applicant pool.

The University of Kansas prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, sex, national origin, age, ancestry, disability, status as a veteran, sexual orientation, marital status, parental status, retaliation, gender identity, gender expression and genetic information in the University's programs and activities. The following person has been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination policies and is the University's Title IX Coordinator: the Executive Director of the Office of Institutional Opportunity and Access, IOA@ku.edu, 1246 W. Campus Road, Room 153A, Lawrence, KS, 66045, (785) 864-6414, 711 TTY.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2086

Yale University

Rank: SENIOR SEARCH IN SOCIAL SCIENCE HISTORY

Yale University is conducting a senior-level (tenured Associate or Full) search for either a social scientist whose work, including on the present day, is animated by historically-inflected methods and materials, or a historian whose work is deeply informed by the social sciences.

Departments involved in the search include Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology.

The successful candidate will be appointed in the home department and serve on the faculty board of Yale's Center for Historical Enquiry & the Social Sciences (YaleCHESS).

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Yale values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty and strongly welcomes applications from women, persons with disabilities, protected veterans, and underrepresented minorities.

Review of applications will begin immediately and proceed until the position is filled.

Please apply using this link: <https://apply.interfolio.com/37849>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/18/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2085

Boise State University

Rank: Assistant Professor/Human-Environment Systems (one tenure-track position)

Assistant Professor (Tenure Track) - Human-Environment Systems, College of Innovation and Design - (Search 160637)

The University and Region:

Boise State University, powered by creativity and innovation, stands uniquely positioned in the Northwest as a metropolitan research university of distinction. Recognized as a university on the move, Boise State is the largest university in Idaho, with enrollment of more than 22,000 students. The University is located in the heart of Idaho's capital city, a growing metropolitan area that serves as the government, business, high-tech, economic, and cultural center of the state. Time Magazine ranked Boise #1 in 2014 for 'getting it right' with a thriving economy, a booming cultural scene, quality health care, and a growing university. Livability.com also ranked Boise first among the top 10 cities to raise a family in 2014 thanks to an abundant quality of life, a family-friendly culture, a vibrant downtown, and great outdoor recreation. To further enhance the superb quality of life Boise offers, the University has committed to sustaining the conditions necessary for faculty to enter and thrive in their academic careers, while meeting personal and family responsibilities.

About the Position:

Interested applicants are encouraged to apply for a tenure-track faculty position in human-environment systems science. Competitive candidates will demonstrate capacity, expertise, and interest in quantitative approaches to analyzing coupled social and biophysical systems, with the goal of addressing some of our most pressing sustainability challenges. We seek candidates who develop and apply innovative strategies to describe, understand, and predict the dynamics of human-environment systems, including but not limited to, agent-based, dynamical, process-based and geostatistical modeling, and other innovative techniques for integrating models and data.

The new faculty member will join existing faculty in our Human-Environment Systems Center (<https://cid.boisestate.edu/hes/>). This position is part of a statewide, NSF-funded effort to build expertise in human-environment systems science. With Boise State's new College of Innovation and Design as a home, the candidate will have the opportunity to collaboratively build an integrated research and teaching center focusing on coupled human-environment systems. The center weaves together biophysical and social science knowledge and skills to develop solutions and quantitative approaches to society's most challenging environmental problems. In addition, faculty will have the opportunity to contribute to an existing NSF-funded research effort (NSF Award # IIA-1301792) to better understand how landscapes and associated ecosystem services in Idaho will evolve under the stressors of population growth and climate change.

Research:

Successful candidates will be able to:

- Build a strong collaborative (team science) research program that integrates biophysical and social sciences;
- Secure extramural funding;
- Create knowledge to meet challenges at the human-environment interface;
- Disseminate that knowledge through high-impact publications and other, less traditional, mechanisms;
- Help develop a leading program in human-environment systems science; and
- Contribute to Boise State's academic excellence by developing an integrated program of research, teaching, and service that also broadens participation and diversity to more effectively address the complex challenges of coupled human-environment systems.

Teaching:

The successful candidate will have a strong commitment to high-quality education and develop innovative, scholarly, and collaborative approaches to teaching undergraduate and graduate students. Successful candidates may develop hybridized, flipped, and/or online class formats as well as short courses and workshops. Courses will be offered through multiple departments and the College of Innovation and Design. Expected teaching load is nominally two classes per year. Teaching responsibilities will be aligned with the candidates' quantitative training and will emphasize the interface of human-environment sciences.

We welcome applicants at the Assistant Professor level and also encourage exceptional candidates exhibiting a proven record of excellence in obtaining extramural research funding, scholarly productivity, and teaching at the Associate Professor level.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications:

PhD, at the time of appointment, in biophysical or social sciences, with an emphasis on quantitative methods and approaches.

Salary and Benefits:

Salary is competitive within the Western region and commensurate with qualifications and experience. In addition, an excellent benefits package is available for eligible employees. For more information visit: <http://hrs.boisestate.edu/careers/benefits/>

Please apply here:

<https://boisestate.taleo.net/careersection/ex/jobdetail.ftl?job=160637>

Attach the following documents to your application:

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Please include the following attachments with your application and also email them to hes@boisestate.edu. Please add Search #HES-160637 to the subject line of your email:

- A cover letter
- Curriculum vitae
- Contact information for a minimum of 3 professional references
- 3 publications as representative sample work

In the cover letter, you should address the following items in this order:

- Your qualifications for this position, especially application of quantitative methods;
- Your capacity to develop an integrated research and education program to solve problems at the interface of human-environment systems;
- Evidence and interest in collaboration, and;
- Your interest and commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Candidates wishing to be considered for employment at the level of Associate Professor should specifically identify so in the cover letter.

Boise State University embraces and welcomes diversity in its faculty, student body, and staff. Accordingly, candidates who would add to the diversity and excellence of our academic community are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2078

Florida State University

Rank: Political Science/African American Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Public Policy

Specializations: African American Politics, Caribbean, Civil Rights & Liberties

Florida State University is embarking upon a Diversity and Inclusion initiative, which can be found online at <http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=>

diversity/diversity_initiatives. As part of this initiative, the Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci?q=node/1>) and the FSU African American Studies Center (<http://coss.fsu.edu/aas/>) seek applications for a tenure track or tenured faculty member to participate in their programs. The Department has twenty-two tenured or tenure track and two non-tenure track faculty that serve a large undergraduate program, a master degree in applied politics, and a PhD program. African American Studies is an interdisciplinary undergraduate program that offers BA and BS degrees.

The position is open with respect to candidates' specialization, and they may have doctoral degrees in African American Studies, Political Science, or other related disciplines, with evidence of scholarship and teaching with respect to African Americans and the African diaspora. Teaching will include at least one course in the African American Studies core curriculum, a second course at the nexus of race and politics, and other courses in the political science curriculum. The candidate's tenure home will be in Political Science. Candidates should have strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital city, with a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions. Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) through (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files must be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search.

Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Political Science/AAS Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer; racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2083

Princeton University

Rank: 2017-2018 LAPA Fellowships

The Program in Law and Public Affairs (LAPA) at Princeton University invites outstanding faculty members of any discipline, independent scholars, lawyers, and judges to apply for visiting, residential appointments for the academic year 2017–2018. LAPA Fellows devote the major portion of their time to their own research and writing on law-related subjects of empirical, interpretive, doctrinal and/or normative significance. All applicants must have received a doctorate, juris doctor, or an equivalent professional degree at the time of submission of the fellowship application. Successful LAPA applicants should demonstrate substantial expertise in law-related matters. The program does not support, as a primary activity, off-site fieldwork or work in remote archives, development of course materials, work in legal practice, direct advocacy of causes or residence elsewhere.

FELLOWSHIP APPLICATIONS MUST BE SUBMITTED USING THE ON-LINE APPLICATION AT HTTP://LAPA-PRINCETON.EDU.

THE DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION IS 5:00 PM (EST) NOVEMBER 14 2016.

For additional information see: <http://lapa.princeton.edu/fellowships>

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

LAPA is cosponsored by the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, the University Center for Human Values and Princeton University.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 11/14/2016

Date Posted: 9/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2077

Tel Aviv University

Rank: Tenure Track Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Tenure-track, assistant or associate professor position, open to all subfields.

The Department of Political Science at Tel Aviv University invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant or associate professor position. The position is open to all subfields, with a preference for comparative politics and international relations scholars. The term of appointment would begin October 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than two pages).

The committee will begin reading applications on October 15, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should send their applications to Shain@tauex.tau.ac.il and azar-gat@post.tau.ac.il.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1928

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Politics and Environment

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

McGill University

Assistant Professor, Politics and Environment

Department of Political Science and McGill School of Environment

The McGill School of Environment (MSE) and the Department of Political Science invite applications for a joint tenure-track position in Politics and Environment. Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank may be possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

The Department and School welcome applications from qualified candidates working within any subfield in Environmental Politics. The search is open in terms of methodological specialization, although candidates are expected to be able to demonstrate expertise in either quantitative or qualitative methods, or both. While all applications will be given full consideration, we are particularly interested in scholars whose work incorporates some of the following elements: is transnational in scope or has the potential to move in this direction, addresses the consequences of environmental change for public policy at various institutional levels, examines the relationships between environmental change and other phenomena such as international migration or conflict. The School of Environment is highly interdisciplinary; the successful candidate will have demonstrated an excellent capacity to work in an interdisciplinary context and to develop interdisciplinary collaborations.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students.

Applications should include a letter of motivation, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, samples of written work (up to three reprints), a teaching statement (including material pertinent to teaching skills), and a research statement. The position start date is August 1, 2017.

For more information about the Department, the School, and University, visit our web sites at: mcgill.ca/politicalscience/ and mcgill.ca/mse. The Department and School maintain close relationships with other units at McGill with interests in the environment such as the School of Public Policy, which is expected to take in its first cohort of students in 2018, the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), mcgill.ca/isid, and the Institute for Health and Social Policy mcgill.ca/ihsp.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Hudson Meadwell, hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca, or to Professor Sylvie de Blois, Director, McGill School of the Environment sylvie.deblois@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 28, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7944>

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill

Poste de professeure, professeur, Politique et Environnement

Département de science politique et École d'environnement

L'École d'environnement de McGill et le Département de science politique sollicitent des candidatures pour un poste de professeur ou professeur à temps plein en politique et environnement. Nous recherchons une candidate, un candidat au rang d'adjoint bien qu'un poste à un rang supérieur puisse être considéré dans des circonstances exceptionnelles. Le doctorat devra avoir été complété ou sur le point de l'être.

Nous recherchons des personnes hautement qualifiées dont l'expertise s'inscrit dans tout sous-domaine pertinent à la politique environnementale. Nous sommes ouverts à toute approche méthodologique en autant qu'elle s'appuie sur de solides compétences quantitatives ou qualitatives, ou les deux. Toutes les candidatures seront considérées, mais nous sommes particulièrement intéressés par des profils de recherche comportant certains des éléments suivants : portée transnationale ou le potentiel d'évoluer dans cette direction, s'adressent aux conséquences des changements environnementaux sur les politiques publiques à divers niveaux institutionnels, examinent les relations entre les changements environnementaux et d'autres phénomènes tels les migrations internationales ou les conflits. L'École d'environnement est axée sur l'interdisciplinarité; la personne retenue aura démontré une excellente capacité à travailler dans un contexte interdisciplinaire et à développer des collaborations interdisciplinaires.

Le dossier de candidature devra faire la preuve d'un excellent potentiel en recherche et en enseignement aux trois cycles, ainsi que d'une capacité à superviser la recherche aux cycles supérieurs. Il devra inclure une lettre de motivation, un curriculum vitae, les relevés officiels d'études supérieures, trois lettres de recommandation, un exemplaire de trois publications ou des travaux de recherche récents, un exposé sur la philosophie d'enseignement (incluant tout matériel démontrant les aptitudes à l'enseignement) et un exposé sur le programme de recherche proposé. Le poste sera effectif le 1er août 2017.

Les personnes intéressées trouveront plus d'informations sur le Département, sur l'École et sur l'Université en consultant les sites Web mcgill.ca/politicalscience et mcgill.ca/mse. Le Département de science politique et l'École d'environnement maintiennent des liens étroits avec d'autres unités intéressées à l'environnement à McGill tels : the School of Public Policy, qui recevra sa première cohorte d'étudiants en 2018, the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), mcgill.ca/isid; et the Institute for Health and Social Policy, mcgill.ca/ihs

Toutes questions au sujet de ce poste peuvent être envoyées au Professeur Hudson Meadwell hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca, directeur du Département de science politique, ou à la professeure Sylvie de Blois, directrice de l'École d'environnement de McGill sylvie.deblois@mcgill.ca.

La révision des dossiers de candidature débutera le 28 octobre 2016 et continuera jusqu'à ce le poste soit comblé.

SVP SOUMETTRE VOTRE CANDIDATURE EN LIGNE:
<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/7944>

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. "On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux

exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents."

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/28/2016

Date Posted: 9/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2068

Purdue University

Rank: Postdoc

Tecumseh Postdoctoral Announcement

Purdue University invites applicants for two postdoctoral positions for the 2017-2018 academic year. A second year of funding could be available depending upon discipline-specific interest of the applicant. We seek candidates who will have completed their PhD program before August 2017, with demonstrated potential for scholarly contribution including publications. Potential college placements include: Agriculture, Engineering, Health and Human Services, Krannert School of Management, Liberal Arts, Pharmacy, Science, or Veterinary Medicine. Please visit the homepage of each college to determine the broad diversity of disciplines and programs available. (http://www.purdue.edu/purdue/about/colleges_schools.html). The Tecumseh Postdoctoral program was established to support Native American participation in the University at all levels. Scholars in this program will be expected to interact with our vibrant community of Native and Indigenous undergraduate and graduate students, including participating in ongoing programs coordinated through the Purdue Native American Educational and Cultural Center (<http://www.purdue.edu/naecc/>). A current initiative of the NAEECC is developing and strengthening existing partnerships with Native communities to better serve their students and practical concerns. Postdoctoral scholars will be expected to mainly to conduct research to address fundamental questions in their area of expertise, but also to participate in the above programs by, for example, presenting and participating in seminars, and mentoring students.

The Tecumseh Scholars program was created through the Provost's Diversity Transformation Award, an initiative aimed at increasing diversity and inclusion at Purdue University. The Sloan Indigenous Graduate Partnerships at Purdue (funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation) has produced 21 alumni who are now actively engaged in academia, industry, and tribal affairs across the United States. Purdue has a wide range of networking, professional development, and community engagement opportunities for postdoctoral scholars, and successful applicants will be based in a collaborating department appropriate to the disciplines. We are especially interested in candidates who are considering academic career and who could later apply for a faculty position. Applications should include a pdf file comprised of a cover letter, CV, copies of recent publications, names and contact information of individuals for 3 reference letters, a titles statement of proposed research interests, identification of home department and potential faculty collaborators at Purdue, and a statement describing participation in diversity initiatives, and involvement in Native American communities. Salary is $50,000 plus benefits. All materials should be emailed to Professor Dawn G. Marsh (dmarsh@purdue.edu). Applications will be accepted until the positions are filled. Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/19/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2073

City University of Hong Kong

Rank: Head of Department of Public Policy

Worldwide Search for Talent

City University of Hong Kong is a dynamic, fast-growing university that is pursuing excellence in research and professional education. As a publicly-funded institution, the University is committed to nurturing and developing students' talents and creating applicable knowledge to support social and economic advancement. The University has seven Colleges/Schools. As part of its pursuit of excellence, the University aims to recruit outstanding scholars from all over the world in various disciplines, including business, creative media, energy, engineering, environment, humanities, law, science, social sciences, veterinary sciences and other strategic growth areas.

Applications and nominations are invited for :

Head of Department of Public Policy [Ref. C/374/49]

The Position

Reporting to the Provost through the Dean of College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, the Head of Department will provide leadership and strategic direction in research and professional education for the Department. The Head will encourage and promote academic excellence, and steer the Department to enhance the mission and vision of the University in alignment with the University's Strategic Plan.

The Person

A doctorate degree with strong academic and professional qualifications, a distinguished record of teaching, research and scholarship, and substantial relevant experience in tertiary education; outstanding management effectiveness; commitment to teamwork; and strong communication and networking skills to build and nurture internal and external contacts to the benefit of the Department.

Salary and Conditions of Service

The appointee will be offered appointment to an academic rank commensurate with qualifications and experience. The headship appointment will be on a concurrent basis for an initial period of three years. Remuneration package will be attractive and driven by market competitiveness and individual performance. Excellent fringe benefits include gratuity, leave, medical and dental schemes, and relocation assistance (where applicable).

Information and Application

Further information on the post and the University is available at <http://www.cityu.edu.hk>.

The University is being represented in this search by the Korn/Ferry International (H.K.) Ltd. Please send the nomination or application with a current curriculum vitae to Mr. T.T. HO, Senior Client Partner, Korn/Ferry International (H.K.) Ltd., 15/F, St. George's Building, 2 Ice House Street, Central, Hong Kong, or email to "cityu-pol@kornferry.com". Applications and nominations received before 16 December 2016 will receive full consideration. The University's privacy policy is available on the homepage.

City University of Hong Kong is an equal opportunity employer and we are committed to the principle of diversity. Personal data provided by applicants will be used for recruitment and other employment-related purposes.

Worldwide recognition ranking 55th (QS survey 2016), 4th among top 50 universities under age 50 (QS survey 2015); 1st in Engineering/Technology/Computer Sciences in Hong Kong (Shanghai Jiao Tong University survey 2016); and 2nd Business School in Asia-Pacific region (UT Dallas survey 2015).

Start Date:
Date Posted: 9/18/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2065

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS) at Arizona State University invites applications for a tenure-eligible Assistant Professor in the area of Global Studies with substantive focus on political geography broadly defined. Anticipated start date is August 2017.

Consistent with the inter-disciplinary nature of SPGS, we seek applications from social scientists whose research and teaching interests engage important local, national, international and/or global social and political issues. We are specifically interested in applications from applicants whose work addresses the geographic or spatial elements of these issues, particularly as it relates to substantive areas such as economic development, economic and social inequality, public health, environmental change, humanitarian intervention, or similar topics. The position is open with respect to methodological focus; however, methodological sophistication in areas such as GIS, spatial econometrics, or other advanced statistical, experimental, or formal modeling skills, or the sophisticated use of mixed methods is expected.

Required qualifications: Ph.D. in a relevant social science discipline (political science, geography, economics, sociology, etc.) by the time of appointment; demonstrated excellence in research commensurate with appointment at the level of assistant professor; an established or developing research agenda in political geography or a closely related area of inquiry; methodological sophistication; and a demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching.

Desired qualifications: a record of publishing in top journals in the applicant's discipline; evidence of competitive external grants; the ability to teach courses in spatial analysis; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

The School of Politics and Global Studies grants a Ph.D., M.A., B.S. and B.A. in Political Science and a B.A. in Global Studies. The School offers a M.A. in Global Affairs and Management in conjunction with the Thunderbird School of Global Management. The successful candidate will have opportunities to contribute scholarship, teaching and service to advance these and other programs at ASU. The School of Politics and Global Studies values interdisciplinary scholarship, and the successful candidate will have the opportunity to affiliate and collaborate with other schools and centers at Arizona State University.

Initial deadline for review of complete application is October 24, 2016; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue every two weeks thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, please submit via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7852>, the following application materials: a letter of application stating qualifications, experience, research plans, and teaching interests; a complete curriculum vita; a writing sample; and contact information (include email) for three references. We will not accept any mailed applicant material, including reference letters; this is an online, paperless search. A background check is required for employment.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

<https://www.asu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html>
<https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/24/2016

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2064

Haverford College

Rank: Tenure-track Faculty Position in Health Studies

Haverford College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in the interdisciplinary field of Health Studies, to begin in Fall 2017.

A PhD in a relevant academic discipline and an MPH or equivalent degree are required. The successful candidate must show excellence and strong active engagement both in health-focused scholarship and in teaching courses at all levels of the Health Studies curriculum. The primary teaching responsibilities include the gateway and capstone courses for the Health Studies minor, but additional courses offered must be integral to the Health Studies program and possibly acceptable as electives for other programs or departments. (http://www.haverford.edu/academics/departments_and_programs/)

While the primary responsibilities for this position lie in Health Studies, an appointment in one of the College's academic departments is not precluded. Training in any appropriate academic discipline is acceptable, with some preference for those with expertise in health policy, medical sociology or anthropology, or public health.

The successful candidate will be expected to anchor and develop the multidisciplinary Bi-College Health Studies minor (at Haverford and Bryn Mawr Colleges) by establishing productive collaborations with faculty across all three academic divisions and across the two campuses, mentoring students whose majors are in a broad array of departments, and administering an academic program that intersects with multiple programs on campus, including the Center for Peace and Global Citizenship, the Hurford Center for Arts and Humanities and the Koshland Integrated Natural Science Center. We are particularly interested in candidates who have strong professional networks and scholarly interests within public and global health, are active in community-based health programs, contribute to public discourse about the changing landscape of health, and engage undergraduate students in this work.

Applicants are requested to submit a cover letter, cv, a writing sample, a list of three possible courses with short descriptions and arrange to have three confidential letters of recommendation submitted via Interfolio (<https://apply.interfolio.com/37004>). Questions about the application process should be directed to Georgia Davidis Malone, Faculty Dossier Coordinator, at gdauidisma@haverford.edu. For technical questions, please contact Interfolio directly at 877-997-8807 or help@interfolio.com. To receive full consideration, all application materials must be received in electronic form by October 15, 2016.

Haverford College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer that does not discriminate on the basis of race, ethnicity, religion, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, age, marital status, disability or veteran status. Haverford has a longstanding commitment to diversity rooted in values of inclusion and social justice, a commitment reflected in the curriculum, classrooms, and communal composition of the College. Haverford welcomes applications from candidates who share these values and who will foster their contribution to the College's educational mission.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2054

National University of Singapore

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships

NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF SINGAPORE
 Global Production Networks Centre (GPN@NUS)
<http://gpn.nus.edu.sg>

THREE POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

Invitation to Apply

Professor Henry Yeung, together with Professor Neil Coe as co-Principal Investigator, at the Department of Geography was awarded a S$4.95 million research grant by the NUS Office of Deputy President (Research and Technology) in October 2014 to establish a Faculty-based research centre for the study of global production networks (GPN) and economic development, with a particular focus on Asia. Founded by a team of researchers from Geography, Economics, Sociology, and Political Science, this Centre is named GPN@NUS and the grant will end in September 2018 (though funding beyond 2018 will be sought).

The Centre now has about 20 full time assistant/associate professors, senior research fellows, postdoctoral fellows, and research assistants. In light of this significant research initiative and the availability of funding until the end of September 2018, we are now seeking to appoint up to THREE outstanding Postdoctoral Fellows to lead the Centre's research activities in ONE of the following key sectors: (1) electronics; (2) automotive; (3) pharmaceuticals; (4) oil and gas; (5) finance and (6) logistics. The Postdoctoral Fellowship will also provide the appointee time for publishing his/her research and funding for international conference attendance (on application and subject to approval). The appointment can start anytime now and will end in September 2018.

Area of Expertise

The successful candidate will be someone who holds a PhD degree or is awaiting conferment (the PhD must be awarded by the time that the post is taken up). The candidate should be well versed in the research domains of global production networks and global value chains in any of the social science disciplines of economic geography, economic sociology, development studies, international political economy, and international business studies. Prior experience in the study of global production in relation to critically important topics such as technological innovation, industrial and social upgrading, national competitiveness, industrial and corporate change, entrepreneurship and business strategy, global governance, global environmental change, and so on, is preferred. The successful candidate is expected to lead the Centre's research activities in ONE key sector and participate in the relevant research group in the host department (Economics, Geography, Political Science or Sociology).

Terms and Conditions

The terms and conditions for the Postdoctoral Fellowship (PDF) are as follows:

1. Contract to be awarded till end September 2018.
2. An Annual Base Salary between S$66,000 and S$85,000 per year, depending on experience and disciplinary background.
3. Singapore citizens and permanent residents are eligible for provident fund benefits.
4. Travel Assistance may be provided for eligible candidates.
5. Medical benefits in accordance with the Medical Benefit Plan.
6. Vacation leave of 28 days per calendar year.

Other benefits that the University provides and information about working in NUS and living in Singapore are available at <http://www.nus.edu.sg/careers>. Terms and conditions, according to university guidelines, are subject to changes without prior notice.

Application

All applications, including a covering letter detailing research interests, publication track record and plans, as well as a CV and the names of two academic referees, and queries should be submitted via email to Dr. Aidan Wong (aidanwong@nus.edu.sg) as soon as possible. The review for the positions will begin on 1 November 2016, and the search will continue until the appointment is made.

Start Date: 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2017

Purdue University

Rank: Post doctoral fellowship

Tecumseh Postdoctoral Announcement

Purdue University invites applicants for two postdoctoral positions for the 2017-2018 academic year. A second year of funding could be available depending upon discipline specific interest of the applicant. We seek candidates who will have completed their PhD program before August 2017, with demonstrated potential for scholarly contribution including publications. Potential college placements include: Agriculture, Engineering, Health and Human Services, Krannert School of Management, Liberal Arts, Pharmacy, Science, or Veterinary Medicine. Please visit the homepage of each college to determine the broad diversity of disciplines and programs available. (http://www.purdue.edu/purdue/about/colleges_schools.html). The Tecumseh

Postdoctoral program was established to support Native American participation in the University at all levels. Scholars in this program will be expected to interact with our vibrant community of Native and Indigenous undergraduate and graduate students, including participating in ongoing programs coordinated through the Purdue Native American Educational and Cultural Center (<http://www.purdue.edu/naecc/>). A current initiative of the NAEECC is developing and strengthening existing partnerships with Native communities to better serve their students and practical concerns. Postdoctoral scholars will be expected to mainly to conduct research to address fundamental questions in their area of expertise, but also to participate in the above programs by, for example, presenting and participating in seminars, and mentoring students.

The Tecumseh Scholars program was created through the Provost's Diversity Transformation Award, an initiative aimed at increasing diversity and inclusion at Purdue University. The Sloan Indigenous Graduate Partnerships at Purdue (funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation) has produced 21 alumni who are now actively engaged in academia, industry, and tribal affairs across the United States. Purdue has a wide range of networking, professional development, and community engagement opportunities for postdoctoral scholars, and successful applicants will be based in a collaborating department appropriate to the disciplines. We are especially interested in candidates who are considering academic career and who could later apply for a faculty position. Applications should include a pdf file comprised of a cover letter, CV, copies of recent publications, names and contact information of individuals for 3 reference letters, a titles statement of proposed research interests, identification of home department and potential faculty collaborators at Purdue, and a statement describing participation in diversity initiatives, and involvement in Native American communities. Salary is $50,00 plus benefits. All materials should be emailed to Professor Dawn G. Marsh (dmarsh@purdue.edu). Applications will be accepted until the positions are filled. Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2062

University of South Dakota

Rank: Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice

The University of South Dakota
Criminal Justice Studies Program
Assistant Professor

The Criminal Justice Studies Program at the University of South Dakota invites applicants for a full-time, tenure track position at the Assistant Professor rank. Area of specialization is law enforcement. The ideal candidate will also have the ability to teach corrections or penology and may be asked to deliver some courses online.

The University of South Dakota is the state's flagship liberal arts institution with a "higher research" (R2) Carnegie Classification. We seek a candidate who possesses a commitment to excellence in teaching, student mentoring, and research within the context of a strong liberal arts program. The successful candidate will be expected to maintain an active research agenda, share in the work of a vibrant department and apply his or her professional expertise in the service of the university, community and discipline. The CJUS program enjoys major endowments that support faculty research and extensive international/domestic off-campus study opportunities for its majors.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in criminal justice on the date of appointment. A J.D. or master's degree alone is insufficient qualification for this position. This is a nine-month, tenure track position with a start date of August 22, 2017.

Review of applications will begin October 21, 2016 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired.

Applications MUST be submitted on-line at <https://yourfuture.sdbor.edu>. A complete application consists of a letter of application, current resume, unofficial graduate transcripts, three letters of reference, teaching portfolio (course evaluations, philosophy of teaching statement, and/or sample syllabi), and at least one article-length writing sample. Materials that cannot be uploaded should be sent to Dr. William D. Richardson c/o the Criminal Justice Search Committee.

Questions may be directed to Criminal Justice Search Committee, Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice, University of South Dakota, 414 East Clark Street, Vermillion, SD 57069-2390, 605/677-5242 or William.Richardson@usd.edu.

The University of South Dakota is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty, staff and students.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2056

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Term Teaching Faculty

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Africa

Instructor (Non-Tenure, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a non-tenure track term teaching faculty position at the Instructor rank to begin August 2017. The position will support the Department's teaching and research mission in the areas of non-profit and civil society studies, public policy, nongovernmental organizations, and/or development.

Teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department. Specifically, this position will be charged with teaching courses in Non-Profit and Civil Society Studies, Public Policy, and Nongovernmental Organizations.

Required qualifications include a PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or a closely related field in hand by August 2017. The faculty member should have an established record of excellence in teaching. A regional concentration is also preferred to support the Department's Comparative Politics undergraduate concentration. The faculty member will have demonstrated experience working and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit a CV, cover letter, names of three references and evidence of excellence in teaching with your online application. Questions should be directed to Dr. John Aughenbaugh at jmaughenbaug@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2016. Start date will be August 16, 2017.

Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 2055

Boston College

Rank: Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Journalism

Boston College: Morrissey College of Arts & Sciences
Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Journalism
Location: Chestnut Hill, MA

Boston College invites applications in an open-discipline search for a tenure-track position that will contribute to our growing journalism program. The appointment, beginning in Fall 2017, is anticipated to be at the level of Assistant Professor; in exceptional cases, a higher-level appointment may be considered. The holder of this position, based in the appropriate home department in the Morrissey College of Arts and Sciences, will help design and lead a new interdisciplinary journalism minor.

QUALIFICATIONS

Preference will be given to candidates with an advanced degree (Ph.D., M.F.A., and equivalents) as well as meaningful experience in journalism, a significant scholarly record, and the capacity to teach and collaborate in a liberal arts curriculum that features several interdisciplinary programs.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Submit letter of application, CV, writing sample of no more than 25 pages, and three letters of reference to apply.interfolio.com/37516. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016. Questions: carlo.rotella@bc.edu.

This institution is using Interfolio's ByCommittee to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge.

For help signing up, accessing your account, or submitting your application please check out our help and support section or get in touch via email at help@interfolio.com or phone at (877) 997-8807.

Boston College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of any legally protected category including disability and protected veteran status. To learn more about how BC supports diversity and inclusion throughout the university please visit the Office for Institutional Diversity at <http://www.bc.edu/offices/diversity>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2048

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor International Relations with Environmental Focus

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas invites applicants from well-qualified individuals for a full-time, nine-month tenure-track position in International Relations. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level commencing fall 2017. The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in International Relations. The department is open with regard to specialization but has particular needs in areas including but not limited to global environmental politics and/or conflict. Preferred qualifications include the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in research methods. Other responsibilities include: engaging in research leading to scholarly, peer-reviewed publications; mentoring undergraduate and graduate students; and providing appropriate levels of service at the department, college and university levels. The department offers BA, MA, and PhD degrees in Political Science.

For more information go to:

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176341945&Title=Assistant%20Professor%20International%20Relations%20With%20Environmental%20Focus%20%5B17036%5D&aID=584>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2045

University of California-San Diego

Rank: UC San Diego Interdisciplinary Initiative: Exploring the Basis of Human Knowledge, Learning and Creativity Tenure-Track and Tenured

University of California San Diego

UC San Diego Interdisciplinary Initiative: Exploring the Basis of Human Knowledge, Learning and Creativity Tenure-Track and Tenured

The University of California, San Diego has a long-standing commitment to interdisciplinary research. Building on this foundation, we are launching a campus-wide initiative to hire four or more tenure-track or tenured faculty conducting innovative interdisciplinary research with the broad goal of understanding human knowledge, learning and creativity. We seek candidates with research interests in one or more of following four focal areas:

Social basis of human knowledge, learning and creativity. Candidates investigating social institutions and practices (e.g., how different types of institutions circulate forms of knowledge within society) are encouraged to apply.

For Assistant level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01122>.

For Associate or Early Full Professor level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01121>.

Political and economic intersections with human knowledge, learning and creativity. Candidates studying how political or economic forces affect human knowledge, learning and creativity, using theoretical or empirical approaches that can be used to inform public policy, are encouraged to apply.

For Assistant level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01125>.

For Associate or Early Full Professor level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01126>

Cultural basis of human knowledge, learning and creativity. Candidates studying how culture shapes what we know and how we learn, and/or how knowledge, learning, and creativity are produced or contested within cultural communities are encouraged to apply.

For Assistant level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01119>.

For Associate or Early Full Professor level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01120>

Biological basis of knowledge, learning and creativity. Candidates using computational, systems, behavioral, and/or cognitive neuroscience approaches to understand the brain mechanisms of knowledge, learning, and creativity in human and/or animal models are encouraged to apply.

For Assistant level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01113>.

For Associate or Early Full Professor level candidates: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01114>

Appointments will be made jointly between at least two departments and across at least two divisions to spur interdisciplinary work. The divisions/units include but are not limited to: the Division of Social Sciences, the Division of Arts and Humanities, the Division of Biological Sciences, the Division of Physical Sciences, the Jacobs School of Engineering, School of Medicine, the School of Global Policy and Strategy, Scripps Institution of Oceanography, Skaggs School of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Science, and the Rady School of Management.

Assistant Professor candidates must have Ph.D. completed at the time of appointment and show great promise in teaching, service and research. The preferred candidate will be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity.

Associate-level or Early Full Professor candidates must hold a Ph.D. and show evidence of an outstanding independent research program along with strong teaching ability and service commitment. The preferred candidate should have evidence of meaningful and strong contributions to diversity.

Candidates may apply to one or more of the above four areas. The initial deadline for applications is September 30, 2016, and the review of applications will continue until the positions are filled. UC San Diego is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

The level of appointment and salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on UC pay schedules.

To apply: All candidates should submit a letter of interest that describes their background, research interests, and teaching experience, along with their curriculum vitae, up to three writing samples/publications, and a statement that summarizes their past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information). Application materials, along with the contact information for three individuals who can provide letters of reference, should be submitted in PDF format via UCSD's AP On-Line RECRUIT, an electronic job application system.

For applicants with interest in spousal/partner employment, please see <http://academicaffairs.ucsd.edu/aps/partneropp/index.html> for the UC San Diego Partner Opportunities Program.

UC San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to gender, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, age or protected status.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2022

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Assistant Professor (study of Muslims/Islam in America)

The College of Liberal Arts at the University of Minnesota—Twin Cities and the Religious Studies Program invite applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position at the assistant professor level in the study of Muslims/Islam in America to begin fall semester 2017 (08/28/2017). We seek intellectually ambitious candidates with interdisciplinary aptitude, poised to become leaders in the field. A Ph.D. in Religious Studies or other related field is required by the start date, August 28, 2017.

Possible areas of specialization include, but are not limited to,

- History of Muslims/Islam in North America
- Religious experience or expression of Muslims in North America
- Social/political experience of the Muslim diaspora in North America
- Gender, race, class, identity issues related to Muslim experience in North America

Successful candidates will be expected to demonstrate a strong foundation in the academic study of religion and their specific research area, ability to work across disciplinary boundaries, and evidence or potential for a strong research profile and excellence in teaching.

Applications must be submitted online at <http://humanresources.umn.edu/jobs>. Click the Apply button and search for Job Opening ID #312745. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach (1) a cover letter describing your interest in the position, your research interests, and your qualifications and experience, and (2) your curriculum vitae. A writing sample (3) of not more than 40 pages must be attached as an additional document through your "My Activities" page.

Three letters of reference in pdf form should be sent separately by their authors to the search committee chair at rels@umn.edu. Candidates who make the initial cut will be asked for a philosophy of teaching statement, sample syllabi, and/or course evaluations.

Application deadline: October 17, 2016

Preliminary interviews at AAR/SBL in San Antonio, November 19-21. Inquiries should be directed to search committee chair, Jeanne Kilde, jkilde@umn.edu, <http://religiousstudies.umn.edu/>

The University of Minnesota provides equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. <http://diversity.umn.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2012

The Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Philosophy, Ethics of Border

The Department of Philosophy at Penn State University [<http://philosophy.la.psu.edu>] invites applications for a tenure track position, at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, beginning Fall 2017. The Department seeks scholars whose teaching and research center on the Ethics of Borders. Specifically, the scholar will engage in work that illuminates the many inter-related philosophical, ethical, political, and legal questions arising from the increased movement of people within and across national boundaries – including refugees fleeing persecution; other forced migrants such as those fleeing violence, poverty, and the effects of climate change; and migrant workers seeking economic stability. Area of Specialization: Ethics and/or Political Philosophy, with emphasis on the ethics of immigration, migration, citizenship, or related areas. The ideal candidate will complement the department's existing strengths in social and political philosophy, feminist philosophy, critical philosophy of race, and Continental philosophy. Preference will be given to candidates whose work is informed by an engagement with the history of philosophy and who have a demonstrated ability to promote dialogue across philosophical traditions. Minimum qualifications: PhD in philosophy or related fields. Penn State (www.psu.edu) is embarking on a transformative series of co-funded hires in ethics designed to ensure that Penn State becomes a leader in ethics informed interdisciplinary research and the integration of ethical literacy throughout the Penn State curriculum. This is one of twelve tenure-track appointments funded by the University to augment the Penn State mission in this important area. Co-funded faculty will be hosted as affiliate faculty in the Penn State Rock Ethics Institute (rockethics.psu.edu). We are seeking candidates who will build on the Rock Ethics Institute's tradition of excellence in collaborative, interdisciplinary ethics research and ethically informed decision support for significant societal issues, as well as their success in integrating ethics into the curriculum. We are looking for individuals who will be effective in working on and leading interdisciplinary teams that embed ethical analysis into research projects including decision support research, and who have experience and interest in integrating ethics in undergraduate and graduate curricula. Faculty who are hired will receive a one-course release for the first five years designed to enhance collaboration with faculty and students on existing ethics research and curricular initiatives, as well as building new initiatives and programs in conjunction with the Institute's mission.

Interested applicants should submit the following materials: (1) a cover letter (2) a Curriculum Vitae, (3) a 3-5 page research statement, (4) a one-page teaching statement, (5) the contact information of 3-5 professional references, and (6) the application materials are to include a statement of how the candidate's work is relevant to the vision of the University and specifically the place of Rock Institute within it; and how such a position is likely to augment their own work. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Apply online at <https://psu.jobs/job/66435> We encourage applications from individuals of diverse backgrounds. Inquires about the position may be directed to vpm102@psu.edu.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/10/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1988

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

PSU Job #: 66446

Department: Africana Research Center

Fixed Term 1

8/17/16 until filled

Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Africana Research Center invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral fellowship in any aspect of African, African American and Diaspora Studies, beginning August 2017. During their residency, fellows have no teaching or administrative responsibilities, though they may request a teaching assignment. They will be matched with a mentor, attend professional development sessions and other relevant events, and be expected to be active in Penn State's community of Africana researchers. Successful applicants must have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. within the previous four academic years. Salary/benefit package is competitive.

To be considered for this position, submit complete application packets including cover letter describing your research and goals for the fellowship year, a curriculum vita (6 page maximum), and a writing sample of no more than 30 double-spaced pages. Apply online at <https://psu.jobs/job/66446>. Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Three letters of reference should be addressed to the attention of the ESSS Selection Committee and submitted as e-mail attachments to africanacenter@la.psu.edu. Please direct questions about the process via e-mail to africanacenter@la.psu.edu.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Penn State is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2008

College of William & Mary

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in European and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in European and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies

The Programs in European Studies and Russian/Post-Soviet Studies at the College of William and Mary seek applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level, beginning in August 2017.

We are two strong, interdisciplinary area studies programs at one of the best small public universities in the United States, and we are seeking a colleague with a commitment to excellence in teaching and research.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D at the time of appointment (August 10, 2017). The candidate must have demonstrated excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Candidates from all disciplines in the social sciences and humanities with appropriate expertise will be considered, pending department approval. The appointment will be jointly held in the Global Studies Program and in a host department appropriate for the candidate's discipline. Research and teaching expertise in fields such as state socialism, the First and/or Second World Wars, post-socialist societies, migration, regionalism, and identity politics are particularly welcome. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment and a demonstrated interest in comparative and trans-regional scholarship and teaching. Candidates must possess the skills to teach compelling undergraduate courses in both Russian and Post-Soviet Studies (RPSS) and European Studies (ES), as well as in the candidate's home department. The successful candidate will be expected to teach "Introduction to European Studies" and "Introduction to Russian and Post-Soviet Studies," as well as topics courses and research seminars for both programs.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including statement of research and teaching interests, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation, at least one of which must speak directly to teaching ability. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference.

For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, October 7, 2016. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

The College of William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/7/2016

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1995

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Service (Urban Planning)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Economic Policy, Energy Policy

New York University's Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in urban studies with appointment to begin September 1, 2017. Applicants must have a doctoral degree in a relevant discipline.

We seek applicants who are enthusiastic about working in a multidisciplinary environment and in a school of public service, where innovative and cross-disciplinary research is valued, and where local and global perspectives are brought into dialogue. Candidates should have strong research interests and demonstrated capacity in one or more substantive areas of relevance for this position, including urban planning, environmental planning and ecosystems management, geography, public policy, political science, sociology, or economics. The new faculty member will play a leadership role in research, teaching (including core courses), and program development.

NYU Wagner, which was established in 1938, is a multidisciplinary school that prepares public service leaders to translate ideas into actions that have an effective and lasting impact on the public good. The School's nearly 40 full-time faculty members are trained in a wide variety of disciplines and share a commitment to addressing issues of public importance in their teaching and research. Wagner faculty members collaborate with other schools and departments across the university, including the Stern School of Business; the Steinhardt School of Education; School of Law; Politics, Economics, Sociology, and Metropolitan Studies departments; the Marron Institute for Urban Management, the Center for Urban Science and Progress, the Furman Center for Real Estate and Urban Policy, the Rudin Center for Transportation, and the College of Global Public Health. An important focus of these collaborations is research on how to manage urban growth, promote urban equity, and foster urban resilience.

Candidates should complete the application available via the URL below and submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, short writing sample, and three letters of reference.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/36509>

NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and is strongly committed to diversity within its community.

Applications received by January 8, 2017 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1990

U.S. Naval War College

Rank: Associate or Full Professor of National Security Affairs (Open Rank)

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, Leadership Studies

Associate or Full Professor of National Security Affairs (Open Rank)

Join the faculty of one of the nation's largest and most vibrant graduate teaching departments in the interdisciplinary field of national and international security studies. The Department of National Security Affairs at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island seeks to fill one vacancy beginning no later than July 2017. We invite applications from exceptionally qualified senior scholars who are highly motivated to teach security studies courses within the resident master degree programs of the world's oldest graduate institution of professional military education. We are a blended faculty of scholars and practitioners providing professional education to motivated mid-career students who are military and civilian national security professionals from the United States and more than sixty partner countries preparing to become the senior national security leaders of tomorrow.

Qualifications. Candidates must have a significant amount of relevant academic or professional experience that would justify appointment at the rank of either associate professor or professor. An earned Ph.D. is required in a discipline that is directly relevant for at least one of the following fields: 1) international relations and regional security studies; 2) foreign policy analysis and U.S. foreign policy; or, 3) leadership studies. Strongest consideration will be given to candidates with expertise encompassing at least two of these fields. The department is especially interested in building on its strengths at the intersection of leadership studies and national security, and in regional security studies for Europe and Russia. Additional desirable qualifications include: relevant applied professional experience such as in government or international organizations; demonstrated teaching excellence (preferably at the graduate level); a strong scholarly record and future potential for research and publication; and, a demonstrated commitment to collegiality and an interdisciplinary ethos.

Responsibilities. Specific responsibilities include: teaching within two distinctive common core graduate-level security studies survey courses; collaborating in the development of common core curricula including individual class sessions; developing and teaching elective courses; scholarly research and publication; and, college service. There is no requirement or expectation to attract external funding. Maximum teaching load excluding optional elective classes is 2/2/0 based on a 10-month trimester system. This involves teaching up to two seminar sections (single preparation) of no more than 16 students in the fall and winter trimesters, with a spring trimester and summer inter-semester period devoted primarily to research, curriculum development, and college service. All positions are year-round (12-month). Initial appointment is for a multi-year contract that is renewable thereafter on an ongoing basis provided that performance expectations are met. The college is a non-tenure granting institution but has a long record of extremely high levels of faculty retention.

About the Institution. The U.S. Naval War College is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges to award master of arts degrees in Defense and Strategic Studies (for our intermediate-rank students), and National Security and Strategic Studies (for our senior-rank students). The college is dual accredited by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to award certification in Joint Professional Military Education Phase 1 & 2.

Salary Considerations. Salary is competitive and is accompanied by a generous federal civil service package that includes health insurance, pension and retirement savings plans (with employer matching contributions), paid vacation and sick leave, and other benefits. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with the Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Application Process. Applications will be accepted through October 9, 2016 and must include the following: 1) a detailed cover letter that addresses the qualifications noted above; 2) a comprehensive CV; and, 3) prior teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. In addition, applicants for associate professor rank must arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent separately, and applicants for full professor rank must provide three professional references for the search committee to contact. Applicants with current or previous military service should provide military ranks and dates of service.

Applications should clearly indicate the rank being applied for and reference VA#NWC-16-17. Please submit complete applications by email to NSAvacancy@usnwc.edu. Signed letters of reference may also be sent to this email (preferred method) or they may also be mailed to:

Department of National Security Affairs
U.S. Naval War College
686 Cushing Road
Newport, RI 02841-1207
ATTN: Jill Marion

Please direct any questions to the Department Chair, Prof. David Cooper, at david.cooper@usnwc.edu. The U.S. Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/9/2016

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1991

University of Southern California

Rank: Robert F. Erburu Chair in Ethics, Globalization, and Development

Robert F. Erburu Chair in Ethics, Globalization, and Development
University of Southern California

The Dana and David Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles, California) invites applications for the Robert F. Erburu Chair in Ethics, Globalization, and Development. The successful candidate will bring a distinguished record of innovative research and publication, embodying interdisciplinary approaches to globalization and development. We are particularly interested in a scholar who combines International Relations with either Gender Studies or Environmental Studies. Candidates with distinguished practical or policy experience are welcome to apply. The applicant must hold a Ph.D. degree. The holder of the Erburu Chair will be tenured at the full professor level in the School of International Relations, with secondary appointments in other units as appropriate. Review of applications will begin immediately and candidates should submit their materials by November 1, 2016, to receive full consideration. The appointment is anticipated to begin on August 16, 2017.

Applicants are required to complete the on-line application process. To apply, follow this link or paste in a browser: <http://jobs.usc.edu/postings/74486>. Minimum required materials include a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, and the names of three references who may be contacted by USC. Inquiries may be sent to: lcole@usc.edu.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 9/8/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1999University of West Georgia*Rank: Professor and Chair

The Department of Political Science at the University of West Georgia invites applications for a department chair. Appointment to the position starts on July 1, 2017.

We seek an individual whose record qualifies for appointment at the rank of full professor with tenure, and who brings relevant academic and administrative experience as department chair. We welcome applications from scholars in all subfields within political science, public administration, public policy, or a related field.

Serving approximately 150 undergraduate majors and 40 graduate students, the Department of Political Science offers BS and BA degrees in Political Science, BS degree in Organizational Leadership, a minor in public administration, a NASPAA-accredited MPA, and graduate certificates in Non-Profit Management, Public Management, and Disaster Management. The BS degrees and MPA are offered fully online and face-to-face.

The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 17 full-time faculty and staff, teach, conduct research, oversee and engage in departmental operations including budgetary management, and serve as a member of the College's senior leadership team.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science, public administration, public policy or related field along with a demonstrated record of excellence in (1) teaching, (2) scholarly achievement, and (3) administrative leadership. Successful candidate must demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion, the ability to engender mutually beneficial community partnerships, and excellent communication, mentoring, and organizational skills. This is a 12-month appointment, and the salary is commensurate with rank.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest that addresses the academic and administrative qualifications for this position, a curriculum vitae, and contact information of three references. These materials should be sent in PDF format to Dr. Lisa Gezon, Search Committee Chair, at uwgpschairsearch@gmail.com.

Screening of applications begins October 1, 2016. Finalists will be required to submit to criminal background check. The University of West Georgia is an Affirmative Action/ Equal Employment Opportunity Employer/Americans with Disabilities Act institution. As a result, we welcome applications from all minority groups.

Located 45 miles west of Atlanta, the University of West Georgia is classified as a Comprehensive University by the University System of Georgia. On a residential campus with over 13,000 students, the university offers more than 100 degree programs at the baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral levels. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <http://www.westga.edu/polisci>

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 10/8/2016Date Posted: 9/8/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1994U.S. Naval War College*Rank: Assistant Professor of National Security Affairs*Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, Leadership Studies

Assistant Professor of National Security Affairs

Join the faculty of one of the nation's largest and most vibrant graduate teaching departments in the interdisciplinary field of national and international security studies. The Department of National Security Affairs at the U.S. Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island seeks to fill two full-time vacancies beginning no later than July 2017. We invite applications from exceptionally qualified junior scholars who are highly motivated to teach security studies courses within the resident master degree programs of the world's oldest graduate institution of professional military education. We are a blended faculty of scholars and practitioners providing professional education to motivated mid-career students who are military and civilian national security professionals from the United States and more than sixty partner countries preparing to become the senior national security leaders of tomorrow.

Qualifications. Candidates must possess an earned Ph.D. in a discipline that is directly relevant for at least one of the following fields: 1) international relations and regional security studies; 2) foreign policy analysis and U.S. foreign policy; or, 3) leadership studies. Strongest consideration will be given to candidates with expertise encompassing at least two of these fields. The department is especially interested in building on its strengths at the intersection of leadership studies and national security, and in regional security studies including for Europe and Russia. Additional desirable qualifications include: relevant applied professional experience such as in government or international organizations; demonstrated teaching excellence; a scholarly record that demonstrates significant future potential for research and publication; and, a demonstrated commitment to collegiality and an interdisciplinary ethos. Ph.D. candidates are welcome to apply if they can provide strong evidence that the Ph.D. will be awarded by July 2017. This position is open to U.S. citizens eligible to obtain a Secret security clearance.

Responsibilities. Specific responsibilities include: teaching within two distinctive common core graduate-level security studies survey courses; collaborating in the development of common core curricula including individual class sessions; developing and teaching elective courses; scholarly research and publication; and, college service. There is no requirement or expectation to attract external funding. Maximum teaching load excluding optional elective classes is 2/2/0 based on a 10-month trimester system. This involves teaching up to two seminar sections (single preparation) of no more than 16 students in the fall and winter trimesters, with a spring trimester and summer inter-semester period devoted primarily to research, curriculum development, and college service. All positions are year-round (12-month). Initial appointment is for a multi-year contract that is renewable thereafter on an ongoing basis provided that performance expectations are met. The college is a non-tenure granting institution but has a long record of extremely high levels of faculty retention. However, assistant professors are expected successfully to promote to associate professor before the end of their sixth year in order to remain beyond this period.

About the Institution. The U.S. Naval War College is accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges to award master of arts degrees in Defense and Strategic Studies (for our intermediate-rank students), and National Security and Strategic Studies (for our senior-rank students). The college is dual accredited by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to award certification in Joint Professional Military Education Phase 1 & 2.

Salary Considerations. Salary is competitive and is accompanied by a generous federal civil service package that includes health insurance, pension and retirement savings plans (with employer matching contributions), paid vacation and sick leave, and other benefits. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with the Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Application Process. Applications will be accepted through October 9, 2016 and must include the following: 1) a detailed cover letter that addresses the qualifications noted above; 2) a comprehensive CV; 3) prior teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; and, 4) applicants must arrange for three letters of recommendation to be sent separately. Applicants with current or previous military service should also provide military ranks and dates of service.

Applications referencing VA#NWC-16-18 should be submitted by email to NSAvacancy1@usnwc.edu. Signed letters of reference may also be sent to this email (preferred method) or they may also be mailed to:

Department of National Security Affairs
U.S. Naval War College
686 Cushing Road
Newport, RI 02841-1207
ATTN: Jill Marion

Please direct any questions to the Department Chair, Prof. David Cooper, at david.cooper@usnwc.edu. The U.S. Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 10/9/2016
Date Posted: 9/7/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1978

University of Michigan

Rank: Project Director/Research Scientist

The Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR), a center in the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan, is recruiting a senior social scientist to direct the Resource Center for Minority Data (<http://www.icpsr.umich.edu/icpsrweb/RCMD/>). We seek an experienced researcher who will engage in outreach and education to the research community, encouraging and supporting data sharing and data use on minority-related issues. We are particularly interested in someone who can expand RCMD's data resources to include administrative and other naturally occurring data and researchers addressing issues related to data access itself, such as the digital divide, or other research areas grounded in data on minorities, including health disparities, poverty and inequality, and minority entrepreneurship. The person selected for this position will hold a research faculty appointment at ICPSR and as well as an appropriate academic unit at the University of Michigan. For a full description please visit http://umjobs.org/job_detail/129417/director_resource_center_for_minority_data_rcmd

Screening of applications will begin 1 November 2016 and continue until the position is filled. To apply, please submit a cover letter, a CV, relevant writing samples, and contact information for three references to Margaret Levenstein, Director, Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research, Institute for Social Research, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106-1248 at rcmd-search@umich.edu.

The University of Michigan is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and welcoming university community. Potential applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: 10/31/2016
Date Posted: 9/7/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1983

James Madison University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Justice Studies at James Madison University invites applications for a tenure track position at the assistant professor level to teach in its global justice track. Minimal qualifications are a PhD or an MA plus relevant career experience. Desirable global justice courses include but are not limited to ones which focus on humanitarian affairs, nongovernmental organizations, policy related courses and ones which will be of relevance to the department's other two tracks in crime and criminology and social justice. The successful candidate will have evidence of teaching experience and teaching excellence. Justice Studies is an interdisciplinary department with faculty from a number of academic disciplines. We are especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

James Madison University is an equal opportunity employer committed to creating and supporting a diverse and inclusive work and educational community that is free of all forms of discrimination. This institution does not tolerate discrimination or harassment on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, parental status, political affiliation, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status. We promote access, inclusion, and diversity for all students, faculty, staff, constituents, and programs, believing that these qualities are foundational components of an outstanding education in keeping with our mission. The University is interested in candidates whose experience and qualifications support an ongoing commitment to this core quality. Anyone having questions concerning discrimination should contact the Office for Equal Opportunity: (540) 568-6991.

Candidates should submit application materials to JMU job link: <https://www.jmu.edu/humanresources/emp/joblink.shtml>

Review of applications will begin on October 3. The position will be filled pending budgetary approval.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1957

NYU Shanghai

Rank: FACULTY POSITION, Data Science, NYU Shanghai

FACULTY POSITION

Data Science

NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai is currently inviting applications for a tenured or tenure-track position (rank open) for outstanding candidates with demonstrated abilities in both research and teaching in applied Data Science. Candidates should have a substantive background and active research interests in the social sciences (other than economics), and be domain scientists in that sense. Candidates should also have interest and experience in Data Science methodology, broadly defined, and be using that knowledge to further their research agenda. Examples of techniques and areas with which candidates will be familiar might include supervised and unsupervised learning, pattern recognition, data mining, statistical modeling, natural language processing, high performance computing, and using 'text as data'. A PhD either in one of the social sciences or in a field related to Data Science (such as Computer Science or Statistics) is required, and an ideal candidate would have advanced degrees in both subjects.

When discussing their teaching experience, candidates should identify courses they could teach both within and outside their specialty. We expect a high degree of English fluency and clarity of articulation, as for many students who attend NYU Shanghai, English is not their native language. We consider the desire and ability to teach to be as important as research promise.

Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. by the time of appointment. Review of applications will begin October 5, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. The appointment could begin as soon as September 1, 2017, pending administrative and budgetary approval. The terms of employment in NYU Shanghai are comparable to those in U.S. institutions. Faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

Applicants should submit curricula vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, electronic copies of up to five recent relevant publications, and the names and addresses of three or more individuals willing to provide letters of reference. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.engineering.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within New York University's global network. It is the first higher education joint venture in China authorized to grant degrees that are accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, it resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community.

NYU Shanghai recruits scholars of the highest caliber who are committed to NYU's global vision of transformative teaching and innovative research and who embody the global society in which we live.

NYU's global network includes degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common research interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

NYU Shanghai is an equal opportunity employer committed to equity, diversity and social inclusion. We strongly encourage applications from individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, and gender and sexual identity. NYU Shanghai affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/5/2016

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1965

Smith College

Rank: Assistant Professor of English and the Study of Women & Gender

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Literature & Politics, Lesbian & Gay Studies

The Program for the Study of Women and Gender (SWG) and the Department of English Language & Literature at Smith College invite applications for an equally shared joint tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, to begin July 2017. We seek a scholar working at the intersection of questions of race, gender, and sexuality in literary and/or visual texts in the contemporary United States.

Successful candidates will demonstrate command of key methodological and theoretical perspectives in both gender studies and literary studies. We are particularly interested in candidates who work in women of color feminisms, Native and indigenous studies, Arab American and Latin@/x Studies; comparative work is welcome. Desirable additional fields or areas of strength include critical race theory, queer theory, drama and performance. We expect the successful candidate to have excellent preparation in literary texts from the twentieth century (and after), and interdisciplinary graduate training and teaching experience in women and gender studies. A Ph.D. in a relevant field is expected by the time of appointment.

The new hire would teach two courses each year in SWG (<http://www.smith.edu/swg/>) and two in English (<http://www.smith.edu/english/>). Both programs offer considerable freedom in curricular design. In SWG the successful candidate must be prepared to teach SWG 150, the major's interdisciplinary, team-taught introductory course. In English, the successful candidate would teach a balance of introductory, intermediate, and advanced seminar level courses.

Located in Northampton, MA, Smith College is the largest women's college in the country and is dedicated to excellence in teaching and research across the liberal arts. A faculty of outstanding scholars interact with students in small classes, as advisors, and through student-faculty research projects. Tenure-track faculty members enjoy a generous sabbatical policy. The Five College Consortium, comprised of Smith, Amherst, Mount Holyoke, and Hampshire Colleges and the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, provides a rich intellectual and cultural life and broad collegial opportunities.

Submit applications at <http://apply.interfolio.com/37193> with a letter of application, CV, and three confidential letters of recommendation. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016. Interviews with semifinalists will be held via video conference in early January 2017.

Diversifying the student body, faculty, administration, staff, and curriculum is crucial to the mission and vision for the College. We are committed to providing access and reasonable accommodation in the application process for individuals with disabilities and encourage applicants to request any needed accommodation(s). We value and are committed to a host of diverse populations and cultures, including but not limited to those based on ability, age, ethnicity, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, and veteran status.

Smith College is an EO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer. Women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1971

University of California, Davis

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Social Ecological Systems

Subfield(s): Other, Administration, Administration

Assistant or Associate Professor of Social Ecological Systems
Department of Environmental Science and Policy, University of California, Davis

Title: Assistant or Associate Professor of Social-Ecological Systems. The Department of Environmental Science and Policy in the College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences at the University of California, Davis is recruiting an Assistant/Associate Professor Social-Ecological Systems with a preferred emphasis in governance and quantitative approaches including but not limited to network analysis, mathematical models, computational models, and empirical research. The candidate will be part of a cluster hire in a new Network Science and Complex Systems group with membership that spans UC-Davis and provides opportunities for cutting-edge, integrative science. This is an academic year (9-month), Assistant/Associate Professor tenure-track/tenured position with teaching, research, outreach/engagement and service responsibilities.

Responsibilities:

The Department of Environmental Science and Policy is seeking applicants with a background in political or policy science, network science, sustainability science, decision science, systems modeling, or other disciplinary or interdisciplinary programs with rigorous quantitative training combined with knowledge of environmental governance and policy. The appointee is expected to establish a competitively funded research program that uses social-ecological approaches to address critical or emerging issues such as climate change, food security, invasive species, water management, energy systems, transportation, or other issues. The teaching load is 2.5 courses per year, including a general environmental science/policy course (e.g. ESP1 or 10), a graduate methods course that complements the network science and complex systems group, and a new undergraduate course on sustainability and social-ecological systems. Capacity to teach courses in environmental impact analysis (ESP179) or environmental law (ESP161) is also desirable. The appointee will regularly advise undergraduate and graduate students. Participation in and development of outreach/engagement programs, and performance of departmental and university service is expected. This position is expected to work with extension educators and partners in allied industries.

Qualifications:

Ph.D. or equivalent degree in a field of quantitative social science, network science, systems analysis, other discipline with rigorous quantitative training and knowledge of environmental policy and governance. Strong quantitative skills in network analysis, mathematical/computational models, and statistical analysis including programming tools for computational social science and data carpentry. Post-doctoral experience is preferred. Evidence of research excellence is expected. The candidate should have the ability to develop and instruct undergraduate and graduate courses and the ability to develop and conduct extramurally funded research in integrated science teams.

Salary:

Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applications:

Application materials must be submitted via the following website: <https://recruit.ucdavis.edu>. The position will remain open until filled. To ensure consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2016.

Required application materials include: 1) curriculum vitae including publication list, 2) up to three publications, 3) transcripts if the applicant is within five years of Ph.D. degree, 4) statement of research agenda including past accomplishments and future research plans relevant to position, 5) statement of teaching accomplishments and philosophy, 6) Statement of Contributions to Diversity; and 7) the names, addresses, including e-mail, of four professional references. Additional inquiries should be directed to recruitment chair Mark Lubell at mnlubell@ucdavis.edu; 530-752-5880.

UC Davis is an affirmative action/equal employment opportunity employer and is dedicated to recruiting a diverse faculty community. We welcome all qualified applicants to apply, including women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The UC Davis statement on diversity is available at http://academicaffairs.ucdavis.edu/diversity/equity_inclusion/index.html.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1979

Boise State University/School of Public Service

Rank: Director of Conflict Management

Boise State University
 School of Public Service
 Assistant or Associate Professor/Director of Conflict Management
 (1 Tenure-Track Position)
 Dept. of Public Policy & Administration
 Search #160254

Position Overview

Boise State University, powered by creativity and innovation, stands uniquely positioned in the Northwest as a metropolitan research university of distinction and has a Carnegie designation as a doctoral research institution. Boise State University is home to approximately 20,000 undergraduate and graduate students. The School of Public Service (SPS) is seeking to hire a tenure-track faculty member to direct its Conflict Management Program. Graduates with Conflict Management and Dispute Resolution certificates learn applied skill-sets in interpersonal relations, conflict management, mediation, and negotiation that enhance their abilities to succeed in a variety of public- and private-sector organizations. In addition to directing the Conflict Management Program, the successful applicant is expected to engage in (1) teaching--in a variety of formats and potentially within related interdisciplinary programs in the School of Public Service; (2) peer reviewed and public service scholarship; and (3) program, school, university, community, and professional service.

Essential Duties and Responsibilities

As Director of the Conflict Management Program and faculty member in the Department of Public Policy & Administration, School of Public Service, the ideal candidate will:

- Build and sustain partnerships to meet conflict management needs in the state of Idaho, including current arrangements that provide intern-mediators to Idaho's Fourth District Court, and work within the university to build transdisciplinary curriculum development.
- Demonstrate his/her ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the Conflict Management and Dispute Resolution certificates, as well as graduate courses in the Master of Public Administration (MPA) program and/or the PhD in Public Policy and Administration.

Minimum Qualifications

- An earned doctorate in an appropriate field with an emphasis in interpersonal or organizational conflict, mediation, or related discipline. Experience with collaborative processes or governance is also desirable.
- An ability to teach one or more courses in established SPS programs, including but not limited to the Dispute Resolution/Conflict Management curriculum, the MPA program, and/or the PhD in Public Policy and Administration: <https://sps.boisestate.edu/publicpolicy/course-descriptions/>.
- Demonstrated achievement through research, teaching, or experience in one or more of the following: mediation, organizational theory, interpersonal conflict, organizational conflict, conflict in the public sector, and/or collaborative processes or governance. Scholars with an interest in producing applied and/or scholarly work are welcome to apply.

Preferred Qualifications

- Candidates at the Associate or advanced Assistant level are preferred.

- Candidates demonstrating experience or proficiency in program administration are strongly encouraged to apply, as are applicants with interest or experience in advising graduate students.

Salary and Benefits: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

How to apply:

If interested in the position, please upload a letter of application (indicating your interest and qualifications for the position), curriculum vita, three letters of recommendation, a summary of teaching qualifications and achievements, and copies of representative publications or similar evidence of scholarly potential/record using the link below. Attn: Dr. Lori Hausegger, Search Chair.

Required steps to apply:

1. To upload application materials and apply online: <https://boisestate.taleo.net/careersection/ex/jobdetail.ftl?job=160254>
2. In addition to uploading the application materials to the link above, please send a copy of your curriculum vita and cover letter to: schoolofpublicservice@boisestate.edu Subject line: Attn: Dr. Lori Hausegger, Search #160254

Review of applicants will begin October 10, 2016 and continue until finalists are identified. Applications received after that point will be considered if the position is not filled from the finalist pool.

About the University: <http://www.boisestate.edu>

About the City of Boise: <http://boisechamber.org>

About the Department: <http://sps.boisestate.edu/publicpolicy>

About the School of Public Service: <http://sps.boisestate.edu/>

Boise State University is strongly committed to achieving excellence through cultural diversity. The University actively encourages applications and nominations of women, persons of color, and members of otherwise underrepresented groups.

EEO/AA Institution, Veterans preference.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1959

Colorado State University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Environmental Politics and Policy

The Department of Political Science at Colorado State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the area of Environmental Politics and Policy, with an emphasis on air quality, climate and/or health. We are open with respect to disciplinary sub-field, interdisciplinary emphasis, theoretical orientation and methodological approaches.

This position is part of an interdisciplinary University-wide cluster hire under the CSU Partnership for Air Quality, Climate, and Health (PACH) (<https://vrnet.research.colostate.edu/pach/>). The successful candidate will collaborate with faculty from the department and across the University and contribute to PACH through teaching, research and/or service activities.

The successful candidate will teach courses in the Department's Environmental Politics & Policy curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Additional teaching assignments will depend on the candidate's interests and expertise but will be based in the Political Science Department. The normal teaching load is 2-2. Faculty members advise and mentor graduate and undergraduate students, develop an active research agenda, and provide service to the department, college, university, and community.

Required Qualifications: Primary teaching and scholarly emphasis in environmental politics and policy; doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Policy, or closely related field conferred by the time of appointment (interdisciplinary degrees with substantial coursework related to environmental politics and policy may meet this requirement); evidence of an active research agenda in environmental politics and policy pertaining to air quality, climate, and/or health; and evidence of teaching effectiveness.

Preferred Qualifications: Ability to enhance the Department's commitment to diversity and inclusion reflecting Departmental and institutional values; experience working in an interdisciplinary environment; experience with externally funded research; experience working with or for the public or non-profit sectors.

To apply, submit submit 1) a letter of application outlining teaching interests and research agenda; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a statement of how teaching and research interests align with the Department's teaching and scholarship as well as PACH in the areas of air quality, climate and/or health (identify teaching interests including existing courses (<http://catalog.colostate.edu/general-catalog/courses-az/pols/>) and a new course); 4) graduate school transcripts (unofficial transcripts acceptable at the initial stage of the search); 5) evidence of demonstrated or potential teaching effectiveness (syllabi, teaching evaluations, letters of observation); 6) one sample of published or presented work; and 7) the names of three professional referees (the department will be asking for three letters of recommendation upon submission of application) to <http://jobs.colostate.edu/postings/36826>. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled; to ensure full consideration, applications should be received by October 3, 2016. Questions about the position can be directed to Sandra.Davis@colostate.edu.

CSU is an EO/EA/AA employer and conducts background check on all final candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1960

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites postdoctoral students who will be completing or will have recently completed a Ph.D. to apply for its Postdoctoral Democracy Fellowship. The Democracy Fellowships aim to support postdoctoral scholars whose research illuminates aspects of democratic governance in ways that are innovative and push the boundaries of their academic disciplines, whether political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. Furthermore, their research should have the potential for normative or practical relevance regarding urgent substantive policy or social problems related to democratic governance.

Postdoctoral Fellows join the Ash Center's academic community and participate in the Democracy Fellows weekly seminar. The fellowship provides time and space for the fellows to work on preparing either a book manuscript based on their dissertation or related academic publications. For more information about the Democracy Fellowships, see our Five-Year Retrospective (<http://ash.harvard.edu/democracyretrospective>) and the fellowship homepage (<http://ash.harvard.edu/democracy-postdoctoral-fellowships>).

Eligibility:

Preference will be given to postdoctoral scholars whose research interests coincide with the Ash Center's current focus on innovations in public participation and political participation in non-democracies. Eligible applicants will be completing or will have just recently completed dissertations—within the previous three years—in the fields of political theory, political philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. The duration of the fellowship is two academic years.

Benefits:

Fellows will receive a stipend of $60,000 annually, $2,500 per year for research during the fellowship, shared office space at the Ash Center, and access to Harvard's libraries and online library services. Fellowships for the 2017-2019 academic year begin in August 2017.

How to Apply:

Please complete the online application (available at https://harvard.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_1UrVmeLOiyViEvj) by October 1, 2016, for the 2017-2019 academic year. With questions please contact Hannah Hilligoss at hannah_hilligoss@hks.harvard.edu, Program and Research Assistant for the Democratic Governance Program.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1851

Princeton University Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar or Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Other

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars and/or post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the 2017-2018 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines at any career stage, but any applicant who has yet to complete the PhD must have turned in a final draft of the dissertation by July 1, 2017.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Please note that (only) candidates who currently hold faculty appointments and are applying to visit CSDP for 2017-2018 while on leave from their current institution must apply directly to CSDP at this link: https://csdpapp.princeton.edu/csdp_application.php. All others must apply online at <https://jobs.princeton.edu> -- Requisition # 1600740 and submit a cover letter (optional), CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names and email addresses of two references.

The deadline for receipt of complete applications, including letters of recommendation, is November 30, 2016 at 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions? Email csdp@princeton.edu or phone Michele Epstein, Assistant Director of CSDP, 609-258-6493.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the university's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/30/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1952

University of Michigan

Rank: Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship

Fellowship period: September 2017 – May 2018

Application deadline: January 15, 2017

The Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) at the University of Michigan invites postdoctoral scholars to apply for the Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship. The fellowship supports research on the broad historical, political, economic, and societal conditions under which democracies emerge—and autocracies endure.

Three awards are available in 2017-18. Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in WCED workshops and events, and present one public lecture during their fellowship year, while in residence at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

We welcome excellent applicants from all disciplines. Fellows must have successfully defended and filed their dissertation before beginning the fellowship. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received their PhD after January 1, 2015.

Fellowships carry a salary of $50,000 plus $2,000 in research funds, and will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning September 1, 2017 through May 31, 2018). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Candidates will be required to submit:

- A two-page research plan that outlines the research project and how the fellow will spend his/her time during the fellowship year.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter, conference paper, or journal article.
- Two letters of recommendation.

Fellowship applications must be received by January 15, 2017, 11:59 pm EST. Applicants will be notified in March 2017.

Application link available at <https://www.ii.umich.edu/wced/postdoctoral-fellows.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1779

Georgetown University

Rank: Endowed Chair, multiple openings

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University in Washington, DC invites applications for several new tenured Endowed Chair positions. The field and discipline are open and a truly exceptional record of research and teaching is required. Incumbents will teach courses in the McCourt School of Public Policy's graduate programs. The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift which allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, an Institute of Politics and Public Service, and other new initiatives and centers.

Electronic applications are strongly preferred and can be submitted at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7530>. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, but preference will be given to applications submitted prior to December 1, 2016.

Questions may be directed to Professor William Gormley at gormleyw@georgetown.edu

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1946

University of California, Santa Barbara

Rank: BERTELSEN PRESIDENTIAL CHAIR IN INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY AND SOCIETY

BERTELSEN PRESIDENTIAL CHAIR IN INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY AND SOCIETY

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, SANTA BARBARA

UC Santa Barbara, one of America's leading public research universities, seeks applicants for a faculty position and holder of the Bertelsen

Presidential Chair in Information Technology and Society. Applicants should have a distinguished record of empirical scholarship addressing societal, political, organizational, or cultural implications of the Internet and related information-based technologies. In particular we seek applications from scholars whose work shows intellectual leadership and engagement across disciplines. The Bertelsen chair holder will be expected to assume the directorship of the Center for Information Technology and Society (CITS) for at least three years. Established in 1999, CITS is a vibrant network of scholars dedicated to interdisciplinary research and education about the complex development, use, and effects of information technologies. The Center fosters research across the social sciences, humanities, and engineering. The appointment will be in the Departments of Sociology, Political Science, or Communication as appropriate, with an affiliation possible in other departments across campus. We are flexible with respect to discipline and applicants are especially invited in sociology, political science, communication, media studies, computational social science, and information science. The appointment will be made at the associate or full professor level.

Applicants should submit a cover letter highlighting qualifications, a curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information for three references to the appropriate sections of the job search website: <https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu/apply/JPF00811>. Questions should be directed to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Paul Leonardi, at <mailto:leonardi@tmp.ucsb.edu> or at 805-893-5414. This position will remain open until filled. For primary consideration all application materials, including names and contact information for three references, must be received by October 25, 2016. The Department is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching and service. The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/31/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1949Dartmouth College*Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social ScienceSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, OtherSpecializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for full-time appointment during the 2017-2018 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical and computational research techniques with contemporary social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health, the role of party networks in contemporary American politics, and methods for addressing post-treatment bias in experiments. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by attending seminars, consulting with faculty and students on research, etc. QSS fellows also join a broader community of postdoctoral social science researchers at Dartmouth that includes scholars at the Neukom Institute, the John Sloan Dickey Center, and the Dartmouth Society of Fellows.

The stipend for the QSS fellow is $50,000 with a $5,000 account available for equipment, travel, and research materials. Subject to consultation with the QSS Chair, there may be an opportunity for the fellow to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend. The fellowship can be extended through the 2018-2019 academic year subject to the approval of Nyhan and the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2017
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application Instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests no longer than two pages that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2016. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/37062.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/30/2016Salary: $50,000 - $59,999eJobs ID: 1934SUNY, Stony Brook University*Rank: Assistant Professor Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Africana Studies/Political Science. Applicants should demonstrate a proven commitment and capacity for high quality research and teaching, evidenced by publications as well as teaching evaluations, relative to experience. Teaching will include lower division courses, upper division courses in candidate's area of specialization, and graduate courses. 2/2 load with on-going scholarship and publication.

Qualifications:

Required: ABD or Ph.D. by time of appointment in African/Africana Studies or Political Science. Specialization in foreign policy international relations, politics, field experiments, human rights or social justice, and evidence of quantitative research with respect to Africa and the African diaspora.

Preferred: Scholarship and teaching within a transnational context (African diaspora with emphasis on the Caribbean and the US is preferred).

This is a joint position between the Department of Africana Studies and Political Science. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled but for best consideration, dossier should be completed October 31, 2016.

FLSA Exempt position, not eligible for the overtime provisions of the FLSA. Internal and external search to occur simultaneously. Anticipated Start Date: Fall 2017

The selected candidate must successfully clear a background investigation.

Application Procedure: Interested individuals should complete the Academic Jobs application process online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7607>. Interested candidates should submit a State employment application, curriculum vitae, cover letter, teaching statement and samples of written work. In addition, please arrange to have three letters of professional recommendation submitted on your behalf.

Alternatively, submit above mentioned materials to:
Search Committee Chair, Africana Studies/Political Science Search
Department of Africana Studies
S-249, Social and Behavioral Sciences Bldg.
Stony Brook University, Stony Brook, NY 11794-4340

STONY BROOK UNIVERSITY IS AN AFFIRMATIVE ACTION/
EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER. WE ENCOURAGE PRO-TECTED VETERANS, INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES, WOMEN AND MINORITIES TO APPLY.

IF YOU NEED A DISABILITY-RELATED ACCOMMODA-TION, PLEASE CALL THE UNIVERSITY HUMAN RESOURCE SERVICES DEPARTMENT AT (631) 632-6161 OR THE UNI-VERSITY HOSPITAL HUMAN RESOURCES DEPARTMENT
AT (631) 444-4700.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE TITLE II CRIME AWARENESS AND SECURITY ACT, A COPY OF OUR CRIME STATISTICS
IS AVAILABLE UPON REQUEST BY CALLING (631) 632-6350.
IT CAN ALSO BE VIEWED ON-LINE AT THE UNIVERSITY
POLICE WEBSITE AT <http://www.stonybrook.edu/police>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1828

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor of Political Science/Social Data

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position to start Fall 2017 for faculty whose substantive research interests are informed by, or inform the development of, data- or computationally-intensive techniques. We encourage applications at the assistant and early associate level but candidates at any level with exceptional records of accomplishment will be considered. The substantive research area is open although preference will be given to those candidates whose research agendas supplement existing areas of specialization within the department. Candidates should be able to contribute to our new undergraduate Social Data Analytics program (see <http://soda.la.psu.edu/>) and our graduate methods offerings. Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant release time. Candidates should have a record of publication in high-quality venues, external funding, and quality teaching credentials.

Candidates must have their Ph.D. in hand by appointment date. Application review will begin on October 1, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key) at <https://psu.jobs/job/66139>. All candidates should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1918

Saint John's University

Rank: Environmental Studies/Energy

The Environmental Studies Department at The College of Saint Benedict/Saint John's University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in fall 2017. Ph.D. in an interdisciplinary social science, environmental studies, or a related field preferred (ABD considered). Undergraduate teaching experience required. Preference will be given to candidates with training in interdisciplinary social sciences and expertise in energy and society. Teaching assignments will include shared responsibility for required courses in the environmental studies major and new upper-division courses on energy and society, the global transition to sustainability, or related topics in the candidate's areas of expertise supporting the Environmental Studies curriculum as appropriate. The ability to contribute to institutional UNFCCC/climate studies initiatives is also desirable. Applicants should be willing to direct undergraduate research, integrate campus and local sustainability issues into their teaching, and contribute to the institutions' Common Curriculum.

Saint John's University, a liberal arts college for men, and the College of Saint Benedict, a liberal arts college for women, are located four miles apart in Central Minnesota just outside St. Cloud and 70 miles from Minneapolis. Both are Catholic colleges in the Benedictine tradition, which emphasize quality teaching and a commitment to intercultural learning. Together, the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University offer a common undergraduate curriculum, identical degree requirements, and a single academic calendar. The colleges offer the distinct benefit of two nationally recognized Catholic, undergraduate institutions and one exceptional education. For further information, see <http://www.csbsju.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/26/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1906

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Senior Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Law, Other

Social Science, Humanities and Special Operations
 Department of Defense Analysis
 Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill a position as Senior Lecturer in international security with professional expertise in Special Operations. The successful candidate can be from any of a variety of academic disciplines in the social sciences or humanities. A broad knowledge of US national security policy, as well as of the relevant international security literature is required. The successful candidate will be expected to teach mid-career military officers from the Special Operations and Information Operations communities across all branches of the military and from allied countries, advise theses, and conduct research. Familiarity in the role of information in modern war is preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to engage senior civilian and military defense officials on a broad range of issues relevant to the education of students at NPS.

NPS provides graduate education to military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government. Preferred candidates will have teaching experience and a publication record commensurate with their academic experience. Candidates must also have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in areas outside of their own focus. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for those in lectureship positions ranges from four to six graduate courses per year. The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, about 120 miles south of San Francisco. The Defense Analysis Department offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to 150 in-resident students (on average), a faculty of 40-plus personnel, and three respected research centers, the Defense Analysis Department provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st Century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in any relevant Social Science or Humanities discipline (e.g., Sociology, Anthropology, History, the Classics, Philosophy, Political Science, Public Administration, Law, International Relations, Psychology, Economics, or other fields)
- U.S. citizenship is required. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Publication record commensurate with academic experience.

Additional preferred qualifications:

- Experience teaching graduate students.
- Extensive experience as a special operations professional in the US military.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 11/4/2016

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1901

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Director of School of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Other

The University of Massachusetts Amherst invites applications for the position of inaugural Director of the new School of Public Policy (SPP) at the University's flagship campus. We seek an outstanding and active scholar committed to the study of public problems and their resolution. The appointment will be made at the rank of Full Professor or advanced Associate Professor. Building on the success of the University's Center for Public Policy and Administration, the founding director will help to lead a faculty hiring strategy, elevate the visibility of SPP as a national and international hub for policy debates, and create multi-disciplinary programs that prepare students for lifelong engagement with public issues. The Director will work with faculty and other campus leaders to raise the profile of policy-relevant research on and beyond campus, build partnerships with other campus units that create joint opportunities for policy-related research and teaching, support faculty to increase public engagement with their research, and engage in fundraising working with development staff. The Director, who will report to the Dean of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS), will work with faculty to lead efforts to establish new opportunities for undergraduates in public policy and administration and expand existing graduate programs, working in collaboration with departments in the social sciences, natural sciences, public health, engineering, information and computer science and a variety of other fields. The SPP community is interested in problems connected to inequality and has a passion for social change and engaging policy problems at all levels, locally through internationally. The new Director will work collaboratively to develop innovative programs on our main campus in Amherst, with possible new operations in Massachusetts (Boston and Springfield) and Washington, DC where students will gain valuable experience in international, national, state, regional and local governance.

Requirements:

Candidates for Director must have a doctoral degree or equivalent and an exceptional record of research, teaching, and service sufficient to merit appointment as a tenured (full or associate) professor in one of the academic departments of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to research and to undergraduate and graduate education; a vision for how a new policy school will support the campus's strategic planning goals; a commitment to increase the diversity of the faculty, student body and curriculum; an ability to serve as a vigorous champion for public policy research and teaching; and an ability to work effectively across boundaries with faculty members, students, staff, administrators, and external constituencies.

Additional Information:

The university is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University of Massachusetts Amherst is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Because broad diversity is essential to an inclusive climate and critical to the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will holistically assess the many qualifications of each applicant and favorably consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with broadly diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds in educational, research or other work activities. We will also favorably consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic degree and career.

Application Instructions:

The appointment will be effective on or about September 1, 2017. Interested candidates should apply through Interview Exchange.

Candidates should include a curriculum vitae and a cover letter with a statement about the candidate's views on the role of public policy in a public research university, along with a concise description of the candidate's research and related accomplishments.

All applications will be treated as strictly confidential & letters of reference will only be requested for candidates who are finalists.

For full consideration, ensure that your application is received by October 3, 2016, but review of applications will continue until a suitable candidate pool has been identified.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1898

London School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

LSE values diversity and strives to promote equality at all levels.

For this post, we particularly welcome applications by women and ethnic minorities.

Department of Government

Assistant Professor in Political Science

Salary is competitive with Departments at our peer institutions worldwide and not less than £52,427 ($69,458) pa inclusive

The Department of Government at the LSE is looking to recruit a career-track Assistant Professor in Political Science with an emphasis on candidates whose research explores questions of political inequality, identity and representation with respect to gender and/or race.

The Department is working to extend its teaching and research coverage of gender and politics and/or race and politics, broadly defined, at the undergraduate, MSc and PhD levels. The position is open to candidates from across the discipline and with a wide range of methodological approaches and country or regional specialisms.

The successful candidate should normally have, or be close to obtaining (by 1 September 2017), a PhD in political science or a closely related field. Candidates should have excellent written and oral communication skills and relevant teaching experience. Candidates should also have an outstanding research track record and trajectory in this area, as evidenced by existing publications or potential to publish in top journals in political science or closely-related disciplines.

The other criteria that will be used when shortlisting for this post can be found on the person specification, which is attached to this vacancy on the LSE's online recruitment system.

In addition to a competitive salary the benefits that come with this job include an occupational pension scheme, a research incentive scheme with personal reward options, generous research leave (sabbatical) entitlement, a collegial faculty environment and excellent support, training and development opportunities.

To apply for this post, please go to www.lse.ac.uk/LSEJobs. If you have any queries about applying on the online system, or require an alternative format for the application, please e-mail: hr.jobs@lse.ac.uk

The closing date for receipt of applications is 22 September 2016 (23.59 UK time). We are unable to accept any late applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/22/2016

Date Posted: 8/24/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1880

Drexel University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor, Center for Science, Technology, and Society [STS], Drexel University

The Center for Science, Technology, and Society [STS] expects to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor. We invite applications for this expected position at this time. The successful applicant would begin September 1, 2017. This position continues the re-invigoration of the research potential of the STS Center at Drexel University, which included the successful recruitment of a new Director in 2011, an Assistant Professor and Associate Professor in 2012, and an Assistant Professor in 2013. The position will be a joint appointment with the successful candidate's appropriate disciplinary department (e.g. global studies, anthropology, history, political science, sociology, etc.)

We are primarily interested in candidates who investigate the social and political dimensions of information technologies and/or digital infrastructures, especially as those relate to uneven distributions of power. Faculty expertise could, for example, be in the historical, cultural and political dimensions of the development and use of smart grids, patient health records, or digital media; issues of privacy, surveillance and big data; changes in regulatory structures and policies related to information technologies; access to information technologies; and/or the identities and communities created in digital worlds. Although open to any areas of study, we encourage scholars with an international or comparative focus to apply. Computing and society are central to Drexel's strategic plan, and the STS Center would like our new colleague to contribute to this area. We are especially interested in applicants with grounding in the field of STS, and strong methodological skills (e.g., in-depth interviews, focus groups, archival research, fieldwork, GIS or statistics). Applicants' degrees could potentially be in science and technology studies, political science, sociology, anthropology, history, or other relevant fields. We expect that this person's research and teaching, at both undergraduate and graduate levels, will contribute to the STS graduate program and the successful applicant's disciplinary department, and that our new colleague will participate in and initiate collaborations across the Schools, Colleges, and Centers at Drexel.

Candidates should include: 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) up to three samples of your scholarly writing; and 4) the names, institutional affiliation, and email addresses only of at least three references. Please do not submit reference letters at this time as such letters will be requested at a later date for short-listed applicants. All applications must be submitted online at www.drexeljobs.com. The successful applicant must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. by August 15, 2017.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016 and continue until filled. Please address all queries to Prof. Kelly Joyce at kelly.a.joyce@drexel.edu.

Drexel University offers an attractive benefits package including tuition remission, a generous retirement package with matching funds (up to 11%) and an opportunity to join a talented team of professionals directly helping the University achieve its record growth and quality reputation.

Background investigations are required for all new hires as a condition of employment, after the job offer is made. Employment will be contingent upon the University's acceptance of the results of the background investigation.

Drexel University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. The Center for STS is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of our academic community.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1870

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Director of the Norman and Bernice Harris Center for Judaic Studies

We are seeking an exceptional and dynamic individual in the area of Jewish studies who will lead and serve as Director of the Norman and Bernice Harris Center for Judaic Studies at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL), a public land grant research university and member of the Big 10/Committee on Institutional Cooperation, with a total enrollment of over 25,000 students. The Harris Center for Judaic Studies promotes and supports scholarship in Jewish civilization and the nature and history of anti-Semitism. The Center administers an interdisciplinary minor in Jewish Studies, support for undergraduate and graduate research, and a program of public lectures and conferences, and oversees a scholarly community for faculty working on topics related to Jewish Studies.

We are seeking faculty members at the associate to full professor level who have active scholarship or creative activity in Jewish studies. Field of expertise is open within the social sciences and humanities. The tenure home will be within the College of Arts and Sciences. The Director will provide leadership and administrative oversight for the Center and foster the full potential of the Center through innovative collaboration within UNL and outreach to the Lincoln and Omaha communities.

Qualifications include a Ph.D. or equivalent in the social sciences or humanities with expertise in Jewish studies; a distinguished record of teaching, scholarship, and service; and a vision for enhancing the research and educational programs of the Center. Requirements also include excellent communication skills, both oral and written; evidence of community engagement; demonstrable leadership ability; and an interest in working with the University Foundation, donors, and alumni to support fundraising. The preferred candidate will have at least two years of experience in program development and budget planning.

To be considered for this position, candidates should apply online at <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition #F_160185, and complete the Faculty/Academic Administrative form. Application materials should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae with a full list of publications, the names of three references, and brief research, teaching and administrative statements. Inquiries regarding the position or the application process should be directed to: JSDirectorSearch@unl.edu, or Judaic Studies Search Committee Chair, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, 1223 Oldfather Hall, Lincoln, NE 68588-0312 (Fax: 402-472-1123). Screening of applicants will begin on November 1, 2016; however, the search will continue until a suitable candidate is found. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is committed to a pluralistic campus community through affirmative action, equal opportunity, work-life balance, and dual careers. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1871

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Grant Development Specialist

The Institute for Social Science Research (ISSR) at the University of Massachusetts Amherst is seeking applicants for qualified candidates to serve as our Grant Development Specialist. Primary job responsibilities are:

- Seek out funding opportunities through various sources including federal, state and local government channels, private foundations, and corporations; working closely with the ISSR Director to determine strategic plans for funding proposal submission and acquisition; and identifying and understanding funding needs and priorities.
- Plan, organize, and manage the grant development functions of the Institute under the supervision of the Director; oversee all SBS grant-seeking to prevent duplication of effort; and maximize revenue through external sources.
- In consultation with the ISSR Director, set an ambitious grant-seeking agenda designed to meet strategic goals; develop relationships with external funding agencies; serve as lead internal consultant on grant development, monitoring grant development trends and applying relevant information to resource development efforts; and anticipate grant development needs and position the Institute to respond.
- Work with the ISSR grants staff in directing the preparation of complex grants and developing and implementing systems to ensure successful grant-seeking efforts, and develop/maintain systems and procedures to ensure the College is aware of grant opportunities, processes, and awards.
- Design and implement opportunities for faculty and staff to develop grant-seeking and grant-writing skills, including social scientific focused workshops; and develop and implement means of tracking improvements in proposals and funded awards.

By way of illustrating the duties described above, specific examples could include:

- Making connections to external funding agencies: communication to lay the groundwork for SBS faculty to connect to the appropriate programs at agencies, allowing faculty to put their time and effort in talking with program officers to best use.
- Targeting proposals: aiding faculty in strategically positioning and framing their work for specific calls for grant proposals in the social sciences.
- Convening faculty interest groups for large interdisciplinary proposals: providing the staffing support, matching expertise, and moderating meetings toward the development of large proposals that support the ISSR mission of meaningful interdisciplinary collaboration for social scientists (e.g., the ISSR sustainability and social science research group).
- Working with existing university offices: coordinating with UMass offices where appropriate, especially the Office of Research Development, but being integrated into SBS with close knowledge of the sciences and scientific community in the college, working with faculty in SBS to find opportunities, and providing workshops to develop grant development skills.

Qualifications: Qualified applicants must have a graduate degree (doctoral degree preferred) in a social science field and a background of grant-related experience in the social sciences. Strong consideration will be given to an individual with demonstrated skills in engaging and managing groups of researchers. Experience in developing relationships with a broad range of people is desired in order to identify and respond to resource development needs. Demonstrated experience in working with grant making institutions is desirable.

This is a non-tenure track position, but with considerable promise for advancement. The initial appointment will be for two years with possibility for renewal contingent on performance and success in procuring external funding.

To Apply: Applicants must apply online through Interview Exchange: <http://umass.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=68995>. Applications must include: 1) cover letter describing interest in this position and funded research plans, 2) curriculum vitae, and 3) short writing sample, such as a published article or research grant proposal; these items must be uploaded in Interview Exchange. In addition, three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with your research and mentoring capabilities must be submitted via email or U.S. mail to Karen Mason (mason@issr.umass.edu), Attn: Grant Development Specialist Search, ISSR, 108 Bartlett Hall, University of Massachusetts, 130 Hicks Way, Amherst, MA 01003.

For further information on ISSR, visit our website: www.umass.edu/issr. Please direct questions to Dr. Jennifer Lundquist (lundquist@sbs.umass.edu).

The University provides an intellectual environment committed to providing academic excellence and diversity, including mentoring programs for faculty. The College and Institute are committed to increasing the diversity of the faculty, student body and curriculum. The University of Massachusetts Amherst is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members.

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/22/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1865

American University-SIS

Rank: Five Tenure-Track Positions (1=Senior Position)

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Foreign Policy, Developing Nations, Economic Policy

Position Announcement: Five Tenure-Line Faculty Positions

School of International Service

American University

The School of International Service (SIS) at American University (AU) invites applications for five full-time, tenure-line positions to begin August 1, 2017. Applicants should possess a Ph.D. or the highest equivalent degree in a relevant discipline by August 2017.

As a school that includes a diversity of scholarly disciplines and approaches, we seek the best candidates without respect to a particular discipline. We seek scholar-teachers whose work is theoretically grounded, empirically tested, and policy relevant. Candidates should demonstrate excellence in research and teaching and a commitment to school and university service. Candidates should also share the School's commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled, except for the Development Studies position, for which review of applications will begin November 1, 2016. For more information about each position and to apply, follow the links below.

*Development Studies (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36539>

*Emerging Powers (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36554>

*Human Security (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36550>

*Race and Global Studies (One Assistant Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36547>

*Transnational/International Security (One Associate Professor or Professor): <https://apply.interfolio.com/36555>

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1957, American University's School of International Service (SIS) is a top-ten school of international affairs located in Washington, D.C. SIS faculty produce transformational research and prepare our students for global careers in government, nonprofits, and business. SIS's prime location provides opportunities for research, professional training, public service, and internships in the nation's capital and around the world.

Housed in a beautiful LEED-Gold certified building which reflects our commitment to sustainability and ecological stewardship, SIS is a diverse and inclusive community of 3,000 students, 120+ full-time faculty and more than 20,000 alumni worldwide. Our offerings feature a comprehensive liberal arts program for undergraduates, professional education in international affairs for Master's students, and a multidisciplinary program for Doctoral students. Learn more about SIS at www.american.edu/sis.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date:Date Posted: 8/19/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1843Georgetown University*Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Conflict Resolution)Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in any field of political science, with a research and teaching profile that will contribute to the department's highly successful Master of Arts Program in Conflict Resolution. The Conflict Resolution Program offers an innovative and rigorous curriculum encompassing the core skills and multidisciplinary knowledge needed to pursue diverse careers, both in the U.S. and abroad, related to conflict management and conflict resolution. Applicants should have the ability to field core courses in conflict resolution theory and research methodology. The department also has a particular interest in applicants whose research and teaching speak to conflict processes and their relationship to race/ethnicity, gender, youth, development, or media. A Ph.D. in political science in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester. The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7687>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Desha Girod (desha.girod@georgetown.edu). For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive before September 20, 2016, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 8/19/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1862John Jay College - The City University of New York*Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor (Law and Society)

The Law and Society major, administered by the Department of Political Science at John Jay College of The City University of New York, invites applications for two tenure-track or tenured positions beginning Fall 2017 in Law and Society. The hiring rank is open. The Ph.D. discipline is open, provided candidates are demonstrably part of the Law and Society scholarly community.

The successful candidates will be part of a new and rapidly growing Law and Society major, with over 500 students, at John Jay. In addition to having an active research agenda in law and society (preferably as a member of the Law and Society Association), the successful candidates will bring enthusiasm and commitment to teaching and curriculum development. Area of research focus is open, though candidates will be expected to develop an undergraduate course that diversifies existing areas of faculty expertise.

Applicants must demonstrate that they are qualified to teach undergraduate courses that introduce students to the interdisciplinary Law and Society approach. In particular, the successful candidates will teach the Senior Research Colloquium in addition to other needed courses in the program (Introduction to Law and Society, Research Methods in Law and Society) and courses developed in the applicant's area of specialty. The successful candidates will also advise students. Forty-seven percent of John Jay students are first generation college students, and the candidates must be eager to work with our diverse student body.

John Jay College of Criminal Justice, a senior college of The City University of New York (CUNY), is an internationally recognized leader in educating for justice, committed to the advancement of justice and just societies. It is a public liberal arts college that enriches the entire learning experience by highlighting themes of justice across the arts, sciences, humanities, and social sciences. Located steps from Lincoln Center at the cultural heart of New York City, the College offers bachelors and masters degrees and participates in the doctoral programs of the Graduate School of the City University of New York. John Jay College is also recognized for serving a broadly diverse student population. Under the leadership of its fourth president, Jeremy Travis, John Jay College has experienced unprecedented faculty hiring, an expansion of its curricular offerings, and the opening in 2011 of a new 600,000 square foot building complete with a black-box theatre, state-of-the-art lab space for students and faculty, a moot courtroom, and a variety of virtual learning settings. As evidenced by so many on-going developments, the College offers its many new faculty and staff the opportunity to shape the future of their institution.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in a law and society-related discipline, although outstanding ABDs will be considered. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, interest in productive scholarship, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution. Candidates holding only a J.D. will not be considered.

OTHER QUALIFICATIONS

The demonstrated ability to teach courses in the law and society tradition. Rank and salary will be based on qualifications and experience.

COMPENSATION

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

If you are viewing the job posting on any website other than CUNYfirst, please follow the instructions below:

- Go to www.cuny.edu and click on "Employment"
- Click "Search job listings"
- Search by job Opening ID number (15095)
- Click on "more options to search for CUNY jobs"
- Click on the "Apply Now" button and follow the instructions

Candidates should provide a letter of application, a CV/resume, a writing sample, and evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness as one document electronically through CUNYfirst following the instructions above. Three letters of recommendation should be mailed in hard copy directly to the Chair of the Political Science Department: Professor James Cauthen, Department of Political Science, John Jay College, 524 West 59th Street, New York, NY 10019.

For more information about the position, email Co-Chairs of the Search Committee, Professor Michael Yarbrough (myarbrough@jjay.cuny.edu) and Professor Jean Carmalt (jcarmalt@jjay.cuny.edu).

CLOSING DATE

Position is open until filled with the review of the applications beginning September 30, 2016.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1848

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Tenure Track; Open to Subfield; Methods Specialization

This is a tenure-track, academic year position with appointment anticipated September of 2017.

Basic Function:

Applicants will be expected to teach undergraduate courses in research methodology that serves as a requirement for both the Political Science and Criminal Justice undergraduate degrees as well as teach other courses in Political Science. Expected to publish original research open with respect to subfield and advise undergraduate students. Provide service to the department, the university and the profession

Required Qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2017. Primary or secondary field in the area of Political Science research methodology. Demonstrated evidence of effective college level teaching commensurate with level of academic experience. Demonstrated expertise in a wide range of methodological approaches. Demonstrated evidence of research excellence; scholarly publications commensurate with level of academic experience. Demonstrated experience working with diverse groups/populations.

To apply, please submit materials at: <https://jobs.uri.edu/>

Instructions to Applicants

Please attach 4 (PDF) documents to your online Faculty Employment Application: (#1) A letter of application that describes your interest in this position; (#2) CV which includes the names/contacts information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and course syllabi and teaching evaluations for the last two years and/or for experience directly related to research methods instruction (as available) (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single PDF document); (#3) a brief research and teaching statement; (#4) an article-length sample of written work.

For additional questions or clarification, please contact:

Dr. Kristin Johnson
 Associate Professor
 Search Committee Chair
 Department of Political Science
 University of Rhode Island
 Kingston, RI 02881
kristin_johnson@uri.edu
 401 874-5495

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/19/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1855

California Institute of Technology

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Division of the Humanities and Social Sciences at the California Institute of Technology (Caltech) invites applications for a tenure-track position in political science at the assistant professor level. Exceptionally well-qualified applicants at higher levels may also be considered. We are especially interested in applicants doing formal theoretical and/or quantitatively oriented work in political science and political economy broadly defined. We are seeking highly qualified candidates who are committed to a career in research and teaching. The term of an initial untenured appointment is four years, and the appointment is contingent upon completion of the Ph.D.

Interested candidates should apply electronically: <https://applications.caltech.edu/job/politicalscience>

Candidates unable to apply electronically may send a letter of application describing their current research, a teaching statement, three letters of recommendation, current CV, and a sample of original written work to: Chair, Political Science Search, HSS 228-77 Caltech, Pasadena, CA 91125.

Application review will begin October 15, 2016 and applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Caltech is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, or national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1837

Harvard University

Rank: Tenured Professor of Government - Open Field

The Department of Government seeks to appoint a tenured professor. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization. We are seeking candidates who can contribute through their research, teaching, and service to the diversity and excellence of the academic community.

The appointee will teach and advise at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching and research is desired. Candidates should also evince intellectual leadership and impact on the field and potential for significant contributions to the department, University, and wider scholarly community.

The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2017.

Candidates are required to have a Ph.D.

Please submit the following materials through the ARIES portal (<http://academicpositions.harvard.edu>). The Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Teaching statement
4. Research statement

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1830

University of Utah

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

The University of Utah has created a new, interdisciplinary faculty cluster focusing on Society, Water, and Climate (SWC). This transformative cluster connects research on ecology, hydrology, air quality, climate change, societal response, and policy, melding multiple scientific perspectives to lead society towards sustainable solutions in a changing world. This interdisciplinary cluster is focused on enhancing the University of Utah's core commitment to sustainability, and complementing ongoing, related research across departments, colleges, and centers on campus. The University of Utah has hired an ecophysicist, atmospheric scientist, and a glaciologist as part of the first round of funding. We are concurrently searching for an Earth system scientist as part of the SWC cluster. A full description of the SWC team can be found at <http://www.utah.edu/faculty/swc/>.

Here we are seeking Social or Behavioral Scientist applicants for a tenure-track or tenured faculty position at the advanced Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor rank to begin in July 2017. Candidates should have an excellent and sustained record of research, a demonstrated ability to generate extramural funding, and extensive experience in working with diverse researchers from across the disciplinary spectrum on projects that link the natural and social sciences in the areas of climate and/or water.

The successful candidate must examine the human dimensions of environmental change, as they relate to water and climate change. Research should include theoretically-grounded empirical approaches appropriate within or across social science disciplines. Possible home departments for the hire include: Anthropology, Economics, Geography, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology. The successful candidate will be jointly appointed in the Environmental and Sustainability Studies Program (<http://envst.utah.edu>).

The University of Utah is committed to providing resources to support and grow the SWC cluster. An interdisciplinary committee composed of social and natural scientists will review the applications. The successful candidate must demonstrate potential for genuine collaboration in the SWC cluster.

The University of Utah is a comprehensive and diverse Research I public institution located in the Wasatch Front urban corridor with easy access to research and recreational opportunities in the Rocky Mountains, Great Basin, and the Colorado Plateau. Salt Lake City is a dynamic, high-tech and bike-friendly metropolitan area with high-quality cultural and entertainment amenities, an extensive public transit system, a sunny, dry four-season climate, and "the Greatest Snow on Earth." With an enrollment of about 30,000, it is the flagship university for the state of Utah. The University of Utah is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and educator. Minorities, women, veterans, and those with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply. Veterans' preference is extended to qualified veterans. Reasonable disability accommodations will be provided with adequate notice. For additional information about the University's commitment to equal opportunity and access see: <http://www.utah.edu/nondiscrimination/>.

Review of applications will begin on October 31, 2016, with the position open until filled. Please visit this link for more information about the position and to apply <http://utah.peopleadmin.com/postings/54549>. Using the online application system applicants should provide a cover letter that discusses their climate and water research and addresses their participation in interdisciplinary research teams. In addition applicants should provide a CV and research statement. Applicants need to provide the names, institutions, and email addresses of exactly three references who will only be contacted if the applicant advances past the first round of review. The search committee also requests that candidates upload three examples of published research (journal articles, book excerpts, etc.).

Questions regarding the cluster or positions should be addressed to the search committee co-chairs, Drs. Brett Clark (brett.clark@soc.utah.edu) and Andrea Brunelle (andrea.brunelle@geog.utah.edu).

Start Date: Summer 2016
Application Deadline: 9/30/2016
Date Posted: 8/18/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1836

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2017-18 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each successful fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently, and the fellow's research agenda should be grounded methodologically in statistics or other computational techniques.

During the 2017-18 academic year, fellows will participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results. The stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000 with a $5,000 account available for equipment, travel, and research materials. Subject to consultation with the QSS Chair, each fellow may teach a one-quarter course on a subject of his or her choosing; there is an extra stipend for teaching. The postdoctoral fellowship can be extended through the 2018-19 academic year, subject to negotiation between the fellow and the QSS Chair.

Requirements:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2017.
2. Substantive interest in any social science field.
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical or computation methods.
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively.
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research.

Application Materials:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications.
- 2) Statement of research interests, no longer than two pages, that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth.
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant.
- 4) Three letters of reference.
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished.

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2016, and interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/36369

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1816

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Wilf Family Department of Politics seeks qualified candidates for four tenure-track assistant professor positions. We welcome applications in all sub-fields; however we hope to hire at least one assistant professor in American Politics and another assistant professor in International Relations. The department seeks excellent scholars with a rigorous theoretical and empirical approach to the study of politics. The positions are to begin September 1, 2017 pending budgetary and administrative approval. NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Qualifications:

Candidates must possess a PhD by September 2017, in political science or a cognate discipline. S/he will have a record of excellent research that has been published or otherwise disseminated in a manner appropriate to career stage, and have the potential to be a future leader of the profession in his or her field of expertise. Candidates should also have proven ability as excellent teachers at undergraduate and/or graduate level.

Application Instructions:

Please apply online at:

apply.interfolio.com/36758

with a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching and research statements. Applications should be received by September 26, 2016. Candidates are strongly encouraged to supply a link to their professional website; this will enhance their applications by allowing the search committee easy access to additional information that might be needed.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber, who embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read <http://as.nyu.edu/page/diversityinitiative>. EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/26/2016
Date Posted: 8/17/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1801

South University of Science and Technology of China

Rank: Professor/Associate Professor/Assistant Professors in Social Sciences

JOB DESCRIPTIONS: The Institute for Advanced Studies in Social Sciences at the Southern University of Science and Technology of China invites applications for full-time tenured or tenure-track faculty positions in social sciences at ranks of Full/Associate/Assistant Professor, to begin January 2017. The successful candidates will teach general education courses covering the following four core areas: 1) Science, Technology and Society, including history of science, ethics of science, sociology of science, and policy of science; 2) Environmental Studies, including environmental history, environmental policy, and environmental and culture; 3) New Media and Visual Culture, including media and society, science, technology and arts, and cultural industry; and 4) Globalization, including transnational migration, comparative area studies, ethnographic studies and critical theories. The successful candidates will contribute to social science curricula that encourage interdisciplinary approach. Quality undergraduate teaching and mentorship, as well as innovative research and service are expected. With the exception of senior candidates with tenure, initial appointment will normally be made on a three-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement. Tenure review and promotion normally takes place before completion of the second three-year contract.

QUALIFICATIONS: Applicants should have a PhD degree in hand from an accredited institution of higher education. Senior candidates are expected to have a high international standing in the fields, with an exceptional track record of high-quality research and scholarly publications. The university teaching languages are English and Chinese. Satisfactory knowledge of Chinese is preferable but not required.

SALARY: Salary is highly competitive, and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Benefits include university subsidized housing and health insurance.

UNIVERSITY: Southern University of Science and Technology of China is a public university located in the Shenzhen Special Economic Zone, a mega vibrant city and high-tech center across Hong Kong with a population of more than 10 million people. The university is intended to be a top-tier international university that excels in conducting interdisciplinary research, nurturing innovative talents and delivering new knowledge to the world.

APPLICATION PROCESS: Applicants should send a cover letter and curriculum vitae with at least three names of references by email to shss@sustc.edu.cn, preferably before 31 October 2016. Review of applications begins on November 1, 2016, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1814

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Other, Other

The University of California, San Diego invites applications from outstanding candidates for up to four separate searches (totaling up to eight positions) for TENURE TRACK or TENURED FACULTY POSITIONS in environmental justice, health care ethics, business ethics, and the social impact of technology, medicine, and science.

These positions are part of a bold multi-discipline, multi-year initiative in practical ethics that spans the entire University. In this initiative, traditional normative ethical concerns are embedded in cross-disciplinary research in the humanities, social sciences, physical sciences, biological sciences, geosciences, engineering, business, and medicine.

Each appointment will be made jointly between two divisions or schools in order to facilitate collaborations in new inter-disciplinary fields. These areas include the Divisions of Arts and Humanities, Biological Sciences, Physical Sciences, Social Sciences, the School of Global Policy and Strategy, the Jacobs School of Engineering, Scripps Institution of Oceanography (SIO), the Skaggs School of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, the Rady School of Management, and the School of Medicine.

Appointments generally will be at the Assistant or Associate Professorial level and in exceptional cases at the very early Professorial level. The University of California, San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body.

There are at present four separate areas within the overall initiative:

1. Social Impact of Science, Medicine, and Technology
2. Health Care Ethics
3. Environmental Justice
4. Business Ethics

Candidates may submit an application to one or more of these areas. Candidates must have a PhD in a relevant field. Successful applicants will be expected to teach both graduate and undergraduate students in the participating departments and establish a vigorous program of high-quality research that focuses on innovative approaches in one of the targeted areas.

Successful practical ethics applicants will complement exceptional expertise in multiple areas at UC San Diego, including, but not limited to: environmental sciences and environmental studies, bioethics, U.S. and global policy, public policy, sociology, philosophy, cultural and literary studies, political science, social psychology, political psychology, history of science, engineering, biomedical sciences, healthcare, and business.

The preferred candidate will have demonstrated strong leadership and a commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting.

The level of appointment and salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on UC pay schedules.

Completed applications received by October 14, 2016 will be assured of consideration and the positions will remain open until filled.

Applications at the Assistant Professor level, please refer to the links below:

1. Social Impact of Science, Medicine, and Technology: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01132>
2. Health Care Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01136>
3. Environmental Justice: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01134>
4. Business Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01138>

Applications at the Associate or Full Professor level, please refer to the links below:

1. Social Impact of Science, Medicine, and Technology: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01133>
2. Health Care Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01137>
3. Environmental Justice: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01135>
4. Business Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01139>

Required materials are: (1) a cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) statement of research, including strategy for interdisciplinary research, (4) statement of teaching, (5) writing sample, (6) teaching evaluations (if available for Assistant Professor level), (7) names and emails of 3 potential recommenders for Associate Professor Level or 3 letters of recommendation for Assistant Professor Level, and (8) a separate statement describing past experience in activities that promote diversity and inclusion and/or plans to make future contributions. For further information about contributions to diversity statements, see: <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>.

For applicants with interest in spousal/partner employment, please see <http://academicaffairs.ucsd.edu/aps/partneropp/index.html> for the UC San Diego Partner Opportunities Program.

Please direct inquiries to: practicaethics@ucsd.edu

The University of California San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1795

Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Rank: Tenure-Track Position in Political Science: Political Economy or Israeli Politics

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science: Political Economy or Israeli Politics

The Department of Political Science at Hebrew University of Jerusalem seeks to fill one or more tenure-track positions (ranks: Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, or Associate Professor) in the fields of political economy or Israeli politics beginning fall 2017.

We seek candidates with a record of excellence in research. Junior and senior scholars with a PhD in political science are encouraged to apply. ABD's are expected to have their dissertation approved no later than October 1st 2017. Interested applicants are encouraged to arrange meetings with members of the Department at approaching conferences.

Several departments and programs at the Hebrew University conduct searches in fields related to political science. Candidates whose interests overlap with such fields are encouraged to apply also for these other positions. Among them are:

- International relations (contact: Prof. Dan Miodownik, Dan.Miodownik@mail.huji.ac.il)
- Philosophy, political science and economics (PPE) (contact: Prof. Daniel Attas, Daniel.attas@mail.huji.ac.il)
- European Forum (contact: Prof. Noam Shoval, noamshoval@mail.huji.ac.il)
- Public policy (contact: Ms. Meital Stein, meitalo@savion.huji.ac.il)

To apply, please submit the following materials:

- Curriculum Vitae (including teaching experience)
 - Scientific biography outlining research orientation and plans for the coming years
 - Electronic copies of up to three papers
 - List of required and elective courses the candidate can teach
 - A letter intent stating willingness to begin teaching in the fall of 2017
- Additionally, three letters of recommendation should be submitted directly to the Search Committee (via the website listed below).

The language of teaching at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem is Hebrew, though some courses are taught in English. New faculty members are expected to be able to teach in Hebrew within a few years after their arrival.

The deadline for applications is September 20, 2016. Candidates selected by the Department will compete with candidates from other departments in the Faculty of Social Sciences for available positions.

Please submit all application materials electronically at: <https://tpp.ekmd.huji.ac.il>

For inquiries concerning the search please contact Orit Kedar: orit.kedar@mail.huji.ac.il

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/20/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1714

Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Rank: Tenure-track position: open to all fields

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science: Open to All Fields

The Department of Political Science at Hebrew University of Jerusalem seeks to fill one or more tenure-track positions (ranks: Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, or Associate Professor) beginning fall 2017. The search is open to applicants from all fields of Political Science.

We seek candidates who complement the strengths of our department, with a record of excellence in research. Junior and senior scholars with a PhD in political science are encouraged to apply. ABD's are expected to have their dissertation approved no later than October 1st 2017. Interested applicants are encouraged to arrange meetings with members of the Department at approaching conferences.

Several departments and programs at the Hebrew University conduct searches in fields related to political science. Candidates whose interests overlap with such fields are encouraged to apply also for these other positions. Among them are:

- International relations (contact: Prof. Dan Miodownik, Dan.Miodownik@mail.huji.ac.il)
- Philosophy, political science and economics (PPE) (contact: Prof. Daniel Attas, Daniel.attas@mail.huji.ac.il)
- European Forum (contact: Prof. Noam Shoval, noamshoval@mail.huji.ac.il)
- Public policy (contact: Ms. Meital Stein, meitalo@savion.huji.ac.il)

To apply, please submit the following materials:

- Curriculum Vitae (including teaching experience)
 - Scientific biography outlining research orientation and plans for the coming years
 - Electronic copies of up to three papers
 - List of required and elective courses the candidate can teach
 - A letter intent stating willingness to begin teaching in the fall of 2017
- Additionally, three letters of recommendation should be submitted directly to the Search Committee (via the website listed below).

The language of teaching at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem is Hebrew, though some courses are taught in English. New faculty members are expected to be able to teach in Hebrew within a few years after their arrival.

The deadline for applications is September 20, 2016. Candidates selected by the Department will compete with candidates from other departments in the Faculty of Social Sciences for available positions.

Please submit all application materials electronically at <https://tpe.kmd.huji.ac.il>

For inquiries concerning the search please contact Orit Kedar at orit.kedar@mail.huji.ac.il

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/20/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1713

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: William S. Dietrich Endowed Chair in Political Science

Subfield(s): Other, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications from nationally prominent scholars to fill the inaugural William S. Dietrich II Endowed Chair in Political Science, with appointment to begin in the 2017-18 academic year, pending budgetary approval. The Chair is named in honor of the late Dr. William S. Dietrich II, a former chairman of the University's Board of Trustees who received his Ph.D. from the Department in 1984.

In filling this chair, and in keeping with the interests of Dr. Dietrich, the Department seeks candidates with extraordinary credentials in research, teaching, and mentorship in the fields of international relations or comparative politics, or whose interests cut across these and possibly other disciplinary subfields.

The Political Science Department at the University of Pittsburgh currently consists of 25 tenure stream faculty members with vibrant and varied research agendas. The Department's NRC ranking has improved dramatically over the past decade, and presently ranks between 20th and 30th among Ph.D. granting departments. It has long fostered collegiality and a culture of collaboration among faculty and graduate students. The Department benefits from numerous synergies with other units on campus, including the University Center for International Studies, a world renowned, multidisciplinary institute housing centers for area studies and for topical specializations in international studies, and the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs, a public administration and public policy school emphasizing international relations and political development. The City of Pittsburgh frequently tops "most livable city" rankings thanks to its numerous social and cultural offerings and low cost of living.

Please submit a detailed cover letter and C.V. electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTU3>. Additional information may be requested at a later date. Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1780

American University

Rank: Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

Associate Dean for Undergraduate Education

AY2016-17

School of Public Affairs

American University

American University's School of Public Affairs (SPA) invites applications from accomplished scholars for the position of associate dean for undergraduate education. This position includes a faculty appointment at the rank of (advanced) associate or full professor in the Government Department or the Department of Justice, Law & Criminology beginning June 1, 2017. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. The position offers the unique professional, research, social, and cultural opportunities of a top-ranked school and university located in Washington, DC. In addition, the associate dean for undergraduate education will play a critical role in formulating school policy and be part of a dynamic leadership team.

The School of Public Affairs offers four undergraduate majors, four undergraduate minors, and three highly selective enrichment programs (SPA Leadership Program, Politics, Policy and Law Scholars, and SPA Honors). SPA has approximately 1300 engaged undergraduate students who are research focused and use DC as their laboratory. The associate dean for undergraduate education will provide leadership in the area of undergraduate education and will be responsible for handling all issues that arise concerning undergraduate students in the school. The associate dean directs the activities of the assistant director of recruitment and retention, four academic advisors, enrichment program directors, and serves as the school's Academic Integrity Officer. Duties will also include teaching one course a year in one of the School's degree programs.

American University is reshaping the composition and experience of its undergraduate student body. The University is committed to diversifying the student body in terms of racial/ethnic diversity, geographic diversity, and diversity of socioeconomic status. American University received a record number of undergraduate applications for Fall 2016, resulting in an admit rate of approximately 25 percent. The number of students with SPA undergraduate majors has increased over the past several years. American University is undertaking a multi-year initiative to reinvent the student experience through reimagining service delivery, a focus on student success, and modernization of the undergraduate curriculum. We are looking for an associate dean who will embrace the opportunity to participate in this initiative and shape the future of SPA's undergraduate programs.

Qualifications

Candidates must possess a distinguished record of scholarship in one of the academic fields encompassed by the school's undergraduate programs and meet American University's standards for appointment with tenure at the associate or full professor level. Preference will be given to candidates who have held leadership positions at the university, school, department or program level and who can also provide evidence of advancing their university's academic standing, scholarship, or research productivity.

Application Process

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 16, 2016, and continue until the position is filled, subject to ongoing budgetary approval. Please submit applications via: <http://apply.interfolio.com/35978>. Include a cover letter, curriculum vita, statement of administrative experience and contact information for three references. Electronic submissions are preferred.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The School's programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of many centers of government, business, research, and arts located in the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1756

Princeton University

Rank: Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Research Associate in Bioethics

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for the Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Fellowship in Bioethics for a possible opening in September 2017. The Shapiro Fellowship supports outstanding scholars studying ethical issues arising from developments in medicine or the biological sciences. We particularly encourage proposals focusing on problems of practical importance that have broader theoretical interest.

The Shapiro Fellow will spend from one to three years at Princeton conducting research. Candidates will be expected to contribute one course each year to the Center's undergraduate program in coordination with the Center and by approval of the Dean of the Faculty. The Shapiro Fellow will participate in the Ira W. DeCamp Seminar in Bioethics and will be invited to participate in other activities of the University Center for Human Values including a year-long research seminar for visiting fellows and Center faculty.

Qualifications

Applicants must have completed all the requirements for the Ph.D., M.D., or other equivalent doctoral degree by September 1, 2017, and must not have held the degree for more than three years by September 1, 2017. An applicant may have a background in any area of ethical studies, not necessarily in bioethics. However, the proposed research plan should be related to the field of bioethics.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments and the promise of the proposed research project in bioethics. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of the fellowship is one year, beginning September 1, 2017, with the possibility of renewal for up to two additional years pending satisfactory performance. Appointment will be made to the rank of Postdoctoral Research Associate. Princeton University offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition number #1600647. The online system includes instructions on how to apply.

A complete application will include the following supporting materials:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words);
3. A scholarly paper (not to exceed 50 pages) representing the applicant's scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who should be prepared to comment specifically about the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Thursday, December 1, 2016. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by December 5. If a vacancy for this position is confirmed, the selection committee may begin reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. We hope to announce decisions by April 3, 2017.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/8/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1745

Princeton University

Rank: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2017-18. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. The program is open to scholars in all disciplines provided their research plans qualify. In recent years fellows have been drawn from fields including philosophy, political theory, literature, history, classics, economics and law, but this list is not meant to be exhaustive.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton and to be active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities throughout the University.

Candidates should have a doctorate or equivalent professional degree and a strong record of research publications appropriate to their career stage. Typically Fellows hold faculty positions at other universities or colleges; in exceptional cases we consider applications from independent scholars when there is a high level of scholarly achievement. This is not a post-doctoral fellowship program and we do not generally consider candidates who will have held the Ph.D. for less than two years at the time of appointment.

The fellowship period extends from September 1 to July 1. Fellows normally receive stipends of up to one-half their academic-year salaries (subject to a minimum and maximum set each fall). Ordinarily their home institutions provide a portion of their salaries in addition to all benefits, although this is not a requirement for appointment. Stipends for independent scholars will not exceed the maximum for fellows holding appointments elsewhere.

The main considerations in the evaluation of applications are the following:

The significance of the proposed research and its relevance to the purposes of the University Center for Human Values (see <http://uchv.princeton.edu/> for more information);

The quality of a candidate's previous research and the contribution the candidate is likely to make in the future through teaching and writing;

The likelihood that the research would benefit from being conducted in the University Center environment.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates should submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition number #1600504. The following materials will be required:

1. A curriculum vitae;
2. A scholarly paper (of no more than about 12,000 words) written in the past three years;

3. A statement (of no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research project and including a brief working title for the project; and
4. Contact information for three referees, including at least one who was not a graduate advisor. Referees will be contacted directly with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, October 31, 2016. We do not accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by November 3. The selection committee begins reviewing applications immediately and incomplete applications may be at a disadvantage. Decisions are expected to be announced by March 1, 2017.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/31/2016
Date Posted: 8/5/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1737

Harvard University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor in Political Economy

The Department of Government seeks to appoint a tenure-track professor in Political Economy. We are particularly interested in scholars working on the political economy of developing areas, but this is not a requirement. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2017. The tenure-track professor will be responsible for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Doctorate or terminal degree in Political Science, Economics, or related discipline required by the time the appointment begins.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching is desired.

Please submit the following materials through the ARIeS portal (<http://academicpositions.harvard.edu>). The Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2016.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Teaching statement (describing teaching approach and philosophy)
4. Research statement
5. Names and contact information of 3-5 referees, who will be asked by a system-generated email to upload a letter of recommendation once the candidate's application has been submitted. Three letters of recommendation are required, and the application is considered complete only when at least three letters have been received.
6. Writing sample and publications, if applicable.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1730

Princeton University

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor of Religion and the University Center for Human Values

The University Center for Human Values and the Department of Religion at Princeton University invite applications from accomplished scholars working primarily in the field of religion, with a focus on religion, ethics and politics, or closely related areas, for appointment as (tenured) associate or full professor. The appointment will be held jointly in the two units.

We ask applicants to provide a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three referees. Applications should be submitted online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> (Job Requisition # 1600638). We cannot guarantee full consideration for applications received after October 15, 2016. We aim for an appointment effective September 2017.

Princeton University is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of our academic community. Women and members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1729

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Carleton College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Africana Studies with a major emphasis on current African American issues, beginning September 1, 2017. We plan to hire at the assistant professor level; in extraordinary circumstances we would consider an advanced rank applicant.

This position will be at least 60% in the African and African American Studies Program, and up to 40% in a collaborating disciplinary department. The successful candidate will have a PhD in Africana Studies or in a related social science or humanities field, and should have completed their PhD by September 1, 2017.

We seek candidates whose main teaching and research areas are in the field of Africana Studies, and who have thorough knowledge of related models—African Diaspora Studies, Black Studies, African American Studies. The candidate should be able to teach core courses for the Program's majors and concentrators, have demonstrated excellence in teaching and evidence of effective pedagogy in the discipline, and show promise to grow into a leadership position.

Visit jobs.carleton.edu to complete the online application, including cover letter, job-market paper, statement of teaching philosophy, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references. For consideration, all materials must be received by November 1, but we will begin reviewing files as early as September 30, 2016. Shortlisted applicants may be asked for further materials. All preliminary interviews will be held by Skype.

We are particularly interested in candidates committed to teaching a diverse student body, and who will contribute to a college community that maintains a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. Women and members of minority groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Carleton College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, ethnicity, religion, sex, national origin, marital status, veteran status, actual or perceived sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, status with regard to public assistance, disability, or age in providing employment or access to its educational facilities and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/3/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1721

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies

The Department of Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at Washington University in St. Louis seeks a scholar trained in social science methods whose research is non-US based. We particularly encourage applications from candidates whose work focuses on the global south and is interdisciplinary in nature; transnational expertise is also welcome. Candidates must have completed the Ph.D. in gender and sexuality studies or a social science-related field, including anthropology, economics, geography, political science, psychology, or sociology, by July 1, 2017 and be eligible to work in the United States. Candidates at the Associate and full Professor rank must have a distinguished record of publication in the field.

The duties of this position include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses; conducting research and other scholarly activities, including publishing in scholarly journals; and performing departmental and university service and other duties assigned by the University. The normal teaching load is 2/2. Diversity and inclusion are core values of Washington University, and the successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to create inclusive classrooms and environments in which a diverse array of students learn and thrive.

The Department of Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies at Washington University has a vibrant undergraduate major and minor, and a strong and expanding graduate certificate program. We currently have a core faculty of eight, and affiliated faculty across the humanities, in anthropology and sociology, and in law and social work. The department's research strengths include race, gender and cultural studies, sexuality studies, and feminist and queer theory.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest describing their scholarly qualifications and research; current curriculum vitae; teaching statement detailing their approach to teaching and to creating diverse and inclusive learning environments; and three (3) letters of recommendation to wgss@wustl.edu. The committee will review applications until the position is filled, but applications should be received by October 1, 2016 to ensure full consideration.

Requests for additional information may be directed to Professor Andrea Friedman, Search Committee Chair, at afriedman@wustl.edu.

Washington University in St. Louis is committed to the principles and practices of equal employment opportunity. It is the University's policy to recruit, hire, train, and promote persons in all job titles without regard to race, color, age, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, protected veteran status, disability, or genetic information.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/3/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1722

Princeton University

Rank: Lecturer

The Politics Department at Princeton University has an occasional need for lecturers (part-time and/or full-time) to teach or co-teach in areas such as American Politics, Comparative Politics, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods, International Relations, and/or Political Theory.

Advanced degree required. Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching interest. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Due to the volume of applications, only candidates selected for an interview will be contacted. No letters of recommendation are required at this time.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1703

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

The Department of Politics at Princeton University seeks applicants for a Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research position that involves a year of research at Princeton. The aim of the program is to nurture a diverse group of promising scholars. Applications are welcome from candidates who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by the start date, September 1, 2017.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members. Initial appointment is for one year with the possibility of renewal for another year based on satisfactory performance and available funding.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1702

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Formal Theory/Quantitative Analysis

The Department of Politics at Princeton University seeks applicants for a postdoctoral research associate or more senior research position in the fields of Formal Theory or Quantitative Analysis. This position involves a year of research at Princeton with the possibility of renewal for another year based on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Applications are welcome from scholars who have or expect to have a Ph.D. by the start date, September 1, 2017. The aim of the program is to nurture a diverse group of promising scholars and to increase the critical mass of scholars with interests in formal theory and quantitative methods at Princeton.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> and submit a CV, cover letter, writing sample, transcript and the names and contact information of three references. The cover letter should describe how applicants might engage in collaborative research projects with Princeton politics faculty members.

Transcripts should be sent directly to F/Q Postdoctoral Fellowship Search, Department of Politics, 130 Corwin Hall, Princeton University, Princeton, NJ 08544. We will begin reviewing applications on February 15, 2017.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 2/15/2017
Date Posted: 8/1/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1701

Purdue University

Rank: Academic Operations Manager

Purdue University — Academic Operations Manager

JOB DUTIES

The Academic Operations Manager develops, coordinates and executes undergraduate programming for the Department of Political Science and reports to the Department Head. Political Science has ~25 faculty, ~50 graduate students, and ~200 undergraduate students. The Manager will take a leadership role within the department working closely with faculty, students and University administrative staff. The Manager will understand and interpret political science research and teaching to develop programming for undergraduates as well as to create communication content along various platforms, including: website, social media and promotional materials. The Manager will oversee the administration of the main office and the implementation of the department head's initiatives by working independently to create spreadsheets, manage data, and write reports to inform decision-making. The Manager will oversee faculty affairs, including the preparation of promotion and tenure documents, the administration of faculty hiring activities, and the management of visiting scholar appointments. The Manager will have supervisory responsibility over the administrative/clerical and student staff.

QUALIFICATIONS

Required:

- Bachelor's degree in Social Sciences or related field.
- Three years of experience in communications, student services, or office management/administrative office supervision.
- Exceptional interpersonal skills and the ability to interact in a professional capacity with diverse faculty, staff, students, alumni, and community members.
- Excellent communication, planning, problem solving, and organizational skills including relationship building with internal and external constituents.
- Ability to manage competing demands; prioritize and organize work assignments; work independently to meet deadlines, and supervise staff effectively.
- Ability to manage, analyze, and interpret data.
- Knowledge of Microsoft Word, Excel, Outlook, Publisher, PowerPoint, and SharePoint.
- Demonstrate Initiative and willingness to learn new skills, embrace changing technology and interpret and communicate policies, and procedures.
- Ability to exercise professional judgment and solve problems independently.
- Ability to maintain confidentiality.
- Substantive knowledge in the social sciences.
- Knowledge of academic procedures and structures.

Preferred:

- Master's degree.
- Comprehension of electronic and social media communication tools.

Additional Information:

- Purdue will not sponsor an employment related visa for this position.
- A background check will be required for employment in this position.

For consideration submit resume and apply online for this staff position at: www.purdue.edu/careers and reference Job Number 1601574. (Optional more direct link: <http://purdue.taleo.net/careersection/wl/jobdetail.ft?lang=en&job=1601574>)

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1692

Brown University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Race & Ethnicity:

The Department of Political Science at Brown University invites applications for a faculty position in the field of race & ethnicity to begin July 2017. Candidates at all ranks are welcome but must have completed the PhD by summer 2017. Review of applications will begin September 26, 2016. Candidates at the untenured rank(s) should submit a cover letter identifying their primary interests as well as a current CV, writing sample, graduate transcript, teaching evaluations, and three letters of reference. Candidates at the tenured level should submit a cover letter identifying their primary interests, CV, copies of major publications, teaching evaluations, and the names of five references with contact information; the search committee will contact referees directly. Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of, gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status. Submit application to: apply.interfolio.com/36163

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/21/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1647

California State University, Chico

Rank: Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice

The Position: The Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice invites applications for three tenure-track positions in criminal justice at the Assistant Professor level. The positions begin August 2017.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. in Criminal Justice, Criminology, Political Science, or related disciplines is required. Candidates nearing completion of their doctorate will be considered; however, the doctorate must be complete prior to the beginning of the academic year in August 2017. The research specialization is open within Criminal Justice. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses in the Criminal Justice Program.

Preferred Qualifications: The ideal candidate will contribute to other programs in the department by teaching courses in areas such as research methods or other courses that bridge our degree programs. Please see our current course catalog for a list of the department's course offerings: <http://catalog.csuchico.edu/viewer/16/POLS/offerings.html>

Responsibilities: This tenure-track position carries responsibilities in the areas of teaching, scholarship, and service to the Department and University. Teaching assignments are based upon qualifications of the individual and the needs of the department. The successful candidate should also demonstrate the following:

- Commitment to and/or experience promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of individuals from diverse backgrounds;

Salary: Salary commensurate with education and experience.

The Department: The Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice offers undergraduate degrees in political science (including an option in legal studies), criminal justice, international relations, and public administration, as well as Masters degrees in political science and public administration. We have an exciting curriculum, with numerous options to meet a host of academic interests, and an active and productive faculty committed to excellence in teaching and scholarship. Over 1,000 students major in our programs. Additional information about our Department is available at <http://www.csuchico.edu/pols/>. Additional information about the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences is available at <http://www.csuchico.edu/bss/index.shtml>.

Closing Date: Review of applications will begin on September 30, 2016, and continue until the position is filled.

How to Apply: All applicants must apply online at: <http://jobs.csuchico.edu/postings/3712>

Complete online applications will include: CV, writing sample, complete set of transcripts (unofficial acceptable), cover letter summarizing qualifications and experience, teaching evaluations (if available). Three letters of recommendation are also required and should be submitted to the search committee chair via email at the address below.

Letters of recommendation & job-related questions should be addressed to:

Matt Thomas, Chair
Criminal Justice Search Committee
mothomas@csuchico.edu

An annual security report disclosing crime statistics for California State University, Chico can be obtained by contacting the Chico State University Police Department (530-898-5555) or by accessing the following website:
http://www.csuchico.edu/up/clery_report.shtml

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

For disability related accommodations please call ADA Coordinator at (530) 898-5959.

CSU, Chico is an EOE/Minority/Females/Vet/Disability and only employs individuals authorized to work in the U.S. The person holding this position is considered a "mandated reporter" under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1640

Boston University

Rank: George and Joyce Wein Chair in African American Studies and Director of the African American Studies Program

The African American Studies Program at Boston University invites applications for the George and Joyce Wein Chair in African American Studies and Director of the African American Studies Program, beginning July 1, 2017. This search is pending final budgetary approval. This will be a joint appointment at the tenured full professor level with the candidate's disciplinary home in any of the departments within the College of Arts & Sciences. For a list of departments, please visit <http://www.bu.edu/cas/academics/departments/>. We are looking for an established colleague with leadership capacity and an outstanding record of teaching and research on the experiences of African Americans and/or African-descended peoples in the Americas. Boston University expects excellence in teaching and research and is committed to building a culturally diverse faculty and a multicultural learning environment.

Initial applications should be submitted to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7375> and include 1. A cover letter addressed to Professor Anita Patterson, Chair of the Search Committee, describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience and 2. A curriculum vitae. References and letters may be requested at a later date. Review of applications will begin on October 3, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We are a VEVRAA Federal Contractor.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 7/13/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1617

Stanford University

Rank: tenure-track Assist. Professor or a tenured Associate Professor faculty position in Islam and gender.

Islam and Gender in the Social Sciences

Stanford University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor or a tenured Associate Professor faculty position in Islam and gender.

The successful candidate will be based in a social sciences department and will also be expected to contribute to the Abbasi Program in Islamic Studies' curricular and outreach efforts. A focus on the Middle East and/or Southeast Asia is preferred. The appointment can be in one of the following departments in the School of Humanities and Sciences: Anthropology, Communication, Political Science, or Sociology. Teaching responsibilities will be determined by the home department.

Applicants should provide a cover letter including a brief statement of teaching and research interests (no more than 3 pages), a curriculum vitae including a list of publications, and a recent writing sample. Assistant level and untenured applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference submitted to AcademicJobsOnline.org. Currently tenured applicants may submit only the names of up to three references at this time. For full consideration, materials should be received by October 3, 2016.

Please use the following link to apply: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/7445>

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as from others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/3/2016
Date Posted: 7/8/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1598

NYU Shanghai

Rank: TENURE/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION Political Science, NYU Shanghai
Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Comparative Politics

TENURE/TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION
 Political Science
 NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in Political Science (rank open). The position is to begin September 1, 2017, pending budgetary and administrative approval.

Candidates must hold a PhD in Political Science or International Relations (or expect it by the start date); must have a record of excellent research and publications or presentations appropriate to career stage; and must have demonstrated teaching excellence and an interest in teaching in a diverse, international setting. Experience teaching non-native speakers of English preferred, but not required.

The terms of employment in NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions in terms of research start-up funds compensation, and include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016, and will be reviewed until the position is filled.

Members of the search committee will be available to meet interested applicants during the 2016 Annual Meeting of the APSA in Philadelphia, PA.

To be considered, applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, separate statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three pages each), and electronic copies of up to three recent relevant publications or working papers. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each reference will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Please visit our website at <http://shanghai.nyu.edu/en/about/work-here/open-positions-faculty> for instructions and other information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail shanghai.socialscience.recruitment@nyu.edu.

About NYU Shanghai:

NYU Shanghai is the newest degree-granting campus within the NYU Global Network University. It is the first Sino-US higher education joint venture to grant a degree that is accredited in the U.S. as well as in China. All teaching is conducted in English. A research university with liberal arts and science at its core, it resides in one of the world's great cities with a vibrant intellectual community. NYU Shanghai recruits scholars who are committed to NYU's global vision of transformative teaching and innovative research.

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University, a multi-site, organically connected network encompassing key global cities and idea capitals. There are three degree-granting campuses in New York, Shanghai, and Abu Dhabi, complemented by eleven additional academic centers across five continents. Faculty and students circulate within the network in pursuit of common research interests and cross-cultural, interdisciplinary endeavors, both local and global.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/15/2016
Date Posted: 7/6/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1590

University of Toronto

Rank: Politics of Sexual Diversity
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Other, Other

The Department of Political Science and the Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies at the University of Toronto invite applications for a full-time tenure-stream appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in the area of Politics of Sexual Diversity. This is a joint appointment between the Department (51%) and the Centre (49%) and will commence July 1, 2017.

We are looking for a candidate with research and teaching interests in the field of sexual diversity politics. The search committee welcomes a wide variety of applications from excellent candidates but will give preference to candidates with demonstrable research expertise engaging regions outside of Europe and North America and/or the politics of transnational advocacy. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St. George) campus. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must provide strong evidence of innovative research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees. Evidence of excellence in teaching is demonstrated by a strong statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, and endorsements from referees. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca> and the Mark S. Bonham Centre for Sexual Diversity Studies <http://www.uc.utoronto.ca/sexualdiversity>

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted online.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS word format.

Applicants should also ask at least three referees to send letters directly to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Professor Louis W. Pauly, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. To be assured of receiving consideration, applications must be received by October 6, 2016.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/6/2016
Date Posted: 6/13/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1536

Bowdoin College

Rank: Senior Faculty Position in Arctic Studies

Bowdoin College invites nominations and expressions of interest for a newly endowed position in Arctic Studies that will focus on the Arctic and some combination of policy, politics, and climate change. Appointment will be at the level of tenured associate or full professor and will begin July 1, 2016.

We seek a scholar-teacher whose work addresses one or more of the following in the context of the Arctic and circumpolar regions: international relations; law, politics, and policy; environmental issues; natural resource management and development; indigenous issues. The successful candidate will demonstrate a capacity for excellence in teaching in an undergraduate liberal arts environment, active engagement in research, and public leadership in their areas of expertise. This appointment will be in the Environmental Studies program and/or in the appropriate department relevant to the candidate's training and disciplinary affiliations. The candidate may also be affiliated with The Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum and Arctic Studies Center, one of the only such institutions of its kind at a liberal arts college. The normal teaching load is two courses per semester, including courses in the candidate's area of specialization.

Nominations and expressions of interest may be directed to the office of the Dean for Academic Affairs at acadaffs@bowdoin.edu. Expressions of interest should include a cover letter, c.v. and the names of three references.

Review will begin immediately and continue until an appointment is made.

A highly selective liberal arts college on the Maine coast with a diverse student body made up of 31% students of color, 5% international students and approximately 15% first generation college students,

Bowdoin College is committed to equality and diversity and is an equal opportunity employer. We encourage inquiries from candidates who will enrich and contribute to the cultural, socio-economic, and ethnic diversity of our college. Bowdoin College does not discriminate on the basis of age, race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression, marital status, religion, creed, ancestry, national and ethnic origin, physical or mental disability, or veteran status in employment, or in our education programs.?

Bowdoin College offers strong support for faculty research and teaching. We recognize that recruiting and retaining faculty may involve considerations of spouses and domestic partners. To that end, where possible, the College will attempt to accommodate and respond creatively to the needs of spouses and partners of members of the faculty.

For further information about the College please visit our website: <http://www.bowdoin.edu>.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 6/8/2015
Date Posted: 5/13/2015
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 18

University of Alaska, Fairbanks

Rank: Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Alaska Fairbanks (UAF) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics to begin August 16, 2015. The position is open with respect to geographic expertise and secondary field, but special consideration will be given to applicants who can teach courses in the American Politics and/or Public Law subfields. The Department is looking for candidates with a strong commitment to undergraduate education, an active research agenda, and interest in contributing to interdisciplinary graduate programs. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the start of appointment is required.

UAF is the flagship campus of the University of Alaska system, and America's Arctic university, with a diverse student body and favorable student-faculty ratio. For information on faculty, programs, and life in Alaska, visit www.uaf.edu/polisci. Application materials include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly writing (a recent peer-reviewed publication or dissertation chapter), three letters of recommendation (not more), and graduate transcripts (unofficial transcripts will initially be accepted). Visit <https://www.uakjobs.com/applicants/jsp/shared/frameset/Frameset.jsp?time=1431539145466> to begin the application process. Only electronic applications will be accepted.

The University of Alaska is an equal employment opportunity/affirmative action employer and educational institution. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. Applicants needing reasonable accommodation to participate in the application and screening process should contact the Human Resources office. 907.474.7700

Review of applications will begin on May 29, 2015 and continue until the position is filled.

The position is open with respect to geographic expertise and secondary field, but special consideration will be given to applicants who can teach courses in the American Politics and/or Public Law subfields.

The Department is looking for candidates with a strong commitment to undergraduate education, an active research agenda, and interest in contributing to interdisciplinary graduate programs. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the start of appointment is required.

Start Date:Application Deadline: 6/8/2015Date Posted: 5/13/2015Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 17Tarleton State University*Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Social Sciences at Tarleton State University is accepting applications for a full-time (9 month) tenure track assistant professor beginning September 1, 2015. This position has a normal teaching load of 12 credit hours per semester. The applicant will teach either or both required core courses GOVT 2305 Federal Government and GOVT 2306 Texas Government. The applicant should also have specializations in one or more of the following fields: International Relations, Developing Nations, African Studies, East and South East Asian Studies. The applicant is expected to pursue an active research agenda and to serve the department and university as required (see Tarleton State University Handbook for Faculty and Administrative Staff available at www.tarleton.edu).

Males, age 18 through 25, must be properly registered with the Selective Service System to be eligible for hire. This position is designated as a security sensitive position and requires a satisfactory criminal history background check. Tarleton State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer.

Special Instructions

Please apply online at <https://jobs.tarleton.edu/>. A cover letter, c.v., transcripts (official or unofficial) and three letters of recommendation should accompany your application. If you are not able to attach the documents when applying, please mail the requested documents to:

Tarleton State University

Dr. Eric Morrow

Department of Social Sciences

Box T-0660

Stephenville, TX 76402

If mailing, please make sure you reference the Posting Number #0801277, and title of this position.

Application Information

Contact: Tarleton State University

Online App: <https://jobs.tarleton.edu/>

More Information on Tarleton State University

Home Page:<http://www.tarleton.edu>Requirements:

Ph.D. (ABD status may be considered as long as all degree requirements, including dissertation, defense of dissertation, and comprehensive examinations, have been successfully completed by time of appointment (January 16, 2016).

The applicant should also have specializations in one or more of the following fields: International Relations, Developing Nations, African Studies, East and South East Asian Studies.

Start Date:Application Deadline: 10/28/2015Date Posted: 5/1/2015Salary: AnyeJobs ID: 33POLITICAL THEORY*United States Air Force Academy*Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling an Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning approximately June 26, 2017. Candidates should have teaching and research interests in any area of American politics, as well as expertise in political theory. Responsibilities include teaching core courses on American government and national security, introductory political theory, and upper division American government courses; maintaining a strong record of teaching and research; academic advising; and service on department and Academy committees. A doctoral degree in political science (or a closely related field) is required by the starting date. The position is open to U.S. citizens.

The United States Air Force Academy (USAFA), located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution that awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead in the United States Air Force in service to our nation. Faculty applications are invited from candidates who can contribute to this mission by interacting with cadets, both in and out of the classroom, as instructors and mentors. The student body consists of approximately 4,000 men and women representing every state and several foreign countries. The Academy faculty is an integrated group of military and civilian educators. The curriculum includes core academic and professional courses, and 27 disciplinary and interdisciplinary majors. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences.

The U.S. Air Force Academy is an Equal Opportunity Employer and provides reasonable accommodation to qualified applicants with disabilities. The Air Force believes that diversity is essential to accomplishing its mission. The Air Force Academy highly values individuals who have a demonstrated ability to work successfully with and help develop individuals of diverse backgrounds and perspectives. For the Air Force, diversity encompasses: personal life experiences, geographic background, socioeconomic background, cultural knowledge, educational background, work background, language abilities, physical abilities, philosophical/spiritual perspectives, age, race, ethnicity, and gender.

For detailed application requirements and to apply, go to www.usajobs.gov. Type in "USAF Academy" under Location, and "professor" under Key Words. Scroll down until you locate this position. Applications must be received by November 14, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017Application Deadline: 11/14/2016Date Posted: 9/30/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 2141

University of Colorado Denver

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Political Thought

Specializations: American Politics, Political Thought: Historical, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

The Political Science Department at the University of Colorado, Denver, invites applications for a Political Science specialist to fill a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor, starting August 2017. Applicants should have areas of expertise in the field of American Political Thought, with a critical approach to such issues as: race, gender, class, GLBTQ, disability or age. Applicants focusing either on historical or current perspectives in these fields are encouraged to apply.

The successful candidate will be rostered as a tenure-track assistant professor in either the Political Science Department. This position comes with research, teaching and service expectations. The standard teaching load is 2/2 (four courses an academic year), at both the undergraduate and graduate level.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited university; track record of engaging and innovative teaching; record of scholarly achievement or promise of future scholarly achievement; areas of expertise in the field of American Political Thought, with a critical approach to such issues as: race, gender, class, GLBTQ, disability or age.

GENERAL QUALITIES DESIRED: The Political Science Department is interested in candidates who can create innovative American studies courses. The Department values candidates with a record of, or interest in, community engagement.

SALARY AND BENEFITS: Salary is commensurate with skills and experience. The University of Colorado offers a full benefits package. Information on University benefits programs, including eligibility, is located at <https://www.cu.edu/employee-services>.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS Applicants should submit an electronic application packet by visiting the links referenced below. The packet should contain the following materials:

- A Cover Letter
- Curriculum Vita
- Graduate Transcript
- Research Writing Sample
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness, including a syllabus for a proposed American Political Thought course, teaching evaluations, and a statement of teaching philosophy
- Applicants should also have three letters of reference mailed to the same address.

To apply for this position go to <http://www.cu.edu/cu-careers>. Reference job posting 06808.

The direct link for this job position is: https://cu.taleo.net/careersection/2/jobdetail.ftl?job=06808&lang=en&sns_id=mailto#.V-G6Kvfp2Ao.mailto

Formal review of applications will begin December 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Colorado Denver is dedicated to ensuring a safe and secure environment for our faculty, staff, students and visitors. To assist in achieving that goal, we conduct background investigations for all prospective employees.

The University of Colorado Denver is committed to recruiting and supporting a diverse student body, faculty and administrative staff.

The university strives to promote a culture of inclusiveness, respect, communication and understanding. We encourage applications from women, ethnic minorities, persons with disabilities and all veterans. The University of Colorado is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment.

For more information, contact Search Committee Chair, Professor Christoph Stefes, at christoph.stefes@ucdenver.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2149

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Normative Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

College of Humanities & Social Sciences

School of Political Science

Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Political Theory to begin Fall 2017. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. The Department of Political Science is home to the Eric Voegelin Institute.

Candidates will assist with the teaching load of the Department of Political Science, and should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Candidates will also conduct research in sub-specialty of primary department.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check. Application review will begin November 1, 2016, and will continue until a candidate is selected.

Apply online and view a more detailed ad at: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/LSU---Baton-Rouge/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Theory_R00000208-1. Position # R00000208.

LSU is committed to diversity and is an equal opportunity/equal access employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2130

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor – American Politics

Position Summary:

Gettysburg College invites applications for a one year Visiting Assistant Professor position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2017.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department of Political Science seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory and advanced courses in these two subfields. A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/3.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/1875>. A curriculum vitae, cover letter, writing sample, transcripts, and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 15, 2016 for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Dr. Donald Borock at dborock@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2113

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.
- Possess a proven interest in the Simon Center's mission of promoting a proper understanding of America's founding principles and applying them to inform contemporary policy debates.

Location

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2017 to August 2018. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- 1.) A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- 2.) C.V.
- 3.) One academic writing sample and one or two non-academic pieces, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Dani Doane
Senior Program Manager
B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: dani.doane@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2090

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Program in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law (PPEL) and the Department of Philosophy at the University of Richmond invite applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin August 2017.

We seek a candidate with a strong commitment to high quality undergraduate education and primary research and teaching expertise in political philosophy. Among the required teaching responsibilities will be an undergraduate course in rational choice theory broadly construed, including decision-theory, game theory, and social choice theory. The successful candidate will be expected to teach a 2/3 course load per year. We seek individuals with demonstrated teaching excellence. A Ph.D. is required. ABDs will be considered, but must have completed the Ph.D. degree by the start date.

Applicants should apply online at jobs.richmond.edu using the Faculty (Instructional/Research) link. Applicants are asked to submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, a summary of current teaching and research interests, a writing sample, and names of three references, at least one of whom addresses the candidate's teaching ability, who will receive an automated email asking them to submit their reference letters to this website. Applications should be received by November 1, 2016.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the PPEL program or the philosophy department, see <http://ppel.richmond.edu> and <http://philosophy.richmond.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/22/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2097

Radford University

Rank: Tenure Track Position in Constitutional Law

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment to teach courses in Constitutional Law beginning August 10, 2017. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Candidates should possess: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field (Candidates with both a Ph.D. and a J.D. are preferred. ABD will be considered); (2) the ability to teach Constitutional Law and other courses as assigned (preference for candidates who can also teach Political Theory); (3) a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching; and (4) a productive program of research in the discipline. The successful applicant will be expected to advise students interested in pre-law.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

HOW TO APPLY

Candidates must submit the following electronically: (1) a letter of application; (2) a current and complete curriculum vita; (3) a statement of teaching philosophy; (4) evidence of teaching effectiveness; (5) a research sample; (6) names, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional/academic references and (7) copies of unofficial transcripts. All materials should be directed to Reginald Shareef, PhD., Chair, Search Committee at rshareef@radford.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. To receive full consideration, applications must be received by October 15, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/15/2016
Date Posted: 9/20/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2081

Whittier College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

Whittier College
 Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

Whittier College announces a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position in American Politics beginning Fall 2017.

We are particularly interested in the following areas: American politics and political methodology as well as courses in one or more of the following: women's studies, minority politics, environmental studies, and/or state and local politics emphasizing California.

Candidates should have earned a Ph.D. prior to September 2017 (ABD considered). The successful candidate will demonstrate potential for outstanding teaching and excellence in scholarship. The Political Science Department has five full-time faculty and approximately 90 majors. Faculty members teach six courses and are expected to teach college-wide courses such as Freshman Writing Seminars and/or courses paired with faculty in other disciplines as part of our general education program. In addition, all faculty must be fully engaged in committee service and advisement of students.

Review of completed applications will begin September 25, 2016 (for full consideration, complete applications must be in by October 10 2016). Please email (PDFs preferred) a letter of application that includes a reference to teaching philosophy and research interests; a curriculum vitae; a summary of course evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness; unofficial transcripts; and at least three confidential letters of recommendation sent by the references to Michael J. McBride at mmcbride@whittier.edu. Paper application and reference letters can be sent to Professor Michael J. McBride, Chair, Political Science Department; Whittier College; 13406 Philadelphia St.; Whittier, CA 90601.

Whittier College is committed to attracting and retaining a high quality, diverse faculty with a shared passion for student-centered teaching and mentoring. It is distinguished by its small class sizes, high-impact pedagogies, and innovative liberal arts curriculum blended with professional and pre-professional programs. It is a nationally recognized model for diversity and has no racial majority among its student body. With over 60% students of color, Whittier is designated as both a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI) and Asian American Native American Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI). Founded in 1887, it is an independent, four-year liberal arts college with about 1,650 undergraduates and is ideally situated in the scenic hills 18 miles east of downtown Los Angeles. It is an AA/EEO employer.

More information on the position is available at www.whittier.edu/jobs.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2075

Australian National University

Rank: Lecturer- Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Job no: 511175

Work type: Continuing (Contingent Funded)

Location: Canberra / ACT

Categories: Academic

Classification: Academic Level B

Salary package: $94,287 - $107,381 per annum plus 17% superannuation

Work with Australia's highest leading University-affiliated think tank, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre

Work with the award winning Military and Defence Studies program, at the Australian Command and Staff College

Standard teaching load of two courses per year (or equivalent)

Position overview

The ANU College of Asia and the Pacific (CAP) leads intellectual engagement with the Asia-Pacific region through research, teaching and contributions to public debate, and seeks to set the international standard for scholarship concerning the region.

Based at the College of Asia and the Pacific and within the highly regarded Coral Bell School of Asia Pacific Affairs, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre (SDSC) is Australia's highest ranked and largest concentration of scholars working on strategic and defence issues.

The Lecturers in Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations will deliver a major contribution to the SDSC's educational programs, particularly its Military and Defence Studies program. This graduate program is delivered by SDSC to mid-level military officers attending the Australian Command and Staff College (ACSC), where the Lecturers will primarily be based.

We are looking to appoint outstanding scholars with particular research and teaching expertise in the following areas:

Strategic Studies

Strategic Theory

Strategic Concepts

Nuclear strategy

Contemporary Military operations

Theory and practice of air operations

Theory and practice of maritime operations

As part of our ongoing efforts to rectify historical gender imbalances in the field of Strategic Studies, we are particularly keen to encourage highly-qualified female applicants.

For information about this position please contact Associate Professor Brendan Taylor on 02 61259928 or by email brendan.taylor@anu.edu.au

<http://bellschool.anu.edu.au>

The University actively encourages applications from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. For more information on employment opportunities, contact our Indigenous Employment Consultant on indigenous.employment@anu.edu.au

ANU values diversity and inclusion and believes employment opportunities must not be limited by socio-economic background, race, religion or gender. For more information about staff equity at ANU, visit <https://services.anu.edu.au/human-resources/respect-inclusion>

Application information

In order to apply for this role please make sure that you upload the following documents:

A statement addressing the selection criteria.

A current curriculum vitae (CV) which includes the names and contact details of at least three referees (preferably including a current or previous supervisor). If your CV does not include referees you can complete these online when prompted in the application form. Other documents, if required.

Applications which do not address the selection criteria may not be considered for the position.

To apply: <http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/511175/lecturer-strategic-studies-and-or-contemporary-military-operations>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2016

Salary: $100,000 - $109,999

eJobs ID: 2067

University of Richmond

Rank: Richard L. Morrill Distinguished University Chair in Ethics and Democratic Values

The University of Richmond invites nominations and applications for the Richard L. Morrill Distinguished University Chair in Ethics and Democratic Values for up to one semester in 2018-2019. The nominee's teaching and writing should demonstrate interest in the relationship between foundational values and ethics and various spheres of human activity, such as education, politics, business, or other areas of professional responsibility. The chair holder will be appointed to a department or school at the University of Richmond, with the possibility of joint appointments among one or more departments or schools.

The chair holder will offer at least one public lecture, lead a faculty seminar, or teach a course in his or her area of expertise; and otherwise engage with the intellectual community of the University. Compensation is competitive, including support for research during the period of the appointment.

From 1988 to 1998, Chancellor Richard L. Morrill served as the University of Richmond's seventh president. A scholar of the history of religious ideas and ethics, he has an enduring interest in the foundation of human values and democratic practice. A strong proponent of liberal arts education, Chancellor Morrill has a longstanding scholarly commitment to the ethical capabilities and presuppositions that sustain a democratic community. In his writings, teaching, and administrative leadership, he has addressed the connections between fundamental values and strategic leadership. The University of Richmond's Board of Trustees elected Richard L. Morrill to be the first holder of the Chair from July 1, 1998 to June 30, 2004.

Candidates should submit a letter of application and curriculum vitae, and provide the names and email addresses of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016; applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The first school of leadership studies and a highly ranked business school enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

The University of Richmond is an Equal Opportunity Employer by both policy and practice. Applicants are considered for all positions without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, marital or veteran status, or the presence of a non-job-related medical condition.

Start Date: 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2041

Vanderbilt University

Rank: John L. Seigenthaler Chair in American History

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

The College of Arts and Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from distinguished scholars for appointment to the newly-created John L. Seigenthaler Chair in American History. Named for the civil rights champion and passionate advocate of First Amendment rights, the chair recognizes exceptional scholarship on the history of civil rights, broadly defined, and the full range of civil rights movements. The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and an exemplary record of publication in humanities, social sciences or law. The final appointment will be in a department corresponding with the candidate's training and scholarship.

Applicants should upload a single PDF containing a letter of interest and complete curriculum vitae to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7858>. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2016. Files will continue to be accepted until the search is complete. Inquiries and nominations may be sent to Professor Jefferson Cowie (j.cowie@vanderbilt.edu).

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional faculty. Women, minorities, and members of other underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2051

Swarthmore College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Theory)

The Department of Political Science at Swarthmore College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Theory at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in the fall semester of 2017. Applicants must demonstrate excellence in undergraduate teaching as well as research. We are particularly interested in candidates with both experience in and enthusiasm for teaching a range of undergraduate courses in the history of political thought (from ancient through modern and postmodern). The position is otherwise open as to specialization and the successful candidate would also have the opportunity to develop courses in one's specific area of interest.

Applicants should submit three syllabi, one for an introductory course and two for intermediate or upper-level courses. These syllabi represent an important part of the application. Candidates should also submit a cover letter which should include a statement of what is likely to make you a strong teacher of diverse students, a short writing sample of not more than 40 pages, their c.v., graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7805>. In your cover letter, please briefly describe your current research agenda; what would be attractive to you about teaching in a liberal arts college environment; and what background, experience, or interests are likely to make you a strong teacher of Swarthmore College students. The deadline for applications is November 1, 2016.

Swarthmore College is a highly selective liberal arts college, located in the suburbs of Philadelphia, whose mission combines academic rigor with social responsibility. Swarthmore has a strong institutional commitment to inclusive excellence through diversity in its educational program and employment practices. The College actively seeks and welcomes applications from candidates with exceptional qualifications, particularly those with demonstrable commitments to a more inclusive society and world.

For more information on Faculty Diversity and Excellence at Swarthmore, see <http://www.swarthmore.edu/faculty-diversity-excellence/information-candidates-new-faculty>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2007

Wayne State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, Political Theory

WAYNE STATE UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor, Tenure Track, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan, seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in Political Theory at the level of Assistant Professor. The department is interested in candidates with research and teaching specializations in the above field and with any substantive focus. The department offers B.A., B.P.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in addition to a NASPAA-accredited M.P.A. degree. Candidates must be prepared to teach Political Theory in our Ph.D. program as well as teach courses in the department's undergraduate curriculum. The standard teaching load is two courses per semester with a starting date of August, 2017. Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, statement of research interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and arrange to have at least three letters of reference sent to: Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 2040 Faculty/Administration Building, Wayne State University, Detroit, MI 48202. Upon receipt of your application, you will be prompted to apply online using a link supplied to you by the Search Committee. Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Wayne State University is a nationally recognized Carnegie Research I (Doctoral/Research Extensive) institution with an urban teaching mission. It comprises 12 academic colleges offering over 350 undergraduate, graduate, and professional degrees, including medicine, law, arts and sciences, engineering, business, pharmacy, health sciences, and education to more than 28,000 students. The National Science Foundation has ranked Wayne State among the top 60 U.S. public institutions for annual research expenditures. Wayne State University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1972

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2017. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2017.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must have three letters of recommendation, CV, and job market paper submitted by November 30, 2016. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as from others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/30/2016

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1961

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites postdoctoral students who will be completing or will have recently completed a Ph.D. to apply for its Postdoctoral Democracy Fellowship. The Democracy Fellowships aim to support postdoctoral scholars whose research illuminates aspects of democratic governance in ways that are innovative and push the boundaries of their academic disciplines, whether political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. Furthermore, their research should have the potential for normative or practical relevance regarding urgent substantive policy or social problems related to democratic governance.

Postdoctoral Fellows join the Ash Center's academic community and participate in the Democracy Fellows weekly seminar. The fellowship provides time and space for the fellows to work on preparing either a book manuscript based on their dissertation or related academic publications. For more information about the Democracy Fellowships, see our Five-Year Retrospective (<http://ash.harvard.edu/democracyretrospective>) and the fellowship homepage (<http://ash.harvard.edu/democracy-postdoctoral-fellowships>).

Eligibility:

Preference will be given to postdoctoral scholars whose research interests coincide with the Ash Center's current focus on innovations in public participation and political participation in non-democracies. Eligible applicants will be completing or will have just recently completed dissertations—within the previous three years—in the fields of political theory, political philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. The duration of the fellowship is two academic years.

Benefits:

Fellows will receive a stipend of $60,000 annually, $2,500 per year for research during the fellowship, shared office space at the Ash Center, and access to Harvard's libraries and online library services. Fellowships for the 2017-2019 academic year begin in August 2017.

How to Apply:

Please complete the online application (available at https://harvard.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_1UrVmeLOiyViEvj) by October 1, 2016, for the 2017-2019 academic year. With questions please contact Hannah Hilligoss at hannah_hilligoss@hks.harvard.edu, Program and Research Assistant for the Democratic Governance Program.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1851

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Security, Defense, Intelligence

WMD Counter Proliferation

Department of Defense Analysis

Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill a tenure-track open rank position in international security with expertise on the counter proliferation of weapons of mass destruction (WMD). The successful candidate can be from any relevant academic discipline, but will be an expert in a wide variety of weapons of mass destruction (WMD) issues. The position will require teaching and research related to the proliferation and technologies of WMD, as well as international and US policy and strategy designed to counter the proliferation of WMD. A broad knowledge of US national security policy, as well as of the relevant international security literature is also required. Familiarity with emerging technologies and their impact on the future of proliferation and warfare is a plus. The successful candidate will be expected to teach mid-career military officers from the Special Operations community across all branches of the U.S. military and from allied countries, advise thesis work, engage the broader professional WMD community of practice, and secure sponsor funding on these topics.

NPS provides graduate education to military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government. The preferred candidate will have teaching experience and a publication record commensurate with his or her academic experience. The candidate must also have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a diverse faculty across a spectrum of issue areas. Position responsibilities include teaching, research, service, and thesis oversight. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for tenure-track faculty is four graduate courses per year.

The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, about 120 miles south of San Francisco. The Defense Analysis Department offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to 150 in-resident students (on average), a cross-disciplinary teaching and research faculty of 40-plus personnel, and three respected research centers, the Defense Analysis Department provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st Century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in any relevant discipline as applied to WMD and counter-proliferation (e.g., Engineering, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, International Security, Political Science, Economics, Law, History, Sociology, Government, or other field)
- U.S. citizenship. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Publication record commensurate with academic experience.

Additional preferred qualifications:

- Experience teaching graduate students.
- Operational experience in either the intelligence or interagency, or international counter-proliferation communities is desired.

The position is now open and the application period will close on 10 October 2016. Candidates should submit their materials electronically to daborer@nps.edu. Email Subject Heading: WMD/CP Search.

Include curriculum vitae, a cover letter, sample publication(s), three letters of recommendation and other supporting material.

Address electronic cover letter to:

Dr. Douglas Borer, Chairman, WMD Search Committee, Department of Defense Analysis, 589 Dyer Road, Room 103F, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA, 93943.

Do not send paper applications.

Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Relocation expenses, including recruitment/relocation incentive, may be authorized in accordance with applicable regulations.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE A VETERAN, you are strongly encouraged to: Identify your Veterans' Preference on your resume or elsewhere in your application package (type of preference, dates of service, date of VA letter, character of service, etc...)

Additional Veterans' information: If you are not sure of your preference eligibility, visit the Department of Labor's website: <http://www.dol.gov/elaws/vets/vetpref/meservice.htm>. For more veterans' preference information, visit: <http://www.fedshirevets.gov/job/vetpref/index.aspx>.

The Naval Postgraduate School is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at <http://www.nps.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1899

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2017 to June 30, 2018. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition 1600685.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2016 for appointments beginning in September 2017. Awards will be announced in March 2017.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1846

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the year from September 1, 2017 to September 1, 2018 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> by December 1, 2016; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2017. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, please go to requisition #1600687.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1847

Campbell University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science

Assistant/Associate Professor – Department of History, Criminal Justice and Political Science

Department: College of Arts and Sciences

This position will be: Full Time

Description

The Department of History, Criminal Justice and Political Science in the College of Arts and Sciences at Campbell University seeks applicants for a full-time (9 month), tenure-track position in political science, either at the assistant or associate level, beginning August 2017.

Requirements | Qualifications

A Ph.D. in political science is desirable, but ABDs will be considered. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach undergraduate courses at all levels, with a particular focus on constitutional law and political theory. The new hire will teach, advise, and mentor majors and other students in a long-established, interdisciplinary and vibrant pre-law curriculum. The typical teaching load is 4 courses (12 hours) per semester. Candidates must be committed to liberal arts education; support the Christian mission of the University; and be dedicated to excellence in undergraduate teaching, mentoring students, and scholarship.

Compensation: Compensation will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Benefits include health, disability, and retirement plans.

Additional Instructions

Applications should be submitted online using the link below. Please electronically submit a letter of application citing education, experience, pedagogical approach, and additional qualifications as they relate to teaching at Campbell University. The application packet should also include a current curriculum vitae as well as copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts for all institutions attended. Additionally, please provide names and contact information for three references.

See link below to apply.

<http://www.campbell.edu/about/employment/>

Review of applications will begin September 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. Campbell University is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Campbell University maintains a continuing policy of nondiscrimination in employment. It is our policy to provide equal opportunity in all phases of the employment process and in compliance with applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations. Accordingly, the University is committed to administering all educational and employment activities without discrimination as to race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, ethnicity or national origin, religion, disability, genetic information, protected veteran status and any other characteristic protected by law, except where appropriate and authorized by law. This policy of nondiscrimination shall include, but not be limited to, the following employment decisions and practices: hiring; upgrading; promotions; demotions or transfers; layoffs; recalls; terminations; rates of pay or other forms of compensation; selection for training, including apprenticeship; and recruitment or recruitment advertising. Employees and applicants of Campbell University will not be subjected to any form of harassment or discrimination for exercising rights protected by, or because of their participation in, an investigation or compliance review related to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Executive Order 11246, Section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, the Veterans Employment Opportunities Act of 1998, or any other federal or state nondiscrimination law, rule, or regulation.

Campbell University also maintains affirmative action programs to implement our equal employment opportunity policy. Employees or applicants who wish to review appropriate portions of these affirmative action programs may schedule an appointment to do so by contacting the Vice President for Business and Treasurer at the Buies Creek campus, during normal business hours.

Campbell University will no longer be accepting paper applications. Please apply online by clicking "Apply for this Position" below the description of the position for which you are applying. If you have any questions, or if you are an individual with a disability and need assistance completing an application for employment contact the Human Resources Department at 910-893-1699 or email hr@campbell.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1941

Monmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor Political Science

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Monmouth College, a selective, private, residential liberal arts college in Illinois invites applications for a tenure-track position beginning July 2017. We are seeking a broadly trained Political Scientist who could teach courses in international relations and political philosophy. A Ph.D. is required for this position but ABD candidates will be considered.

Candidates must show enthusiasm for interdisciplinary teaching and for participating in general education, including Monmouth's Integrated Studies Curriculum and advancing a growing Pre-Law Program. A commitment to the liberal arts and an appreciation for the small college learning environment is essential.

Located in the welcoming community of Monmouth, Illinois, the college is a member of the prestigious Associated Colleges of the Midwest. Following the adoption and implementation of a groundbreaking interdisciplinary general education curriculum and the continuation of a bold strategic plan entitled "Think Anew, Act Anew," the college is now prepared to move confidently forward as an innovator among liberal arts colleges. The college has invested $120 Million into campus facilities since 2002 and this year Money Magazine ranked Monmouth 28th out of 736 "Best Colleges" in the Most Affordable Private Colleges category. The Princeton Review named Monmouth a "Best in the Midwest" in its 2015 Best Colleges Survey.

Send letter of application, resume and the names and telephone numbers of three references to: Farhat Haq, Chair, Political Science Search Committee, Monmouth College by e-mail to: facultysearch@monmouthcollege.edu. Review of applications will begin October 31st, and continue until the position is filled.

Monmouth College, an Equal Opportunity Employer, is committed to diversity and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Monmouth does not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, national origin, ancestry, disability, age, military service, marital status, sexual orientation, pregnancy or other factors as prohibited by law in its employment policies.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1937

Eastern University-St Davids

Rank: Assistant Professor American Government

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Assistant Professor American Government
Political Science Department
2016-2017 AY Replacement Search

The Department of Political Science at Eastern University, a university of the liberal arts and sciences located in St. Davids Pennsylvania, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning in the fall of 2017. We are seeking to fill a position in American Government with preference given to individuals who can contribute to Political Theory. Candidates should desire to participate in the liberal arts core by teaching courses that explore the intersection of faith, reason, and justice. A Ph.D. in hand is preferred but ABD candidates nearing completion are also encouraged to apply. Please note that a J.D. is not sufficient for this appointment.

Eastern University is a Christian university of the arts and sciences that integrates faith, reason and justice for students in its undergraduate, graduate, Seminary, urban, professional and international programs. Applicants should have a religious commitment compatible with its mission and be willing to endorse by signing Eastern University's doctrinal statement. The university complies with federal and state guidelines of nondiscrimination in employment; members of protected classes encouraged to apply.

This description is intended to describe the general level and nature of work performed by the person/people assigned to this position. It is not to be construed as an exhaustive list of duties and responsibilities of the person/people so assigned.

Review of applications will begin January 1, 2017. Applicants are requested to send a cover letter including a brief statement of your faith, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations (or portfolio), unofficial copies of graduate transcripts, and three professional letters of recommendation/reference to jobs@eastern.edu or by mail to:

Eastern University
Office of Human Resources
1300 Eagle Rd.
St. Davids, PA 19087-3696

All positions remain open until filled.

Interested candidates participating in the APSA Annual Meeting should contact Dr. Sharon Gramby-Sobukwe to arrange an on-campus visit and interview.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1874

Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM)

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Political Economy, Regulatory Policy, Quantitative Methods

The Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM) invites applicants for a position at the assistant professor level in the Political Science Department, commencing in August 2017. This is an open field position with preference for candidates in the fields of Comparative Politics, Political-Economy, Methods (formal and quantitative), and Political Theory (contemporary political theory along with Comparative Politics or Social Choice). Candidates should preferably have a focus on regulatory politics, or policy evaluation.

ITAM is an academic institution committed to scientific excellence and oriented to the international academic community. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to research and should possess a Ph.D. in political science, but ABDs will be considered if there is a reasonable expectation of completion by December 2016. Classes can be taught in Spanish or English. Salary and teaching loads are in accordance to U.S. standards. Candidates can interview at the 2016 APSA Meeting in Philadelphia.

Information about the Department can be found at: <http://departamentodecienciapolitica.itam.mx/es>

CONTACT: Prof. Vidal Romero, Political Science Department, ITAM, Rio Hondo # 1, Mexico City, D.F. 01800, Mexico; email: vromero@itam.mx.

Application Instructions: Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research papers, research statement (2 page limit), and three letters of reference in pdf format to marta.cebollada@itam.mx by November 1, 2016.

For more information, phone: +52(55)5628-4000, x.3788.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/23/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1866

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government (Political Theory)

The Department of Government at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in political theory, with a special interest in candidates working in the areas of religion and politics, law, liberalism, and ancient and medieval, Continental, or American political thought. The department has a strong record of research and teaching in the history of political thought, broadly conceived, and applications are encouraged from scholars whose work speaks to this tradition. A Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment is required, as is evidence of excellence, or potential for excellence, in research and publication. The teaching load is two courses per semester, typically a mixture of undergraduate and Ph.D.-level offerings. The department values new perspectives on the world and is deeply committed to building a more open discipline that seeks excellence wherever it may lie. Applications should be filed using the online system at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7688>. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. Please email all inquiries to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Richard Boyd, rb352@georgetown.edu. For full consideration, applications should aim to arrive by September 20, 2016, but review of candidates will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1863

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2017 to June 30, 2018. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition 1600686.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2016 for appointments beginning in September 2017. Awards will be announced in March 2017.

Please address any inquiries to:
Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/18/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1845

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

The Department of Political Science within the Division of Social Sciences at the University of California San Diego (<http://polisci.ucsd.edu>) invites applications in any field for multiple appointments at the rank of tenure-track Assistant Professor to begin July 1, 2017. Applicants should demonstrate strong skills in analytic reasoning, broadly defined, which may include one or more of the following: formal theory, analytic political philosophy, modelling, and quantitative methods. Successful candidates must hold, or expect to soon complete, a PhD.

Our department is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. Preferred candidates will share this commitment and be prepared to teach graduate and undergraduate students, demonstrate the highest standards of scholarship and professional activity, and contribute to a campus climate that supports equity, inclusion, and diversity. Appointment level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales.

To apply, candidates must provide a cover letter, vita, samples of written research, three letters of reference, and a statement summarizing past and/or potential contributions to diversity and leadership (further information about this statement is at: <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html>). All materials should be submitted via UCSD AP Online RECRUIT (<https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01163>) for position: Assistant Professor, Political Science.

Review of applications will begin September 18, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1819

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Kinder Institute Professor of Constitutional Democracy
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Job Description

The Department of Political Science at the University of Missouri invites applications for the Kinder Institute (Assistant/Associate/Full) Professor of Constitutional Democracy to begin in the Fall Semester 2017. The position is open rank in Political Science and holds a joint appointment with the Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy.

Started in 2014 and supported by a generous grant from the Kinder Foundation, a family philanthropic foundation established by Rich and Nancy Kinder, the Kinder Institute is an interdisciplinary academic center at the University of Missouri dedicated to promoting excellence in teaching and scholarship on American political thought and history, broadly construed.

The successful candidate will teach four classes per year, maintain an active research and publishing agenda, contribute to undergraduate and graduate education, and participate in the intellectual community and activities of the Kinder Institute.

Qualifications

Applicants must demonstrate a track record of excellence in teaching and publication in a subject area that advances the mission of the Kinder Institute. Special consideration will be given to candidates whose prior work bridges subfields in political science and reflects the potential to teach courses in the area of political institutions and/or political and constitutional development. A Ph.D. in political science is required at the time of the appointment.

Application Materials

Applicants should use the online application system available at <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic/index.php>. Apply for Job ID 20828. See here for a direct link to this job: https://myhr.umsystem.edu/psp/tamext/COLUM/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&SiteId=9&JobOpeningId=20828&PostingSeq=1.

Applicants should include a statement of teaching philosophy, and an outline of a current research agenda in the "attachments" portion of the system. Applicants should merge their CV with a brief cover letter and upload the document in the Resume/CV section of the application. Candidates at the rank of assistant professor should also include three letters of recommendation. Candidates at the rank of associate or full professor should may provide the names and contact information for three references.

All letters of recommendation should be sent to politicalscience@missouri.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016.

Other Information

For more information about the Kinder Institute, including descriptions of all faculty, graduate and undergraduate programs, please visit democracy.missouri.edu.

The University of Missouri is fully committed to achieving the goal of a diverse and inclusive academic community of faculty, staff and students. We seek individuals who are committed to this goal and our core campus values of respect, responsibility, discovery and excellence.

Benefit Eligibility

This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at <http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits>

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of Missouri is an equal access, equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is fully committed to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. Equal Opportunity is and shall be provided for all employees and applicants for employment on the basis of their demonstrated ability and competence without unlawful discrimination on the basis of their race, color, national origin, ancestry, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status. For more information, call the Associate Vice Chancellor of Human Resource Services/Affirmative Action officer at 573-882-4256.

To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility & ADA Education at 573-882-5835.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1813

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory/Law

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in Political Theory and/or Law at the rank of assistant professor. The position requires outstanding research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. The position is open with respect to substantive research focus. Dartmouth College combines a commitment to innovative scholarship with dedication to excellent teaching. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or evidence of substantial progress toward a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, C.V., three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and, if available, evidence of excellence in teaching. Dartmouth College combines a commitment to innovative scholarship with dedication to excellent teaching.

Application materials should be submitted electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/36690> To guarantee full consideration, all materials should be uploaded and available for review by September 7, 2016. Questions may be sent to: government.department@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1793

Duke University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Duke University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor in the field of Political Theory to begin in July or August 2017. We are seeking candidates conversant in the history of political thought whose work engages important contemporary political issues. Candidates should have potential for excellence in teaching and research at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The search is not restricted to any particular subfields within political theory. Successful candidates will be expected to have completed the Ph.D. no later than July 1, 2017.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest describing their research agenda, a curriculum vitae, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample, evidence of teaching excellence, and three letters of recommendation. All application materials should be submitted electronically using the following site: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7633>. Address correspondence to: Chair, Political Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 140 Science Drive, 208 Gross Hall, Box 90204, Duke University, Durham, NC 27708-0204.

Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. Duke University is located in Durham, North Carolina and is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1778

University of Chicago

Rank: Collegiate Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Political Theory

The University of Chicago Society of Fellows is now accepting applications for four-year postdoctoral teaching appointments as Harper and Schmidt Fellows who hold the rank of Collegiate Assistant Professor. The Fellows are members of the College Faculty whose primary responsibility is to teach in the general education (Core) program.

Core courses in the Humanities typically deal with fundamental issues and texts in history, philosophy, and literature. Currently, the Core is organized into seven year-long sequences: Readings in World Literature; Human Being and Citizen; Greece and Rome: Texts, Traditions,

Transformations; Philosophical Perspectives on the Humanities; Media Aesthetics; Reading Cultures; and Language and the Human. For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/humanities-course-descriptions>

Core courses in the Social Sciences explore, on the basis of significant works, the fundamental concepts and the different modes of inquiry that have defined the social sciences in the modern period. Currently, Fellows teach in four of the year-long sequences into which the Core is organized: Self, Culture and Society; Classics of Social and Political Thought; Power, Identity, and Resistance; and Social Science Inquiry. Some Fellows also teach in the History of European Civilization Core sequence. European Civilization is taught on the basis of intensive readings of significant primary source documents.

For a description of these sequences see: <https://societyoffellows.uchicago.edu/page/social-sciences-course-descriptions>

The positions are open to scholars in all disciplines and areas of specialization who will have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. degree no later than August 31, 2017. Candidates must demonstrate excellence in their original scholarship as well as in teaching.

In most years, Fellows teach two courses (usually of identical preparation) for each of three quarters. Each Fellow also has the opportunity to design an independent course and each is eligible for one quarter of research sabbatical in the third year of residence. The annual salary for 2017-18 will be $67,650. The effective date for these teaching appointments is September 1, 2017.

To apply for these positions, please see our web site at <http://fellows.uchicago.edu>. The web site will be available to accept applications beginning August 31, 2016.

Important deadlines:

On line application deadline: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 14, 2016.

Deadline for receipt of letters of recommendations: 11:59:59 PM CDT, Friday, October 28, 2016. This includes letters of recommendation from your three recommenders or those received from a dossier service.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information, or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at http://www.uchicago.edu/about/non_discrimination_statement/.

Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-834-0681 or email dneibel@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1785

McGill University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Gender and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

McGill University

Department of Political Science

Assistant Professor, Gender and Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in Gender and Politics. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as Gender and Politics, Feminist Theories and Methodologies, and/or the empirical study of gender, as well as courses in the candidate's specific area(s) of expertise.

The Department welcomes applications from qualified candidates working within any subfield or methodological approach in Political Science. While all applications will be given full consideration, we are particularly interested in scholars whose work addresses the politics of gender and sexuality in their articulation and intersections with indigeneity, race, class, disability, and/or other axes of marginalization, power and identity.

An applicant's record of performance must provide evidence of outstanding research potential and the ability to teach effectively at the undergraduate and graduate level, as well as the ability to provide supervision for graduate students.

Appointment is expected to be at the rank of Assistant Professor, but appointment at a higher rank is possible under exceptional circumstances. Candidates should have already completed the PhD or be very near completion.

Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work and material pertinent to teaching skills. The position start date is August 1, 2017.

For more information about the Department and University, visit our web site at: <http://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/>.

The Department maintains a close relationship with several Centers and Institutes on campus that will be possible places of research affiliation for the successful candidate. These include: the Institute for Gender, Sexuality, and Feminist Studies (IGSF), <http://www.mcgill.ca/igsf/>; the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS) <http://www.mcgill.ca/rgcs/>; the Center for the Study of Democratic Citizenship (CSDC), www.csdcced.ca; the Center for International Peace and Security Studies (CIPSS), <http://cepsi-cipss.ca/en/>; the McGill Institute for the Study of International Development (ISID), www.mcgill.ca/isid; and the European Union Centre of Excellence (EUCE), www.centreurope-montreal.ca.

Inquiries about this position may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Hudson Meadwell, hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

Review of applications will begin on October 10 and will continue until the position is filled.

PLEASE APPLY ONLINE AT: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/7567>.

McGill University is committed to diversity and equity in employment. It welcomes applications from: women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, persons of minority sexual orientation or gender identity, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to diversification. All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Université McGill
Département de science politique
Professeur adjoint, Genre et Politiques

Le département de Sciences politiques de l'Université McGill lance un appel à candidatures pour un poste en Genre et Politiques menant à la permanence. Le candidat retenu devra enseigner au niveau des études du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs, et donner des cours en Genre et Politiques, sur les théories et méthodologies féministes et (ou) l'étude empirique du genre, de même que des cours dans son ou ses domaines d'expertise.

Le département invite à postuler les candidats qualifiés qui travaillent dans un sous-champ des Sciences politiques ou avec une approche méthodologique de cette discipline. Toutes les demandes seront examinées minutieusement, mais nous nous intéressons tout particulièrement à des universitaires dont les travaux portent les politiques en matière de différence des sexes et de sexualité dans leur interdépendance et leurs liens avec l'indigénité, la race, la classe, l'invalidité et (ou) d'autres axes de la marginalisation, du pouvoir et de l'identité.

Les antécédents des candidats doivent démontrer un potentiel exceptionnel pour la recherche de même que l'aptitude à enseigner efficacement à des étudiants du premier cycle et des cycles supérieurs et la capacité à superviser des étudiants aux cycles supérieurs.

Le département recherche un professeur adjoint. Toutefois, le recrutement d'un candidat de plus haut niveau est envisageable dans des cas exceptionnels. Le candidat souhaité détient, ou a presque terminé, un PhD.

Chaque candidature doit comprendre le curriculum vitae du postulant, son relevé de notes de l'université, trois lettres de référence, un exemplaire d'un article publié et des documents relatifs à ses aptitudes à enseigner. L'entrée en fonction est prévue pour le 1er août 2017.

Pour en savoir plus sur l'université et le département en cause, consulter notre site Web à l'adresse: <http://www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience/>.

Le département entretient des liens étroits avec de nombreux centres et instituts sur les campus, qui peuvent s'avérer des endroits propices à une affiliation en recherche pour le candidat retenu. Ces centres et instituts comprennent: l'Institut Genre, sexualité et féminisme (IGSF), <http://www.mcgill.ca/igsf/>; Le Groupe de recherche sur les études constitutionnelles (RGCS), <http://www.mcgill.ca/rgcs/>; le Centre pour l'étude de la citoyenneté démocratique (CÉCD), www.csdcccd.ca; le Centre d'études sur la paix et la sécurité internationale (CEPSI), <http://cepsi-cipss.ca/>; l'Institut d'étude du développement international de McGill (IEDI), www.mcgill.ca/isiid/; et le Centre d'excellence sur l'Union européenne (CEUE), www.centreurope-montreal.ca.

Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de cette position peuvent être envoyées au Directeur du département, Hudson Meadwell, à hudson.meadwell@mcgill.ca.

L'étude des candidatures commencera le 10 octobre 2016 et se poursuivra jusqu'à ce qu'un candidat ait été retenu.

POSTULER EN LIGNE À L'ADRESSE: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7567>.

L'Université McGill souscrit à la diversité et à l'équité en matière d'emploi. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi: des femmes, des peuples Autochtones, des minorités ethniques, des personnes handicapées, des personnes de toutes orientations et identités sexuelles, des minorités visibles, et d'autres personnes qui pourraient contribuer à une plus grande diversité. On encourage tous les candidats qualifiés à postuler; veuillez noter que conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera toutefois accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 10/9/2016

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1765

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Department of Political Science and Public Administration invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in Political Theory. Required qualifications include: Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field, with a primary focus on questions of race or gender; demonstrated excellence or strong potential in research; and a commitment to teaching in a diverse environment. Candidates with the ability to empirically evaluate political theory regarding race or gender will also be considered. The nine month tenure track position begins Fall 2017.

Applications must be submitted electronically to <https://jobs.uncc.edu>. Please attach the following documents with your electronic application: (1) letter of application outlining your scholarly interests and agenda, including teaching experience, related to the qualifications outlined above; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) a copy of graduate transcript; (4) one sample of professional writing; and (5) evidence of teaching effectiveness. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be sent either electronically in PDF format or by regular mail. All letters must be addressed to John Szmer, Political Theory Search Committee Chair, UNC Charlotte, 9201 University City Blvd, Fretwell 435F, Charlotte, NC 28223 or jjzmer@uncc.edu. Any questions should be directed to Dr. Szmer.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte is an AA/EOE and an ADVANCE Institution that strives to create an academic climate in which the dignity of all individuals is respected and maintained. It values diversity that includes, but is not limited to ability/disability, age, culture, ethnicity, gender, language, race, religion, sexual orientation, and socio-economic status. Applicants will be subject to a criminal background check.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/22/2016

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1752

Baylor University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, Political Thought: Historical

Baylor University is a private Christian university and a nationally ranked research institution, consistently listed with highest honors among The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Great Colleges to Work For." Chartered in 1845 by the Republic of Texas through the efforts of Baptist pioneers, Baylor is the oldest continuously operating university in Texas. The university provides a vibrant campus community for over 15,000 students from all 50 states and more than 80 countries by blending interdisciplinary research with an international reputation for educational excellence and a faculty commitment to teaching and scholarship. Baylor is actively recruiting new faculty with a strong commitment to the classroom and an equally strong commitment to discovering new knowledge as we pursue our bold vision, Pro Futuris. (www.baylor.edu/profuturis/).

Baylor seeks to fill this open-rank faculty position within the College of Arts & Science. The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for a position in American Politics, with emphasis in American constitutional law and political thought, especially that of the Founding Era, beginning in the fall of 2017. Established research and teaching credentials in these fields are expected, and interests in constitutional principles and the modern political thought in which they emerged will be especially welcome. The search is open in rank. Applicants will be expected to contribute immediately to the flourishing BA, MA, and PhD programs in the department. Review of applications will begin as they are received, and to assure full consideration applications should arrive by October 1, 2016.

Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in Political Science in the field of American Politics. Please submit a letter of application, current curriculum vitae, official transcripts showing highest degree conferred (ABD, also send official transcript of completed Ph.D. hours), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing samples, and a statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Send application materials to:

Professor David Nichols, Search Committee Chair
Baylor University
One Bear Place #97276
Waco, Texas 76798
254-710-3161
David_Nichols@baylor.edu

Materials may be submitted electronically to: Jenice_Langston@baylor.edu

To learn more about the above position, the College of Arts and Sciences, and Baylor University, please visit the appropriate URL: http://www.baylor.edu/artsandsciences/?_buref=1172-91940 or www.baylor.edu/hr/facultypositions.

Baylor University is a private not-for-profit university affiliated with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, Baylor is committed to compliance with all applicable anti-discrimination laws, including those regarding age, race, color, sex, national origin, marital status, pregnancy status, military service, genetic information, and disability. As a religious educational institution, Baylor is lawfully permitted to consider an applicant's religion as a selection criterion. Baylor encourages women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1740

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Political Theory Assistant/Associate/Full Professor

POLITICAL THEORY. The MIT Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time position in Political Theory, open as to rank. Responsibilities include graduate and undergraduate teaching and research supervision.

MIT is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and strongly encourages applications from women, minorities, veterans, and individuals with disabilities. MIT is interested in applicants with experience and interest in communities of color, cultures other than their own, culturally diverse groups and developing and implementing curricula that address multicultural perspectives.

Applicants at the assistant professor level should include a C.V., sample dissertation chapter(s), and three recommendations. Applicants at the tenured level should supply a cover letter, C.V., writing sample, and a list of references. Please submit online applications to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7585>.

Completed applications must be submitted by September 15, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/4/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1732

Middlebury College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, the Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time two-year term position in Political Philosophy beginning in September 2017. We are seeking broadly trained candidates prepared to teach the introductory course in political philosophy as well as a variety of upper-tier courses. We will consider candidates with research agendas in any area of political philosophy. Appointment will be made at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor. Candidates should provide evidence of commitment to excellent teaching and scholarly potential.

Middlebury College is a top-tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. An Equal Opportunity Employer, the College is committed to hiring a diverse faculty as we work to foster innovation in our curriculum and to provide a rich and varied educational experience to our increasingly diverse student body. EOE/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disability.

Middlebury College uses Interfolio to collect all job applications electronically. Email and paper applications will not be accepted. At Middlebury, we strive to make our campus a respectful, engaged community that embraces differences, with all the complexity and individuality each person brings. In your application materials we encourage you to address how your teaching, scholarship, mentorship and/or community service might support our commitment to diversity and inclusion. Through Interfolio, please submit a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, undergraduate and graduate transcripts, a statement of teaching and research plans, two samples of scholarly work, course evaluations, and three current letters of recommendation, at least two of which must speak to teaching ability and promise. More information is available at <https://apply.interfolio.com/36502>. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016, and continue until the position is filled.

Offers of employment are contingent upon completion of a background check. More information regarding background checks may be found at: <http://go.middlebury.edu/backgroundchecks>.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/4/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1709

Princeton University

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor of Religion and the University Center for Human Values

The University Center for Human Values and the Department of Religion at Princeton University invite applications from accomplished scholars working primarily in the field of religion, with a focus on religion, ethics and politics, or closely related areas, for appointment as (tenured) associate or full professor. The appointment will be held jointly in the two units.

We ask applicants to provide a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three referees. Applications should be submitted online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> (Job Requisition # 1600638). We cannot guarantee full consideration for applications received after October 15, 2016. We aim for an appointment effective September 2017.

Princeton University is especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of our academic community. Women and members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1729

Carleton College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Carleton College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Africana Studies with a major emphasis on current African American issues, beginning September 1, 2017. We plan to hire at the assistant professor level; in extraordinary circumstances we would consider an advanced rank applicant.

This position will be at least 60% in the African and African American Studies Program, and up to 40% in a collaborating disciplinary department. The successful candidate will have a PhD in Africana Studies or in a related social science or humanities field, and should have completed their PhD by September 1, 2017.

We seek candidates whose main teaching and research areas are in the field of Africana Studies, and who have thorough knowledge of related models—African Diaspora Studies, Black Studies, African American Studies. The candidate should be able to teach core courses for the Program's majors and concentrators, have demonstrated excellence in teaching and evidence of effective pedagogy in the discipline, and show promise to grow into a leadership position.

Visit jobs.carleton.edu to complete the online application, including cover letter, job-market paper, statement of teaching philosophy, curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references. For consideration, all materials must be received by November 1, but we will begin reviewing files as early as September 30, 2016. Shortlisted applicants may be asked for further materials. All preliminary interviews will be held by Skype.

We are particularly interested in candidates committed to teaching a diverse student body, and who will contribute to a college community that maintains a diversity of people and perspectives as one of its core values. Women and members of minority groups are strongly encouraged to apply.

Carleton College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, ethnicity, religion, sex, national origin, marital status, veteran status, actual or perceived sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, status with regard to public assistance, disability, or age in providing employment or access to its educational facilities and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 8/3/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1721

Ball State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Ball State University is inviting applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position available August 18, 2017, with specialization in the field of classic and modern Western political philosophy with the major focus including background, knowledge, and skills in the area of political philosophy.

Major responsibilities: Teach courses in classic and modern Western political philosophy including American political thought. Additional strengths in comparative politics, non-Western political philosophy, and gender studies are preferred with opportunities available for developing courses in those areas. The normal teaching load is twelve hours per semester with a three hour course release per semester for candidates engaged in active research.

Minimum qualifications: Doctorate in political science with a concentration in political philosophy/theory from an accredited college or university no later than August 18, 2017; ability to teach courses in classic and modern Western political philosophy including American political thought.

Preferred qualifications: Research and/or teaching strengths in Comparative Politics, non-Western political philosophy, and gender studies; evidence of scholarship through publications, presentations, and successful grant proposals; evidence of successful teaching at the college level; successful involvement with professional organizations in the discipline; ability to interact effectively with faculty and staff to contribute to the strategic plans of the Department, College and University.

Candidates for searches must have current authorization to be employed in the U.S. without employer sponsorship.

To apply: We prefer candidates to submit all application materials, except for letters of reference, in a single pdf file. Send a cover letter of application, current vita, copies of official transcripts, writing samples, teaching evaluations if available, and three original letters of recommendation to: Dr. Daniel J. Reagan, c/o: Stephanie Painter, Administrative Coordinator (spainter@bsu.edu), Department of Political Science, Ball State University, Muncie, IN 47306-0255.

Review of completed applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled and the search is terminated.

Ball State University is located in Muncie, Indiana, on an attractive campus 45 miles northeast of Indianapolis. Approximately 21,000 graduate and undergraduate students enroll in one of seven academic colleges that offer 187 undergraduate programs, 84 master's programs, and 16 doctoral programs. In addition to our regular undergraduate Program, we also house an undergraduate Legal Studies Program, and an undergraduate interdepartmental European Studies Program and at the graduate level we offer an MA and MPA.

Ball State aspires to be the model of the most student-centered and community-engaged of the 21st century public research universities, transforming entrepreneurial learners into impactful leaders – committed to improving the quality of life for all. The university offers an excellent benefits package, including health care and retirement plans, tuition assistance for employees and dependents, and generous time off with pay.

EEO/AA Employer/Veterans/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1695

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Theory

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for a position in the field of Political Theory. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

Interested applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 8, 2016.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1700

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy & Governance, at the University of Washington, invites applications for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning in Fall 2017 (100% FTE, 9 month appointment, UW Job Class Code: 0113). Highest priority will be given to candidates whose work addresses institutional discrimination, race and economic inequality, equal opportunity, or the complexities of engaging marginalized communities in governance. Our School values diversity, rigor, and innovative approaches to public policy analysis and public management research and practice. We seek candidates from all disciplines that inform public policy and management, but are particularly interested in applicants with scholarship in one of the following areas: contemporary ethical issues; democratic theory and theories of justice; environmental policy; civil society and philanthropy; or urban and metropolitan issues.

Applicants should provide a formal letter of interest indicating teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, at least three letters of recommendation, samples of research work and teaching experience (with course evaluations if available), and a statement noting how their teaching, research and service have the potential to support the Evans School's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. PhD in relevant field, or foreign equivalent required. All University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research, and service.

The University of Washington's Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy & Governance is recognized as one of the best public affairs programs in the country. Named after three-term Washington governor Daniel J. Evans, the School is located in close proximity to a strong public sector environment, and has partnerships with the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and other organizations leading the way to drive change for the public good. The UW offers one of the most exceptional research and teaching environments in the United States. Seattle is a region of explosive growth, global trade, technological advancement, a thriving nonprofit community, and a long history of progressive government. It is also a cultural metropolis surrounded by the unparalleled natural beauty of the Pacific Northwest. Seattle offers a quality of life that is among the highest in the country, with beautiful lakes and parks, incredible walkability, bike lanes, and a lively music and cultural scene.

The University of Washington is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, protected veteran or disabled status, or genetic information. In accord with the University's expressed commitment to excellence and equity, contributions in scholarship and research, teaching, and service that address diversity and equal opportunity are among the professional and scholarly qualifications for appointment and promotion.

Applications should be submitted to Interfolio (apply.interfolio.com/35931); initial review will begin October 1, 2016 and will continue until the positions are filled. Contact: Kimberly Hay, Assistant Director of Academic Services, kfs3903@uw.edu. Candidates who fail to satisfy minimum qualifications cannot be considered for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1664

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in fall 2017 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, political theory, and etc. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untenured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untenured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 150 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has about 10 faculty members who own overseas PhD degrees, and 4 of them are in political science. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to development a new political science program. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system of the United States and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);

3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Selection will begin immediately and continue until the positions have been filled, pending administrative and budgetary approval. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend that meeting and be available for an interview. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews. Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1643

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant and Associate Professors of Political Science

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Methodology, Political Theory

The School of Public Economics and Administration (SPEA) at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics (SUFE) seeks applicants for tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of assistant and associate professors, starting as early as in fall 2017 in the field of comparative politics, research methodology, political theory, and etc. A completed Ph.D. in Political Science is required before the employment. Applicants should demonstrate their potentials to employ rigorous research methods to answer important theoretical questions in the field.

These openings are full-time fixed-term appointments for a period of six years (untenured hire). A tenure evaluation will be conducted after five years for untenured appointments. The successful candidates are expected to conduct research at the forefront of their field, teach undergraduate and graduate courses of their interest, and contribute to the development of political science in SPEA. Although the working environment is international, the ability to communicate fluently in Mandarin Chinese is preferred.

We offer a globally competitive salary based on a full-time appointment and depending on experience and knowledge. The offer also includes a broad package of fringe benefits (housing subsidy, moving expenses, and startup funding).

Shanghai University of Finance and Economics, founded in 1917, is a top-ranked research university in China. The university has recruited more than 150 faculty members with overseas Ph.D. degrees. SPEA has about 10 faculty members who own overseas PhD degrees, and 4 of them are in political science. The university and the school have developed a competitive and collegial environment for junior scholars and plan to development a new political science program. SPEA is the only institution in the Mainland China that adopts tenure-track system of the United States and offers globally competitive salaries for entry level faculty in the discipline of political science.

Your application must contain the following documents (all in English):

1. A cover letter;
2. An extensive curriculum vitae including a publication list and teaching evaluations (if any);

3. A statement of research interest and agenda;
4. Up to three working papers;
5. Names and contact information of three references.

Selection will begin immediately and continue until the positions have been filled, pending administrative and budgetary approval. We plan to interview a shortlist of applicants at 2017 American Political Science Association conference. In your cover letter, please state whether you will attend that meeting and be available for an interview. For those candidates who can attend the conference interview, please submit your application before August 15th. We also can arrange on-site interviews at SUFE or other forms of interviews. Please send your application and request to recruit committee at polscisufe@gmail.com.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/20/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1644

University of Toronto, Mississauga

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga invites applications for one tenure-stream appointment in the field of Political Theory. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will begin on July 1, 2017.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Political Science, Philosophy, or a closely related field by date of appointment or soon thereafter. The successful candidate will conduct scholarly research that addresses important debates in political theory. We seek applicants with a demonstrable expertise in history of political thought (ancient and/or modern). The candidate will be expected to conduct innovative research at the highest international level and to establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. She or he will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, or will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards for work in the field and strong endorsements by referees. Finally, she or he will be equipped to teach introductory and intermediate survey courses in Political Theory and will have demonstrated excellence in teaching through teaching accomplishments, letters of reference and the teaching materials submitted as part of the application.

The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Mississauga and will also become a full member of the Graduate Department of Political Science of the University of Toronto, undertaking graduate teaching and supervision at the St. George campus. For further information on the UTM Department and on the tri-campus Graduate Department, see <http://www.utm.utoronto.ca/~w3pol/> and <http://www.chass.utoronto.ca/polsci/>.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. To be considered for this position, all application materials must be submitted online by clicking the apply link below. Please include a curriculum vitae, a writing sample (e.g., an article offprint or conference paper), materials relevant to teaching experience (e.g., course outlines and handouts, student survey results), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. Applicants should also ask three referees to send confidential letters of recommendation directly via email (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the Chair, Professor Edward Schatz, at polsci.utm@utoronto.ca. To receive full consideration, applications and all materials (including letters of reference) must be received by September 28, 2016.

Please submit attachments in PDF format only. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. If you have questions about this position, please contact lorna.taylor@utoronto.ca.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 9/28/2016

Date Posted: 7/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1628

Stanford University

Rank: Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields

Tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields.

The Stanford Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position, open to all subfields. The term of appointment would begin September 1, 2017. Successful candidates must demonstrate evidence of a creative research trajectory and a commitment to excellence in teaching at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Applicants should send three professional letters of recommendation, a letter of interest along with their curriculum vitae, a writing sample and a brief statement of research interest (no more than three pages).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions.

The committee will begin reading applications on September 16, 2016, but may consider files received after this date. Interested individuals should apply on line through AcademicJobsOnline.org

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/16/2016

Date Posted: 7/8/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1605

NYU Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science – Political Theory, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science – Political Theory
NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi invites applications for faculty positions in political theory. The positions are open rank. The expected start date is September 1, 2017. We are particularly interested in recruiting faculty whose work focuses on political institutions, political ethics, global ethics, or comparative political theory.

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016. Campus visits to NYUAD will be held in October and November 2016, with the visits to NYUNY occurring in the succeeding four weeks. The review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the positions are filled. We anticipate that the successful candidates can start employment on or before August 15, 2017 subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/7/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1597

NYU Abu Dhabi

Rank: FACULTY POSITIONS, Political Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

FACULTY POSITIONS

Political Science
NYU Abu Dhabi

New York University Abu Dhabi is inviting applications from political scientists for faculty positions at any level (assistant, associate or full professor, tenure/tenure track - senior candidacies also welcome) to strengthen its program in Political Science, for appointment on September 1, 2017. We encourage applications from all subfields of Political Science. You may visit the Political Science program's website for a description of its innovative curriculum: <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/academics/undergraduate-programs/majors/political-science.html>

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

The excellent terms of employment are competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching opportunities.

Applications are due no later than September 15, 2016. Campus visits to NYUAD will be held in October and November 2016, with the visits to NYUNY occurring in the succeeding four weeks. The review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until the positions are filled. We anticipate that the successful candidates can start employment on or before August 15, 2017 subject to final budget approval.

To ensure full consideration by the search committee, applicants must submit their curriculum vitae, statements of research and teaching interests, and representative writing samples. To complete the online process, applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload his or her reference letter. Senior candidates are not required to submit references at this time.

Please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html> for instructions and information on how to apply. If you have any questions, please e-mail nyuad.socialscience@nyu.edu.

EOE/AA/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/15/2016

Date Posted: 7/7/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1595

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant Professor (Political Theory)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in political theory. Preference will be given to candidates able to offer courses outside of political theory, especially in judicial politics or comparative politics. The successful candidate will show evidence of teaching excellence and will have an active research agenda supported by published research or the strong promise of such publication. We prefer applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. in political science by the appointment date.

Applicants should submit a letter of application detailing their teaching philosophy and research agenda, a curriculum vitae, summary of recent teaching evaluations, an official transcript, a writing sample, and three letters of reference. All application materials other than letters of recommendation must be submitted through the TCU online application system at https://tcu.igreentree.com/CSS_faculty. Have three confidential letters of recommendation emailed directly from the reviewer to hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu. Department representatives will attend the APSA meeting, where we will conduct screening interviews. Full review of applications begins on October 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

We are an undergraduate department of 15 full-time faculty members and approximately 350 majors. TCU is an independent, ecumenical, coeducational institution of 10,300 students located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth (pop. 830,000) is a city of rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities. The city is part of the greater Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex of 7 million people and is served by DFW International Airport.

As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 6/21/2016
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 1559

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Normative Political Theory, Political Philosophy & Theory

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
 DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
 ACADEMIC YEAR 2016-2017

Areas of Specialization: Political Theory: Western and Nonwestern Political Theory and Critical Race, and/or Feminist Theory

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in western and non-western political theory. Additionally, the applicant should be able to develop and teach courses in critical race theory and/or feminist political theory. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and a show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teach effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation (all hard copy) to Dr. Jack Fruchtmann, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until October 1st, 2016.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 6/21/2016
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 1556

University of Toronto

Rank: Assistant Professor in Contemporary Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure-stream position in Contemporary Political Theory. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2017.

We are looking for a candidate with strong research and teaching interests in contemporary political theory who is also able to teach a range of courses in political philosophy, the history of political thought, and democratic theory. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St. George) campus. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must provide strong evidence of research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publications in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees. Evidence of excellence in teaching is demonstrated by a strong statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, and endorsements from referees. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted online.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS word format.

Applicants should also ask at least three referees to send letters directly to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Professor Louis W. Pauly, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. To be assured of receiving consideration, applications must be received by October 12, 2016.

For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our home page at <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/12/2016

Date Posted: 6/21/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1554

University of Toronto

Rank: Associate Professor in Contemporary Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure-stream position in Contemporary Political Theory. The appointment will be at the rank of Associate Professor and will commence on July 1, 2017.

We are looking for a candidate with strong and established research and teaching interests in contemporary political theory who is also able to teach a range of courses in political philosophy, the history of political thought, and democratic theory. The successful candidate will undertake undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St. George) campus, and he or she will be able to complement the research and teaching specialties of the faculty in political theory and in the department more broadly. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The successful candidate must have a PhD in Political Science or related discipline and provide strong evidence of research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publications in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees. Candidates should also have an established international reputation based on a scholarly record of excellence appropriate to their career stage. Evidence of excellence in teaching and a demonstrated commitment to graduate education and mentorship are required. Evidence of excellence in teaching will be demonstrated by letters of reference, teaching evaluations, graduate supervision, dossier and/or syllabi submitted as part of the application. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy, and teaching evaluations), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted online.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS word format.

Applicants should also ask at least three referees to send letters directly to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Professor Louis W. Pauly, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. To be assured of receiving consideration, applications must be received by October 12, 2016.

For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our home page at <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/12/2016

Date Posted: 6/21/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1555

University of Toronto

Rank: Comparative Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto invites applications for a full-time tenure-stream position in Comparative Political Theory. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence July 1, 2017.

We are looking for a candidate with strong research and teaching interests in comparative political theory but who is also able to teach courses on the traditional Western canon. The position comes with undergraduate and graduate teaching responsibilities on the University's downtown (St. George) campus. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. at the time of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must provide strong evidence of research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publication in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, accolades or awards, and strong endorsements by referees. Evidence of excellence in teaching is demonstrated by a strong statement of teaching philosophy, teaching accomplishments, and endorsements from referees. Applicants are encouraged to review the research and teaching profiles of current faculty members. Please visit our home pages: Department of Political Science <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and a statement outlining current and future research interests. If you have questions about this position, please contact Sari Sherman at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted online.

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS word format.

Applicants should also ask at least three referees to send letters directly to the Chair of the Department of Political Science, Professor Louis W. Pauly, via e-mail at chair.polisci@utoronto.ca. To be assured of receiving consideration, applications must be received by October 4, 2016.

For more information about the Department of Political Science, please visit our home page at <http://politics.utoronto.ca>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from visible minority group members, women, Aboriginal persons, persons with disabilities, members of sexual minority groups, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/4/2016
Date Posted: 6/3/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1516

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

University of Alabama, Birmingham Rank: Global Public Affairs and Administration

University of Alabama at Birmingham (UAB)
 Public Administration – Associate Professor
 The Master of Public Administration (MPA) Program in the Department of Government at UAB invites nominations and applications at the rank of associate professor with tenure to begin August 15, 2017. While the area of research specialization is open, we are particularly interested in established scholars specialized in global affairs and international nonprofit organizations.

The MPA Program is NASPAA-accredited, and according to US News and World Report, a nationally ranked MPA Program – one of the four top MPA Programs in the Southeast. The MPA Program has both in-service and pre-service students, and enjoys the steady support of organized MPA alumni with strong local and national membership. UAB is a premier, comprehensive research university, ranked as one of the top 15 research universities in the nation. Metro Birmingham (pop 1 million) is an ethnically diverse and cosmopolitan setting with exciting neighborhoods, excellent cultural institutions, and a very high quality of life.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in relevant field. Record of scholarship and teaching consistent with rank of associate professor with tenure.

To ensure full consideration, submit a letter of interest, sample of published work, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, and at least two letters of recommendation from senior scholars in the field. Review will begin October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

To apply, please visit: <http://uab.peopleadmin.com/postings/1849>. UAB is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to fostering a diverse, equitable and family-friendly environment in which all faculty and staff can excel and achieve work/life balance irrespective of, race, national origin, age, genetic or family medical history, gender, faith, gender identity and expression as well as sexual orientation. UAB also encourages applications from individuals with disabilities and veterans. A pre-employment background check investigation is performed on candidates selected for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/28/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2140

University of South Florida

Rank: Director

The School of Public Affairs at USF invites applications for the Director of the School and to serve as a faculty member in Public Administration or Urban and Regional Planning at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The School seeks an experienced, dynamic, entrepreneurial, and engaged leader who will leverage the potential of the School, its faculty, and its students into a leading program in the discipline. The position begins July 2017. The School of Public Affairs houses a NASPAA-accredited MPA Program, a soon to be accredited Masters in Urban and Regional Planning (MURP) program, graduate certificates in public management, nonprofit management and community development, and an undergraduate minor in public administration.

We welcome applicants with expertise from all areas of public and urban affairs who will contribute directly to the mission of the School and who will help to boost the visibility of the School, both regionally and nationally. The successful candidate will provide leadership to further enhance the School's research, external funding (grants and contracts), publication record, educational programs, engaged scholarship and fundraising. The successful candidate will have a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring junior faculty and students, and will encourage excellence in research and teaching that make a contribution to the School's academic programs. Supporting evidence of the ability to attract extramural funding is desirable.

The applicant must have a clearly defined and well-established research agenda in an area of public administration/management or urban and regional planning, and have a well-established reputation as a scholar. The successful candidate should also have the ability to teach public administration and/or urban or regional planning courses in the graduate programs. The School of Public Affairs is committed to multi-sector partnerships, which is the intersection and interaction of the public, government, nonprofit, and/or business sectors; candidates should have an interest in some aspect of multi-sector partnerships and/or multi-sector public service. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record of community engagement, and show a willingness to raise the visibility of the School of Public Affairs in the Tampa Bay region.

Candidates must have strong interpersonal and communication skills; possess an earned doctorate in public administration, urban and regional planning, public policy or related academic fields; have a record of successful teaching, research, and service sufficient to warrant appointment at the rank of tenured Associate Professor or Professor; and be familiar with NASPAA accreditation standards for MPA programs and/or PAB (Planning Accreditation Board) standards for MURP programs. Previous experience as a Chair, degree program director, or equivalent administrative experience in a higher education setting is highly desirable. Salary is negotiable.

To apply, please visit <http://employment.usf.edu> and attach a cover letter addressing your qualifications for the position, CV, evidence of successful research, and provide names and contact information for three references. Position is open until filled, review of applications begin on December 1, 2016.

The University of South Florida is a high-impact, global research university dedicated to student success. USF is a Top 25 research university among public institutions nationwide in total research expenditures, according to the National Science Foundation. Serving over 48,000 students, the USF System has an annual budget of $1.6 billion and an annual economic impact of $4.4 billion. USF is a member of the American Athletic Conference.

Conclusion of this search is subject to final budget approval. According to Florida Law, applications and meetings regarding them are open to the public. USF is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access institution. For disability accommodations, contact Iris Lage at 813- 974-2345 or ilage@usf.edu, a minimum of five working days in advance.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2143

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Public Policy and Administration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration (PSPA) seeks applications for two tenure-track faculty positions in public administration and policy. We hope to select one assistant and one assistant/associate professor to begin August 16, 2017. Candidates should have primary research and teaching interests in public administration and policy with particular consideration given to well-qualified candidates specializing in public policy and program evaluation. Particular consideration will also be given to candidates with interest in assuming the role of Graduate Coordinator. A Ph.D. degree in public administration, public policy, or related fields is required at the time of appointment.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited MPPA, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 15 faculty members, 197 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 PhD students. The department has strong ties to several research centers with the University, including the Social Science Research Center, the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, the Center for International Security and Strategic Studies, and the National Strategic Planning and Analysis Research Center. More information on the department is available at <http://www.pspa.msstate.edu>. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Dr. Christine Rush, at crush@pspa.msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at <http://www.msujobs.msstate.edu/> (PARF #493904) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, current curriculum vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin October 21, 2016, and the search will remain open until filled. MSU is an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, disability status, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We always welcome nominations and applications from women, members of any minority group, and others who share our passion for building a diverse community that reflects the diversity in our student population.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2126

Norwich University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

The Department of History and Political Science at Norwich University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall 2017 semester. The successful candidate will teach and do research in the fields of American politics and public policy and will teach undergraduate courses in Intro to Public Policy, the survey course in American Politics, the U.S. Presidency, Legislative Process, State and Local Politics, Research Methods (with emphasis on quantitative methods), American Citizenship, and a Capstone Senior Seminar in the candidate's field of expertise. The successful candidate will also manage the Political Science Internship Program and facilitate the growth of public policy studies across the university. While a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential, Norwich University is committed to junior faculty developing scholarship through a supportive faculty development program.

Qualifications: To be eligible for appointment at the assistant professor rank, candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a Ph.D. in a public policy-related field. Highly qualified ABDs may be considered for appointment at the instructor level. Review of applications will begin September 16, 2016 and remain open until the position is filled.

Please submit a letter of interest, which includes your preferred substantive American politics and public policy focus, curriculum vitae, three current letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, statement of teaching philosophy): <https://norwich.interviewexchange.com>

Norwich University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is committed to providing a positive education and work environment that recognizes and respects the dignity of all students, faculty and staff. Reasonable accommodations will be made for the known disability of an otherwise qualified applicant. Please contact the Office of Human Resources at nuhr@norwich.edu for assistance.

All candidates must be authorized to work for any U.S. employer. A post offer, pre-employment background check will be required of the successful candidate.

Norwich University offers a comprehensive benefit package that includes medical, dental, vision, group life and long term disability insurance, flexible-spending accounts for health and dependent care, 403(b) retirement plan with employer match, employee assistance program, paid time off including parental leave, and tuition scholarships for eligible employees and their family members.

Norwich University is a diversified academic institution that educates residential students - both military and civilian lifestyles - and working adults across the globe. Norwich offers a broad selection of traditional and distance-learning programs culminating in baccalaureate and master's degrees, and graduate certificates. Founded in 1819 by U.S. Army Capt. Alden Partridge, Norwich is the oldest private military college in the country and the birthplace of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC).

Norwich University takes positive action to insure that all applicants for employment are considered, and employees are treated in compliance with applicable laws and regulations governing non-discrimination on the basis of gender, gender identity, race, ethnicity, national origin, color, religion, disability, sexual orientation, age, genetic information or veteran's status. As an institution of higher education, Norwich is dedicated to learning, emphasizing teamwork, leadership, creativity, and critical thinking and encourages applications from qualified individuals who will help us achieve this guiding value.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2124

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Clinical Professor of Public Administration

New Clinical Professor Appointment in Public Administration

The Department of Public Administration (DPA) in the College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs (CUPPA) at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) (<http://cuppa-pa.uic.edu>) plans to hire a new non-tenure-track faculty member beginning in August 2017. The rank is open.

The Department offers two graduate degrees: the Master in Public Administration (MPA), which is fully accredited by the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration, and the PhD in public administration. The DPA also offers a new undergraduate degree (B.A.) in Public Policy. We also have a large and active program of international students.

Clinical Faculty contribute to the DPA through teaching and service. The successful candidate's primary duties will be teaching in the department's MPA program along with some teaching at the undergraduate level. Preference will be given to candidates also willing and able to assume the duties of MPA Program director within two years. The teaching load for non-tenure track faculty without significant program management responsibilities is eight courses over two semesters, but individual teaching loads are adjusted to accommodate acceptance of program management responsibilities. Candidates with teaching experience in public administration, political science, public policy, or related fields are preferred. Professional experience working in either a government or nonprofit setting is preferred, but not required. Preference will be given to candidates who can teach courses in one or more of the MPA program's five areas of concentration: financial management, public management, nonprofit management; public policy, and urban governance and management. A strong commitment to excellent teaching, especially at both the graduate and undergraduate level and a commitment to curriculum and program development is expected. Clinical Faculty must have a PhD or a terminal degree in a field related to the teaching domain by August 2017. Individuals who are members of a recognized underrepresented group are particularly encouraged to apply.

Clinical faculty are a valued and crucial element of the DPA's workforce and hold positions through which they contribute to the service and teaching missions of the department and university. At UIC clinical faculty have clear career ladders and generally receive multi-year renewable contracts. Non-tenure system faculty including clinical professors are represented by UIC United Faculty Local 6456, IFT-AFT, AAUP. The most recent contract can be viewed at <http://uicunitedfaculty.org/contracts/>.

The University of Illinois at Chicago is located just west of Chicago's Loop. It enrolls 29,000 students and is the largest public research university in the Chicago area. The College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs was created in 1995 as part of UIC's Great Cities Initiative. It houses two academic programs (Public Administration and Urban Planning and Policy). The College also hosts nine research centers: the Survey Research Laboratory, the Great Cities Institute, the Urban Transportation Center, the Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy, the Great Cities Urban Data Visualization Lab, the Center for Urban Economic Development, the Institute for Policy and Civic Engagement, Center for Public Safety and Justice and the Voorhees Center for Neighborhood and Community Improvement.

Application Procedure: For fullest consideration, please apply by October 31st, 2016 via the University application system: <https://jobs.uic.edu> (Job ID # 71032). A completed on-line application and the following attachments are required for consideration: a cover letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and experience. Please make sure to enter contact information, including email addresses, of three professional references in the application. For specific questions about the application, please send an email to Ms. Sari Buffill (buffill@uic.edu). For questions about the position, please contact Faculty Search Chair Kelly LeRoux (kleroux@uic.edu). Active screening of applicants begins on November 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Illinois conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of contingent offer of employment. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

The University of Illinois is an Affirmative Action Equal Opportunity Employer. It is the policy of the University of Illinois at Chicago not to engage in discrimination or harassment against any person because of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, disability, sexual orientation, unfavorable discharge from the military, or status as a disabled veteran or a veteran of the Vietnam era and to comply with all federal and state nondiscrimination, equal opportunity, and affirmative action laws, orders and regulations.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2125

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

Two New Tenure Track Appointments in Public Administration

The Department of Public Administration (DPA) in the College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs (CUPPA) at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) (<http://cuppa-pa.uic.edu>) plans to hire (2) new tenure-track faculty member at the Assistant Professor level beginning in August 2017. These new positions will accommodate our expansion and growth in each of our degree programs, but particularly in our undergraduate program in Public Policy.

The Department offers two graduate degrees: the Master in Public Administration (MPA), which is fully accredited by the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration, and the Ph.D in Public Administration. The DPA also offers a new undergraduate degree (B.A.) in Public Policy and maintains an active program of international students.

DPA is part of the College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs. CUPPA is home to nine research centers and two academic departments organized around three research pillars:

- * DISPARITIES, economic, political and social
- * FINANCE, local government
- * GOVERNANCE, regional and civic

We seek candidates who bring a strong commitment to an active research program, and excellence in teaching at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. Engagement in service to the profession is also expected. Area of specialization is open, but preference will be given to candidates who can strongly contribute to the themes embodied in CUPPA's research pillars, to the department's public management teaching capacity (defined broadly to include organization theory and human resources management), and to one or more of the department's other core competencies: nonprofit management; financial management; public policy or urban leadership and governance.

Candidates must have an earned PhD or demonstrate high likelihood of degree completion by August 2017 in public administration, political science, public policy, or a related field. Successful candidates will be required to teach a 2:2 load each academic year. Individuals who are members of a recognized underrepresented group are particularly encouraged to apply.

The University of Illinois at Chicago is a Carnegie Doctoral Research - Extensive institution. Located just west of Chicago's Loop, it enrolls 29,000 students and is the largest public research university in the Chicago area. The College of Urban Planning and Public Affairs was created in 1995 as part of UIC's Great Cities Initiative. It houses two academic programs (Public Administration and Urban Planning and Policy). The College also hosts nine research centers: the Survey Research Laboratory, the Great Cities Institute, the Urban Transportation Center, the Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy, the Great Cities Urban Data Visualization Lab, the Center for Urban Economic Development, the Institute for Policy and Civic Engagement, Center for Public Safety and Justice and the Voorhees Center for Neighborhood and Community Improvement.

Application Procedure: For fullest consideration, please apply by October 17, 2016 via the UIC application system: <https://jobs.uic.edu> (Job ID # 71027). A completed on-line application and the following attachments are required for consideration: a cover letter of interest, curriculum vitae, two sample publications, a one-page statement of research interests, and a statement of teaching philosophy and experience. Please make sure to enter contact information, including email addresses, of three professional references in the application. For specific questions about the application, please send an email to Ms. Sari Buffill (buffill@uic.edu). For questions about the position, please contact Faculty Search Chair Kelly LeRoux (kleroux@uic.edu). Active screening of applicants begins on October 18, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Illinois conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of contingent offer of employment. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

The University of Illinois is an Affirmative Action Equal Opportunity Employer. It is the policy of the University of Illinois at Chicago not to engage in discrimination or harassment against any person because of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, disability, sexual orientation, unfavorable discharge from the military, or status as a disabled veteran or a veteran of the Vietnam era and to comply with all federal and state nondiscrimination, equal opportunity, and affirmative action laws, orders and regulations.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 10/17/2016

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2119

Oakland University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Oakland University

Public Administration Search 2016-2017

The Department of Political Science at Oakland University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Administration. The position is full-time at the rank of Assistant Professor and begins August 15, 2017. We seek a candidate specializing in nonprofit management and also capable of teaching basic quantitative methods and/or information systems management. More broadly, we seek a promising scholar capable of making a significant research and teaching contribution to our MPA core curriculum, which also includes courses in PA theory, HRM, Budgeting, and Evaluation.

Our MPA (estab.1979) is the second-oldest NASPAA-accredited program in Michigan, with concentrations in Health Care, Local Government, Criminal Justice, Nonprofit Management, and Court Administration. The MPA program has just launched a nonprofit management certificate program and is working toward becoming a metropolitan, community-engaged hub for public service education & training.

Oakland University operates on a semester system, and the standard teaching load is five courses per academic year.

Candidates with their Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but candidates who are ABD will also be considered, provided that they can demonstrate they are near completion of the dissertation. Preference will be given to candidates with prior college or university teaching experience and those who have demonstrated scholarly activity.

Electronic submission of the application is required and must include a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts (unofficial copy acceptable), a writing sample, and copies of teaching evaluations and course syllabi (if available). Three letters of recommendation are also required. The online submission system will automatically generate links for designated references to complete this step.

The Department, housed in the College of Arts and Sciences, offers undergraduate degree programs in Political Science (B.A.), International Relations (B.A.), and Public Administration and Public Policy (B.S.). The Department also conducts applied research for public and nonprofit agencies through the Public Affairs Research Laboratory. Oakland University is a state-assisted, Carnegie I research institution offering baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral degree programs to over 20,000 students. The 1400-acre campus is located in Rochester, Michigan a suburban community 26 miles north of Detroit. The University hosts a residential theater company, maintains an art gallery and historic mansion, and provides an outdoor venue for summer musical events. It is convenient to many social, cultural, and recreational activities in the metropolitan Detroit area. For more information about the department, College of Arts and Sciences, and Oakland University, visit our website at www.oakland.edu. Information about the MPA Program can be found at <https://wwwwp.oakland.edu/polsci/master-of-public-administration/mpa/>.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. Applications should be submitted electronically via website: <http://jobs.oakland.edu/postings/8923>. Please address questions to Dr. J.P. (Pat) Piskulich, MPA Director and Search Chair, via email: ppiskuli@oakland.edu. Oakland University is an equal opportunity employer and encourages applications from women and minorities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2080

University of South Dakota

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

The University of South Dakota seeks an Instructor for an online Graduate Course in Public Budgeting and Fiscal Management which analyzes governmental financial administration, including budget preparation and execution, and the management of debt and public expenditures. A Ph.D. with specialization in public budgeting and/or financial management is preferred. Will consider Masters-level candidates with experience in public budgeting, public financial management, and/or public accounting. Candidates must provide a CV, teaching evaluations, three letters of recommendation, a transcript of relevant course work, and copies of any syllabi relevant to this graduate-level budgeting and fiscal management course. Please send all materials re Position No. 0008149 to: William D. Richardson, Chair, Department of Political Science, University of South Dakota, 414 E. Clark Street, Vermillion, SD 57069. Inquiries may be directed to William.-Richardson@usd.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2066

University of Baltimore

Rank: Faculty (Tenure-Track Assistant Professor) Negotiations & Conflict Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, Political Behavior, Political Communication

Faculty (Tenure-Track Assistant Professor) Negotiations & Conflict Management

School of Public and International Affairs, College of Public Affairs
University of Baltimore

Vacancy Number 300690

Faculty position with benefits package

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications

Note: The position is open until filled, and completed applications received by December 15, 2016 will receive full consideration. Review of materials will begin in mid January 2017 and will continue until the search is completed.

University of Baltimore -- The School of Public and International Affairs in the College of Public Affairs invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position (tenure-track) in the M.S. program in Negotiations and Conflict Management to begin in August 2017 (contingent upon final budget approval). Candidates with the ability to teach in allied programs, including the M.A. in Global Affairs and Human Security and/or the B.A. programs in Government and Public Policy and International Studies, will be given preference. This position requires traditional classroom instruction at the graduate level but may also involve limited undergraduate and/or online instruction.

The Negotiations and Conflict Management (CNCM) program is seeking highly qualified applicants whose experience and scholarship complements the department's existing offerings. Although the scholarly specialization for this position is open, individuals that can contribute expertise related to ethnic and cultural factors in conflict, mediation and negotiation in a cross-cultural context, nonviolence, social change processes, peacebuilding, and conflict transformation will be given special consideration. Individuals with experience facilitating experiential learning and/or practicum courses will also be given preference. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and/or course development related to the above mentioned content areas will be viewed favorably.

Candidates for this position must hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment in the Conflict Management field, broadly construed to include conflict analysis and resolution, conflict management, conflict transformation, peace and conflict studies, peacekeeping operations, peace education, or a similar course of study. Applicants with degrees in related fields of study appropriate to the Conflict Management discipline (e.g. political science, international relations, public administration, public policy, and allied social science disciplines) with expertise in the above-mentioned areas are also encouraged to apply. Diverse methodological and regional areas of expertise, both domestic and international, will be considered. Candidates should have a record of scholarly activities appropriate to the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track) and demonstrate the potential for quality university instruction and service to the profession and the university. Candidates who are A.B.D. will be considered pending successful completion of their dissertation defense by August 15, 2017.

The successful candidate will be joining the well-established graduate program in Negotiations and Conflict Management (CNCM), an applied, cross-disciplinary Masters of Science program in the School of Public and International Affairs. The CNCM program is designed to expose students to conflict management in a variety of settings from the interpersonal to the international. The program's 42-credit curriculum is delivered through a series of applied courses that enable students to examine the link between conflict management theory and practice and prepares them for post-graduate success in a variety of settings in which conflict management skills are necessary.

With 3 full-time faculty members and several highly regarded adjunct faculty, the CNCM program has approximately 100+ degree-seeking students and is now in its 17th year. The School of Public and International Affairs has twenty distinguished full-time faculty with advanced degrees from an array of distinguished universities, including Harvard, Columbia, Johns Hopkins, Syracuse, Georgia, Georgia Tech, and George Mason University. The School is home to a nationally accredited Masters of Public Administration program. The College of Public Affairs is also home to several award-winning faculty members that are recipients of the University System of Maryland's highest faculty distinction, the USM Board of Regents Award, a Fulbright Scholar, and a recipient of the prestigious Paul F. Lazarsfeld Evaluation Theory Award from the American Evaluation Association.

In addition to the School of Public and International Affairs, the College of Public Affairs houses the Schools of Health and Human Services and Criminal Justice. The ability to offer courses and conduct research relevant to the College's three schools is an advantage. The College of Public Affairs is also home to The Schaefer Center for Public Policy – an applied research unit – through which grant related work can be undertaken.

The University of Baltimore is part of the University System of Maryland and serves a diverse urban professional community. The School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Baltimore offers Bachelor's degrees in Government and Public Policy and International Studies, the Master and Doctor of Public Administration degrees, the Master's degree in Negotiation and Conflict Management, the Master's Degree in Global Affairs and Human Security, and the Master's degree in Non-profit Management and Social Entrepreneurship. Interested applicants are encouraged to visit our web site for more information about the College of Public Affairs and the School of Public and International Affairs at <http://www.ubalt.edu/cpa>.

Electronic applications are required. Before submitting your application, save these four PDF (preferred format) or Word documents:

1. letter of interest
2. vita

3. one or more research writing samples
4. names of three references

The position is open until filled, and completed applications received by December 15, 2016 will receive full consideration. Review of materials will begin in mid January 2017 and will continue until the search is completed. Visit <http://www.ubalt.edu/about-ub/offices-and-services/human-resources/jobs-at-ub.cfm?&posting=1144> to access the electronic application.

The University of Baltimore is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/ADA Compliant Employer & Title IX Institution. The University of Baltimore ("UB" or "University") does not discriminate on the basis of sex, gender, race, religion, age, disability, national origin, ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender identity, or other legally protected characteristics in its programs, activities or employment practices.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2043

York College of Pennsylvania

Rank: Research/Teaching Fellowship, Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Methodology

Specializations: Urban Politics, State Politics, Economic Policy

Research/Teaching Fellowship, Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy, York College

York College of Pennsylvania invites applications for the inaugural Fellow for its Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy.

A joint program of York College's Center for Community Engagement (CCE) and its Department of History and Political Science, the Institute for Public Policy will engage the Fellow and our students in the policymaking process by providing nonpartisan research to legislators at the City, County, and State levels of government. The Fellow will conduct research and work with advanced students to identify and define problems in the greater York community, develop policy approaches to solve those problems, and aim to achieve adoption and successful implementation of specific policy proposals via the Pennsylvania General Assembly and municipal jurisdictions in the South Central Pennsylvania region.

The appointee will hold the title of Fellow in the Center for Community Engagement and the rank of Visiting Instructor in the Department of History and Political Science. The fellowship will generally carry a two-year appointment, though in appropriate cases that time frame might be lengthened or shortened to accommodate a specific project. Among the duties of the fellow will be:

- Completing an appropriate research project or projects likely to be of interest to local residents, legislators, and civic/business leaders;
- Teaching one advanced course per semester;
- Delivering at least two public lectures for the local community;
- Disseminating the results of her/his research in appropriate scholarly and public venues;
- Collaborating with students and faculty in other appropriate York College programs such as the Center for Professional Excellence, the Graham and Eisenhart Scholars, and other CCE programming.

Funding will be provided for travel, speakers, and other appropriate initiatives of the Institute.

Requirements: The ideal candidate will hold a doctorate in a field directly related to public policy research (though ABD or MPP will be considered). The successful candidate will have a research agenda well-suited to studying local, regional, and state-level policy, and evidence of scholarly potential.

York College is committed to building a diverse college community and encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply. Interested candidates should electronically submit the following: a current curriculum vitae, letter of application, and names of three references to employment@ycp.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016. While applications will be accepted until the position is filled, for full consideration, applications should be received by October 31, 2016.

York College of Pennsylvania is an Equal Opportunity Employer. For a copy of York College's Annual Security Report, you may contact the Office of Campus Safety or visit the College's website and search for Annual Security Report.

About York College and the Center for Community Engagement (CCE)

York College of Pennsylvania (<http://www.ycp.edu>) is a private-sector, independent institution of higher education, offering over 50 baccalaureate majors in the arts and sciences and in professional fields as well as master's programs in business, education and nursing and a doctoral program in nursing. The College has an enrollment of over 4000 full time, over 500 part time undergraduate students and over 200 graduate students from 30 states and 12 foreign countries. The campus is located in South-Central Pennsylvania (50 miles north of Baltimore, MD, 30 miles south of Harrisburg, PA, and 90 miles north of Washington, DC) and offers competitive salaries and fringe benefits.

Though the Fellow will spend time on York College's main campus, the locus of the research and mentoring activities noted above would be housed in the CCE's headquarters in downtown York. The Institute for Public Policy is meant to be an objective, nonpartisan advocacy organization committed to the best practices in academic social science. The CCE hosts local government leaders, non-profit organizations, community groups, and other stakeholders, providing assistance in identifying and developing approaches to solving the community's most pressing problems. Under the guidance of the Fellow, the Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy will contribute to that mission through policy research.

The CCE's 20,000 square foot building at 59 East Market Street will open with Phase One mid-fall, 2016. Located across the street from the Yorktowne Hotel and adjacent to city, county, and state offices, the location is central to the downtown renaissance in Royal Square, the Arts District, and Central Market. This Center will be a hub for community education, meetings, and small conferences making it an ideal location for students and faculty engaged in policy research and analysis. This space will become a highly visible epicenter of policy activity.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2042

California State University, Channel Islands

Rank: Political Science-Assistant or Associate Professor

California State University Channel Islands (CI) invites applications for a faculty member specializing in Public Administration, beginning in Fall 2017. The appointment will be made at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. The emphasis within Public Administration is open. The ideal candidate will have the potential and leadership skills to help build a regionally-recognized, NASPAA-Accredited MPA program. Duties include helping to recruit and retain MPA program faculty and interacting with the governmental and non-profit organizations in the region. The successful candidate will teach multiple courses in public administration at the undergraduate and/or graduate level. The ability to teach our introductory undergraduate course in American politics would be a plus. Candidates must demonstrate a record of scholarly potential (Assistant Professor), or substantial scholarly achievement to be appointed as Associate Professor. All members of the CI faculty are expected to assume an active, collegial role in the planning and governance of the institution through service on campus-wide, divisional, and Academic Senate committees. Faculty members are expected to promote cross-cultural awareness and service to the community. CI seeks candidates with a proven commitment to an interdisciplinary, integrative, and innovative approaches to teaching and learning, and excellence in research, scholarship, and service.

Required Qualifications:

Minimum requirements include a Ph.D. in hand by the time of appointment from an accredited institution in public administration, political science, or a closely related field; a record of or potential for effectiveness in scholarship and instruction; and evidence of teaching versatility and interdisciplinary learning.

As a condition of employment, this position will require a background check. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment.

Preferred Qualifications:

A record of or detailed agenda of scholarship, experience in or commitment to assessment and advising students, and a strong commitment to team-work, service learning, and interdisciplinary or integrative teaching and learning.

For more information and to apply online please visit our website at: www.csucifacultyjobs.com; Application review begins on November 1, 2016.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2014

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Service (Urban Planning)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Economic Policy, Energy Policy

New York University's Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in urban studies with appointment to begin September 1, 2017. Applicants must have a doctoral degree in a relevant discipline.

We seek applicants who are enthusiastic about working in a multidisciplinary environment and in a school of public service, where innovative and cross-disciplinary research is valued, and where local and global perspectives are brought into dialogue. Candidates should have strong research interests and demonstrated capacity in one or more substantive areas of relevance for this position, including urban planning, environmental planning and ecosystems management, geography, public policy, political science, sociology, or economics. The new faculty member will play a leadership role in research, teaching (including core courses), and program development.

NYU Wagner, which was established in 1938, is a multidisciplinary school that prepares public service leaders to translate ideas into actions that have an effective and lasting impact on the public good. The School's nearly 40 full-time faculty members are trained in a wide variety of disciplines and share a commitment to addressing issues of public importance in their teaching and research. Wagner faculty members collaborate with other schools and departments across the university, including the Stern School of Business; the Steinhardt School of Education; School of Law; Politics, Economics, Sociology, and Metropolitan Studies departments; the Marron Institute for Urban Management, the Center for Urban Science and Progress, the Furman Center for Real Estate and Urban Policy, the Rudin Center for Transportation, and the College of Global Public Health. An important focus of these collaborations is research on how to manage urban growth, promote urban equity, and foster urban resilience.

Candidates should complete the application available via the URL below and submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, short writing sample, and three letters of reference.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/36509>

NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and is strongly committed to diversity within its community.

Applications received by January 8, 2017 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1990

University of West Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor – Public Administration and Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of West Georgia seeks applicants for an Assistant Professor in Public Administration to begin in August 2017. The successful applicant will be responsible for teaching in the face-to-face and online public administration graduate programs and must also teach undergraduate political science courses.

The position requires an earned Ph.D. from an accredited research university in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy or a related field, and the ability to teach graduate level public administration courses. Candidates with a background in quantitative methodology and data visualization are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Master of Public Administration is a dynamic and growing program housed in the Department of Political Science, which offers the BA, the BS, the political science minor and a minor in Public Administration. The department also offers Graduate Certificates in Public Management, Nonprofit Management and Community Development, and Disaster Management, as well as undergraduate certificates in Human Rights advocacy and Data Analytics.

Located 45 miles west of Atlanta, the University of West Georgia is classified as a R3 university by the University System of Georgia. On a vibrant residential campus with over 13,000 students, the University offers more than 100-degree programs at the baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral levels. Interested applicants are invited to e-mail Dr. Mbaye at hmbaye@westga.edu or visit our website at www.westga.edu/polisci.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, transcripts, and contact information for three professional references to Dr. Mbaye (hmbaye@westga.edu). Review of applications begins October 1, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. The University of West Georgia is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Institution. Finalists will be required to submit to criminal background investigations as a prior condition for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1967

Universidad de los Andes

Rank: Six faculty positions in Public Management, Public Policy, Law and Public Policy, Political Dimensions of Public Policy, and Global Policy

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government at Universidad de los Andes is pleased to invite applications for up to six (6) permanent faculty positions, with start dates in January (preferable) or August (if necessary) of 2017, in the following areas:

Public Management: strategic planning within the public sector, finance and budgeting, public management, leadership in the public sector, and organizational development, among others.

Public Policy: any sub-field (including public health).

Law and Public Policy: regulations, public sector contracts, legal and normative frameworks for public policy and public management, ethics, the politics of judicial processes and criminal law, among others.

Political Dimensions of Public Policy: the politics of public policy, analysis of actors related to public policy, interest groups, local, regional, and national politics, among others.

Global Policy: the role of international organizations in development, issues in global governance, global activism and transnational actors, among others.

Requirements

Those applying should meet the following requirements:

- Ph.D. in hand (candidates about to defend their dissertations will also be considered).
- Demonstrate a commitment to excellence in independent research, including but not limited to publications in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed journals and/or books published at academic presses of recognized quality.
- Show a commitment to excellence in teaching, as demonstrated through experience in the classroom and strong teaching evaluations.
- Research and teaching areas: Public Management, Public Policy, Law and Public Policy, the Politics of Public Policy, and Global Policy.

Position

The School is interested in hiring up to six full-time candidates at the levels of Assistant or Associate Professor.

Application process

Participants must prepare the following documentation:

- Cover letter, specifying current topics of research and main areas of interest, which the candidates will be expected to develop at the Universidad de los Andes School of Government.
- Two letters of recommendation from researchers or academics with first-hand knowledge of the candidates' abilities.
- Description of general teaching areas and examples of courses of interest.
- CV that includes:
 - o Publications
 - o Presentations at conferences
 - o Participation in research projects, including the specific role played in each
 - o Awards, grants, and other honors received
- o Courses taught, including the following information: institution of instruction and level of instruction (undergraduate or graduate). Course evaluations are optional.
- o Name and contact information of two academic references (in addition to those who wrote the letter of recommendation).

Please send applications via post or email (the latter preferred) to:

Adriano Cano Cuervo
 General Secretary
 Alberto Lleras Camargo Government School
 Universidad de los Andes
 Cra. 1 No.19 - 27, Bloque AU, Piso 3.
 Bogotá – Colombia

Email: a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co

Description of the School of Government

The Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government seeks to improve the quality of public policies and public administration by training students to become effective leaders in their respective fields, working from positions within the different branches of government to those in academic research. It empowers individuals to analyze issues critically and to shape public opinion responsibly.

The School of Government fosters the study of public issues within Universidad de los Andes by creating the appropriate environment for debating the most critical matters confronting the country. It proposes technical, interdisciplinary solutions to problems of a social, economic, and political nature that are prevalent in Colombia and in other countries in the region.

Additional information

For further information on the available positions, please contact Adriano Cano Cuervo, General Secretary of the School of Government at a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co.

For further information about the University or the Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government, including its programs and activities, please visit our website <https://egob.uniandes.edu.co/index.php/es/>

Universidad de los Andes is an equal opportunity employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, or disability status. If you are unable to complete the application process due to an impairment or disability, please contact Adriano Cano at a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS: OCTOBER 30, 2016 at 11:59 pm (COT)

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1962

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Psychology, Education Policy

The University of Richmond is seeking a social scientist for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies (JLS). Although ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have completed a Ph.D. or Ed.D. in public administration, public policy, educational policy, political or social psychology, sociology, or a related field, by August 23, 2017.

JLS is a collaborative, inclusive community of scholars in anthropology, economics, history, literature, philosophy, politics, social psychology and religion. We seek applicants who study, or have the potential and desire to study, leadership by drawing on their disciplinary expertise to inform their work. We are particularly interested in candidates whose demonstrated scholarly interests focus on the analysis of policy or processes related to justice and explaining social and economic inequality.

Applicants should have the potential and desire to teach in an interdisciplinary undergraduate liberal arts environment. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses related to his or her disciplinary training and to contribute to the curriculum by teaching such required courses as Leadership and the Social Sciences and Theories and Models of Leadership. In their cover letter, candidates should demonstrate how their scholarly and teaching interests connect, or have the potential to connect, to leadership, broadly construed. (See <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> for more information.) The JLS supports the University's commitment to promoting an inclusive campus community.

For full consideration, applicants must specify in their cover letters how they are prepared to contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The first school of leadership studies and a highly ranked business school enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

Inaugurated in 1992, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies is an independent academic unit of the University and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies. With the aim of educating students for and about leadership, the Jepson School offers a challenging liberal arts curriculum delivered by means of a rigorous and innovative pedagogy. Candidates should submit a letter of application and curriculum vitae, and provide the names and emails of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. Review of applications will begin September 20, 2016; applications will be accepted until October 10, 2016. Preliminary phone and/or Skype interviews will likely be conducted; we anticipate inviting candidates to campus in November 2016.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

The University of Richmond is an Equal Opportunity Employer by both policy and practice. Applicants are considered for all positions without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, marital or veteran status, or the presence of a non-job-related medical condition.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/10/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1569

Winthrop University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, South Asia

WINTHROP UNIVERSITY

College of Arts & Sciences

Rock Hill, South Carolina 29733

VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

TITLE: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science, Department of Political Science, Open Field

The Department of Political Science is seeking engaging teachers and active scholars to join our diverse scholarly community by applying for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor position.

The department welcomes applications in all subfields; however, we are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in one or more of the following areas: Comparative Politics (Middle East, Asia), Public Administration, Public Law, and/or American Institutions. We are seeking a dedicated and experienced teacher with demonstrated scholarly achievement to join our distinguished department. Considered one of the strongest departments in the University, the Winthrop Political Science department boasts award-winning faculty who are recognized for the quality of their teaching and research alike. The department is also home to a long-standing Model UN program, which just celebrated its 40th anniversary; the Social & Behavioral Research Laboratory, which is home to the renowned Winthrop Poll; and the John C. West Forum on Politics and Policy, a major civic engagement initiative at the University. The department also collaborates with the Master of Liberal Arts program to provide a graduate Concentration in Political and Civic Engagement.

Major Responsibilities:

- Teach a variety of courses in Political Science. Our areas of need include: Comparative Politics, Politics of the Middle East, Politics of Asia, Public Administration, The Judiciary, Constitutional Law: Federalism, and Constitutional Law: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, Congress, The Presidency, Public Policy, Women and US Politics. Strong preference will be given to candidates with teaching experience and/or expertise in Comparative Politics, Politics of the Middle East, and/or Politics of Asia
- Teach both introductory and advanced courses in your areas of specialization, including graduate courses in our Political and Civic Engagement Concentration within the Master of Liberal Arts Program
- Teach a team-taught senior capstone course in Political Science
- Ability to teach research methods or experience in public opinion polling a plus
- Teach courses in Winthrop University's innovative General Education Program, including American Government, which fulfills the Constitution Requirement
- Participate in departmental, college, and university service, including student advising
- Undertake research in the discipline and promote undergraduate research
- Be an interested and energetic participant in an active department
- Other duties as assigned

Qualifications:

- The Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Policy, or a related field is required for appointment at the assistant professor level. A successful candidate who is ABD at the time of employment will be appointed to a non-tenure track position as an instructor. The successful candidate will also be required to undergo a background check prior to hiring.
- Specialization in areas among those listed above.
- Evidence of excellence in the area of Student Intellectual Development, including teaching excellence and commitment to student learning.
- Evidence in the area of Scholarly Activity, including an ongoing program of research and publication.
- Evidence in the area of Professional Stewardship, including engagement with the discipline, profession, campus, and community
- Preference is given to candidates with experience teaching the courses listed above.

Employment Conditions: A 9-month full-time tenure-track appointment with option of summer employment if funds are available. Salary is dependent upon qualifications. Pending final budgetary approval.

Position Availability: August 16, 2017

Application Deadline: Friday, November 11, 2016. Application materials received after the deadline date may be considered if an acceptable candidate has not been found.

Application Procedures:

1. Applications should consist of:
 - letter of application, including a statement of “teaching philosophy,”
 - curriculum vitae,
 - sample of representative written work (article- or chapter- length),
 - evidence of excellence and commitment to student learning,
 - three professional letters of reference,
 - all graduate transcripts (unofficial transcripts are acceptable for initial review; official transcripts are required prior to final appointment).
2. If you are attending the Annual Meeting of The American Political Science Association (APSA) in Philadelphia from September 1-4, please email Department Chair Dr. Jennifer Leigh Disney (disneyj@winthrop.edu) to schedule a meeting at the APSA Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service.

3. Applications may be submitted electronically to the following address:

PLSCJobs@winthrop.edu
 Search Committee Chair
 Department of Political Science
 346 Bancroft Hall
 Winthrop University
 Rock Hill, SC 29733
 (803) 323-2209

Winthrop University is a public, comprehensive university located in Rock Hill, SC, 30 minutes south of Charlotte, NC, that is among the very best institutions of our kind in the nation. Through an educational experience that blends liberal arts, professional programs, global awareness, and civic engagement, Winthrop University helps students develop the knowledge, skills, and values that will enrich their lives forever and prepare them for all that the future holds. Winthrop University has 5,000 undergraduate students and 1,000 graduate students. We have a diverse student population, which is 69% women and 36% students of color, and we have a 14 to 1 student/faculty ratio. For more information, visit us at www.winthrop.edu.

Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and does not discriminate against any individual or group of individuals on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, or veteran status. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/11/2016

Date Posted: 8/28/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1917

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

Rank: Director of School of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Other

The University of Massachusetts Amherst invites applications for the position of inaugural Director of the new School of Public Policy (SPP) at the University's flagship campus. We seek an outstanding and active scholar committed to the study of public problems and their resolution. The appointment will be made at the rank of Full Professor or advanced Associate Professor. Building on the success of the University's Center for Public Policy and Administration, the founding director will help to lead a faculty hiring strategy, elevate the visibility of SPP as a national and international hub for policy debates, and create multi-disciplinary programs that prepare students for lifelong engagement with public issues. The Director will work with faculty and other campus leaders to raise the profile of policy-relevant research on and beyond campus, build partnerships with other campus units that create joint opportunities for policy-related research and teaching, support faculty to increase public engagement with their research, and engage in fundraising working with development staff. The Director, who will report to the Dean of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SBS), will work with faculty to lead efforts to establish new opportunities for undergraduates in public policy and administration and expand existing graduate programs, working in collaboration with departments in the social sciences, natural sciences, public health, engineering, information and computer science and a variety of other fields. The SPP community is interested in problems connected to inequality and has a passion for social change and engaging policy problems at all levels, locally through internationally. The new Director will work collaboratively to develop innovative programs on our main campus in Amherst, with possible new operations in Massachusetts (Boston and Springfield) and Washington, DC where students will gain valuable experience in international, national, state, regional and local governance.

Requirements:

Candidates for Director must have a doctoral degree or equivalent and an exceptional record of research, teaching, and service sufficient to merit appointment as a tenured (full or associate) professor in one of the academic departments of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to research and to undergraduate and graduate education; a vision for how a new policy school will support the campus's strategic planning goals; a commitment to increase the diversity of the faculty, student body and curriculum; an ability to serve as a vigorous champion for public policy research and teaching; and an ability to work effectively across boundaries with faculty members, students, staff, administrators, and external constituencies.

Additional Information:

The university is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University of Massachusetts Amherst is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Because broad diversity is essential to an inclusive climate and critical to the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will holistically assess the many qualifications of each applicant and favorably consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with broadly diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds in educational, research or other work activities. We will also favorably consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic degree and career.

Application Instructions:

The appointment will be effective on or about September 1, 2017. Interested candidates should apply through Interview Exchange.

Candidates should include a curriculum vitae and a cover letter with a statement about the candidate's views on the role of public policy in a public research university, along with a concise description of the candidate's research and related accomplishments.

All applications will be treated as strictly confidential & letters of reference will only be requested for candidates who are finalists.

For full consideration, ensure that your application is received by October 3, 2016, but review of applications will continue until a suitable candidate pool has been identified.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1898

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor

Department of Political Science and Masters of Public Administration

Public Administration

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin Fall 2017. Candidates with specializations in Public Administration are welcomed to apply.

The Position: The faculty member will be a part of a small, collegial Masters of Public Administration program and a member of the Political Science Department, of which the Masters program is a part. The faculty member will teach and advise graduate and undergraduate students in both of these programs. As a part of the undergraduate Political Science program, the faculty member will be expected to teach Introduction to Public Administration and other upper division public administration courses or courses in political science according to the faculty member's area of expertise. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration or related disciplines such as Public Policy from an accredited university by September 1, 2017
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development)
- Evidence of ability to work with and mentor a diverse student population

Preferred/Desired Qualifications: Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to work with graduate students on a range of these projects in public administration, as well as the ability to teach political science undergraduates. Expertise and work experience in areas such as emergency or crises management, sustainable communities, public policy, qualitative research methods, nonprofits, and local or regional government will be given careful consideration.

Application Procedure: The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by October 10, 2016. Early response is encouraged. An online submission process will be used. To apply, please go to <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/open-positions/pls.shtml>

A completed application will consist of:

- a cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description. This must include a statement of teaching philosophy within a multicultural environment with examples of past experiences;
- a curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Please ask your letter writers to submit them via <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/open-positions/applications/pls-letters.shtml>
- a completed application form available on the application website;
- an unofficial transcript showing highest degree earned from an accredited educational institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Dr. Jill Hargis, Faculty Search Chair

Political Science Department

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Phone: 909.869.3887 FAX: 909.869.6995

Email: kmalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

The University: California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/~police/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The College: The faculty and staff of the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences provide an excellent education for students desiring intellectual enrichment and career enhancement in the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in 20 degree and certificate programs. Central to the mission of the College is the General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to provide for the "intellectual, personal, and professional development" of its students, staff, and faculty lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: www.class.csupomona.edu/

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over two hundred undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/10/2016

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1772

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor

The faculty member will be a part of a small, collegial Masters of Public Administration program and a member of the Political Science Department, of which the Masters program is a part. The faculty member will teach and advise graduate and undergraduate students in both of these programs. As a part of the undergraduate Political Science program, the faculty member will be expected to teach Introduction to Public Administration and other upper division public administration courses or courses in political science according to the faculty member's area of expertise. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work incorporates a global perspective and a commitment to diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply.

Minimum Qualifications:

- Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration or related disciplines such as Public Policy from an accredited university by September 1, 2017
- University teaching experience
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development)
- Evidence of ability to work with and mentor a diverse student population

Preferred/Desired Qualifications: Preference will be given to those candidates who have the expertise to work with graduate students on a range of these projects in public administration, as well as the ability to teach political science undergraduates. Expertise and work experience in areas such as emergency or crises management, sustainable communities, public policy, qualitative research methods, nonprofits, and local or regional government will be given careful consideration.

Application Procedure: The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by October 10, 2016. Early response is encouraged. An online submission process will be used. To apply, please go to <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/open-positions/pls.shtml>

A completed application will consist of:

- a cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description. This must include a statement of teaching philosophy within a multicultural environment with examples of past experiences;
 - a curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
 - three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years). Please ask your letter writers to submit them via <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/open-positions/applications/pls-letters.shtml>
 - a completed application form available on the application website;
 - an unofficial transcript showing highest degree earned from an accredited educational institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
 - recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

For further information or clarification, please contact:

Dr. Jill Hargis, Faculty Search Chair

Political Science Department

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Phone: 909.869.3887 FAX: 909.869.6995

Email: kmalm@cpp.edu (Kim Alm, Administrative Coordinator)

The University: California State Polytechnic University, Pomona is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer. The University seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the people of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students richly varied disciplines, perspectives and ways of knowing and learning. Cal Poly Pomona subscribes to all state and federal regulations and prohibits discrimination based on race, color, religion, national origin, sex, gender identity/gender expression, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, genetic information, medical condition, and covered veteran status. The University hires only individuals lawfully authorized to work in the United States. As required by the Clery Disclosure Act, the university's annual security report is available at <http://www.cpp.edu/~police/annual-security-report.shtml>. The person holding this position is considered a 'mandated reporter' under the California Child Abuse and Neglect Reporting Act and is required to comply with the requirements set forth in CSU Executive Order 1083 as a condition of employment. A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

The College: The faculty and staff of the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences provide an excellent education for students desiring intellectual enrichment and career enhancement in the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in 20 degree and certificate programs. Central to the mission of the College is the General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to provide for the "intellectual, personal, and professional development" of its students, staff, and faculty lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: www.class.csupomona.edu/

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over two hundred undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/10/2016

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1773

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Political Economy, Mexico, Public Finance & Budgeting

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. Other specializations are also welcome and will be considered by the Search Committee. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on September 19th and continue until the position is filled

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before May 2017.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

- ? Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
- ? Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages).
- ? Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
- ? Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
- ? Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2012-2015), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:

schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Additional Information:

<http://escueladegobierno.itesm.mx/>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1748

Temple University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Education Policy, Health Care

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position in public policy. We will consider candidates at any rank. We seek candidates pursuing a program of theoretically-informed empirical research on important public policy issues and processes who would be able to take an active role in our new Master of Public Policy Program. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching focuses upon education policy, health policy, or criminal justice policy. Expertise in bureaucracy and public management, policy analysis, the intersection of law and public policy, program evaluation, and budgeting is especially valued. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as evidence of external grant/fellowship support. Temple University, an urban research university in the heart of Philadelphia, values those who are able to work with diverse students and colleagues. Candidates at the entry level are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to: Prof. Gary Mucciaroni, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Temple University, 408 Gladfelter Hall (025-22), 1115 Polett Walk, Philadelphia PA 19122-6089. We prefer electronic applications; please submit these to the Department Coordinator, Latasha Goodman (goodman@temple.edu). Dossiers will be reviewed as they arrive, but to guarantee full consideration, applications must be received by October 3, 2016. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women and persons of color.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/3/2016

Date Posted: 8/4/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1734

Texas Tech University

Rank: Director, Master of Public Administration Program

The Master of Public Administration Program in the Department of Political Science at Texas Tech University seeks a candidate for the position of Director, Master of Public Administration Program with an appointment at the level of Associate/Full Professor. The Department would like the start date for this position to be January 1, 2017 but a start date of August 1, 2017 is also acceptable.

The successful candidate's field of specialization is open but the Department has needs in the areas of public management, human resource management, administrative leadership, ethics, and information technology. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. degree in an appropriate subfield of Public Administration and should possess substantial administrative experience managing a Master of Public Administration program, including advising, scheduling, and managing such things as admissions, degree plans, and recruitment. This position comes with a reduced teaching load. Finally, the successful candidate should have a substantial record of scholarly success including securing outside funds to support his/her research program. The salary for this position is competitive and includes a generous benefits package.

The Department of Political Science has 22 faculty members, offers the B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees in addition to the MPA and is home to one of the four-campus USGS-funded South Central Climate Science Center (one of 6 in the continental U.S.) and the Earl Survey Research Laboratory and works closely with other research institutes on campus as the National Wind Institute and the Department of Public Health in the TTU Health Sciences Center. The MPA program at Texas Tech University is NASPAA accredited, and faculty in the Department receive substantial financial resources for research support and conference travel. Texas Tech University is Tier One Carnegie Research Institution, has over 35,000 students who select from undergraduate and graduate programs that include Medicine, Law, Engineering, Media and Communications, and Agricultural Sciences. Lubbock is a growing city of nearly 250,000 and is the commercial, medical, financial and cultural hub of the South Plains.

Review of Applications will begin on September 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications should include a cover letter addressing the candidate's qualifications, a CV, and a list of contact information for five references. These items should be submitted at <http://www.texastech.edu/careers/>. The requisition number is 7932BR.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and /or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1725

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Service

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Political Economy, Public Finance & Budgeting

The Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service at New York University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position with appointment to begin September 1, 2017. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise and a record of research in financial management, budgeting, accountability and performance, or the design of institutions. Successful candidates will contribute to our Master of Public Administration and new Master of Science in Public Policy programs and will have demonstrated excellence in research. A Ph.D. in public administration, political science, or a related field is required and must be conferred by August 31, 2017.

NYU Wagner is a multidisciplinary school that prepares public service leaders to translate ideas into actions that have an effective and lasting impact on the public good. The School's nearly 40 full-time faculty members are trained in a wide variety of disciplines and share a commitment to addressing issues of public importance in their teaching and research. Wagner faculty members collaborate with other schools and departments across the university, including the Stern School of Business; the Steinhardt School of Education; School of Law; Politics, Economics, and Sociology departments; and the College of Global Public Health.

Candidates should complete the application available via the link below and submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, two completed research papers, and three letters of reference.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/36182>

NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and is strongly committed to diversity within its community.

Applications received by October 30, 2016 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/30/2016

Date Posted: 8/2/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1708

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Public Law

The School of Human Resources & Labor Relations in the College of Social Science at Michigan State University seeks applicants for a full-time tenure system position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in labor and employment relations. This position is an academic-year (nine-month) appointment with a beginning date of August 16, 2017.

We are particularly interested in applicants with research and teaching interests in labor and employment relations broadly defined, labor economics, work and organizations and applied research methods. Instructional responsibilities include teaching in our signature Master of Human Resources & Labor Relations program, our doctoral program and at the undergraduate level.

We seek applicants with demonstrated records of research and scholarship excellence and demonstrated records (or strong potential for success) in obtaining external funding to support one's research agenda. Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. in a relevant field such as employment relations & human resources, or related disciplines such as economics, sociology or political science prior to the beginning date.

Special instructions to applicants:

Applicants should complete an application and provide a cover letter outlining one's research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae and writing samples. To view the posting and apply for the position go to <https://jobs.msu.edu> and search on the "Faculty/Academic Staff" tab. Then go to posting #3744

The review of applications will begin September 1st, 2016 but applications will continue to be considered until this position is filled.

If you have questions about the process for applying online you should contact Annette Bacon at bacona@msu.edu, or by calling her at 517-355-1801. If you have other inquiries about the position (not related to the process of applying online), you may contact the Search Committee Chair, Dale Belman, at drdale@msu.edu. Applications and supporting materials must be submitted using the University's online application system, identified above.

The School of Human Resources & Labor Relations strongly encourages applications from women, persons of color, ethnic minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities. To find out more about the School, visit our website: www.hrlr.msu.edu

Start Date: Summer 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: $120,000 - $129,999

eJobs ID: 1689

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Public Management

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor in Public Management (2 positions)

About University at Albany:

Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in eight schools and colleges across three campuses.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy in the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for 2 full-time, tenure-track Public Management positions at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor beginning fall 2017. Candidates should be effective teachers and must be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality public management research and who employ a variety of methodological approaches. Candidates conducting research on collaboration, contracting, organizational behavior and theory, performance management, or strategic management are especially encouraged to apply.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization by September 1, 2017.
- Senior applicants must have a well-established research program
- Junior applicants must have a trajectory that suggests a tenurable research record is likely
- Applicants must be able to teach core public administration and management graduate and undergraduate courses.
- Applicants must be willing and able to mentor graduate and undergraduate students.
- Applicants must possess excellent communication skills, including the ability to communicate effectively orally and in writing.
- Applicants must address in their application their ability to work with culturally diverse populations.

Preferred Qualifications:

- Doctorate from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization in Public Administration, Public Management, Public Affairs, or an allied field such as Sociology and Psychology is preferred
- Experience obtaining grants is a plus.

Additional Information:

About Rockefeller College and the University at Albany:

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master's in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in information technology management, public management, public policy analysis, non-profit management, and public finance and budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the Department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/homepage/>.

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=74071>

A review of applications will start on October 1, 2016 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1694

University of Georgia

Rank: Margaret Hughes and Robert T. Golembiewski Professor of Public Administration

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Administration

The University of Georgia's School of Public & International Affairs, Department of Public Administration and Policy invites applications for The Margaret Hughes and Robert T. Golembiewski Professorship in Public Administration. Appointment begins in August 2017. The position is an endowed professorship, held by a full professor with an outstanding record of scholarship, teaching, and professional activity in public administration, including any subfield of public administration.

A Ph.D. in public administration, political science, or other appropriate discipline is required. Teaching is primarily at the graduate level and includes courses in public administration and/or subtopics in public administration. Successful candidates will contribute to both our MPA and Ph.D. programs and demonstrate national and international leadership in research, combined with excellence in teaching and public service. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vita, and contact information for three references.

Please apply using the FacultyJobs@UGA online system (<https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1001>). Include in your application (1) a cover letter (2) a curriculum vitae and (3) contact information for three references. If you have questions or would like more information, please contact Laura Bayne at 706-542-9660 or lbayne@uga.edu. Applications received by November 15, 2016 are guaranteed full consideration.

The University of Georgia is ranked 4th among Public Affairs programs by U.S. News & World Report. For more information, visit padp.uga.edu.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1614

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin August 2017. The Department seeks candidates with a research and teaching specialization in any area of public administration or public policy. A completed Ph.D. is required prior to appointment.

Teaching responsibilities include graduate courses in the candidate's area of expertise in the Department's NASPAA accredited master's degree program in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses. Opportunities exist to teach doctoral courses. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate degree in political science and a master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu and upload a cover letter identifying teaching areas, teaching philosophy and research agenda, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), one writing sample, and a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

PA & Policy Search Committee
 Department of Political Science and Public Administration
 Auburn University at Montgomery
 P.O. Box 244023
 Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 7/29/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1686

American University Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Position Announcement: Assistant or Associate Professor
 Department of Public Administration and Policy
 School of Public Affairs
 American University

The Department of Public Administration and Policy in the School of Affairs at American University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning August 1, 2017. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2017 in the field of Public Policy, Sociology, Political Science, or a related field.

We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality scholarship related to community resiliency. Potential areas of interest could include environmental disasters, public health problems, infrastructure inadequacies, and social and economic vulnerabilities. We welcome applicants who study how these issues differently impact individuals by race/ethnicity, gender, and social class. The ideal candidate would collaborate with the Metropolitan Policy Center or the Center for Environmental Policy. Teaching responsibilities will include courses in the school's Master of Public Policy, Master of Public Administration, and doctoral degree programs. Associate candidates will need to have an established track record of research and teaching. In addition to producing quality scholarship and effective teaching, responsibilities will include participation in department, school, and university service and related activities.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 12, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Please submit applications via apply.interfolio.com/35638. Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, recent teaching evaluations (when possible), and copies of recently published articles or working papers. Applicants at the rank of Assistant Professor should include three reference letters and Associate faculty candidates should include a list of three references. Please email dpapsearch@american.edu, if you have any questions.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The Department of Public Administration & Policy offers six graduate degrees, an undergraduate minor, and several graduate certificates. Its programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa and about the Department of Public Administration & Policy at www.american.edu/dpap.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/21/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1648

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at the University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor teaching public administration/public policy beginning August 2017. The position requires the ability to teach upper level courses in public administration and public policy (these could include introductory public administration, public personnel administration, public financial management and public policy; other related courses could also be developed). The teaching of an introductory American Government course is expected. Candidate must demonstrate excellence in teaching and potential of research agenda. Research focus is open but should not duplicate existing faculty specializations. PhD in Political Science must be in hand by the time of appointment. Prior university teaching experience strongly preferred. Responsibilities include a 4/4 teaching load (a minimum of 2 preparations per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, and broader community.

Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. USCA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Under a three hour drive from Charlotte and Atlanta respectively, the University of South Carolina Aiken has consistently ranked among the top three public baccalaureate colleges in the South by U.S. News & World Report's annual "America's Best Colleges" guide. USCA is also a recipient of The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Best Place to Work" designation, with top honors for collaborative governance and confidence in senior leadership, and has been designated a Military-Friendly School by Victory Media. Founded in 1961, USC Aiken has grown to serve more than 3,200 students on its beautiful 453-acre campus. USC Aiken is a comprehensive liberal arts institution with talented faculty committed to active learning through excellence in teaching, undergraduate research, scholarship, and civic engagement. A 15:1 student-faculty ratio allows for highly engaged pedagogies with USC Aiken selected as the college of choice by students from 29 states and 20 countries. According to the National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE), USC Aiken seniors rank the campus as contributing to their knowledge, skills and personal development at rates significantly higher than other institutions that participate in the survey. Visit: www.usca.edu

Applicants must apply online at:

<https://uscjobs.sc.edu/applicants/jsp/shared/frameset/frameset.jsp?time=1468858963397>

Applicants must fully complete the online application form and upload a letter of interest and current curriculum vitae there. Applicants should send separately three letters of reference, a sample syllabus, a teaching statement, and a writing sample (e.g. article, paper, chapter length) to:

Mrs. Carol McKay
College of Humanities and Social Sciences
471 University Parkway
Aiken, SC 29801

The application deadline is September 30, 2016. Additional materials may be sought at a later date from applicants selected for telephone interviews.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1631

Old Dominion University

Rank: Chair of the School of Public Service

The School of Public Service in the Strome College of Business at Old Dominion University invites applicants to serve as Chair of the School and to serve as a full-time faculty member in Public Management at the rank of Associate Professor or Professor. The School seeks an experienced, dynamic, entrepreneurial, and engaged leader who will leverage the potential of the School, its faculty, and its students into a leading program in the discipline. The position begins in July 2017. The School of Public Service houses a NASPAA-accredited MPA program, a doctoral program in public administration and policy, a graduate certificate in public administration and policy, a graduate certificate in public procurement & contract management, and an undergraduate minor in public service.

We welcome applicants with expertise from all areas of public management who will contribute directly to the mission of the School and who will help to boost the visibility of the School, both regionally and nationally. The successful candidate will provide leadership to further enhance the School's research and educational programs, will have a strong commitment to teaching and mentoring junior faculty and students, and will encourage excellence in research and teaching that make a contribution to the School's academic programs.

The applicant must have a clearly defined and well-established research agenda in an area of public management, and should have a well-established national reputation as a scholar. The successful candidate should also have the ability to teach public administration courses in our MPA and PhD programs; the ability to teach human resources is a plus. The School of Public Service is committed to multi-sector partnerships, which is the intersection and interaction of the public, government, nonprofit, and/or business sectors; candidates should have an interest in some aspect of multi-sector partnerships and/or multi-sector public service, such as privatization, contracting, citizen engagement, and social entrepreneurship. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated record of community engagement, and show a willingness to raise the visibility of the School of Public Service in the Hampton Roads region.

Candidates must have strong interpersonal and communication skills; possess an earned doctorate in public administration or related field; be able to provide evidence of successful teaching, research, and service sufficient to warrant appointment at the rank of tenured Associate Professor or Professor; and be familiar with NASPAA accreditation standards. Previous experience as a Chair, degree program director, or equivalent administrative experience in a higher education setting is highly desirable. The salary is competitive, and is commensurate with both rank and experience.

Old Dominion University is a state-supported, Carnegie Doctoral/Research-Extensive University with over 24,000 students. The University is located in Norfolk, Virginia, the hub of the Hampton Roads metropolitan area with a population of approximately 1.6 million. As a major recreation area known for its beaches, historical landmarks, and the Chesapeake Bay, the Hampton Roads Region also profits from its proximity to Washington, D.C., Williamsburg, and the Outer Banks of North Carolina. Federal, state, and local governments represent approximately a third of the region's total employment, and the region is home to a vibrant and growing nonprofit sector. Boasting the largest naval base in the world, Hampton Roads also accommodates major Army, Air Force, and Coast Guard commands.

Applicants should submit (1) a current Curriculum Vitae, (2) a letter of application indicating research, teaching, and service interests and accomplishments, administrative experience, and that explains how the applicant fits the position description, (3) evidence of teaching effectiveness such as student evaluations or reflective statement of teaching philosophy, (4) a statement of interest in serving as Chair, and (5) the contact information of three references to <https://jobs.odu.edu>. Review of applications will begin on September 19, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Questions on the position should be directed to Dr. John Lombard, at jlombard@odu.edu.

Old Dominion University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Date Posted: 7/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1626

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science and Economics invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning in Fall 2017. The position is open to candidates specializing in public policy, public administration, or a related field, with a particular focus on the politics of health policy. Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2017. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 20, 2016. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://rowanuniversity.hodesiq.com/jobs/assistant-professor-of-political-science-aft-glassboro-new-jersey-job-5301829>. Rowan will have representatives at the APSA annual meeting in Philadelphia. Please email Lawrence Markowitz to request a meeting at markowizl@rowan.edu.

Submit a cover letter, a C.V., unofficial transcripts, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/20/2016

Date Posted: 7/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1625

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor (Public Policy)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno is soliciting applications for a tenure-track, full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Public Policy to begin in the Fall semester of 2017. The focus is on a Policy generalist who can offer courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels covering policy theory, policy implementation, and ideally policy analysis. We are open to a variety of substantive policy areas candidates may be pursuing, but those with a link to environmental and/or energy policy are preferred. Research methodology is open, although candidates with statistical methods skills and the ability to teach an MPA course in Policy Analysis are strongly preferred. The selected applicant will be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower division undergraduate, upper division undergraduate and graduate MA/MPA/PhD). Courses will include offerings in support of a traditional MPA curriculum. Applicants should demonstrate a strong potential for research publication and there is an expectation that the individual hired will have some ability to attract external funding.

Position is open until filled, but review of applications will begin October 7, 2016.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field in hand by August 15, 2017 for appointment as an Assistant Professor. A background check may be conducted on the candidate(s) selected for hire.

To apply online: <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/21273>

HR will attempt to verify academic credentials upon receipt of hiring documents. If the academic credentials cannot be verified, HR will notify the faculty member that an official transcript of their highest degree must be submitted within thirty days of the faculty member's first day of employment.

The University of Nevada, Reno is committed to Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action in recruitment of its students and employees and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, creed, national origin, veteran status, physical or mental disability, and sexual orientation. The University of Nevada, Reno employs only United States citizens and aliens lawfully authorized to work in the United States. Women, under-represented groups, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/6/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1591

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester 2017 at the level of assistant professor. The successful applicant will be a broadly trained political scientist with a primary field of comparative politics. The candidate will be expected to develop courses in comparative public administration, comparative public policy and political economy. An ability to teach introduction to American government would be an asset. Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, or public policy are required.

Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education. Candidates with quantitative and/or qualitative methodological skills preferred. Interested applicants should apply online at the following url:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Review of applications will begin October 17.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1567

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Urban Politics, Economic Policy, Health Care

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public policy to begin August 2017. The Department seeks candidates with a research and teaching specialization in any of the following areas of public policy: health policy, social policy, economic development, community development, sustainable development, intergovernmental relations, state and local government, and/or urban policy. Expertise in these areas is expected to be in the context of the United States. Candidates also must possess the capacity to contribute to departmental efforts to increase community outreach and engagement with government officials and practitioners in the greater Montgomery area. A completed Ph.D. is required prior to appointment.

Teaching responsibilities normally include undergraduate courses offered to political science majors and graduate courses in the candidate's area of expertise in the Department's NASPAA accredited master's degree program in public administration. Opportunities exist to teach doctoral courses. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate degree in political science and a master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu and upload a cover letter identifying teaching areas, teaching philosophy and research agenda, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), one writing sample, and a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

Public Policy Search Committee
Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Auburn University at Montgomery
P.O. Box 244023
Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 6/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1549

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Part-Time Instructor(s)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Middle Georgia State University has part-time employment opportunities for instructors for face-to-face classes on all campuses (Macon, Warner Robins, Cochran, Dublin, and Eastman) for day, evening, and weekend classes to start Fall 2016 or later in the fields of history and political science. We have particular needs for instructors who are interested in teaching one or more of the following courses:

POLS 1101 American Government
POLS 2501 Domestic Issues
POLS 2601 Intro to Public Administration

The Macon campus is located just over one hour's drive southeast of Atlanta.

Minimum Qualifications: To qualify for a teaching position, candidates are required to have a minimum of a master's degree in political science or a master's in another field with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the discipline.

To Apply: Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest with a current CV or resume, unofficial transcripts from both undergraduate and graduate courses, a list of at least two professional references including email and phone contact information, and statement of teaching philosophy, preferably combined as an attachment in a single PDF file, to Dr. Christopher N. Lawrence, assistant department chair, at christopher.lawrence@mga.edu. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis. Informal inquiries welcome.

Middle Georgia State University is a Unit of the University System of Georgia, EEO/AA/M/F/V/D.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 1/5/2016

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 1170

University of San Diego

Rank: Professor of Practice, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a non-tenure track Professor of Practice in public administration and public policy. Candidates must have a Master's degree or PhD in political science, public administration, public policy, or a closely related field, teaching experience at the community college or university level, practical experience in local or state government, and the capacity to integrate theory with practice.

The successful candidate must be qualified to teach courses in American politics, urban politics, public policy, and/or state and local government. The teaching load is seven courses per academic year, which includes one internship class each semester. In addition, the candidate will supervise our continuously offered Washington, D.C. internship program and run a 1-unit weekend Sacramento seminar each spring semester.

As a Professor of Practice, the successful candidate must have extensive local, state, and/or national political, legal, and business connections, and will supervise the department's dynamic internship program, including the department's Washington DC internship and seminar program. Responsibilities will include developing new internship opportunities, to further enhance our students' professional development.

USD offers a competitive salary and benefits.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a CV, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of reference at their earliest convenience. The position will remain open until filled.

To apply, go to www.sandiego.edu/jobs and look for job IRC18893. Applicants must email all relevant materials— except for confidential letters of recommendation— to dickson@sandiego.edu and upload the same materials to the USD Human Resources site. References must submit confidential letters of recommendation separately to: dickson@sandiego.edu.

Please address all correspondence to Dr. Del Dickson, Chair, Search Committee for Professor of Practice, Department of Political Science and International Relations, 5998 Alcalá Park, San Diego, CA 92110

USD is a private, independent Catholic liberal arts institution dedicated to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service. USD is an Equal Opportunity employer, and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Candidates from underrepresented and underserved groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/19/2015

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1028

University of Southern Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The University of Southern Mississippi's Department of Political Science, International Development and International Affairs in Hattiesburg, Miss., is accepting applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of American politics (political institutions). Additional strength in public policy/public administration is also desirable. The successful candidate will be able to teach Introduction to American Government and assist with the department's research methods sequences. Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. Candidates are expected to provide evidence of potential for excellence in teaching, research and service. The department serves both the Hattiesburg and Gulf Park campuses and includes a strong undergraduate program, MA and MS in political science and a Ph.D. in international development. The successful candidate will develop and teach undergraduate and graduate courses, and contribute broadly to our master's programs as well as conduct scholarly research and provide service to the department, college, university, profession and/or community.

Review of applications will begin November 15, 2015, and continue until the position is filled. A full application will include a letter of interest, curriculum vita, teaching evaluations (if available), graduate transcripts, a writing sample and at least three letters of reference. To apply, please see <http://jobs.usm.edu>

The position is contingent on funding.

The department is committed to improving its diversity in terms of race, ethnicity and gender. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer/Americans with Disabilities Act institution, The University of Southern Mississippi encourages minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities to apply.

For more information, please see the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Political Science, International Development and International Affairs website at <http://usm.edu/polisci>

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2015

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 949

PUBLIC LAW

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor of Political Science (Public Law/Judicial Politics)
College of Humanities & Social Sciences
School of Political Science
Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Law/Judicial Politics to begin Fall 2017. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester.

Candidates will assist the teaching load of the Department of Political Science and conduct research in sub-specialty of primary department.

Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of appointment.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. An offer of employment is contingent on a satisfactory pre-employment background check. Application review will begin November 1, 2016, and will continue until a candidate is selected.

Apply online and view a more detailed ad at: https://lsu.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/LSU/job/LSU---Baton-Rouge/Assistant-Professor-of-Political-Science_R00006446. Position # R00006446.

LSU is committed to diversity and is an equal opportunity/equal access employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 11/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/28/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2132

University of Toronto at Scarborough Rank: Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto Scarborough invites applications for a full-time, tenure stream appointment in Public Law. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence July 1, 2017.

Candidates must have a PhD in Political Science by the date of appointment or shortly thereafter. Candidates must demonstrate a record of excellence in research in Public Law, the ability to mount an independently funded innovative program of research, and demonstrated excellence as an undergraduate teacher, as well as an emerging record for excellence as a graduate teacher and supervisor.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct innovative research at the highest international level and establish an outstanding, externally funded research program. She/he will have an established or emerging record of scholarly accomplishment including publications in leading academic journals and/or with leading academic presses, or will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated in presentations at significant conferences, awards for work in the field and strong endorsements by referees of high international standing. Excellence in teaching can be demonstrated by strong endorsements from referees, teaching accomplishments highlighted as part of the application, teaching evaluations, and the teaching dossier submitted as part of the application.

The successful candidate will teach in the undergraduate program at the University of Toronto Scarborough, and will also be a member of the tri-campus Graduate Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto. He/she will be expected to contribute to the undergraduate public law program at the University of Toronto Scarborough. This program includes required courses on the Canadian judiciary and Canadian constitution, and elective courses on comparative legal systems, international law, and law and public policy. Besides teaching required and optional courses in the undergraduate public law program, the successful candidate will also be expected to teach graduate courses and supervise graduate students in his/her areas of research expertise. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Toronto Scarborough is a research-intensive institution with an interdisciplinary commitment, a multicultural student body, and a modern campus. The University offers the opportunity to conduct research, teach and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world. The University also offers opportunities to work in a range of collaborative programs and centers of research.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking <https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl>

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample and teaching dossier (including a statement of teaching philosophy), and concise descriptions of current research activity and graduate student supervision experience and future research plans. Three letters of reference should be sent directly by the referee (on letterhead, signed and scanned) to the attention of Professor Grace Skogstad, Chair, at polppsearch@utsc.utoronto.ca

All application materials should be submitted online. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format.

The closing date for applications is November 30, 2016.

If you have questions about this position, please contact Professor Grace Skogstad at polppsearch@utsc.utoronto.ca. For more information about the Department of Political Science, University of Toronto Scarborough, please visit: <http://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/~polisci/>. For information about the graduate department of Political Science at the University of Toronto please visit: <http://politics.utoronto.ca/>.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: 11/30/2016
Date Posted: 9/28/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2131

Harvard University

Rank: Harvard University Environmental Fellows Program

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

APPLICATION DEADLINE: JANUARY 18, 2017

The Harvard University Center for the Environment created the Environmental Fellows program to enable recent doctorate recipients to use and expand Harvard's extraordinary resources to tackle complex environmental problems. The Environmental Fellows will work for two years with Harvard faculty members in any school or department while also strengthening connections across the University's academic disciplines.

The Award:

The fellowship includes a salary of $64,000 per year, employee health insurance eligibility, up to $2,500 reimbursement for relocation expenses, and a $2,500 annual allowance for travel and other professional expenses.

The Harvard University Center for the Environment expects to award approximately six fellowships for the 2017 cohort. The Center will organize a co-curricular program to ensure that the fellows get to know each other and each other's work. All fellows will attend biweekly dinners with their colleagues, faculty members, and guests.

Program Requirements:

- Candidates for 2017 Environmental Fellowships should have received their terminal degree between May 2013 and August 2017. (Fellows must have filed their dissertation before starting their appointment in September 2017.)
- Candidates with a doctorate or equivalent in any field are eligible, and they may propose research projects in any discipline. Applicants without a Ph.D. may apply if they have studied in fields where the Ph.D. is not the typical terminal degree. All successful candidates will be able to demonstrate experience performing scholarly research.
- Each candidate must secure a commitment from one or more Harvard faculty members to serve as a mentor and to provide office or lab space for the two-year fellowship.
- Candidates may have received their degrees at any university in the world. Foreign nationals are eligible for fellowships, though study at Harvard requires proficiency in English.
- Candidates who received terminal degrees from Harvard, and post-docs currently working at Harvard are eligible for the fellowship provided their research and host arrangements take them in new directions and forge new connections within the University. Harvard candidates should not propose to continue to work with the same professors or lab groups with whom they are currently associated. No candidate should propose to work extensively with his or her thesis advisor.
- Harvard is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.
- Successful candidates should be prepared to commit to work at Harvard for the full two years of the fellowship. This fellowship requires residency in the Cambridge area and any fieldwork trip must be scheduled for the summer or January recess.

Application Requirements:

1. Please complete the online application form found at <http://environment.harvard.edu/application by January 18, 2017> and attach the relevant supporting documents as PDFs:

- a. curriculum vitae including list of publications;
 - b. detailed research proposal where applicants should explain their specific reasons for applying to a Harvard residential environmental fellowship (maximum of five pages, references counted separately). Note: While applicants should discuss the proposal with their potential faculty hosts, the final product should clearly be the work of the applicant; and
 - c. up to three publications/writing samples.
2. Three letters of reference, including one from the applicant's dissertation adviser.
 3. A letter of support is also required from the applicant's host committing to serve as a mentor and explaining his or her commitment to the proposed research, including the provision of office or lab space.

Applicants are encouraged to ask their referees and hosts to email letters of reference as PDFs or, if necessary, as Word documents attached to the emails. Referees and hosts should send their letters directly to the attention of Jean Gauthier at the Center at environmental_fellows@harvard.edu.

If you have questions about the fellowship or application process, please contact:

Jean Gauthier
Harvard University Center for the Environment
26 Oxford Street, 4th Floor
Cambridge MA 02138
617-495-0368
jgauthier@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/18/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2084

University of Richmond

Rank: Richard L. Morrill Distinguished University Chair in Ethics and Democratic Values

The University of Richmond invites nominations and applications for the Richard L. Morrill Distinguished University Chair in Ethics and Democratic Values for up to one semester in 2018-2019. The nominee's teaching and writing should demonstrate interest in the relationship between foundational values and ethics and various spheres of human activity, such as education, politics, business, or other areas of professional responsibility. The chair holder will be appointed to a department or school at the University of Richmond, with the possibility of joint appointments among one or more departments or schools.

The chair holder will offer at least one public lecture, lead a faculty seminar, or teach a course in his or her area of expertise; and otherwise engage with the intellectual community of the University. Compensation is competitive, including support for research during the period of the appointment.

From 1988 to 1998, Chancellor Richard L. Morrill served as the University of Richmond's seventh president. A scholar of the history of religious ideas and ethics, he has an enduring interest in the foundation of human values and democratic practice. A strong proponent of liberal arts education, Chancellor Morrill has a longstanding scholarly commitment to the ethical capabilities and presuppositions that sustain a democratic community. In his writings, teaching, and administrative leadership, he has addressed the connections between fundamental values and strategic leadership. The University of Richmond's Board of Trustees elected Richard L Morrill to be the first holder of the Chair from July 1, 1998 to June 30, 2004.

Candidates should submit a letter of application and curriculum vitae, and provide the names and email addresses of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016; applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The first school of leadership studies and a highly ranked business school enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

The University of Richmond is an Equal Opportunity Employer by both policy and practice. Applicants are considered for all positions without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, marital or veteran status, or the presence of a non-job-related medical condition.

Start Date: 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2041

University of South Dakota

Rank: Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice

The University of South Dakota
Criminal Justice Studies Program
Assistant Professor

The Criminal Justice Studies Program at the University of South Dakota invites applicants for a full-time, tenure track position at the Assistant Professor rank. Area of specialization is law enforcement. The ideal candidate will also have the ability to teach corrections or penology and may be asked to deliver some courses online.

The University of South Dakota is the state's flagship liberal arts institution with a "higher research" (R2) Carnegie Classification. We seek a candidate who possesses a commitment to excellence in teaching, student mentoring, and research within the context of a strong liberal arts program. The successful candidate will be expected to maintain an active research agenda, share in the work of a vibrant department and apply his or her professional expertise in the service of the university, community and discipline. The CJUS program enjoys major endowments that support faculty research and extensive international/domestic off-campus study opportunities for its majors.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in criminal justice on the date of appointment. A J.D. or master's degree alone is insufficient qualification for this position. This is a nine-month, tenure track position with a start date of August 22, 2017.

Review of applications will begin October 21, 2016 and continue until a suitable candidate is hired.

Applications MUST be submitted on-line at <https://yourfuture.sdbor.edu>. A complete application consists of a letter of application, current resume, unofficial graduate transcripts, three letters of reference, teaching portfolio (course evaluations, philosophy of teaching statement, and/or sample syllabi), and at least one article-length writing sample. Materials that cannot be uploaded should be sent to Dr. William D. Richardson c/o the Criminal Justice Search Committee.

Questions may be directed to Criminal Justice Search Committee, Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice, University of South Dakota, 414 East Clark Street, Vermillion, SD 57069-2390, 605/677-5242 or William.Richardson@usd.edu.

The University of South Dakota is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty, staff and students.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2056

Vanderbilt University

Rank: John L. Seigenthaler Chair in American History

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

The College of Arts and Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from distinguished scholars for appointment to the newly-created John L. Seigenthaler Chair in American History. Named for the civil rights champion and passionate advocate of First Amendment rights, the chair recognizes exceptional scholarship on the history of civil rights, broadly defined, and the full range of civil rights movements. The successful candidate will demonstrate a strong commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching and an exemplary record of publication in humanities, social sciences or law. The final appointment will be in a department corresponding with the candidate's training and scholarship.

Applicants should upload a single PDF containing a letter of interest and complete curriculum vitae to <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7858>. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2016. Files will continue to be accepted until the search is complete. Inquiries and nominations may be sent to Professor Jefferson Cowie (j.cowie@vanderbilt.edu).

Vanderbilt University is committed to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of exceptional faculty. Women, minorities, and members of other underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 2051

Pacific University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and Government at Pacific University in Oregon invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in American Government with a specialization in public law. The appointment will begin fall 2017. This is a tenure-track position, contingent on available funding.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses in US Politics and Public Law that would include Introduction to US Politics, Constitutional Law, and Civil Liberties. Interest in teaching courses on the politics of race and/or gender would also be desirable as would experience teaching environmental politics. The teaching load is five courses per year (3-2).

For more information on Pacific University, please visit www.pacificu.edu. Details about the Department of Politics and Government can be found at: <http://www.pacificu.edu/future-undergraduates/academics/areas-study/politics-government>

Eligibility:

A Ph.D. in Political Science at time of appointment is strongly preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. Ability to assist students involved in the College's pre-law organization would also be advantageous.

Required Application Materials:

- Application letter addressing the position description, above.
- Curriculum Vitae
- Evidence of teaching success
- Names and contact information for three professional references
- Three letters of recommendation

Deadlines:

Applications should be received by October 14, 2016. Review of applications begins immediately and will continue until the position is filled.

Application materials must be submitted electronically, PDF preferred, to Ms. Jennifer Teeter, Administrative Assistant to the Social Sciences: teeterj@pacificu.edu. Please reference "Assistant Professor position in Politics & Government" in the subject line of your correspondence.

Pacific University is an Equal Opportunity Employer that values a diverse workplace. We encourage women and members of underrepresented groups to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/14/2016

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1981

Sweet Briar College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Sweet Briar College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American government. We seek candidates with experience beyond the Ph.D., including proven teaching at the undergraduate level and evidence of potential for scholarly publications consistent with an Assistant Professor appointment. Candidates should have research and teaching interests in American government and politics, public policy, or constitutional law. The normal teaching load is 3:3.

The successful candidate will be an engaged scholar-teacher who will be central in building the government and international affairs program for the future; will collaborate with colleagues across different disciplines and be open to contributing to a variety of majors and programs; will shape and participate in campus academic life; and will work closely with undergraduates on research and as a mentor in pursuing careers in public service, academe or the professions. Candidates ready to work with a diverse student body are especially welcome. Sweet Briar prides itself on creating a learning environment that encourages young women to fulfill their highest potential. Leadership in all walks of life is fostered by the special connections our faculty make with their students, and Sweet Briar women translate their academic experiences into interesting and important lives.

Applications should be sent by email to governsearch@sbc.edu. Applications should include: 1) a cover letter; 2) a CV; 3) a statement on teaching, research, institutional experience, and future plans; 4) the names and full contact information for 3 references; and 5) a writing sample (journal- or chapter-length publication preferred). Items 1-4 should be in a single PDF file; item 5 may be in the same file or a separate PDF. Review of applications will start November 1, 2016.

Sweet Briar College (www.sbc.edu), located on 3,250 scenic acres in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains near Lynchburg, VA, is a nationally-ranked, independent, residential, liberal arts and sciences college for women. As an Equal Opportunity Employer, Sweet Briar College is committed to enhancing our community and encourages applications from qualified individuals with varied backgrounds, experiences and ideas who would increase the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1974

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2017 to June 30, 2018. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition 1600685.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2016 for appointments beginning in September 2017. Awards will be announced in March 2017.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1846

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates for the year from September 1, 2017 to September 1, 2018 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu> by December 1, 2016; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2017. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, please go to requisition #1600687.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date:Application Deadline: 12/1/2016Date Posted: 9/1/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1847University of California, Berkeley*Rank: School of Law Faculty Positions

University of California, Berkeley

School of Law Faculty Positions

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY, SCHOOL OF LAW

The University of California, Berkeley, School of Law, invites applications from entry-level and lateral candidates for full-time, tenured and tenure-track faculty positions with an expected start date of July 1, 2017. We welcome applications from candidates across all areas of law, although subject areas of particular interest include business law; civil procedure; comparative and international law; contracts; criminal law and criminal procedure; evidence; law and economics (including economic development, economic history, labor economics, political economy, etc.); torts; and property. Further information about Berkeley Law is available at: <http://www.law.berkeley.edu>.

Berkeley Law is interested in candidates who have demonstrated a commitment to excellence by providing leadership in teaching, research and service towards building an equitable and diverse scholarly environment. Candidates must either: a) hold a J.D. or equivalent degree by date of application, or b) hold or have advanced to candidacy status for a Ph.D., or equivalent degree, in a related field by date of application. Doctoral (or equivalent degree) candidates will be expected to complete their degree within six months of appointment.

Berkeley Law offers a unique program of graduate study in law and society, leading to the Ph.D. degree in Jurisprudence and Social Policy (JSP). More information about the JSP Program can be found at: <https://www.law.berkeley.edu/academics/doctoral-programs/jsp/>. Candidates interested in teaching as a faculty member within the JSP Program should have an interest in the teaching and mentoring of Ph.D. students admitted to the JSP Program in the School of Law. Given the multi-disciplinary character of the JSP Program, JSP faculty members are expected to help support students across a range of academic approaches, as well as within their own area of disciplinary training. We welcome expressions of interest in the JSP Program from candidates in any subject area. Candidates with a focus on Law and Economics will be expected in particular to contribute to the JSP Program.

Application Procedure:

All entry-level candidates, including those who have registered with the Association of American Law Schools (AALS) Faculty Appointments Register (FAR), must complete an online application with Berkeley Law via the following link: <https://aprecruit.berkeley.edu/apply/JPF01120>. Applications must include in pdf format: a CV; a research agenda; a list of teaching preferences grouped by preferred subjects and secondary subjects; and entry of three (3) references, including names and contact information. Entry-level candidates are strongly encouraged to apply before October 2, 2016.

The Initial Review Date for entry-level applications will be September 7, 2016. Application submissions will be accepted through December 2, 2016.

Lateral candidates who already hold tenured or tenure-track positions at other institutions are encouraged to apply online for consideration via the following link: <https://aprecruit.berkeley.edu/apply/JPF01121>. As evidence of scholarly achievement and teaching potential, applicants must submit a CV and enter the names and contact information for three (3) references.

The Initial Review Date for lateral applications will be September 7, 2016. Application submissions will be accepted through January 6, 2017.

To receive full consideration for any position, please submit a completed application by the appropriate deadline listed above. Please direct questions to: <mailto:academicpositions@law.berkeley.edu>

Letters of reference, copies of scholarly transcripts, and other materials may be requested of top candidates for entry-level or lateral positions. All letters will be treated as confidential per University of California policy and California state law. Please refer potential referees, including when letters are provided via a dossier service or career center, to the UC Berkeley statement of confidentiality (<http://apo.berkeley.edu/evalltr.html>) prior to submitting their letters.

The University is responsive to the family needs of faculty, including dual career couples and single parents. For information about family friendly resources, potential relocation to Berkeley, or career needs of accompanying partners and spouses, please visit: <http://ofew.berkeley.edu/new-faculty>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

jeid-eca66deb2d2f1b4abd1fe1bb3847f91c

Copyright ©2015 Jobelephant.com Inc. All rights reserved.

<http://www.jobelephant.com/>
jeid-3f6651d5ccde5d46a8dfa9dd0d923520

Start Date: Summer 2017Application Deadline: 10/2/2016Date Posted: 9/1/2016Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 1953California State University, Long Beach*Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics--Public Law

POSITION: Assistant Professor of American Politics—Public Law

EFFECTIVE DATE: August 21, 2017 (Fall Semester)

SALARY RANGE: Commensurate with qualifications and experience

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. in Political Science or in appropriate related discipline. Degree at time of application, or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2017. Specialization in Public Law, Judicial Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, or Law & Society. Teaching experience or evidence of strong potential for effective teaching. Demonstrated potential for successful research and publication. Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Specialization in one or more of the following: American law and courts, legal mobilization, rights advocacy and discourse, judicial process, or judicial behavior. Candidates with Juris Doctorate degrees in addition to the Ph.D. are encouraged to apply. We are particularly interested in candidates who are able to connect their specific areas of interest with broader questions within political science, such as the impact of economic, racial, ethnic, and gender inequality on democratic governance; the capacity of the American political system to deal effectively with economic and environmental challenges; or the relationship between American civil liberties and philosophies of social justice.

DUTIES: Teach courses in American politics at the undergraduate and graduate levels, which may include: Introduction to American Government; How Democratic is the U.S.?; Constitutional Law; Law and Social Change; Jurisprudence; Senior Seminar in Law, Politics, and Policy; Scope and Methods of Political Science; and Graduate Seminar in Public Law. Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication. Participate in service to the department, college, university and community. Advise students, serve as a member of Master's thesis and comprehensive exam committees.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION:

- A Student Success Statement about teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page)
- Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications and duties
- CV (including current email address)
- Three current signed academic letters of recommendation
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations
- Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree
- Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form and an official transcript.

A background check (including a criminal records check) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

Applications and required documentation should be submitted through AcademicJobsOnline.com (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7652>; position #7652). Application materials will not be accepted via post or e-mail.

Requests for information should be addressed to:
Teresa Wright, Chair
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Review of applications to begin October 10, 2016

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identification, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, political affiliation, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1921

University of the Incarnate Word

Rank: Assistant Professor in Government and International Relations

Assistant Professor in Government and International Relations (tenure-track, 4-4 load) beginning August 2017.

The successful candidate will have the ability to teach upper division courses in American government, judicial politics and/or public law and a wide range of lower division courses within the field. A strong commitment to undergraduate education is essential.

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in American Politics (ABDs considered) with a specialization in judicial politics or public law by July 2017.

The successful candidate will have at least one year of demonstrated university-level teaching experience in the discipline.

Official duties and responsibilities of faculty members at the University of the Incarnate Word include teaching, scholarship, service, and professional activities. In all matters, faculty are expected to maintain the highest standards of professional ethics consistent with the UIW mission.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/29/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1920

Winthrop University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Administration, Public Law

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, South Asia

WINTHROP UNIVERSITY

College of Arts & Sciences

Rock Hill, South Carolina 29733

VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

TITLE: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science, Department of Political Science, Open Field

The Department of Political Science is seeking engaging teachers and active scholars to join our diverse scholarly community by applying for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor position. The department welcomes applications in all subfields; however, we are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in one or more of the following areas: Comparative Politics (Middle East, Asia), Public Administration, Public Law, and/or American Institutions. We are seeking a dedicated and experienced teacher with demonstrated scholarly achievement to join our distinguished department. Considered one of the strongest departments in the University, the Winthrop Political Science department boasts award-winning faculty who are recognized for the quality of their teaching and research alike. The department is also home to a long-standing Model UN program, which just celebrated its 40th anniversary; the Social & Behavioral Research Laboratory, which is home to the renowned Winthrop Poll; and the John C. West Forum on Politics and Policy, a major civic engagement initiative at the University. The department also collaborates with the Master of Liberal Arts program to provide a graduate Concentration in Political and Civic Engagement.

Major Responsibilities:

- Teach a variety of courses in Political Science. Our areas of need include: Comparative Politics, Politics of the Middle East, Politics of Asia, Public Administration, The Judiciary, Constitutional Law: Federalism, and Constitutional Law: Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, Congress, The Presidency, Public Policy, Women and US Politics. Strong preference will be given to candidates with teaching experience and/or expertise in Comparative Politics, Politics of the Middle East, and/or Politics of Asia
- Teach both introductory and advanced courses in your areas of specialization, including graduate courses in our Political and Civic Engagement Concentration within the Master of Liberal Arts Program
- Teach a team-taught senior capstone course in Political Science
- Ability to teach research methods or experience in public opinion polling a plus
- Teach courses in Winthrop University's innovative General Education Program, including American Government, which fulfills the Constitution Requirement
- Participate in departmental, college, and university service, including student advising
- Undertake research in the discipline and promote undergraduate research
- Be an interested and energetic participant in an active department
- Other duties as assigned

Qualifications:

- The Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Policy, or a related field is required for appointment at the assistant professor level. A successful candidate who is ABD at the time of employment will be appointed to a non-tenure track position as an instructor. The successful candidate will also be required to undergo a background check prior to hiring.
- Specialization in areas among those listed above.
- Evidence of excellence in the area of Student Intellectual Development, including teaching excellence and commitment to student learning.

- Evidence in the area of Scholarly Activity, including an ongoing program of research and publication.
- Evidence in the area of Professional Stewardship, including engagement with the discipline, profession, campus, and community
- Preference is given to candidates with experience teaching the courses listed above.

Employment Conditions: A 9-month full-time tenure-track appointment with option of summer employment if funds are available. Salary is dependent upon qualifications. Pending final budgetary approval.

Position Availability: August 16, 2017

Application Deadline: Friday, November 11, 2016. Application materials received after the deadline date may be considered if an acceptable candidate has not been found.

Application Procedures:

1. Applications should consist of:
 - letter of application, including a statement of "teaching philosophy,"
 - curriculum vitae,
 - sample of representative written work (article- or chapter- length),
 - evidence of excellence and commitment to student learning,
 - three professional letters of reference,
 - all graduate transcripts (unofficial transcripts are acceptable for initial review; official transcripts are required prior to final appointment).
2. If you are attending the Annual Meeting of The American Political Science Association (APSA) in Philadelphia from September 1-4, please email Department Chair Dr. Jennifer Leigh Disney (disneyj@winthrop.edu) to schedule a meeting at the APSA Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service.
3. Applications may be submitted electronically to the following address:

PLSCJobs@winthrop.edu
 Search Committee Chair
 Department of Political Science
 346 Bancroft Hall
 Winthrop University
 Rock Hill, SC 29733
 (803) 323-2209

Winthrop University is a public, comprehensive university located in Rock Hill, SC, 30 minutes south of Charlotte, NC, that is among the very best institutions of our kind in the nation. Through an educational experience that blends liberal arts, professional programs, global awareness, and civic engagement, Winthrop University helps students develop the knowledge, skills, and values that will enrich their lives forever and prepare them for all that the future holds. Winthrop University has 5,000 undergraduate students and 1,000 graduate students. We have a diverse student population, which is 69% women and 36% students of color, and we have a 14 to 1 student/faculty ratio. For more information, visit us at www.winthrop.edu.

Winthrop University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and does not discriminate against any individual or group of individuals on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, gender identity, or veteran status. Women, minorities, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/11/2016
Date Posted: 8/28/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1917

Naval Postgraduate School

Rank: Senior Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Law, Other

Social Science, Humanities and Special Operations
 Department of Defense Analysis
 Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA

The Defense Analysis Department at the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, is seeking to fill a position as Senior Lecturer in international security with professional expertise in Special Operations. The successful candidate can be from any of a variety of academic disciplines in the social sciences or humanities. A broad knowledge of US national security policy, as well as of the relevant international security literature is required. The successful candidate will be expected to teach mid-career military officers from the Special Operations and Information Operations communities across all branches of the military and from allied countries, advise theses, and conduct research. Familiarity in the role of information in modern war is preferred. The successful candidate will be expected to engage senior civilian and military defense officials on a broad range of issues relevant to the education of students at NPS.

NPS provides graduate education to military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community, as well as other select professionals employed by the federal government. Preferred candidates will have teaching experience and a publication record commensurate with their academic experience. Candidates must also have an interest in interdisciplinary research and willingness to work with a cross-disciplinary faculty in areas outside of their own focus. NPS follows a quarter system, and the normal teaching workload for those in lectureship positions ranges from four to six graduate courses per year. The Naval Postgraduate School is located on the central coast of California in Monterey, about 120 miles south of San Francisco. The Defense Analysis Department offers a MS in Defense Analysis and a MS in Information Strategy and Political Warfare. Home to 150 in-resident students (on average), a faculty of 40-plus personnel, and three respected research centers, the Defense Analysis Department provides the critical thinking skills necessary for future national security leaders to deal with the complex operating environments of the 21st Century. Additional information about our programs and faculty can be found at <https://my.nps.edu/web/da>

Minimum qualifications:

- A Ph.D. in any relevant Social Science or Humanities discipline (e.g., Sociology, Anthropology, History, the Classics, Philosophy, Political Science, Public Administration, Law, International Relations, Psychology, Economics, or other fields)
- U.S. citizenship is required. Must be eligible for a security clearance.
- Publication record commensurate with academic experience.

Additional preferred qualifications:

- Experience teaching graduate students.
- Extensive experience as a special operations professional in the US military.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: 11/4/2016
Date Posted: 8/25/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1901

Miami University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Law and/or Judicial Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Constitutional Law & Theory, Civil Rights & Liberties

Political Science: Assistant Professor in the area of public law and/or judicial politics for an appointment as a tenure track Assistant Professor. The position will begin in the 2017-2018 academic year. Searching for a colleague with teaching and research expertise in American politics, constitutional law, civil rights and liberties, and an area of specialty, who will advise students as part of the college-wide pre-law program, and who will develop a record of excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching; conduct relevant research leading to a record of published scholarship; provide institutional and professional service; contribute to the undergraduate and MA program. The successful candidate will teach an introductory course in American politics and public law/judicial politics as well as other courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels in the area of expertise. Required: PhD by date of appointment in Political Science or a related field.

Submit letter of interest, curriculum vitae, samples of scholarly writing, statement of research plans, teaching philosophy, graduate transcript and evidence of teaching effectiveness to <https://miamioh.hiretouch.com/job-details?jobID=3214>.

For inquiries about posting, contact Dr. Bryan Marshall at marshabw@miamioh.edu.

Screening of applications will begin September 30, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

The University is committed to equal opportunity, affirmative action, and eliminating discrimination and harassment. Miami University does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, genetic information, military status, national origin, pregnancy, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or protected veteran status in its application and admission processes, educational programs and activities, facilities, programs or employment practices. Requests for all reasonable accommodations for disabilities related to employment should be directed to ADAFacultyStaff@miamioh.edu or 513-529-3560.

Miami University's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report with information on campus crime, fires, and safety may be found at: <http://www.MiamiOH.edu/campus-safety/annual-report/index.html>. Hard copy available upon request. A criminal background check is required. All campuses are smoke- and tobacco-free campuses.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/24/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1879

John Jay College - The City University of New York Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor (Law and Society)

The Law and Society major, administered by the Department of Political Science at John Jay College of The City University of New York, invites applications for two tenure-track or tenured positions beginning Fall 2017 in Law and Society. The hiring rank is open. The Ph.D. discipline is open, provided candidates are demonstrably part of the Law and Society scholarly community.

The successful candidates will be part of a new and rapidly growing Law and Society major, with over 500 students, at John Jay. In addition to having an active research agenda in law and society (preferably as a member of the Law and Society Association), the successful candidates will bring enthusiasm and commitment to teaching and curriculum development. Area of research focus is open, though candidates will be expected to develop an undergraduate course that diversifies existing areas of faculty expertise.

Applicants must demonstrate that they are qualified to teach undergraduate courses that introduce students to the interdisciplinary Law and Society approach. In particular, the successful candidates will teach the Senior Research Colloquium in addition to other needed courses in the program (Introduction to Law and Society, Research Methods in Law and Society) and courses developed in the applicant's area of specialty. The successful candidates will also advise students. Forty-seven percent of John Jay students are first generation college students, and the candidates must be eager to work with our diverse student body.

John Jay College of Criminal Justice, a senior college of The City University of New York (CUNY), is an internationally recognized leader in educating for justice, committed to the advancement of justice and just societies. It is a public liberal arts college that enriches the entire learning experience by highlighting themes of justice across the arts, sciences, humanities, and social sciences. Located steps from Lincoln Center at the cultural heart of New York City, the College offers bachelors and masters degrees and participates in the doctoral programs of the Graduate School of the City University of New York. John Jay College is also recognized for serving a broadly diverse student population. Under the leadership of its fourth president, Jeremy Travis, John Jay College has experienced unprecedented faculty hiring, an expansion of its curricular offerings, and the opening in 2011 of a new 600,000 square foot building complete with a black-box theatre, state-of-the-art lab space for students and faculty, a moot courtroom, and a variety of virtual learning settings. As evidenced by so many on-going developments, the College offers its many new faculty and staff the opportunity to shape the future of their institution.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in a law and society-related discipline, although outstanding ABDs will be considered. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, interest in productive scholarship, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution. Candidates holding only a J.D. will not be considered.

OTHER QUALIFICATIONS

The demonstrated ability to teach courses in the law and society tradition. Rank and salary will be based on qualifications and experience.

COMPENSATION

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

CUNY offers faculty a competitive compensation and benefits package covering health insurance, pension and retirement benefits, paid parental leave, and savings programs. We also provide mentoring and support for research, scholarship, and publication as part of our commitment to ongoing faculty professional development.

HOW TO APPLY

If you are viewing the job posting on any website other than CUNYfirst, please follow the instructions below:

- Go to www.cuny.edu and click on "Employment"
- Click "Search job listings."
- Search by job Opening ID number (15095)
- Click on "more options to search for CUNY jobs"
- Click on the "Apply Now" button and follow the instructions

Candidates should provide a letter of application, a CV/resume, a writing sample, and evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness as one document electronically through CUNYfirst following the instructions above. Three letters of recommendation should be mailed in hard copy directly to the Chair of the Political Science Department: Professor James Cauthen, Department of Political Science, John Jay College, 524 West 59th Street, New York, NY 10019.

For more information about the position, email Co-Chairs of the Search Committee, Professor Michael Yarbrough (myarbrough@jjay.cuny.edu) and Professor Jean Carmalt (jcarmalt@jjay.cuny.edu).

CLOSING DATE

Position is open until filled with the review of the applications beginning September 30, 2016.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

CUNY encourages people with disabilities, minorities, veterans and women to apply. At CUNY, Italian Americans are also included among our protected groups. Applicants and employees will not be discriminated against on the basis of any legally protected category, including sexual orientation or gender identity. EEO/AA/Vet/Disability Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 9/30/2016

Date Posted: 8/19/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1848

Dartmouth College

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory/Law

The Department of Government at Dartmouth College seeks applicants for a tenure-track position in Political Theory and/or Law at the rank of assistant professor. The position requires outstanding research, classroom teaching, and service to the College and the profession. The position is open with respect to substantive research focus. Dartmouth College combines a commitment to innovative scholarship with dedication to excellent teaching. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or evidence of substantial progress toward a Ph.D. by the time of appointment.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, C.V., three letters of recommendation, a writing sample, and, if available, evidence of excellence in teaching. Dartmouth College combines a commitment to innovative scholarship with dedication to excellent teaching.

Application materials should be submitted electronically at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/36690> To guarantee full consideration, all materials should be uploaded and available for review by September 7, 2016. Questions may be sent to: government.department@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1793

St. Edward's University

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics (Public Law & Methodology)

Subfield(s): Public Law, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The School of Behavioral and Social Sciences invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor in Political Science to begin in August 2017. We seek a broadly-trained scholar with the ability to teach judicial politics, constitutional law, research methods and social science statistics. Preferred candidates must demonstrate a commitment to incorporating quantitative literacy skills into his or her courses. Applicants will also teach courses in the university's General Education program and in the candidate's areas of interest within American Politics.

In line with the St. Edward's University mission statement, the campus is actively engaged in the pursuit of social justice and candidates must demonstrate an appreciation and commitment to diversity. An inclusive faculty body is highly valued as we strive to create a diverse learning environment to prepare our students for success in a global and multicultural world.

The successful candidate will teach four courses per semester (with the opportunity to apply for course reduction to pursue research opportunities), advise undergraduate students, and participate in the wider life of the university and community. Scholarly activity is expected, especially to the degree that it may involve or inspire undergraduate students or have positive contributions to teaching and learning.

Applicants must have a PhD in Political Science, be committed to teaching and demonstrate the potential for excellence in teaching and research with undergraduate students. Applicants must be compatible with the educational goals of the School of Behavioral and Social Sciences and the Mission Statement of St. Edward's University which requires faculty to teach students the skills needed to be independent and productive and encourages individuals to confront the critical issues of society and to seek justice and peace.

St. Edward's University is an independent Catholic university founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross and chartered in 1885. It has a current enrollment of over 5,000 undergraduate and graduate students. The University has a long history of welcoming a variety of cultural backgrounds, which has led to a diverse community, and a designation as a leading Hispanic-serving institution. The campus is located on a hilltop overlooking downtown Austin, the capital city of Texas, with a metropolitan population of over one million residents.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until October 1, 2016. Applicants will apply at <https://stedwards.applicantpro.com/jobs/441930.html> and attach the following: A cover letter discussing your qualifications and how your record of teaching, service and research demonstrates your commitment to diversity, inclusion and your experiences or interest in global initiatives as emphasized in the mission of St. Edward's University. CV; teaching statement; research statement summary (1 page); transcripts (unofficial at this stage or a list of courses in which you enrolled in graduate school) sample teaching evaluations and a list of three references. Competitive entry-level salary for 9-month contract; additional opportunities for summer teaching and/or development may be available.

St. Edward's University is an equal opportunity employer and hires only U. S. citizens and documented workers. Applications from minorities and women are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/10/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1764

Morehouse College

Rank: Assistant Professor -- Public Law

The Department of Political Science at Morehouse College invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor. Candidates should be trained in the area of American national government, with a specialization in public law, and should be prepared to teach courses in constitutional law, race and law, and civil liberties.

Responsibilities include teaching courses (a 2-2 load), advising, and mentoring students; executing administrative duties related to the pre-law program; developing and maintaining a scholarly research and publication agenda; and service to the department and the College. We also encourage faculty to be active in soliciting external funding through grants and other sources. The start date for the position is August 2017, and possibly January 2017 if a suitable candidate is identified and appointed. Minimum qualifications include a PhD in political science; commitment to excellence in teaching; evidence of a productive research program; and service to the profession and community.

A successful application will consist of the following: a letter of application providing detail on how the candidate meets the qualifications for the position and why they are a good fit for Morehouse College in particular (no more than 2 pages); a current curriculum vitae (no more than 4 pages); a statement of teaching philosophy (no more than 2 pages); research/scholarship agenda (no more than 2 pages); three confidential letters of recommendation. Candidates also have the option of sharing the following: sample syllabi (no more than 2 courses); samples of research (no more than 2 samples); teaching evaluations or summaries of evaluations (no more than 2 courses, but if submitted, only submit full class evaluations and not samples of class evaluations)

All application materials must be submitted online: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36489>

Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until September 30th. We will be interviewing at the APSA Annual Meeting Placement Service on Friday, September 2nd and Saturday, September 3rd. Applicants who wish to be considered for an APSA interview should send a cover letter and CV, by August 22nd, to the Search Committee Chair, Dr. Andrew Douglas (andrew.douglas@morehouse.edu).

Morehouse College is an equal opportunity employer. No employee or applicant will be discriminated against in any condition of employment because of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, veteran status or any other status protected by law.

About Morehouse

Morehouse College is a private historically black liberal arts college for men whose mission is to develop men with disciplined minds to lead lives of leadership and service by emphasizing the intellectual and character development of its students and by assuming a special responsibility for teaching the history and culture of black people. Since the founding of the College in 1867, the faculty, staff, and leadership have worked to inspire, nurture, challenge, support, and engage students with the expressed intent of fomenting a very special kind of development.

Morehouse has a very proud tradition of having developed leaders, with the most notable of course being Martin Luther King, Jr. (class of 1948). Each era has defined the qualities of a Morehouse Man—an expression of the expectations we have of our graduates—a bit differently, but there are some enduring constants. Backed by nearly 150 years of history, we see our work as helping to shape men of acuity, integrity and agency; men who will commit to brotherhood, standing together with their peers to cheer, challenge and support each other; and men who will strive to lead consequential lives, to not just do well for themselves, but to do good in the world.

Our strong legacy is continued now as we claim a number of successes. Morehouse is the number one baccalaureate origin institution for black male doctorate recipients in science and engineering, life sciences, physical sciences, social sciences, education, and humanities over the decade ending 2012 according to the National Science Foundation. We are the top producer of underrepresented minority physics baccalaureates among non-PhD granting institutions over the three years ending in 2013 as measured by the American Physical Society. And the College just this year became the only non-majority college or university to have produced four Rhodes Scholars. Our graduates include not only men like King and Julian Bond, but Spike Lee, David Satcher, Eddie Glaude, Jim Shelton, and many more operating in and out of academia in some way.

The College offers instructional programs in three divisions—business and economics, humanities and social sciences, and sciences and mathematics—as well as extracurricular and co-curricular activities that, combined with the academic program: foster the development of oral and written communication skills; foster appreciation of world cultures, artistic, creative expression and the nature of the physical universe; promote understanding of the specific skills needed to pursue professional careers and graduate study; and cultivate the personal attributes of self-confidence, tolerance, morality, ethical behavior, spirituality, humility, global perspective, and commitment to justice.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1757

Baylor University

Rank: Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, Political Thought: Historical

Baylor University is a private Christian university and a nationally ranked research institution, consistently listed with highest honors among The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Great Colleges to Work For." Chartered in 1845 by the Republic of Texas through the efforts of Baptist pioneers, Baylor is the oldest continuously operating university in Texas. The university provides a vibrant campus community for over 15,000 students from all 50 states and more than 80 countries by blending interdisciplinary research with an international reputation for educational excellence and a faculty commitment to teaching and scholarship. Baylor is actively recruiting new faculty with a strong commitment to the classroom and an equally strong commitment to discovering new knowledge as we pursue our bold vision, Pro Futuris. (www.baylor.edu/profuturis/).

Baylor seeks to fill this open-rank faculty position within the College of Arts & Science. The Department of Political Science at Baylor University invites applications for a position in American Politics, with emphasis in American constitutional law and political thought, especially that of the Founding Era, beginning in the fall of 2017. Established research and teaching credentials in these fields are expected, and interests in constitutional principles and the modern political thought in which they emerged will be especially welcome. The search is open in rank. Applicants will be expected to contribute immediately to the flourishing BA, MA, and PhD programs in the department. Review of applications will begin as they are received, and to assure full consideration applications should arrive by October 1, 2016.

Candidates should possess an earned doctorate in Political Science in the field of American Politics. Please submit a letter of application, current curriculum vitae, official transcripts showing highest degree conferred (ABD), also send official transcript of completed Ph.D. hours), three letters of recommendation, evidence of teaching effectiveness, writing samples, and a statement of participation in a faith community in the Judeo-Christian tradition.

Salary is commensurate with experience and qualifications.

Send application materials to:

Professor David Nichols, Search Committee Chair

Baylor University

One Bear Place #97276

Waco, Texas 76798

254-710-3161

David_Nichols@baylor.edu

Materials may be submitted electronically to: Jenice_Langston@baylor.edu

To learn more about the above position, the College of Arts and Sciences, and Baylor University, please visit the appropriate URL:

http://www.baylor.edu/artsandsocieties/?_buref=1172-91940 or www.baylor.edu/hr/facultypositions.

Baylor University is a private not-for-profit university affiliated with the Baptist General Convention of Texas. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer, Baylor is committed to compliance with all applicable anti-discrimination laws, including those regarding age, race, color, sex, national origin, marital status, pregnancy status, military service, genetic information, and disability. As a religious educational institution, Baylor is lawfully permitted to consider an applicant's religion as a selection criterion. Baylor encourages women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1740

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Public Law

The School of Human Resources & Labor Relations in the College of Social Science at Michigan State University seeks applicants for a full-time tenure system position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in labor and employment relations. This position is an academic-year (nine-month) appointment with a beginning date of August 16, 2017.

We are particularly interested in applicants with research and teaching interests in labor and employment relations broadly defined, labor economics, work and organizations and applied research methods. Instructional responsibilities include teaching in our signature Master of Human Resources & Labor Relations program, our doctoral program and at the undergraduate level.

We seek applicants with demonstrated records of research and scholarship excellence and demonstrated records (or strong potential for success) in obtaining external funding to support one's research agenda. Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. in a relevant field such as employment relations & human resources, or related disciplines such as economics, sociology or political science prior to the beginning date.

Special instructions to applicants:

Applicants should complete an application and provide a cover letter outlining one's research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae and writing samples. To view the posting and apply for the position go to <https://jobs.msu.edu> and search on the "Faculty/Academic Staff" tab. Then go to posting #3744

The review of applications will begin September 1st, 2016 but applications will continue to be considered until this position is filled.

If you have questions about the process for applying online you should contact Annette Bacon at bacona@msu.edu, or by calling her at 517-355-1801. If you have other inquiries about the position (not related to the process of applying online), you may contact the Search Committee Chair, Dale Belman, at drdale@msu.edu. Applications and supporting materials must be submitted using the University's online application system, identified above.

The School of Human Resources & Labor Relations strongly encourages applications from women, persons of color, ethnic minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities. To find out more about the School, visit our website: www.hrlr.msu.edu

Start Date: Summer 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: $120,000 - $129,999

eJobs ID: 1689

CUNY, Hunter College

Rank: Tenure Track Position-Open Rank

The Hunter College Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position in either U.S. public law or American political behavior to begin in Fall 2017. The priority is to hire in public law but a second appointment in political behavior is possible. Appointments may be made at the rank of assistant, associate, or full professor. For public law, the department seeks a scholar with research and teaching interests in constitutional law, broadly understood. We also expect the successful candidate to share in the teaching of the department's historically-oriented introductory American government course. For political behavior, applications are welcomed from candidates focused on political participation broadly construed.

The department places a high value on both effective teaching and strong scholarship. Hunter College, located on Manhattan's Upper East Side, is a part of the City University of New York, and has a vibrant and exceptionally diverse student body. In addition to teaching undergraduates at Hunter, many department members are part of the CUNY Graduate Center faculty and participate in the doctoral program. A Ph.D. is required for appointment at a professorial rank; the department prefers completion of the degree by the start of the appointment. For appointment as associate professor, substantial publication and teaching experience are required; for appointment as full professor, evidence of an established professional reputation, a strong and sustained publication record, and substantial teaching experience are required. Salary is commensurate with rank and experience. Hunter College is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. Please apply online by accessing the CUNY Portal on City University of New York job website <http://cuny.edu/employment.html> and navigating to Careers at CUNYfirst. Current users of the site should access their established accounts; new users should click on the appropriate link to register. Please send cover letter, CV, a writing sample, graduate school transcript, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Please arrange to have three confidential reference letters mailed to: Chair, Public Law Search, Department of Political Science, Hunter College, CUNY, 695 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10065. Please direct queries via e-mail to polsci.search@hunter.cuny.edu. To assure full consideration, candidates should submit all application materials by 9/16/16. The department will continue to review applications until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1665

Bryant University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Legal Studies

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Department of History and Social Sciences at Bryant University invites applicants for a tenure track Assistant Professor in the area of Legal Studies to begin in August, 2017. Candidates must apply by October 31, 2016.

The successful candidate must possess a JD with an advanced degree in law or a related discipline. We encourage the applications of candidates with expertise in the areas of law, ethics, human rights, and the interdisciplinary study of law. We expect that the candidate will have strong communication skills as a classroom instructor and as a presenter of research findings to others.

The successful candidate must be prepared to teach introductory courses in domestic and international business law and a range of advanced topics. The position requires a commitment to quality teaching, research, and university service.

Certain requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate persons with disabilities.

Throughout its more than 150 year history, Bryant University has earned a distinguished reputation for innovative academic programs and technology that are marketplace driven and highly attuned to the emerging needs of industry and society. Bryant's close-knit, student-centered community of scholars delivers challenging academic programs that integrate business and the arts and sciences, with an emphasis on real-world application and a global perspective. Abundant co-curricular opportunities, service learning programs, internships, and practicums allow students to put theory into practice while building character and leadership skills.

Bryant University is comprised of the College of Business and the College of Arts and Sciences. Bryant's academic programs are distinguished by an integration of business and the arts and sciences with a global perspective. Bryant is located on a 428 acre campus in Smithfield, RI, which is situated 15 minutes from Providence, RI, and 45 minutes from Boston, MA.

The Department of History and Social Sciences houses four disciplines: Legal Studies, History, Sociology, and Political Science. There is a Legal Studies minor and a Politics and Law Major.

Candidates must submit their application electronically at <https://employment.bryant.edu>. The application process will require the inclusion of a letter of interest, current curriculum vitae, and evidence of quality teaching experience. The applicant should be prepared to include contact information for three references; listed references will be notified electronically to submit a letter of support to your application.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 7/19/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1637

Texas Christian University

Rank: Assistant Professor (Political Theory)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Law, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at TCU invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in political theory. Preference will be given to candidates able to offer courses outside of political theory, especially in judicial politics or comparative politics. The successful candidate will show evidence of teaching excellence and will have an active research agenda supported by published research or the strong promise of such publication. We prefer applicants who will have completed the Ph.D. in political science by the appointment date.

Applicants should submit a letter of application detailing their teaching philosophy and research agenda, a curriculum vitae, summary of recent teaching evaluations, an official transcript, a writing sample, and three letters of reference. All application materials other than letters of recommendation must be submitted through the TCU online application system at https://tcu.igreentree.com/CSS_faculty. Have three confidential letters of recommendation emailed directly from the reviewer to hrtalentacquisition@tcu.edu. Department representatives will attend the APSA meeting, where we will conduct screening interviews. Full review of applications begins on October 1 and will continue until the position is filled.

We are an undergraduate department of 15 full-time faculty members and approximately 350 majors. TCU is an independent, ecumenical, coeducational institution of 10,300 students located in Fort Worth, Texas. Fort Worth (pop. 830,000) is a city of rich cultural endowments, including world-class museums and performing arts facilities. The city is part of the greater Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex of 7 million people and is served by DFW International Airport.

As an AA/EEO employer, TCU recruits, hires, and promotes qualified persons in all job classifications without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, ethnic origin, disability, genetic information, covered veteran status, or any other basis protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 6/21/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1559

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Director of African American Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Specializations: African American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

DIRECTOR, AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES PROGRAM

The University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) seeks a dynamic scholar and leader for the position of Director of African American Studies. Founded more than twenty years ago, African American Studies at UTEP offers a rich mix of programming linking students, faculty, staff and members of the community in the El Paso border region and beyond. This context provides exciting opportunities to explore the intersections of African American and Latina/o experiences and draw on UTEP's important civil rights history.

The Director of African American Studies is a member of the UTEP College of Liberal Arts Chairs' Council and has responsibility for leadership of the academic program and research activities associated with African American Studies. The Director generally teaches one course each semester and could also participate in UTEP PhD programs related to their scholarly and research interests. With staff assistance, the Director serves as an advisor for the UTEP Black Student Union and a mentor for many students enrolled in programs throughout the University. The Director works with the UTEP Black Alumni Network (UBAN) and with community partners to build support for African American Studies and address relevant social issues at UTEP and in the El Paso community. The Director and staff, working in collaboration with UTEP students, affiliated faculty, campus organizations and other University and community officials, sponsor a variety of events and activities throughout the year, including Black History Month programs, and initiate new avenues of engagement and outreach.

Required Qualifications: Candidates should have a Ph.D. in African American Studies or a related academic disciplinary area, and possess a strong record of scholarship commensurate with an appointment as Professor or Associate Professor with Tenure in an appropriate UTEP academic department or program. Demonstrable experience in serving in an administrative role, engaging in community outreach, and initiating and expanding a new program is highly desirable.

About UTEP and El Paso: Located in one of the largest binational communities in the world, The University of Texas at El Paso is unique among research institutions. UTEP enrolls more than 23,000 students, close to 80% of whom are Latina/o and a majority of whom are the first in their families to attend a university. Ranked overall among the Top 10 universities in the nation by Washington Monthly and #1 for contributing to student social mobility, UTEP is dedicated to becoming the first national research university with a 21st century student demographic. The African American Studies program is housed in the College of Liberal Arts, which is the largest college at the University. In addition to playing a major role in the delivery of the University Core Curriculum to all UTEP students, the College of Liberal Arts serves approximately 7,000 students with majors in 13 departments and 10 programs, including Women's and Gender Studies, Religious Studies, Chicano Studies, Asian Studies and African American Studies.

Application procedures: To apply, applicants must submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita, a recent publication related to the field, and names of three references with their complete contact information. Review of applications will begin April 11, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Application materials, in one PDF file, should be emailed to: Dr. Maryse Jayasuriya, Search Committee Chair, at mjayasuriya@utep.edu

The University of Texas at El Paso is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation or gender identity in employment or the provision of services.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1377

PUBLIC POLICY

University of Maryland, Baltimore County

Rank: Director, School of Public Policy

The School of Public Policy at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC) invites applications for its Director. As the leader of the School, the successful candidate holds a Ph.D. that complements the School's areas of focus and faculty strengths (e.g., analytic methods, education policy, health policy, public management, urban policy) and demonstrates career achievements commensurate with appointment as a Full Professor. The candidate should have demonstrated leadership and administrative skills, a strong commitment to interdisciplinary scholarship and teaching, an active research program including evidence of securing external research funding and mentoring graduate students, and a dedication to and demonstrated experience in fostering inclusive excellence. Moreover, the newly created School is seeking a dynamic candidate who can further advance its reputation as a thought leader in the field of public policy. The new Director will likely have the opportunity to increase the core faculty of the School in this pursuit.

The School of Public Policy houses an interdisciplinary graduate only program that enrolls approximately 135 doctoral and master's students. We are among the top public policy programs nationally in terms of faculty productivity as well as Ph.D. enrollment and Ph.D. degrees granted in public policy. In addition to the School's core faculty, the School works closely with affiliate faculty in several departments and programs, including the departments of Africana Studies, Economics, Education, History, Political Science, Psychology and Sociology/Anthropology, as well as the intercampus Doctoral Program in Gerontology and the Language, Literacy and Culture doctoral program. The School includes the Maryland Institute for Policy Analysis and Research (MIPAR), which currently reports approximately $23 million in external funding. Faculty in the School are encouraged to develop close working relationships with MIPAR as well as other research centers on campus. Additional information regarding the School of Public Policy can be found at (<http://publicpolicy.umbc.edu/>).

UMBC, which is classified as a Doctoral University: Higher Research Activity by the Carnegie Foundation, enrolls nearly 14,000 students, including approximately 2,600 graduate students. UMBC is one of the 12 campuses of the University System of Maryland. Located on 500 wooded, rolling acres just outside of Baltimore and about 45 minutes from Washington, DC, UMBC's location enables faculty to draw on the extensive opportunities for policy research and related activities in both cities, as well as at the state and federal levels. The area is also enriched with vast economic and cultural opportunities. BWI-Thurgood Marshall International Airport is five minutes away, as are MARC Rail, AMTRAK and light rail stations making travel to and from national and international destinations convenient.

UMBC is especially proud of the diversity of its student body, and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool for this position. We particularly encourage applications from women, members of minority groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities.

We ask candidates to submit a letter of application, a current curriculum vita, and the names of three references. In their letter of application, we ask candidates to discuss their leadership vision, administrative experience, research program and its relevance to the School, teaching interests and their relevance to the School, and experience in promoting diversity, inclusion, and multicultural competence in an educational and work environment.

Candidates must submit all application materials via Interfolio (<http://apply.interfolio.com/36245>). For questions about the use of Interfolio, please contact the School's Administrative Assistant, Ms. Pam Mollen (pmollen@umbc.edu). For questions about the position or the search process, please contact the Chair of the Search Committee, Nancy A. Miller (nanmille@umbc.edu). Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016, but applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/30/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2151

Oberlin College

Rank: Post-Doctoral Faculty Position in Policy Analysis

The Politics Department at Oberlin College invites applications for a post-doctoral faculty position in Policy Analysis in the College of Arts and Sciences. Appointment is for spring semester 2017. This is a non-continuing position. The incumbent will teach one course in methods and public policy and mentor students interested in policy analysis. To be assured consideration, submit a letter of application, a CV, graduate transcripts, and at least three recent reference letters to <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/> by November 11, 2016.

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2137

WORLD Policy Analysis Center

Rank: Hilton Postdoctoral Fellowship

Overview:

The Hilton Postdoctoral Fellowship is a unique opportunity to receive advanced methods training for state of the art approaches to understanding what works to enhance equal opportunity and improve social conditions at a global scale. With mentorship from an exceptionally interdisciplinary group of experienced researchers from across the UCLA campus and around the world, Hilton Postdoctoral Fellows will contribute to building the evidence base on what works to improve the lives of the poorest and most marginalized people.

Position Description:

- Access to mentorship from across the UCLA campus and around the world in how to examine what works to reduce poverty, improve health, increase education, and achieve other key goals included in the SDGs
- Specific training opportunities in advanced quantitative methods that focus on understanding causal links between national policies and programs and outcomes
- Mentorship on how to use a unique data source that links quantitative data on national policies in 193 countries to harmonized household survey data from 90 low- and middle-income countries from the WORLD Policy Analysis Center (WORLD).

As part of a research unit with a strong culture of collaboration, the Hilton Postdoctoral Fellow will be working full time on their selected project, making use of WORLD policy data to look at implementation and impact with Dr. Jody Heymann, the Dean of Fielding School of Public Health, mentors in their field from across UCLA and globally, as well as with WORLD research staff.

This fellowship is a full-time, residential fellowship for 2 years, starting either in 2016 or 2017. Compensation for position will be in accordance with policies set by the UCLA Graduate Division.

Education/Experience:

- Applicants must have a Ph.D. in public health, public policy, political science, international development, economics, or related discipline.
- A strong background in causal inference and multilevel modeling is required.
- Excellent communication, writing, and research skills are required.
- Demonstrated interest and understanding of public policy, the SDGs or poverty alleviation.

How to apply:

To apply, please submit the following application materials to WORLD@ph.ucla.edu (include "Hilton Postdoctoral Fellowship" in subject line):

- Cover letter (elaborate why you are interested)
- CV
- Undergraduate and Graduate transcripts (unofficial copies accepted)
- Writing samples (max 5 pages)
- 3 letters of reference

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis and the position will remain open until filled. Only complete applications will be considered.

UCLA is committed to equity in employment and diversity. It welcomes applications from all races and ethnicities, all sexual orientations and identities, as well as people with disabilities, visible minorities, and others who may contribute to further diversification.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2142

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Public Policy and Administration

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration (PSPA) seeks applications for two tenure-track faculty positions in public administration and policy. We hope to select one assistant and one assistant/associate professor to begin August 16, 2017. Candidates should have primary research and teaching interests in public administration and policy with particular consideration given to well-qualified candidates specializing in public policy and program evaluation. Particular consideration will also be given to candidates with interest in assuming the role of Graduate Coordinator. A Ph.D. degree in public administration, public policy, or related fields is required at the time of appointment.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited MPPA, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 15 faculty members, 197 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 PhD students. The department has strong ties to several research centers with the University, including the Social Science Research Center, the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, the Center for International Security and Strategic Studies, and the National Strategic Planning and Analysis Research Center. More information on the department is available at <http://www.pspa.msstate.edu>. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Dr. Christine Rush, at crush@pspa.msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at <http://www.msujobs.msstate.edu/> (PARF #493904) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, current curriculum vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University;

P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin October 21, 2016, and the search will remain open until filled. MSU is an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, disability status, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We always welcome nominations and applications from women, members of any minority group, and others who share our passion for building a diverse community that reflects the diversity in our student population.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2126

Norwich University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy)

The Department of History and Political Science at Norwich University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall 2017 semester. The successful candidate will teach and do research in the fields of American politics and public policy and will teach undergraduate courses in Intro to Public Policy, the survey course in American Politics, the U.S. Presidency, Legislative Process, State and Local Politics, Research Methods (with emphasis on quantitative methods), American Citizenship, and a Capstone Senior Seminar in the candidate's field of expertise. The successful candidate will also manage the Political Science Internship Program and facilitate the growth of public policy studies across the university. While a strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential, Norwich University is committed to junior faculty developing scholarship through a supportive faculty development program.

Qualifications: To be eligible for appointment at the assistant professor rank, candidates must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a Ph.D in a public policy-related field. Highly qualified ABDs may be considered for appointment at the instructor level. Review of applications will begin September 16, 2016 and remain open until the position is filled.

Please submit a letter of interest, which includes your preferred substantive American politics and public policy focus, curriculum vitae, three current letters of recommendation, and evidence of teaching effectiveness (e.g., teaching evaluations, statement of teaching philosophy): <https://norwich.interviewexchange.com>

Norwich University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and is committed to providing a positive education and work environment that recognizes and respects the dignity of all students, faculty and staff. Reasonable accommodations will be made for the known disability of an otherwise qualified applicant. Please contact the Office of Human Resources at nuhr@norwich.edu for assistance.

All candidates must be authorized to work for any U.S. employer. A post offer, pre-employment background check will be required of the successful candidate.

Norwich University offers a comprehensive benefit package that includes medical, dental, vision, group life and long term disability insurance, flexible-spending accounts for health and dependent care, 403(b) retirement plan with employer match, employee assistance program, paid time off including parental leave, and tuition scholarships for eligible employees and their family members.

Norwich University is a diversified academic institution that educates residential students - both military and civilian lifestyles - and working adults across the globe. Norwich offers a broad selection of traditional and distance-learning programs culminating in baccalaureate and master's degrees, and graduate certificates. Founded in 1819 by U.S. Army Capt. Alden Partridge, Norwich is the oldest private military college in the country and the birthplace of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC).

Norwich University takes positive action to insure that all applicants for employment are considered, and employees are treated in compliance with applicable laws and regulations governing non-discrimination on the basis of gender, gender identity, race, ethnicity, national origin, color, religion, disability, sexual orientation, age, genetic information or veteran's status. As an institution of higher education, Norwich is dedicated to learning, emphasizing teamwork, leadership, creativity, and critical thinking and encourages applications from qualified individuals who will help us achieve this guiding value.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2124

Brown University

Rank: Watson Institute Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Other

The Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University aspires to promote a just and peaceful world through research, teaching, and public engagement. Central to this mission is the Watson Postdoctoral Fellows Program, an effort to galvanize the careers of young social scientists conducting research related to the Institute's three core thematic areas: development, governance, and security. Participants in this program will join an interdisciplinary community of scholars engaged in theoretically and substantively important research addressing the most pressing global issues of our time. Fellows receive two years of support, to be taken within a three-year period, with the expectation that they will pursue research and participate fully in the intellectual life of the Institute. Fellows will also teach one course per year in the Institute or in an affiliated Brown University social science department.

Application requirements

To receive full consideration, the following materials should be submitted by October 30, 2016, via Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/35593>

- A cover letter stating the applicant's academic field, status of their dissertation, and proposed research to be conducted during their fellowship period. The cover letter should not exceed 2,000 words and should make clear where in the Institute's core areas of security, development, or governance the proposed research best fits.
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.

- A copy of each graduate transcript.
- A writing sample.
- Three letters of recommendation from scholars familiar with the applicant's research.

Review of applications will begin on October 30; to receive full consideration applications should be received by that date. Awards will be announced in January 2017.

Eligibility and terms

The fellowship competition is open to candidates from the social sciences, including anthropology, economics, history, political science, and sociology. Scholars of all nationalities who received PhDs within three years of the application deadline are eligible to apply. For full application details see <http://watson.brown.edu/education/postdoc>.

For further information

For further information regarding the Watson Institute Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, please visit the Watson Institute website <http://watson.brown.edu> or contact:

Professor Catherine Lutz, Faculty Director of the Watson Post-Doctoral Fellows Program, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University at catherine_lutz@brown.edu; or

Keith Brown, Director of Post-Doctoral and Undergraduate Policy Programs, Thomas J. Watson Jr. Institute for International and Public Affairs, Brown University, Brown University at keith_brown@brown.edu.

For questions about the application process itself, please contact watson_applications@brown.edu

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/26/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2117

University of Maryland, Baltimore County

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellows for Faculty Diversity Program

The School of Public Policy at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County welcomes applications for the UMBC Postdoctoral Fellows for Faculty Diversity Program. The purpose of the Program is to support promising scholars who are committed to diversity in the academy and to prepare those scholars for possible tenure track appointments at UMBC. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from individuals who are members of groups that historically have been underrepresented in the professoriate. We greatly appreciate your assistance in distributing the attached advertisement to recent PhDs and students in their last year of doctoral work. Successful candidates will be trained in public policy, economics, political science or sociology or other social science discipline and will be able to teach courses and conduct research in either public management and/or urban affairs. To be eligible for the program, applicants should have received their PhD no earlier than July 1, 2014, or expect to receive their PhD no later than July 1, 2017. The position advertisement and the application process can be found at: <http://facultydiversity.umbc.edu/postdocs/>.

We encourage eligible students and recent PhDs to contact to Dr. Donald F. Norris (norris@umbc.edu) for additional information about UMBC and the School of Public Policy and to discuss potential mentors within the department. Questions about the Postdoctoral Fellows for Faculty Diversity Program may be directed to Dr. Autumn Reed autumn2@umbc.edu.

The School of Public Policy houses an interdisciplinary graduate only program that enrolls approximately 135 doctoral and master's students. We are among the top public policy programs nationally in terms of faculty productivity as well as Ph.D. enrollment and Ph.D. degrees granted in public policy. In addition to the School's core faculty, the School works closely with affiliate faculty in several departments and programs, including the departments of Africana Studies, Economics, Education, Emergency Health Services, Geography and Environmental Systems History, Political Science, Psychology and Sociology, as well as the intercampus Doctoral Program in Gerontology and the Language, Literacy and Culture doctoral program. The School includes the Maryland Institute for Policy Analysis and Research (MIPAR), which currently reports approximately $23 million in external funding. Faculty in the School are encouraged to develop close working relationships with MIPAR as well as other research centers on campus. Additional information regarding the School of Public Policy can be found at (<http://publicpolicy.umbc.edu/>).

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/23/2016

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 2110

The Heritage Foundation

Rank: Visiting Fellow in American Political Thought

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The one-year Visiting Fellow in the Simon Center for Principles and Politics is open to university faculty (on sabbatical, on leave, or retired) and to recent Ph.D.'s. Applicants should demonstrate an ability to relate the foundational principles of American political thought to contemporary issues and debates. The Fellow will conduct research in any of the areas of interest to the center including, but not limited to:

1. The Founding and Founding Principles
2. Constitutional Government and the Administrative State
3. Modern Conservatism and Liberalism

The Fellow will:

- Publish research papers for the Heritage Foundation.
- Publish topical commentary in media outlets.
- Work on his/her academic projects (in previous years, fellows have used their time at Heritage to complete books).
- Organize a conference, funded by Heritage, that brings together leading experts in one's subject area.
- Give public lectures at Heritage.

Requirements:

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field.
- Preference will be given to faculty members on sabbatical or on leave, although recent Ph.D.'s will be considered.
- Possess a proven interest in the Simon Center's mission of promoting a proper understanding of America's founding principles and applying them to inform contemporary policy debates.

Location

- The scholar will preferably work at the Heritage Foundation in Washington, D.C. Office space will be provided.

Duration

- The Fellowship will last one year and run from September 2017 to August 2018. The duration and start dates, however, are flexible and will be determined by the successful candidate and the Heritage Foundation.

Compensation

- The Fellow will receive an annualized salary, commensurate with his/her experience. As this is a temporary position, it does not include employee benefits such as health insurance.

Additional Benefits:

- Ongoing research support from Center's staff
- Loan privileges with the Library of Congress

To Apply:

Mail or e-mail the following materials:

- 1.) A short proposal outlining what you would work on during your time at Heritage, including the publications you intend to produce and the theme of the conference you will host.
- 2.) C.V.
- 3.) One academic writing sample and one or two non-academic pieces, preferably published.

Completed applications are being accepted until further notice. Notification will be made when the position is filled. Questions and application materials should be sent to:

Dani Doane
Senior Program Manager
B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics
The Heritage Foundation
214 Massachusetts Avenue, NE
Washington, D.C. 20002
Email: dani.doane@heritage.org

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2090

Harvard University

Rank: Harvard University Environmental Fellows Program

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

APPLICATION DEADLINE: JANUARY 18, 2017

The Harvard University Center for the Environment created the Environmental Fellows program to enable recent doctorate recipients to use and expand Harvard's extraordinary resources to tackle complex environmental problems. The Environmental Fellows will work for two years with Harvard faculty members in any school or department while also strengthening connections across the University's academic disciplines.

The Award:

The fellowship includes a salary of $64,000 per year, employee health insurance eligibility, up to $2,500 reimbursement for relocation expenses, and a $2,500 annual allowance for travel and other professional expenses.

The Harvard University Center for the Environment expects to award approximately six fellowships for the 2017 cohort. The Center will organize a co-curricular program to ensure that the fellows get to know each other and each other's work. All fellows will attend biweekly dinners with their colleagues, faculty members, and guests.

Program Requirements:

- Candidates for 2017 Environmental Fellowships should have received their terminal degree between May 2013 and August 2017. (Fellows must have filed their dissertation before starting their appointment in September 2017.)
- Candidates with a doctorate or equivalent in any field are eligible, and they may propose research projects in any discipline. Applicants without a Ph.D. may apply if they have studied in fields where the Ph.D. is not the typical terminal degree. All successful candidates will be able to demonstrate experience performing scholarly research.
- Each candidate must secure a commitment from one or more Harvard faculty members to serve as a mentor and to provide office or lab space for the two-year fellowship.
- Candidates may have received their degrees at any university in the world. Foreign nationals are eligible for fellowships, though study at Harvard requires proficiency in English.
- Candidates who received terminal degrees from Harvard, and post-docs currently working at Harvard are eligible for the fellowship provided their research and host arrangements take them in new directions and forge new connections within the University. Harvard candidates should not propose to continue to work with the same professors or lab groups with whom they are currently associated. No candidate should propose to work extensively with his or her thesis advisor.
- Harvard is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer.
- Successful candidates should be prepared to commit to work at Harvard for the full two years of the fellowship. This fellowship requires residency in the Cambridge area and any fieldwork trip must be scheduled for the summer or January recess.

Application Requirements:

1. Please complete the online application form found at <http://environment.harvard.edu/application by January 18, 2017> and attach the relevant supporting documents as PDFs:
 - a. curriculum vitae including list of publications;
 - b. detailed research proposal where applicants should explain their specific reasons for applying to a Harvard residential environmental fellowship (maximum of five pages, references counted separately). Note: While applicants should discuss the proposal with their potential faculty hosts, the final product should clearly be the work of the applicant; and
 - c. up to three publications/writing samples.
2. Three letters of reference, including one from the applicant's dissertation adviser.
3. A letter of support is also required from the applicant's host committing to serve as a mentor and explaining his or her commitment to the proposed research, including the provision of office or lab space.

Applicants are encouraged to ask their referees and hosts to email letters of reference as PDFs or, if necessary, as Word documents attached to the emails. Referees and hosts should send their letters directly to the attention of Jean Gauthier at the Center at environmental_fellows@harvard.edu.

If you have questions about the fellowship or application process, please contact:

Jean Gauthier
Harvard University Center for the Environment
26 Oxford Street, 4th Floor
Cambridge MA 02138
617-495-0368
jgauthier@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 1/18/2017
Date Posted: 9/21/2016
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 2084

Eastern Mennonite University

Rank: Full-time Assistant or Associate Professor in tenure-track faculty position in Political Studies

QUALIFICATIONS: PhD in Political Science/Studies or related fields, including Political History, International Relations, or Public Policy. Expertise in Hispanic/Latino or non-Western research interests and experience preferred; international experience desirable. Christian faith with strong affinity for the values espoused by EMU that draw from its Anabaptist/Mennonite heritage, evidence of scholarship and/or practice in the field, and ability to contribute to university and departmental service expected.

RESPONSIBILITIES: Teaching responsibilities (typically three to four courses per semester) include primarily undergraduate courses in the Department of History. Applicants must have a strong commitment to high quality teaching and be enthusiastic about mentoring and advising students. Engagement in ongoing scholarly activity and departmental and university service is expected. Ability and willingness to take on administrative responsibilities desirable.

COMPENSATION: Nine month contract. Salary determined by education and experience. Eastern Mennonite University uses a tenure-with-review contract system.

APPOINTMENT DATE: Position begins mid-August 2017. EMU reserves the right to fill the position at any time or keep the position open.

INQUIRIES: Application review begins October 15. Applicants will be asked to respond to questions specific to EMU's mission after the initial inquiry. Send letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts (unofficial acceptable), and three letters of reference to

Dr. Deirdre L. Smeltzer, Vice President and Undergraduate Academic Dean
ugdean@emu.edu
Eastern Mennonite University
1200 Park Road
Harrisonburg, VA 22802
(540) 432-4141

Eastern Mennonite University (<http://www.emu.edu>) is an equal opportunity employer, committed to enhancing diversity across the institution. Eastern Mennonite University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, sex, disability, age, sexual orientation, or gender identity. EMU conducts criminal background investigations as part of the hiring process.

EMU seeks faculty who have demonstrated or show promise of -teaching excellence in a Christian liberal arts environment, -a commitment to ongoing scholarship, and -familiarity with and support for Anabaptist/Mennonite Christian faith practices.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/20/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2082

Florida State University

Rank: Political Science/African American Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Other, Public Policy
Specializations: African American Politics, Caribbean, Civil Rights & Liberties

Florida State University is embarking upon a Diversity and Inclusion initiative, which can be found online at http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=diversity/diversity_initiatives. As part of this initiative, the Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci?q=node/1>) and the FSU African American Studies Center (<http://coss.fsu.edu/aas/>) seek applications for a tenure track or tenured faculty member to participate in their programs. The Department has twenty-two tenured or tenure track and two non-tenure track faculty that serve a large undergraduate program, a master degree in applied politics, and a PhD program. African American Studies is an interdisciplinary undergraduate program that offers BA and BS degrees.

The position is open with respect to candidates' specialization, and they may have doctoral degrees in African American Studies, Political Science, or other related disciplines, with evidence of scholarship and teaching with respect to African Americans and the African diaspora. Teaching will include at least one course in the African American Studies core curriculum, a second course at the nexus of race and politics, and other courses in the political science curriculum. The candidate's tenure home will be in Political Science. Candidates should have strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital city, with a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions. Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) through (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files must be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search.

Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Political Science/AAS Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer; racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2083

University of South Dakota

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

The University of South Dakota seeks an Instructor for an online Graduate Course in Public Budgeting and Fiscal Management which analyzes governmental financial administration, including budget preparation and execution, and the management of debt and public expenditures. A Ph.D. with specialization in public budgeting and/or financial management is preferred. Will consider Masters-level candidates with experience in public budgeting, public financial management, and/or public accounting. Candidates must provide a CV, teaching evaluations, three letters of recommendation, a transcript of relevant course work, and copies of any syllabi relevant to this graduate-level budgeting and fiscal management course. Please send all materials re Position No. 0008149 to: William D. Richardson, Chair, Department of Political Science, University of South Dakota, 414 E. Clark Street, Vermillion, SD 57069. Inquiries may be directed to William.Richardson@usd.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2066

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: Term Teaching Faculty

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Other

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior, Africa

Instructor (Non-Tenure, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a non-tenure track term teaching faculty position at the Instructor rank to begin August 2017. The position will support the Department's teaching and research mission in the areas of non-profit and civil society studies, public policy, nongovernmental organizations, and/or development.

Teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department. Specifically, this position will be charged with teaching courses in Non-Profit and Civil Society Studies, Public Policy, and Nongovernmental Organizations.

Required qualifications include a PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or a closely related field in hand by August 2017. The faculty member should have an established record of excellence in teaching. A regional concentration is also preferred to support the Department's Comparative Politics undergraduate concentration. The faculty member will have demonstrated experience working and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU.

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit a CV, cover letter, names of three references and evidence of excellence in teaching with your online application. Questions should be directed to Dr. John Aughenbaugh at jmaughenbaug@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2016. Start date will be August 16, 2017.

Virginia Commonwealth University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2016

Date Posted: 9/16/2016

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 2055

Brown University

Rank: Racial Inequality Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

Specializations: United States, African American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

RACIAL INEQUALITY POSTDOCTORAL RESEARCH ASSOCIATE

DESCRIPTION: Brown University invites applications for a two-year Postdoctoral Research Associate in Racial Inequality to be jointly shared by the Watson Institute for International & Public Affairs and the Center for the Study of Race & Ethnicity in America. We seek a scholar with interests in racial inequality/structural racism in the post 1970s U.S. in areas such as: urban poverty, social and cultural theories of racism, gender, segregation, housing or welfare.

The successful candidate will teach one course per year in a Watson Institute related program, collaborate on the vision, design and implementation of CSREA programming related to his/her research areas each year on a key topic in contemporary racial inequality studies, and be expected to actively participate in the intellectual life of CSREA (including regular participation in the CSREA research seminar), the Watson Institute and the University as a whole.

QUALIFICATIONS: Scholars with a Ph.D. in Sociology, American Studies, Political Science, History, Social Theory, African-American Studies or a related discipline in the Humanities or Social Sciences will be considered. Dissertation must be signed by August 1, 2017.

INSTRUCTIONS: Candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, writing sample (15-20 pp), a personal statement (1 page) and the names and addresses of three referees through the Interfolio posting: <https://apply.interfolio.com/36251>

The application deadline is November 15th, 2016. Review of applications will begin November 17th, 2016, and final notifications are expected to go out by March, 2017. This two-year Postdoctoral Research Associate appointment will be effective August 1, 2017, and is not renewable.

EEO STATEMENT: Brown University is committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic global community; as an EEO/AA employer, Brown considers applicants for employment without regard to, and does not discriminate on the basis of gender, race, protected veteran status, disability, or any other legally protected status.

For more information, please visit:

<https://www.brown.edu/race> | <http://watson.brown.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 2050

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to six visitors for the 2017-2018 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. NCGG will award one-year research positions to eligible, talented postdoctoral or more senior scholars. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Preference will be given to recent recipients of a doctoral degree. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2017 - July 1, 2018).

Application Deadline – December 9, 2016, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials and apply online at: <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition no. 1600791.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 9, 2016. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions will also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2016 - July 1, 2017).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2017.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2037

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral and Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two postdoctoral or more senior candidates for the Postdoctoral and Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2017-2018 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2017 - July 1, 2018).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2017

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials and apply online at: <https://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition no. 1600790.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Monday, January 2, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions will also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 1, 2016 - July 1, 2017).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2017.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sex orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2038

University of Baltimore

Rank: Faculty (Tenure-Track Assistant Professor) Negotiations & Conflict Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: International Security, Political Behavior, Political Communication

Faculty (Tenure-Track Assistant Professor) Negotiations & Conflict Management

School of Public and International Affairs, College of Public Affairs
University of Baltimore

Vacancy Number 300690

Faculty position with benefits package

Salary: Commensurate with qualifications

Note: The position is open until filled, and completed applications received by December 15, 2016 will receive full consideration. Review of materials will begin in mid January 2017 and will continue until the search is completed.

University of Baltimore -- The School of Public and International Affairs in the College of Public Affairs invites applications for an Assistant Professor faculty position (tenure-track) in the M.S. program in Negotiations and Conflict Management to begin in August 2017 (contingent upon final budget approval). Candidates with the ability to teach in allied programs, including the M.A. in Global Affairs and Human Security and/or the B.A. programs in Government and Public Policy and International Studies, will be given preference. This position requires traditional classroom instruction at the graduate level but may also involve limited undergraduate and/or online instruction.

The Negotiations and Conflict Management (CNCM) program is seeking highly qualified applicants whose experience and scholarship complements the department's existing offerings. Although the scholarly specialization for this position is open, individuals that can contribute expertise related to ethnic and cultural factors in conflict, mediation and negotiation in a cross-cultural context, nonviolence, social change processes, peacebuilding, and conflict transformation will be given special consideration. Individuals with experience facilitating experiential learning and/or practicum courses will also be given preference. Evidence of teaching effectiveness and/or course development related to the above mentioned content areas will be viewed favorably.

Candidates for this position must hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment in the Conflict Management field, broadly construed to include conflict analysis and resolution, conflict management, conflict transformation, peace and conflict studies, peacekeeping operations, peace education, or a similar course of study. Applicants with degrees in related fields of study appropriate to the Conflict Management discipline (e.g. political science, international relations, public administration, public policy, and allied social science disciplines) with expertise in the above-mentioned areas are also encouraged to apply. Diverse methodological and regional areas of expertise, both domestic and international, will be considered. Candidates should have a record of scholarly activities appropriate to the rank of Assistant Professor (tenure-track) and demonstrate the potential for quality university instruction and service to the profession and the university. Candidates who are A.B.D. will be considered pending successful completion of their dissertation defense by August 15, 2017.

The successful candidate will be joining the well-established graduate program in Negotiations and Conflict Management (CNCM), an applied, cross-disciplinary Masters of Science program in the School of Public and International Affairs. The CNCM program is designed to expose students to conflict management in a variety of settings from the interpersonal to the international. The program's 42-credit curriculum is delivered through a series of applied courses that enable students to examine the link between conflict management theory and practice and prepares them for post-graduate success in a variety of settings in which conflict management skills are necessary.

With 3 full-time faculty members and several highly regarded adjunct faculty, the CNCM program has approximately 100+ degree-seeking students and is now in its 17th year. The School of Public and International Affairs has twenty distinguished full-time faculty with advanced degrees from an array of distinguished universities, including Harvard, Columbia, Johns Hopkins, Syracuse, Georgia, Georgia Tech, and George Mason University. The School is home to a nationally accredited Masters of Public Administration program. The College of Public Affairs is also home to several award-winning faculty members that are recipients of the University System of Maryland's highest faculty distinction, the USM Board of Regents Award, a Fulbright Scholar, and a recipient of the prestigious Paul F. Lazarsfeld Evaluation Theory Award from the American Evaluation Association.

In addition to the School of Public and International Affairs, the College of Public Affairs houses the Schools of Health and Human Services and Criminal Justice. The ability to offer courses and conduct research relevant to the College's three schools is an advantage. The College of Public Affairs is also home to The Schaefer Center for Public Policy – an applied research unit – through which grant related work can be undertaken.

The University of Baltimore is part of the University System of Maryland and serves a diverse urban professional community. The School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Baltimore offers Bachelor's degrees in Government and Public Policy and International Studies, the Master and Doctor of Public Administration degrees, the Master's degree in Negotiation and Conflict Management, the Master's Degree in Global Affairs and Human Security, and the Master's degree in Non-profit Management and Social Entrepreneurship. Interested applicants are encouraged to visit our web site for more information about the College of Public Affairs and the School of Public and International Affairs at <http://www.ubalt.edu/cpa>.

Electronic applications are required. Before submitting your application, save these four PDF (preferred format) or Word documents:

1. letter of interest
2. vita
3. one or more research writing samples
4. names of three references

The position is open until filled, and completed applications received by December 15, 2016 will receive full consideration. Review of materials will begin in mid January 2017 and will continue until the search is completed. Visit <http://www.ubalt.edu/about-ub/offices-and-services/human-resources/jobs-at-ub.cfm?&posting=1144> to access the electronic application.

The University of Baltimore is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/ADA Compliant Employer & Title IX Institution. The University of Baltimore ("UB" or "University") does not discriminate on the basis of sex, gender, race, religion, age, disability, national origin, ethnicity, sexual orientation, gender identity, or other legally protected characteristics in its programs, activities or employment practices.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2043

York College of Pennsylvania

Rank: Research/Teaching Fellowship, Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Methodology

Specializations: Urban Politics, State Politics, Economic Policy

Research/Teaching Fellowship, Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy, York College

York College of Pennsylvania invites applications for the inaugural Fellow for its Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy.

A joint program of York College's Center for Community Engagement (CCE) and its Department of History and Political Science, the Institute for Public Policy will engage the Fellow and our students in the policymaking process by providing nonpartisan research to legislators at the City, County, and State levels of government. The Fellow will conduct research and work with advanced students to identify and define problems in the greater York community, develop policy approaches to solve those problems, and aim to achieve adoption and successful implementation of specific policy proposals via the Pennsylvania General Assembly and municipal jurisdictions in the South Central Pennsylvania region.

The appointee will hold the title of Fellow in the Center for Community Engagement and the rank of Visiting Instructor in the Department of History and Political Science. The fellowship will generally carry a two-year appointment, though in appropriate cases that time frame might be lengthened or shortened to accommodate a specific project. Among the duties of the fellow will be:

- Completing an appropriate research project or projects likely to be of interest to local residents, legislators, and civic/business leaders;
- Teaching one advanced course per semester;
- Delivering at least two public lectures for the local community;
- Disseminating the results of her/his research in appropriate scholarly and public venues;
- Collaborating with students and faculty in other appropriate York College programs such as the Center for Professional Excellence, the Graham and Eisenhart Scholars, and other CCE programming.

Funding will be provided for travel, speakers, and other appropriate initiatives of the Institute.

Requirements: The ideal candidate will hold a doctorate in a field directly related to public policy research (though ABD or MPP will be considered). The successful candidate will have a research agenda well-suited to studying local, regional, and state-level policy, and evidence of scholarly potential.

York College is committed to building a diverse college community and encourages members of underrepresented groups to apply. Interested candidates should electronically submit the following: a current curriculum vitae, letter of application, and names of three references to employment@ycp.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016. While applications will be accepted until the position is filled, for full consideration, applications should be received by October 31, 2016.

York College of Pennsylvania is an Equal Opportunity Employer. For a copy of York College's Annual Security Report, you may contact the Office of Campus Safety or visit the College's website and search for Annual Security Report.

About York College and the Center for Community Engagement (CCE)

York College of Pennsylvania (<http://www.ycp.edu>) is a private-sector, independent institution of higher education, offering over 50 baccalaureate majors in the arts and sciences and in professional fields as well as master's programs in business, education and nursing and a doctoral program in nursing. The College has an enrollment of over 4000 full time, over 500 part time undergraduate students and over 200 graduate students from 30 states and 12 foreign countries. The campus is located in South-Central Pennsylvania (50 miles north of Baltimore, MD, 30 miles south of Harrisburg, PA, and 90 miles north of Washington, DC) and offers competitive salaries and fringe benefits.

Though the Fellow will spend time on York College's main campus, the locus of the research and mentoring activities noted above would be housed in the CCE's headquarters in downtown York. The Institute for Public Policy is meant to be an objective, nonpartisan advocacy organization committed to the best practices in academic social science. The CCE hosts local government leaders, non-profit organizations, community groups, and other stakeholders, providing assistance in identifying and developing approaches to solving the community's most pressing problems. Under the guidance of the Fellow, the Glatfelter Institute for Public Policy will contribute to that mission through policy research.

The CCE's 20,000 square foot building at 59 East Market Street will open with Phase One mid-fall, 2016. Located across the street from the Yorktowne Hotel and adjacent to city, county, and state offices, the location is central to the downtown renaissance in Royal Square, the Arts District, and Central Market. This Center will be a hub for community education, meetings, and small conferences making it an ideal location for students and faculty engaged in policy research and analysis. This space will become a highly visible epicenter of policy activity.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2042

University of Virginia

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Specializations: Congress, Legislative Studies, American Politics

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. The position is offered for one year starting in August 2017, with an expected salary of $62,000 plus benefits. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Batten faculty member, Craig Volden, on research related to the Legislative Effectiveness Project.

A PhD degree in Political Science or related discipline is required. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are also required. Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred.

To apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0619566, and complete a candidate profile. Include a CV, contact information for three references, a cover letter and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Legislative Effectiveness Project during the postdoc. Please review <http://thelawmakers.org> for more information about the project.

For immediate consideration, please apply by October 15th, 2016. The position will remain open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2030

DeSales University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Full-time. Prospective candidates should be able to teach undergraduate courses in American government, political philosophy and public policy. Preference will be given to candidates who are able to employ both quantitative and qualitative analysis. Ph.D. in Political Science is preferred.

The mission of the political science major is to provide, within the liberal arts program of DeSales University, an education in its academic discipline and, consonant with the philosophy of the University, to incorporate the Christian humanist perspective as developed by St. Francis DeSales and his spiritual heirs into its course of studies. The program in political science emphasizes the policy analysis approach in its curriculum. This emphasis serves to coordinate and integrate the various courses and disciplines that the student studies during his/her college career. It seeks to develop the student's analytical skills, as well as his/her oral-written communications skills. It helps to provide the student with marketable skills, particularly when the student undertakes an internship or study abroad.

DeSales University is a Catholic liberal arts institution on a beautiful 450-acre campus in the Lehigh Valley of eastern Pennsylvania, approximately one hour from Philadelphia and two hours from New York City. Traditional-age students (1,700), evening-degree students (800), and graduate students (800) comprise the student body of 3,300. As a member of the Lehigh Valley Association of Independent Colleges, DeSales University participates in cooperative programs with Lehigh University and with Cedar Crest, Lafayette, Moravian, and Muhlenberg Colleges. EOE

Contact: Dr. Brian Kane, Head of Division of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, at Maryanne.Charlton@desales.edu. Position open until filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2021

Yale School of Public Health

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant or Associate Professor Health Policy and Management Department

The Health Policy and Management Department at the Yale School of Public Health is seeking applications for a new tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of health policy. We welcome applications from different disciplinary backgrounds including, but not limited to, political science, health economics, health policy, medical sociology, and health services research. We are particularly interested in individuals who are interested in conducting rigorous empirical research in health policy or health services, including studies of the policy-making process, policy implementation, and policy modeling, as well as research examining how organizational behavior, financial incentives, individual decision-making and regulatory constraints affect the delivery and quality of health care.

Candidates must have a doctoral degree by the start of appointment, a well-developed research plan, publications in peer-reviewed journals (or the potential to publish therein), and the ability to compete effectively for extramural funding. In addition, the selected candidate will be expected to teach and participate in training masters-level and doctoral-level students.

Information about the Department and YSPH can be found at <http://publichealth.yale.edu/hpm/> and <http://publichealth.yale.edu>, respectively. Information about Yale can be located at: www.yale.edu. As a member of the Yale community, the selected candidate will gain access to the many resources and opportunities available at Yale.

Applicants are encouraged to submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a research paper, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will commence on October 15, 2016, although applications received through December 1, 2016 will be given full consideration in the initial selection of candidates. Applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. Only complete applications will be considered, although more senior faculty may request sending letters of recommendation later in the process. Please apply on-line at:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7863>

Yale University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and welcomes applications from women, members of minority groups, persons with disabilities and protected veterans.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2010

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Environmental Justice and Community Resilience

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Faculty Position

Environmental Justice and Community Resilience

Department of Political Science, Purdue University

As part of a university-wide cluster hire in the area of “building sustainable communities,” the Department of Political Science is seeking applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position focused on the politics of environmental justice and community resilience. Potential areas of interest include how gender, race, class, ethnicity, geographical region, or identities affect the unequal distribution of environmental benefits and burdens and/or community resilience in the face of environmental change. We are also interested in research on efforts to address environmental and social inequalities through international, cross-national, and/or domestic political action, including but not limited to work on norms and norm change, protest and resistance movements, and community-based conservation and resilience efforts. The primary field of specialization within political science is open. The successful candidate will add to the political science department’s identified strengths in environmental politics as well as the politics of race, ethnicity, gender, and class. The successful candidate will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses in the area of environmental politics as well as other appropriate courses in his or her subfield. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Environmental Studies, or a related discipline is required. Joint appointments are possible in other academic units participating in the cluster hire, including Anthropology, Communication, Philosophy, and Engineering. The position will begin Fall 2017.

The successful candidate will have a demonstrated potential to play a vital role in Purdue’s new “building sustainable communities” initiative dedicated to finding new approaches to addressing major environmental and sustainability challenges. Purdue’s Center for the Environment will serve as the interdisciplinary hub for this research community. Purdue also hosts several interdisciplinary undergraduate and graduate programs focused on sustainability, including undergraduate degrees in environmental & ecological engineering and natural resources and environmental science, as well as a graduate program in Ecological Sciences and Engineering. The successful candidate will be expected to participate in and contribute to these programs as well.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Annie Wheeldon (acheever@purdue.edu). Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, samples of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant’s commitment to and experience with interdisciplinary research and teaching relevant to the cluster. Review of applications will begin October 7, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Leigh Raymond (lraymond@purdue.edu). A background check will be required for employment in this position. Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/9/2016

Salary: $80,000 - $89,999

eJobs ID: 2004

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Service (Urban Planning)

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Other

Specializations: Environmental Policy, Economic Policy, Energy Policy

New York University’s Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in urban studies with appointment to begin September 1, 2017. Applicants must have a doctoral degree in a relevant discipline.

We seek applicants who are enthusiastic about working in a multidisciplinary environment and in a school of public service, where innovative and cross-disciplinary research is valued, and where local and global perspectives are brought into dialogue. Candidates should have strong research interests and demonstrated capacity in one or more substantive areas of relevance for this position, including urban planning, environmental planning and ecosystems management, geography, public policy, political science, sociology, or economics. The new faculty member will play a leadership role in research, teaching (including core courses), and program development.

NYU Wagner, which was established in 1938, is a multidisciplinary school that prepares public service leaders to translate ideas into actions that have an effective and lasting impact on the public good. The School's nearly 40 full-time faculty members are trained in a wide variety of disciplines and share a commitment to addressing issues of public importance in their teaching and research. Wagner faculty members collaborate with other schools and departments across the university, including the Stern School of Business; the Steinhardt School of Education; School of Law; Politics, Economics, Sociology, and Metropolitan Studies departments; the Marron Institute for Urban Management, the Center for Urban Science and Progress, the Furman Center for Real Estate and Urban Policy, the Rudin Center for Transportation, and the College of Global Public Health. An important focus of these collaborations is research on how to manage urban growth, promote urban equity, and foster urban resilience.

Candidates should complete the application available via the URL below and submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, short writing sample, and three letters of reference.

<https://apply.interfolio.com/36509>

NYU is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and is strongly committed to diversity within its community.

Applications received by January 8, 2017 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1990

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships 2017-18

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship, in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or history. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of domestic politics and social development of China, with a focus on public policy challenges. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center are required. It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation or public talk during the fellowship period. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have completed ALL requirements for the Ph.D. degree (including the dissertation defense) by June 1, 2017.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2017 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space.

For complete information on how to apply visit: <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships> . Applications are due January 6, 2017. Questions can be emailed to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "Postdoctoral Fellowships in China Public Policy" in the SUBJECT line.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Date Posted: 9/6/2016

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1969

James Madison University

Rank: Assistant Professor- U.S. Government and Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR- U.S. GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC POLICY- {Job link #0407599}- The Political Science Department at James Madison University is seeking a tenure-track faculty member specializing in U.S. Government and Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning with the fall 2017 semester, pending budgetary approval. A doctoral degree in political science (or a closely related field) is required by the starting date for appointment as Assistant Professor; candidates at the ABD level can be appointed at the rank of Lecturer. The successful applicant will teach an introductory-level course in U.S. government and a research methods course required for all political science and public policy & administration majors. Areas of specialization should include health policy, economic policy, and/or comparative public policy.

The department seeks candidates with strong teaching and research skills. Review of applications will begin October 6, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. To apply for this position candidates must apply online at Joblink.jmu.edu regarding reference posting number{# 0407599}. On that website, candidates will post an application letter, vita, relevant teaching evaluations, unofficial graduate transcript(s), three letters of recommendation, course syllabi and an example of research. Salary shall be commensurate with experience. The College of Arts and Letters (CAL) at JMU serves as a cross-disciplinary center of intellectual inquiry and practice on campus. All programs in the college are committed to fostering rigorous, constructive dialogue in classrooms, local communities, and the larger world. James Madison University is committed to a diverse and inclusive community and to maintaining a work and educational environment that is free of all forms of discrimination. This institution does not tolerate discrimination or harassment on the basis of age, color, disability; genetic information, national origin, parental status, political affiliation, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or veteran status. Anyone having questions concerning discrimination should contact the Office for Equal Opportunity: (540) 568-6991.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/6/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1980

Sweet Briar College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Sweet Briar College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American government. We seek candidates with experience beyond the Ph.D., including proven teaching at the undergraduate level and evidence of potential for scholarly publications consistent with an Assistant Professor appointment. Candidates should have research and teaching interests in American government and politics, public policy, or constitutional law. The normal teaching load is 3:3.

The successful candidate will be an engaged scholar-teacher who will be central in building the government and international affairs program for the future; will collaborate with colleagues across different disciplines and be open to contributing to a variety of majors and programs; will shape and participate in campus academic life; and will work closely with undergraduates on research and as a mentor in pursuing careers in public service, academe or the professions. Candidates ready to work with a diverse student body are especially welcome. Sweet Briar prides itself on creating a learning environment that encourages young women to fulfill their highest potential. Leadership in all walks of life is fostered by the special connections our faculty make with their students, and Sweet Briar women translate their academic experiences into interesting and important lives.

Applications should be sent by email to governsearch@sbc.edu. Applications should include: 1) a cover letter; 2) a CV; 3) a statement on teaching, research, institutional experience, and future plans; 4) the names and full contact information for 3 references; and 5) a writing sample (journal- or chapter-length publication preferred). Items 1-4 should be in a single PDF file; item 5 may be in the same file or a separate PDF. Review of applications will start November 1, 2016.

Sweet Briar College (www.sbc.edu), located on 3,250 scenic acres in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains near Lynchburg, VA, is a nationally-ranked, independent, residential, liberal arts and sciences college for women. As an Equal Opportunity Employer, Sweet Briar College is committed to enhancing our community and encourages applications from qualified individuals with varied backgrounds, experiences and ideas who would increase the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Summer 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/6/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1974

University of West Georgia

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Assistant Professor – Public Administration and Political Science

The Department of Political Science at the University of West Georgia seeks applicants for an Assistant Professor in Public Administration to begin in August 2017. The successful applicant will be responsible for teaching in the face-to-face and online public administration graduate programs and must also teach undergraduate political science courses.

The position requires an earned Ph.D. from an accredited research university in Public Administration, Political Science, Public Policy or a related field, and the ability to teach graduate level public administration courses. Candidates with a background in quantitative methodology and data visualization are particularly encouraged to apply.

The Master of Public Administration is a dynamic and growing program housed in the Department of Political Science, which offers the BA, the BS, the political science minor and a minor in Public Administration. The department also offers Graduate Certificates in Public Management, Nonprofit Management and Community Development, and Disaster Management, as well as undergraduate certificates in Human Rights advocacy and Data Analytics.

Located 45 miles west of Atlanta, the University of West Georgia is classified as a R3 university by the University System of Georgia. On a vibrant residential campus with over 13,000 students, the University offers more than 100-degree programs at the baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral levels. Interested applicants are invited to e-mail Dr. Mbaye at hmbaye@westga.edu or visit our website at www.westga.edu/polisci.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, transcripts, and contact information for three professional references to Dr. Mbaye (hmbaye@westga.edu). Review of applications begins October 1, 2016, and will continue until the position is filled. The University of West Georgia is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Institution. Finalists will be required to submit to criminal background investigations as a prior condition for employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/6/2016
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1967

Stanford University

Rank: Faculty Positions in Political Economy
Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2017. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2017.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. For an application to be considered complete, all applicants must have three letters of recommendation, CV, and job market paper submitted by November 30, 2016. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to faculty_recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as from others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research, teaching and clinical missions.

Start Date:Application Deadline: 11/30/2016Date Posted: 9/2/2016Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 1961Universidad de los Andes

Rank: Six faculty positions in Public Management, Public Policy, Law and Public Policy, Political Dimensions of Public Policy, and Global Policy

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government at Universidad de los Andes is pleased to invite applications for up to six (6) permanent faculty positions, with start dates in January (preferable) or August (if necessary) of 2017, in the following areas:

Public Management: strategic planning within the public sector, finance and budgeting, public management, leadership in the public sector, and organizational development, among others.

Public Policy: any sub-field (including public health).

Law and Public Policy: regulations, public sector contracts, legal and normative frameworks for public policy and public management, ethics, the politics of judicial processes and criminal law, among others.

Political Dimensions of Public Policy: the politics of public policy, analysis of actors related to public policy, interest groups, local, regional, and national politics, among others.

Global Policy: the role of international organizations in development, issues in global governance, global activism and transnational actors, among others.

Requirements

Those applying should meet the following requirements:

- Ph.D. in hand (candidates about to defend their dissertations will also be considered).
- Demonstrate a commitment to excellence in independent research, including but not limited to publications in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed journals and/or books published at academic presses of recognized quality.
- Show a commitment to excellence in teaching, as demonstrated through experience in the classroom and strong teaching evaluations.
- Research and teaching areas: Public Management, Public Policy, Law and Public Policy, the Politics of Public Policy, and Global Policy.

Position

The School is interested in hiring up to six full-time candidates at the levels of Assistant or Associate Professor.

Application process

Participants must prepare the following documentation:

- Cover letter, specifying current topics of research and main areas of interest, which the candidates will be expected to develop at the Universidad de los Andes School of Government.
- Two letters of recommendation from researchers or academics with first-hand knowledge of the candidates' abilities.
- Description of general teaching areas and examples of courses of interest.
- CV that includes:
 - o Publications
 - o Presentations at conferences
 - o Participation in research projects, including the specific role played in each
 - o Awards, grants, and other honors received

- o Courses taught, including the following information: institution of instruction and level of instruction (undergraduate or graduate). Course evaluations are optional.
- o Name and contact information of two academic references (in addition to those who wrote the letter of recommendation).

Please send applications via post or email (the latter preferred) to:

Adriano Cano Cuervo
General Secretary
Alberto Lleras Camargo Government School
Universidad de los Andes
Cra. 1 No.19 - 27, Bloque AU, Piso 3.
Bogotá – Colombia

Email: a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co

Description of the School of Government

The Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government seeks to improve the quality of public policies and public administration by training students to become effective leaders in their respective fields, working from positions within the different branches of government to those in academic research. It empowers individuals to analyze issues critically and to shape public opinion responsibly.

The School of Government fosters the study of public issues within Universidad de los Andes by creating the appropriate environment for debating the most critical matters confronting the country. It proposes technical, interdisciplinary solutions to problems of a social, economic, and political nature that are prevalent in Colombia and in other countries in the region.

Additional information

For further information on the available positions, please contact Adriano Cano Cuervo, General Secretary of the School of Government at a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co.

For further information about the University or the Alberto Lleras Camargo School of Government, including its programs and activities, please visit our website <https://egob.uniandes.edu.co/index.php/es/>

Universidad de los Andes is an equal opportunity employer, and is committed to providing employment opportunities to all qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, or disability status. If you are unable to complete the application process due to an impairment or disability, please contact Adriano Cano at a.cano402@uniandes.edu.co.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS: OCTOBER 30, 2016 at 11:59 pm (COT)

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/2/2016

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 1962

Harvard University

Rank: Democracy Postdoctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Other

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation invites postdoctoral students who will be completing or will have recently completed a Ph.D. to apply for its Postdoctoral Democracy Fellowship. The Democracy Fellowships aim to support postdoctoral scholars whose research illuminates aspects of democratic governance in ways that are innovative and push the boundaries of their academic disciplines, whether political theory and philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. Furthermore, their research should have the potential for normative or practical relevance regarding urgent substantive policy or social problems related to democratic governance.

Postdoctoral Fellows join the Ash Center's academic community and participate in the Democracy Fellows weekly seminar. The fellowship provides time and space for the fellows to work on preparing either a book manuscript based on their dissertation or related academic publications. For more information about the Democracy Fellowships, see our Five-Year Retrospective (<http://ash.harvard.edu/democracyretrospective>) and the fellowship homepage (<http://ash.harvard.edu/democracy-postdoctoral-fellowships>).

Eligibility:

Preference will be given to postdoctoral scholars whose research interests coincide with the Ash Center's current focus on innovations in public participation and political participation in non-democracies. Eligible applicants will be completing or will have just recently completed dissertations—within the previous three years—in the fields of political theory, political philosophy, political science, sociology, law, or history. The duration of the fellowship is two academic years.

Benefits:

Fellows will receive a stipend of $60,000 annually, $2,500 per year for research during the fellowship, shared office space at the Ash Center, and access to Harvard's libraries and online library services. Fellowships for the 2017-2019 academic year begin in August 2017.

How to Apply:

Please complete the online application (available at https://harvard.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_1UrVmeLOiyViEvj) by October 1, 2016, for the 2017-2019 academic year. With questions please contact Hannah Hilligoss at hannah_hilligoss@hks.harvard.edu, Program and Research Assistant for the Democratic Governance Program.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 1851

University of Richmond

Rank: Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Leadership Studies, Political Psychology, Education Policy

The University of Richmond is seeking a social scientist for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the Jepson School of Leadership Studies (JLS). Although ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have completed a Ph.D. or Ed.D. in public administration, public policy, educational policy, political or social psychology, sociology, or a related field, by August 23, 2017.

JLS is a collaborative, inclusive community of scholars in anthropology, economics, history, literature, philosophy, politics, social psychology and religion. We seek applicants who study, or have the potential and desire to study, leadership by drawing on their disciplinary expertise to inform their work. We are particularly interested in candidates whose demonstrated scholarly interests focus on the analysis of policy or processes related to justice and explaining social and economic inequality.

Applicants should have the potential and desire to teach in an interdisciplinary undergraduate liberal arts environment. The successful candidate will be expected to teach courses related to his or her disciplinary training and to contribute to the curriculum by teaching such required courses as Leadership and the Social Sciences and Theories and Models of Leadership. In their cover letter, candidates should demonstrate how their scholarly and teaching interests connect, or have the potential to connect, to leadership, broadly construed. (See <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> for more information.) The JLS supports the University's commitment to promoting an inclusive campus community. For full consideration, applicants must specify in their cover letters how they are prepared to contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion.

The University of Richmond is a nationally ranked liberal arts university offering a unique combination of undergraduate and graduate degree programs in arts and sciences, business, leadership studies, law, and professional and continuing studies. The first school of leadership studies and a highly ranked business school enhance a strong liberal arts curriculum.

Inaugurated in 1992, the Jepson School of Leadership Studies is an independent academic unit of the University and offers students the opportunity to major or minor in Leadership Studies. With the aim of educating students for and about leadership, the Jepson School offers a challenging liberal arts curriculum delivered by means of a rigorous and innovative pedagogy. Candidates should submit a letter of application and curriculum vitae, and provide the names and emails of three references to <http://jobs.richmond.edu>. Review of applications will begin September 20, 2016; applications will be accepted until October 10, 2016. Preliminary phone and/or Skype interviews will likely be conducted; we anticipate inviting candidates to campus in November 2016.

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body and to supporting an inclusive campus community. In keeping with this commitment, our academic community strongly encourages applications from candidates who will contribute to these goals. The University of Richmond has a generous family leave policy, offers employment benefits to same sex domestic partners, and prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national or ethnic origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, disability, status as a veteran or any classification protected by local, state or federal law.

The University of Richmond is an Equal Opportunity Employer by both policy and practice. Applicants are considered for all positions without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, marital or veteran status, or the presence of a non-job-related medical condition.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/10/2016

Date Posted: 9/1/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1569

College of William & Mary

Rank: Comparative and/or International Development

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor or Associate Professor level in comparative or international development. The successful candidate will have a demonstrated commitment to high-level scholarship, outstanding classroom teaching, and collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Required Qualifications: Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or related field at the time of appointment (August 10, 2017) and be prepared to teach courses in comparative or international development.

Preferred Qualifications: Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods or comparative public policy, and mentoring successful undergraduate or master's level research projects is preferred.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter including a statement of research and teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), and a writing sample. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 30, 2016. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

The College of William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities. The College conducts background checks on applicants for employment. Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/> and information on the W&M Public Policy Program is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/>

publicpolicy/. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1944

Duke University

Rank: Tenure-line appointment - Energy Policy

DUKE UNIVERSITY

Energy Policy

Tenure-line appointment in the Sanford School of Public Policy (Assistant Professor or Associate Professor with Tenure level)

Joint appointment with the Duke University Energy Initiative

Duke University's Sanford School of Public Policy (sanford.duke.edu) seeks applicants for a tenure-line appointment at rank appropriate to seniority. The successful candidate will be expected to teach and conduct research relevant to energy policy, and help develop the University's Energy Initiative (energy.duke.edu).

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in economics, public policy, political science, or a related field. Applications received by November 25, 2016 will be guaranteed full consideration.

The Sanford School includes a full-time faculty of 69, and offers an undergraduate major, two masters programs, a PhD, and a joint PhD in environmental policy. The School houses several interdisciplinary research centers, including the Duke Center for International Development, and offers degree-related programs and opportunities in Washington, China, Scotland, India, London and Geneva. The Duke University Energy Initiative is a university-wide interdisciplinary collaboration that addresses pressing energy challenges related to the economy, the environment, and security. The Initiative cuts across business, science and engineering, environment, law, and policy to educate tomorrow's energy leaders, create new options through research, and improve energy decisions by engaging decision makers in business and government.

All candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, and recent writing sample to Professor Billy Pizer, Energy Policy Search Committee Chair, via the following website: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7756>. Candidates at the Assistant Professor level should include 3 letters of recommendation; candidates at the Associate Professor with Tenure level should include 3 references.

Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1942

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Cybersecurity and National or International Security Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Open Rank (Tenured or Tenure-track)

Cybersecurity and National or International Security Policy

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position (Open Rank) in cybersecurity and national or international security, global affairs, and governance to begin Fall 2017.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline by August 31, 2017. Applicants must have a track record of scholarship, publications, and/or research funding relating to cybersecurity. We are especially interested in candidates who link cybersecurity to broader social, political, economic, and policy questions in the contexts of national and/or international security. The position is part of a cross-disciplinary, campus-wide initiative in the area of cybersecurity. The successful candidate will demonstrate an ability to collaborate on research and grant applications with faculty in Computer Science, Engineering, and UTSA's highly regarded Cyber Security Program. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Political Science Department's proposed online graduate program in Global Affairs and/or traditional undergraduate or graduate classroom courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. The successful applicant will be expected to teach graduate and undergraduate courses on topics such as Politics and Cyber-Security, New Global Threats, and Global or National Security Policy. Scholars doing cross-disciplinary research in applied cybersecurity research are encouraged to apply but an applicant's primary field must be Political Science or a closely related discipline. Applicants must demonstrate potential for research publication and a strong potential to attract external funding, and have a strong theoretical grounding in national or international security.

All applicants must provide evidence of scholarly and professional publications commensurate with the rank for which the applicant is applying. All applicants should also provide, if possible, some representative evidence of high-quality teaching – ideally in courses that address cyber security in the context of national or international security, global affairs and governance. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of courses in international relations or global affairs.

To be considered at the tenure-track Assistant Professor level, successful applicants must be able to articulate a research agenda and have an emerging record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a commitment to service.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have an established research agenda, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their respective fields of specialization and have excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Full or Associate Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to acquire external funding. Preference will also be given to candidates who can teach courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science and international relations/global affairs, and/or in such areas as environmental governance, law and institutions, compliance, and/or transnationalism.

Responsibilities: Teach, advise, and mentor undergraduate and graduate students; pursue an active research and publishing agenda; and serve the University, profession, and community.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be sent electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, research interests, teaching experiences, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Copy of all graduate transcripts;
4. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
5. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
6. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
7. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1896

Australian National University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor in Australian Politics and Comparative Public Policy

The School of Politics and International Relations is seeking to make a new continuing academic appointment at levels B-D (Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, or Associate Professor). This position represents a significant future investment in order to build on existing strengths in the School.

We welcome applications from outstanding candidates in Australian politics and public policy. Sub-fields are open but an ability to teach courses on either: Australian Politics, public policy, gender, and methods are desirable. Candidates will be expected to teach introductory courses in political science or public policy.

Successful candidates will have outstanding records of demonstrated excellence in research, publications, and education. As well as teaching, the appointee will be expected to have an active research agenda, supervise honours and PhD students and work collegially with other members of the School.

The standard teaching load is three courses per year, plus work with honours and graduate students.

The School of Politics and International Relations is based in the nation's capital and ranked as the leading international relations department in the country as well as one of the top 10 in the world for political science and international relations.

These positions are based in Canberra.

ANU provides attractive benefits and excellent support to maintain a healthy work/life balance and offers generous remuneration benefits, including four weeks paid vacation per year, assistance with relocation expenses, 17% employer contribution to superannuation and eligibility to apply for 6-month research leave every three years. For more information on working at ANU please visit <http://hr.anu.edu.au/employment-at-anu>

Applications close 14 October 2016.

For more information about these positions including how to apply please go to www.anu.edu.au/jobs

Enquiries: Dr Andrew Banfield, E: Andrew.banfield@anu.edu.au, T 02 6125 2679

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: $110,000 - $119,999

eJobs ID: 1938

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Economy, Economic Policy

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and must not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2017, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

You may submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. Search for requisition number 1600730. The online system includes instructions on how to apply.

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 14, 2016. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 17, 2016. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced by Monday March 6, 2017.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Princeton University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/14/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1930

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Global Energy and the Environment

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Energy Policy, Environmental Policy, International Security

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT SAN ANTONIO

Department of Political Science and Geography

Position Announcement

Open Rank (Tenured or Tenure-track)

Global Energy and Environmental Politics

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position (Open Rank) in Global Energy and Environmental Politics to begin Fall 2017.

Required Qualifications: All applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or a directly related discipline. Methodological approaches are open, but the Department is especially interested in attracting outstanding scholars with research and teaching expertise in global energy politics, energy security, the U.S. global energy position, the intersection of energy and environmental issues, and especially the energy-climate change nexus. The position contributes to UTSA's commitment to advancing excellence in research and teaching about the global political implications of contemporary developments in energy and environmental systems. The successful candidate will demonstrate an ability to collaborate on research and grant applications with researchers working on energy and the environment throughout the university and at the UTSA Texas Sustainable Energy Research Institute. Teaching responsibilities include two courses per semester in the Political Science Department's proposed online graduate program in Global Affairs and/or traditional undergraduate or graduate classroom courses in Political Science and Global Affairs. Applicants must be willing to develop and teach courses in global energy politics and related areas pertaining to international security, geopolitics, political economy, and environmental governance.

All applicants must provide evidence of scholarly and professional publications commensurate with the rank for which they are applying. All applicants should also provide, if possible, some representative evidence of high-quality teaching - ideally in courses that address energy and environmental issues in the context of global or international security.

To be considered at the tenure-track Assistant Professor level, successful applicants must be able to articulate a research agenda and have an emerging record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a commitment to service.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have an established research agenda, a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must be recognized authorities in their fields of specialization, and have a strong record of publications, excellent teaching skills, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Full or Associate Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to acquire external funding. Preference will be given to candidates prepared to teach courses in traditional and emerging sub-fields of political science and international relations, and with experience in online course development.

Responsibilities: Teach, advise, and mentor undergraduate and graduate students in the Political Science and Global Affairs degree programs; pursue an active research and publishing agenda; and serve the University, profession, and community.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, research interests, teaching experience, and qualifications for the position;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Copy of all graduate transcripts;
4. Samples of written or published scholarly work (no more than three);
5. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
6. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
7. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the candidate's scholarship and/or teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/31/2016

Date Posted: 8/30/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1932

Drexel University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Studies and Politics

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

Specializations: Middle East, Developing Nations, Conflict Processes

The Department of Global Studies and Modern Languages at Drexel University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Middle Eastern politics, beginning September 1, 2017. Positions are subject to final budgetary approval. The Department will consider applications at the Assistant Professor rank. Global Studies is a new, interdisciplinary department at Drexel University, building on existing strength in International Area Studies. This position will include a joint appointment with Drexel's Department of Politics, and teaching may be cross-listed with that department. Founded in 1891, Drexel University is a dynamic, comprehensive, co-op university located within walking distance of Center City Philadelphia.

We seek candidates who specialize in Middle Eastern politics, either from a Comparative or IR perspective. A background in peace studies and/or conflict resolution is a plus, although not required. Successful candidates will also be expected to pursue an active research agenda and to contribute to the Department's undergraduate curricula. This will include teaching and mentoring our outstanding undergraduate students, all of whom have foreign language proficiency and a broad, global outlook. We have a growing Arabic-language program and offer study abroad programs and co-op opportunities in conflict resolution and civic engagement.

All requirements for the PhD must be completed by September 1, 2017.

Candidates should include: 1) a cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) up to three samples of your scholarly writing; and 4) three letters of reference. Only applications submitted via Drexel's online system will be considered.

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2016 and continue until filled. Questions should be addressed to: Prof. Joel E. Oestreich, <jeo25@drexel.edu>.

Drexel University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, welcomes individuals from diverse backgrounds and perspectives, and believes that an inclusive and respectful environment enriches the University community and the educational and employment experience of its members. The University prohibits discrimination against individuals on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, disability, age, status as a veteran or special disabled veteran, gender identity or expression, genetic information, pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions and any other prohibited characteristic. Please visit our website to view all University Policies and Workplace Postings.

Background investigations are required for all new hires as a condition of employment, after the job offer is made. Employment will be contingent upon the University's acceptance of the results of the background investigation.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1894

University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Rank: Assistant Professor Transnational Feminism

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Women & Politics, Conflict Processes, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

Assistant Professor – Transnational Feminism

The Department of Political Science and the Women's and Gender Studies Program at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln seek a tenure-track Assistant Professor with expertise in transnational feminism to begin August 2017. Applicants would hold a joint appointment with 0.40 FTE in Women's and Gender Studies and 0.60 FTE and tenure home in the Department of Political Science. Qualifications include a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field, a record of achievement in scholarship, research focus in feminism, conflict and human rights; human security; feminist international relations; political behavior and gender; and gender and public policy, or related areas, ability to teach Sex and Gender Around the Globe in Women and Gender Studies program and have the ability to lead WGS research emphasis in Transnational Feminism. Responsibilities include maintaining an active program of research and contributing to the teaching and engagement missions of both units. The Women's and Gender Studies Program and the Department of Political Science have a strong commitment to principles of diversity and actively encourage applications from groups underrepresented in higher education. Review of applications will begin October 2, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. To be considered for the position, please go to <http://employment.unl.edu>, requisition F_160174, and click on "Apply to this job." Candidates should attach a cover letter expressing interest in the position, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, a list of up to five relevant publications, and contact information for three references. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is committed to a pluralistic campus community through affirmative action, equal opportunity, work-life balance, and dual careers. See <http://www.unl.edu/equity/notice-nondiscrimination>.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 10/2/2016

Date Posted: 8/24/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1885

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Health Care, Lesbian & Gay Studies

The University of Virginia Arts & Sciences Women Gender & Sexuality Program invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position. We seek candidates dedicated to our mission and passionate about teaching in a world class institution.

Candidates are sought who teach and conduct research in the general area of LGBTQ Studies. Field of specialization within LGBTQ Studies is open, but candidates in any area of LGBTQ health, especially those who work from a global perspective and/or in relation to race and ethnicity are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates from other areas of the humanities and social sciences are also welcome.

In addition to developing external funding to support research endeavors, candidates will be expected to teach and provide service to the University, WGS Program, and professional organizations.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2016. The appointment begins with the fall term of 2017, with an anticipated start date of July 25, 2017. Applicants must be on track to receive a Ph.D. in the relevant field by June 2017 and must hold a Ph.D. at the time of appointment.

To apply candidates must submit a Candidate Profile through Jobs@UVa (<https://jobs.virginia.edu>), search on posting number 0619405 and electronically attach the following: a cover letter of interest describing research agenda and teaching experience, a curriculum vitae, a sample article- or chapter-length scholarship (Attach to Writing Sample 1) and contact information for three references. In addition, please have reference letter writers email letters directly to wgsuva@virginia.edu

Questions regarding the application process in JOBS@UVa should be directed to: WGS Program, wgsuva@virginia.edu.

The University will perform background checks on all new faculty hires prior to making a final offer of employment. The University of Virginia assists UVA faculty spouses and partners seeking employment in the Charlottesville area. To learn more about these services, please see <http://provost.virginia.edu/dual-career>.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/24/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1888

Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM)

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: Political Economy, Regulatory Policy, Quantitative Methods

The Instituto Tecnológico Autónomo de México (ITAM) invites applicants for a position at the assistant professor level in the Political Science Department, commencing in August 2017. This is an open field position with preference for candidates in the fields of Comparative Politics, Political-Economy, Methods (formal and quantitative), and Political Theory (contemporary political theory along with Comparative Politics or Social Choice). Candidates should preferably have a focus on regulatory politics, or policy evaluation.

ITAM is an academic institution committed to scientific excellence and oriented to the international academic community. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to research and should possess a Ph.D. in political science, but ABDs will be considered if there is a reasonable expectation of completion by December 2016. Classes can be taught in Spanish or English. Salary and teaching loads are in accordance to U.S. standards. Candidates can interview at the 2016 APSA Meeting in Philadelphia.

Information about the Department can be found at: <http://departamentodecienciapolitica.itam.mx/es>

CONTACT: Prof. Vidal Romero, Political Science Department, ITAM, Río Hondo # 1, Mexico City, D.F. 01800, Mexico; email: vromero@itam.mx.

Application Instructions: Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research papers, research statement (2 page limit), and three letters of reference in pdf format to marta.cebollada@itam.mx by November 1, 2016.

For more information, phone: +52(55)5628-4000, x.3788.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/23/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1866

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2017.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2017.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2016 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01172>

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/23/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1869

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2017 to June 30, 2018. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at <http://jobs.princeton.edu>. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition 1600686.

A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2016 for appointments beginning in September 2017. Awards will be announced in March 2017.

Please address any inquiries to:
Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://web.princeton.edu/sites/jmadison/>

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 8/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1845

Syracuse University

Rank: American Politics

Syracuse University
American Politics

The Department of Political Science seeks two tenure-track Assistant Professors in American Politics. The search is open to candidates whose teaching and research focus on either political institutions or political behavior. We have particular interests in recruiting candidates who study race, American political development, and public policy. The political science department is housed within the Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, which is committed to citizenship education at the undergraduate level and to graduate education in public affairs and the social sciences. We seek candidates who complement the broader Maxwell mission and have interdisciplinary interests. Successful candidates may be invited to affiliate with the Campbell Public Affairs Institute or one of Maxwell's other interdisciplinary centers (<http://www.maxwell.syr.edu/centers/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field or a credible expectation of completing all requirements for the Ph.D. by August 2017.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS:

For consideration, candidates must complete an online faculty application (available at <http://www.sujobopps.com/>) and attach online the following: a letter of interest and a CV, a sample of professional writing, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of quality teaching. Files may be no larger than 5MB, but you may submit an external link to a larger file if needed.

In addition, applicants will be required to provide the full email addresses of three references.

Applications will be reviewed as they arrive with full consideration given to those received by October 1, 2016. However, the department will continue to consider applications until this position is filled. We encourage dual career academic couples to apply as well.

Syracuse University is an EO/AA employer and particularly encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/18/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1844

Duke University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professorship in American Military/Diplomatic History

Modern American Military/Diplomatic History: Duke University. The Sanford School of Public Policy invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor of public policy or associate professor of public policy with tenure. This search is to fill an Assistant or Associate Professorship in the field of American military history and policy or American diplomatic history and policy. While the preference is for candidates at the Assistant level, we will consider files of advanced junior professors close to tenure or recently tenured. The successful candidate's research interests will fall within the 20th/21st century period and at the intersection of history and public policy and will contribute to Duke's Program in American Grand Strategy (for more information on the AGS Program see here <http://sites.duke.edu/agsp/>)

The Sanford School includes a full-time faculty of 65, and offers an undergraduate major, two masters programs, and a Ph.D. program. More information on the Sanford School can be found at www.sanford.duke.edu

Candidates should submit a letter of application, CV, and three letters of reference to Peter Feaver, Chair, Modern American Military/Diplomatic History Search via the following website: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7642>. Applications received by October 15 will be guaranteed consideration.

Duke University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer committed to providing employment opportunity without regard to an individual's age, color, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, national origin, race, religion, sexual orientation, or veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1815

University of Missouri, Columbia

Rank: Kinder Institute Professor of Constitutional Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Political Theory

Job Description

The Department of Political Science at the University of Missouri invites applications for the Kinder Institute (Assistant/Associate/Full) Professor of Constitutional Democracy to begin in the Fall Semester 2017. The position is open rank in Political Science and holds a joint appointment with the Kinder Institute on Constitutional Democracy.

Started in 2014 and supported by a generous grant from the Kinder Foundation, a family philanthropic foundation established by Rich and Nancy Kinder, the Kinder Institute is an interdisciplinary academic center at the University of Missouri dedicated to promoting excellence in teaching and scholarship on American political thought and history, broadly construed.

The successful candidate will teach four classes per year, maintain an active research and publishing agenda, contribute to undergraduate and graduate education, and participate in the intellectual community and activities of the Kinder Institute.

Qualifications

Applicants must demonstrate a track record of excellence in teaching and publication in a subject area that advances the mission of the Kinder Institute. Special consideration will be given to candidates whose prior work bridges subfields in political science and reflects the potential to teach courses in the area of political institutions and/or political and constitutional development. A Ph.D. in political science is required at the time of the appointment.

Application Materials

Applicants should use the online application system available at <http://hrs.missouri.edu/find-a-job/academic/index.php>. Apply for Job ID 20828. See here for a direct link to this job:

https://myhr.umsystem.edu/psp/tamext/COLUM/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL?Page=HRS_CE_JOB_DTL&Action=A&SiteId=9&JobOpeningId=20828&PostingSeq=1.

Applicants should include a statement of teaching philosophy, and an outline of a current research agenda in the "attachments" portion of the system. Applicants should merge their CV with a brief cover letter and upload the document in the Resume/CV section of the application. Candidates at the rank of assistant professor should also include three letters of recommendation. Candidates at the rank of associate or full professor should may provide the names and contact information for three references.

All letters of recommendation should be sent to politicalscience@missouri.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016.

Other Information

For more information about the Kinder Institute, including descriptions of all faculty, graduate and undergraduate programs, please visit democracy.missouri.edu.

The University of Missouri is fully committed to achieving the goal of a diverse and inclusive academic community of faculty, staff and students. We seek individuals who are committed to this goal and our core campus values of respect, responsibility, discovery and excellence.

Benefit Eligibility

This position is eligible for University benefits. The University offers a comprehensive benefits package, including medical, dental and vision plans, retirement, and educational fee discounts. For additional information on University benefits, please visit the Faculty & Staff Benefits website at <http://www.umsystem.edu/totalrewards/benefits>

Equal Employment Opportunity

The University of Missouri is an equal access, equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is fully committed to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. Equal Opportunity is and shall be provided for all employees and applicants for employment on the basis of their demonstrated ability and competence without unlawful discrimination on the basis of their race, color, national origin, ancestry, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, genetic information, disability, or protected veteran status. For more information, call the Associate Vice Chancellor of Human Resource Services/Affirmative Action officer at 573-882-4256.

To request ADA accommodations, please call the Director of Accessibility & ADA Education at 573-882-5835.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/17/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1813

University of Minnesota, Twin Cities

Rank: Associate Professor in Global Policy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Gender Politics & Policy, International Security

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

With this current search, the Humphrey School seeks to hire a tenure-track or tenured Associate Professor whose research, scholarship, academic leadership and service focus broadly on global policy. We will consider candidates now at the Associate Professor level, as well as candidates who are now at the advanced Assistant Professor level and may meet requirements for appointment as Associate Professor. If the candidate is hired without tenure, we would expect consideration of tenure within three years of the appointment. Although the tenure home and position will be at the Humphrey School, there will be possibilities to collaborate with relevant departments across the University of Minnesota.

The successful candidate must have strong, demonstrated applied research and teaching interests in the international policies of states and/or non-state actors, or the prospects for international coordination and cooperation in various spheres. We encourage applications from candidates who have focused on international security, transnational security threats, emerging security threats, human security, civil wars, internal conflicts, political violence, gender-based violence, gendered aspects of human security, and/or related issues. Candidates with country expertise and/or strong regional interests will also be considered. Candidates must be committed to scholarly and policy-relevant research at the highest levels; willing and able to teach in the School's core curriculum; provide leadership to its established public policy Master's and public affairs Ph.D. programs; be willing to help prepare students for professional careers; and function collaboratively in a multi- and inter-disciplinary environment.

A Ph.D. or equivalent foreign degree is required in political science, international relations, security studies, development studies, economics, public policy, sociology, anthropology, political economy, or related fields, if the candidate's focus has been on international policy and global affairs. The Humphrey School is especially interested in candidates with a demonstrated interest in public policy, broadly construed, whose approach to teaching and research is both innovative and inclusive in terms of race, gender, class and ethnicity.

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota ranks among the top ten professional schools of public affairs in the country. Situated in the vibrant, dynamic and diverse community of the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, the Humphrey School's mission is to inspire, educate, and support innovative leaders to advance the common good in a diverse world. The School prepares students for leadership in public affairs in government and the non-profit and corporate sectors, and advances public affairs scholarship, service, and public engagement to address important policy issues and solve problems facing Minnesota, the nation, and the world. The School is nationally recognized for its role in examining public issues and shaping policy and planning at the local, state, national, and international levels, as well as for providing leadership and management expertise to public and nonprofit organizations.

The Humphrey School serves as a major center for public discussion and dialogue within the University and the broader community, hosting hundreds of public events each year, engaging in community-based research, and influencing policy-making at a number of levels. The School offers six master's degrees (Master of Development Practice; Master of Human Rights; Master of Public Affairs; Master of Public Policy; Master of Science in Science, Technology, and Environmental Policy; and Master of Urban and Regional Planning), as well as dual master's degrees with MBA, MSW, JD, MPH, MSCE, and MLA and graduate certificates in Early Childhood Policy, Election Administration, Nonprofit Management, Policy Issues on Work and Pay, and Public Affairs Leadership. The School also offers minors as well as early admissions opportunities for undergraduates (learn more on our website at www.hhh.umn.edu).

The Humphrey School of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. The Humphrey School faculty consists of 31 tenure/tenure-track faculty, 13 graduate faculty and 20+ affiliate faculty members. In addition, there are 65+ staff employees who work in various administrative, research, and lecturing roles at the School. The Humphrey School of Public Affairs seeks to enrich the diversity of the University community and encourages applicants from a wide range of backgrounds to apply. We seek candidates whose approach to teaching and research is innovative and inclusive in terms of structurally or historically underrepresented groups.

We would like to invite you to visit our employment site to complete your application. Applications must be submitted online. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach additional documents.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae, the names and addresses of three references, a sample of recent research, and a cover letter with a brief account of research and teaching interests and experience.

DIRECTIONS:

1. Select the below link to access our site.
2. Sign In to access your account, or if you are not an existing user select the New User link to create one.

3. Review the job description and select the Apply button to begin your application.

https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=312431&PostingSeq=1

If you are a current University of Minnesota employee, please use the following link instead:

https://www.myu.umn.edu/psp/psprd/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM_EMP.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Employee&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=312431&PostingSeq=1

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 15, 2016. The position will remain open until filled. Please submit applications online and address cover and reference letters to: Search Committee for Global Policy, Humphrey School of Public Affairs, c/o Human Resources, HHH152, 301-19th Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Salary will be commensurate with experience. Benefits include health, dental, faculty life/disability insurance, retirement, and social security. The starting date for this appointment is August 26, 2017 or as soon thereafter as possible.

To request an accommodation during the application process, please e-mail employ@umn.edu or call (612) 624-UOHR (8647).

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1810

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Other, Other

The University of California, San Diego invites applications from outstanding candidates for up to four separate searches (totaling up to eight positions) for TENURE TRACK or TENURED FACULTY POSITIONS in environmental justice, health care ethics, business ethics, and the social impact of technology, medicine, and science.

These positions are part of a bold multi-discipline, multi-year initiative in practical ethics that spans the entire University. In this initiative, traditional normative ethical concerns are embedded in cross-disciplinary research in the humanities, social sciences, physical sciences, biological sciences, geosciences, engineering, business, and medicine.

Each appointment will be made jointly between two divisions or schools in order to facilitate collaborations in new inter-disciplinary fields. These areas include the Divisions of Arts and Humanities, Biological Sciences, Physical Sciences, Social Sciences, the School of Global Policy and Strategy, the Jacobs School of Engineering, Scripps Institution of Oceanography (SIO), the Skaggs School of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, the Rady School of Management, and the School of Medicine.

Appointments generally will be at the Assistant or Associate Professorial level and in exceptional cases at the very early Professorial level.

The University of California, San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body.

There are at present four separate areas within the overall initiative:

1. Social Impact of Science, Medicine, and Technology
2. Health Care Ethics
3. Environmental Justice
4. Business Ethics

Candidates may submit an application to one or more of these areas. Candidates must have a PhD in a relevant field. Successful applicants will be expected to teach both graduate and undergraduate students in the participating departments and establish a vigorous program of high-quality research that focuses on innovative approaches in one of the targeted areas.

Successful practical ethics applicants will complement exceptional expertise in multiple areas at UC San Diego, including, but not limited to: environmental sciences and environmental studies, bioethics, U.S. and global policy, public policy, sociology, philosophy, cultural and literary studies, political science, social psychology, political psychology, history of science, engineering, biomedical sciences, healthcare, and business.

The preferred candidate will have demonstrated strong leadership and a commitment to support diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting.

The level of appointment and salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on UC pay schedules.

Completed applications received by October 14, 2016 will be assured of consideration and the positions will remain open until filled.

Applications at the Assistant Professor level, please refer to the links below:

1. Social Impact of Science, Medicine, and Technology: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01132>
2. Health Care Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01136>
3. Environmental Justice: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01134>
4. Business Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01138>

Applications at the Associate or Full Professor level, please refer to the links below:

1. Social Impact of Science, Medicine, and Technology: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01133>
2. Health Care Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01137>
3. Environmental Justice: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01135>
4. Business Ethics: <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01139>

Required materials are: (1) a cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) statement of research, including strategy for interdisciplinary research, (4) statement of teaching, (5) writing sample, (6) teaching evaluations (if available for Assistant Professor level), (7) names and emails of 3 potential recommenders for Associate Professor Level or 3 letters of recommendation for Assistant Professor Level, and (8) a separate statement describing past experience in activities that promote diversity and inclusion and/or plans to make future contributions. For further information about contributions to diversity statements, see: <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>.

For applicants with interest in spousal/partner employment, please see <http://academicaffairs.ucsd.edu/aps/partneropp/index.html> for the UC San Diego Partner Opportunities Program.

Please direct inquiries to: practicaethics@ucsd.edu

The University of California San Diego is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1795

Hendrix College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Hendrix College invites applications for a tenure track position for an Assistant Professor of Politics to begin in August 2017. The College seeks to extend its tradition of excellence in teaching and scholarship by attracting faculty who combine mastery of their disciplines with broad intellectual interests and commitment to the aims of a liberal arts college. The successful applicant will teach the basic public policy course; one or two upper level, policy specific courses, and generally contribute to the department's American politics offerings. The successful applicant also will teach a section of Research Methods and participate in the Department's undergraduate research seminar, as well as the college's program in engaged learning. Training that would allow the development of a course in some aspect of political behavior is also a plus. Doctorate is expected by the start date; ABD will be considered.

Applications should include a cover letter addressing the candidate's interest in teaching in a demanding liberal arts environment, a curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate and undergraduate transcripts, as well as a statement of scholarly interest. In addition, three letters of recommendation should be requested sent via e-mail to facultyrecs@hendrix.edu. Address cover letter to Dr. Kimberly Maslin, Politics/IR Department Chair. Review of materials will begin October 15, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled.

Electronic submissions are strongly encouraged and can be submitted at <https://goo.gl/PcAgQE>. Hendrix is a distinguished liberal arts college located in Conway, Arkansas, thirty miles from Little Rock at the foothills of the Ozark Mountains. The College, affiliated with the United Methodist Church, has a strong commitment to excellence in teaching liberal arts. Hendrix College strives to maintain an environment free from discrimination and harassment, where employees treat each other with respect, dignity and courtesy. The College adheres to the principle of equal educational and employment opportunity without regard to age, race, color, religion, gender, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, or national origin.

The following person has been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination policies: Shawn Goicoechea, Assistant

Director of Human Resources & Title IX Coordinator 1600 Washington Ave, Conway, AR 72032 501-450-1415 goicoechea@hendrix.edu

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/12/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1784

Georgetown University

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor, Field Open

The McCourt School of Public Policy at Georgetown University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor, field open, whose research and teaching expertise are focused on public policy and racial justice in American society. These issues include, but are not limited to, criminal justice; economic, social, and political inequality; health; education; and urban studies, among others.

The McCourt School was established in 2013 with a generous naming gift which allows for faculty expansion, a Massive Data Institute, and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service.

Electronic applications are required and candidates should submit applications here: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/7621> The committee will begin considering applications on September 1 and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 8/11/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1770

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Political Economy, Mexico, Public Finance & Budgeting

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. Other specializations are also welcome and will be considered by the Search Committee. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on September 19th and continue until the position is filled

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before May 2017.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

- ? Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
- ? Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages).
- ? Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
- ? Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
- ? Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2012-2015), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:

schoolfgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Additional Information:

<http://escueladegobierno.itesm.mx/>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1748

Franklin & Marshall College

Rank: Assistant Professor or Instructor, Public Health Policy

The Department of Government at Franklin & Marshall College invites applications for a tenure-track position in public health policy, with a preference for candidates whose work focuses on global public health. Appointment, beginning in Fall 2017, will be at the rank of Assistant Professor or Instructor depending on qualifications. Responsibilities include teaching the introductory public policy course and an upper level seminar on health policy, and contributing to the College's general education curriculum, Connections, and to the Public Health program.

Teaching experience is preferred. The teaching load is 3/2. Candidates should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation, teaching and research statements, teaching evaluation forms and a sample of scholarly writing to apply.interfolio.com/36588. The review of applications will begin on October 1, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to the chair of the search committee, Prof. Stephen Medvic (smedvic@fandm.edu).

Pursuant to cultivating an inclusive college community, the search committee will holistically assess the qualifications of each applicant. We will consider an individual's record working with students and colleagues with diverse perspectives, experiences, and backgrounds. We will also consider experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to academic success.

Franklin & Marshall College is committed to having an inclusive campus community where all members are treated with dignity and respect. As an Equal Opportunity Employer, the College does not discriminate in its hiring or employment practices on the basis of gender, sex, race or ethnicity, color, national origin, religion, age, disability, family or marital status, or sexual orientation, or any protected characteristic.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/8/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1741

Temple University

Rank: Assistant, Associate or Full Professor of Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Public Administration

Specializations: Criminal Justice, Education Policy, Health Care

The Department of Political Science at Temple University invites applications for a tenure-track or tenured position in public policy. We will consider candidates at any rank. We seek candidates pursuing a program of theoretically-informed empirical research on important public policy issues and processes who would be able to take an active role in our new Master of Public Policy Program. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research and teaching focuses upon education policy, health policy, or criminal justice policy. Expertise in bureaucracy and public management, policy analysis, the intersection of law and public policy, program evaluation, and budgeting is especially valued. Candidates must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as evidence of external grant/fellowship support. Temple University, an urban research university in the heart of Philadelphia, values those who are able to work with diverse students and colleagues. Candidates at the entry level are expected to have completed a Ph.D. by the beginning of their appointment. Please send a cover letter; curriculum vitae; a sample of written or published scholarly work; teaching portfolio (e.g., sample syllabi, student and/or peer evaluations); graduate school transcript; and three letters of reference to: Prof. Gary Mucciaroni, Search Committee Chair, Department of Political Science, Temple University, 408 Gladfelter Hall (025-22), 1115 Polett Walk, Philadelphia PA 19122-6089. We prefer electronic applications; please submit these to the Department Coordinator, Latasha Goodman lgoodman@temple.edu. Dossiers will be reviewed as they arrive, but to guarantee full consideration, applications must be received by October 3, 2016. Temple University is an Affirmative Action equal opportunity employer and particularly encourages applications from women and persons of color.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/3/2016
Date Posted: 8/4/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1734

Texas Woman's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government

The Department of History and Government at Texas Woman's University invites applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position beginning fall 2016. The successful applicant will be broadly trained in political science with a primary field of American Politics and a secondary field in public affairs/policy. A focus on women and politics is highly desirable. Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching and an active record of research. The successful candidate will teach the introductory American government course, as well as advanced undergraduate courses and Master's level courses in Public Affairs/policy. Candidates will also advise students and serve the department, university, and profession.

Required qualifications:

- Earned doctorate in Political Science or related field
- Demonstrated potential for teaching excellence
- Demonstrated potential for research and publication

Preferred qualifications:

- Prior teaching experience

The History and Government Department offers a Bachelor and Masters in Government as well as the Bachelors in Criminal Justice (co-administered with the Department of Sociology and Social Work). The department has 5 full-time Government faculty members (plus 5 full-time History faculty) offering degrees to approximately 115 undergraduate Government majors and 20 Master's students.

Send a cover letter, graduate transcripts, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a sample of scholarly work, and three letters of reference to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Tim Hoye, at THoye@twu.edu. Review of applications will begin on Nov. 1, 2016.

Texas Woman's University strives to provide an educational environment that affirms the rights and dignity of each individual, fosters diversity, and encourages a respect for the differences among persons. Discrimination or harassment of any kind is considered inappropriate. Texas Woman's University is committed to equal opportunity in employment and education and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, veteran's status, or against qualified disabled persons.

Individuals may qualify for a Veteran's Employment Preference or a Former Foster Youth Employment Preference at Texas Woman's University over other applicants for the same position who do not have a greater qualification. If you believe you may qualify, click here for more information and instructions on how to claim an employment preference: <http://www.twu.edu/recruitment-selection/6589.asp>

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1731

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Public Law

The School of Human Resources & Labor Relations in the College of Social Science at Michigan State University seeks applicants for a full-time tenure system position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in labor and employment relations. This position is an academic-year (nine-month) appointment with a beginning date of August 16, 2017.

We are particularly interested in applicants with research and teaching interests in labor and employment relations broadly defined, labor economics, work and organizations and applied research methods. Instructional responsibilities include teaching in our signature Master of Human Resources & Labor Relations program, our doctoral program and at the undergraduate level.

We seek applicants with demonstrated records of research and scholarship excellence and demonstrated records (or strong potential for success) in obtaining external funding to support one's research agenda. Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. in a relevant field such as employment relations & human resources, or related disciplines such as economics, sociology or political science prior to the beginning date.

Special instructions to applicants:

Applicants should complete an application and provide a cover letter outlining one's research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae and writing samples. To view the posting and apply for the position go to <https://jobs.msu.edu> and search on the "Faculty/Academic Staff" tab. Then go to posting #3744

The review of applications will begin September 1st, 2016 but applications will continue to be considered until this position is filled.

If you have questions about the process for applying online you should contact Annette Bacon at bacona@msu.edu, or by calling her at 517-355-1801. If you have other inquiries about the position (not related to the process of applying online), you may contact the Search Committee Chair, Dale Belman, at drdale@msu.edu. Applications and supporting materials must be submitted using the University's online application system, identified above.

The School of Human Resources & Labor Relations strongly encourages applications from women, persons of color, ethnic minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities. To find out more about the School, visit our website: www.hrlr.msu.edu

Start Date: Summer 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: $120,000 - $129,999

eJobs ID: 1689

University of Georgia

Rank: Margaret Hughes and Robert T. Golembiewski Professor of Public Administration

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, Administration

The University of Georgia's School of Public & International Affairs, Department of Public Administration and Policy invites applications for The Margaret Hughes and Robert T. Golembiewski Professorship in Public Administration. Appointment begins in August 2017. The position is an endowed professorship, held by a full professor with an outstanding record of scholarship, teaching, and professional activity in public administration, including any subfield of public administration.

A Ph.D. in public administration, political science, or other appropriate discipline is required. Teaching is primarily at the graduate level and includes courses in public administration and/or subtopics in public administration. Successful candidates will contribute to both our MPA and Ph.D. programs and demonstrate national and international leadership in research, combined with excellence in teaching and public service. Applications should include a cover letter, a curriculum vita, and contact information for three references.

Please apply using the FacultyJobs@UGA online system (<https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1001>). Include in your application (1) a cover letter (2) a curriculum vitae and (3) contact information for three references. If you have questions or would like more information, please contact Laura Bayne at 706-542-9660 or lbayne@uga.edu. Applications received by November 15, 2016 are guaranteed full consideration.

The University of Georgia is ranked 4th among Public Affairs programs by U.S. News & World Report. For more information, visit padp.uga.edu.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/15/2016

Date Posted: 8/1/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1614

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level to begin August 2017. The Department seeks candidates with a research and teaching specialization in any area of public administration or public policy. A completed Ph.D. is required prior to appointment.

Teaching responsibilities include graduate courses in the candidate's area of expertise in the Department's NASPAA accredited master's degree program in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses. Opportunities exist to teach doctoral courses. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate degree in political science and a master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu and upload a cover letter identifying teaching areas, teaching philosophy and research agenda, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), one writing sample, and a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

PA & Policy Search Committee

Department of Political Science and Public Administration

Auburn University at Montgomery

P.O. Box 244023

Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 7/29/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1686

University of Washington

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy & Governance, at the University of Washington, invites applications for two tenure-track faculty positions at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning in Fall 2017 (100% FTE, 9 month appointment, UW Job Class Code: 0113). Highest priority will be given to candidates whose work addresses institutional discrimination, race and economic inequality, equal opportunity, or the complexities of engaging marginalized communities in governance. Our School values diversity, rigor, and innovative approaches to public policy analysis and public management research and practice. We seek candidates from all disciplines that inform public policy and management, but are particularly interested in applicants with scholarship in one of the following areas: contemporary ethical issues; democratic theory and theories of justice; environmental policy; civil society and philanthropy; or urban and metropolitan issues.

Applicants should provide a formal letter of interest indicating teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, at least three letters of recommendation, samples of research work and teaching experience (with course evaluations if available), and a statement noting how their teaching, research and service have the potential to support the Evans School's commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. PhD in relevant field, or foreign equivalent required. All University of Washington faculty engage in teaching, research, and service.

The University of Washington's Daniel J. Evans School of Public Policy & Governance is recognized as one of the best public affairs programs in the country. Named after three-term Washington governor Daniel J. Evans, the School is located in close proximity to a strong public sector environment, and has partnerships with the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and other organizations leading the way to drive change for the public good. The UW offers one of the most exceptional research and teaching environments in the United States. Seattle is a region of explosive growth, global trade, technological advancement, a thriving nonprofit community, and a long history of progressive government. It is also a cultural metropolis surrounded by the unparalleled natural beauty of the Pacific Northwest. Seattle offers a quality of life that is among the highest in the country, with beautiful lakes and parks, incredible walkability, bike lanes, and a lively music and cultural scene.

The University of Washington is an affirmative action and equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, age, protected veteran or disabled status, or genetic information. In accord with the University's expressed commitment to excellence and equity, contributions in scholarship and research, teaching, and service that address diversity and equal opportunity are among the professional and scholarly qualifications for appointment and promotion.

Applications should be submitted to Interfolio (apply.interfolio.com/35931); initial review will begin October 1, 2016 and will continue until the positions are filled. Contact: Kimberly Hay, Assistant Director of Academic Services, kfs3903@uw.edu. Candidates who fail to satisfy minimum qualifications cannot be considered for this position.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1664

American University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor

Position Announcement: Assistant or Associate Professor
Department of Public Administration and Policy
School of Public Affairs
American University

The Department of Public Administration and Policy in the School of Affairs at American University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning August 1, 2017. Depending on qualifications, the appointee to this position may be recommended for tenure at the time of hiring. Applicants should have a PhD or an anticipated PhD completion by August 2017 in the field of Public Policy, Sociology, Political Science, or a related field.

We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality scholarship related to community resiliency. Potential areas of interest could include environmental disasters, public health problems, infrastructure inadequacies, and social and economic vulnerabilities. We welcome applicants who study how these issues differently impact individuals by race/ethnicity, gender, and social class. The ideal candidate would collaborate with the Metropolitan Policy Center or the Center for Environmental Policy. Teaching responsibilities will include courses in the school's Master of Public Policy, Master of Public Administration, and doctoral degree programs. Associate candidates will need to have an established track record of research and teaching. In addition to producing quality scholarship and effective teaching, responsibilities will include participation in department, school, and university service and related activities.

Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin on September 12, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. Please submit applications via apply.interfolio.com/35638. Include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, recent teaching evaluations (when possible), and copies of recently published articles or working papers. Applicants at the rank of Assistant Professor should include three reference letters and Associate faculty candidates should include a list of three references. Please email dpasearch@american.edu, if you have any questions.

American University is a private institution within easy reach of the many centers of government, business, research, and the arts located within the nation's capital. For more information about American University, visit www.american.edu.

Established in 1934, the School of Public Affairs offers undergraduate and graduate programs in the departments of Government; Justice, Law, & Criminology; and Public Administration & Policy. The Department of Public Administration & Policy offers six graduate degrees, an undergraduate minor, and several graduate certificates. Its programs are consistently ranked among the best in the field of public affairs by U.S. News & World Report. Learn more about the School of Public Affairs at www.american.edu/spa and about the Department of Public Administration & Policy at www.american.edu/dpap.

American University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The university does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws (collectively "Protected Bases") in its programs and activities. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/21/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1648

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at the University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor teaching public administration/public policy beginning August 2017. The position requires the ability to teach upper level courses in public administration and public policy (these could include introductory public administration, public personnel administration, public financial management and public policy; other related courses could also be developed). The teaching of an introductory American Government course is expected. Candidate must demonstrate excellence in teaching and potential of research agenda. Research focus is open but should not duplicate existing faculty specializations. PhD in Political Science must be in hand by the time of appointment. Prior university teaching experience strongly preferred. Responsibilities include a 4/4 teaching load (a minimum of 2 preparations per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, and broader community.

Women and minorities are strongly encouraged to apply. USCA is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Under a three hour drive from Charlotte and Atlanta respectively, the University of South Carolina Aiken has consistently ranked among the top three public baccalaureate colleges in the South by U.S. News & World Report's annual "America's Best Colleges" guide. USCA is also a recipient of The Chronicle of Higher Education's "Best Place to Work" designation, with top honors for collaborative governance and confidence in senior leadership, and has been designated a Military-Friendly School by Victory Media. Founded in 1961, USC Aiken has grown to serve more than 3,200 students on its beautiful 453-acre campus. USC Aiken is a comprehensive liberal arts institution with talented faculty committed to active learning through excellence in teaching, undergraduate research, scholarship, and civic engagement. A 15:1 student-faculty ratio allows for highly engaged pedagogies with USC Aiken selected as the college of choice by students from 29 states and 20 countries. According to the National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE), USC Aiken seniors rank the campus as contributing to their knowledge, skills and personal development at rates significantly higher than other institutions that participate in the survey. Visit: www.usca.edu

Applicants must apply online at:

<https://uscjobs.sc.edu/applicants/jsp/shared/frameset/frameset.jsp?time=1468858963397>

Applicants must fully complete the online application form and upload a letter of interest and current curriculum vitae there. Applicants should send separately three letters of reference, a sample syllabus, a teaching statement, and a writing sample (e.g. article, paper, chapter length) to:

Mrs. Carol McKay
College of Humanities and Social Sciences
471 University Parkway
Aiken, SC 29801

The application deadline is September 30, 2016. Additional materials may be sought at a later date from applicants selected for telephone interviews.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/18/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1631

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science and Economics invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science beginning in Fall 2017. The position is open to candidates specializing in public policy, public administration, or a related field, with a particular focus on the politics of health policy. Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics, as well as a course in quantitative methods. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2017. To assure full consideration, completed applications must be received by October 20, 2016. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://rowanuniversity.hodesiq.com/jobs/assistant-professor-of-political-science-aft-glassboro-new-jersey-job-5301829>. Rowan will have representatives at the APSA annual meeting in Philadelphia. Please email Lawrence Markowitz to request a meeting at markowitzl@rowan.edu.

Submit a cover letter, a C.V., unofficial transcripts, and teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/20/2016

Date Posted: 7/15/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1625

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics at the rank of assistant professor with a specialization in American political institutions, to begin August 2017. The successful candidate will have a productive and rigorous research agenda, excel in the classroom, and seek ways to integrate their scholarship and teaching. Candidates should have an active research agenda focused on the U.S. Congress and be prepared to teach introduction to American government and upper-division courses on Congress and the Presidency. The Department is interested in candidates who can also add to our course offerings in one of the following areas: public policy, political parties and interest groups, race/ethnicity and politics, or gender and politics. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester, and all faculty can apply for a competitive course reduction of one course per academic year. A PhD is preferred, but the College will consider ABDs if the degree will be granted by time of appointment. Applications received by September 16, 2016, will receive full consideration.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ is a highly selective institution that has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its nearly 6,000 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of NYC and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. The School of Humanities and Social Sciences enrolls over 2,000 majors in 14 academic programs. The Department of Political Science includes seven tenure-line faculty positions and supports over 160 political science majors and 100 international studies majors. For more information, visit www.tcnj.edu.

Please submit the following materials to ampolsearch@tcnj.edu as email attachments: 1) a cover letter describing qualifications and research and teaching interests, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) unofficial graduate transcript, 4) up to two scholarly writing samples, 5) relevant sample syllabi, 6) evidence of teaching effectiveness, and 7) contact information for three to five references. Applicants should also have at least three referees submit confidential letters of recommendation directly to ampolsearch@tcnj.edu.

Representatives of the department will conduct informational interviews with potential candidates at APSA in Philadelphia. Interested candidates should send an electronic copy of their CV to ampolsearch@tcnj.edu. Please contact Daniel Bowen (bowend@tcnj.edu) with any questions about the position.

The College of New Jersey is an Affirmative-Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 9/16/2016
Date Posted: 7/12/2016
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1610

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor (Public Policy)
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno is soliciting applications for a tenure-track, full-time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Public Policy to begin in the Fall semester of 2017. The focus is on a Policy generalist who can offer courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels covering policy theory, policy implementation, and ideally policy analysis. We are open to a variety of substantive policy areas candidates may be pursuing, but those with a link to environmental and/or energy policy are preferred. Research methodology is open, although candidates with statistical methods skills and the ability to teach an MPA course in Policy Analysis are strongly preferred. The selected applicant will be expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower division undergraduate, upper division undergraduate and graduate MA/MPA/PhD). Courses will include offerings in support of a traditional MPA curriculum. Applicants should demonstrate a strong potential for research publication and there is an expectation that the individual hired will have some ability to attract external funding.

Position is open until filled, but review of applications will begin October 7, 2016.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field in hand by August 15, 2017 for appointment as an Assistant Professor. A background check may be conducted on the candidate(s) selected for hire.

To apply online: <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/21273>

HR will attempt to verify academic credentials upon receipt of hiring documents. If the academic credentials cannot be verified, HR will notify the faculty member that an official transcript of their highest degree must be submitted within thirty days of the faculty member's first day of employment.

The University of Nevada, Reno is committed to Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action in recruitment of its students and employees and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, creed, national origin, veteran status, physical or mental disability, and sexual orientation. The University of Nevada, Reno employs only United States citizens and aliens lawfully authorized to work in the United States. Women, under-represented groups, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/6/2016
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 1591

Bethel University

Rank: Political Science Faculty (Three Year Appointment)

Bethel University College of Arts & Sciences in St. Paul, MN is seeking applications for a full-time, three year faculty appointment in the Department of Political Science, to begin Fall 2017.

Responsibilities: Teach seven courses or equivalent per year. Teaching assignments may include American Government and Politics, American Political Institutions, Modern Political Thought, American Political Ideologies, and American Public Policy, as well as participation in an interdisciplinary, team-taught General Education course. Other faculty responsibilities include promoting and coordinating pre-law advising, academic advising, faculty committee service, and departmental assignments as appropriate.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science; ABD will be considered. Teaching experience preferred, including demonstrated ability to teach courses in American Government and Politics, and Political Theory in particular. Candidates must be strongly committed to the educational mission and evangelical Christian orientation of the university. They must demonstrate the ability to contribute to Bethel's anti-racism efforts and cross-cultural understanding.

Salary and rank commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Apply online at www.bethel.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/1/2016

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 1577

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester 2017 at the level of assistant professor. The successful applicant will be a broadly trained political scientist with a primary field of comparative politics. The candidate will be expected to develop courses in comparative public administration, comparative public policy and political economy. An ability to teach introduction to American government would be an asset. Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, or public policy are required.

Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education. Candidates with quantitative and/or qualitative methodological skills preferred. Interested applicants should apply online at the following url:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Review of applications will begin October 17.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 6/28/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1567

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Urban Politics, Economic Policy, Health Care

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in public policy to begin August 2017. The Department seeks candidates with a research and teaching specialization in any of the following areas of public policy: health policy, social policy, economic development, community development, sustainable development, intergovernmental relations, state and local government, and/or urban policy. Expertise in these areas is expected to be in the context of the United States. Candidates also must possess the capacity to contribute to departmental efforts to increase community outreach and engagement with government officials and practitioners in the greater Montgomery area. A completed Ph.D. is required prior to appointment.

Teaching responsibilities normally include undergraduate courses offered to political science majors and graduate courses in the candidate's area of expertise in the Department's NASPAA accredited master's degree program in public administration. Opportunities exist to teach doctoral courses. The teaching load is three courses per semester.

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration includes nine tenure-track faculty and offers an undergraduate degree in political science and a master's degree in public administration. It also offers a Ph.D. in Public Administration and Public Policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Review of applications will begin October 1, 2016. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu and upload a cover letter identifying teaching areas, teaching philosophy and research agenda, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript(s), one writing sample, and a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

Public Policy Search Committee
Department of Political Science and Public Administration
Auburn University at Montgomery
P.O. Box 244023
Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2016

Date Posted: 6/16/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1549

Iowa State University

Rank: Lecturer

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Iowa State University invites applications for a Full or Part-Time Lecturer position to teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses within one or more of the political science subfields: Theory and Methods, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, or Public Policy Administration. The appointment duration may be one semester to three years depending on department need and it may be Full-Time or Part-Time.

Required Education and Experience: MA or MPA in Political Science or related discipline, or JD. Evidence of scholarly and teaching activities.

Preferred Education and Experience: ABD or Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline.

Evidence of scholarly and teaching activities

To apply for this position, please click on "Apply to this job" at <http://www.iastatejobs.com:80/postings/18263> and complete the Employment Application. Please be prepared to enter or attach the following:

- 1) Resume/Curriculum Vitae
- 2) Letter of Application/Cover Letter
- 3) Contact Information for Three References
- 4) Statement of Teaching Interests/Experience
- 5) Statement of Teaching Evaluations- Optional- Please attach as "Other Document(s) 1"

If you have questions regarding this application process, please email employment@iastate.edu or call 515-294-4800 or Toll Free: 1-877-477-7485.

All offers of employment, oral and written, are contingent upon the university's verification of credentials and other information required by federal and state law, ISU policies/procedures, and may include the completion of a background check.

The Department of Political Science has 15 tenure track faculty and a vibrant MA program which serves approximately 32 students and an undergraduate major with approximately 260 majors. Please visit the following site for additional information about the Department at <http://www.pols.iastate.edu/>

Iowa State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, age, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, marital status, disability, or protected veteran status, and will not be discriminated against. Inquiries can be directed to the Director of Equal Opportunity, 3350 Beardshear Hall, (515) 294-7612.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 4/26/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1433

University of Texas at El Paso

Rank: Director of African American Studies

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

Specializations: African American Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

DIRECTOR, AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES PROGRAM

The University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) seeks a dynamic scholar and leader for the position of Director of African American Studies. Founded more than twenty years ago, African American Studies at UTEP offers a rich mix of programming linking students, faculty, staff and members of the community in the El Paso border region and beyond. This context provides exciting opportunities to explore the intersections of African American and Latina/o experiences and draw on UTEP's important civil rights history.

The Director of African American Studies is a member of the UTEP College of Liberal Arts Chairs' Council and has responsibility for leadership of the academic program and research activities associated with African American Studies. The Director generally teaches one course each semester and could also participate in UTEP PhD programs related to their scholarly and research interests. With staff assistance, the Director serves as an advisor for the UTEP Black Student Union and a mentor for many students enrolled in programs throughout the University. The Director works with the UTEP Black Alumni Network (UBAN) and with community partners to build support for African American Studies and address relevant social issues at UTEP and in the El Paso community. The Director and staff, working in collaboration with UTEP students, affiliated faculty, campus organizations and other University and community officials, sponsor a variety of events and activities throughout the year, including Black History Month programs, and initiate new avenues of engagement and outreach.

Required Qualifications: Candidates should have a Ph.D. in African American Studies or a related academic disciplinary area, and possess a strong record of scholarship commensurate with an appointment as Professor or Associate Professor with Tenure in an appropriate UTEP academic department or program. Demonstrable experience in serving in an administrative role, engaging in community outreach, and initiating and expanding a new program is highly desirable.

About UTEP and El Paso: Located in one of the largest binational communities in the world, The University of Texas at El Paso is unique among research institutions. UTEP enrolls more than 23,000 students, close to 80% of whom are Latina/o and a majority of whom are the first in their families to attend a university. Ranked overall among the Top 10 universities in the nation by Washington Monthly and #1 for contributing to student social mobility, UTEP is dedicated to becoming the first national research university with a 21st century student demographic. The African American Studies program is housed in the College of Liberal Arts, which is the largest college at the University. In addition to playing a major role in the delivery of the University Core Curriculum to all UTEP students, the College of Liberal Arts serves approximately 7,000 students with majors in 13 departments and 10 programs, including Women's and Gender Studies, Religious Studies, Chicano Studies, Asian Studies and African American Studies.

Application procedures: To apply, applicants must submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita, a recent publication related to the field, and names of three references with their complete contact information. Review of applications will begin April 11, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Application materials, in one PDF file, should be emailed to: Dr. Maryse Jayasuriya, Search Committee Chair, at mjayasuriya@utep.edu

The University of Texas at El Paso is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. The University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation or gender identity in employment or the provision of services.

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/22/2016

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 1377

Middle Georgia State University

Rank: Part-Time Instructor(s)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

Middle Georgia State University has part-time employment opportunities for instructors for face-to-face classes on all campuses (Macon, Warner Robins, Cochran, Dublin, and Eastman) for day, evening, and weekend classes to start Fall 2016 or later in the fields of history and political science. We have particular needs for instructors who are interested in teaching one or more of the following courses:

POLS 1101 American Government
 POLS 2501 Domestic Issues
 POLS 2601 Intro to Public Administration

The Macon campus is located just over one hour's drive southeast of Atlanta.

Minimum Qualifications: To qualify for a teaching position, candidates are required to have a minimum of a master's degree in political science or a master's in another field with at least 18 graduate semester hours in the discipline.

To Apply: Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest with a current CV or resume, unofficial transcripts from both undergraduate and graduate courses, a list of at least two professional references including email and phone contact information, and statement of teaching philosophy, preferably combined as an attachment in a single PDF file, to Dr. Christopher N. Lawrence, assistant department chair, at christopher.lawrence@mga.edu. Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis. Informal inquiries welcome.

Middle Georgia State University is a Unit of the University System of Georgia, EEO/AA/M/F/V/D.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 1/5/2016
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 1170

University of San Diego

Rank: Professor of Practice, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a non-tenure track Professor of Practice in public administration and public policy. Candidates must have a Master's degree or PhD in political science, public administration, public policy, or a closely related field, teaching experience at the community college or university level, practical experience in local or state government, and the capacity to integrate theory with practice.

The successful candidate must be qualified to teach courses in American politics, urban politics, public policy, and/or state and local government. The teaching load is seven courses per academic year, which includes one internship class each semester. In addition, the candidate will supervise our continuously offered Washington, D.C. internship program and run a 1-unit weekend Sacramento seminar each spring semester.

As a Professor of Practice, the successful candidate must have extensive local, state, and/or national political, legal, and business connections, and will supervise the department's dynamic internship program, including the department's Washington DC internship and seminar program. Responsibilities will include developing new internship opportunities, to further enhance our students' professional development.

USD offers a competitive salary and benefits.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest, a CV, a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of reference at their earliest convenience. The position will remain open until filled.

To apply, go to www.sandiego.edu/jobs and look for job IRC18893. Applicants must email all relevant materials— except for confidential letters of recommendation— to dickson@sandiego.edu and upload the same materials to the USD Human Resources site. References must submit confidential letters of recommendation separately to: dickson@sandiego.edu.

Please address all correspondence to Dr. Del Dickson, Chair, Search Committee for Professor of Practice, Department of Political Science and International Relations, 5998 Alcalá Park, San Diego, CA 92110

USD is a private, independent Catholic liberal arts institution dedicated to excellence in teaching, scholarship, and service. USD is an Equal Opportunity employer, and is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community. Candidates from underrepresented and underserved groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2016
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/19/2015
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 1028

University of Southern Mississippi

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The University of Southern Mississippi's Department of Political Science, International Development and International Affairs in Hattiesburg, Miss., is accepting applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the field of American politics (political institutions). Additional strength in public policy/public administration is also desirable. The successful candidate will be able to teach Introduction to American Government and assist with the department's research methods sequences. Ph.D. is required at the time of appointment. Candidates are expected to provide evidence of potential for excellence in teaching, research and service. The department serves both the Hattiesburg and Gulf Park campuses and includes a strong undergraduate program, MA and MS in political science and a Ph.D. in international development. The successful candidate will develop and teach undergraduate and graduate courses, and contribute broadly to our master's programs as well as conduct scholarly research and provide service to the department, college, university, profession and/or community.

Review of applications will begin November 15, 2015, and continue until the position is filled. A full application will include a letter of interest, curriculum vita, teaching evaluations (if available), graduate transcripts, a writing sample and at least three letters of reference. To apply, please see <http://jobs.usm.edu>

The position is contingent on funding.

The department is committed to improving its diversity in terms of race, ethnicity and gender. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer/Americans with Disabilities Act institution, The University of Southern Mississippi encourages minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities to apply.

For more information, please see the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Political Science, International Development and International Affairs website at <http://usm.edu/polisci>

Start Date: Fall 2016

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2015

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 949