

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

December 2017 | Volume 6, Issue 12

ISSN 2167-8332

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4
American Government and Politics 10
Comparative Politics 48
International Relations 91
Methodology 146
Non-Academic 163
Other 163
Political Theory 193
Public Administration 220
Public Law 235
Public Policy 245

About the Journal

Published monthly by the American Political Science Association, Political Science Jobs is an online journal containing all active jobs in political science as listed in the APSA online job board eJobs. The combined resource of the Political Science Jobs journal and the daily updated and fully searchable eJobs platform provides a comprehensive employment resource for political science and supports a transparent, efficient, and ethically-grounded labor market for the discipline.

Access to the journal is made freely accessible to APSA's over 14,000 individual and departmental members within the US and around the world.

Submissions

Job listings may be submitted to the journal via the online eJobs platform at www.apsanet.org/jobs and applicable fees may apply.

Online Access: www.apsanet.org/jobs

The core content in this journal draws upon active listings within eJobs, linkages to association programs and career resources. Readers are encouraged to visit the eJobs website for daily updates on new job listings and candidate resumes, and use the online features including search tool to locate listings by field of interest, employer or candidate name, region, keyword, position, salary, institution type, and most recent submissions.

Copyright © 2012
American Political Science Association
All rights reserved

APSA does not grant permission to any individual or party to republish or otherwise distribute this journal or any portion therein in any print or electronic form.

POLITICAL SCIENCE JOBS

December 2017 | Volume 6, Issue 12

ISSN 2167-8332

Online journal from the American Political Science Association

In this Issue

Career Resources

Finding a Job in Political Science 3

Job Listings

Administration 4 (10 listings)

American Government and Politics 10 (90 listings)

Comparative Politics 48 (95 listings)

International Relations 91 (115 listings)

Methodology 146 (39 listings)

Non-Academic 163 (59 listings)

Other 163 (47 listings)

Political Theory 193 (32 listings)

Public Administration 220 (23 listings)

Public Law 235 (72 listings)

Public Policy 245 (listings)

Total listings this issue 582

Resources and Guidance on Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.Ds. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
 - departmental and institutional committee work,
 - professional or disciplinary activities, and
 - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - access to research materials and equipment,
 - the employment of research assistants,
 - research expenses on/off campus, and
 - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
 - the development of teaching expertise,
 - innovations in teaching, and
 - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
 - the average course load,
 - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
 - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
 - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
 - family needs of faculty and staff, and
 - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

More on the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program

For more information about the JCQ program and to view the departments who agreed to answer these questions at www.apsanet.org/JCQ.

Political Science Jobs for December

ADMINISTRATION

University of Reading

Rank: Professor of War and Conflict Studies

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Administration

Specializations: Defense, International Security, Conflict Processes

The Department of Politics and International Relations at the University of Reading is seeking to appoint a Professor of War and Conflict Studies, to further strengthen our research profile in this area, and lead our engagement with defence and security actors. The successful candidate will be an outstanding scholar and excellent teacher, who can provide leadership in research, grant applications, and outreach. The successful candidate will enhance the department's existing relationship with the British military in both teaching and research activities, and play a central role in our Ways of War Centre. The department appreciates that war and conflict can be studied from different perspectives, and thus welcomes excellent candidates with backgrounds in International Relations, War Studies, International Security, Conflict Studies, Strategic Studies, Organisational Behaviour, Public Policy, Political Psychology and related disciplines.

This is an exciting time to join the department. Politics and International Relations is ranked among the top 10 politics departments in the UK by research intensity in the 2014 Research Excellence Framework (REF). We are a dynamic department with internationally recognised strength in Conflict, Security, and Strategy; International Relations; Applied Political Theory; Comparative Politics, and Public Policy Analysis. We are a partner in the £14 million Army Higher Education Pathway project to design and deliver online BSc and MSc teaching to approximately 500 cadets per year from the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst and the Defence Academy at Shrivenham.

Further details and application materials: <https://jobs.reading.ac.uk/displayjob.aspx?jobid=2334>

Informal discussion and questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Jonathan Golub, Head of Department, j.s.golub@reading.ac.uk

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/16/2018

Date Posted: 11/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3835

University of Georgia

Rank: Director

The University of Georgia's highly ranked School of Public and International Affairs is seeking applications for the Director of the Center for International Trade and Security (CITS). The successful candidate must have a teaching and academic record appropriate for an academic professional faculty position (non-tenured) with adjunct faculty status in the School's Department of International Affairs and must have a strong record of grant and contract acquisition and of fundraising. A terminal degree is required in policy, law, science, technology, or engineering. At least ten years of demonstrated success in acquiring contracts and grants in the arenas of national and/or international security is required.

The Center for International Trade and Security's mission encompasses the safety and security of chemical, biological, radiological, and nuclear materials, and strategic trade controls on dual use products related to both WMD and conventional weapons. The Center is eager to broaden its scope to address other unconventional threats to national security, such as cybersecurity, threats to energy infrastructure, and terrorism.

The Center has a distinguished record of policy research, training, and outreach projects in dozens of countries. CITS's Security and Strategic Trade Management Academy alone has trained more than 800 government officials, academics and industry representatives from 70 countries on how to establish, or implement and enforce strategic trade controls. The Center's programs are sustained by private foundation grants, individual and corporate gifts, and corporate and government contracts. Applications received by December 1, 2017, are assured consideration. Please apply using the FacultyJobs@UGA online system (<https://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/3022>), where additional information about the position is available.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3805

Purdue University

Rank: Department Head and Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science, College of Liberal Arts at Purdue University seeks applications for position of Head. The position will be available July 1, 2018 with a five-year renewable term as Head reporting to the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Applicants should have scholarly credentials commensurate with the rank of full professor. The field of specialization is open.

The successful candidate will have an excellent record of research and teaching and a PhD in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline. Desired qualifications include a record of attracting external funding, teaching excellence, and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. Candidates must have a record of research and publications suitable for an appointment as a full professor with tenure and should demonstrate leadership/administrative ability.

Duties include stewardship of the programmatic and intellectual agendas of the Department of Political Science; management of department resources; recruitment and retention of faculty, staff, and students; demonstration of a commitment to excellence in teaching; guidance of faculty working toward tenure and promotion; advocacy on behalf of the department's mission; and representation of the department to administrative offices and on the Council of Department Heads.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. We have strengths in cross-cutting research areas including the politics of groups and identities (race, class, ethnicity, and gender), environmental politics and policy, and human security and political violence. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus and anticipates developing a professional master's program in public policy. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to PolSciHeadSearch@purdue.edu. Applications should include a curriculum vitae and a letter of application. The letter should outline approaches to departmental leadership and research and teaching interests. Names of references will be requested from finalists.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these areas in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests of activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin on December 8, 2017, but applications received after this date will be accepted until the position is filled. Please address questions to search committee chair Dr. Linda Renzulli, renzulli@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3750

The University of Arizona

Rank: Faculty/Department Head

The University of Arizona Department of Political Economy and Moral Science anticipates appointing a tenured faculty member with an appointment beginning as early as the fall of 2018. The position is contingent upon funding. Rank: Full or Associate Professor. The successful candidate will serve, for at least one five-year term, as Head of the new Department of Political Economy and Moral Science. A record of successful administration, research, and teaching is required, with a preference for candidates with a record of success as Department Head. The successful candidate will have a distinguished research record in moral and social philosophy broadly construed, "PPE" (Philosophy, Politics and Economics) or political economy. Candidates must be willing to teach both graduate level courses and courses in the Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law undergraduate major. A Ph.D. in philosophy, political science or economics is required.

The Center emphatically welcomes applications from scholars with diverse disciplinary perspectives and methods who are eager to work in a collaborative setting. Applications should include a letter of application along with a current curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching experience, a statement of research objectives, and a detailed description of administrative current and past responsibilities. Application materials and nominations should be addressed to Professor Jerry Gaus, Department of Political Economy and Moral Sciences, 213 Social Sciences, University of Arizona, Tucson, AZ 85721-0027. Application materials should be submitted in hard copy. This announcement appears in various venues. Review of materials to begin on November 1, 2017 and to continue until the positions are filled. The University of Arizona is an EEO/AA/M/W/D/V employer with a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of diversity among its faculty and staff.

Applicants will also need to apply online at ucareers.com and reference posting #F21172

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/7/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3752

University of Missouri, St. Louis

Rank: Dean

The University of Missouri-St. Louis is searching for an engaged and dynamic Dean of the Pierre Laclède Honors College (PLHC). We seek a leader who believes passionately in the value of honors education and the unique curricular and extra-curricular experiences it provides students. Additionally, we seek a leader who understands the challenges and importance of the role that honors plays in recruiting and retaining high-achieving students to the university.

The University of Missouri-St. Louis is the largest public research institution located in Missouri's most diverse, populous, and economically vibrant region. The university has over 16,000 students, including over 8000 on-campus undergraduates. UMSL is a part of the University of Missouri land-grant system and is classified as RU-H (high research activity) and as a Community Engaged Campus by Carnegie rankings.

The PLHC is a small college with a liberal arts mission inside this larger, research-engaged, public university. The College provides interesting and innovative seminar courses, full service academic advising, a First Year Experience program, a writing program and an internship/independent study program to approximately 600 students who earn an Honors Certificate upon completing the curriculum. The PLHC offers approximately 50 classes per semester, most with enrollment limited entirely or predominantly to Honors students. These students come from all majors, with our largest populations pursuing degrees in business, biology, nursing, psychology, engineering, and English. Incoming students have an average 3.6 GPA, 85% class rank, and 27 ACT composite. The PLHC is located near the Oak Hall residence which is home to the honors living learning community. Our dedicated PLHC staff includes an associate dean, five non-tenure track faculty members, an academic advisor, a student recruitment specialist, an office support staff member, and a business support staff member.

Position

The dean is a campus leader who guides curriculum development, community engagement, and the College's mission and vision. The dean is responsible for strategic planning, budget management, fundraising, faculty and staff supervision, and representation of PLHC in campus shared governance processes. The dean also negotiates relationships with other campus units and stakeholders. Within the PHLC, the dean will also support and participate in the College's admissions processes (interviewing prospective students) and full-service mission (academic advising). As the chief academic and administrative officer at the PLHC, the dean reports directly to the Provost/Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs.

Qualifications

The PLHC seeks an innovative leader who is committed to honors education, particularly its learner-directed pedagogy, interdisciplinary curriculum, and emphasis on student development and scholarship, creativity, leadership, and extra-curricular opportunities. The Dean will guide the College toward greater engagement with the local community and with national and regional honors organizations.

The successful candidate must have a terminal degree and a successful record of teaching, advising, scholarship, service and academic accomplishments appropriate for appointment as Associate Professor or Professor (tenure track) or Teaching Professor (non-tenure track).

Other desired qualifications include:

- Significant experience in an honors college or program;
- University administrative experience at the departmental level or higher, with preference for administrative experience in honors;
- An enthusiasm for and proven track record of raising funds from a variety of sources, including private donors, foundations, government agencies, and alumni;
- Strong leadership, communication, and interpersonal skills;
- Expertise in developing diverse and inclusive learning and working environments;
- Record of collaborative leadership, applicable to both shared governance within the college and to its relationship with other units and stakeholders on campus;
- Understanding of the role of General Education in developing key competencies and literacies that establish the foundational bases of student success in major fields and future pursuits;
- Understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of honors curriculums and the role of Honors as a laboratory for curricular innovation;
- Knowledge about different curricular and structural models for honors colleges and the roles honors plays in a university;
- Dedication toward recruitment and retention and an understanding of the unique approaches that characterize recruitment and retention of honors students.

How to Apply

Nominations, applications, and inquiries can be made through our Executive Search Website at <http://www.umsl.edu/searches/index.html>. Formal review of applications and nominations will begin December 1 and continue until the position is filled. Application materials should include a letter addressing the qualifications for the position and a current C.V.

The University of Missouri–St. Louis is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity employer, committed to excellence through diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3728

Portland State University

Rank: Director

Portland State University seeks Director of the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government

Click here to view position profile. https://summitsearchsolutions.com/wp-content/uploads/2017/10/PSU_HatfieldSOG_Profile.pdf

Location: Portland, Oregon

The Director of the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government (HSOG) provides leadership and coordination among its various Programs, Centers, and Institutes, and articulates a strategic vision for how the School can thrive and expand its impact. The Director works with a diverse staff, across multiple disciplines and topic areas, and with numerous organizations and constituencies both internal and external to the University. In particular, the Director's role is to:

- 1) Raise the visibility of the School in the community, state and nation;
- 2) Seek extramural projects and funding related to research and partnerships;
- 3) Support advancement of Centers and Institutes in the School and their connectivity to the community and to the broader University;
- 4) Oversee the School's two interdisciplinary degree programs: Master of Public Policy and PhD in Public Affairs and Policy; and
- 5) Recognize and promote connectivity among School faculty, staff, and students.

The Director reports to the Dean of the College of Urban and Public Affairs and sits on the Dean's Executive Committee. This is a twelve-month position, with a five-year renewable term, and will be offered to the candidate of choice with indefinite tenure at the rank of professor. The Director typically teaches one course in each of the three terms of the academic year, often in the interdisciplinary degree programs, but teaching responsibilities are negotiable.

Qualifications:

- Doctorate in one of HSOG's disciplines or a related field, and scholarly achievement commensurate with appointment at the rank of tenured full Professor. Candidates of extraordinary accomplishment outside academia may also be considered.
- Administrative experience directing an academic unit, program, center, or institute.
- Passion for and experience in interdisciplinary research and/or teaching.
- Experience working with community partners and other stakeholders, with a track record of securing external funding and contracts.
- Ability to work productively with a diverse faculty, staff, and student population.

Key cultural competencies:

- Creates an environment that acknowledges, encourages and celebrates differences.
- Functions and communicates effectively and respectfully within the context of varying beliefs, behaviors, orientations, identities and cultural backgrounds.
- Seeks opportunities to gain experience working and collaborating in diverse, multicultural, and inclusive settings with a willingness to change for continual improvement.

- Willingness to adhere to and support adherence to all PSU policies including the policies on Prohibited Discrimination & Harassment and the Professional Standards of Conduct.

About the Mark O. Hatfield School of Government

The Hatfield School of Government was created in 1999 to honor the legacy of Mark O. Hatfield, a public servant who served as both Oregon Governor and U.S. Senator. Hatfield's independent spirit, strong moral compass, and commitment to the public good are hallmarks of his leadership style and public service. The School's first Director was appointed in 2000 and the current Director recently stepped down in preparation for retirement. The Hatfield School offers real-world application of studies only steps away from the classroom. Students actively engage in a variety of hands-on public service projects throughout Oregon, the nation, and the world. Locally renowned, the Hatfield School has also gained national prestige as one of the top 50 Public Affairs graduate programs in the nation, according to the 2016 U.S. News and World Report rankings.

The Hatfield School is home to three academic departments whose chairs report to the Dean: Criminology & Criminal Justice, Political Science and Public Administration. All departments offer undergraduate and graduate programs in addition to two programs offered by multiple units in the School: Master of Public Policy and PhD in Public Affairs and Policy. The School is also home to the multiple centers and institutes including the National Policy Consensus Center, the Center for Public Service, the Institute for Tribal Governance, the Nonprofit Institute, the Center for Turkish Studies, and the Center for Women's Leadership.

The Hatfield School of Government is part of the College of Urban and Public Affairs (CUPA). CUPA is among the oldest colleges of its kind in the country. CUPA's academic programs prepare students to be effective leaders, collaborators, and problem-solvers. The College now contains, in addition to the Hatfield School of Government, the Toulan School of Urban Studies & Planning, the Department of Economics, and the Department of International and Global Studies. The College is dedicated to public service and social justice and does more than teach as it prepares students for community leadership and for making the world a better place.

About Portland State University

Portland State University (PSU) is Oregon's urban research university recognized for excellence in sustainability and community engagement, and is located in the heart of downtown Portland. PSU offers more than 200 degrees with opportunities to work with businesses, schools and organizations on real-world projects. The University's reputation is built on excellence through accessibility, innovation, collaboration, engagement, sustainability, and transformation. As the state's only urban public university, Portland State provides comprehensive undergraduate education as well as professional education to thousands of Oregonians as well as to students from over 90 countries around the globe. Portland State is renowned for innovative academic programs and excellence – particularly in fields related to urban and public affairs; business administration; science, technology, and sustainability – that combine student learning, research, and community engagement. The university's programs continue to garner national recognition and rankings and it was named one of the top ten innovative universities in the country (US News and World Report 2016-2017). To see an up-to-date list of the outstanding PSU rankings and references by Princeton Review, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and other nationally respected organizations, please click on the following link: <http://www.pdx.edu/profile/portland-state-university-rankings-and-references>.

Portland State University's motto is "Let Knowledge Serve the City." The University is an anchor institution, providing the Portland region with a highly-educated population, substantial economic impact, and distinctive contributions to its culture. The University promotes access, inclusion and equity as pillars of excellence. It is committed to curiosity, collaboration, stewardship and sustainability; strives for excellence and innovation that solves problems, and believes everyone should be treated with integrity and respect.

Portland State University has approximately 27,200 students with over 21,000 undergraduates and 5,600 graduate students. Some 62 percent of the students are full time, approximately 76 percent are residents of Oregon, and 64 percent are transfer students. The university has approximately 7,000 employees, including research and instructional faculty, academic professionals, managers, and staff and administrators.

For more information about Portland State University, click here: <http://www.pdx.edu/aboutpsu>

Procedure to apply:

While review of applications and nominations will be accepted until the position is filled, parties who apply by December 11, 2017 will be given first consideration. To apply online, go to <http://www.highereddecisions.com/sss/> and select this vacancy. Please submit a PDF version of your curriculum vitae and letter of interest upon application. All applications and nominations will be held in confidence.

The projected start date for the Director is July 1, 2018.

For nominations or further information:

Beth Baldino
Senior Consultant
Summit Search Solutions, Inc.
Direct: (828) 645-8967
bbaldino@summitsearchsolutions.com

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3720

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Director

The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) of the University of Pennsylvania is searching for a Director of the Center for the Advanced Study of India (CASI), who would also hold a tenured faculty position, to begin on July 1, 2018. Founded in 1992, CASI is the first research institution in the United States dedicated to the study of contemporary India. A national resource, it fills an urgent need for objective knowledge of India's politics and society, rapidly changing economy, and transformation as both an ancient civilization and major contemporary power. The Center's key goals are to nurture a new generation of scholars across disciplines and to provide a forum for dialogue among the academic, business, and foreign policy communities.

The Director should be distinguished by intellectual merit that meets the tenure standards at a major research university. The search is not limited to academics in traditional appointments, but the successful candidate would have a departmental home and an established reputation with the academy and the broader community. We prefer candidates whose research has policy relevance and concerns development issues broadly construed. The search is open to scholars from multiple disciplines, including but not limited to anthropology, economics, political science, public policy and administration, and sociology, and the candidate must be able to foster work from multiple disciplines and across disciplinary lines. The candidate is expected to teach in appropriate SAS undergraduate and graduate programs.

The successful candidate will have strong networks with scholars and relevant practitioners in India and a demonstrated capacity to direct a pre-eminent center, including skills of institutional entrepreneurship, constituency-building, staff development, governance, finances, fundraising, and overall management. These skills may have been acquired in either an academic or non-academic setting.

Appointment as Director will be for a five year renewable term. The Director will also hold the Madan Lal Sobti Chair for the Study of Contemporary India.

Please submit an application at <http://facultysearches.provost.upenn.edu/postings/1303> Include a letter of interest and a current curriculum vitae or resumé. Applications will be considered as they are received, and continue until the position is filled. The School of Arts and Sciences is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to creating a more diverse faculty (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>). The University of Pennsylvania is an EOE. Minorities/Women/Individuals with disabilities/Protected Veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3717

The Bush School of Government & Public Service, Texas A&M University

Rank: Department Head

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2018, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and non-profit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tamuedu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective.

The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3679

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3560

SUNY, University at Albany

Rank: Nonprofit Management and Policy, Assistant/Associate Professor

About University at Albany:

Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy is part of the University at Albany. Established in 1844 and designated a University Center of the State University of New York in 1962, the University at Albany's broad mission of excellence in undergraduate and graduate education, research and public service engages a diverse student body of more than 17,300 students in nine schools and colleges across three campuses. About one third of our undergraduates are the first in their family to go to college. In fall 2016, approximately 32 percent of all students at the University at Albany were students of color or of mixed race/ethnicity, and approximately 11 percent were international students.

Rockefeller College is home to a diverse group of scholars interested in teaching and research on issues of importance in the public and nonprofit sectors. Ranked 19th overall by US News and World Report, the Department of Public Administration and Policy offers an undergraduate major, a Master in Public Administration (MPA), and a PhD in Public Administration and Policy. The Department is nationally ranked in Information Technology Management, Public Management, Nonprofit Management, Public Policy Analysis, and Public Finance and Budgeting. We actively seek and support demographic diversity in our faculty and student body. To learn more about the Department visit our website at <http://www.albany.edu/rockefeller/pad.shtml>.

Located in Albany, New York, New York State's capital, the University is convenient to Boston, New York City and the Adirondacks.

Job Description:

The Department of Public Administration & Policy in the University at Albany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs & Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Nonprofit Management and Policy position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning fall 2018. Candidates should be strongly committed to excellence in scholarly research and should be effective teachers. Faculty in Rockefeller College are expected to pursue an active research program, teach and supervise undergraduate and graduate students, and engage in service activities.

Our program on Nonprofit Management, ranked 10th in US News and World Report, emphasizes the "nuts and bolts" of operating and sustaining nonprofit organizations and the tactics and strategies of creating social change toward greater equity and justice. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality nonprofit management and policy research in these areas. Candidates conducting research on nonprofit governance, resource generation and sustainability, nonprofit public policy, policy advocacy, collaboration, and/or nonprofit networks are especially encouraged to apply. We are open to scholars conducting research in domestic, international or global contexts, and who use qualitative and/or quantitative methods.

Requirements:

Minimum Qualifications:

- Applicants must have a PhD by September 1, 2018 from a college or university accredited by the US Department of Education or internationally recognized accrediting organization.
- Senior applicants should have a well-established research program; junior applicants should have a trajectory to develop a tenurable research record.
- Applicants must be able to teach in Nonprofit Management and in core Public Policy or Public Administration courses, and be able to, or have the potential to, fulfill the mission and goals of Rockefeller College.
- Applicants must have the ability to work with a culturally diverse population.

Preferred Qualifications:

- The successful candidate's PhD will likely be in Public Administration, Public Management, Public Affairs, or an allied field such as Sociology or Political Science.
- Experience in a nonprofit organization, and working on or writing research grants for external funding, will be considered a plus in the selection process but not a requirement.

Additional Information:

Professional Rank and Salary Range: Assistant or Associate Professor; salary competitive and commensurate with experience and qualifications

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, or Clery Act, mandates that all Title IV institutions, without exception, prepare, publish and distribute an Annual Security Report. This report consists of two basic parts: disclosure of the University's crime statistics for the past three years; and disclosures regarding the University's current campus security policies. The University at Albany's Annual Security Report is available in portable document format [PDF] by clicking this link <http://police.albany.edu/ASR.shtml>

Pursuant to Executive Order 161, no State entity, as defined by the Executive Order, is permitted to ask, or mandate, in any form, that an applicant for employment provide his or her current compensation, or any prior compensation history, until such time as the applicant is extended a conditional offer of employment with compensation. If such information has been requested from you before such time, please contact the Governor's Office of Employee Relations at (518) 474-6988 or via email at info@goer.ny.gov.

THE UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY IS AN EO/AA/IRCA/ADA EMPLOYER

Please apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=86289>

Application Instructions:

Applicants MUST submit the following documents:

- Cover letter addressed to Jennifer Dodge, Chair of the Search Committee
- Curriculum vitae
- Writing sample
- Teaching evaluations (associate faculty only submit teaching evaluations for the past 4 semesters)
- Three letters of recommendation and graduate transcripts, emailed to PADsearch@albany.edu

Note: After submitting your CV, the subsequent pages give you instructions for uploading additional documents (i.e. cover letter etc.). See the FAQ for using our online system. Please contact us if you need assistance applying through this website.

Returning Applicants - Login to your UAlbany Careers Account to check your completed application.

A review of applications will start October 1, 2017 and the search will remain open until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2945

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Resident Fellowship in Ethics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Normative Political Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

Resident Fellowship in Ethics

Vice Admiral James B. Stockdale Center for Ethical Leadership
U.S. Naval Academy

The U.S. Naval Academy's Stockdale Center invites applications for its annual Resident Fellowship Program for academic year 2018-2019.

The Secretary of the Navy and the Superintendent of the Naval Academy established the Center in 1998 to be a thought leader in the field of military ethics and leadership and serve the Naval Academy, the Naval Service and national institutions of influence.

Minimum qualifications: dissertation phase of a Ph.D. program in a humanities or social science area and U.S. citizenship. Ideal candidates will be published Ph.D. holders with university teaching experience in ethics, political theory, international relations, public policy, and/or history. We are especially interested in scholars familiar with the literature on human rights, moral virtue and/or the just war theory.

The Stockdale Center anticipates selecting up to three residential fellows, whose focus will be a weekly seminar devoted to defense-related ethics topics. Fellows will also have the opportunity to conduct additional research projects in cooperation with the Naval Academy's civilian and military faculty members.

Application review will begin January 1, 2018. Click here to be directed to the full advertisement on the United States Naval Academy Human Resources website, which includes application instructions: <http://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/EthicsFellow18.php>.

The United States Naval Academy is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3840

Ohio Wesleyan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics and Government

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Parties & Organizations, Public Opinion

The Department of Politics and Government at Ohio Wesleyan University invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position in American politics with emphasis on American political behavior at the Assistant Professor rank to begin in August 2018. This position requires teaching three courses each semester, including courses on voting and elections, mass media, political parties and interest groups, research methods, and an introductory course on American politics. We would also welcome candidates who can teach public administration, or new courses related to their interests. This position is also expected to contribute to our Arneson Institute for Practical Politics, which includes helping with student internships and our Mock Convention held every four years, and coordinating campus-wide efforts to facilitate student participation in elections.

OHIO WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY promotes and celebrates an inclusive environment free from constraints in areas of culture, race, sex, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression, age, religion, family relationship, or economic barriers. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged as OWU is an equal opportunity institution and has a strong commitment to supporting diversity, equity and inclusion which lends to our continuing and vigorous efforts to increase the diversity of the campus community, to promote equal employment opportunities, and to ensure nondiscrimination in all aspects of our programs and activities. Ohio Wesleyan University (Delaware, Ohio) is located 20 miles north of Columbus, a growing and increasingly diverse metropolitan area.

Qualifications: Applicants must have at least ABD standing in political science. Ph.D. at the time of appointment, teaching experience at the collegiate level and evidence of research potential are strongly preferred.

Application packets should include a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and, to the extent possible, evidence of teaching ability. Applications received by January 10, 2018 will be guaranteed full consideration. Application materials should be sent electronically to Prof. Jim Franklin, chair, Department of Politics and Government, at pgsearch@owu.edu. Mailing address is Department of Politics and Government, Ohio Wesleyan University, 61 S. Sandusky St., Delaware, Ohio 43015.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 11/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3839

Tarleton State University

Rank: Political Science Instructor

Specializations: State Politics, United States, American Politics

The Department of Social Sciences seeks a full-time Instructor of Political Science. The position will be primarily responsible for the teaching and management of a redesign course model for sections of GOVT 2306 Texas Government. The position may be transitioned to 15 hours of undergraduate courses per semester in GOVT 2306 or 2305 based on the instructional needs of the department. The position is based on the Stephenville campus and requires a Masters Degree in Political Science and redesign, hybrid and/or online teaching experience.

REQUIRED EDUCATION/EXPERIENCE: Masters Degree in Political Science; Experience teaching redesign, hybrid and/or online courses. Experience teaching Texas or Federal Government.

PROPOSED EMPLOYMENT DATE: 09/01/2018

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS: Applications accepted only online at <https://jobs.tarleton.edu>. The department requires a letter of application, statement of teaching philosophy, cv, transcripts (official or unofficial), and three recommendations for this position. If you are not able to attach the documents when applying, please mail the requested documents to:

Dr. Eric V. Morrow
Department Head
Department of Social Sciences
Tarleton State University
Box T-0660, Tarleton Station
Stephenville, TX 76402

If mailing, please make sure you reference the Requisition Number #0801761 and title of this position.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3832

Lee University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, and Humanities at Lee University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position of Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science beginning in the fall of 2018.

Duties

The successful candidate will have a concentration in American Politics and will be expected to teach courses in American Politics, the university core course in American Government, and a two-course sequence in Research Methods. Secondary specialization is open. An ability and willingness to teach courses in Public Administration would be an asset. Additional duties will include mentoring undergraduate research, advising students in the department's majors, developing curriculum, serving on university committees, seeking ways to serve the greater community, and working cooperatively with the Department Chair and departmental faculty.

Required Qualifications

The successful candidate will hold a Ph.D. in Political Science with a specialty in American Politics. (ABD considered with evidence of completion by start date.) The candidate will express a strong commitment to faith in Jesus Christ and Christian lifestyle expectations, indicate a commitment to undergraduate education, passionately support the Christian liberal arts, demonstrate college teaching ability, and, effectively integrate Christian faith into the academic discipline and the classroom.

Lee University is a Christ-centered, comprehensive university that is recognized as an emerging leader in higher education in the southeastern region. To apply please send a completed application form (available at the website listed below), curriculum vitae, statement of Christian faith, and statement describing the integration of Christian faith with discipline of expertise, transcripts, three letters of reference, and student evaluations (if available) to Dr. Randy Wood, Chair of the Department of History, Political Science and Humanities, Lee University, P.O. Box 3450, Cleveland, TN 37320-3450 or by email to rwood@leeuniversity.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. For additional information contact Dr. Randy Wood at rwood@leeuniversity.edu or (423) 614-8137. The application form is available at: <http://www.leeuniversity.edu/uploadedFiles/Content/human-resources/faculty-application%281%29.pdf>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/27/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3828

Lesley University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and Global Studies

About Lesley University:

Located in Cambridge, Massachusetts, Lesley University is highly regarded for its graduate and undergraduate programs in education, the arts, and applied social sciences. Lesley fosters a highly creative environment in which innovative ideas thrive, theory is integrated with practice and its 7,000 students and 87,000 alumni are empowered to improve and enrich communities.

We offer a competitive benefits package that includes health, dental, life, and long-term-disability insurance. In addition, we offer generous amounts of vacation and holiday time, as well as a tuition remission policy that enables employees to expand their knowledge and skills.

Please note that all Core faculty at Lesley University are represented by the Service Employees International Union, Local 509 (SEIU).

Information on the Department:

The social sciences division is a multidisciplinary division of ten faculty members within the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. We have approximately 150 undergraduate students in 5 majors: Children, Youth and Family Studies; Human Services; Global Studies; Political Science; and Sociology and Social Change. In our curriculum, we emphasize interdisciplinary teaching, research and collaboration, and applied and experiential learning.

Job Description:

The social sciences division of the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences of Lesley University is seeking a faculty member to teach in the interdisciplinary area of political science and global studies at the rank of assistant professor (full-time, 9-month). We are interested in candidates who have training in the areas of international relations, comparative politics, and global political economy. We seek candidates with interdisciplinary training and international or transnational research and practical experience in organizing and advocacy; social, political, and economic inequality; and social justice. Area of geographic specialization is open, but we seek a candidate whose work complements the strengths of our current faculty. We welcome details about how the candidate will contribute to the Social Sciences Division and its political science and global studies majors. The ideal candidate should have experience working with diverse students and evidence of inclusive teaching.

The successful candidate will teach three or four courses per semester (7 courses per academic year) and will have the opportunity to develop the division's offerings in political science and global studies. Successful candidates should be flexible in terms of course delivery models (e.g., face-to-face, hybrid, online). In addition to teaching undergraduate students, faculty members advise students, participate in curriculum development, engage in academic scholarship, serve on appropriate college and university committees, and participate in recruitment and division activities.

Requirements:

- An earned Ph.D. in a field aligned with political science or global studies, or will have an earned Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- A record of successful teaching at the undergraduate level.
- Demonstrable engagement in academic scholarship.
- A well-developed research agenda.
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills.
- Must be authorized to work in the United States; if you hold a visa, your visa status must allow you to work at Lesley University.

Additional Information:

Compensation is commensurate with experience.

Background checks are required for all positions.

Application Instructions:

A cover letter, CV/resume, and contact information for three references must be included for full consideration.

Applications will be reviewed upon the establishment of an appropriate pool of candidates. For best consideration, please apply before December 4, 2017.

For consideration please copy and paste the url below into your browser to apply online via our website.

<https://lesley.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=91098&CNTRNO=3&TSTMP=1511305312884>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 11/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3821

Northeastern University

Rank: Teaching Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Responsibilities

The Department of Political Science at Northeastern University invites applications for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Teaching Professor in Political Science beginning September 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong commitment to and experience in undergraduate teaching and other experiential educational programs such as Model UN, Model NATO, and Model Arab League. This is an untenured, but continuing and tracked position with the possibility of promotion to Associate and Full Teaching Professor, as well as multi-year (3 year and 5 year) contracts. The initial rank will be determined based on the credentials of the final candidate. The standard teaching load is six courses per year as well as service and professional development duties.

Qualifications

Candidates are required to hold a doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field by the start date. All candidates are expected to provide evidence of excellence in teaching. While course needs are broad, candidates must be able to teach undergraduate courses in the core teaching areas of American Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics, or International Relations in addition to other elective courses in the candidate's area of expertise for the undergraduate degree programs in Political Science. Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

Candidates are required to upload their CV, a cover letter, a teaching statement, a sample syllabus, teaching evaluations (if available), and a list of three references. Applications must be submitted through our on-line portal <https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions>. Questions may be directed to Professor Thomas Vicino, Department Chair (t.vicino@northeastern.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3814

St. Mary's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The St. Mary's University Political Science Department is conducting a search for an Assistant Professor and Director of its onsite Masters in Public Administration program. The desired applicant must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a Doctorate in public administration (DPA) from an accredited University with major concentrations in areas related to Public Administration and American Politics. Teaching, professional expertise, and research in areas of Public Sector Performance or Organizational Management, Research Methods in Public Administration, Public Policy or American Political Behavior or some combination is preferable. The typical teaching load at the University is four courses per semester. One course release per semester is available for a successful candidate for directing the graduate program in Public Administration. The duties of this directorship include course and program scheduling, program assessment, and developing relationships for internship opportunities with local municipal and state government agencies and employers. The Director would also explore further extending the MPA program online. Experience with the Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs and Administration (NASPAA) or the American Society for Public Administration (ASPA) or with the International City/County Management Association (ICMA) - or other professional administration organizations- is highly desirable. Preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate an interest in affiliating with the University's Center for Catholic Studies, which will explore a wide range of human issues across disciplinary boundaries, and in a global or local context, including, but not limited to, poverty, economic justice, religious freedom, or immigration, etc...

The position is a full-time, tenure track appointment, commencing in August 2018. Department faculty cover a full range of courses in a general graduate degree in public administration, an undergraduate political science degree, and provide support to core courses in the university core curriculum. The department is the civic conscience of the university and fosters the building of "the good life" through education of the whole student, committed to civic engagement, justice and service to society. The Department resides in the School of Humanities and Social Science.

St. Mary's is the oldest Catholic university in the Southwest, and continues to advocate the Marianist mission of academic excellence and servant leadership. Founded in 1852 by the Society of Mary, St. Mary's is a comprehensive Catholic and Marianist university with a strong tradition of integrating liberal arts with professional studies. St. Mary's enrolls approximately 3,800 students in a diverse university with four schools, more than 40 academic programs including Ph.D. and J.D. programs, and numerous pre-professional programs.

Applications can be found at <http://stmarytx.applicantpro.com/jobs/> with the option to upload all supporting documents electronically. Along with the employment application, please also submit (1) letter of application addressing interest in position, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) official graduate transcript confirming the doctoral degree, (4) three letters of reference; (5) statements of research agenda and teaching philosophy; and (6) evidence of teaching excellence. The Chair of the search committee for this Political Science position is Dr. Arturo Vega, avega2@stmarytx.edu Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science (210) 431-8028.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Any offer of employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a clear background check. EOE

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3807

Vanderbilt University

Rank: CSDI Post-doctoral Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) at Vanderbilt University's Department of Political Science seeks applicants for up to four (4) Post-doctoral Research Scholars to support research on political institutions, opinion or behavior. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their PhD by August 1, 2018. These positions involve a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2018. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment, but there may be some research associated with the mission of the Center as part of the fellowship. It would be no more than 10 hours per week. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, office space, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing their research project, what they hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and letters of reference are also required. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 15, 2018. Applications should be submitted online through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47216>

Vanderbilt University has a strong institutional commitment to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of faculty. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of other underrepresented groups, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3802

Vanderbilt University

Rank: CSDI Senior Visiting Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

The Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) at Vanderbilt University's Department of Political Science seeks applicants for up to two (2) Senior Visiting Scholars who seek to conduct research on political institutions, opinion or behavior. Applications are welcome from scholars of all ranks or equivalent professional positions. The specific length of the appointment will be negotiated on a case-by-case basis, but we especially welcome applications from scholars who are interested in spending an entire year at Vanderbilt during the 2018-2019 academic year. There is no teaching requirement associated with the fellowship. Successful candidates will be provided financial support (e.g. a stipend equivalent to half-salary to make a full year's leave possible), office space, and computing resources.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing their research project, what they hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. The letter should also indicate how long the desired time in residence would be and whether there are existing financial arrangements that would be relevant (e.g., if you have a paid semester's leave and health care benefits). Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 15, 2018. Applications should be submitted online through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47217>

Vanderbilt University has a strong institutional commitment to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of faculty. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of other underrepresented groups, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3803

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Penn CSERI Post-Doctoral Fellowship

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

Penn CSERI Post-Doctoral Fellowship

2018-2019 Academic Year

Application Deadline: January 5, 2018

Apply via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/46895>

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences, starting August 1, 2018.

The Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration is a new center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences which, in addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, will host visiting scholars and graduate students, help organize workshops initiated by the center's Faculty Advisory Council, and support graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2018-2019 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects; help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops; and aid in evaluating the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants. In addition, the Fellow will have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities. Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are highly desirable.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $52,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the last two years (not earlier than 2015), or who expect to complete their degree by June 2018. Applications will be reviewed starting January 5, 2018. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

Application Instructions

To apply, visit Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/46895> and complete a candidate profile.

Candidates should submit a letter of application and description of research, CV, writing sample (maximum of 20 pp) and two letters of reference through Interfolio.

Review of applications will begin January 5, 2018, and final notifications are expected to go out by March 2018. This one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment will be effective August 1, 2018. Documents to be uploaded

- Cover Letter
- Title and Description of Proposed Research—No more than 1,000 words.
- CV –Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.) List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications (please note refereed publications).
- Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (20 page limit).

- Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) - Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

For more information on the Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration, contact CSERI center director at mjonescorrea@sas.upenn.edu or Matthew Roth, administrator, at maroth@sas.upenn.edu

**

The University of Pennsylvania is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to establishing a more diverse community at Penn (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>).

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status in the administration of its admissions, financial aid, educational or athletic programs, or other University-administered programs or in its employment practices. Questions or complaints regarding this policy should be directed to the Executive Director of the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, Sansom Place East, 3600 Chestnut Street, Suite 228, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6106; or (215) 898-6993 (Voice) or (215) 898-7803 (TDD).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3795

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Position 1: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specialization: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in Campaigns and Public Opinion starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, but not exclusively, interested in candidates whose research addresses the role of emerging technologies such as social media in campaigns and elections; and/or who are working with advanced methods in statistical or experimental analysis.

Candidates will be asked to teach courses in Public Opinion, Political Communication, Research Methods, and Statistics and Forecasting; and should show acumen for innovative, applied teaching methods focused on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current network and partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Campaigns and Public Opinion to IESIR1@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APPSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3784

Birmingham-Southern College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, Political Behavior

Birmingham-Southern College seeks candidates with a demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning August 2018. Candidates should hold a doctorate in Political Science or expect to complete their degree by August 2018. The College seeks exceptional individuals committed to the liberal arts, with a proven record of teaching excellence and a demonstrated potential for developing a distinguished scholarly agenda. The successful candidate must be able to support one or more of the interdisciplinary programs offered at the College as well as the general education curriculum.

Teaching responsibilities will include at least four of the following courses: American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Statistics, Research Methods, Comparative or American Political Behavior.

The teaching load is 3-1-3 including an interim term in January. During January, professors offer unique, innovative, experiential, and/or travel courses.

Review of applicants will begin immediately. Submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, copies of graduate transcripts (unofficial), and three professional recommendation letters. Email applications are preferred: pssearch@bsc.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Birmingham-Southern College (BSC) is a selective residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 1,300 undergraduate students. BSC is included in Pope's Colleges that Change Lives and is a sheltering institution for Phi Beta Kappa. The College's curriculum is based on close faculty-student interaction in teaching, advising, and research. For more on the College's faculty, students, educational mission, and national reputation visit www.bsc.edu.

Birmingham-Southern College is located just minutes from downtown Birmingham, which is the largest city in Alabama and a leading hub for banking and medical care and research in the Southeast, and a vibrant center for entertainment, commerce, and recreational activities. There are six higher education institutions within a short commute; a symphony; a ballet; a zoo; botanical garden; the largest art museum in the Southeast; a world-class civil rights institute and annual art, music, and film festivals – as well as numerous opportunities for outdoor adventure activities. In 2015, Birmingham was ranked as the #1 “next hot food city” by Zagat's.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3769

La Salle University

Rank: Full-Time, Tenure-Track Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at La Salle University seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track position with a specialization in American Politics and/or International Relations. The successful candidate will have a strong record of research and publication and a commitment to high quality and dynamic teaching. We are particularly interested in candidates who can offer a range of electives across their subfield, teach research methods and supervise undergraduate capstone projects. The successful candidate will teach across our curriculum, maintain an active research agenda and scholarly activity, participate in recruitment and advisement of students, serve on departmental and university committees, promote program development, contribute to assessment efforts, and advise student organizations.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline must be in hand or near completion at the time of the application.

Interested applicants should submit – either through Interfolio or by some other appropriate means - the following materials to Dr. Miguel Glatzer, Chair of the Search Committee, Political Science Department, La Salle University (politicalscience@lasalle.edu). Applications should include: (1) a letter of application identifying areas of specialization, research/scholarship interests and teaching philosophy, (2) a curriculum vita, (3) official graduate transcripts, and (4) three letters of recommendation sent under separate cover. Examples of scholarship and/or summary evidence of teaching evaluations or effectiveness, where available, should also be submitted. The department's review of applications will begin on January 30, 2018. Position begins in August 2018.

Applications received by January 30, 2018 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3761

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3759

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3760

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) position beginning June 27, 2018. The intent of this position is to attract an innovative scholar and teacher already placed at an institution (university, think-tank, or government service) and then return them to their home institution—thus, existing employment any level is a certain requirement. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2019, or one semester. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during their time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: Dr. David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6K-160, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to David.Sacko@usafa.edu. Applications received by December 1, 2017 will receive primary consideration. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3739

Harvard University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

The Harvard Kennedy School invites applications and nominations for a full-time, tenure track position in the study of politics. This is an open search with respect to subfield and topic of specialization, though we are particularly interested in candidates studying American politics. We seek candidates with strong methodological training, broadly defined, whose work focuses upon the empirical analysis of politics and policy processes broadly understood. This search focuses on candidates eligible for appointment as assistant or (untenured) associate professors. Qualifications include a distinguished Ph.D. record, strong evidence of a commitment to research, strong teaching skills, and a demonstrated interest in public policy issues. Applications from women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit online a research statement, C.V., writing samples, and three letters of recommendation: <http://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/7945> Review of applications will commence immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Early applications are encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3734

Missouri Southern State University

Rank: Master Instructor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

Seeking an Master Instructor to teach on campus in the area(s) of introductory American Government, public law, as well as supervise the MSSU Mock Trial program. Must have a Master's degree in the related discipline area, (PhD preferred). Certification in certain fields may also be accepted depending on subject matter. Employment will require a background check. E-verify participating employer. Applicant materials include a letter of application, curriculum vitae with the names, addresses, email and phone numbers of three references, and unofficial transcripts. Submit materials at www.mssu.edu/jobs. Official transcripts are required within 45 days of hire. Review of applicant materials begins immediately and will continue until the position(s) has been filled. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3721

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Specializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)
8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought with an anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and exploring questions of freedom and governance.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a vigorous, externally-funded research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on American constitutionalism and institutions, and American political thought; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: expertise and interest in the American presidency with a historical focus, and in civic education and leadership; interest in the study, teaching, and discussion of civic education and leadership as well as the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is December 1, 2017; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to: American Politics Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Peter McNamara; email: peter.mcnamara@asu.edu.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3697

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2018. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with well-conceived, theoretically-informed research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading outlets. Successful candidates will be able to teach substantive courses in American Politics and contribute to the department's graduate and undergraduate programs in quantitative methods. A Ph.D. is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, statements of research and teaching interests, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. Applications received by November 6, 2017 are assured full consideration. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities – Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status or genetics.

Please contact the search committee chair, David Darmofal (darmofal@mailbox.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.
 Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/6/2017
Date Posted: 10/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3700

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Presidency, Research Methods, American Politics

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Academic accomplishment in Political Science with an emphasis in American Politics/Congress/Presidency (Ph.D. required); (ii) Authoritative knowledge of American political development, institutions, and political participation and experience teaching American politics; (iii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate courses in American politics and other related sub-fields; (iv) Ability to conduct research and present results in a variety of media; (v) Ability to lead and guide student research and offer academic counseling and mentorship.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 3672

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: 3-Year Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin Fall 2018. The successful candidate will teach four sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/21/2018
Date Posted: 10/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3661

Yale University

Rank: Junior Scholar Postdoctoral Associate

The Center for the Study of American Politics at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) is offering research fellowships for postdoctoral scholars working on projects in American Politics. Fellowship positions are open to those who have recently completed their Ph.D. (in the last 6 years), or to those who currently hold a faculty position as long as it is without tenure. Junior scholars are generally supported at a standard postdoctoral level for a period of one year and are expected to be in residence during the academic year. They will also be expected to participate in the activities of the Center which include a weekly seminar. Salary is negotiable depending on qualifications and may, in some cases, include minimal teaching responsibilities.

Yale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Please send cover letter, research statement, current C.V., one writing sample, and two letters of recommendation. A copy of graduate transcripts is also required for postdoctoral applicants not currently holding a faculty position. Application materials should be submitted online at <https://academicjobsonline.ajo/jobs/10224>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration. For more information, contact the Yale Center for the Study of American Politics at csap@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/18/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3649

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Specializations: American Politics, Political Behavior, Quantitative Methods

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2018. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis. Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. Doctorate required. Salary is negotiable.

Yale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Please submit cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample online at <https://academicjobsonline.ajo/jobs/10216>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications if there is still a vacancy. For more information, contact the Yale Center for the Study of American Politics by email at csap@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/18/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3647

University of Memphis

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Memphis invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Policy at the level of Assistant Professor. The position will start in the fall 2018 pending the availability of funds. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand by August 2018. We seek applications from candidates with research and teaching interests in Public Policy. Candidates from across all subfields of Political Science and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Areas of particular interest for the department include environmental policy, political economy, public health, race, gender and social justice. Individuals with cross-cutting disciplinary and/or methodological interests are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in Public Policy and must show promise of excellence in research and teaching. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample (dissertation chapter, published article or conference paper), evidence of teaching potential, and letters from at least three professional references on-line at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. For all other inquiries please contact: Public Policy Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Memphis, TN 38152. Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018. The University of Memphis is a Research II University with an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students. The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to diversifying its work force. Applications from women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3643

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level in American politics beginning August 16, 2018. The successful candidate should have a strong research agenda that will lead to a body of quality peer-reviewed published work in political science. The position is open to applicants in all areas of American politics, behavior and/or institutions. In addition to their specific substantive concerns, we are interested in candidates who are prepared to teach graduate courses in research methods. A completed Ph.D. in political science is required for appointment at the level of Assistant Professor. The University of Alabama is the flagship campus of the University of Alabama system, and the Department offers the B.A., M.A., MPA and PhD degrees. To apply, go to <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41902> and complete the online application. Attach a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, sample publications or papers and teaching evaluations (if available), and a transcript of graduate work (upload to other document 1 tab). Send three letters of recommendation directly to American Politics Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Alabama, PO Box 870213, Tuscaloosa AL 35487-0213, or via email at apatrick@ua.edu (please state position in email). For more information, contact Carol Cassel, Search Committee Chair, at ccassel@ua.edu. We will begin reviewing applications on November 15, and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3614

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

The department of political science at Johns Hopkins University invites applications for a two-year post-doc in American political thought and development. We are looking for applicants whose research speaks to scholars in both American politics and political theory. Successful candidates will bridge historical and theoretical approaches to public policy, public culture, or public law, focusing on either the historical or conceptual development of political ideas and/or institutions.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest that describes their research agenda, along with a writing sample and curriculum vitae. In addition, candidates should send two letters of recommendation.

Apply on Interfolio at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46042>

Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The position will commence on July 1, 2018. Teaching duties include one undergraduate course per semester on a subject based on research interests.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3590

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow

The Center on American Politics is a new initiative at the University that focuses broadly on issues related to modern American political concerns, including representation, democratic engagement, electoral behavior, and the health of governing institutions. The position is open to a broad range of research specialties involving the study of American politics.

Position Summary

The Center on American Politics at the University of Denver invites applicants for a post-doctoral fellow position. The appointment will be for two years beginning September 1, 2018. The post-doctoral fellow will receive a competitive annual stipend and have access to a $10,000 annual research account. The fellow will be expected to participate in several Center events and to give a presentation to faculty and students about the fellow's research efforts.

More information on the Center on American Politics can be found at <http://www.du.edu/americanpolitics/index.html>.

Essential Functions

- Conduct scholarly research on phenomena associated with American politics with an eye toward producing manuscripts publishable in peer reviewed journals or academic presses.
- Interact with other University faculty in areas related to their research.
- Present research at talks and lunches, and attend presentations of other scholars in their research area.

Required Qualifications

- ABD or Ph.D. with research focus related to American politics.

Work Schedule

- To be coordinated with Director of Center on American Politics.

Application Deadline

-Priority will be given to applications received by 4:00 p.m. (MST) on December 1, 2017, but will consider applications until the position is filled.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions about this position, please contact Dr. Seth Masket at Seth.Masket@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

- CV
- Letter of interest describing research agenda
- Samples of written work (e.g., two chapters from dissertation or book, and/or two articles).
- Inclusive excellence statement (The separate inclusive excellence statement should be a succinct description of how the candidate's research, teaching, and/or service contributes to inclusive excellence and involves effective interaction with members of historically underrepresented communities. See <http://www.du.edu/cme/resources/inclusive-excellence.html> for more details).
- At least three letters of recommendation, which can be emailed to americanpolitics@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3586

California State University, Sacramento

Rank: American Politics - California

The Department of Political Science (formerly Department of Government), Sacramento seeks candidates who specialize in American politics to fill a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in fall 2018. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in Political Science, California Studies, or related field. ABD candidates will be considered; if ABD, candidates will be required to complete the doctoral degree by January 2019. Applicants are expected to have a strong commitment to college teaching and an ability to teach a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in American Politics with a special interest in California and its contemporary issues. Applicants are expected to teach introduction to American government (GOVT 1) and a class on California politics (GOVT 180). Candidates are required to demonstrate potential for scholarly achievement; the department is open to methodological approaches. Candidates must have a demonstrated commitment to working with a diverse student body and a diverse community. The department prefers experience in promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of a diverse student body, as is interest in working with a proposed academic center on race, ethnicity, immigration, and social justice at Sacramento State. The department also prefers applicants with an interest in involving students in experiential learning programs such as service learning and internships, taking advantage of our proximity to the capitol and other local institutions.

Review of applications will begin October 31, 2017 and the position will remain open until filled. An applicant can find the full vacancy announcement at, and must apply through, the Sacramento State jobs website at <http://www.csus.edu/about/employment>. The job posting number is F0029P. Inquiries can be made to pols-cal-hire@csus.edu. (-double check this)

Applicants must submit the following: (1) cover letter addressing qualifications; (2) current curriculum vita/resume; (3) names and contact information of 3 references who will speak to the professional qualifications of the applicant; (4) unofficial transcripts of all graduate work (official transcripts required if invited for an interview); (5) writing sample; (6) teaching evaluations and syllabi (if available); (7) statement of teaching philosophy. Applicants are encouraged to include a statement of commitment to and experience working with a diverse student body and community. In addition, applicants should have three letters of recommendation emailed directly by the writer to pols-cal-hire@csus.edu. Inquiries can also be made to pols-cal-hire@csus.edu.

AA/EO Employer. Clery Act statistics available. Mandated reporter requirements. Background check (including criminal record check) required.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3576

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

Jacksonville University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Division of Social Science at Jacksonville University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science. The position is to begin in August 2018. The successful candidate will have a PhD in Political Science with a primary field in American Politics. The successful candidate will be dedicated to teaching, university service, research, and must be willing to mentor students. The new faculty member will be required to teach four classes per semester: two sections of American National Politics and Government and a rotation of two electives in American politics. The ability to teach research methods as part of that rotation is required. The ability to teach American Foreign Policy would be a plus.

All applicants must contain:

- * Letter of Introduction
- * Curriculum Vitae
- * Copies of official transcripts from all schools attended
- * Three letters of recommendation
- * Teaching evaluations
- * Statement of Teaching Philosophy

Please send completed applications to Political Science Search Committee at polscisearch@ju.edu

The deadline for all applications is December 1, 2017. For any questions contact Steve MacIsaac, Chair, Political Science Search at smacisa@ju.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3566

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate 2018-2019

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the ten-month 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2018-2019 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req number D-18-WWS-00013 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4161>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3564

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for the 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2018-2019 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2018-2019 should apply to req number D-18-WWS-00014. <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4221>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3563

Rider University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Intelligence, Criminal Justice, International Security

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

Rider University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of homeland security politics with emphases on counter terrorism, intelligence studies, public policy, crime, or national security to start Fall 2018. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, or related discipline, be broadly trained, have strong communication skills, a commitment to both teaching and research in the liberal arts environment, the ability to establish a research program that can engage undergraduate and graduate students and be able to teach courses on any of the following areas: military operations, law enforcement policy at the national level, disaster management, conflict management, counter-terrorism, intelligence gathering, national preparedness for conventional, hybrid, unconventional war or homeland security policy challenges. Prior teaching experience and post-doctoral research are desirable. Field experience is also preferable.

The Rider University community is composed of faculty, staff and students from a wide range of culturally diverse backgrounds. Applicants should be experienced with, and committed to work in and with, such a diverse population. Rider University is a private, coeducational university of nearly 4,500 students located between Philadelphia and New York, near Princeton, New Jersey. Rider is ranked in the top tier of northern regional universities offering master's degrees by US News and World Report and is ranked as "A Best 378 College" by the Princeton Review.

All applicants must complete an on-line application at www.rider.edu/hr, 'Employment Opportunities'; 'Create Application'; and attach letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and goals, and a detailed statement of research interests, plans, goals, and needs. Undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation also are required and can be sent separately to: Associate Director, Human Resources, 2083 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648. Please reference Position # 312261.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 3558

University of Florida

Rank: Lecturer: American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Florida, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track Lecturer position in American Politics to begin August 16, 2018. This position is funded by the UF Teacher/Scholar Initiative. The prospective hire is expected to enhance our broad training of undergraduate students. We especially welcome applications from candidates with a track record of excellence in teaching and student mentoring at the undergraduate level. Specialization within the field of American Politics is open. We seek applicants who have proven excellence in undergraduate teaching and who have broad training in political science research methods. Applicants should be as comfortable offering a large introductory American Federal Government course as they are teaching a small Research Methods course for our Honors Students, in addition to upper division undergrad courses in their own areas of interest. The normal teaching assignment is three courses per semester, but a reduction in teaching is possible with significant service to the department, such as coordinating the Department's Political Internship Program or Study Abroad Programs. The successful candidate should possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field at the time of appointment.

Applicants are encouraged to visit the website (<http://www.polisci.ufl.edu>) to learn more about the Department of Political Science. The salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience, and includes a full benefits package. For full consideration, applications must be submitted online at <http://explore.jobs.ufl.edu/cw/en-us/job/504705/lecturer-american-politics/>

All applications must include:

- a) Cover letter
- b) Curriculum vitae
- c) Statement of teaching interests/philosophy
- d) Statement on a commitment to diversity in research, teaching, and mentoring
- e) Statement of research interests/plans
- f) Up to two reprints or pre-prints, and
- g) The names and email address for three references must be provided on the application. An email will be sent automatically to your references, requesting them to upload their letters.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. All candidates for employment are subject to a pre-employment screening which includes a review of criminal records and reference checks. The final candidate will be required to provide an official transcript to the hiring department upon hire. A transcript will not be considered "official" if a designation of "Issued to Student" is visible. Degrees earned from an educational institution outside of the United States require evaluation by a professional credentialing service provider approved by the National Association of Credential Evaluation Services (NACES), which can be found at <http://www.naces.org/>.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3546

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics with expertise in Political Institutions and the Policymaking Process, including Environmental Policy)

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics with expertise in Political Institutions and the Policymaking Process, including Environmental Policy)

Loyola University Chicago, College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track

position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall 2018. The department seeks applicants in American politics with expertise in political institutions and the policymaking process, including environmental policy. The successful applicant will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 500 majors and minors. For information about the department, please visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as graduate courses in our M.A. and Ph.D. programs. The applicant will be expected to teach upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses in the areas of political institutions and the policymaking process, including environmental policy, as well as an introductory American politics class.

Qualifications: The successful applicant is expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Applicants for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Applicants should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Applicants should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest outlining the applicant's qualifications to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three letters of recommendation from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

John P. Frendreis, Professor and Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 22, 2017.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity - including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment - is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically accessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a Transformative Education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission/. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativeed.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/22/2017
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3545

St. Bonaventure University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Public Law, Methodology, American Government and Politics

St. Bonaventure University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American politics and public law, beginning fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities include courses in law and society, the introductory course in American government and politics, a quantitative research methods course for undergraduate Political Science majors, as well as courses in your area of interest. Teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester. Additional responsibilities include assisting with the Law and Society program, advising pre-law students, involvement in student affairs and university service, and an active research agenda. Applicants must have a PhD in hand or demonstrate that they will defend their dissertation by August 2018. Founded in 1858, St. Bonaventure University is a Catholic university dedicated to educational excellence in the Franciscan tradition. We are a predominately undergraduate, liberal arts based institution with 2000 students located in the Allegheny Mountains near Olean, NY. St. Bonaventure University emphasizes small classes, close engagement with students, and a mission-based liberal arts curriculum. Applicants should send curriculum vitae, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching effectiveness such as summaries of student evaluations, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter that discusses your approach to teaching and your research interests. St. Bonaventure University is committed to enhancing the diversity of our faculty and strongly encourages applications from under-represented groups of all faiths. The deadline for application is December 15, 2018. Email application and supporting documents to:

Josiah B. Lambert, PhD
poliscisearch@sbu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3549

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor
Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primary interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches.

Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3532

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3533

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

Florida State University

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eeo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3501

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eeo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3493

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics and law, to begin fall of 2018. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course; Constitutional law; civil rights and liberties; judicial politics, policy, and process; and/or other upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. Ability to teach research methods is a plus. The Department also welcomes candidates who could contribute courses to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Political Economy, Search for Values (interdisciplinary Humanities program), and Urban Studies.

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi, teaching evaluations, copies of transcripts, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their vision for their teaching contributions to the department, and their research plan. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin November 8, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3491

Rhodes College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Judicial Politics, Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory

The Political Science Department at Rhodes College invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics with a focus on judicial politics and law, to begin fall of 2018. Candidates must have completed all requirements for a Ph.D. in Political Science, or a closely related field, by August 2018. Rhodes College is especially interested in attracting candidates from historically underrepresented groups and/or those with a demonstrated commitment to working with diverse and historically underrepresented populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and conducting research in a liberal arts environment. Teaching responsibilities will include five courses a year. Courses may include the introductory U.S. politics course; Constitutional law; civil rights and liberties; judicial politics, policy, and process; and/or other upper-level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. Ability to teach research methods is a plus. The Department also welcomes candidates who could contribute courses to interdisciplinary programs such as African Studies, Educational Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, Political Economy, Search for Values (interdisciplinary Humanities program), and Urban Studies.

The College has sabbatical leave opportunities, generous travel funding, and reimbursement of relocation costs within the College's policy. Further, it provides start-up funds and additional opportunities to apply for funding in support of teaching and research.

Founded in 1848, Rhodes College is a highly selective, private, residential, undergraduate college, located in Memphis, Tennessee. We aspire to graduate students with a lifelong passion for learning, a compassion for others, and the ability to translate academic study and personal concern into effective leadership and action in their communities and the world. We encourage applications from candidates interested in helping us achieve this vision.

Rhodes College values an inclusive and welcoming environment. We are an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity in the workforce.

Memphis has a metropolitan population of over one million and provides multiple opportunities for research and for cultural and recreational activities. <http://www.rhodes.edu/content/our-city>.

Please apply online at jobs.rhodes.edu; only online applications will be accepted. Completed applications will include a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, syllabi, teaching evaluations, copies of transcripts, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants are encouraged to address in their letter of application their interest in teaching at a liberal arts college, their teaching philosophy, their vision for their teaching contributions to the department, and their research plan. The application must also include a separate statement that addresses how the applicant will enhance the diversity of offerings and educational experiences in the department and in interdisciplinary programs, and how their experiences with teaching, scholarship and/or service might contribute to a college community that includes a commitment to diversity and inclusion as one of its core values.

Review of completed applications will begin November 8, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The online application system will solicit letters of recommendation electronically from the candidate's recommenders once their contact information has been entered by the candidate and the search committee requests them. Background checks are required before candidates can be brought to campus for interviews. For further information, please contact Dr. Amy Jasperson, chair of the search committee, at jaspersona@rhodes.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3492

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY

ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3436

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor-in-Residence

ROLE of the POSITION

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas invites applications from well-qualified individuals for a Faculty-in-Residence position. This position is a full-time (9 month), non-tenure track appointment eligible for annual renewal that will begin in Fall 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach the First Year Experience Seminar and large sections of PSC 101: Introduction to American Politics, which includes a Nevada Constitution component. The successful applicant also will be expected to teach survey courses in multiple subfields and occasional upper-division courses in Political Science as necessary. The standard teaching load for Faculty-in-Residence position is four courses per semester. While the position is a non-tenure track, annual appointment there is an opportunity for promotion in rank.

QUALIFICATIONS

This position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science from a regionally accredited college or university and experience teaching introductory and upper-division Political Science courses; evidence of excellence in teaching; and experience in designing and teaching online Political Science courses.

APPLICATION DETAILS

Submit a letter of interest, a detailed resume listing qualifications and experience, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references who may be contacted. Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience, with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications because this is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based.

Although this position will remain open until filled, review of candidates' materials will begin October 20, 2017 and best consideration will be gained for materials submitted prior to that date. Materials should be addressed to Dan Lee, Search Committee Chair, and are to be submitted via on-line application at <https://hrsearch.unlv.edu/>. For assistance with UNLV's on-line applicant portal, contact UNLV Employment Services at (702) 895-3504 or applicant.inquiry@unlv.edu.

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176567538&Title=Political%20Science%2C%20Assistant%20Professor%2DIn%2DResidence%2C%20College%20of%20Liberal%20Arts%20%5B18518%5D&aID=584>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3439

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.

Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3429

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3426

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential "core" of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position.

The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant's academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/14/2017
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 3419

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3413

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3407

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3411

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/12/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3389

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/12/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3390

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA's Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper

- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper

- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor in American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications from outstanding political scientists specializing in the study of American Politics for a tenured appointment at the Associate or Full Professor rank. The department is committed to building an intellectually vibrant, culturally inclusive, and academically diverse community of exceptional faculty. We will give priority to important research that builds synergies within the department. Candidates able to assist in graduate training in quantitative methods or formal theory should indicate those competencies. The appointment will begin Fall 2018. Salary and benefits are highly competitive. The Committee will begin reviewing files as early as September 15, 2017. We will accept applications until we fill the position. Interested applicants should submit a cover letter and curriculum vitae electronically here: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44363>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3321

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of American Politics

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Parties & Organizations, Political Psychology

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. American Politics scholars with expertise in political behavior, political psychology, race and ethnicity, interest groups and parties, or media and politics are especially welcome. A strong commitment to undergraduate teaching is essential. Candidates should have a robust interest to teach Introduction to U.S. Government, as well as upper-level electives in their fields of concentration. The teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 course preparations per year. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and demonstrate potential for research excellence. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens. (discussed during orientation meeting)

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in one of the following areas: political behavior, political psychology, race and ethnicity, interest groups and parties, or media and politics.

Additional information for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciAP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3318

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in American politics with a focus on race or American political development starting in August 2018. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans and teaching interests; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3296

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- American Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position in American Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor, pending budgetary approval. Qualified candidates will have a research focus on institutions, broadly defined. We seek candidates whose work is innovative, theoretically driven and/or methodologically sophisticated, and we particularly welcome candidates whose interests complement our existing strengths in representation, diversity, political parties, or political economy.

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer of 2018. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference. For each reference, you will have the opportunity to input a personal email address or an email address generated through Interfolio's Online Application Delivery. In both cases, an email notification will be sent to the designated address with instructions about uploading letters of recommendation into our system. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTky>. Review of applications will be on September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity, and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3185

Wichita State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Wichita State University invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics at the assistant professor level, to begin August 2018. Candidates should have completed their PhD by the time of appointment, have quantitative analytical skills, a demonstrated teaching effectiveness, the potential for scholarly publications, effective written and oral communication skills, and a demonstrated commitment to diversity. Preferred candidates will have the ability and willingness to teach an undergraduate quantitative methods course, willingness to teach periodic online/hybrid courses, and/or an interest in providing occasional Honors College course offerings. Teaching responsibilities will include: A variety of undergraduate American Politics courses, including introductory American Politics, as well as a course on quantitative methods. The teaching load is three courses per semester. The selected candidate will have the opportunity and the responsibility to help shape and enhance the curriculum of the American Politics offerings in the department. Wichita State University has a diverse student body with a large number of non-traditional students and an enrollment of approximately 14,400. Wichita is a thriving and expanding community of 600,000. The Political Science department offers BA degrees and has approximately 70 majors and five faculty members. Salary is competitive. Consideration of applications will begin September 29 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample at <http://jobs.wichita.edu>. For assistance with online submission, employment@wichita.edu (316) 978-3065.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/29/2017

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3192

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3169

Cornell University

Rank: Endowed Professorship in American Politics

Cornell University invites applications for an endowed professorship in American politics, for a position beginning July 1, 2018. We seek to hire an individual with a distinguished record of scholarship and a strong commitment to teaching. We are interested in mid-career scholars with unusual promise as well as in established senior candidates.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9501>. We also welcome nominations, which can be submitted to Ms. Jerrica Brown, jc2322@cornell.edu. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities, and genders. We strongly encourage women and under-represented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3158

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in American Politics/Political Behavior

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of American Politics/Political Behavior. We seek a scholar doing research on U.S. politics in one or more of the following areas of political behavior: public opinion, elections, political psychology, political communications, political parties, and social movements. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the time of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://uscareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-american-politics-political-behavior/1209/5281327>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3142

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is seeking to hire a Full or Associate Professor with expertise in American Politics. The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M is a doctoral level department with an active research-oriented faculty. The department is particularly interested in identifying individuals who could exercise a leadership role in the department's research programs in Political Behavior & Institutions, Political Economy & Political Violence and/or a university-wide initiative related to democracy. Ph.D. is required. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Indeed, the ideal candidate would possess a research profile (quality, output, and influence) that would make them competitive for an endowed faculty position, subject to approvals. The starting date for this position is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, and a writing sample. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18th, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3132

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters

of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

Lake Forest College

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor of Politics (Tenure Track)

The Lake Forest College Department of Politics invites applications for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in American politics, to begin August 2018. We are seeking someone to teach multiple sections of Introduction to American Politics; a research methods course, required of students majoring in politics or international relations, that includes quantitative methods; and a broad range of other courses in American institutional and behavioral politics. Lake Forest College's proximity to Chicago provides an opportunity to offer courses emphasizing Chicago history, politics and culture; the College also offers interdisciplinary programs in Legal Studies, African American Studies, American Studies and Urban Studies. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to any of these programs, and can incorporate students into their research programs. Candidates will be expected to have a record of demonstrated teaching excellence and evidence of scholarly productivity, commensurate with experience. A Ph.D. in political science, must be completed by the time of appointment. Our teaching load is 3/3, with small classes (typically 15-25 students). We support faculty research through provision of student research assistants and summer research funds; successful passage of the third-year review earns a half-year sabbatical at full pay, in the fourth or fifth year of service. Tenure review takes place at the start of the sixth year. At Lake Forest College, the quality of a faculty member's teaching is the most important criterion for evaluation. The College also expects peer-reviewed publications and active participation in the College community.

A highly selective liberal arts college located on Chicago's North Shore, Lake Forest College enrolls approximately 1,600 students from more than 40 states and from more than 70 countries. Lake Forest College embraces diversity and encourages applications from women, members of historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

All application material should be submitted electronically. Applicants should send a letter of application, CV, sample syllabi for no more than two courses, evidence of teaching effectiveness (in the form of student evaluations), and a brief writing sample (no more than ten pages; it may be an excerpt from a longer work) to politicssearch@mx.lakeforest.edu. Please arrange for official transcripts and three confidential letters of recommendation to be sent to politicssearch@mx.lakeforest.edu. Review of completed applications will begin on October 1, 2018. Questions about the position should be addressed to the department chair, Professor Siobhan Moroney, moroney@lakeforest.edu.

The department will selectively interview at the August APSA meetings in San Francisco. If you would like an interview, please submit a CV and cover letter only to Professor Moroney, no later than August 15.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3083

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to subfield and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3058

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, American Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the field of American politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3069

Connecticut College

Rank: Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior

U.S. Politics

The Department of Government and International Relations at Connecticut College invites applicants for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in U.S. Politics with a specialization in electoral politics and political behavior, beginning on July 1, 2018. The successful candidate must demonstrate an ability to teach an introductory U.S. politics course and intermediate-level courses on parties and elections. Preference will be given to candidates whose scholarship and teaching are in the area of political behavior. Courses might include US social movements, identity politics, interest groups, political participation, lobbying, voting, and media. The department already has specialists in national institutions and legal studies. Required: ABD in Political Science with a U.S. Politics focus. Desirable: Ph.D. in hand and teaching experience. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment to be hired as an Assistant Professor; a candidate may be hired as an Instructor if the candidate does not have a Ph.D. in hand at the time of appointment, but will complete the Ph.D. within one year of hire.

Salary is competitive. In addition to providing ongoing support for teaching and research, the College offers the following resources for pre-tenured faculty: a 2-2 teaching load in the first year, a research fund in the first two years, and a semester's sabbatical (at full salary) after a successful third-year review.

The College's Board of Trustees, President, administration, faculty and staff share a commitment to diversity. To this end, the College, located in New London, CT is continuing what has been a very successful initiative to diversify its faculty, staff, and student body. We encourage applications from candidates who share this understanding and will contribute to the diversity of our college community, including members of historically underrepresented groups. The College is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. Please visit our website, <http://www.conncoll.edu>, for more information about the College and our faculty searches.

Offering two popular majors (a government major and an interdisciplinary international relations major), Government and International Relations is a collegial department with 11 full-time faculty members. There are also opportunities for collaboration with interdisciplinary programs on campus. Moreover, the College's general education program, Connections, provides ample opportunity for collaborative and interdisciplinary teaching. For an overview of this innovative curriculum, please visit <http://www.conncoll.edu/connections/>

Applicants should upload a letter of application, a C.V., teaching evaluations, a writing sample, graduate transcripts, and at least three letters of recommendation to <https://apply.interfolio.com/43334>. E-mail inquiries should be sent to Tristan Borer, Chair of the Department of Government and International Relations, at tabor@conncoll.edu. In your application letter, we invite you to describe your cultural competencies and experiences engaging a diverse student body. Review of applications will begin October 13, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled, although we expect file review to be completed by October 27, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3049

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3006

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2988

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnicity

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor – American Politics/Political Thought/Race, Ethnicity, and Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2018.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory courses in political thought and advanced courses in American politics, political thought, and race, ethnicity, and politics.

A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/2.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2180>. Submit a curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate teaching philosophy statement. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2977

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 7/31/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2963

University of Nevada, Reno

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science (American Political Behavior)

The Political Science Department at the University of Nevada, Reno is soliciting applications for a tenure-track, full time appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in Political Science to begin in the fall semester of 2018. The primary focus of our search is American Political Behavior. Preference will be given to candidates conducting quantitative research in public opinion, voting behavior, political parties, and/or media, though candidates with a comparative perspective will be given consideration. Duties include undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the University.

The normal teaching load is 2 courses per semester, but may be subject to change. Candidates are expected to teach at all levels of the curriculum (lower division undergraduate, upper division undergraduate, and graduate MA/PhD). Candidates must be able to teach an introduction to American Politics course. Applicants should demonstrate a strong potential for research publication. Experience with external grant funding is a plus. Preference will be given to candidates whose research demonstrates methodological sophistication and who have the ability to teach research methodology at the graduate, MA/Ph.D. level. Applicants must have Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by August 15th, 2018.

To apply, please visit: <https://www.unrsearch.com/postings/25082> for more information and application process. Position is open until filled, but application review will begin October 6, 2017.

The University of Nevada, Reno is the State of Nevada's land grant institution of higher education and is one of eight institutions of higher education governed by the State of Nevada System of Higher Education. With a growing and increasingly diverse student enrollment of approximately 21,000 including over 2,800 graduate students, the University provides a comprehensive selection of degree programs at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. The University is currently classified (Carnegie) as "Research University/High" which places it among the top 200 colleges and universities in the United States. The University of Nevada, is located 45 minutes from Lake Tahoe and within four hours from San Francisco and the Napa-Sonoma wine country.

The University of Nevada, Reno recognizes that diversity promotes excellence in education and research. We are an inclusive and engaged community and recognize the added value that students, faculty, and staff from different backgrounds bring to the educational experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2940

Lamar University

Rank: Jack Brooks Endowed Chair of Government & Public Service

Specializations: Congress, Leadership Studies, Legislative Studies

The Department of Political Science is seeking a scholar with outstanding teaching and research potential for the Jack Brooks Chair in Government and Public Service beginning August 15, 2018.

The holder of the Chair will have a tenure track appointment at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the Department of Political Science. The Chair will teach six hours per semester, including graduate seminars and undergraduate courses in Congress, Legislative Processes and Leadership.

In addition to a nine-month salary, which is dependent on qualifications and experience, the Brooks Chair includes a summer research stipend.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science or Government. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials. Preference will be given to PhD candidates with advanced degrees in Political Science or Government and specializing in leadership studies or the legislature.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students; maintain an active service agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: Political Science Search Committee Chairperson, <https://jobs.lamar.edu>

If your letters of recommendation are confidential, please have the letters mailed to the address above or emailed to: jobs@lamar.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/12/2018
Date Posted: 6/19/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 2894

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Latin American or Latino Studies

Specializations: Latin American, Latino Politics, Immigration Policy

The Department of Political Science and Latin American and Latino Studies (LALS) Program at Lehigh University seek to hire an Assistant Professor to begin in the fall term of the 2018 academic year. The position will be a joint appointment in Political Science (the department of tenure) and LALS. We are looking for a colleague with a demonstrated record of achievement in U.S. domestic Latinx Studies (in such areas as Latinx and Caribbean communities, Latinx civic engagement, immigration, labor issues, and gender studies) and/or comparative Latin American politics with a focus on transnationalism in Latino communities. The candidate should be committed to creative scholarship and teaching which complement and augment the LALS program's interdisciplinary strengths. The normal teaching load for this position is two courses each semester, which will be cross-listed in political science and LALS.

The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Completed applications are due by October 1, 2017. They must include a letter of interest, a current CV, three letters of reference, and representative reprints of any publications. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9250>.

For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu or Dr. Matthew Bush, Director of Latin American and Latino Studies, at mab508@lehigh.edu.

Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 6/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2886

Lehigh University

Rank: Department Chair

The Department of Political Science at Lehigh University invites applications for Department Chair. Appointment to the position begins on August 15, 2018.

We seek an innovative leader whose record qualifies for appointment at the rank of full professor with tenure, or associate professor with tenure (with credentials to soon merit application to full). The Department invites applicants who bring relevant academic and administrative experience, and welcomes applications from scholars in all areas within political science, with a preference for expertise in any of the subfields of American Politics.

Serving approximately 70 undergraduate majors and 15 graduate students, the Department of Political Science offers a BA degree, and a one-year MA in Political Science.

The department chair is expected to provide academic and administrative leadership to 15 faculty and staff, teach two courses per year, conduct research, oversee and engage in departmental operations including budgetary management, and serve as a member of the College's leadership team.

Qualifications include a doctorate in political science, public administration, public policy or related field, along with an established record of excellence in (1) scholarly achievement (2) teaching, and (3) administrative leadership. The incoming chair must demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion and excellent communication, mentoring, and organizational skills. The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Applicants should submit a letter of interest that addresses the academic and administrative qualifications for this position, a curriculum vitae, and contact information of three references. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <http://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9248>. For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu

Screening of applications will begin on September 15 and will continue until the position has been filled. Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We welcome and encourage applications from women and minorities.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 6/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 2885

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2747

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

Messiah College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics and International Relations
Specializations: East Asia, Middle East, Africa

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Messiah College invites applications for a term tenure-track position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Applicants must be able to teach introductory courses in both International Politics and Comparative Politics as well as an upper-level survey of theoretical approaches to international relations. With respect to Comparative Politics, we are seeking someone who specializes in Asian Politics, Middle Eastern Politics, and/or African Politics. Successful candidates will show an interest in and commitment to teaching general education students in our interdisciplinary studies program. Departmental administrative experience is a plus. We are a department of approximately fifty majors whose graduates have included Rhodes, Truman, Carnegie, and Fulbright scholars. Our students are encouraged to think independently, to engage opposing points of view, and to develop a concern for public life in the interest of promoting social justice. A full version of this position description is available at jobs.messiah.edu. Applicants should apply via our online system at jobs.messiah.edu. The application deadline is January 30, 2018, but we will consider applications until the position is filled. Application materials required of candidates include a cover letter that includes a statement describing their research agenda and courses they are prepared to teach, CV, and three letters of reference, as well as completion of the online application form itself that will require a statement of Christian faith and of teaching philosophy.

Messiah College is a Christian college of the liberal and applied arts and sciences. The College is committed to an embracing evangelical spirit rooted in the Anabaptist, Pietist and Wesleyan traditions of the Christian Church. Our mission is to educate men and women toward maturity of intellect, character and Christian faith in preparation for lives of service, leadership and reconciliation in church and society. It welcomes applications from all individuals of serious commitment to the Christian church. Successful candidates will affirm the Apostle's Creed and support other foundational documents of the College. Messiah College is fully committed to a diverse faculty and student body. Successful candidates will evidence similar commitments.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3841

Central European University

Rank: Assistant Professor position Nationalism and Politics

Assistant Professor position

Nationalism and Politics

Nationalism Studies Program / Department of Political Science

Starting date: August 2018

Full Or Part Time: Full-Time

Application deadline: 1 February 2018

The Nationalism Studies Program and Department of Political Science at Central European University invite applications for a full-time position in Nationalism and Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The candidate will be expected to teach courses related to Global Migration; Minority Protection; Federalism; Comparative Politics; and Methodology of Comparative Social Research. Candidates with a specific focus on the contemporary accommodation of ethnic, racial and linguistic diversity (e.g. consociationalism, federalism) are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to candidates engaged in comparative research, focusing on both European and non-European regions. The candidate should have a proven track record in publishing on these topics, preferably in political science journals.

Applicants must have a PhD in political science or related field and provide evidence for high level achievements to date or outstanding potential in research and teaching. Specific responsibilities include teaching three graduate courses per academic year, master's and doctoral supervision, engaging in high quality academic research, and attracting external research grants.

For more information about CEU, the Nationalism Studies Program, and the Department of Political Science please visit:

<https://www.ceu.edu/> and <https://nationalism.ceu.edu/> and <https://politicalscience.ceu.edu/>

Central European University (CEU) is a graduate research-intensive university specializing in the social sciences, humanities, law, public policy and management. It is located in Budapest and accredited in the United States and Hungary. CEU's promotes high level research, research-based teaching and learning and civic engagement, in order to contribute to the development of open societies in Central and Eastern Europe, the former Soviet Union, and other emerging democracies throughout the world. CEU offers both Master's and doctoral programs, and enrolls about 1400 students from nearly 100 countries. The teaching staff consists of more than 180 resident faculty from over 40 countries, and prominent visiting scholars from around the world. The language of instruction is English.

Compensation:

Compensation is commensurate with experience. We offer a competitive salary, as well as a dynamic and international academic environment. Teaching load is comparable to that of research universities.

How to apply:

Applicants need to submit:

- Curriculum vitae
- Cover letter
- A sample syllabus
- Two writing samples
- Three letters of reference

Review of applications will begin 1 February, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Questions of an academic nature may be addressed to Michael L. Miller, Head of the Nationalism Studies Program (millerm@ceu.edu), or Zoltan Miklosi, Head of the Department of Political Science (miklosiz@ceu.edu).

Please send your complete application package to: advert018@ceu.edu - including job code in subject line: 2018/018. Only complete applications will be considered.

Shortlisted applicants will participate in an on-line / telephone interview. Finalists will be invited for a talk and an interview in person.

CEU is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 11/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3836

Hillsdale College

Rank: Politics Faculty Position (Open Rank)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical, Foreign Policy

The Department of Politics and The Van Andel Graduate School at Hillsdale College invite application for a tenure-track faculty position (rank open), beginning August, 2018. The Department's needs are greatest in Classical Political Philosophy, so candidates with a credible record of teaching and scholarly work in that area will receive strongest consideration. Candidates with an additional specialty in International Relations, Comparative Politics, or American Foreign Policy will be prioritized. Applicants should be aware that their teaching responsibilities will range from an introductory core course for freshmen and sophomores to graduate level classes. Since the Department services a graduate program, applicants will need to have a record of scholarly publication, and should have a Ph.D. in hand.

Hillsdale College is a small (1400 students) independent college of liberal arts, dedicated to excellence in teaching and advising students. Applicants should familiarize themselves with the College's mission statement: <https://www.hillsdale.edu/about/mission/>. The College also considers itself a trustee of our Western philosophical and theological inheritance tracing to Athens and Jerusalem, a heritage finding its clearest expression in the American experiment of self-government under law.

Complete applications will include: (a) letter of application; (b) curriculum vitae; (c) transcripts; (d) three up-to-date letters of recommendation, (e) a statement of teaching and research interests; (f) samples of publications or other scholarly manuscripts. Within the statement of teaching and research interests there should be a detailed response to the College's mission statement that includes a discussion of the applicant's ability to teach in light of its commitments. For further information on the undergraduate and graduate programs, visit www.hillsdale.edu and gradschool.hillsdale.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 15th and continue until the position is filled. Send all application materials by email or regular mail to Dr. Ronald J. Pestritto, Graduate Dean and Professor of Politics, Hillsdale College, 33 E. College Street, Hillsdale, MI 49242. Email submissions may be sent to PoliticsSearch@hillsdale.edu. Salary competitive. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 11/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3830

Tulane University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for four (4) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2018-2019, two with program administration duties and two with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $47,500 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowship carries a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment.

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2018. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting <https://apply.interfolio.com/47253> and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2017 until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 11/28/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3831

Dartmouth College

Rank: U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security Post-doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security Fellows are selected to spend a minimum of ten months and up to one year in-residence at Dartmouth on research and writing about international issues related to one of the Dickey Center's research areas: environment, health, human development, gender, and security. Scholars from all disciplines, including political science and history, are welcome to apply.

Fellows will utilize their year at Dartmouth to maximize progress on their research, build contacts with other Fellows, Dartmouth faculty and with policy networks, and contribute to the intellectual life of the College. All Fellows are assigned a faculty mentor. Faculty mentors are intended to provide professional advice for career building and integrating into the Dartmouth intellectual community as well as substantive expertise.

Fellows typically will:

- Give a faculty seminar on the work discussed in the Dickey Center's seminar series on international politics and foreign policy
- Present work in the departments of Government, History, and in other seminar series at the College
- Participate with other Fellows in an undergraduate course, taught with a Dartmouth faculty member. Fellows also often make guest appearances in other classes, and interact with undergraduate students in Dickey Center student groups or other organization as interest warrants
- Participate in events for Fellows organized throughout the year – topics will be determined on the basis of mutual interest and perceived need

Fellows are provided with an office and access to Dartmouth faculty and resources. They must be in-residence during their fellowship and participate in Dickey Center seminars and events.

How to apply

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status.

The application period for the 2018-19 fellowship is now open. Applications will be accepted until January 2, 2018. While scholars at any stage of their career are eligible, applications from recent recipients of a PhD or equivalent degree are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should submit the following documents:

- A curriculum vitae
- Research abstract (200 words max.)
- A statement of up to 1,500 words describing the proposed research project
- A writing sample (50 pp. max)
- Two confidential letters of reference
- Graduate school transcript (Unofficial transcripts are acceptable. Junior faculty and professionals may include a transcript, but are not required to do so.)
- A confidential financial statement on a separate page indicating the applicant's other sources of support available during fellowship period and – for current faculty only – current salary.

Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/47094. Questions may be sent to: Thomas.K.Candon@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3822

Rhode Island College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Assistant Professor, Political Science. The Political Science Department at Rhode Island College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in the field Comparative Politics, with specialization in the politics of the Middle East, to begin Fall, 2018. The person hired will teach introductory political science courses, upper-level courses in their areas of specialization, and a course on non-governmental organizations. Additionally, we seek candidates who can teach our required course on research and writing in Political Science. The standard teaching load is three 4-credit courses per semester. Additional information on the position and application instructions can be found at <https://employment.ric.edu>.

Rhode Island College serves a diverse student population and is located in the vibrant city of Providence, Rhode Island.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3824

Northeastern University

Rank: Teaching Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Responsibilities

The Department of Political Science at Northeastern University invites applications for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Teaching Professor in Political Science beginning September 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong commitment to and experience in undergraduate teaching and other experiential educational programs such as Model UN, Model NATO, and Model Arab League. This is an untenured, but continuing and tracked position with the possibility of promotion to Associate and Full Teaching Professor, as well as multi-year (3 year and 5 year) contracts. The initial rank will be determined based on the credentials of the final candidate. The standard teaching load is six courses per year as well as service and professional development duties.

Qualifications

Candidates are required to hold a doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field by the start date. All candidates are expected to provide evidence of excellence in teaching. While course needs are broad, candidates must be able to teach undergraduate courses in the core teaching areas of American Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics, or International Relations in addition to other elective courses in the candidate's area of expertise for the undergraduate degree programs in Political Science. Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

Candidates are required to upload their CV, a cover letter, a teaching statement, a sample syllabus, teaching evaluations (if available), and a list of three references. Applications must be submitted through our on-line portal <https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions>. Questions may be directed to Professor Thomas Vicino, Department Chair (t.vicino@northeastern.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3814

University of Calgary

Rank: Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in The Politics of Decolonization

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The University of Calgary is engaged in a consultative process with knowledge keepers, Elders, and leaders of the Treaty #7 peoples, the Métis Nation, and academics and university administrators. This ongoing process has resulted in the development of an Indigenous Strategy designed to guide the University's relationship with the Indigenous peoples in whose territory the University resides. One of the goals identified during this consultation is to increase the number of Indigenous scholars in leading positions on campus. In addition to Indigenous cluster hires in the Faculty of Arts and the Werklund School of Education, the University of Calgary is now seeking three Canada Research Chairs (Tier II).

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in the Politics of Decolonization. We are seeking a scholar who will establish and maintain an active research program leading to excellence in our understanding of decolonization. Themes may include, but are not limited to, the study of political processes that redistribute land from colonial states to Indigenous nations, the revitalization of Indigenous land-based governance practices, the study of Indigenous decolonizing political movements, and gendered perspectives on decolonization. The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of Assistant Professor (Tenure-track) or Associate Professor (with tenure). The anticipated start date is July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate will hold a PhD in Political Science or a related field. The appointee's research agenda may be grounded in any of the fields of political science (political theory, Canadian politics, comparative politics, international relations) or be inter-disciplinary in focus. A research program focused on Canada would be an asset but is not required to be considered for this position. The successful candidate will be expected to build relationships with the Treaty #7 Nations and the Métis Nation. This may include incorporating the experiences and needs of the Treaty #7 peoples and the Métis into their research. This appointment will contribute to the University of Calgary's commitment to create a rich, vibrant and culturally competent campus – one that welcomes and supports Indigenous learners, is inclusive of Indigenous perspectives in teaching and learning, encourages Indigenous community partnerships in research and academic programming and is appropriate and thoughtful in its response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's 'Calls to Action'.

The successful candidate at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of excellence in research, teaching and community engagement, commensurate with academic experience. This would normally include publications in high quality journals, success with securing competitive research funding, and evidence of a commitment to teaching effectiveness and to engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions. The successful candidate at the Associate Professor level must demonstrate a proven track record of research and teaching excellence, including a record of publications in high quality journals, proven success in obtaining competitive research funding, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a record of successful graduate student supervision, where possible. The successful candidate at this level should also provide evidence of successful engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions, including evidence of success in community-engaged projects and scholarship.

The Department of Political Science is housed in the Faculty of Arts. The Department administers the International Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program that attracts students from across the University. The program focuses on various aspects of Indigenous people's experience including arts, culture, ways of knowing, languages, economics, politics, and community structures. The candidate's willingness to teach in this program will be considered an asset. As part of its Indigenous Strategy, the Faculty has created eight tenure-track positions in Indigenous research and scholarship, across various departments. This community of scholars facilitates cross-disciplinary and collaborative research, education and outreach by building on Indigenous knowledges, cultures, traditions and experiences developed among, and in partnership with, First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples in Canada. The Canada Research Chair in the Politics of Decolonization will provide leadership in these areas.

Tier II chairs are intended for exceptional emerging scholars (i.e., candidates must have been an active researcher in their field for fewer than 10 years at the time of nomination). Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier II chair assessed through the program's Tier II justification process. Please consult the Government of Canada's CRC website for full program information, including further details on eligibility criteria.

Interested individuals are encouraged to submit their application online via the 'Apply Now' link at <http://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/8164474-canada-research-chair-tier-ii-in-the-politics-of-decolonization-faculty-of-arts> and include:

- A letter of interest and curriculum vitae, including a statement providing evidence of the applicant's connection to the Indigenous community
- Three examples of recent scholarly work
- Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- Description of a proposed 5-year research plan for the Chair

Applicants should also arrange to have three electronic confidential letters of reference sent under separate cover directly to the chair of the selection committee:

Dr. Antonio Franceschet
 Department Head, Department of Political Science
 Faculty of Arts, University of Calgary
 Email: polihire@ucalgary.ca

Questions regarding this opportunity should be addressed to Dr. Antonio Franceschet by email (polihire@ucalgary.ca)

Deadline: January 30, 2018

The University of Calgary recognizes that a diverse staff/faculty benefits and enriches the work, learning and research experiences of the entire campus and greater community. We are committed to removing barriers that have been historically encountered by some people in our society. We strive to recruit individuals who will further enhance our diversity and will support their academic and professional success while they are here; in particular, we encourage members of the four designated groups (women, Aboriginal People, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities) to apply. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. To ensure a fair and equitable assessment, we offer accommodation at any stage during the recruitment process to applicants with disabilities. Questions regarding diversity or requests for accommodation can be sent to Human Resources (hrhire@ucalgary.ca).

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/20/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3813

Vanderbilt University

Rank: CSDI Post-doctoral Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) at Vanderbilt University's Department of Political Science seeks applicants for up to four (4) Post-doctoral Research Scholars to support research on political institutions, opinion or behavior. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their PhD by August 1, 2018. These positions involve a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2018. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment, but there may be some research associated with the mission of the Center as part of the fellowship. It would be no more than 10 hours per week. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, office space, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing their research project, what they hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and letters of reference are also required. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 15, 2018. Applications should be submitted online through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47216>

Vanderbilt University has a strong institutional commitment to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of faculty. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of other underrepresented groups, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3802

Vanderbilt University

Rank: CSDI Senior Visiting Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

The Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) at Vanderbilt University's Department of Political Science seeks applicants for up to two (2) Senior Visiting Scholars who seek to conduct research on political institutions, opinion or behavior. Applications are welcome from scholars of all ranks or equivalent professional positions. The specific length of the appointment will be negotiated on a case-by-case basis, but we especially welcome applications from scholars who are interested in spending an entire year at Vanderbilt during the 2018-2019 academic year. There is no teaching requirement associated with the fellowship. Successful candidates will be provided financial support (e.g. a stipend equivalent to half-salary to make a full year's leave possible), office space, and computing resources.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing their research project, what they hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. The letter should also indicate how long the desired time in residence would be and whether there are existing financial arrangements that would be relevant (e.g., if you have a paid semester's leave and health care benefits). Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 15, 2018. Applications should be submitted online through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47217>

Vanderbilt University has a strong institutional commitment to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of faculty. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of other underrepresented groups, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3803

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Penn CSERI Post-Doctoral Fellowship

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

Penn CSERI Post-Doctoral Fellowship

2018-2019 Academic Year

Application Deadline: January 5, 2018

Apply via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/46895>

The Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration (CSERI) invites applications for a one-year postdoctoral research fellowship in the social sciences, starting August 1, 2018.

The Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration is a new center initiative supported by the University of Pennsylvania and the School of Arts and Sciences which, in addition to this postdoctoral fellowship, will host visiting scholars and graduate students, help organize workshops initiated by the center's Faculty Advisory Council, and support graduate and undergraduate student social science research at Penn.

The 2018-2019 CSERI Postdoctoral Research Fellow will collaborate with CSERI faculty affiliates on research projects; help organize and participate in faculty/graduate student workshops; and aid in evaluating the progress of graduate students and undergraduates receiving research grants. In addition, the Fellow will have the opportunity to pursue their own research and participate more generally in the intellectual life of the Penn community. There are no mandatory teaching responsibilities. Skills with statistical analysis, qualitative software, GIS, experimental and other approaches are highly desirable.

The stipend for the postdoctoral fellowship is $52,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees in the last two years (not earlier than 2015), or who expect to complete their degree by June 2018. Applications will be reviewed starting January 5, 2018. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

Application Instructions

To apply, visit Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/46895> and complete a candidate profile.

Candidates should submit a letter of application and description of research, CV, writing sample (maximum of 20 pp) and two letters of reference through Interfolio.

Review of applications will begin January 5, 2018, and final notifications are expected to go out by March 2018. This one-year Postdoctoral Research Fellow appointment will be effective August 1, 2018. Documents to be uploaded

- Cover Letter
- Title and Description of Proposed Research—No more than 1,000 words.
- CV—Indicate experience with both qualitative and quantitative research, experience with qualitative and statistical research software (e.g. R, STATA, ATLAS/TI, Dedoose, etc.) List other fellowships, funding and scholarships received, and all publications (please note refereed publications).
- Writing Sample – An article or an excerpt of a book or dissertations chapter (20 page limit).
- Confidential Letters of Recommendation (two) - Referees should be asked both to comment on your proposed project and to discuss your qualifications and experience as a researcher.

For more information on the Penn Center for the Study of Ethnicity, Race and Immigration, contact CSERI center director at mjonescorrea@sas.upenn.edu or Matthew Roth, administrator, at maroth@sas.upenn.edu

**

The University of Pennsylvania is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to establishing a more diverse community at Penn (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>).

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status in the administration of its admissions, financial aid, educational or athletic programs, or other University-administered programs or in its employment practices. Questions or complaints regarding this policy should be directed to the Executive Director of the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, Sansom Place East, 3600 Chestnut Street, Suite 228, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6106; or (215) 898-6993 (Voice) or (215) 898-7803 (TDD).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3795

Cornell University

Rank: Visiting Associate Professor

Cornell University's Department of Government seeks to fill a three-year visiting position, beginning July 1, 2018, in International Relations and Comparative Politics, with a focus on the politics and foreign policies of the Middle East. The ideal candidate will be able to teach courses on Israeli politics in comparative perspective (Middle East and cross-regional), the politics of nationalism and separatist movements, and international politics more broadly. The Department welcomes applicants who cross subfield boundaries (e.g., with connections to political theory) and would interact with other departments and programs, such as Near East Studies and the Judith Reppy Institute for Peace and Conflict Studies. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10478>. We will begin to review applications starting December 1, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3789

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Position 1: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specialization: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in Campaigns and Public Opinion starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, but not exclusively, interested in candidates whose research addresses the role of emerging technologies such as social media in campaigns and elections; and/or who are working with advanced methods in statistical or experimental analysis.

Candidates will be asked to teach courses in Public Opinion, Political Communication, Research Methods, and Statistics and Forecasting; and should show acumen for innovative, applied teaching methods focused on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current network and partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Campaigns and Public Opinion to IESIR1@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3784

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Position 3: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Rank: Assistant Professor

Disciplines: International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Subfield: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in International or Comparative Political Economy starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in technologies impacting global economic governance such as Blockchain, FinTech and others.

Candidates will be expected to teach courses in International Political Economy, International Trade, and International Finance, as well as core courses in Micro- and Macro-Economics. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, International Relations, or Economics is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Political Economy to IESIR3@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3786

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, Global Security and Policy

Assistant or Associate Professor
Global Security and Policy

The Program on Government and International Affairs (GIA) invites applications for a position in Global Security and Policy to begin in August 2018 at Virginia Tech's National Capital Region campus in the Washington D.C. metro area. This position will focus on the security dynamics created by new institutions and processes of global governance as these affect civil society, the economy, and government in the U.S.A. and abroad. Candidates should be able to work within the interdisciplinary setting of SPIA, which offers graduate degrees in International Affairs, Urban Planning, and Public Administration. The candidate will work with GIA students enrolled in our Master of Public and International Affairs (MPIA) degree as well as in our Ph.D. in Planning, Governance, and Globalization and the Washington Semester in Global Engagement. The position will be at the assistant or associate professor level. All applicants must have a Ph.D. in hand by the start date.

In particular, we are interested in candidates whose research and scholarship focuses on the traditional and non-traditional security challenges created by rapid globalization and geopolitical change — for US foreign policy and international networks of governance — as well as policy analysis, the dynamics of complex decision and policymaking, and new institutional innovations that have been created in response to these challenges. Specific issues might include, among others, human security dilemmas, nuclear weapons and arms proliferation, cybersecurity and information warfare, state failure, uncontrolled immigration and refugee flows, environmental collapse and climate change, flows of illicit trade, stressed security institutions, border security, anti-systemic revolutionary activity, persistent economic inequalities, and/or risk society dynamics.

Required Qualifications

A Ph.D. in hand by the start date in public affairs, political economy, political science, human geography, international relations, or a closely related discipline is required. Applicants must demonstrate the potential for developing a distinguished record of scholarly achievement, and an interest in developing experiential learning courses.

Preferred Qualifications

We will prioritize candidates who are knowledgeable about more than one country or region of the world and can show experience with interdisciplinary teaching, experiential learning and research in areas that align with Virginia Tech's universitywide, multi-disciplinary focus on Integrated Security. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges.

Complete applications should include full curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, two samples of written work, and teaching evaluations if available. Applicants also should submit a cover letter that briefly addresses how they would approach collaborative academic activity in SPIA, a statement about their current and future research agendas, and an overview of their teaching experience.

Applications and supporting documents must be submitted online at www.jobs.vt.edu (paper documents cannot be accepted), reference posting # TR0170150. Any questions about the online application process should be directed to Ms. Krystal Wright, SPIA Faculty Search Assistant, at krystal@vt.edu, phone: 540-231-2291, SPIA (0113), 140 Otey Street, Room 110, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Questions concerning the position should be directed to: Prof. Joel Peters, Search Committee Chair, c/o Krystal Wright, at the contact information above.

Application review will begin on November 20, 2017. The search will remain open until the position is filled, but to be assured full consideration, applications should be received by this date.

For more information on GIA and SPIA see www.gia.vt.edu and www.spia.vt.edu.

Details of Virginia Tech Destination Areas can be found at: <https://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>

Virginia Tech recognizes the critical importance of diverse teams of scholars. It seeks to diversify its faculty along multiple dimensions, including persons who have been historically marginalized and excluded given the institutional history and legacy of the university. We actively encourage applications from a broad spectrum of candidates. Persons with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should notify the Chair of the Search Committee Prof. Joel Peters via email peters25@vt.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3779

Birmingham-Southern College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Comparative Politics
Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, Political Behavior

Birmingham-Southern College seeks candidates with a demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning August 2018. Candidates should hold a doctorate in Political Science or expect to complete their degree by August 2018. The College seeks exceptional individuals committed to the liberal arts, with a proven record of teaching excellence and a demonstrated potential for developing a distinguished scholarly agenda. The successful candidate must be able to support one or more of the interdisciplinary programs offered at the College as well as the general education curriculum.

Teaching responsibilities will include at least four of the following courses: American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Statistics, Research Methods, Comparative or American Political Behavior.

The teaching load is 3-1-3 including an interim term in January. During January, professors offer unique, innovative, experiential, and/or travel courses.

Review of applicants will begin immediately. Submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, copies of graduate transcripts (unofficial), and three professional recommendation letters. Email applications are preferred: pssearch@bsc.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Birmingham-Southern College (BSC) is a selective residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 1,300 undergraduate students. BSC is included in Pope's Colleges that Change Lives and is a sheltering institution for Phi Beta Kappa. The College's curriculum is based on close faculty-student interaction in teaching, advising, and research. For more on the College's faculty, students, educational mission, and national reputation visit www.bsc.edu.

Birmingham-Southern College is located just minutes from downtown Birmingham, which is the largest city in Alabama and a leading hub for banking and medical care and research in the Southeast, and a vibrant center for entertainment, commerce, and recreational activities. There are six higher education institutions within a short commute; a symphony; a ballet; a zoo; botanical garden; the largest art museum in the Southeast; a world-class civil rights institute and annual art, music, and film festivals – as well as numerous opportunities for outdoor adventure activities. In 2015, Birmingham was ranked as the #1 “next hot food city” by Zagat's.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3769

Roger Williams University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Roger Williams University invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics with a regional specialization in Latin America. The successful candidate must be committed to the excellent standards of teaching within the department's two majors of Political Science and International Relations. The successful candidate must also be willing to support the interdisciplinary Latino and Latin American Studies program and the University's Core (general education) program. The ability to teach in the interdisciplinary Public Health major would be an asset. Solid secondary expertise in a region not already covered by existing faculty is also desirable. As well as teaching, the candidate will be responsible for advising students, curricular development, scholarly activity, and service to the department and the university community.

DPIR consists of seven full-time faculty covering American Politics, International Relations, International Political economy, Middle Eastern Politics, Public Administration, and Chinese and Russian Politics. We value collegiality, service to the department and university and are engaged with the academic and wider community in various ways.

The candidate must hold a Ph.D. in Political Science or Government with an emphasis in Comparative Politics at the time of appointment. The search committee will consider extraordinarily qualified Ph.D. candidates (ABD) with the condition that they will have completed their dissertation defense by the time of appointment. Highly desirable candidates will have at least two years of teaching experience at the undergraduate level as well as a solid record of scholarly activity.

Qualified applicants should submit materials electronically, including: 1) a letter of intent along with statements of teaching philosophy and research interests; 2) a current vita; 3) representative sample syllabi; 4) evidence of teaching experience including student evaluations (if available); and 5) name and contact information for at least three references. The online application is available here: <http://rwu.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=91486>

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3775

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate for the 2018-19 academic year for a 12-month appointment with the possibility of renewal contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Preferred start date September 1, 2018. The position is open to a scholar who would be in residence and participate in all of the Center's activities, including student-faculty seminars, workshops, and public lectures. The ideal applicant will have received a Ph.D. within the past three years and studies aspects of contemporary Chinese society from a social science disciplinary perspective. He/she will have opportunities to collaborate with the Center's faculty. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Applicants must apply online at :<https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4781> (D-18-PII-00004)

Applications should include:

1. A cover letter
2. A statement of research plans and their relation to CCC activities (1-3 pages)
3. A current curriculum vitae
4. Contact information for two references
5. Two writing samples.

Application deadline: February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3765

University of Rochester

Rank: Post-doctoral fellowship

Applications for 2018-19 are welcome in any area of international or comparative politics, but preference will be given to applicants whose work focuses on Central and Eastern Europe, broadly defined. Fellows offer two courses during the academic year and receive a stipend of $42,000. Applicants without a Ph.D. should describe their plans for completing the degree by the time the fellowship commences.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a 3-5 page research project description, a one-page sketch of proposed courses, one or more writing samples, and three letters of recommendation to: Fellowship in International and Central European Politics, Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies, University of Rochester, Harkness Hall 101, Rochester, New York 14627-0147. Applications must be postmarked by Jan. 5, 2018. Direct questions to Dr. Bozena Sobolewska, bsobolew@mail.rochester.edu, or 585-275-9898.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3766

University of San Francisco

Rank: Adjunct Professor

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS OF THE MIDDLE EAST, PART TIME (ADJUNCT) POSITION

The Middle Eastern Studies Program, Department of Politics, and Department of International Studies at the University of San Francisco invite applications for a part time (adjunct) instructor for our International Relations of the Middle East course for spring semester 2018. The class is scheduled to be taught Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 1:00-2:05pm. Spring semester begins on January 22 and ends May 17, 2018.

Successful applicants should be prepared to cover the course description: "An overview of the politics and the governmental systems of Middle Eastern nations, including the historic, religious, ideological, economic and cultural forces that shape government policies, social movements, and ongoing conflicts. Topics include the role of Arab nationalism, Zionism, human rights, the Islamic resurgence, terrorism, imperialism and globalization."

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in Politics, International Relations, or related social science field; specialization in international relations of the Middle East; and strong academic records and communication skills. Preference is for a candidate who has experience teaching at the university level. Advanced doctoral candidates are also invited to apply.

To Apply: Applicants should submit the following documents electronically in PDF format to Professor Lindsay Gifford, Faculty Coordinator, Middle Eastern Studies at lagifford@usfca.edu: cover letter summarizing their qualifications to teach this specific course, curriculum vitae (10 pages maximum), writing sample (30 pages maximum), copies of official teaching evaluations from previous courses (preferred) or evidence of prior teaching, and the names and contact information for at least two references.

The Subject Line of your e-mail(s) should begin with "International Relations of the Middle East Adjunct Position."

Applications will be received on a rolling basis until position is filled.

USF is a private, urban Jesuit University with a global perspective that educates women and men who will fashion a more humane and just world. The core mission of the University is to promote learning in the Jesuit tradition. The University offers undergraduate, graduate, and professional students the knowledge and skills needed to succeed as persons and professionals, and the values and sensitivity necessary to be women and men for others. The University draws from the cultural, intellectual, and economic resources of the San Francisco Bay Area and its location on the Pacific Rim to enrich and strengthen its educational programs.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Date Posted: 11/8/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3754

American University in Cairo

Rank: Comparative Politics/Methods

Comparative Politics/ Methods

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in Comparative Politics with emphasis on methods at the Assistant or Associate Level Professor beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses in comparative politics, using examples outside as well as inside the Middle East and North Africa. Candidates who can teach quantitative & qualitative methods and apply them to studies of surveys and elections in the Arab region are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3744

Qatar University

Rank: Senior Policy Analyst

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Middle East, Political Theory, Quantitative Methods

The Social and Economic Survey Research Institute (SESRI) at Qatar University invites applications for a full-time Senior Policy Analyst based in Doha, Qatar. The position is attached to SESRI Policy Department, which utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirically-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf region.

Senior Policy Analysts are expected to stay current on policy issues and best practices in their assigned substantive areas, oversee the successful completion of policy research projects, design and interpret analyses, and coordinate the work of Policy Analysts assigned to their projects. They will author reports and other research outputs for a wide variety of audiences, set agendas for convening with policy audiences, and make presentations as required.

Applicants should possess expert-level knowledge and understanding of one or more substantive areas of local and regional policy relevance, including but not limited to education, health, migration, marriage and family, performance evaluation, political attitudes, and economics. Five or more years of relevant work experience is required, as well as knowledge of pertinent research and analytical methods and the ability to apply such techniques to policy issues. Applicants should possess strong research and analytical skills and demonstrate the ability to communicate clearly and effectively in both written and verbal forms to a wide variety of specialist and non-specialist audiences. Successful candidates will be able to show evidence of an active research agenda and demonstrated record of engagement with policy and policymaking communities. Quantitative analytical skills, experience using survey data, and experience working on Gulf policy issues all will be considered favorably. A master's degree in public policy, public administration, or relevant social science field is required, with a Ph.D. preferred. Priority will be given to candidates who are bilingual in Arabic and English.

This full-time position carries an initial three-year term, with a start date that is negotiable, and the possibility of a renewal upon mutual agreement.

Applications will be reviewed beginning on January 15, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

Compensation includes a competitive salary, which is tax-free in Qatar (but persons will still be responsible for any applicable taxes from their country of origin), along with a generous fringe benefits package that includes health insurance. Furnished housing is also provided at no additional cost outside of expenses such as utilities, cable, and Internet access. Applicants will have their flight and moving expenses paid for at the beginning and end of their appointment, as well as one round-trip flight home annually. Educational allowances for up to three accompanying children are also available.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, recent curriculum vita, concise statement of research interests, writing sample or representative publication, confidential letter of reference from someone familiar with the candidate's work, and the names and contact information of two additional referees to spasearch@qu.edu.qa.

About SESRI: SESRI is an academic survey research institute established in 2008 at Qatar University in close association with the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. It undertakes original and groundbreaking surveys of citizens and residents of Qatar and other Gulf Cooperation Council states via telephone and face-to-face interviews, amassing a diverse collection of data unparalleled in the region. Previous areas of study include, among others, education, gender, labor, politics, regional integration, and survey methodology. SESRI has partnered with the World Values Survey, the World Economic Forum's Executive Opinion Survey, and other international survey efforts, and since 2010 has secured more than $5.3 million in external project funding through the Qatar National Research Fund. Widely recognized for their quality and variety, SESRI data have appeared in such forums as Foreign Affairs, Middle East Journal, and Middle East Policy. Established in June 2014, SESRI's Policy Unit utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirical-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3736

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) position beginning June 27, 2018. The intent of this position is to attract an innovative scholar and teacher already placed at an institution (university, think-tank, or government service) and then return them to their home institution—thus, existing employment any level is a certain requirement. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2019, or one semester. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a PhD. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time “career employee” at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP’s home academic institution for the visiting professor’s salary and benefits during their time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: Dr. David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6K-160, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to David.Sacko@usafa.edu. Applications received by December 1, 2017 will receive primary consideration. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3739

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Comparative Law and Courts

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Economic, Political, and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas at Dallas (UTD) invites applications for a full-time, open rank tenure-track position beginning in August of 2018 in the Political Science Program. Candidates at the associate or full rank are preferred, although advanced assistants will be considered. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory undergraduate comparative law course, specialized upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, and to be involved with the pre-law administrative team. Possible specializations might include: human rights, cyberlaw, comparative and foreign law, or trade law, among others. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.

The University of Texas at Dallas is a fast-growing, suburban research university and has the highest freshman SAT scores of any public university in Texas. UTD is ranked 1st among the 100 best universities in the world under 50 years old by Times Higher Education magazine and is classified by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education as R1 (Highest Research Activity). The Political Science program currently has approximately 60 graduate students and 250 undergraduate majors.

Faculty typically teach two courses per semester, and opportunities for leave become available after a successful third-year review.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue through January 31, 2018. Position starts in August 2018.

Apply at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/8997>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3740

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department’s undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department’s website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3707

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department's undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3708

Columbia University

Rank: Istvan Deak Visiting Professor

Columbia University invites applications for two István Deák Visiting Professorships in East Central European Studies for one semester each (Fall or Spring) in the academic year 2018-2019. The professorship, commemorating Professor Deák's legacy of excellence in research and teaching, is open to scholars who have active interest and accomplishments in East and Central European studies. ONE appointment will be at the rank of Visiting Professor. The second will be an open-rank appointment to be filled at any level from Visiting Assistant to Visiting Full Professor.

The visiting professors will be appointed in one of the Humanities or Social Science departments of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The visitors will teach two courses, one a lecture course of broad interest for undergraduates, the other a seminar for upper-level undergraduates and graduate students. The visitors are expected to give one public lecture and participate in the academic life of the University, whose interests in East and Central European studies are well represented on campus by the East Central European Center, the European Institute, and the Harriman Institute.

Please provide a letter of application, curriculum vitae, the names of three persons who may be asked to provide a letter of reference, and a modest sample (article or book chapter) of scholarship. The letter of application should include a statement of which semester the applicant prefers, a list with the names and descriptions of two courses which the applicant might teach, and a description of the applicant's current research interests.

All applications must be made through Columbia's online Recruitment of Academic Personnel System (RAPS) at: academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65408

Review of applications will begin January 1, 2018, and will continue until the positions are filled.

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3695

University of Houston

Rank: Director of the India Studies Program,

The University of Houston seeks a senior scholar to serve as Director of India Studies. We are looking for a scholar specializing in the study of India and its role in contemporary global political economy, geopolitics, and cultural change. This is a tenured position at the Associate or Full Professor level starting in August 2018. The India Studies Program is housed in the Department of Modern and Classical Languages, College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. The Director's role will focus primarily on developing and fulfilling the mission of the interdisciplinary India Studies (I.S.) Program.

The Program serves approximately 250 students each semester who pursue coursework in political science, sociology, anthropology, art history, language & literature, religious studies, cinema studies, yoga and wellness, and more. The Program is served by an active, voluntary advisory board, which helps with fundraising for study abroad program and various cultural events.

The College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Houston is recognized as a world leader in multicultural, multidisciplinary education. The India Studies Program has tremendous growth potential, as we are seeking a gifted and dedicated scholar to provide leadership to advance the mission of the I.S. program. The work of the College is deeply rooted in authentic partnerships that achieve unique scholarship, teaching, and research surrounding India's impact on the world.

Qualifications: The successful candidate will have:

1. An earned doctorate in a social science field, such as economics or political science.
2. Evidence of established scholarly record that warrants appointment at the rank of tenured Associate or Full Professor.

3. A demonstrated record of programmatic, peer-reviewed research productivity in studies of India, including quantitative research. Preference will be given to candidates with a history of successful interdisciplinary collaboration and who would likely connect with other UH academic program units.

Responsibilities:

1. Directing the India Studies Program and advancing the program goals, including developing innovative collaborations within UH, and establishing an international reputation for excellence.
2. Conducting research that meaningfully contributes to the field and practice.
3. Securing external funding to further the mission of India Studies.
4. Teaching India studies undergraduate courses and developing future graduate courses.
5. Supervising student research

Preference will be given to candidates with a history of successful interdisciplinary collaboration and who would likely connect with other UH academic program units.

Responsibilities:

1. Directing the India Studies Program and advancing the program goals, including developing innovative collaborations within UH, and establishing an international reputation for excellence.
2. Conducting research that meaningfully contributes to the field and practice.
3. Securing external funding to further the mission of India Studies.
4. Teaching India studies undergraduate courses and developing future graduate courses.
5. Supervising student research
6. Partnering with local, national, and international collaborators to further the goals of the India Studies Program.

The University of Houston is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at the University of Houston. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Interested candidates should submit application materials online at: <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. Please include curriculum vitae, a letter of application, unofficial transcripts, research statement, publications and a list of three references with complete addresses and phone number. Official terminal degree transcripts will be requested upon selection of a final candidate. Applications received before December 1 will have full consideration. Review will continue until position is filled.

For more details about the Program, please visit the India Studies' web page <http://www.uh.edu/class/mcl/india-studies>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3698

University of Houston

Rank: Director of the India Studies Program,

The University of Houston seeks a senior scholar to serve as Director of India Studies. We are looking for a scholar specializing in the study of India and its role in contemporary global political economy, geopolitics, and cultural change. This is a tenured position at the Associate or Full Professor level starting in August 2018. The India Studies Program is housed in the Department of Modern and Classical Languages, College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences. The Director's role will focus primarily on developing and fulfilling the mission of the interdisciplinary India Studies (I.S.) Program.

The Program serves approximately 250 students each semester who pursue coursework in political science, sociology, anthropology, art history, language & literature, religious studies, cinema studies, yoga and wellness, and more. The Program is served by an active, voluntary advisory board, which helps with fundraising for study abroad program and various cultural events.

The College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences at the University of Houston is recognized as a world leader in multicultural, multidisciplinary education. The India Studies Program has tremendous growth potential, as we are seeking a gifted and dedicated scholar to provide leadership to advance the mission of the I.S. program. The work of the College is deeply rooted in authentic partnerships that achieve unique scholarship, teaching, and research surrounding India's impact on the world.

Qualifications: The successful candidate will have:

1. An earned doctorate in a social science field, such as economics or political science.
2. Evidence of established scholarly record that warrants appointment at the rank of tenured Associate or Full Professor.
3. A demonstrated record of programmatic, peer-reviewed research productivity in studies of India, including quantitative research.

Preference will be given to candidates with a history of successful interdisciplinary collaboration and who would likely connect with other UH academic program units.

Responsibilities:

1. Directing the India Studies Program and advancing the program goals, including developing innovative collaborations within UH, and establishing an international reputation for excellence.
2. Conducting research that meaningfully contributes to the field and practice.
3. Securing external funding to further the mission of India Studies.
4. Teaching India studies undergraduate courses and developing future graduate courses.
5. Supervising student research
6. Partnering with local, national, and international collaborators to further the goals of the India Studies Program.

The University of Houston is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at the University of Houston. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, veterans, persons with disabilities, and is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Interested candidates should submit application materials online at: <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. Please include curriculum vitae, a letter of application, unofficial transcripts, research statement, publications and a list of three references with complete addresses and phone number. Official terminal degree transcripts will be requested upon selection of a final candidate. Applications received before December 1 will have full consideration. Review will continue until position is filled.

For more details about the Program, please visit the India Studies' web page <http://www.uh.edu/class/mcl/india-studies>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3699

Roanoke College

Rank: Visiting Professor

International Relations

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Professor position in International Relations, beginning in August 2018 and ending in May 2019. This is a full time, sabbatical-replacement position, with a teaching load of three courses per semester.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in International Politics, International Relations Theory, and Environmental Policy. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach a course on the Comparative Politics of Europe. The successful candidate will also contribute International Relations courses to the General Education curriculum. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research. Visiting Professors are eligible to receive departmental funds and to apply for most of the College's internal grants in support of their research and teaching.

Roanoke College, a nationally ranked Phi Beta Kappa institution is located in the Roanoke Valley of Virginia and is affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA). It is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should electronically submit curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation and any inquiries to Judi Pinckney at pinckney@roanoke.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3684

University of Dayton

Rank: Lecturer

Specializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Dayton is seeking a lecturer with a specialization in international political economy and development. Responsibilities include teaching courses in political science, courses for non-majors, and the interdisciplinary social science curriculum.

Qualified candidates will have completed all requirements for the PhD degree in Political Science or a related field, except for defense of dissertation, at the time of application; PhD preferred. Required qualifications include excellent written communication skills and the potential for excellence in teaching in one or more areas of international political economy and development.

The department prefers candidates with an ability to contribute to teaching interdisciplinary aspects of international political economy and development, an interest in developing international political economy and development courses, an interest in the use of innovative pedagogical techniques and successful teaching at the university level. Experience in teaching and advising students of diverse backgrounds and a sensitivity to Catholic and Marianist educational values are also preferred.

The University and the Department are strongly committed to excellence in teaching and the development of distinctive graduates who embrace the ideal of servant-leadership and the University's call to "Learn, Lead, and Serve." The Department currently has 15 full-time faculty members. It offers BAs in Human Rights Studies and Political Science and the Master of Public Administration. The Department is highly supportive of its faculty and students.

The University of Dayton, founded in 1850 by the Society of Mary, is a top ten Catholic research university. The University seeks outstanding, diverse faculty and staff who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence in teaching, research and artistic creativity, the development of the whole person, and leadership and service in the local and global community.

Apply at jobs.udayton.edu/postings/24565 by January 16, 2018. Information on the interdisciplinary curriculum (SSC 200) is at udayton.edu/artsscience/academics/about/social_science_cap/index.php.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/16/2018

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3685

Bilkent University

Rank: Faculty Position (Open rank) in International Relations

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The International Relations Department at Bilkent University invites applicants for an open rank position, commencing Fall 2018. The Department is interested in applicants who specialize in International Security broadly defined, especially those with a concentration on Middle East politics. Bilkent University is committed to increasing the diversity of its Faculty. Female and international scholars are therefore especially encouraged to apply.

Bilkent University is an English-medium private research university located in Ankara, Turkey. It is the country's first private, non-profit university, and is placed in global rankings as one of the leading universities in Turkey. The university offers on-campus housing, International Baccalaureate schooling options for dependents, a diverse intellectual environment, and a variety of other facilities and outstanding opportunities for its staff.

The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 600 undergraduate students and 35 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education, high-impact research, and developing critical and analytical thinking.

Applicants should hold a PhD in International Relations, Political Science or a related field, though PhD candidates with publications and close to completing their studies are also encouraged to apply. However, the prospective candidate is required to receive a PhD no later than August 1, 2018. A strong publication record and promising research potential are essential. Successful applicants will teach two courses in their field of expertise at both the undergraduate and post-graduate levels, maintain productive research programs, and supervise graduate theses.

Applications should include (i) cover letter, (ii) up-to-date CV, (iii) one-page research statement, (iv) one-page teaching statement, and (v) contact details of three academic referees, and be submitted to ir@bilkent.edu.tr by the application deadline at 5:00pm on Friday 22 December 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 10/23/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3668

Northwestern University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships in Global, Comparative, or International Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Conflict Processes, Social Movements

The Buffett Institute for Global Studies at Northwestern University invites applications for two-year postdoctoral fellowships in the study of global, comparative, or international affairs. Up to three fellows will be selected. Applications are welcome from scholars from any range of social science or interdisciplinary perspectives whose research addresses global, international, or transnational social processes, problems, governance, or conflicts. Fellowships will run from September 1, 2018 to August 31, 2020.

The salary is $55,000. In addition, fellows are eligible for $5,000 per year to fund research and conference travel and up to $2,000 in reimbursement for allowable relocation expenses in the first year. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Applicants must have received their PhD between December 14, 2015, and August 31, 2018.

Application deadline is December 15, 2017, at 5 p.m. (CT).

For a complete position description and application procedures, visit: <http://buffett.northwestern.edu/funding-grants/buffett-postdocs.html>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/18/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3651

University of Memphis

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Memphis invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Policy at the level of Assistant Professor. The position will start in the fall 2018 pending the availability of funds. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand by August 2018. We seek applications from candidates with research and teaching interests in Public Policy. Candidates from across all subfields of Political Science and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Areas of particular interest for the department include environmental policy, political economy, public health, race, gender and social justice. Individuals with cross-cutting disciplinary and/or methodological interests are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in Public Policy and must show promise of excellence in research and teaching. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample (dissertation chapter, published article or conference paper), evidence of teaching potential, and letters from at least three professional references on-line at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. For all other inquiries please contact: Public Policy Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Memphis, TN 38152. Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018. The University of Memphis is a Research II University with an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students. The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to diversifying its work force. Applications from women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/5/2018
Date Posted: 10/17/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3643

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

ACADEMIC YEAR 2017-2018

Areas of Specialization: International Relations, Developing States

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. While the position would be tenured within the Political Science Department, the successful applicant will be expected to contribute three courses per year to the university's International Studies Program. The position entails teaching general survey courses in international relations and upper-level courses focused on the international relations of developing countries. The ability to teach international political economy and/or comparative politics in the applicant's region of specialization would also be an asset. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Matthew Hoddie, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until December 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/5/2017
Date Posted: 10/16/2017
Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3623

University of Guam

Rank: Tenure Track IR
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The University of Guam, the premier institution of higher education in the Western Pacific, has a tenure track opening in its Political Science Program for an International Relations specialist with a focus on the Asia Pacific. The program has three faculty members representing the areas of American and regional politics, comparative politics and international relations. Courses in political philosophy and methods are shared among faculty.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach both lower and upper division undergraduate political science courses. He or she will (a) teach a normal load of twelve (12) contact hours (4 courses) per semester, with one course load reduction possible with the Dean's approval, for research, instructional innovation, or large service projects; (b) maintain a continuous record of scholarly activity and research relevant to the Asia/Pacific region; and (c) perform university and community service. Course assignments will include an introductory research methodology course including quantitative and qualitative methods and upper division courses in international relations. Possible additional course assignments include: introduction to government and politics, introduction to international relations, political philosophy, politics of Asia and special topics in political science.

Minimum qualifications: (a) Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations or Government from a U.S. regionally accredited institution or foreign equivalent (appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor requires Ph.D. by August 2018 but initial appointment as Instructor is possible, contingent upon completion of the doctorate by the end of the first year of employment); (b) research or relevant professional experience in Asia and/or the Pacific region; (c) teaching experience in some of the subject areas listed above; and (d) willingness to teach online.

Preferred: (a) familiarity with issues of Pacific island societies; (b) experience teaching academically and culturally diverse populations; and (c) a record of winning grants.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience relevant to the position. The following salary figures are for nine (9) months:

Instructor $34,169 - $57,892 Per Academic Year
 Assistant Professor $39,473 - $68,237 Per Academic Year
 Associate Professor $43,703 - $77,498 Per Academic Year

Applicants for University of Guam faculty positions must complete an online job application through the UOG's online employment portal at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com>. Please have the following documents prepared and ready to upload with your application:

- (1) Letter of Intent, stating interest
- (2) Up-to-date curriculum vitae or resume
- (3) Copies of all graduate and undergraduate transcripts

Applicants who are short-listed for an interview will be required to provide a short (approximately 5 minutes) video clip of their lecture or presentation. Also, applicants may be requested by the search chair to submit supplemental materials including syllabi. Completed applications must be received no later than 11:59 p.m. on January 8, 2018 (Chamorro Standard Time/UTC+10).

Before applying, applicants should consult the full job announcement at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com/postings/1111>. For further information, please contact Dr. Arun R. Swamy, Chair, Political Science Search Committee at arswamy@triton.uog.edu or the Human Resources Office at uoghro@triton.uog.edu, telephone number, (671) 735-2350 or fax number at (671) 734-6005.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 10/14/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3621

Illinois State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Politics and Government seeks applications for a 9-month, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics. The appointment will be made at the rank of Assistant Professor and will start on August 16, 2018. Candidates must have a Ph.D. conferred by August 16, 2019. We welcome applicants with a research focus on community development, non-governmental organizations, or project management, especially those with regional expertise in Africa. State law mandates demonstrable oral proficiency in the English language as a requirement for this position. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in Comparative Politics, Community Development, Project Management, and African Politics. The teaching assignment for the position is anticipated to be 3 courses per semester, with a one-course reduction in this assignment in one semester of the first year.

Initial review of applications will begin on January 15, 2018, and continue until the position is filled. To assure full consideration, please attach an application to posting number 0709961 at www.jobs.ilstu.edu. Candidates should submit: 1) a letter of application that includes a statement of teaching interests and experiences and a statement of research interests and future plans; 2) a current CV; 3) a sample of research; 4) graduate school transcripts; and 5) student evaluations (if available).

In addition, three letters of reference can be uploaded as 1 scanned PDF document with your application or can be submitted on your behalf to polsearch2018@ilstu.edu. Letters should be addressed to: T.Y. Wang, Chair, Department of Politics & Government, Illinois State University, Campus Box 4600, Normal, IL 61790-4600.

Illinois State University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

If you are having difficulty accessing the system, please call Human Resources at 309-438-8311.

If you are an individual with a disability and need a reasonable accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) or other state or federal law, you may request an accommodation by contacting the Office of Equal Opportunity and Access at 309-438-3383.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/15/2018
Date Posted: 10/13/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3609

University of South Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The University of South Florida is a high-impact, global research university dedicated to student success. USF is a Top 50 research university among both public and private institutions nationwide in total research expenditures, according to the National Science Foundation. Serving nearly 48,000 students, the USF System has an annual budget of $1.5 billion and an annual economic impact of $4.4 billion. USF is a member of the American Athletic Conference.

The School of Interdisciplinary Global Studies (SIGS) at the University of South Florida invites applications for a 9-month tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning on August 7, 2018.

A Ph.D. in Political Science, Politics or Government with a specialization in Comparative Politics from an accredited institution is required for the position. The successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise in post-colonialism. Preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to teach qualitative methods at the graduate level. Applications from ABDs will be considered, but the degree must be conferred by appointment start date. The teaching load is four courses per academic year. Candidates must be able to teach both undergraduate and graduate level courses.

Salary is negotiable. Review of applications will begin on November 6, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. The School of Interdisciplinary Global Studies (formerly the Department of Government & International Affairs) is a brand new academic unit in the College of Arts & Sciences at the University of South Florida. It consists of four academic programs – Political Science, International Studies, Africana Studies, and Latin American & Caribbean Studies – which act collaboratively to promote global teaching, research, and engagement.

Applications must be submitted through the University of South Florida Employment website: employment.usf.edu (click on Access Careers@USF and choose Faculty as Job Family).

Direct link to posting: https://gems.fastmail.usf.edu:4440/psp/gems-pro-tam/EMPLOYEE/HRMS/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_APP_SCHJOB.GBL?Page=HRS_APP_JBPST&Action=U&FOCUS=Applicant&SiteId=1&JobOpeningId=14692&PostingSeq=1

Applicants should attach the following supplemental items to their application: a letter of application; vitae; graduate transcripts; research statement; writing sample of no more than 40 pages; teaching statement; sample syllabi; student evaluations of teaching; and any other evidence of teaching success. All documents must be combined and uploaded as one file. Three letters of recommendation should be sent electronically (to amythomas1@usf.edu) or in hard copy to:

Amy Thomas, Academic Services Administrator
 School of Interdisciplinary Global Studies
 University of South Florida
 4202 East Fowler Ave, SOC 107
 Tampa, FL 33620

Conclusion of this search is subject to final budget approval. According to Florida Law, applications and meetings regarding them are open to the public. USF is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access institution. For disability accommodations, contact Amy Thomas at amythomas1@usf.edu, a minimum of five working days in advance.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/13/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3612

Clarkson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Humanities and Social Sciences Department at Clarkson University invites applicants to apply for the position of Assistant Professor. This position is an entry-level tenure track appointment in International Relations or Comparative Politics to begin August 2018. The successful candidate must be able to teach introductory level courses as well as courses in her/his area of expertise, which could include a regional focus. Applicants should bring a lively interest in contributing to the programmatic development of one or more of Clarkson's intra-school emphases in environmental sustainability and the health sciences, or to the university's goals of international and global outreach. The ordinary teaching load is three courses (usually two preparations) per semester, including each fall two sections of a first-year, writing-intensive course, focused on a theme of the applicant's choosing. There is ample opportunity for course development in electives.

The successful candidate will have evidence of excellence in scholarship and teaching. PhD required by August 1, 2018. Minimum qualifications include PhD in political science with emphasis on International Relations or Comparative Politics. Some teaching experience and scholarly productivity.

Review of applications will begin December 17, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. To submit your application, go to www.clarkson.edu/hr and click "Career Opportunities" on the left hand navigation bar. An equal opportunity /affirmative action employer, Clarkson actively seeks and encourages applications from minorities, women and people with disabilities.

Prior to a final offer of employment, the selected candidate will be required to submit to a background check including, but not limited to, employment verification, educational and other credential verification, and criminal background check.

Clarkson University is a nationally recognized research university with signature areas of academic excellence and research directed toward the world's pressing issues. With more than 4,300 undergraduate and graduate students, its main campus is located in Potsdam, N.Y., and additional graduate program and research facilities are located in the Capital Region and Beacon, N.Y. One in five alumni already leads as an owner, CEO, VP or equivalent senior executive of a company.

Start Date: Fall
Date Posted: 10/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3594

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3589

Calvin College

Rank: Full Time, Tenure Track Faculty

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science and be able to demonstrate both scholarly potential and strong teaching ability. Preferred candidates will have a primary subfield in comparative politics. Candidates must also have ability to teach courses in international politics and in International Development Studies.

Faith and Educational Commitment:

Commitment to the educational mission of Calvin College as a Christian liberal arts college affiliated with the Christian Reformed Church. A commitment to the Christian faith and to the integration of faith, learning, and student development.

Diversity Commitment:

Demonstrated awareness and commitment to establishing relationships and positive communication across multiple dimensions of diversity including, but not limited to, race, gender, physical limitations, class, or religious perspectives.

To Apply:

Please submit a letter of application that addresses the requirements and responsibilities of the position (including the Faith and Education Commitment and Diversity Commitment), accompanied by a curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, recent teaching evaluations, and a sample of written work to the chair of the Department of Political Science, Dr. Joel H. Westra, by email at jhw3@calvin.edu. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 30, 2017, and thereafter until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/9/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3583

Calvin College

Rank: Full Time, Tenure Track Faculty

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science and be able to demonstrate both scholarly potential and strong teaching ability. Preferred candidates will have a primary subfield in comparative politics. Candidates must also have ability to teach courses in international politics and in International Development Studies.

Faith and Educational Commitment:

Commitment to the educational mission of Calvin College as a Christian liberal arts college affiliated with the Christian Reformed Church. A commitment to the Christian faith and to the integration of faith, learning, and student development.

Diversity Commitment:

Demonstrated awareness and commitment to establishing relationships and positive communication across multiple dimensions of diversity including, but not limited to, race, gender, physical limitations, class, or religious perspectives.

To Apply:

Please submit a letter of application that addresses the requirements and responsibilities of the position (including the Faith and Education Commitment and Diversity Commitment), accompanied by a curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, recent teaching evaluations, and a sample of written work to the chair of the Department of Political Science, Dr. Joel H. Westra, by email at jhw3@calvin.edu. Applications will be reviewed beginning October 30, 2017, and thereafter until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3584

California State University, Sacramento

Rank: Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science (formerly Government Department) at California State University, Sacramento seeks candidates who are broadly trained in the field of comparative politics to fill a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor to begin in fall 2018. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in Political Science or related field. ABD candidates will be considered; if ABD, candidates will be required to complete the doctoral degree by January 2019. Candidates must be able to teach a range of undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics, including introduction to comparative politics (GOVT 35 and 140) and courses specializing in identity politics, including but not restricted to ethnicity, nationalism, social movements, migration, or religion. Candidates are required to demonstrate potential for scholarly achievement; the department is open to methodological approach. While regional specialization is open, preference is for candidates who can teach courses on the Middle East and Europe. Candidates must have a demonstrated commitment to working with a diverse student body. Furthermore, experience in promoting and fostering a learning environment that is supportive of a diverse student body is preferred.

Review of applications will begin October 31, 2017 and the position will remain open until filled. An applicant can find the full vacancy announcement at, and must apply through, the Sacramento State jobs website at <http://www.csus.edu/about/employment>. The job posting number is F0028P. Inquiries can be made to pols-comp-hire@csus.edu.

Applicants must submit the following: (1) cover letter addressing qualifications; (2) current curriculum vita/resume; (3) names and contact information of 3 references who will speak to the professional qualifications of the applicant; (4) Unofficial transcripts of all graduate work (official transcripts required if invited for an interview); (5) writing sample; (6) teaching evaluations and syllabi (if available); (7) Statement of teaching philosophy including discussion of commitment to and experience with a diverse student body. In addition, applicants should have three letters of recommendation emailed directly by the writer to pols-comp-hire@csus.edu. Inquiries can also be made to pols-comp-hire@csus.edu.

AA/EO Employer. Clery Act statistics available. Mandated reporter requirements. Background check (including criminal record check) required.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3577

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

University of Gothenburg

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track), V-Dem Institute, University of Gothenburg

The position (in Swedish: "biträdande lektor") is the equivalent of Assistant Professor (tenure track). The official time before coming up for tenure and promotion is four years, but can be extended to five years.

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale data collection and research program, see <https://v-dem.net> and the V-Dem Institute is Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg. The successful candidate is expected to primarily conduct research with a focus on the main questions of the research program "Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization", funded by an European Research Council Consolidator Grant. Teaching is expected up to equivalent of a 1/1 load, as well as contributions to the daily activities of the V-Dem Institute (as needed with administrative tasks, coding and quality control, data management etc). Research is guaranteed at a minimum of 50 percent of full time employment (FTE) and in practice it will probably be around 75 percent.

The position is open to candidates who have a PhD in political science or related field, within seven years of graduation. Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in areas of relevance to the FASDEM project. The successful candidate will demonstrate ability at high international level in the field of comparative democratization and/or autocratization and breakdown, authoritarian regimes, and/or political development.

It is also meritorious with:

- A well developed proposal for a research project that falls within the area of FASDEM, of high scientific quality.
- Significant, explicit interest in further extending on and use the sequencing methods developed in the V-Dem research program
- Advanced time-series, cross-sectional regression techniques, Vector Auto-Regression (VAR), sequencing algorithms, optimal matching methods, Monte Carlo chains, and/or Dynamic treatment regimes

Documented experience with teaching at under-/graduate level, is required, and service to the profession and society is a merit.

The applicant should demonstrate resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to work together in different configurations. Excellence in English (orally and written) is a requirement. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

How to apply:

The deadline for this call has unfortunately passed

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3565

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate 2018-2019

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the ten-month 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2018-2019 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req number D-18-WWS-00013 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4161>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3564

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for the 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2018-2019 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2018-2019 should apply to req number D-18-WWS-00014. <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4221>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3563

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Rowan University
Glassboro, NJ

Assistant Professor or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Rowan University is a public comprehensive state and Carnegie designated research institution with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven colleges and five schools: the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

The Department of Political Science and Economics is housed in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The College supports students to earn degrees that provide a high quality liberal arts education (problem-solving aptitude, strong oral communications, asking good questions; respect others point of view), which at the same time prepare them for diverse career paths and future. The College's graduate programs also provide students with essential skills for continuing study through doctoral programs and for lifelong learning, including critical thinking, effective communication, and an understanding of the complexity of contemporary society in the context of diverse traditions and paradigms.

The Department of Political Science and Economics has an opening for one tenure-track Assistant Professor or a junior Associate Professor in either Economics or Political Science with a specialization in Political Economy beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development, etc.).

The department offers two bachelor degree programs in both economics and political science. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first five years and can be renewed annually after the 6th year and attaining tenure with evidence of continuing scholarship. This is an interdisciplinary position where the faculty will teach 2 classes in one discipline and 1 class in the other discipline. The successful candidate will also teach calculus-based Intermediate Microeconomics to economics majors.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline must be completed by July 31, 2018.

Evidence of excellence in undergraduate teaching is required. Applicants should demonstrate strong research abilities and the potential to secure external funding for research.

To assure full consideration, completed applications must be submitted electronically by November 10th, 2017.

We will conduct interviews at the Allied Social Science Association (ASSA) meetings Jan 5-7, 2018 in Philadelphia, Pa.

For full consideration, applications should include the items, assembled in the following order in a single PDF file: 1) a cover letter summarizing qualifications and interest in the position, 2) current CV, 3) statement of teaching interests (specifically including the list of courses taught and teaching philosophy), 4) a statement of research interests 5) and Contact information for three references. Please name the file as <LastName>_Application.pdf.

Do not forward reference letters at this time.

Additional required documentation include 1) unofficial transcripts, 2) student evaluations, and 3) research paper/publications. These should be submitted as a separate file, named <LastName>_Appendix.pdf.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically through Rowan University's employment website <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492317/assistant-professor-political-economy>

Rowan University, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences and the Department of Political Science and Economics are committed to diversity and inclusion.

All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Questions should be e-mailed to Natalie Reaves, reaves@rowan.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3548

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia 2018-19

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2018–2019 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2018–19 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral by July 31, 2018) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including North-east, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate of $52,000 plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2018–19 academic year.

Applications must be received by December 20, 2017. For additional information and to apply, visit: <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/20/2017
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3528

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) Official transcripts
- (3) A curriculum vita

(4) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below

(5) A writing sample

(6) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3537

Florida State University

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 11/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/26/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3501

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3509

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science
NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education.

Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3412

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor or Provost Fellow

The Political Science Department at the University of Chicago seeks applications from scholars engaging issues of colonialism, empire, and their contemporary legacies around the world. We especially welcome applications from scholars of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Comparative Racial Politics. Themes of particular interest include: the legacies of slavery; the politics of indentured servitude; the practices of colonial and/or imperial rule; forced migration; genocidal violence; interstate relations involving former colonies; and economic (inter)dependence in the global south. One goal of the search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Department, and we therefore strongly encourage applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

Successful candidates will be appointed either as an Assistant Professor or as a Provost Fellow with an initial two-year faculty appointment at the rank of Instructor. This initial period is intended to serve in lieu of a postdoctoral appointment for the same period, during which Provost Fellows will teach one class per year. At the end of their initial term, Provost Fellows will ordinarily be promoted to Assistant Professor.

Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2018. Review of applications will begin

September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Applications must be submitted through the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website <http://tinyurl.com/yc5dkzk7>.

Applications must include: 1) a cover letter that, among other things, describes the applicant's prior and potential contributions to diversity in the context of academic research, teaching, and service; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a research statement addressing current research and future plans for research; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) one sample of scholarly writing (a published article or unpublished paper or chapter); and 6) three letters of reference.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3402

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant to Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at The University of Chicago invites applications for one position in Comparative Politics, at either the TENURED or TENURE-TRACK level to begin in the academic year 2018-19. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach.

Applications are required to include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample in the applicant's central area of research, and a brief research statement. Please submit as optional applicant documents up to three publications or unpublished manuscripts (strongly recommended) and evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

In addition, applicants for the level of assistant professor should provide three letters of recommendation via the online application system or surface mail addressed to Faculty Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 5828 S. University Avenue, Pick Hall 401, Chicago, IL 60637. Required application materials must be submitted online at <http://tinyurl.com/yasf9y80>.

Early application is strongly recommended; application review will begin September 15, 2017. Applications will be accepted until January 16, 2018, or until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

The University of Chicago is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity/Disabled/Veterans Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, age, status as an individual with a disability, protected veteran status, genetic information or other protected classes under the law. For additional information please see the University's Notice of Nondiscrimination at <http://www.uchicago.edu/about/> non_discrimination_statement/. Job seekers in need of a reasonable accommodation to complete the application process should call 773-702-0287 or email ACOppAdministrator@uchicago.edu with their request.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3403

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Rank: Assistant Professor Asian Politics

<https://www.higheredjobs.com/institution/details.cfm?JobCode=176563167&Title=Asian%20Politics%2C%20Assistant%20Professor%2C%20College%20of%20Liberal%20Arts%20%5B18526%5D&aID=584>

ROLE of the POSITION

The Department of Political Science at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) invites applications from well qualified individuals for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics with an area specialization in Asia. The position will be filled at the assistant professor level commencing fall 2018. In addition to teaching introductory courses in comparative politics, the successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses in his or her area of expertise.

QUALIFICATIONS

This position requires an earned doctorate in Political Science from a regionally accredited college or university completed by the time of appointment; evidence of a strong research program or the potential to develop one; and excellence in teaching. UNLV has a diverse student body and is seeking to attract a diverse applicant pool for the position. Other responsibilities include engaging in research leading to scholarly, peer-reviewed publications; mentoring undergraduate and graduate students, and providing appropriate service at the department, college, and university levels.

Preferred qualifications include an ability to teach a general proseminar graduate course in comparative politics.

APPLICATION DETAILS

Submit a letter of interest, a detailed resume listing qualifications and experience, and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least three professional references who may be contacted. Applicants should fully describe their qualifications and experience, with specific reference to each of the minimum and preferred qualifications because this is the information on which the initial review of materials will be based.

Although this position will remain open until filled, review of candidates' materials will begin on October 13, 2017 and best consideration will be gained for materials submitted prior to that date. Materials should be addressed to Jonathan Strand, Search Committee Chair, and are to be submitted via on-line application at <https://hrsearch.unlv.edu/>. For assistance with UNLV's on-line applicant portal, contact UNLV Employment Services at (702) 895-3504 or applicant.inquiry@unlv.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3399

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3361

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

University of New Mexico

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a position in Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. This appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, in a probationary position leading to a tenure decision. Minimum qualifications are: a Ph.D. in Political Science, Government, or related field by start date of appointment, and a research specialization in Comparative Politics. Preferred qualifications are: demonstrated excellence in conducting substantively and theoretically significant research in comparative politics; demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics; expertise on Latin America; strong methodological expertise; international research experience; ability to teach an interdisciplinary social science course on Latin America; capacity to add to the intellectual breadth of the department; and demonstrated commitment to equity and inclusion and student success and working with broadly diverse students and communities. For best consideration, apply no later than October 22, 2017. This position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science currently employs 14 regular faculty members and maintains a small but highly competitive and nationally recognized graduate program (MA and Ph.D.), as well as a high quality undergraduate major (BA); it also plays an active role in the interdisciplinary Latin American Studies BA and MA programs as well as the interdisciplinary International Studies BA program. UNM's Latin American and Iberian Institute, as well as the International Studies Institute and Global Education Office, provide funding and programmatic support for international scholarship. The successful candidate will teach a course in the Latin American Studies program as a part of their regular teaching rotation.

UNM is a Carnegie Doctoral/ Research-Extensive University and US/DE Minority-Serving public university. As the state's largest university, UNM serves a diverse student population of over 26,000 at its main campus in Albuquerque. The University of New Mexico actively seeks and encourages nominations of and applications from individuals who are members of under-represented groups.

To apply, electronically submit your statement of interest, curriculum vitae, an unofficial graduate transcript, one sample solo-authored peer-reviewed publication or other solo-authored written work, and teaching materials (one sample course syllabus and course evaluation scores for all classes taught at the undergraduate or graduate level) at <https://unmjobs.unm.edu/>, Requisition #2326. Additionally, three letters of recommendation must be emailed directly by your references to Steven Romero, Department Administrator at stevenromero@unm.edu. Semi-finalists may be asked to submit additional samples of written work, additional sample syllabi, and official graduate transcripts.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3366

Columbia University

Rank: Assistant Professor - Comparative Politics

Assistant Professor (Tenure Track)
Comparative Politics
School of International and Public Affairs and
Department of Political Science
Columbia University

Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs and Department of Political Science invite applications for a position in comparative political economy at the assistant professor level to begin July 2018. We particularly welcome applications from individuals studying the political economy of development.

Ph.D. required. All candidates must have excellent scholarship and excellent promise for future development as scholars and teachers. Applicants should submit cover letter, curriculum vitae, at least one writing sample, and arrange to have three letters of recommendation submitted on their behalf.

Please visit our online application site at: <https://academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65148> for further information about this position and to submit your application.

The Search Committee will begin reviewing applications on October 1, 2017, and will continue to consider applications until the position is filled. For further information, please contact Joe Chartier, Academic Department Administrator, School of International and Public Affairs, at jc3317@columbia.edu

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women and under-represented minorities.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3352

SUNY, College at Oneonta

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/

academics/polsci/. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3351

California State University Dominguez Hills

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

www.csudh.edu

Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics
College of Natural & Behavioral Sciences

Position Description

The faculty of the Department of Political Science at California State University Dominguez Hills invites applications from individuals for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics, effective Fall 2018.

Department of Political Science

The Political Science Department is located in the College of Natural and Behavioral Sciences. The current faculty is comprised of four tenured and tenure-track faculty joined by 9 to 11 part-time faculty each term. Political Science provides excellent opportunities for the study of government and politics. Over 40 courses cover all the major aspects of the discipline. Students develop an understanding of human behavior as it relates to politics. They learn to discuss and analyze critically current public policy issues facing the United States and the world. They are taught how to critically observe and understand world affairs and comparative politics. They are trained in appropriate research techniques for the study of political processes. The General Political Science Concentration is a relatively "open" one, allowing students to choose from a wide range of courses and subjects within a general framework. It is designed for students seeking broad exposure to the diverse subjects of the discipline and is recommended for most students.

The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise (comprised of a major research paper) in one of the elective courses. The department offers internship opportunities at the national, California government and local government levels. The Department sponsors an active student organization (APSS, the Association of Political Science Students) and successful Model United Nations (MUN) and Mock Trial program for students.

For more information see: <http://www4.csudh.edu/political-science/index>

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Responsibilities

The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching, performing service on departmental and university-wide bases, publishing research in peer-reviewed academic journals relevant to the discipline of political science/the subfield of Comparative Politics, maintaining office hours, providing advising for our majors and minors, and participating with colleagues in curricular development.

The Position

Faculty members teach four classes or their equivalent each semester (although new faculty receive reduced teaching assignments); maintain an active research program; mentor and advise students; and serve on departmental and university committees. The appointment will be effective for the fall semester of the 2018-2019 academic year, beginning in August 2018. The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise under the supervision of one of the tenured or tenure track members of the faculty.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate will have a promising record of effective teaching, scholarly research and service, will be innovative in his or her thinking in a department strongly committed to academic excellence, community outreach and the development of partnerships with local and federal government institutions and businesses to enhance the learning experience of political science students and to help prepare them for success in the job market, legal careers or graduate school.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- A PhD or ABD in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution of higher education
- Research experience
- Teaching experience or training in teaching techniques.
- Expertise in area studies, in one of more of the following fields: Asia, The Middle East, Europe, Africa
- Teaching and research interest in Comparative Politics
- A strong interest in developing new courses to reflect the changing nature of the international system and developments in the discipline of Political Science.
- Experience and/or ability in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Secondary interest in Quantitative Methodology
- Ability and willingness to teach, and perform research utilizing, Quantitative Methodology
- An interest in student-involved research

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

CSU Dominguez Hills

On April 29, 1960, Gov. Pat Brown signed a bill into law authorizing the formation of a state college to serve the growing southwestern region of Los Angeles County. From its humble beginnings in a bank building in Rolling Hills Estates, CSU Dominguez Hills has evolved into a thriving and nationally recognized comprehensive university, providing an innovative liberal arts education to a diverse student body.

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Vision

A vital educational and economic resource for the South Bay, CSU Dominguez Hills will be recognized as a top-performing Comprehensive Model Urban University in America. We will be known as a campus community and gathering place where:

- Diversity in all its forms is explored, understood, and transformed into knowledge and practice that benefits the world.
- Technology is embraced and leveraged to transcend educational boundaries as we reach out to students, both locally and globally.
- Sustainable environmental, social and economic practices are a way of life.
- Students from our community who aspire to complete a college degree are provided the pathway and guidance to succeed.
- Faculty and staff across the University are engaged in serving the dynamic needs of the surrounding communities.
- Student life is meaningful and vibrant.
- Our accomplishments and those of our alumni are recognized nationally and internationally.
- Ultimately, our students graduate with an exemplary academic education, a highly respected degree, and a genuine commitment to justice and social responsibility.

About the University

CSU Dominguez Hills holds the Carnegie classification of Master's L and is a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution. Class sizes are small as compared with large research universities and classes are taught by the faculty, not by teaching assistants. Many of the university's students are the first in their families to earn a university degree. While the university enrolls traditional full-time students, many students enroll part-time and attend late afternoon, evening and weekend classes because of work and family responsibilities.

CSU Dominguez Hills offers 45 baccalaureate degrees, 24 master's degrees, and a number of certificate and credential programs. Enrollment exceeds 14,635 students, and the student population is among the most ethnically and culturally rich in the nation: 60% Hispanic/Latino, 14.5% Black/ African-American, 10.9% White, 10.8% Asian,

.10% American Indian/ Alaska Native, .30% Native Hawaiian/ Other Pacific Islander, 3.10% Two or more races.

The University is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), the accrediting body for institutions of higher learning in the West. Twelve programs hold accreditations from national professional associations: business administration, clinical sciences, computer science, education, health science, music, nursing, occupational therapy, public administration, special education, theatre arts, and social work.

The academic programs of the university are organized under the Colleges of Arts and Humanities, Business Administration and Public Policy, Extended and International Education, Natural and Behavioral Sciences, Education, and Health and Human Services, and Nursing. While continuing to emphasize the liberal arts and sciences, professional programs offered at the undergraduate and graduate level, developed to serve the region's workforce needs, are of great interest to students and prepare them for professions in a variety of industries.

Known for excellence in teacher education, nursing, psychology, business administration, and digital media arts, new degree programs include computer science, criminal justice, recreation and leisure studies, social work, and communication disorders. CSU Dominguez Hills is a national leader in distance learning with 10 academic degrees and seven certificate programs offered.

Faculty

A tradition of teaching excellence lies at the heart of the university experience for Dominguez Hills' students. Most of the faculty have earned doctoral degrees from prestigious universities across the nation. The faculty strives to sustain a dynamic teaching and learning environment in a multicultural setting. The Academic Senate provides a forum for faculty, administration, students and others to be represented and consulted regarding such vital issues as budget priorities, academic standards, curriculum and instruction, and student affairs.

Student Life

At CSU Dominguez Hills, there's more to student life than the classroom. The university offers a dynamic, interactive and enriching community of learners, teachers and peers sharing diverse points of view. There are multitudes of ways for students to pursue interests, get involved, and get the most from their academic experience.

An office of student life enhances student development by coordinating a variety of co-curricular activities, including 60 student organizations. Students are encouraged to perform community service and participate in leadership development. The Multicultural Center on campus promotes the exploration of diverse heritages, values and cultural experiences by offering a wide range of activities and programs throughout the academic year.

CSU Dominguez Hills is a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II institution that competes in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). CSU Dominguez Hills is one of the most athletically competitive and honored schools in the CCAA, with 23 conference titles and four national championships to date, including the 2008 NCAA D-II Men's Soccer National Championship. CSU Dominguez Hills sponsors 11 intercollegiate athletic teams.

The Location

The university is located in Carson, California, in the South Bay region of Los Angeles County. Its 346-acre park-like campus is situated in the historic Rancho San Pedro, the oldest Spanish land grant in the Los Angeles area. The site remained in the continuous possession of the Dominguez family for seven generations - from its inception in 1794 to its acquisition by the state of California.

The Region

The South Bay is one of the most culturally, economically, and ethnically diverse areas in the United States, with a largely even distribution of the population with African, Asian/Pacific Islander, European, and Latino ancestry. The university is located in the city of Carson, a city of 93,000 residents and one of the many municipalities that border the city of Los Angeles. Cultural, performance and sports venues in downtown Los Angeles are about 15 minutes away and the South Bay beach communities are a few minutes away to the west and south. The StubHub, a 125-acre sports center developed by AEG and home to Major League Soccer's L.A. Galaxy and Chivas USA, is located on the CSUDH campus.

The campus is strategically located in the heart of a major technological, industrial and transportation complex in Southern California. This area includes the massive Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles - Southern California's gateway to international commerce. The South Bay region is also home to aerospace, oil refinery, healthcare and automotive industries.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by October 15, 2017.

- Current Curricula Vitae
- Cover letter
- Three Letters of Recommendation
- Copy of Terminal Degree
- A Statement on Teaching
- A Statement on Research
- Sample Publications (if available)
- Teaching Evaluations (if available)

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:

<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee when to submit official transcripts directly to the email address of rsusso@csudh.edu or you may mail directly to:

Dr. Salvatore J. Russo
Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
CSU, Dominguez Hills
1000 East Victoria Street
Carson, CA 90747

California State University, Dominguez Hills, is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Individuals with disabilities requesting accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) may call the CSU Dominguez Hills Human Resources Office (310) 243-3771 or the Academic Affairs Personnel Services Office at (310) 243-3766.

Clery Act crime statistics for CSUDH are available at <http://www.csudh.edu/dhpd/>, or by calling University Police at (310) 243-3693.

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3348

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships AY 2018-19

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of contemporary domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, and social/legal/economic development of China, particularly on issues related to urbanization, political/economic reform, energy/environment, social welfare, and civil society. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center throughout the academic year also required (e.g. weekly doctoral fellows workshop series). It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation during the fellowship period as well as participate in the Center's publication program. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have his/her degree conferral by June 1, 2018.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2018 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

To submit an application for the 2018-20 fellowship, please refer to <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Email the completed application form, research proposal, current CV, 2 writing samples, and 2 letters of recommendation by December 15, 2017 (Friday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowship" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters must be emailed directly by the recommenders. All recommendation letters must be received for full consideration.

Further inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama
Manager for Ash Center Fellows Programs
Harvard Kennedy School
E-mail: Kaori_Urayama@hks.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 1968

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3337

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy

Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.

- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3329

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3320

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Russia, South Asia

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. The successful candidate should have conducted innovative research in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 preps per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens.

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia.

Additional details for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciRCP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3319

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics or International Relations and Methods

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in comparative politics or international relations starting in August 2018. Candidate must be able to teach classes in research methods. Cross-regional or Middle East expertise is desirable. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans, teaching interests and qualifications for teaching research methods; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3295

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Comparative Politics of Migration

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in the Comparative Politics of Ethnicity and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43796>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3267

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).

5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

University of Pittsburgh

Rank: Assistant Professor- Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Pittsburgh invites applications for a tenure-stream position at the level of Assistant Professor in comparative politics, pending budgetary approval.

Successful candidates will have a strong regional expertise that focuses on, but is not necessarily limited to, Europe and have a substantive focus on topics relevant to consolidated democracies with developed economies. We are open to a variety of methodological approaches. We are especially interested in scholars whose work complements and builds on departmental strengths in comparative and international politics. The position will also be affiliated with the University's European Studies Center (<https://www.ucis.pitt.edu/esc/>).

Applicants should have a Ph.D. in hand or expected by the end of the summer 2018. Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of research and teaching interests, two or three writing samples, teaching evaluations (if available), and a minimum of three letters of reference. For each reference, you will have the opportunity to input a personal email address or an email address generated through Interfolio's Online Application Delivery. In both cases, an email notification will be sent to the designated address with instructions about uploading letters of recommendation into our system. Please apply electronically at <https://facultysearch.as.pitt.edu/apply/index/MTkx>. Review of applications will be on September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The Political Science Department telephone number is (412) 648-7290; the contact e-mail address is wynn2@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity, and diversity. EEO/AA/M/F/Vets/Disabled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3186

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3156

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles) invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position in the field of Comparative Politics. Areas of interest include state formation and capacity, authoritarianism and democratization, contentious politics, identity politics, political institutions and policymaking, and the political economy of development. We welcome applications from scholars studying any developing region, including South Asia, Latin America, and Africa. Promise of excellence in research and teaching, and a completed Ph.D. by the start of appointment, are required.

In order to be considered, applicants are required to submit an electronic USC application; follow this job link or paste in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-in-comparative-politics/1209/5281326>. The applicant should upload a CV, a letter of interest, writing samples, and the names of three individuals who will be contacted by USC for references. Referees will be contacted automatically upon receipt of the application, and must upload their letters prior to the deadline. Inquiries may be sent to posc@dornsife.usc.edu. Materials submitted by regular mail will not be accepted. Review of applications will start September 25, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

USC is an equal-opportunity educator and employer, proudly pluralistic and firmly committed to providing equal opportunity for outstanding persons of every race, gender, creed and background. The University particularly encourages women, members of underrepresented groups, veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply. USC will make reasonable accommodations for qualified individuals with known disabilities unless doing so would result in an undue hardship. Further information is available by contacting uschr@usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3141

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Search in Comparative Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in Comparative Political Economy. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43427>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date. Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3135

Cornell University

Rank: Tenture-track Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics

The Department of Government at Cornell University welcomes applications for a full-time, tenure-track position in Comparative Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The department has special interest in candidates whose research and teaching interests include formal theory, Europe, the Middle East, and/or South Asia. A PhD is required no later than July 1, 2018.

Applicants should apply online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajol/jobs/9482>. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, samples of written work, and three letters of recommendation, as well as teaching evaluations and materials if available. We will begin to review applications starting September 15, 2017, and will continue until the search is complete.

Diversity and inclusion have been and continue to be a part of our heritage. The Department of Government, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Cornell embrace diversity and seek candidates who will create a climate that attracts students and faculty of all races, nationalities and genders. We strongly encourage women and under-represented minorities to apply. Cornell University is a recognized EEO/AA employer and educator, valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3125

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3129

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

Boston College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics

The Department of Political Science of Boston College invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor rank in Comparative Politics/South Asia Politics. The position is open in regard to research focus and methods. Preference will be given to candidates with substantive fieldwork, demonstrated teaching excellence, and a broad knowledge of the region. The appointment begins in the Fall 2018 semester.

Candidates are expected to have their Ph.D. in hand by the start date. Interested candidates should upload a letter of interest, stating research and teaching interests; curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, and a writing sample; and evidence of teaching excellence to the Interfolio online system at <https://apply.interfolio.com/43536>. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be uploaded to Interfolio by the individual writers. Applications must be received by October 1, 2017. No email or U.S.P.S. applications will be accepted.

Boston College is a Jesuit, Catholic university that strives to integrate research excellence with a foundational commitment to formative liberal arts education. We encourage applications from candidates who are committed to fostering a diverse and inclusive academic community.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3079

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3059

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, International Relations or Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the fields of international relations or comparative politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on September 1, 2017.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3070

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3018

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Chinese Politics

The Department of Political Science at the Johns Hopkins University invites applications for one or more open rank positions in Comparative Politics. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in Chinese politics. Other priority areas that would build on and extend existing strengths in the department include social movements, labor, the welfare state, environmental politics, and/or race and immigration. The Comparative Politics subfield at Hopkins builds upon one of the distinctive strengths of the Political Science department: fostering innovative research and cross-field synergies that reach beyond the traditional divides of our discipline. Over the last decade, we have developed exciting collaborations in Comparative and International Political Economy, Parties and Elections, Transnational Politics, and Comparative Racial Politics. We are a methodologically diverse and pluralistic department, and we encourage applications from those trained in a variety of research methods. Applicants should submit a letter of interest that describes their research agenda, writing sample, and curriculum vitae. In addition, candidates applying at the level of assistant professor should send teaching evaluations, if available, and three letters of recommendation; those applying at the tenured level should provide the names of three references on Interfolio <http://apply.interfolio.com/31670>

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The position will commence on July 1, 2018. Johns Hopkins is committed to active recruitment of a diverse faculty and student body. The University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer of women, minorities, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities and encourages applications from these and other protected group members. Consistent with the University's goals of achieving excellence in all areas, we will assess the comprehensive qualifications of each applicant.

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2996

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC

San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor Comparative Politics

Specializations: Western Europe, Quantitative Methods, Electoral Systems

Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics for the 2018-19 academic year beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach six courses, including introductory courses in Comparative Politics, advanced courses in European Politics, and one to two sections of research methods.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status is required. The opportunity to maintain a personal research program will be available.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2174>. A curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2976

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics/IR

Teaching a 3/3 course load, with courses in International or Comparative Political Economy, as well as additional courses in International Politics and/or Comparative Politics and the applicant's area of regional specialty. Maintain an active research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Service includes advising duties for Global Studies majors and other service to the department as assigned by Chair, as well as institutional service.

A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Research agenda and expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. Candidate should have a PhD in Political Science or be ABD.

Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia.

The Department of Political Science at Loyola University Maryland invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The position begins Fall 2018.

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and an interest in the enduring questions of Politics, with an ability to teach International or Comparative Political Economy. Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia. Applicants should have their primary training in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations, and the expectation will be for courses to be taught in Introduction to Politics, International or Comparative Political Economy, International Politics and/or Comparative Politics, as well as in the regional area of expertise. Candidates should have a PhD or ABD.

The teaching load for the position is three courses in the fall and three courses in the spring semester, with a single-course reduction the first semester (each course is capped at 30 students). Courses will primarily serve Political Science and Global Studies majors.

The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in Loyola's growing Global Studies program. Global Studies is an interdisciplinary major with a curriculum based in the four disciplines of Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology. Students begin with foundational coursework in each department, and then develop topical specializations in the junior and senior years. The program hosts annual speakers and special events, and is a significant presence on campus. Faculty who contribute to Global Studies participate in student advising and mentoring, teach courses in the major, and become part of the Global Studies academic community. The candidate will be a member of the Political Science Department but will advise Global Studies majors.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

To apply, please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to submit a C.V., three letters of reference, graduate transcripts (copies are acceptable), an article-length manuscript or chapter demonstrating scholarly potential, and a cover letter explaining teaching approach in relation to Loyola's educational mission. Teaching evaluations and sample course syllabi should also be submitted if available (select Option 1 to submit syllabi in online application). Please submit applications by September 15 to ensure full consideration. For questions related to the search or any materials that are only available in hard copy or cannot otherwise be submitted through the online application (which could include letters of reference or teaching evaluations), please send files to Dr. Carsten Vala via email to cvala@loyola.edu or via mail to him at Department of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/8/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2949

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Latin American or Latino Studies

Specializations: Latin American, Latino Politics, Immigration Policy

The Department of Political Science and Latin American and Latino Studies (LALS) Program at Lehigh University seek to hire an Assistant Professor to begin in the fall term of the 2018 academic year. The position will be a joint appointment in Political Science (the department of tenure) and LALS. We are looking for a colleague with a demonstrated record of achievement in U.S. domestic Latinx Studies (in such areas as Latinx and Caribbean communities, Latinx civic engagement, immigration, labor issues, and gender studies) and/or comparative Latin American politics with a focus on transnationalism in Latino communities. The candidate should be committed to creative scholarship and teaching which complement and augment the LALS program's interdisciplinary strengths. The normal teaching load for this position is two courses each semester, which will be cross-listed in political science and LALS.

The university offers a competitive salary commensurate with rank and Lehigh offers excellent benefits including domestic partner benefits.

Completed applications are due by October 1, 2017. They must include a letter of interest, a current CV, three letters of reference, and representative reprints of any publications. These materials should be submitted online by accessing <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajojobs/9250>.

For additional information please contact: Dr. Laura Katz Olson, Search Committee Chair, at lko1@lehigh.edu or Dr. Matthew Bush, Director of Latin American and Latino Studies, at mab508@lehigh.edu.

Lehigh University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status. Applications by members of all underrepresented groups are encouraged.

Recognized among the nation's premier research universities, Lehigh offers a rigorous academic community for nearly 7,000 students. Lehigh University is located in Bethlehem, PA., a vibrant and historic area. Over 820,000 people live in the Lehigh Valley, which is in close proximity to New York City and Philadelphia. Interested applicants are invited to visit the Political Science Department website: <https://polisci.cas2.lehigh.edu/>; and the Lehigh Work/Life Balance for Faculty Web site: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 6/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2886

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor in Comparative politics to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specializations, and successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Comparative Politics Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eeo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/31/2017

Date Posted: 6/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2867

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2747

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Messiah College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics and International Relations
Specializations: East Asia, Middle East, Africa

The Department of Politics and International Relations at Messiah College invites applications for a term tenure-track position in International Relations and Comparative Politics. Applicants must be able to teach introductory courses in both International Politics and Comparative Politics as well as an upper-level survey of theoretical approaches to international relations. With respect to Comparative Politics, we are seeking someone who specializes in Asian Politics, Middle Eastern Politics, and/or African Politics. Successful candidates will show an interest in and commitment to teaching general education students in our interdisciplinary studies program. Departmental administrative experience is a plus. We are a department of approximately fifty majors whose graduates have included Rhodes, Truman, Carnegie, and Fulbright scholars. Our students are encouraged to think independently, to engage opposing points of view, and to develop a concern for public life in the interest of promoting social justice. A full version of this position description is available at jobs.messiah.edu. Applicants should apply via our online system at jobs.messiah.edu. The application deadline is January 30, 2018, but we will consider applications until the position is filled. Application materials required of candidates include a cover letter that includes a statement describing their research agenda and courses they are prepared to teach, CV, and three letters of reference, as well as completion of the online application form itself that will require a statement of Christian faith and of teaching philosophy.

Messiah College is a Christian college of the liberal and applied arts and sciences. The College is committed to an embracing evangelical spirit rooted in the Anabaptist, Pietist and Wesleyan traditions of the Christian Church. Our mission is to educate men and women toward maturity of intellect, character and Christian faith in preparation for lives of service, leadership and reconciliation in church and society. It welcomes applications from all individuals of serious commitment to the Christian church. Successful candidates will affirm the Apostle's Creed and support other foundational documents of the College. Messiah College is fully committed to a diverse faculty and student body. Successful candidates will evidence similar commitments.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3841

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Resident Fellowship in Ethics
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Normative Political Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

Resident Fellowship in Ethics

Vice Admiral James B. Stockdale Center for Ethical Leadership
 U.S. Naval Academy

The U.S. Naval Academy's Stockdale Center invites applications for its annual Resident Fellowship Program for academic year 2018-2019.

The Secretary of the Navy and the Superintendent of the Naval Academy established the Center in 1998 to be a thought leader in the field of military ethics and leadership and serve the Naval Academy, the Naval Service and national institutions of influence.

Minimum qualifications: dissertation phase of a Ph.D. program in a humanities or social science area and U.S. citizenship. Ideal candidates will be published Ph.D. holders with university teaching experience in ethics, political theory, international relations, public policy, and/or history. We are especially interested in scholars familiar with the literature on human rights, moral virtue and/or the just war theory.

The Stockdale Center anticipates selecting up to three residential fellows, whose focus will be a weekly seminar devoted to defense-related ethics topics. Fellows will also have the opportunity to conduct additional research projects in cooperation with the Naval Academy's civilian and military faculty members.

Application review will begin January 1, 2018. Click here to be directed to the full advertisement on the United States Naval Academy

Human Resources website, which includes application instructions: <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/EthicsFellow18.php>.

The United States Naval Academy is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3840

Hillsdale College

Rank: Politics Faculty Position (Open Rank)
Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics
Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical, Foreign Policy

The Department of Politics and The Van Andel Graduate School at Hillsdale College invite application for a tenure-track faculty position (rank open), beginning August, 2018. The Department's needs are greatest in Classical Political Philosophy, so candidates with a credible record of teaching and scholarly work in that area will receive strongest consideration. Candidates with an additional specialty in International Relations, Comparative Politics, or American Foreign Policy will be prioritized. Applicants should be aware that their teaching responsibilities will range from an introductory core course for freshmen and sophomores to graduate level classes. Since the Department services a graduate program, applicants will need to have a record of scholarly publication, and should have a Ph.D. in hand.

Hillsdale College is a small (1400 students) independent college of liberal arts, dedicated to excellence in teaching and advising students. Applicants should familiarize themselves with the College's mission statement: <https://www.hillsdale.edu/about/mission/>. The College also considers itself a trustee of our Western philosophical and theological inheritance tracing to Athens and Jerusalem, a heritage finding its clearest expression in the American experiment of self-government under law.

Complete applications will include: (a) letter of application; (b) curriculum vitae; (c) transcripts; (d) three up-to-date letters of recommendation, (e) a statement of teaching and research interests; (f) samples of publications or other scholarly manuscripts. Within the statement of teaching and research interests there should be a detailed response to the College's mission statement that includes a discussion of the applicant's ability to teach in light of its commitments. For further information on the undergraduate and graduate programs, visit www.hillsdale.edu and gradschool.hillsdale.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 15th and continue until the position is filled. Send all application materials by email or regular mail to Dr. Ronald J. Pestritto, Graduate Dean and Professor of Politics, Hillsdale College, 33 E. College Street, Hillsdale, MI 49242. Email submissions may be sent to PoliticsSearch@hillsdale.edu. Salary competitive. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/15/2018
Date Posted: 11/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3830

University of Pennsylvania

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow - Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House

PERRY WORLD HOUSE POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM ANNOUNCEMENT

The Global Innovation Program at the University of Pennsylvania's Perry World House invites applications for its postdoctoral fellowship program during the 2018-2019 academic year. The Global Innovation Program is the research arm of Perry World House, the University of Pennsylvania's new university-wide hub for global engagement and interdisciplinary international policy research. Perry World House connects Penn to the international policy world through research, student engagement, and public programming, bringing the university's intellectual resources to bear on the urgent global challenges of the 21st century.

We hope to bring several postdoctoral fellows to campus for the 2018-2019 academic year. We are seeking excellent scholars who study global affairs and have interest in interdisciplinary outreach and policy relevance. We are particularly interested in applicants in the following areas:

- The Future of the Global Order: Power, Technology, and Governance
- Global Shifts: Urbanization, Migration, and Demography
- Borders & Boundaries in World Politics

The Future of the Global Order

From Russia's invasion of Ukraine and China's construction of artificial islands in the South China Seas to the global economic and political effects of new technologies and questions of how international institutions will handle diverse questions such as ISIS-driven mass killings, the post-Cold War global order may be at a tipping point. In addition, systemic trends such as globalization and climate change mean that the challenges of today and tomorrow will be global – and require global responses. The role of automated trading algorithms in the 2010 “Flash Crash” in the United States, combined with the specter of drone warfare around the world due and the proliferation of military robotics, highlight how the intersection of technologies such as cyber and robotics presents enormous challenges for global business and diplomatic norms. In a time of change, academic research has the potential to shed significant light on these issues, and highlight new and important approaches for the global policy community.

In this theme area, Perry World House will focus primarily, but not exclusively, on four areas: the implications of emerging technologies for global politics, shifting global power balances and how they influence both state and non-state actors, the evolution of international legal regimes, and the ability of the international community to sustain effective governing institutions in times of change.

Global Shifts

Urbanization, migration, and demographic changes are transforming the human environment, creating both new challenges and opportunities. The UN High Commission for Refugees said in 2015 that the world faces the highest level of human displacement since its founding in 1950. New and changing migration patterns, whether driven by civil wars, instability due to environmental change, economic hardships, or potential opportunities elsewhere, have depth and nuance that have proven hard to predict – or track. At the same time, over 66% of the world's population will live in urban spaces by 2050, raising critical questions about urban vitality and sustainability.

Yet, the diverse causes and consequences of urbanization, migration, and demographic change have not been fully understood, and are too often examined in isolation. The University of Pennsylvania is poised to contribute to pressing policy debates and to help develop new approaches to these global shifts given the University's numerous strengths in urban studies, sociology, demography, law, and politics. The Global Innovation Program at Perry World House will bring together Penn's strengths in these areas through an interconnected examination of urbanization, migration, and demography.

Borders & Boundaries in World Politics

The Project on Borders and Boundaries in World Politics has two openings for post-doctoral research fellows for one year, renewable, full-time appointments. Fellows will split their time between their own research and work with a team led by Professor Beth Simmons, Andrea Mitchell University Professor in Law, Political Science, and Business Ethics. The Project is concerned with boundaries between organized human communities, broadly understood. International borders, border regions and border crossings have multiple significance as designations of state authority, security buffers, expressions of social meaning and opportunities for economic integration. Border regions and activities speak to national and local encounters with neighbors and the rest of the world. This project is concerned with how humans demarcate the space between “us” and “them.” It contextualizes border architecture, infrastructure and institutions as expressions of various social, political and economic anxieties associated with globalization. This research team will concern itself with a broad range of questions relating to “bordering” in world politics. Applicants with an interest in territorial politics; migration and movement across borders; development in and across border regions; border crossing regimes, architectures and institutions; transnational migration; transnational crime, human trafficking and law enforcement across borders; and related issues are welcome to apply. Skills in empirical spatial analysis, GIS technologies, mapping technologies, experimental analyses, computerized textual and imaging analyses, and similar technologies are highly desirable, as are computer programming skills and experience using large computer databases and statistical software.

Requirements and Application Information

Postdoctoral fellows in Global Order and Global Shifts research areas will pursue their own research as well as participate in the intellectual life of the Global Innovation Program and Perry World House. Postdoctoral fellows will be expected to give a presentation during the academic year in the Perry World House Seminar Series, publish policy relevant scholarship related to Perry World House themes, engage with Perry World House's Undergraduate Student Fellows, and attend regularly scheduled seminars. They will also assist with designing and planning engagement in relevant theme areas. Perry World House will also introduce each postdoctoral fellow to related faculty and leaders of centers and institutes at the University of Pennsylvania.

Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their Ph.D. or equivalent degrees (including a J.D. in the case of applicants focused on international legal regimes) in the last two years (not earlier than 2015), or who expect to complete their degree by June 2018. Applications will be reviewed starting January 12, 2018. To receive full consideration, applications and letters of recommendation should be received by that date.

All postdoctoral fellow positions pay a stipend of $50,000 plus relevant fees and health insurance. The position also provides $2,000 in research support.

To apply, please go to:

- Global Order or Global Shifts: <http://apply.interfolio.com/45843>
- Borders & Boundaries: <http://apply.interfolio.com/47129>

Applicants will be asked to complete a short form as well as upload a cover letter, CV/resume, one page research statement, writing sample, and unofficial PhD transcript (only required for current graduate students). We will also ask for the name and email address of two letter writers who can submit a letter of recommendation.

General Information

The University of Pennsylvania is strongly committed to Penn's Action Plan for Faculty Diversity and Excellence and to establishing a more diverse community at Penn (for more information see: <http://www.upenn.edu/almanac/volumes/v58/n02/diversityplan.html>).

The University of Pennsylvania values diversity and seeks talented students, faculty and staff from diverse backgrounds. The University of Pennsylvania does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, national or ethnic origin, citizenship status, age, disability, veteran status or any other legally protected class status in the administration of its admissions, financial aid, educational or athletic programs, or other University-administered programs or in its employment practices. Questions or complaints regarding this policy should be directed to the Executive Director of the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, Sansom Place East, 3600 Chestnut Street, Suite 228, Philadelphia, PA 19104-6106; or (215) 898-6993 (Voice) or (215) 898-7803 (TDD).

If you have questions, please email postdoc@pwh.upenn.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/12/2018
Date Posted: 11/29/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3837

University of Reading

Rank: Professor of War and Conflict Studies
Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Administration
Specializations: Defense, International Security, Conflict Processes

The Department of Politics and International Relations at the University of Reading is seeking to appoint a Professor of War and Conflict Studies, to further strengthen our research profile in this area, and lead our engagement with defence and security actors. The successful candidate will be an outstanding scholar and excellent teacher, who can provide leadership in research, grant applications, and outreach. The successful candidate will enhance the department's existing relationship with the British military in both teaching and research activities, and play a central role in our Ways of War Centre. The department appreciates that war and conflict can be studied from different perspectives, and thus welcomes excellent candidates with backgrounds in International Relations, War Studies, International Security, Conflict Studies, Strategic Studies, Organisational Behaviour, Public Policy, Political Psychology and related disciplines.

This is an exciting time to join the department. Politics and International Relations is ranked among the top 10 politics departments in the UK by research intensity in the 2014 Research Excellence Framework (REF). We are a dynamic department with internationally recognised strength in Conflict, Security, and Strategy; International Relations; Applied Political Theory; Comparative Politics, and Public Policy Analysis. We are a partner in the £14 million Army Higher Education Pathway project to design and deliver online BSc and MSc teaching to approximately 500 cadets per year from the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst and the Defence Academy at Shrivenham.

Further details and application materials: <https://jobs.reading.ac.uk/displayjob.aspx?jobid=2334>

Informal discussion and questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Jonathan Golub, Head of Department, j.s.golub@reading.ac.uk

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/16/2018
Date Posted: 11/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3835

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW
Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Economic Policy, Energy Policy

FACULTY FELLOW
 Department of Environmental Studies
 ARTS AND SCIENCE
 New York University

The Department of Environmental Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for the position of Faculty Fellow. The appointment will be for one year beginning September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year pending administrative and budgetary approval. The successful applicant will be an interdisciplinary scholar ready to contribute to the education of undergraduates majoring in Environmental Studies, teaching three courses per year that fulfill the major's "governance" requirement. We welcome candidates from a broad range of social science and policy backgrounds (e.g., environmental studies, geography, political science, sociology, economics, public policy). We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in Global Environmental Governance. Applicants must have completed their Ph.D. no more than five years before the appointment date. Candidates should apply with a cover letter, CV, three (3) confidential letters of recommendation, a teaching statement, and a writing sample. Review of applications will begin on January 31, 2018 and will continue until the search is complete. To apply, please go to the following: <https://apply.interfolio.com/47361>. More information is available at <http://as.nyu.edu/environment/employment.html>.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here. (<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>)

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/28/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3834

Tulane University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for four (4) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2018-2019, two with program administration duties and two with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $47,500 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowship carries a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment.

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2018. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting <https://apply.interfolio.com/47253> and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2017 until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 11/28/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3831

University of Notre Dame

Rank: Post-doctoral Fellowship in Innovative Approaches to Grand Strategy

The Notre Dame International Security Center (NDISC) and the Department of Political Science invite applications for a post-doctoral fellowship in "Innovative Approaches to Grand Strategy." By grand strategy, we mean some aspect of where, when, and how states (as well as armed groups) consider using military force among other instruments of statecraft to achieve foreign policy goals broadly defined. We seek candidates whose work applies the very best scholarship to the most pressing issues facing the United States in the 21st century and does so in a way that broadens the intellectual and practical discussion of the issues in innovative ways

In addition to having first-rate scholarly credentials, the ideal candidate will also have an interest in applying their scholarly work to some aspect of the formulation and implementation of grand strategy.

The position offers a competitive salary, benefits, and modest professional support the initial appointment is for one year by may be renewed for a second year.

All applicants should submit a CV, letter of interest, a brief (10,000 words) writing sample, and have three references submit letters on their behalf. The selection committee will review applications on a rolling basis with those arriving by January 2, 2018 receiving priority attention.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/39674>

This appointment is contingent upon the successful completion of a background check. Applicants will be asked to identify all felony convictions and/or pending felony charges. Felony convictions do not automatically bar an individual from employment. Each case will be examined separately to determine the appropriateness of employment in the particular position. Failure to be forthcoming or dishonesty with respect to felony disclosures can result in the disqualification of a candidate. The full procedure can be viewed at <http://facultyhandbook.nd.edu/university-policies/background-check-procedure-for-prospective-faculty/>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3829

Dartmouth College

Rank: U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security Post-doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security Fellows are selected to spend a minimum of ten months and up to one year in-residence at Dartmouth on research and writing about international issues related to one of the Dickey Center's research areas: environment, health, human development, gender, and security. Scholars from all disciplines, including political science and history, are welcome to apply.

Fellows will utilize their year at Dartmouth to maximize progress on their research, build contacts with other Fellows, Dartmouth faculty and with policy networks, and contribute to the intellectual life of the College. All Fellows are assigned a faculty mentor. Faculty mentors are intended to provide professional advice for career building and integrating into the Dartmouth intellectual community as well as substantive expertise.

Fellows typically will:

- Give a faculty seminar on the work discussed in the Dickey Center's seminar series on international politics and foreign policy

- Present work in the departments of Government, History, and in other seminar series at the College
- Participate with other Fellows in an undergraduate course, taught with a Dartmouth faculty member. Fellows also often make guest appearances in other classes, and interact with undergraduate students in Dickey Center student groups or other organization as interest warrants
- Participate in events for Fellows organized throughout the year – topics will be determined on the basis of mutual interest and perceived need

Fellows are provided with an office and access to Dartmouth faculty and resources. They must be in-residence during their fellowship and participate in Dickey Center seminars and events.

How to apply

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status.

The application period for the 2018-19 fellowship is now open. Applications will be accepted until January 2, 2018. While scholars at any stage of their career are eligible, applications from recent recipients of a PhD or equivalent degree are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should submit the following documents:

- A curriculum vitae
- Research abstract (200 words max.)
- A statement of up to 1,500 words describing the proposed research project
- A writing sample (50 pp. max)
- Two confidential letters of reference
- Graduate school transcript (Unofficial transcripts are acceptable. Junior faculty and professionals may include a transcript, but are not required to do so.)
- A confidential financial statement on a separate page indicating the applicant's other sources of support available during fellowship period and – for current faculty only – current salary.

Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interestfolio.com/47094. Questions may be sent to: Thomas.K.Candon@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3822

Lesley University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science and Global Studies

About Lesley University:

Located in Cambridge, Massachusetts, Lesley University is highly regarded for its graduate and undergraduate programs in education, the arts, and applied social sciences. Lesley fosters a highly creative environment in which innovative ideas thrive, theory is integrated with practice and its 7,000 students and 87,000 alumni are empowered to improve and enrich communities.

We offer a competitive benefits package that includes health, dental, life, and long-term-disability insurance. In addition, we offer generous amounts of vacation and holiday time, as well as a tuition remission policy that enables employees to expand their knowledge and skills.

Please note that all Core faculty at Lesley University are represented by the Service Employees International Union, Local 509 (SEIU).

Information on the Department:

The social sciences division is a multidisciplinary division of ten faculty members within the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. We have approximately 150 undergraduate students in 5 majors: Children, Youth and Family Studies; Human Services; Global Studies; Political Science; and Sociology and Social Change. In our curriculum, we emphasize interdisciplinary teaching, research and collaboration, and applied and experiential learning.

Job Description:

The social sciences division of the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences of Lesley University is seeking a faculty member to teach in the interdisciplinary area of political science and global studies at the rank of assistant professor (full-time, 9-month). We are interested in candidates who have training in the areas of international relations, comparative politics, and global political economy. We seek candidates with interdisciplinary training and international or transnational research and practical experience in organizing and advocacy; social, political, and economic inequality; and social justice. Area of geographic specialization is open, but we seek a candidate whose work complements the strengths of our current faculty. We welcome details about how the candidate will contribute to the Social Sciences Division and its political science and global studies majors. The ideal candidate should have experience working with diverse students and evidence of inclusive teaching.

The successful candidate will teach three or four courses per semester (7 courses per academic year) and will have the opportunity to develop the division's offerings in political science and global studies. Successful candidates should be flexible in terms of course delivery models (e.g., face-to-face, hybrid, online). In addition to teaching undergraduate students, faculty members advise students, participate in curriculum development, engage in academic scholarship, serve on appropriate college and university committees, and participate in recruitment and division activities.

Requirements:

- An earned Ph.D. in a field aligned with political science or global studies, or will have an earned Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- A record of successful teaching at the undergraduate level.
- Demonstrable engagement in academic scholarship.
- A well-developed research agenda.
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills.
- Must be authorized to work in the United States; if you hold a visa, your visa status must allow you to work at Lesley University.

Additional Information:

Compensation is commensurate with experience.

Background checks are required for all positions.

Application Instructions:

A cover letter, CV/resume, and contact information for three references must be included for full consideration.

Applications will be reviewed upon the establishment of an appropriate pool of candidates. For best consideration, please apply before December 4, 2017.

For consideration please copy and paste the url below into your browser to apply online via our website.

<https://lesley.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=91098&CNTRNO=3&TSTMP=1511305312884>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 11/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3821

Stetson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (International Relations)

Stetson University seeks an individual with broad interests and training in International Relations who has a desire to teach and conduct research in a liberal arts setting. Besides teaching introductory and upper-level courses in International Relations and offering innovative First Year and/or Junior Seminars, the candidate will develop courses to complement existing strengths in the Department and in one or more related programs (e.g. International Studies, Africana Studies, Asian Studies, Gender Studies, Global Development, Latin American Studies, and Russian, East European and Eurasian Studies).

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 2018. Teaching experience beyond typical teaching assistant duties in graduate school is an advantage but not required.

Responsibilities:

The teacher-scholar model at Stetson requires that tenure-track faculty teach three courses each semester complemented with quality scholarship and service. Primary teaching responsibilities include introductory and upper-level courses in International Relations and related sub-disciplines (e.g. migration studies, international diplomacy, international law, security studies). Other courses will be based on the candidate's expertise and may include offerings for the University's requirements in General Education, including First Year Seminars and Junior Seminars. The faculty member is also expected to mentor students academically and professionally.

Candidates should demonstrate a passion for the highest quality of teaching, combined with the ability to produce rigorous peer-reviewed academic scholarship. Scholarly activity leading to publication in peer-reviewed journals and service to the Department, the College of Arts and Sciences, the University, and the profession are required. For more information on our expectations in teaching and scholarship, our tenure policies, and our support for faculty development, please see the Office of the Provost and Academic Affairs website: <http://www.stetson.edu/provost://www.stetson.edu/provost>.

The Department:

The Department of Political Science (<http://www.stetson.edu/political-science/>www.stetson.edu/political-science/>) offers academically rigorous majors in both Political Science and Public Management. Departmental faculty contribute regularly to interdisciplinary programs such as International Studies, Russian, Eastern European and Eurasian Studies, Latin American Studies, Africana Studies, the Honors Program, and Environmental Science and Studies. We have had considerable success placing students in high-quality graduate programs in Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration and in prominent law schools. Faculty in the Department are committed to the teacher-scholar model, which involves teaching within a traditional liberal arts environment where the primary focus is extensive interaction with undergraduate students in a small class environment, while also maintaining an active research agenda.

The College of Arts and Sciences:

Stetson's College of Arts and Sciences (//www.stetson.edu/portal/artsci/>www.stetson.edu/artsci/) is the largest and most diverse of the University's colleges and schools; it includes the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, education, and creative arts. With nineteen academic departments and eight interdisciplinary programs, the College is the liberal arts core of the University. A great strength of the College is its faculty of approximately 140 full-time teacher-scholars. The College offers 31 undergraduate majors and 34 undergraduate minors; six graduate degrees are offered in Education, Counselor Education, and Creative Writing. Every undergraduate major requires a senior research project, allowing students the opportunity to design and carry out independent research under faculty mentorship. Our academic programs are shaped by the values of social justice and civic responsibility. All of our courses and programs of study promote engaged learning, whereby students create connections between the classroom or lab and the local, regional, and global community. The academic programs of the College of Arts and Sciences prepare students to live significant lives, to interact with and positively affect the world around them.

The University:

Founded in 1883, Stetson University (<http://www.stetson.edu/>www.stetson.edu/>) is a private, selective university comprised of a rich array of liberal arts and professional academic programs. Collectively, Stetson's faculty works with nearly 4,000 students in undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs. The University's historic main campus, located in DeLand, enrolls more than 3,000 students in undergraduate programs in the College of Arts & Sciences, the School of Business Administration, and the School of Music. Stetson University College of Law, Florida's first law school, moved from the main campus to Gulfport in 1954, and, with the addition of the Tampa Law Center, serves approximately 1,000 students working full-time or part-time toward J.D. or LL.M. degrees. Graduate programs offered at the main campus and at Stetson University Center in Celebration include Business, Accounting, Elementary Education – Education for Social Justice, Educational Leadership, Counseling, and Creative Writing. Florida's oldest private institution of higher learning, Stetson has regularly been ranked among the best regional universities in the Southeast and was the first private college in Florida to be granted a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Stetson University provides an inspiring education that engages students with rigorous academic and creative study grounded in liberal learning and promotes civic values of personal and social responsibility. Working closely with faculty and with one another, students cultivate abilities to explore issues deeply, think critically, reason empirically, speak persuasively, and connect ideas creatively. Firmly committed to inclusive excellence, our vibrant community of teacher-scholars nurtures the potential of individual students to lead lives of significance and prepares each to meet the challenges of shaping the future—locally, nationally, and globally.

The Community:

DeLand is a picturesque residential community of 25,000 located 20 miles west of Daytona Beach and 35 miles northeast of Orlando. The area offers extensive cultural as well as recreational activities.

Salary: Salary is competitive.

Starting Date: August 13, 2018

Application:

Applicants must send the following materials for consideration: 1) a cover letter summarizing the candidate's interest in the position and qualifications, 2) a statement of the candidate's teaching philosophy and a representative sample of teaching evaluations, 3) a curriculum vitae, 4) copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts, 5) three letters of recommendation sent under separate cover by the recommenders via e-mail or mail (at least one of which should include an evaluation of teaching ability), and 6) a statement of research interests and a description of how undergraduate students might participate in that research. Candidates are encouraged to highlight skills and experiences that demonstrate a commitment to social justice, diversity, and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin on January 16, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

Application materials may be submitted electronically to the search committee at <mailto:irsearch@stetson.edu> or mailed to the following address:

Dr. William R. Nylan
Chair, International Relations Search Committee
Department of Political Science
Stetson University
421 N. Woodland Blvd. Unit 8301
DeLand, FL 32723

Stetson University is an Equal Opportunity Employer that affirms cultural diversity and inclusion as a core value of academic excellence at Stetson University. We are committed to achieving equal access in education, employment, and participation through the recruitment and retention of outstanding faculty, staff, and students from diverse backgrounds, and to meaningful academic and intellectual transformation in curriculum, research and service. We are dedicated to actions and policies that foster a community in which individuals with various identities, cultures, backgrounds, and viewpoints work together to create opportunities for engagement through rewarding and fulfilling careers and personal experiences in a culturally and racially diverse society and a globalized world. We strongly encourage members of historically under-represented and economically-disadvantaged groups and women to apply for employment. Stetson University is an EEO, ADA, ADEA, and GINA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3819

Northeastern University

Rank: Teaching Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Responsibilities

The Department of Political Science at Northeastern University invites applications for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Teaching

Professor in Political Science beginning September 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong commitment to and experience in undergraduate teaching and other experiential educational programs such as Model UN, Model NATO, and Model Arab League. This is an untenured, but continuing and tracked position with the possibility of promotion to Associate and Full Teaching Professor, as well as multi-year (3 year and 5 year) contracts. The initial rank will be determined based on the credentials of the final candidate. The standard teaching load is six courses per year as well as service and professional development duties.

Qualifications

Candidates are required to hold a doctoral degree in Political Science or a related field by the start date. All candidates are expected to provide evidence of excellence in teaching. While course needs are broad, candidates must be able to teach undergraduate courses in the core teaching areas of American Politics, Public Policy, Comparative Politics, or International Relations in addition to other elective courses in the candidate's area of expertise for the undergraduate degree programs in Political Science. Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

Candidates are required to upload their CV, a cover letter, a teaching statement, a sample syllabus, teaching evaluations (if available), and a list of three references. Applications must be submitted through our on-line portal <https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions>. Questions may be directed to Professor Thomas Vicino, Department Chair (t.vicino@northeastern.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3814

University of Calgary

Rank: Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in The Politics of Decolonization

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The University of Calgary is engaged in a consultative process with knowledge keepers, Elders, and leaders of the Treaty #7 peoples, the Métis Nation, and academics and university administrators. This ongoing process has resulted in the development of an Indigenous Strategy designed to guide the University's relationship with the Indigenous peoples in whose territory the University resides. One of the goals identified during this consultation is to increase the number of Indigenous scholars in leading positions on campus. In addition to Indigenous cluster hires in the Faculty of Arts and the Werklund

School of Education, the University of Calgary is now seeking three Canada Research Chairs (Tier II).

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in the Politics of Decolonization. We are seeking a scholar who will establish and maintain an active research program leading to excellence in our understanding of decolonization. Themes may include, but are not limited to, the study of political processes that redistribute land from colonial states to Indigenous nations, the revitalization of Indigenous land-based governance practices, the study of Indigenous decolonizing political movements, and gendered perspectives on decolonization. The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of Assistant Professor (Tenure-track) or Associate Professor (with tenure). The anticipated start date is July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate will hold a PhD in Political Science or a related field. The appointee's research agenda may be grounded in any of the fields of political science (political theory, Canadian politics, comparative politics, international relations) or be inter-disciplinary in focus. A research program focused on Canada would be an asset but is not required to be considered for this position. The successful candidate will be expected to build relationships with the Treaty #7 Nations and the Métis Nation. This may include incorporating the experiences and needs of the Treaty #7 peoples and the Métis into their research. This appointment will contribute to the University of Calgary's commitment to create a rich, vibrant and culturally competent campus – one that welcomes and supports Indigenous learners, is inclusive of Indigenous perspectives in teaching and learning, encourages Indigenous community partnerships in research and academic programming and is appropriate and thoughtful in its response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's 'Calls to Action'.

The successful candidate at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of excellence in research, teaching and community engagement, commensurate with academic experience. This would normally include publications in high quality journals, success with securing competitive research funding, and evidence of a commitment to teaching effectiveness and to engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions. The successful candidate at the Associate Professor level must demonstrate a proven track record of research and teaching excellence, including a record of publications in high quality journals, proven success in obtaining competitive research funding, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a record of successful graduate student supervision, where possible. The successful candidate at this level should also provide evidence of successful engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions, including evidence of success in community-engaged projects and scholarship.

The Department of Political Science is housed in the Faculty of Arts. The Department administers the International Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program that attracts students from across the University. The program focuses on various aspects of Indigenous people's experience including arts, culture, ways of knowing, languages, economies, politics, and community structures. The candidate's willingness to teach in this program will be considered an asset. As part of its Indigenous Strategy, the Faculty has created eight tenure-track positions in Indigenous research and scholarship, across various departments. This community of scholars facilitates cross-disciplinary and collaborative research, education and outreach by building on Indigenous knowledges, cultures, traditions and experiences developed among, and in partnership with, First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples in Canada. The Canada Research Chair in the Politics of Decolonization will provide leadership in these areas.

Tier II chairs are intended for exceptional emerging scholars (i.e., candidates must have been an active researcher in their field for fewer than 10 years at the time of nomination). Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier II chair assessed through the program's Tier II justification process. Please consult the Government of Canada's CRC website for full program information, including further details on eligibility criteria.

Interested individuals are encouraged to submit their application online via the 'Apply Now' link at <http://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/8164474-canada-research-chair-tier-ii-in-the-politics-of-decolonization-faculty-of-arts> and include:

- A letter of interest and curriculum vitae, including a statement providing evidence of the applicant's connection to the Indigenous community
- Three examples of recent scholarly work
- Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- Description of a proposed 5-year research plan for the Chair

Applicants should also arrange to have three electronic confidential letters of reference sent under separate cover directly to the chair of the selection committee:

Dr. Antonio Franceschet

Department Head, Department of Political Science

Faculty of Arts, University of Calgary

Email: polihire@ucalgary.ca

Questions regarding this opportunity should be addressed to Dr. Antonio Franceschet by email (polihire@ucalgary.ca)

Deadline: January 30, 2018

The University of Calgary recognizes that a diverse staff/faculty benefits and enriches the work, learning and research experiences of the entire campus and greater community. We are committed to removing barriers that have been historically encountered by some people in our society. We strive to recruit individuals who will further enhance our diversity and will support their academic and professional success while they are here; in particular, we encourage members of the four designated groups (women, Aboriginal People, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities) to apply. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. To ensure a fair and equitable assessment, we offer accommodation at any stage during the recruitment process to applicants with disabilities. Questions regarding diversity or requests for accommodation can be sent to Human Resources (hrhire@ucalgary.ca).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3813

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations

Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations
School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations
Wellington, New Zealand

The Political Science and International Relations programme and Centre for Strategic Studies seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer in Strategic Studies (equivalent to tenured assistant professor)/International Relations. The starting date is negotiable.

The successful candidate will possess the abilities required to teach strategic studies (broadly understood), with a related expertise in some aspect of global or regional security or New Zealand's defence and security policy. Expertise in strategic theory and concepts, cyber-security, terrorism or maritime security would also be useful, but all strong candidates with a background in some aspect of strategic studies are encouraged to apply.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer. Each role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in Strategic Studies and/or International Relations; an active research profile; engagement with government agencies and/or media, and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Further information can be obtained from Dr David Capie, Director, Centre for Strategic Studies, email david.capie@vuw.ac.nz, phone +64 4 4637483.

Please complete the online application form and submit your CV and cover letter by attachment at our website below.

Applications close at 12am NZST Monday, 22 January 2018.

Reference 1856

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3815

University of Tampa

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Judicial Politics, International Security

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at The University of Tampa invites applicants for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in August 2018.

The University of Tampa is a medium-sized, comprehensive, residentially-based private institution of 8,913 undergraduate and graduate students. The University is ideally situated on a beautiful 110-acre campus next to the Hillsborough River, adjacent to Tampa's dynamic central business district, which is a growing, vibrant, diverse metropolitan area. UT reflects this vibrancy; with 20 consecutive years of enrollment growth UT boasts 229 student organizations, a multicultural student body from 50 states and 140 countries, and "Top Tier" ranking in U.S. News and World Report.

Qualifications

Successful candidates will have evidence of teaching and research excellence in International Relations and/or Judicial Politics/Law. In particular, we welcome applicants with substantive specializations in international law, human rights, democracy, international security, political violence, or the Middle East. Broad training in Political Science is expected. Responsibilities include a 3-3 teaching load. Ph.D. in hand is strongly preferred. ABDs who will have completed a Ph.D. by August 2018 will be considered. Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin December 11, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

For details and to apply on-line, please visit our website at <https://ut.edu/jobs>

Applicants should be prepared to include cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, statement of research interest, sample of written work, teaching evaluation, sample syllabus and copy of graduate transcript.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3804

S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor (International Political Economy)

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS), a Graduate School of Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is a leading research and teaching institution in strategic and international affairs and policy-oriented think-tank in the Asia-Pacific region. The School invites applications for the following tenure-track position:

Assistant or Associate Professor in the following specialization:

International Political Economy

Applicants are expected to have a research interest in international political economy with a focus on finance, labor, or migration. The successful candidate should hold a Ph.D. in political science or economics, and join the school's Centre for Multilateralism Studies and International Political Economy Programme.

The successful candidate will teach up to three (3) courses in the School's Master of Science Programmes. A relevant PhD and a good publication record are therefore essential requirements. Training in quantitative methods will be an advantage, as the successful candidate may be expected to teach an introductory quantitative methods course.

Applicants are also expected to contribute to the School's research agenda, contribute to team research and policy-oriented projects, teach in short executive programmes, and organize conferences and seminars. Experience in policy-relevant research and publication would be useful. Additional research funding may be available through policy-oriented think tank functions of Centres and Programmes within the School.

The initial appointment will be for four (4) years, with further contracts to be considered by the relevant School Reappointment Committee. A candidate with the appropriate qualifications and experience may be appointed at the Associate Professor level.

All applicants should submit the following:

- A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description
- A detailed curriculum vitae (including records of competitive grants and graduate supervision, if applicable);
- Statements of research and teaching interests and, teaching evaluation if applicable
- Three (3) published articles or writing samples
- Names, addresses, email and phone numbers of at least 3 referees of the rank of Associate Professor / Professor for the Assistant Professor / Associate Professor position respectively.
- A completed Application for Employment form (Download the application form HERE - <http://www.rsis.edu.sg/wp-content/uploads/2016/08/Application-for-Employment-Form1.docx>)

If you are interested, please write in (or email) to:

The Search Committee ?
S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies
Nanyang Technological University
Block S4, Level B4,
Nanyang Avenue
Singapore 639798

Email: rsisrecruitment@ntu.edu.sg

Applications will close on 31 January 2018.

We regret that only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

For further information about RSIS, please visit our website at: www.rsis.edu.sg

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3801

Cornell University

Rank: Visiting Associate Professor

Cornell University's Department of Government seeks to fill a three-year visiting position, beginning July 1, 2018, in International Relations and Comparative Politics, with a focus on the politics and foreign policies of the Middle East. The ideal candidate will be able to teach courses on Israeli politics in comparative perspective (Middle East and cross-regional), the politics of nationalism and separatist movements, and international politics more broadly. The Department welcomes applicants who cross subfield boundaries (e.g., with connections to political theory) and would interact with other departments and programs, such as Near East Studies and the Judith Reppy Institute for Peace and Conflict Studies. Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and a list of three references. Electronic application materials should be sent to: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10478>. We will begin to review applications starting December 1, 2017, and will continue until the search is completed.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3789

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Position 3: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy

Rank: Assistant Professor

Disciplines: International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Subfield: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in International or Comparative Political Economy starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in technologies impacting global economic governance such as Blockchain, FinTech and others.

Candidates will be expected to teach courses in International Political Economy, International Trade, and International Finance, as well as core courses in Micro- and Macro-Economics. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, International Relations, or Economics is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Political Economy to IESIR3@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international.

IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3786

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Security Studies
Specializations: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security

Position 4: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Security Studies
 Rank: Assistant Professor
 Disciplines: International Relations
 Subfield: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security
 Deadline: January 31st, 2018
 Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in Security Studies starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in security innovation with a focus on new weapons systems, artificial intelligence, and cybersecurity.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach undergraduate and Masters level courses in International Relations Theory, Global Governance, and Peace and Conflict Resolution, and Globalization. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, or International Relations is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Security Studies to IESIR4@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APPSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/31/2017
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3787

Naval War College

Rank: (ASSISTANT, ASSOCIATE, OR PROFESSOR) STRATEGY AND POLICY

U.S. NAVAL WAR COLLEGE SEEKS OPEN WITH RESPECT TO RANK (ASSISTANT, ASSOCIATE, OR PROFESSOR)
 STRATEGY AND POLICY
 (AD-1701-03/05/07)

The U.S. Naval War College, Newport, RI, invites applications for a faculty appointment in the Strategy and Policy Department open with respect to rank.

Join us and teach strategy to the next generation of military and national security professionals. The Strategy and Policy Department at the Naval War College is one of the leading centers for the teaching and study of strategy. Long recognized for its innovative curriculum and widespread influence on the study of strategy, the Strategy and Policy Department offers a challenging interdisciplinary education on strategy for students from all military services, government agencies, and officers from over 100 countries. The Department has a multidisciplinary faculty that works as a team to present an exciting course that synthesizes strategic theory, historical case studies, and their application to pressing policy and strategy problems.

Strategy and Policy: The position falls in the Strategy and Policy (S&P) Department under the Dean of Academics. The strategy courses use strategic theory, the history of war (on land and at sea), and an examination of current-day conflicts to develop critical analytical skills for understanding the interrelationship of policy aims, strategy, and military operations. The interdisciplinary nature of the strategy courses requires that faculty members develop a breadth of knowledge well beyond their primary area of specialization. Additional details regarding the Naval War College and the Strategy and Policy Department curriculum can be obtained by visiting the Naval War College website at: <https://usnwc.edu/Faculty-and-Departments/Academic-Departments/Strategy-and-Policy-Department>.

Responsibilities: Responsibilities include teaching seminars in both the College's intermediate-level core course in strategy and the senior-level core course in strategy, conducting research, engaging in other service of benefit to the College, and participating in outreach activities. Maximum teaching load is a 0-2-2 during the academic year, excluding an optional elective course. The candidate may also assist with related programs at the College. Anticipated starting date is August 2018.

Qualifications: Candidates must have a Ph.D. or have defended their dissertation at the time of appointment. The Department seeks candidates with significant scholarly attainment or potential, teaching experience, and particular expertise in the fields of war studies, international relations, international security affairs, political economy, regional studies, diplomatic and international history, or naval and military history. Areas of particular interest to the Department include Asia, the Greater Middle East, cyber warfare/strategy, and naval/maritime studies.

Candidates must be U.S. citizens capable of obtaining a Department of Defense security clearance at the SECRET level.

Salary Considerations: Salary is competitive and includes health insurance, paid vacation, and sick leave. Salary is commensurate with experience and credentials in accordance with the Department of the Navy Faculty Schedule.

Application Process: Applicants must reference VA#NWC-18-02 and must submit their application package electronically to: nwc-18-02@usnwc.edu The application package must include a (1) letter of interest, (2) curriculum vitae, and (3) three letters of reference. If the candidate has current or previous military service, please include rank and dates of service. Applications will be accepted until 22 December 2017. Any current or prior military service should be described including assignments, positions held, highest rank attained, and dates of service. Questions should be directed to the chair of the search committee, Dr. Michael F. Pavkovic via email at michael.pavkovic@usnwc.edu or phone at 401.841.7789.

Active duty members may apply under this announcement but are subject to eligibility requirements of the Veterans Opportunity to Work Act (VOW). Active duty members must submit a statement of service printed on command letterhead and signed by the command. The statement of service must provide branch, rate/rank, all dates of service, the expected date of discharge and anticipated character of service (Honorable, General, etc.). Please note: you will be ineligible for consideration if your statement of service is not submitted with your application or it shows an expected discharge or release date greater than 120 days after being submitted with your application.

Within the Department of Defense (DoD), the appointment of retired military members within 180 days immediately following retirement date to a civilian position is subject to the provisions of 5 United States Code 3326.

The Naval War College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/22/2017

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3783

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Fellowship in Grand Strategy, Security, and Statecraft

With the support of the Charles Koch Foundation, the MIT Security Studies Program and the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs are now accepting applications for joint two-year, pre- and post-doctoral fellowships in "the Project on Grand Strategy, Security and Statecraft."

(Link to more detailed description and application details: <https://ssp.mit.edu/node/354>)

Applications for 2018-19 Fellowships are being accepted until January 30, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3780

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor, Global Security and Policy

Assistant or Associate Professor

Global Security and Policy

The Program on Government and International Affairs (GIA) invites applications for a position in Global Security and Policy to begin in August 2018 at Virginia Tech's National Capital Region campus in the Washington D.C. metro area. This position will focus on the security dynamics created by new institutions and processes of global governance as these affect civil society, the economy, and government in the U.S.A. and abroad. Candidates should be able to work within the interdisciplinary setting of SPIA, which offers graduate degrees in International Affairs, Urban Planning, and Public Administration. The candidate will work with GIA students enrolled in our Master of Public and International Affairs (MPIA) degree as well as in our Ph.D. in Planning, Governance, and Globalization and the Washington Semester in Global Engagement. The position will be at the assistant or associate professor level. All applicants must have a Ph.D. in hand by the start date.

In particular, we are interested in candidates whose research and scholarship focuses on the traditional and non-traditional security challenges created by rapid globalization and geopolitical change — for US foreign policy and international networks of governance — as well as policy analysis, the dynamics of complex decision and policymaking, and new institutional innovations that have been created in response to these challenges. Specific issues might include, among others, human security dilemmas, nuclear weapons and arms proliferation, cybersecurity and information warfare, state failure, uncontrolled immigration and refugee flows, environmental collapse and climate change, flows of illicit trade, stressed security institutions, border security, anti-systemic revolutionary activity, persistent economic inequalities, and/or risk society dynamics.

Required Qualifications

A Ph.D. in hand by the start date in public affairs, political economy, political science, human geography, international relations, or a closely related discipline is required. Applicants must demonstrate the potential for developing a distinguished record of scholarly achievement, and an interest in developing experiential learning courses.

Preferred Qualifications

We will prioritize candidates who are knowledgeable about more than one country or region of the world and can show experience with interdisciplinary teaching, experiential learning and research in areas that align with Virginia Tech's universitywide, multi-disciplinary focus on Integrated Security. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges.

Complete applications should include full curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, two samples of written work, and teaching evaluations if available. Applicants also should submit a cover letter that briefly addresses how they would approach collaborative academic activity in SPIA, a statement about their current and future research agendas, and an overview of their teaching experience.

Applications and supporting documents must be submitted online at www.jobs.vt.edu (paper documents cannot be accepted), reference posting # TR0170150. Any questions about the online application process should be directed to Ms. Krystal Wright, SPIA Faculty Search Assistant, at krystal@vt.edu, phone: 540-231-2291, SPIA (0113), 140 Otey Street, Room 110, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Questions concerning the position should be directed to: Prof. Joel Peters, Search Committee Chair, c/o Krystal Wright, at the contact information above.

Application review will begin on November 20, 2017. The search will remain open until the position is filled, but to be assured full consideration, applications should be received by this date.

For more information on GIA and SPIA see www.gia.vt.edu and www.spia.vt.edu.

Details of Virginia Tech Destination Areas can be found at: <https://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>

Virginia Tech recognizes the critical importance of diverse teams of scholars. It seeks to diversify its faculty along multiple dimensions, including persons who have been historically marginalized and excluded given the institutional history and legacy of the university. We actively encourage applications from a broad spectrum of candidates. Persons with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should notify the Chair of the Search Committee Prof. Joel Peters via email peters25@vt.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3779

Dickinson College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of International Studies

The departments of International Studies and Political Science at Dickinson College are seeking qualified candidates for a two-year replacement position at the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor, beginning in academic year 2018-19 and continuing through the end of academic year 2019-20.

The teaching load for this position is five courses per year, to include introductory International Relations, upper-level American Foreign Policy, American National Security, and other courses related to international relations and security studies. Candidates should identify in the application letter the courses they are prepared to teach. Applicants should have a strong commitment to teaching undergraduate students in an interdisciplinary liberal arts environment, and the successful candidate is expected to participate fully in the intellectual life of the departments, including serving as oral examiner for the International Studies exams at the end of the academic year. The ability to create inclusive learning environments for an increasingly diverse student body will be an important characteristic of the successful candidate. A completed or nearly-completed Ph.D. is required.

Dickinson College is a highly selective, private, four-year liberal arts college with 2,400 students. It is located 20 minutes west of Harrisburg and is a two-hour drive from Baltimore, Washington DC, and Philadelphia.

Interested candidates should apply for this position electronically, via QUEST (online application system) at <https://jobs.dickinson.edu>. Please submit the following materials: a letter of application; curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; three letters of recommendation; teaching statement; sample syllabi (preferably for one or more of the above listed courses); and teaching evaluations or other evidence of teaching effectiveness. Review of applications will begin January 15. The College is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3774

Princeton University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Political Economy, International Security

Princeton University & Harvard University

China and the World Program (CWP)

Princeton University and Harvard University jointly founded the fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations, the Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program (CWP), in 2005. The program's co-directors are Thomas J. Christensen of Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard's Government Department. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

In Fall 2018 the China & the World Program will move from Princeton University to Columbia University in New York City. For academic year 2018-2019, the program will award one-year postdoctoral research fellowships. Fellows will be expected to be in residence at Columbia University. Fellows should have defended their dissertations in the past five years. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project. Fellows are expected to participate actively in the intellectual life of Columbia University during their tenure.

Qualifications:

Applicants must have received a PhD before starting the appointment. Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's mission need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, you will be required to submit an online application to CWP using the email cwp@princeton.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration.

You are required to submit:

- 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
 - CV
 - project description
 - 2 scholarly writing samples
 - Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
 - Contact information for two references.
- The deadline for submission is December 15, 2017, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Please note that you will only submit contact information and the email of your referees. Your referee will then receive an email with instructions on how to submit a confidential recommendation on your behalf. All references must be received by the deadline. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2018 and a public announcement will be made by March/April 2018.

For more information about the Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program, please visit its website at www.princeton.edu/cwp (link is external).

Start Date: Winter 2017
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 11/13/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3772

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate for the 2018-19 academic year for a 12-month appointment with the possibility of renewal contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Preferred start date September 1, 2018. The position is open to a scholar who would be in residence and participate in all of the Center's activities, including student-faculty seminars, workshops, and public lectures. The ideal applicant will have received a Ph.D. within the past three years and studies aspects of contemporary Chinese society from a social science disciplinary perspective. He/she will have opportunities to collaborate with the Center's faculty. This position is subject to the University's background check policy. Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4781> (D-18-PII-00004)

Applications should include:

1. A cover letter
2. A statement of research plans and their relation to CCC activities (1-3 pages)
3. A current curriculum vitae
4. Contact information for two references
5. Two writing samples.

Application deadline: February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 2/2/2018
Date Posted: 11/10/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3765

University of Rochester

Rank: Post-doctoral fellowship

Applications for 2018-19 are welcome in any area of international or comparative politics, but preference will be given to applicants whose work focuses on Central and Eastern Europe, broadly defined. Fellows offer two courses during the academic year and receive a stipend of $42,000. Applicants without a Ph.D. should describe their plans for completing the degree by the time the fellowship commences.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a 3-5 page research project description, a one-page sketch of proposed courses, one or more writing samples, and three letters of recommendation to: Fellowship in International and Central European Politics, Skalny Center for Polish and Central European Studies, University of Rochester, Harkness Hall 101, Rochester, New York 14627-0147. Applications must be postmarked by Jan. 5, 2018. Direct questions to Dr. Bozena Sobolewska, bsobolew@mail.rochester.edu, or 585-275-9898.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/5/2018
Date Posted: 11/10/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3766

La Salle University

Rank: Full-Time, Tenure-Track Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at La Salle University seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track position with a specialization in American Politics and/or International Relations. The successful candidate will have a strong record of research and publication and a commitment to high quality and dynamic teaching. We are particularly interested in candidates who can offer a range of electives across their subfield, teach research methods and supervise undergraduate capstone projects. The successful candidate will teach across our curriculum, maintain an active research agenda and scholarly activity, participate in recruitment and advisement of students, serve on departmental and university committees, promote program development, contribute to assessment efforts, and advise student organizations.

A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline must be in hand or near completion at the time of the application.

Interested applicants should submit – either through Interfolio or by some other appropriate means - the following materials to Dr. Miguel Glatzer, Chair of the Search Committee, Political Science Department, La Salle University (politicalscience@lasalle.edu). Applications should include: (1) a letter of application identifying areas of specialization, research/scholarship interests and teaching philosophy, (2) a curriculum vita, (3) official graduate transcripts, and (4) three letters of recommendation sent under separate cover. Examples of scholarship and/or summary evidence of teaching evaluations or effectiveness, where available, should also be submitted. The department's review of applications will begin on January 30, 2018. Position begins in August 2018.

Applications received by January 30, 2018 will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/9/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3761

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Rank: Nuclear Security Fellow

NUCLEAR SECURITY FELLOWS PROGRAM

The Security Studies Program at MIT invites applications for fellows in the field of nuclear security. Fellowships are available for pre-doctoral and post-doctoral scholars and for junior faculty. Fellows are expected to produce policy-relevant research, including book manuscripts, draft articles, dissertations, chapters in edited volumes, or reports. Nuclear security is defined broadly to include nuclear terrorism, nuclear proliferation and nonproliferation, nuclear weapons, nuclear doctrine and force structure, nuclear energy as it relates to nuclear security, and other topics that involve nuclear security. The deadline for applications is 30 January 2018. Application forms (and further information about eligibility requirements) are available at <https://ssp.mit.edu/about/nuclear-security-fellows-program>. Applications, along with any further questions should be submitted by post or email to: Fellowship Coordinator, Security Studies Program, MIT, Bldg. E40, 4th Floor, 77 Massachusetts Ave, Cambridge, MA 02139 (email: ssp-fellowships@mit.edu). MIT is an AA/EO employer and encourages applications from women and minority candidates.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/9/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3762

Georgetown University

Rank: Professor of Global Development

The Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University invites applications for a position at the rank of Full Professor, Associate Professor (with tenure) or Assistant Professor (tenure track) in fields related to international development to begin in the Fall of 2018. Relevant doctoral disciplines include economics, political economy, political science, and/or public policy, though others may be considered, with strong expertise in sub-fields directly related to development. While we are especially interested in candidates with strong quantitative skills, candidates bringing other approaches to analysis and research are also welcome.

The successful applicant will demonstrate strong potential for outstanding research and teaching in the fields of development. Experience working in developing countries is a plus.

To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a representative writing sample/job market paper, and evidence of teaching record (e.g., course evaluations). Those applying for consideration at the assistant professor level should also submit three letters of recommendation.

All applications and supporting materials must be submitted through the following link: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10396>. Faxed, emailed, or mailed applications will not be accepted.

Applications will be accepted immediately, with review beginning in December 2017.

Questions about the online application system should be directed to Sarah Nebbeling, Manager of Faculty Affairs at ska60@georgetown.edu. Questions about the position should be directed to Dr. Anthony Arend, Senior Associate Dean for Faculty and Graduate Affairs, at arenda@georgetown.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/8/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3756

University of San Francisco

Rank: Adjunct Professor

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS OF THE MIDDLE EAST, PART TIME (ADJUNCT) POSITION

The Middle Eastern Studies Program, Department of Politics, and Department of International Studies at the University of San Francisco invite applications for a part time (adjunct) instructor for our International Relations of the Middle East course for spring semester 2018. The class is scheduled to be taught Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 1:00-2:05pm. Spring semester begins on January 22 and ends May 17, 2018.

Successful applicants should be prepared to cover the course description: "An overview of the politics and the governmental systems of Middle Eastern nations, including the historic, religious, ideological, economic and cultural forces that shape government policies, social movements, and ongoing conflicts. Topics include the role of Arab nationalism, Zionism, human rights, the Islamic resurgence, terrorism, imperialism and globalization."

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in Politics, International Relations, or related social science field; specialization in international relations of the Middle East; and strong academic records and communication skills. Preference is for a candidate who has experience teaching at the university level. Advanced doctoral candidates are also invited to apply.

To Apply: Applicants should submit the following documents electronically in PDF format to Professor Lindsay Gifford, Faculty Coordinator, Middle Eastern Studies at lagifford@usfca.edu: cover letter summarizing their qualifications to teach this specific course, curriculum vitae (10 pages maximum), writing sample (30 pages maximum), copies of official teaching evaluations from previous courses (preferred) or evidence of prior teaching, and the names and contact information for at least two references.

The Subject Line of your e-mail(s) should begin with "International Relations of the Middle East Adjunct Position."

Applications will be received on a rolling basis until position is filled.

USF is a private, urban Jesuit University with a global perspective that educates women and men who will fashion a more humane and just world. The core mission of the University is to promote learning in the Jesuit tradition. The University offers undergraduate, graduate, and professional students the knowledge and skills needed to succeed as persons and professionals, and the values and sensitivity necessary to be women and men for others. The University draws from the cultural, intellectual, and economic resources of the San Francisco Bay Area and its location on the Pacific Rim to enrich and strengthen its educational programs.

Start Date: Spring 2018
Date Posted: 11/8/2017
Salary: Below $20,000
eJobs ID: 3754

American University in Cairo

Rank: International Relations/ Middle East Politics

International Relations/ Middle East Politics
 Job Description

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in International Relations emphasis on the Middle East at the Assistant Level Professor beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses on International Politics in the Middle East, International organization, Contemporary Foreign Policy. Candidates who can teach Issues in Middle East Politics, Contemporary Egypt and Egyptian Foreign Policy are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body.

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background

to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3745

American University in Cairo

Rank: International Relations/IR Theory

International Relations/IR Theory

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in international relations at the Assistant Professor level beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses on theories of international relations, contemporary foreign policies, international organization. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body.

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3746

Saint Lawrence University

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professors in International Relations (3 openings)

Specializations: Middle East, International Security, Foreign Policy

Due to administrative appointments, retirements, and sabbatical leaves, the Government Department at St. Lawrence University invites applications for three Visiting Assistant Professor (VAP) positions in International Relations. These positions begin August 2018. Successful candidates will teach three courses per semester, including introductory courses in international relations and upper-level courses within their fields of expertise. Review of applications will begin on January 8, 2018.

- 1) The first position seeks expertise in the Middle East and is renewable for up to one additional year.
- 2) The second position seeks expertise in security studies or American foreign policy and is renewable for up to one additional year.
- 3) The third position is open regarding expertise, except that it will not duplicate the other searches in the Middle East, security studies, and American foreign policy.

Additionally, the department expects to conduct one international relations tenure-track search in the fall of 2018.

We welcome applications from candidates who bring diverse cultural, ethnic and national perspectives to their scholarship and teaching.

Minimum Qualifications: Candidates with Ph.D. in hand preferred, though ABD candidates may be considered.

To apply, please visit: <https://employment.stlawu.edu/postings/1288>

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter indicating teaching and research interests, curriculum vita, graduate school transcript, writing sample, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. Applicants should also submit a separate document with a statement indicating how they can contribute in tangible ways to St. Lawrence University's commitment to cultivating a diverse and inclusive community and classrooms. These documents can be uploaded in the "Applicant Documents" section of your application.

Additionally, three confidential references are required [the required information input in the reference contact information section of your application will be utilized to send a system-derived email requesting a recommendation letter from each reference].

Questions about the position may be sent to Dr. Ronnie Olesker (rolesker@stlawu.edu), Search Chair, International Relations Searches.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the finalist successfully passing a background (including criminal records) check.

Located at 23 Romoda Drive in Canton, NY, St. Lawrence University is a coeducational, private, independent liberal arts institution of about 2,400 students from more than 40 states and 40 nations. The educational opportunities at St. Lawrence inspire students and prepare them to be critical and creative thinkers, to find a compass for their lives and careers, and to pursue knowledge and understanding for the benefit of themselves, humanity and the planet. Through its focus on active engagement with ideas in and beyond the classroom, a St. Lawrence education leads students to make connections that transform lives and communities, from the local to the global.

For additional information about St. Lawrence, please visit <http://www.stlawu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3743

United States Air Force Academy

Rank: Distinguished Visiting Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a Distinguished Visiting Professor (DVP) position beginning June 27, 2018. The intent of this position is to attract an innovative scholar and teacher already placed at an institution (university, think-tank, or government service) and then return them to their home institution—thus, existing employment any level is a certain requirement. The appointment will be for either the entire academic year, ending in May of 2019, or one semester. The United States Air Force Academy, located just north of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is an undergraduate institution which awards the Bachelor of Science degree as part of its mission to educate, train, and inspire men and women to become officers of character, motivated to lead the United States Air Force in service to the nation. Candidates must have a Ph.D. in political science or a closely related field, preferably with an emphasis on American Government, International Relations, or Comparative Politics. The candidate must also be strongly committed to teaching undergraduates and be a full-time "career employee" at a US institution of higher education, an academically-oriented think-tank or an educationally-focused organization. The qualified candidate must agree to return to his/her institution in a full-time status following a VP year at the Air Force Academy. The selected candidate will be subject to a security investigation and must meet eligibility requirements for access to the network and the use of government computer systems. The Air Force Academy will reimburse the VP's home academic institution for the visiting professor's salary and benefits during their time at the Academy, and moving expenses will be provided. To apply, send a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, and three references (ensure addresses and telephone numbers are provided) from individuals familiar with your professional work to: HQ USAFA/DFPS (Attn: Dr. David Sacko), 2354 Fairchild Drive, Room 6K-160, US Air Force Academy CO 80840-6258. Application packages may also be emailed to David.Sacko@usafa.edu. Applications received by December 1, 2017 will receive primary consideration. The Federal Government is an equal opportunity employer. The United States Air Force Academy values the benefits of diversity among the faculty to include a variety of educational backgrounds and professional and life experiences. U.S. citizenship required.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3739

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from recent PhD recipients for its Postdoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants with a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component (ancient or modern). Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. In some cases Fellows will be welcome to teach a course at the University of Texas. Each appointment is for one year, and in exceptional cases may be considered for renewal for a second year.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3723

The University of Texas at Austin

Rank: Predoctoral Fellowship

The Clements Center for National Security at the University of Texas at Austin seeks applications from current PhD candidates for its Predoctoral Fellowship Program.

Consistent with the Clements Center's mission areas of history, strategy, and statecraft, applicants from all disciplines whose research bears directly on foreign and defense policy, intelligence, or international security are welcome to apply. However, strong preference will be given to applicants pursuing a doctorate in history or whose research has a strong historical component (ancient or modern). This fellowship is designed to help expedite dissertation completion, so applicants should be in the dissertation writing phase and within one year (or in exceptional cases two years) of anticipated dissertation submission. Successful applicants will be able to spend the substantial portion of their time working on their own research and writing projects, while taking advantage of the many academic resources available at the University of Texas-Austin. Additionally, Fellows will be required to play an active role in the Clements Center's programs and activities; any specific responsibilities will be by mutual agreement between the Fellow and the Clements Center leadership. Fellows accepted to the program will be offered a competitive stipend, full use of UT facilities, and office space at the Clements Center. Each appointment is for one year.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: $30,000 - $39,999

eJobs ID: 3724

University of Iowa

Rank: Lecturer - East Asian Security and/or Political Economy

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Foreign Policy, International Security

Lecturer in East Asian Security and/or Political Economy

The University of Iowa's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, non-tenure track Instructional Faculty (Lecturer) position in international security and/or political economy in East Asia, beginning August 15, 2018 renewable for an additional two years (2019-2021 and renewable thereafter in three year increments pending positive reviews). Duties of this position include teaching 18-24 semester hours per academic year, professional development and departmental service.

A Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 1, 2018, and must be free to assume the duties of this position on that date. Candidates must demonstrate the potential for outstanding teaching

Review of applications will begin on January 20, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Applications should include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, three recommendation letters, a statement on teaching, a statement on research, publications, and manuscripts in progress.

JOB Requisition number: 71355

<https://jobs.uiowa.edu/faculty/view/71355>

University of Iowa | Department of Political Science

<https://clas.uiowa.edu/polisci>

<https://clas.uiowa.edu/polisci/about-us/open-faculty-staff-positions>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3722

John Cabot University

Rank: Full-time tenure track position in International Relations

Specializations: International Political Economy, International Security, Developing Nations

John Cabot University (JCU), a four year, accredited American liberal arts college in Rome, Italy, invites applications for an open-rank (assistant, associate or full professor) full-time tenure-track faculty position in International Relations. We seek candidates with a Ph.D. in Political Science, demonstrated excellence in teaching and research, and commitment to academic service and program development.

Special consideration will be given to candidates with expertise in international political economy, international development or international security (including non-traditional security areas such as food security, cyber security or the environment). There is no regional specialization for the position, but a focus on Africa, the Americas or Europe would be welcome. The successful candidate will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate level courses with a load of three courses per semester as well as be an active member of the university community. Ability to teach graduate level courses is an asset.

The ideal candidate should have familiarity and experience with the American liberal arts educational tradition. The initial appointment is for two years with the possibility of tenure. Candidates are expected to be fluent in English, which is the language of instruction. Applicants should send 1) a letter of interest describing research and teaching interests, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) one or two research papers or journal publications as professional writing samples, and 4) evidence of teaching excellence to: politicalSciSearch@johncabot.edu. Three confidential letters of recommendation should be sent separately to the same email address. The deadline to submit applications is December 15, 2017. The successful candidate will be expected to start in the fall semester of 2018. Only short-listed candidates will be notified. John Cabot University is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, ethnic or national origin, religion, sex, age, sexual orientation, marital or parental status, or disability in any of its policies, programs, and services.

Information about JCU can be found at: <http://www.johncabot.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3715

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department's undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3707

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics or International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics or International Relations to begin in Fall 2018. The substantive specialization is open to any research area of broad interest. We seek candidates with rigorous research agendas who have published in or demonstrate the promise of publishing in leading Political Science, Comparative Politics, and/or International Relations outlets. Successful candidates will demonstrate the ability to teach substantive courses in their field as well as courses in the department's undergraduate and graduate methods sequence.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, three writing samples at least one of which should be an unpublished (working) paper, graduate transcript, and contact information for three letters of reference. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>. The committee will begin reviewing files as early as December 1, 2017. To ensure full consideration, applicants should submit complete applications by January 5, 2018. This position requires a PhD in Political Science or a closely related field to be awarded no later than August 2018.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities—Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status, or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Timothy Peterson (timothy.peterson@sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3708

Georgetown University

Rank: Professor of International Business and Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Political Economy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both Schools. The position is one of a number of multidisciplinary new positions at Georgetown intended to foster multidisciplinary scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Georgetown has a unique opportunity to integrate the fields of business and international affairs in its scholarship and programs, and this joint position will play an important in these initiatives.

The MSB has strengths in the core business disciplines as well as international business, international political economy and trade, and ethics. The MSB offers highly ranked undergraduate, MBA, and executive programs. Each of these programs contains successful and innovative global components. The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

It is our expectation that the successful candidate will be someone whose scholarship addresses some aspect of business and policy in the global economy. The successful candidate's work has appeared, and will continue to appear, in leading scholarly outlets.

Georgetown University prides itself on the teaching excellence of its faculty, and the successful applicant will be someone who fits that tradition. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Associate or Full Professor.

The MSB and SFS already have a number of joint initiatives in place, including two joint graduate degrees (the Global Executive MBA and the newly launched Master's in International Business and Policy) and a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. In our joint activities, we seek to enhance both research and teaching by focusing on the creative integration of business with the international public policy environment. The successful candidate will provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Located in Washington, D.C., Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here.

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE
The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and languages. The SFS is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, led by a faculty of both scholars and practitioners. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector. In the study of international affairs, Georgetown's Jesuit values inspires SFS students to be principled, just practitioners of diplomacy. Students apply these values of service internationally across the public, private, and academic sectors in pursuit of a better world.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service. Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should upload a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://www.econjobmarket.org/postings.php?posid=4681>. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2017, but will accept inquiries until the position is filled.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/10/2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3691

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: International Relations - Open Rank

The Department of Political Science at The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a full-time tenured or tenure-track faculty member in International Relations to begin September 1, 2018. The department is particularly interested in applicants with teaching interests and a research agenda that includes international relations theory, globalization, and global governance. Ability to teach US Foreign Policy and/or Western European Governments is a plus. The department is open to a wide variety of methodologies and critical theoretical perspectives. This position continues the department's effort to build an undergraduate and graduate program anchored in political science, while incorporating topics, concepts, methods, and courses that cross traditional disciplinary boundaries. The successful candidate will teach upper-division and graduate level courses in their areas of substantive specialization as well as a required lower-division course in U.S. Federal Government & Politics.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/21/2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3689

Roanoke College

Rank: Visiting Professor

International Relations

The Department of Public Affairs at Roanoke College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Professor position in International Relations, beginning in August 2018 and ending in May 2019. This is a full time, sabbatical-replacement position, with a teaching load of three courses per semester.

We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations and who can offer courses in International Politics, International Relations Theory, and Environmental Policy. Preference will be given to candidates who can also teach a course on the Comparative Politics of Europe. The successful candidate will also contribute International Relations courses to the General Education curriculum. A Ph.D. with teaching experience is preferred, but an ABD will be considered.

The Public Affairs Department administers majors in Political Science, International Relations, and Criminal Justice. In addition to excellent teaching and collegiality, the Public Affairs Department supports and expects active professional participation and research. Visiting Professors are eligible to receive departmental funds and to apply for most of the College's internal grants in support of their research and teaching.

Roanoke College, a nationally ranked Phi Beta Kappa institution is located in the Roanoke Valley of Virginia and is affiliated with the Lutheran Church (ELCA). It is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks diversity among its faculty, staff and students; women and members of under-represented groups are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should electronically submit curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations and three letters of recommendation and any inquiries to Judi Pinckney at pinckney@roanoke.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018, and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3684

United States Military Academy at West Point

Rank: Director, Johnson Grand Strategy Program at West Point / Assistant Professor

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR FOR THE JOHNSON GRAND STRATEGY PROGRAM at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Advanced degree (Ph.D.) in political science with a strong background in security studies. (ii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate political science courses. (iii) Strong research agenda and the demonstrated ability to present results in a variety of media. (iv) Ability to lead an interdisciplinary Grand Strategy Program, to include: coordinating across academic departments to develop and assess curriculum; managing a high-impact guest speaker series; facilitating cadet and faculty research on grand strategy; providing subject matter expertise and guiding outreach; and communicating grand strategy lessons learned to communities of study and practice.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 3681

University of Dayton

Rank: Lecturer

Specializations: International Political Economy, Developing Nations, Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Dayton is seeking a lecturer with a specialization in international political economy and development. Responsibilities include teaching courses in political science, courses for non-majors, and the interdisciplinary social science curriculum.

Qualified candidates will have completed all requirements for the PhD degree in Political Science or a related field, except for defense of dissertation, at the time of application; PhD preferred. Required qualifications include excellent written communication skills and the potential for excellence in teaching in one or more areas of international political economy and development.

The department prefers candidates with an ability to contribute to teaching interdisciplinary aspects of international political economy and development, an interest in developing international political economy and development courses, an interest in the use of innovative pedagogical techniques and successful teaching at the university level. Experience in teaching and advising students of diverse backgrounds and a sensitivity to Catholic and Marianist educational values are also preferred.

The University and the Department are strongly committed to excellence in teaching and the development of distinctive graduates who embrace the ideal of servant-leadership and the University's call to "Learn, Lead, and Serve." The Department currently has 15 full-time faculty members. It offers BAs in Human Rights Studies and Political Science and the Master of Public Administration. The Department is highly supportive of its faculty and students.

The University of Dayton, founded in 1850 by the Society of Mary, is a top ten Catholic research university. The University seeks outstanding, diverse faculty and staff who value its mission and share its commitment to academic excellence in teaching, research and artistic creativity, the development of the whole person, and leadership and service in the local and global community.

Apply at jobs.udayton.edu/postings/24565 by January 16, 2018. Information on the interdisciplinary curriculum (SSC 200) is at udayton.edu/artsscience/academics/about/social_science_cap/index.php.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/16/2018
Date Posted: 10/24/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3685

Bilkent University

Rank: Faculty Position (Open rank) in International Relations
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The International Relations Department at Bilkent University invites applicants for an open rank position, commencing Fall 2018. The Department is interested in applicants who specialize in International Security broadly defined, especially those with a concentration on Middle East politics. Bilkent University is committed to increasing the diversity of its Faculty. Female and international scholars are therefore especially encouraged to apply.

Bilkent University is an English-medium private research university located in Ankara, Turkey. It is the country's first private, non-profit university, and is placed in global rankings as one of the leading universities in Turkey. The university offers on-campus housing, International Baccalaureate schooling options for dependents, a diverse intellectual environment, and a variety of other facilities and outstanding opportunities for its staff.

The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 600 undergraduate students and 35 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education, high-impact research, and developing critical and analytical thinking.

Applicants should hold a PhD in International Relations, Political Science or a related field, though PhD candidates with publications and close to completing their studies are also encouraged to apply. However, the prospective candidate is required to receive a PhD no later than August 1, 2018. A strong publication record and promising research potential are essential. Successful applicants will teach two courses in their field of expertise at both the undergraduate and post-graduate levels, maintain productive research programs, and supervise graduate theses.

Applications should include (i) cover letter, (ii) up-to-date CV, (iii) one-page research statement, (iv) one-page teaching statement, and (v) contact details of three academic referees, and be submitted to ir@bilkent.edu.tr by the application deadline at 5:00pm on Friday 22 December 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 10/23/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3668

Northwestern University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships in Global, Comparative, or International Affairs
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Conflict Processes, Social Movements

The Buffett Institute for Global Studies at Northwestern University invites applications for two-year postdoctoral fellowships in the study of global, comparative, or international affairs. Up to three fellows will be selected. Applications are welcome from scholars from any range of social science or interdisciplinary perspectives whose research addresses global, international, or transnational social processes, problems, governance, or conflicts. Fellowships will run from September 1, 2018 to August 31, 2020.

The salary is $55,000. In addition, fellows are eligible for $5,000 per year to fund research and conference travel and up to $2,000 in reimbursement for allowable relocation expenses in the first year. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Applicants must have received their PhD between December 14, 2015, and August 31, 2018.

Application deadline is December 15, 2017, at 5 p.m. (CT).

For a complete position description and application procedures, visit: <http://buffett.northwestern.edu/funding-grants/buffett-postdocs.html>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 10/18/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3651

Ozyegin University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor

The Department of International Relations at Özyegin University invites applications for a full-time assistant professor or associate professor position to begin in September 2018.

We are interested in candidates with a demonstrated ability to teach courses in two or more of the following fields: international political economy, international organizations, and quantitative methods. The successful applicant will have an active research agenda with publication record appropriate to their academic level.

Candidates need to send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current curriculum vitae including names and contacts of two references, one sample publication/working paper, and a teaching portfolio with one sample syllabus and a summary of teaching evaluations. All items must be combined in one PDF file.

Özyegin University is a private, non-profit Turkish institution of higher education located in Çekmeköy, Istanbul. The University is committed to the pursuit of excellence in both research and teaching. The medium of instruction is English. The normal teaching load consists of two courses per semester. Salary and benefits are competitive. To ensure consideration, the application should be sent by Friday the 29th of December 2017 via e-mail to socialsciences@ozyegin.edu.tr

Any questions should be directed to Dr. Deniz Erkmén at deniz.erkmen@ozyegin.edu.tr

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3631

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

ACADEMIC YEAR 2017-2018

Areas of Specialization: International Relations, Developing States

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. While the position would be tenured within the Political Science Department, the successful applicant will be expected to contribute three courses per year to the university's International Studies Program. The position entails teaching general survey courses in international relations and upper-level courses focused on the international relations of developing countries. The ability to teach international political economy and/or comparative politics in the applicant's region of specialization would also be an asset. Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if the degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Matthew Hoddie, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until December 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/5/2017

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3623

University of Guam

Rank: Tenure Track IR

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The University of Guam, the premier institution of higher education in the Western Pacific, has a tenure track opening in its Political Science Program for an International Relations specialist with a focus on the Asia Pacific. The program has three faculty members representing the areas of American and regional politics, comparative politics and international relations. Courses in political philosophy and methods are shared among faculty.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach both lower and upper division undergraduate political science courses. He or she will (a) teach a normal load of twelve (12) contact hours (4 courses) per semester, with one course load reduction possible with the Dean's approval, for research, instructional innovation, or large service projects; (b) maintain a continuous record of scholarly activity and research relevant to the Asia/Pacific region; and (c) perform university and community service. Course assignments will include an introductory research methodology course including quantitative and qualitative methods and upper division courses in international relations. Possible additional course assignments include: introduction to government and politics, introduction to international relations, political philosophy, politics of Asia and special topics in political science.

Minimum qualifications: (a) Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations or Government from a U.S. regionally accredited institution or foreign equivalent (appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor requires Ph.D. by August 2018 but initial appointment as Instructor is possible, contingent upon completion of the doctorate by the end of the first year of employment); (b) research or relevant professional experience in Asia and/or the Pacific region; (c) teaching experience in some of the subject areas listed above; and (d) willingness to teach online.

Preferred: (a) familiarity with issues of Pacific island societies; (b) experience teaching academically and culturally diverse populations; and (c) a record of winning grants.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience relevant to the position. The following salary figures are for nine (9) months:

Instructor $34,169 - $57,892 Per Academic Year

Assistant Professor $39,473 - $68,237 Per Academic Year

Associate Professor $43,703 - $77,498 Per Academic Year

Applicants for University of Guam faculty positions must complete an online job application through the UOG's online employment portal at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com>. Please have the following documents prepared and ready to upload with your application:

- (1) Letter of Intent, stating interest
- (2) Up-to-date curriculum vitae or resume
- (3) Copies of all graduate and undergraduate transcripts

Applicants who are short-listed for an interview will be required to provide a short (approximately 5 minutes) video clip of their lecture or presentation. Also, applicants may be requested by the search chair to submit supplemental materials including syllabi. Completed applications must be received no later than 11:59 p.m. on January 8, 2018 (Chamorro Standard Time/UTC+10).

Before applying, applicants should consult the full job announcement at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com/postings/1111>. For further information, please contact Dr. Arun R. Swamy, Chair, Political Science Search Committee at arswamy@triton.uog.edu or the Human Resources Office at uoghro@triton.uog.edu, telephone number, (671) 735-2350 or fax number at (671) 734-6005.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3621

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applications at the Assistant Professor (tenure-track) level in International Relations beginning August 16, 2018. A completed Ph.D. in political science is required for appointment. The successful candidate should have a strong research agenda with a clear plan for peer-reviewed scholarly publications. The position is open with regard to theoretical approach. We welcome applications from scholars using any combination of positivist, normative, critical, formal, or interpretive methods. Applications from candidates with an ability to teach international organizations, international political economy, human rights, and international law are especially welcome. In addition, we are interested in candidates who are prepared to contribute to teaching research methods. The candidate would also be expected to take an active role in the department's graduate program. The University of Alabama is a student-centered research university and the flagship campus of the University of Alabama system. B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees are offered in Political Science. To apply, go to <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41900> and complete the online application. Attach a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, samples of publications and papers, and teaching evaluations, if available. Applicants should also upload a transcript of graduate work and send three letters of recommendation directly to: International Relations Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Alabama, Box 870213, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0213, or via email at apatrick@ua.edu (please state position in email). For more information, contact Holger Albrecht, Search Committee Chair, at halbrecht@ua.edu. We will begin reviewing applications on November 10, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3615

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences

Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Governance/International Policy Theory with an emphasis on human security governance and sub-specializations in critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area. (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in global governance theory/international policy theory. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in human security, critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching global governance, international policy, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170154, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than four academic references. Screening of applications will begin December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Karen Hult (khult@vt.edu), chairs, Global Governance Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Major Williams Hall, Room 531 (0130), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3607

University of Southern Denmark

Rank: Assistant Professor in Social Science: War Studies (D-IAS)

The Danish Institute for Advanced Study (D-IAS) seeks outstanding candidates to fill a position as assistant professor at Faculty of Business and Social Sciences, Department of Political Science and Public Management.

This announcement is available on our website www.sdu.dk/vacancies

You can therefore not apply for the position based on this advertisement.

Application deadline 27 November 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 11/27/2017

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3606

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Postcolonial Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Postcolonial Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science

College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences

Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Postcolonial Theory and Global Governance/Globalization Theory with an emphasis on human security and sub-specializations in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in postcolonial theory and global governance/globalization theory with an emphasis on human security. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching postcolonial, global governance/globalization, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170155, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than 4 academic references. Screening of applications will begin January 5, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Timothy W. Luke (twluke@vt.edu), chairs, Postcolonial Theory Search Committee, ASPECT, Major Williams Hall, Room 202 (0192), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3608

Clarkson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Humanities and Social Sciences Department at Clarkson University invites applicants to apply for the position of Assistant Professor. This position is an entry-level tenure track appointment in International Relations or Comparative Politics to begin August 2018. The successful candidate must be able to teach introductory level courses as well as courses in her/his area of expertise, which could include a regional focus. Applicants should bring a lively interest in contributing to the programmatic development of one or more of Clarkson's intra-school emphases in environmental sustainability and the health sciences, or to the university's goals of international and global outreach. The ordinary teaching load is three courses (usually two preparations) per semester, including each fall two sections of a first-year, writing-intensive course, focused on a theme of the applicant's choosing. There is ample opportunity for course development in electives.

The successful candidate will have evidence of excellence in scholarship and teaching. PhD required by August 1, 2018. Minimum qualifications include PhD in political science with emphasis on International Relations or Comparative Politics. Some teaching experience and scholarly productivity.

Review of applications will begin December 17, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. To submit your application, go to www.clarkson.edu/hr and click "Career Opportunities" on the left hand navigation bar. An equal opportunity /affirmative action employer, Clarkson actively seeks and encourages applications from minorities, women and people with disabilities.

Prior to a final offer of employment, the selected candidate will be required to submit to a background check including, but not limited to, employment verification, educational and other credential verification, and criminal background check.

Clarkson University is a nationally recognized research university with signature areas of academic excellence and research directed toward the world's pressing issues. With more than 4,300 undergraduate and graduate students, its main campus is located in Potsdam, N.Y., and additional graduate program and research facilities are located in the Capital Region and Beacon, N.Y. One in five alumni already leads as an owner, CEO, VP or equivalent senior executive of a company.

Start Date: Fall

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3594

Northeastern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Political Theory
Specializations: International Security, Civil Rights & Liberties, Science & Technology

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor College of Social Sciences & Humanities Northeastern University

Responsibilities

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, tenure/tenure-track, in the area(s) of cyber security, privacy, ethics, and resilience (all broadly defined), with an expected start date of Fall 2018. We welcome applications from scholars working in any combination of these areas and are especially interested in those that focus on key issues in cybersecurity and privacy as they relate to applied ethics, human behavior, economics, institutions and policy. Interdisciplinary expertise in computational methods, data science, social science and/or humanities is preferred. This is an interdisciplinary position and candidates will be considered for joint appointments across suitable colleges and departments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record and demonstrated potential for excellence in leadership and interdisciplinary collaboration.

The position will facilitate cross-college teaching, research and collaboration between the College of Social Sciences and Humanities and the College of Computer and Information Science. The position will also support the University's commitment to innovation in teaching and contribute to the Cybersecurity & Privacy Institute (<https://cyber.ccis.northeastern.edu/>), the Global Resilience Institute (<https://globalresilience.northeastern.edu/>), and/or the Security & Resilience Studies program (<https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/polisci/security-resilience-studies/>). The candidate who fills this position will share the college's commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a PhD or its equivalent at the time of appointment.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

How to Apply

Applicants should submit a CV and letter of interest along with the names of three references. Candidates will be notified before their references are contacted. Full dossiers will be requested for first-round interviews.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Rory Smead at r.smead@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3599

Troy University

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professor

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics that focuses on Latin America beginning on August 1, 2018. This is a twelve-month tenure-track position at our Ft. Benning/Columbus, Georgia/ Phoenix City, Alabama location.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018 with a research specialization in Latin America. The preferred qualifications are a focus in Latin American Security and/or intelligence and the teaching will primarily be in our master's degree (MSIR) in international relations. The successful candidate will also teach undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Candidates should have experience working with the military and be prepared to act as the local university representative to Fort Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Faculty duties include advising students, submitting academic discipline-related articles for publication, attending departmental meetings, and serving on departmental committees.

Administrative duties include acting as the local university representative to Ft. Benning and the Western Hemisphere Institute for Security Cooperation (WHINSEC) community, acting as the main liaison with the Political Science Department at Troy, serving as a common point of contact, helping with scheduling, and reviewing projected schedules.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and provide three reference providers. Please combine the writing sample and research statement into one document and upload it under the "Other Document" section. Please direct all questions to Dr G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3589

Bocconi University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Policy Analysis and Public Management at Bocconi University is inviting applications for a full-time, tenure-track international relations position at the rank of assistant professor beginning September 2018. We welcome applications from candidates engaged in high-quality empirical research on international relations and especially those with a research agenda that demonstrates a substantial, on-going interest in international organizations.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. by September 1, 2018. Applicants should have a trajectory that suggests a tenurable research record is likely.

Bocconi University is a leading institution for economics, management and related disciplines in Europe, and it is currently expanding in the areas of political and social sciences. As part of this development, the Department has a major role in staffing a Bachelor in Government (BIG), a Master in Government and International Organizations (GIO) and, from 2018, a Master in Politics and Public Policy. Public Management is a major field in the Ph.D. Program in Public Policy and Administration, launched in 2014.

Bocconi provides an ideal interdisciplinary research environment. The Department of Policy Analysis and Public Management combines faculty from several social sciences (public administration, political science, sociology, economics, history, public health, demography), who shares an interest policy-relevant research, from analysis and design to implementation and management. The Department counts 60 tenured or tenure-track faculty members.

The successful candidate is expected to teach at the undergraduate and graduate level, which may include also SDA-Bocconi School of Management Executive Master in International Organizations (EMMIO). The excellent terms of employment are competitive. Bocconi University is located in Italy's most vibrant centre, Milan, a historical and cosmopolitan city in a metro area of 3 million and well connected to the rest of Europe.

Applications are due by January 7th, 2018. Review will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Campus visits will be scheduled accordingly.

Knowledge of Italian is not required. Responsibilities include teaching and productivity in research. Applicants should have – or be close to completing – a PhD and will have demonstrated strong potential in research.

To ensure full consideration, applicants must submit:

- A scientific curriculum;
- Titles, publications and documents which the candidates intend to submit for this evaluation;
- The name of at least two highly qualified academic referees

Submissions must be done via the on-line e-form with pdf attachments which can be found at www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket.

To complete the online process and be considered for the position, applicants will have to include at least two letters of recommendation.

The letters should be sent by the referees no later than January 15th 2018.

Bocconi University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. Applications are particularly welcome from women and members of groups who are under-represented in academic posts.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/7/2018

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3580

Koç University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The College of Administrative Sciences and Economics at Koç University invites applications for a full-time Assistant Professor position in International Relations starting in September 2018. While candidates from all specializations of International Relations will be considered, candidates with a focus on International Law and Organizations and International Political Economy are especially encouraged to apply. The successful applicant will have an active research agenda and potential to supervise Ph.D. students. Candidates need to send a letter of application explaining their research and teaching experience, an updated curriculum vitae, up to three sample publications/working papers, teaching portfolio (including sample syllabus and teaching evaluations with a key), and three letters of reference. Koç University is a private, non-profit Turkish institution of higher education located just north of Istanbul. Koç University is committed to pursuit of excellence in both research and teaching. The medium of instruction is English. Students typically rank in the top percentile of all high school graduates in Turkey. Normal teaching load consists of two courses per semester or six contact hours a week. Salary and benefits are competitive. To ensure consideration, all materials should be received by December 15, 2017. Successful candidates will be expected to have completed the Ph.D. prior to the position start date.

All material must be sent electronically to Office of the Dean (c/o Mrs. Vildan Ertugrul), College of Administrative Sciences and Economics, Koç University, Rumelifeneri Yolu, Sariyer 34450, Istanbul, TURKEY Fax: 90-212-338-1651 (or-1653) Email questions to Ms. Vildan Ertugrul (vertugrul@ku.edu.tr).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3572

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations(MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Rowan University
Glassboro, NJ

Assistant Professor or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Rowan University is a public comprehensive state and Carnegie designated research institution with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven colleges and five schools: the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

The Department of Political Science and Economics is housed in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The College supports students to earn degrees that provide a high quality liberal arts education (problem-solving aptitude, strong oral communications, asking good questions; respect others point of view), which at the same time prepare them for diverse career paths and future. The College's graduate programs also provide students with essential skills for continuing study through doctoral programs and for lifelong learning, including critical thinking, effective communication, and an understanding of the complexity of contemporary society in the context of diverse traditions and paradigms.

The Department of Political Science and Economics has an opening for one tenure-track Assistant Professor or a junior Associate Professor in either Economics or Political Science with a specialization in Political Economy beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development, etc.).

The department offers two bachelor degree programs in both economics and political science. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first five years and can be renewed annually after the 6th year and attaining tenure with evidence of continuing scholarship. This is an interdisciplinary position where the faculty will teach 2 classes in one discipline and 1 class in the other discipline. The successful candidate will also teach calculus-based Intermediate Microeconomics to economics majors.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline must be completed by July 31, 2018.

Evidence of excellence in undergraduate teaching is required. Applicants should demonstrate strong research abilities and the potential to secure external funding for research.

To assure full consideration, completed applications must be submitted electronically by November 10th, 2017.

We will conduct interviews at the Allied Social Science Association (ASSA) meetings Jan 5-7, 2018 in Philadelphia, Pa.

For full consideration, applications should include the items, assembled in the following order in a single PDF file: 1) a cover letter summarizing qualifications and interest in the position, 2) current CV, 3) statement of teaching interests (specifically including the list of courses taught and teaching philosophy), 4) a statement of research interests 5) and Contact information for three references. Please name the file as <LastName>_Application.pdf.

Do not forward reference letters at this time.

Additional required documentation include 1) unofficial transcripts, 2) student evaluations, and 3) research paper/publications. These should be submitted as a separate file, named <LastName>_Appendix.pdf.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically through Rowan University's employment website <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492317/assistant-professor-political-economy>

Rowan University, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences and the Department of Political Science and Economics are committed to diversity and inclusion.

All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Questions should be e-mailed to Natalie Reaves, reaves@rowan.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3548

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia 2018-19

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2018–2019 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2018–19 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral by July 31, 2018) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate of $52,000 plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2018–19 academic year.

Applications must be received by December 20, 2017.

For additional information and to apply, visit: <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3528

The Citadel

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: China, Southeast Asia, Latin American

The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, is currently seeking to fill a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in International Relations or Comparative Politics in the Department of Political Science.

The Citadel is a state-supported coeducational military college in historic downtown Charleston, South Carolina. We are committed to excellence in teaching with the expectation that faculty engage in consistent research and publication. The department offers a B.A. in Political Science with three subfields: American Government, International Politics and Military Affairs, and pre-Law and Legal Studies. The Department is home to approximately 250 undergraduate majors. In addition, the Department of Political Science offers a Master of Arts program in International Politics & Military Affairs and graduate courses related to a Master of Arts program in Social Science.

A Ph.D. is preferred, but ABD eligible candidates who will finish their dissertation by August 2018 will be considered. Expertise in China and Asian area studies is required with a preference for those with professional experience in a US government agency. Ability to teach courses in Latin American Affairs and International/Domestic Terrorism is an added asset. Undergraduate teaching responsibilities include: Introduction to International Politics, Comparative Politics, Southeast Asian Affairs, East Asian Affairs, and South Asian Affairs.

Successful candidates will also be expected to teach both evening and online courses related to the two Master of Arts Programs.

To learn more about The Citadel and its programs please visit our website at www.citadel.edu. To find more information on the Department of Political Science, you can visit us at <http://www.citadel.edu/root/politicalscience>.

Please include the following in your application materials:

- (1) A letter of application addressing the qualifications listed above
- (2) Official transcripts
- (3) A curriculum vita
- (4) Three letters of recommendation sent independently to the address below
- (5) A writing sample
- (6) Evidence of teaching effectiveness

Application materials should be sent to: Jack J. Porter, Dept. of Political Science, The Citadel, 171 Moultrie St., Charleston, SC, 29409.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3537

Florida State University

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for an associate professor to begin in the fall of 2018. We are open with respect to specialization. We are interested applicants who broaden the department's diversity. Successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, and contact information for three professional references. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search, with the heading "Associate Professor search" in the email. Written communications may be addressed to Associate Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3501

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3509

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/eo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3493

Fordham University

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Politics

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure track position in International Politics at the Assistant Professor level, beginning August 2018. The position is located at Fordham's Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

We are particularly interested in candidates who possess research and teaching expertise in the areas of international security, U.S. foreign policy, and international diplomacy. Alternatively, the candidate may specialize in international organizations, law, and cooperation. The successful candidate will be expected to contribute to undergraduate and graduate curricular needs in political science and the Master's Program in International Political Economy and Development. Additional expertise in a particular region of the world, including East or South Asia, Africa, or Europe would be welcome. We seek candidates whose work is theoretically sophisticated and methodologically rigorous.

We invite candidates with an ability to make a positive contribution to the department's climate fostering inclusiveness and diversity. We believe that cultural and intellectual pluralism is essential to the excellence of our academic programs, and we strive to foster an academic culture and campus community that attracts and supports the development of a diverse faculty reflecting the global environment in which we live and work. As our student body grows increasingly diverse, experience and commitment to teaching and mentoring students from a range of economic, social, and cultural backgrounds is preferred and welcomed.

Review of applications will begin on October 25. Interested applicants must submit the following documents in electronic format (PDF or Microsoft Word) to Professor José Alemán, Committee Chair, via Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/45328>: cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, course syllabi, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and three letters of reference. Ph.D. at the time of appointment is required.

Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from all backgrounds. Fordham is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3483

Loyola University, Chicago

Rank: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Foreign Policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy

Job Title: Tenure-Track Assistant Professor of Political Science (Foreign Policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy)

Loyola University Chicago, College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning fall 2018. The department seeks applicants in foreign policy with expertise in U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy. The successful applicant will be joining a department with more than 20 faculty members and more than 500 majors and minors. For information about the department, please visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/index.shtml>.

Duties and Responsibilities: The position involves teaching undergraduate courses as well as graduate courses in our M.A. and Ph.D. programs. The applicant will be expected to teach upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses on the formulation and implementation of U.S. foreign policy and U.S. national security policy, as well as an introductory International Relations class.

Qualifications: The successful applicant is expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of the appointment. Applicants for the position must clearly demonstrate the potential for excellence in research and teaching and have a record of (or clear potential for) distinguished scholarship, grant-funded research, and student mentorship. Applicants should be willing to support the mission of Loyola University Chicago and the goals of a Jesuit Catholic education.

Special Instructions to Applicants: Applicants should submit a current Curriculum Vitae, a statement outlining the applicant's research agenda, a statement on teaching experience, and a letter of interest outlining the applicant's qualifications to www.careers.luc.edu. They also should arrange for three letters of recommendation from individuals prepared to speak to their professional qualifications for this position, to be submitted electronically to the above website. Samples of scholarly publications and additional materials related to teaching excellence can also be uploaded to this site or mailed to:

Peter M. Sanchez, Professor and Search Committee Chair
Department of Political Science
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Road
Chicago, Illinois 60660

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017.

Loyola University Chicago is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer with a strong commitment to hiring for our mission and diversifying our faculty. The University seeks to increase the diversity of its professoriate, workforce and undergraduate and graduate student populations because broad diversity - including a wide range of individuals who contribute to a robust academic environment - is critical to achieving the University's mission of excellence in education, research, educational access and services in an increasingly diverse society. Therefore, in holistically assessing the many qualifications of each applicant, we would factor favorably an individual's record of conduct that includes experience with an array of diverse perspectives, as well as a wide variety of different educational, research or other work activities. Among other qualifications, we would also factor favorably experience overcoming or helping others overcome barriers to an academic career or degrees.

As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our strategic plan to deliver a Transformative Education in the Jesuit tradition. To learn more about LUC's mission, candidates should consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission/. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, they should consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformativede.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3480

University of California Irvine

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Studies
Specializations: Economic Policy, History & Politics, International Law & Organizations

The International Studies Program at the University of California, Irvine invites applications from outstanding scholars involved in critical interdisciplinary global research with substantive foci in political, sociocultural, historical, legal, geographical and economic issues to apply for a tenure-track assistant professor position. All candidates with a research agenda that engages complex global issues and cuts across foci in creative ways will be considered. The successful candidate will hold a PhD in a relevant discipline in the social sciences or humanities. Candidates should address explicitly how critical and global perspectives are deployed and/or local-global dimensions feature in their research. Candidates should have an outstanding record of research, publication, teaching and professional service.

The International Studies Program is planning to become a full department with a unique doctoral program. The candidate will be involved in building an innovative, interdisciplinary and diverse intellectual environment and developing curriculum around global theory, research, and pressing regional and transnational issues.

Applicants should submit a cover letter highlighting qualifications, evidence of teaching excellence, statement of teaching, curriculum vitae, up to three publications and ensure three letters of reference are submitted by the deadline. A separate statement that addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion must also be included in the application materials. Applicants must apply online at: <https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04275>.

These materials should be directed to Professor Eve Darian-Smith, Director, International Studies, University of California, Irvine CA 92697-5100.

Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the post is filled.

Preference may be given to those candidates who demonstrate a sustained commitment to advance equitable access to higher education, and who have performed public and university service that addresses the needs of underrepresented minority populations.

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy. A recipient of an NSF ADVANCE Award for gender equity, UCI is responsive to the needs of dual career couples, supports work-life balance through an array of family-friendly policies, and is dedicated to broadening participation in higher education.

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/22/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3486

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia
Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory
Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight appointees for the 2018-2019 academic year Postdoctoral Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3901>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3469

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two postdoctoral or more candidates for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3922>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;

- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3471

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Program Visiting Fellow

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2018-2019 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3921>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3468

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3923>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3470

Lehigh University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of International Relations at Lehigh University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in International Political Economy (IPE) starting in August 2018. We are open to IPE scholars with varying specializations, methodological orientations, and regional foci, but would look with particular favor on a candidate with expertise on developing countries. Applicants must have a strong commitment to excellence in research and undergraduate teaching. Interested candidates should submit a letter of interest, CV, and the names of three references to Henri J. Barkey, search committee chair, online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9886>. Candidates should also submit writing samples and/or publications. Only submissions via Academic Jobs Online will be considered. Evaluation of applications will begin on November 1 and continue until the post is filled.

Lehigh University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and particularly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. The College of Arts and Sciences is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and service, to the diversity the academic community. The University offers excellent benefits, including domestic partner benefits. For details, please refer to <http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/faculty/worklifebalance.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3463

Troy University

Rank: Adjunct Professor

Adjunct faculty members are employed to provide specific courses on an as-needed basis. Contracts for adjunct faculty members are issued on a semester/term basis. Adjunct Instructors hold the responsibility for the courses taught. Adjunct Instructors are expected to be available for a reasonable amount of time for each course taught to counsel students regarding course work.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3449

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science
NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: East Asia, South Asia, Southeast Asia

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specializations: Asia, International Relations

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach comparative politics with a regional specialization in Asia/Pacific Rim. Expertise in international relations also highly desirable. Possible areas of specialty can include, but need not be limited to, terrorism, revolutions, international politics, international economic relations, international conflict. Ability to teach a basic methods course also desirable, though not required. Responsibilities include teaching introductory courses, including Introduction to World Politics, and upper division courses in the undergraduate curriculum. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates should demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to collaborate with other colleagues on campus in a variety of international experiential activities (e.g. study abroad, internships, civic engagement, Model UN). College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Expertise in international relations and ability to teach basic methods course highly desirable.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education.

Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts; a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3412

University of Chicago

Rank: Assistant Professor or Provost Fellow

The Political Science Department at the University of Chicago seeks applications from scholars engaging issues of colonialism, empire, and their contemporary legacies around the world. We especially welcome applications from scholars of Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Comparative Racial Politics. Themes of particular interest include: the legacies of slavery; the politics of indentured servitude; the practices of colonial and/or imperial rule; forced migration; genocidal violence; interstate relations involving former colonies; and economic (inter)dependence in the global south. One goal of the search is to increase the diversity of the faculty in the Department, and we therefore strongly encourage applicants who come from groups historically underrepresented in the discipline, such as black/African American, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, or Alaskan Native.

Successful candidates will be appointed either as an Assistant Professor or as a Provost Fellow with an initial two-year faculty appointment at the rank of Instructor. This initial period is intended to serve in lieu of a postdoctoral appointment for the same period, during which Provost Fellows will teach one class per year. At the end of their initial term, Provost Fellows will ordinarily be promoted to Assistant Professor.

Appointments may begin as early as July 1, 2018. Review of applications will begin

September 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled or the search is closed; early submission is encouraged. Applications must be submitted through the University of Chicago's Academic Career Opportunities website <http://tinyurl.com/yc5dkzk7>.

Applications must include: 1) a cover letter that, among other things, describes the applicant's prior and potential contributions to diversity in the context of academic research, teaching, and service; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a research statement addressing current research and future plans for research; 4) a teaching statement addressing teaching experience and philosophy; 5) one sample of scholarly writing (a published article or unpublished paper or chapter); and 6) three letters of reference.

Questions regarding the application process should be sent to Rose Lewis at relewis@uchicago.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3402

Texas Tech University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Texas Tech University, the department of political science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning in Fall 2018. We seek candidates with broad training in International Relations. Although applicants from all International Relations subfield are encouraged to apply, we are especially interested in candidates who conduct research and teach in the areas of international organizations, institutions and cooperation, broadly defined.

Applicants must show evidence and/or promise of excellence in teaching and an active research agenda. Candidates with strong quantitative and formal methods training, and an ability to teach graduate methods courses, are preferred.

Candidates who have very strong records of scholarship supported by extramural funding and who have the proven capacity or clear potential to bring externally sponsored research to Texas Tech University are encouraged to apply. A Ph.D. in political science is required by the time of the appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, writing sample, three letters of reference, and evidence of teaching effectiveness. These items should be submitted at <http://www.texastech.edu/careers/>. The requisition number is 11477BR. For full consideration, all application materials must be received by October 15, 2017. Questions about the position should be directed to Tim Nokken, Chair, Department of political science, timothy.nokken@ttu.edu.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, Texas Tech University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse faculty committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We actively encourage applications from all those who can contribute, through their research, teaching, and/or service, to the diversity and excellence of the academic community at Texas Tech University. The university welcomes applications from minorities, women, protected veterans, persons with disabilities, and dual-career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3396

University of North Carolina, Greensboro

Rank: Assistant Professor

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT GREENSBORO: Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: International Relations

The Department of Political Science anticipates filling a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in International Relations beginning in August 2018. Candidates should have a Ph.D. by time of appointment. Applicants should have teaching experience and an active research agenda. Specialization is open. Experience teaching international law and willingness to supervise a Model UN program are advantageous. The department has fifteen full-time faculty members and has strong B.A. and M.P.A. programs. Salary is competitive.

UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool. UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate student body consisting of approximately 28% African Americans and 8% Hispanic or Latino Americans. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools. We are an EOE/Affirmative action/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Applicants should submit all materials electronically (to apply, visit <https://jobsearch.uncg.edu> and click on "Faculty" and apply to position #1633), including a cover letter, a CV, a description of their research program, up to three representative writing samples, sample syllabi, and a statement of teaching interests. Applicants are asked to provide the names and email addresses of at least three (3) references in the References section of the electronic application. These references will be solicited by the UNCG jobsearch system via email, and asked to provide a confidential letter of reference/recommendation on behalf of the applicant. This will occur as soon as the applicant successfully submits the application and receives a confirmation number from the UNCG jobsearch system.

Inquiries can be sent to Professor Fabrice Lehoucq (f_lehoucq@uncg.edu). The program webpage is <http://www.uncg.edu/psc/>. The review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3381

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - International Relations

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in international relations. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3362

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

SUNY, College at Oneonta

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at the State University of New York College at Oneonta invites applications for a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in International Relations / Comparative Government beginning Fall 2018. The initial appointment will be for two years. Expectations include teaching, research, student advisement, college service, and continuing professional development. SUNY Oneonta is a comprehensive, public, liberal arts and sciences college. The College sits at #9 on the 2016 list of "Top Public Regional Universities" in the North published by U.S. News & World Report, and is ranked #175 in the Northeast on the Forbes magazine list of "America's Top Colleges." The Political Science Department is an expanding part of the College's School of Social Sciences, whose faculty are highly collegial and engaged as teachers, scholars, and mentors. They actively pursue the development of a dynamic learning environment for students in which research and applied learning opportunities are available. To learn more about the College or the Department, please visit www.oneonta.edu or www.oneonta.edu/academics/polsci/. Preference will be given to candidates who have experience with diverse populations and/or teaching pedagogies and/or multicultural teaching experience.

For a complete description of this position go to: <https://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/jobofferdetails.jsp?JOBID=87620>

To apply online go to: <http://oneonta.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=87620>

For other employment and regional opportunities, please visit our website at: www.oneonta.edu/employment.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3351

California State University Dominguez Hills

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

www.csudh.edu

Assistant Professor of International Relations
 College of Natural & Behavioral Sciences

Position Description

The faculty of the Department of Political Science at California State University Dominguez Hills invites applications from individuals for a tenure track, Assistant Professor position in International Relations, effective Fall 2018.

Department of Political Science

The Political Science Department is located in the College of Natural and Behavioral Sciences. The current faculty is comprised of four tenured and tenure-track faculty joined by 9 to 11 part-time faculty each term. Political Science provides excellent opportunities for the study of government and politics. Over 40 courses cover all the major aspects of the discipline. Students develop an understanding of human behavior as it relates to politics. They learn to discuss and analyze critically current public policy issues facing the United States and the world. They are taught how to critically observe and understand world affairs and comparative politics. They are trained in appropriate research techniques for the study of political processes. The General Political Science Concentration is a relatively "open" one, allowing students to choose from a wide range of courses and subjects within a general framework. It is designed for students seeking broad exposure to the diverse subjects of the discipline and is recommended for most students.

The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings. Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise (comprised of a major research paper) in one of the elective courses. The department offers internship opportunities at the national, California government and local government levels. The Department sponsors an active student organization (APSS, the Association of Political Science Students) and successful Model United Nations (MUN) and Mock Trial program for students.

For more information see: <http://www4.csudh.edu/political-science/index>

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Responsibilities

The selected candidate will be responsible for teaching, performing service on departmental and university-wide bases, publishing research in peer-reviewed academic journals relevant to the discipline of political science/the subfield of International Relations, maintaining office hours, and providing advising for our majors and minors, help direct a successful, team-run Model U.N. program, and participate with colleagues in curricular development.

The Position

Faculty members teach four classes or their equivalent each semester (although new faculty receive reduced teaching assignments); maintain an active research program; mentor and advise students; and serve on departmental and university committees. The appointment will be effective for the fall semester of the 2018-2019 academic year, beginning in August 2018. The Department offers a general major composed of core courses in Quantitative Research Methods, History of Political Thought, American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations. Additionally, majors select breadth courses in American Politics, Comparative Politics, and International Relations along with five elective courses selected from Departmental offerings.

Majors must complete the Capstone Research Exercise under the supervision of one of the tenured or tenure track members of the faculty.

The Ideal Candidate

The ideal candidate will have a promising record of effective teaching, scholarly research and service, will be innovative in his or her thinking in a department strongly committed to academic excellence, community outreach and the development of partnerships with local and federal government institutions and businesses to enhance the learning experience of political science students and to help prepare them for success in the job market, legal careers or graduate school.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications

- A PhD or ABD in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution of higher education
- Research experience
- Teaching experience or training in teaching techniques.
- Expertise in Quantitative Methodology
- Teaching and research interest in International Relations
- A strong interest in developing new courses to reflect the changing nature of the international system and developments in the discipline of Political Science.
- Experience and/or ability in teaching undergraduates from diverse age, socioeconomic, cultural, and academic backgrounds.

Preferred Qualifications

- Secondary interest in area studies
- Ability and willingness to teach, and perform research utilizing, Quantitative Methodology
- An interest in student-involved research

Background Checks

- The successful candidate is required to complete a thorough background check and the employment offer can be rescinded if the background check reveals disqualifying or falsified information.

CSU Dominguez Hills

On April 29, 1960, Gov. Pat Brown signed a bill into law authorizing the formation of a state college to serve the growing southwestern region of Los Angeles County. From its humble beginnings in a bank building in Rolling Hills Estates, CSU Dominguez Hills has evolved into a thriving and nationally recognized comprehensive university, providing an innovative liberal arts education to a diverse student body.

Mission Statement

CSU Dominguez Hills provides education, scholarship and service that are, by design, accessible and transformative. We welcome students who seek academic achievement, personal fulfillment, and preparation for the work of today and tomorrow.

Vision

A vital educational and economic resource for the South Bay, CSU Dominguez Hills will be recognized as a top-performing Comprehensive Model Urban University in America. We will be known as a campus community and gathering place where:

- Diversity in all its forms is explored, understood, and transformed into knowledge and practice that benefits the world.
- Technology is embraced and leveraged to transcend educational boundaries as we reach out to students, both locally and globally.
- Sustainable environmental, social and economic practices are a way of life.

- Students from our community who aspire to complete a college degree are provided the pathway and guidance to succeed.
- Faculty and staff across the University are engaged in serving the dynamic needs of the surrounding communities.
- Student life is meaningful and vibrant.
- Our accomplishments and those of our alumni are recognized nationally and internationally.
- Ultimately, our students graduate with an exemplary academic education, a highly respected degree, and a genuine commitment to justice and social responsibility.

About the University

CSU Dominguez Hills holds the Carnegie classification of Master's L and is a federally recognized Hispanic-Serving Institution. Class sizes are small as compared with large research universities and classes are taught by the faculty, not by teaching assistants. Many of the university's students are the first in their families to earn a university degree. While the university enrolls traditional full-time students, many students enroll part-time and attend late afternoon, evening and weekend classes because of work and family responsibilities.

CSU Dominguez Hills offers 45 baccalaureate degrees, 24 master's degrees, and a number of certificate and credential programs. Enrollment exceeds 14,635 students, and the student population is among the most ethnically and culturally rich in the nation: 60% Hispanic/Latino, 14.5% Black/ African-American, 10.9% White, 10.8% Asian, .10% American Indian/ Alaska Native, .30% Native Hawaiian/ Other Pacific Islander, 3.10% Two or more races.

The University is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC), the accrediting body for institutions of higher learning in the West. Twelve programs hold accreditations from national professional associations: business administration, clinical sciences, computer science, education, health science, music, nursing, occupational therapy, public administration, special education, theatre arts, and social work.

The academic programs of the university are organized under the Colleges of Arts and Humanities, Business Administration and Public Policy, Extended and International Education, Natural and Behavioral Sciences, Education, and Health and Human Services, and Nursing. While continuing to emphasize the liberal arts and sciences, professional programs offered at the undergraduate and graduate level, developed to serve the region's workforce needs, are of great interest to students and prepare them for professions in a variety of industries.

Known for excellence in teacher education, nursing, psychology, business administration, and digital media arts, new degree programs include computer science, criminal justice, recreation and leisure studies, social work, and communication disorders. CSU Dominguez Hills is a national leader in distance learning with 10 academic degrees and seven certificate programs offered.

Faculty

A tradition of teaching excellence lies at the heart of the university experience for Dominguez Hills' students. Most of the faculty have earned doctoral degrees from prestigious universities across the nation. The faculty strives to sustain a dynamic teaching and learning environment in a multicultural setting. The Academic Senate provides a forum for faculty, administration, students and others to be represented and consulted regarding such vital issues as budget priorities, academic standards, curriculum and instruction, and student affairs.

Student Life

At CSU Dominguez Hills, there's more to student life than the classroom. The university offers a dynamic, interactive and enriching community of learners, teachers and peers sharing diverse points of view. There are multitudes of ways for students to pursue interests, get involved, and get the most from their academic experience.

An office of student life enhances student development by coordinating a variety of co-curricular activities, including 60 student organizations. Students are encouraged to perform community service and participate in leadership development. The Multicultural Center on campus promotes the exploration of diverse heritages, values and cultural experiences by offering a wide range of activities and programs throughout the academic year.

CSU Dominguez Hills is a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division II institution that competes in the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). CSU Dominguez Hills is one of the most athletically competitive and honored schools in the CCAA, with 23 conference titles and four national championships to date, including the 2008 NCAA D-II Men's Soccer National Championship. CSU Dominguez Hills sponsors 11 intercollegiate athletic teams.

The Location

The university is located in Carson, California, in the South Bay region of Los Angeles County. Its 346-acre park-like campus is situated in the historic Rancho San Pedro, the oldest Spanish land grant in the Los Angeles area. The site remained in the continuous possession of the Dominguez family for seven generations - from its inception in 1794 to its acquisition by the state of California.

The Region

The South Bay is one of the most culturally, economically, and ethnically diverse areas in the United States, with a largely even distribution of the population with African, Asian/Pacific Islander, European, and Latino ancestry. The university is located in the city of Carson, a city of 93,000 residents and one of the many municipalities that border the city of Los Angeles. Cultural, performance and sports venues in downtown Los Angeles are about 15 minutes away and the South Bay beach communities are a few minutes away to the west and south. The StubHub, a 125-acre sports center developed by AEG and home to Major League Soccer's L.A. Galaxy and Chivas USA, is located on the CSUDH campus.

The campus is strategically located in the heart of a major technological, industrial and transportation complex in Southern California. This area includes the massive Port of Long Beach and the Port of Los Angeles - Southern California's gateway to international commerce. The South Bay region is also home to aerospace, oil refinery, healthcare and automotive industries.

Employee Benefits

CSU Dominguez Hills offers a comprehensive and attractive benefits program to its employees. Further information on benefits offered can be found at www.csudh.edu/employment

How to Apply

While the position will remain open until filled, review of applications will begin on September 15, 2017.

Register your online application/s at https://my.csudh.edu/psp/paaprd/EMPLOYEE/HDHPRD/c/HRS_HRAM.HRS_CE.GBL and have the following documents as a single file by October 15, 2017.

- Current Curricula Vitae

- Cover letter
- Three Letters of Recommendation
- Copy of Terminal Degree
- A Statement on Teaching
- A Statement on Research
- Sample Publications (if available)
- Teaching Evaluations (if available)

Instructions on how to submit a single document link:
<http://www4.csudh.edu/Assets/CSUDH-Sites/HR/docs/External-Applicant-FAQs-final.pdf>

Applicants that are selected to move forward in the recruitment process will be notified by the Search Committee when to submit official transcripts directly to the email address of srusso@csudh.edu or you may mail directly to:

Dr. Salvatore J. Russo
 Search Committee Chair
 Department of Political Science
 CSU, Dominguez Hills
 1000 East Victoria Street
 Carson, CA 90747

California State University, Dominguez Hills, is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer. We consider qualified applicants for employment without regard to race, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, age, sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, genetic information, medical condition, disability, marital status, or protected veteran status.

Individuals with disabilities requesting accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) may call the CSU Dominguez Hills Human Resources Office (310) 243-3771 or the Academic Affairs Personnel Services Office at (310) 243-3766.

Clery Act crime statistics for CSUDH are available at <http://www.csudh.edu/dhpd/>, or by calling University Police at (310) 243-3693.

Upon appointment all candidates must furnish proof of eligibility to work in the U.S.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3349

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3337

Le Moyne College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Le Moyne College invites applications from qualified candidates for a faculty opening for the position of Visiting Assistant Professor of International Relations or Comparative Politics, beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will offer traditional introductory IR or CP courses at the undergraduate level; upper-division courses are open in terms of expertise and interest in world politics, although interest in human rights issues, or in an area such as Africa or the Middle East would be welcome. Candidates should identify in the application letter the specific courses they are prepared to teach.

Qualified candidates must demonstrate teaching effectiveness, manifest a strong understanding of and commitment to a liberal arts education, and be dedicated to maintaining an active research agenda. Qualified candidates must be ABD; preference given to a Ph.D. in Political Science at the time of appointment.

To apply for this position, please go to <http://www.lemoyne.edu/employment> and submit the required materials for consideration: a letter of application stating research and teaching interests; a curriculum vitae; graduate transcript; relevant teaching evaluations; and three confidential letters of recommendation - all sent electronically to lemoynehr@lemoyne.edu with the subject line of "Visiting International Relations." Application materials and supporting documentation may also be submitted by mail to: Amy Zubieta, Le Moyne College, 1419 Salt Springs Road, Grewen Hall, 2nd Floor (Human Resources), Attn: International Relations Search, Syracuse, New York 13214.

Review of completed applications will begin January 31, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3320

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Specializations: International Political Economy, Russia, South Asia

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The Political Science Department invites applications for multiple tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in International Relations and/or Comparative Politics beginning August 2018. USNA is a service academy and top tier liberal arts college with a demonstrated commitment to excellence in faculty teaching and research. The successful candidate should have conducted innovative research in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia. Candidates should expect to contribute to teaching introductory and intermediate courses in political science, as well as upper-level electives in their field of concentration. Candidates should have a robust research agenda and strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. Teaching load is typically three sections per semester with small section sizes (18-22 students) and 2-4 preps per year. Candidates should also have a strong commitment to student advising and mentoring, and to service to the institution.

MINIMUM AND PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

Minimum:

- A Ph.D. in Political Science is required (anticipated completion of Ph.D. no later than July 2018 is acceptable).
- Applicants must be U.S. Citizens.

Preferred:

- A teaching interest in security studies, international political economy, or politics of developing countries with regional expertise on Russia and Eurasia, South Asia, or Southeast Asia.

Additional details for applicants is available on the Naval Academy Human Resources website at <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/AsstProfPoliSciIRCP-201718.php>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3319

Saint Louis University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Politics or International Relations and Methods

Saint Louis University, a Catholic, Jesuit institution dedicated to student learning, research, health care, and service, seeks applicants for a tenure track position in comparative politics or international relations starting in August 2018. Candidate must be able to teach classes in research methods. Cross-regional or Middle East expertise is desirable. Previous teaching experience and a PhD in Political Science are preferred, but ABD candidates will be considered. The appointment will be at the level of Assistant Professor. The teaching assignment is a 2/2. The department offers a BA and MA and, in coordination with the Sociology/Anthropology department a PhD in Public and Social Policy.

All applications must be made online at <http://jobs.slu.edu>, and must include a curriculum vitae; a cover letter that includes research plans, teaching interests and qualifications for teaching research methods; one single-authored writing sample; research and teaching statements; a summary of recent teaching evaluations (if possible, officially produced); and syllabi of classes taught. Please have three current letters of recommendation and official graduate transcripts sent to Ms. Sharilyn Bazile at sbazile@slu.edu or Department of Political Science, Saint Louis University, 3750 Lindell Boulevard, St. Louis, MO 63108. For questions about the position, please contact Ms. Bazile or call the department office, 314-977-3035. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Incomplete applications or applications received after September 15, 2017 cannot be assured full consideration.

Saint Louis University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. All qualified candidates will receive consideration for the position applied for without regard to race, sex, age, national origin, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, military/veteran status, gender identity, or other non-merit factors. We welcome and encourage applications from racial minorities, women, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities (including disabled veterans). If accommodations are needed for completing the application and/or the interviewing process, please contact Human Resources at 314-977-5847.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3295

University of California Irvine

Rank: Lecturer - International Studies

Specializations: International Security, Africa, Gender Politics & Policy

International Studies

University of California, Irvine

School of Social Sciences - International Studies Lecturers

The Program in International Studies is establishing a pool of qualified applicants as Lecturers to teach courses in International Studies, including but not limited to International Political Economy, Regional Studies (Middle East and Africa), Humanitarianism, NGOs, Public Policy, Gender, and Global Trade.

These positions may be available during Winter 2018 and/or Spring 2018 quarters. We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who can contribute to the quality of our undergraduate program. The number of courses available varies by quarter and year.

Rank: Lecturer

Salary Range: $5,700 - $6,200 per course

Qualifications: Ph.D. preferred in the related area of International Studies disciplines.

Positions May Be Available: Winter 2018 and Spring 2018

Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at:

<https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04263>

The University of California, Irvine is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Closing Dates:

Winter 2018 Quarter, November 30, 2017

Spring 2018 Quarter, January 30, 2018

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Winter 2018

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 8/28/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3286

University of Colorado Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in International Political Economy. The successful candidate should have research interests in IPE and is expected to meet departmental instructional needs that include teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Applications received by October 1, 2017 will receive priority consideration, though we will continue screening applications until the position is filled. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10859. Please attach a letter of interest, current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness and names and email addresses of at least three letter writers who may be contacted to upload a letter of recommendation on your behalf. If any documents are too large or too numerous to attach, please place them on your website and include a URL with links to these portions of the dossier in the appropriate attachment section. Writing samples may include publications, conference papers, and/or works in progress. Evidence of teaching effectiveness may include a statement of teaching philosophy, syllabi, course evaluations and/or other materials. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science or economics and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the IPE Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3268

Yale University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Ethnicity, Race and Migration

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in Ethnicity, Race and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018. We are particularly interested in outstanding candidates who work on American Politics, and also candidates who work on these issues in Comparative Politics and International Relations.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43794>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lanicolianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 8/25/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3266

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Position in Comparative Politics of Migration

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in the Comparative Politics of Ethnicity and Migration, the appointment to begin July 1, 2018.

Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire.

Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43796>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin October 10, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date.

Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/25/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3267

Mississippi State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration seeks applications for a tenure-track faculty position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 16, 2018. Candidates should have a primary research and teaching interest in International Relations with a principal focus on security studies. A Ph.D. degree is required. Candidates with ABD status will be considered but they must possess a Ph.D. degree by the time of appointment. Applicants should demonstrate a strong research capability, a commitment to effective teaching, and a willingness to work with colleagues in professional service responsibilities. The teaching load is four classes per year, a 2-2 load.

Mississippi State University is a public, land grant, doctoral university with an enrollment of approximately 23,000 students. The department's degree programs include a BA and MA in Political Science, a NASPAA-accredited Master of Public Policy and Administration, and a PhD in Public Policy and Administration. The department consists of 16 faculty members, 200 undergraduate majors, 39 Masters students, and 29 Ph.D. students. The department has strong ties to several research centers within the University, including the Social Science Research Center, the John C. Stennis Institute of Government, and the Stennis Center for Public Service. More information is available on the department at <http://www.pspa.msstate.edu>. If you require assistance, e-mail the search committee chair, Brian Shoup, at bds223@msstate.edu.

Candidates must submit application materials electronically. Go to the website of our Human Resources Management department at <http://explore.msujobs.msstate.edu/> (PARF#496143) and follow the instructions for applying for a job. Your electronic submission should include a cover letter indicating your interest in and qualifications for the position, a vita, and the names and contact information of three references. In addition, please have three letters of recommendation sent to the following: Ms. Quintara Miller, Public Administration and Public Policy Search, Mississippi State University; P.O. Box PC; Mississippi State, MS 39762. Review of the applications will begin on or around September 25th, and the search will remain open until filled. MSU is an equal opportunity employer, and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, disability status, age, sexual orientation, genetic information, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. We always welcome nominations and applications from women, members of any minority group, and others who share our passion for building a diverse community that reflects the diversity in our student population.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/24/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3260

University of Houston

Rank: International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a position in International Relations at the Assistant or Associate professor level. Subfields of particular interest include international development, international political economy or international organizations, but we welcome applications from all fields of IR. The appointment will begin in Fall 2018. Successful candidates should have extensive methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Review of applications will begin October 2, and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars. With over 600 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, the UH Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000255. To apply, please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Tanya Bagashka, Chair, International Relations Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Houston.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women, and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/24/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3262

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach.

We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).

5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - International Political Economy/Latin America

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor in International Political Economy and Comparative Political Economy with a substantive focus on Latin America. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Political Science, teaching experience and career interest in liberal arts teaching, and a vibrant research agenda. In addition to anchoring the general IPE field and teaching courses in Latin American IPE/CPE, the candidate will offer an upper-level undergraduate course in the comparative politics of Latin America and join in the rotation(s) of at least one of the following disciplinary service courses: Intro to World Politics, Research Design (multiple approaches and methods), or Quantitative Analysis. Given the IPE/CPE emphasis of this position, we expect that the candidate hired would have advanced quantitative skills and be able to guide both qualitative and quantitative undergraduate research. While this position is open with regard to research interests, we would look especially favorably on someone who can teach about and supervise research on the large states and economies of South America. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements of no more than a page each regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to ssc@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: IPE Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu.

Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. We will be at the APSA convention for preliminary interviews and more information. If you are interested in meeting at APSA, please send an e-mail to Prof. Barbara Hicks at bhicks@ncf.edu with APSA-IPE in the subject line.

New College of Florida is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty. Women and candidates from underrepresented groups or whose knowledge or skills can support an inclusive learning environment are especially encouraged to apply. Consistent with law and its respect for personal dignity, the college does not discriminate against applicants for employment based on race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. In accordance with state law, all employees are subject to a background check at the time of hiring. EOE/AA/ADA/WMA.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/9/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3156

Southern Methodist University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor: John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security

Associate or Full Professor: John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security.

Department of Political Science
 Southern Methodist University
 Dallas, Texas

(Position No. 00052605) The Political Science Department at Southern Methodist University invites applications for the John Goodwin Tower Distinguished Chair in International Politics and National Security. This is a tenured position, open at the rank of professor or associate professor. Preference will be given to scholars with outstanding records of research and teaching in international relations with a specialization in one or more of the following subfields: US national security affairs, US foreign and defense policy, US security, strategic and intelligence studies, and civil-military relations. We are particularly interested in scholars who merge political science with fine-grained policy analyses. The successful candidate will serve as Director of the Security and Strategy Program (SAS@SMU), which provides research grants and organizes public events on national security issues. He or she will also be senior fellow in the John G. Tower Center for Political Studies and will participate in Center activities and programs. PhD required at time of appointment. The expected start date for the position is fall 2018.

The Political Science Department at SMU currently consists of sixteen faculty members who offer undergraduate programs in political science, public policy, and international and area studies, with a total of over 250 majors. Classes are small and expectations are high in both teaching and research. The Tower Center for Political Studies (<http://www.smu.edu/tower/>), housed with the Political Science Department, is a dynamic interdisciplinary center sponsoring dozens of teaching, research, and public service programs annually in national and international politics. The successful candidate will take a leading role in advancing the Department, the Center, and related programs, particularly the Center's program in national security.

Southern Methodist University is a comprehensive university of 11,000 undergraduate and graduate students located on a beautiful urban campus just north of downtown Dallas. Applicants can initiate consideration by submitting a letter of application, curriculum vitae, and three references to: Professor James Hollifield, Director, Tower Center, PO Box 750117, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, TX 75275-0117 or jhollifi@smu.edu with CC to plsc@smu.edu.

The review of candidates will begin on 15 October 2017, but the committee will continue to accept applications until the position is filled. The committee will notify applicants of its decision when the search is complete.

Southern Methodist University will not discriminate in any program or activity on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, disability, genetic information, veteran status, sexual orientation, or gender identity and expression. The Executive Director for Access and Equity/Title IX Coordinator is designated to handle inquiries regarding nondiscrimination policies and may be reached at the Perkins Administration Building, Room 204, 6425 Boaz Lane, Dallas, TX 75205, 214-768-3601, accessequity@smu.edu.

Hiring is contingent upon the satisfactory completion of a background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/8/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3151

University of Rhode Island

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science at the University of Rhode Island invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level with research and teaching in the field of International Relations with specialization in International Organizations to begin the fall semester of 2018.

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

Candidates will be expected to teach undergraduate political science courses in the area of international politics that serve as requirements for both the Political Science and the new International Studies & Diplomacy undergraduate degrees as well as teach other courses in the International Relations graduate program. Candidates will also be expected to publish original research in the field of international politics, advise undergraduate students, and provide service to the department, the university and the profession.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Ph.D., or expectation of completion of degree requirements by appointment date of September 1, 2018, in Political Science, International Relations, or related field
- 2) Primary or secondary field in the area of International Organizations
- 3) Evidence of college-level teaching commensurate with level of academic experience
- 4) Demonstrated ability to teach introductory political science courses in the area of international politics
- 5) Demonstrated evidence of research in the field of international politics with scholarly work commensurate with level of academic experience
- 6) Demonstrated experience working with diverse populations or in diverse environments

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- 1) Research expertise in at least one of the following or related areas: diplomacy, human rights, international law, environmental justice, food security, international migration, political asylum, or refugee flows
- 2) Internationally relevant experience working with international organizations, conducting international fieldwork, or strong foreign language skills

All requirements are subject to possible modification to reasonably accommodate individuals with disabilities.

The application deadline is October 1, 2017.

For the full job posting and to apply online, please visit: <https://jobs.uri.edu/postings/2628>

Please attach (PDF) the following documents to your online application:

- 1) Cover letter that describes your interest in this position
- 2) Curriculum vitae which includes the names/contact information for three references, a list of all completed graduate-level courses, and, if available, course syllabi and teaching evaluations for any courses you have taught (note: please scan and attach all of this information as a single CV document)
- 3) Brief research and teaching statement
- 4) If applicable, submit an article-length sample of relevant scholarly work

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 8/8/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3144

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3129

Pennsylvania State University

Rank: Open Rank Professor in International Relations

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track position in International Relations, with the appointment beginning in fall 2018. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work focuses on intrastate violence or international security. Candidates should have active research agendas, a record of quality publications or the potential to publish in high-quality venues, good teaching credentials, and demonstrated mastery of quantitative and/or formal research methods. Senior candidates with strong research records or candidates who could contribute to Penn State's Global and International Studies Program, particularly by teaching introductory courses, will receive special consideration. Faculty positions at Penn State involve substantial research support; in addition, junior positions offer significant released time.

All requirements for the Ph.D. must be completed by the appointment date. Application review will begin on September 15, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, samples of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (with a key). Apply online at <https://psu.jobs/job/73164>. All candidates should request letters from three references to be sent directly to plscapplications@psu.edu.

CAMPUS SECURITY CRIME STATISTICS: For more about safety at Penn State, and to review the Annual Security Report which contains information about crime statistics and other safety and security matters, please go to <http://www.police.psu.edu/clery/>, which will also provide you with detail on how to request a hard copy of the Annual Security Report.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3107

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters

of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at polscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3115

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3045

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant Professor

International Relations/Methodology (Assistant Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University Bloomington invites applications for a full-time tenure track assistant professor in the field of International Relations (IR) and/or methodology beginning August 2018. We have a particular interest in scholars who will contribute to our professional reputation in empirical International Relations and our research methods courses at all levels. The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, the candidate is expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate in departmental activities.

This position is authorized at the rank of Assistant Professor. Successful candidates who have completed their Ph.D. degree by Sept. 30, 2017 will be appointed as Assistant Professor, while Ph.D. candidates without degree in hand would be appointed as Acting Assistant Professor at a lower salary. Upon final completion of the degree by Jan. 31, 2018, the appointment would be changed to Assistant Professor at a higher salary for the spring semester. Candidates at the Associate Professor level or seeking a tenured appointment will be considered only under unusual circumstances.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA Services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status. To ensure full consideration applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, copies of research publication and course syllabi, and teaching evaluations by October 1, 2017. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, however.

Interested candidates should review the job requirements and submit application materials on-line at <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/4339>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to:

Jessica Williams
 Department of Political Science
 Indiana University Bloomington
 1100 E. Seventh Street
 Bloomington, IN 47405-7110
 (812) 855-1209

jeewilli@indiana.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/31/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3078

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, International Relations

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3060

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or Full Professor, International Relations or Comparative Politics

The Department of Politics and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs are seeking applications from senior scholars in the fields of international relations or comparative politics. The position is open with respect to subfield specialization and involves teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at <http://dof.princeton.edu/academicjobs>. Senior scholars should submit a letter of interest along with a vita, but no publications or other writings at this time. We will begin reviewing applications on September 1, 2017.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 7/27/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3070

University of Southern California

Rank: Assistant Professor of International Relations

Assistant Professor of International Relations -- Migration
 University of Southern California

The School of International Relations in the Dornsife College of Letters, Arts and Sciences at the University of Southern California (Los Angeles, California) invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor of International Relations, anticipated to begin Fall 2018. We seek applicants with a strong research program in the politics of cross-national migration. Candidates should demonstrate a capacity for innovative research on population movement as it relates to poverty and economic crisis, chronic hunger, armed conflict (internal or international), and/or environmental degradation and climate change. The successful candidate will also demonstrate strong methodological skills, whether qualitative or quantitative, including the ability to teach a Ph.D.-level methods course. Applicants with expertise in experimental design or advanced statistical techniques are especially welcome. A Ph.D. is required by time of appointment, preferably in Political Science, though other disciplines may be considered.

Applications should be complete by October 1 to receive fullest consideration. Applicants are required to complete the on-line application process (with few exceptions—such as published books—materials submitted by regular post will not be accepted). Follow this link or paste it in a browser: <https://usccareers.usc.edu/job/los-angeles/assistant-professor-of-international-relations-migration/1209/5215060>. Required materials include a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, research sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, three letters of reference, and official graduate transcripts. Inquiries may be sent to sirsearch@dornsife.usc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3055

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3018

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

Harvard University

Rank: Tenure-Track Professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics

The Department of Government seeks to appoint a tenure-track professor in International Relations and Transnational Politics. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2018. The tenure-track professor will be responsible for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Doctorate or terminal degree in Political Science or related disciplines required by the time the appointment begins.

Demonstrated excellence in teaching is desired.

Please submit the following materials through the ARIES portal (<http://academicpositions.harvard.edu>). The Committee will begin reviewing applications on September 15, 2017.

1. Cover letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. Teaching statement (describing teaching approach and philosophy)
4. Research statement
5. Names and contact information of 3-5 referees, who will be asked by a system-generated email to upload a letter of recommendation once the candidate's application has been submitted. Three letters of recommendation are required, and the application is considered complete only when at least three letters have been received.
6. Writing samples and publications, if applicable.

Harvard is an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Contact Information: Natasha Khrustalova, Department of Government, Harvard University, 1737 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, MA 02138.

nkhrustalova@fas.harvard.edu

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2994

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

Loyola University Maryland

Rank: Assistant Professor in Comparative Politics/IR

Teaching a 3/3 course load, with courses in International or Comparative Political Economy, as well as additional courses in International Politics and/or Comparative Politics and the applicant's area of regional specialty. Maintain an active research agenda leading to peer-reviewed publication. Service includes advising duties for Global Studies majors and other service to the department as assigned by Chair, as well as institutional service.

A strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Research agenda and expertise in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. Candidate should have a PhD in Political Science or be ABD.

Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia.

The Department of Political Science at Loyola University Maryland invites applications for a Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations. The position begins Fall 2018.

We seek candidates displaying a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and an interest in the enduring questions of Politics, with an ability to teach International or Comparative Political Economy. Preference will be given to candidates who research and teach about Latin America or Africa, but we are open to all geographic areas that would complement existing strengths in Eastern Europe/Russia and Asia. Applicants should have their primary training in Comparative Politics and/or International Relations, and the expectation will be for courses to be taught in Introduction to Politics, International or Comparative Political Economy, International Politics and/or Comparative Politics, as well as in the regional area of expertise. Candidates should have a PhD or ABD.

The teaching load for the position is three courses in the fall and three courses in the spring semester, with a single-course reduction the first semester (each course is capped at 30 students). Courses will primarily serve Political Science and Global Studies majors.

The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in Loyola's growing Global Studies program. Global Studies is an interdisciplinary major with a curriculum based in the four disciplines of Economics, History, Political Science and Sociology. Students begin with foundational coursework in each department, and then develop topical specializations in the junior and senior years. The program hosts annual speakers and special events, and is a significant presence on campus. Faculty who contribute to Global Studies participate in student advising and mentoring, teach courses in the major, and become part of the Global Studies academic community. The candidate will be a member of the Political Science Department but will advise Global Studies majors.

Loyola University Maryland is a selective liberal arts university in the Jesuit Catholic tradition. The university is committed to intellectual excellence and social justice as it prepares students for a diverse and changing world. Recognized as a leading independent, comprehensive university in the northeastern United States, Loyola has a beautiful historic Evergreen campus in Baltimore and Graduate Centers in Timonium and Columbia. Loyola enrolls over 4,000 students in its undergraduate programs and about 2,000 students in its graduate programs.

To apply, please go to www.loyola.edu/careers to submit a C.V., three letters of reference, graduate transcripts (copies are acceptable), an article-length manuscript or chapter demonstrating scholarly potential, and a cover letter explaining teaching approach in relation to Loyola's educational mission. Teaching evaluations and sample course syllabi should also be submitted if available (select Option 1 to submit syllabi in online application). Please submit applications by September 15 to ensure full consideration. For questions related to the search or any materials that are only available in hard copy or cannot otherwise be submitted through the online application (which could include letters of reference or teaching evaluations), please send files to Dr. Carsten Vala via email to cvala@loyola.edu or via mail to him at Department of Political Science, Loyola University Maryland, 4501 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD, 21210.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 7/8/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2949

METHODOLOGY

Central European University

Rank: Assistant Professor position Nationalism and Politics

Assistant Professor position
Nationalism and Politics

Nationalism Studies Program / Department of Political Science

Starting date: August 2018

Full Or Part Time: Full-Time

Application deadline: 1 February 2018

The Nationalism Studies Program and Department of Political Science at Central European University invite applications for a full-time position in Nationalism and Politics at the rank of assistant professor. The candidate will be expected to teach courses related to Global Migration; Minority Protection; Federalism; Comparative Politics; and Methodology of Comparative Social Research. Candidates with a specific focus on the contemporary accommodation of ethnic, racial and linguistic diversity (e.g. consociationalism, federalism) are encouraged to apply. Preference will be given to candidates engaged in comparative research, focusing on both European and non-European regions. The candidate should have a proven track record in publishing on these topics, preferably in political science journals.

Applicants must have a PhD in political science or related field and provide evidence for high level achievements to date or outstanding potential in research and teaching. Specific responsibilities include teaching three graduate courses per academic year, master's and doctoral supervision, engaging in high quality academic research, and attracting external research grants.

For more information about CEU, the Nationalism Studies Program, and the Department of Political Science please visit:

<https://www.ceu.edu/> and <https://nationalism.ceu.edu/> and <https://politicalscience.ceu.edu/>

Central European University (CEU) is a graduate research-intensive university specializing in the social sciences, humanities, law, public policy and management. It is located in Budapest and accredited in the United States and Hungary. CEU's promotes high level research, research-based teaching and learning and civic engagement, in order to contribute to the development of open societies in Central and Eastern Europe, the former Soviet Union, and other emerging democracies throughout the world. CEU offers both Master's and doctoral programs, and enrolls about 1400 students from nearly 100 countries. The teaching staff consists of more than 180 resident faculty from over 40 countries, and prominent visiting scholars from around the world. The language of instruction is English.

Compensation:

Compensation is commensurate with experience. We offer a competitive salary, as well as a dynamic and international academic environment. Teaching load is comparable to that of research universities.

How to apply:

Applicants need to submit:

- Curriculum vitae
- Cover letter
- A sample syllabus
- Two writing samples
- Three letters of reference

Review of applications will begin 1 February, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled.

Questions of an academic nature may be addressed to Michael L. Miller, Head of the Nationalism Studies Program (millerm@ceu.edu), or Zoltan Miklosi, Head of the Department of Political Science (miklosiz@ceu.edu).

Please send your complete application package to: advert018@ceu.edu - including job code in subject line: 2018/018. Only complete applications will be considered.

Shortlisted applicants will participate in an on-line / telephone interview. Finalists will be invited for a talk and an interview in person.

CEU is an equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 2/1/2018

Date Posted: 11/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3836

Lee University

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, and Humanities at Lee University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position of Assistant or Associate Professor of Political Science beginning in the fall of 2018.

Duties

The successful candidate will have a concentration in American Politics and will be expected to teach courses in American Politics, the university core course in American Government, and a two-course sequence in Research Methods. Secondary specialization is open. An ability and willingness to teach courses in Public Administration would be an asset. Additional duties will include mentoring undergraduate research, advising students in the department's majors, developing curriculum, serving on university committees, seeking ways to serve the greater community, and working cooperatively with the Department Chair and departmental faculty.

Required Qualifications

The successful candidate will hold a Ph.D. in Political Science with a specialty in American Politics. (ABD considered with evidence of completion by start date.) The candidate will express a strong commitment to faith in Jesus Christ and Christian lifestyle expectations, indicate a commitment to undergraduate education, passionately support the Christian liberal arts, demonstrate college teaching ability, and, effectively integrate Christian faith into the academic discipline and the classroom.

Lee University is a Christ-centered, comprehensive university that is recognized as an emerging leader in higher education in the southeastern region. To apply please send a completed application form (available at the website listed below), curriculum vitae, statement of Christian faith, and statement describing the integration of Christian faith with discipline of expertise, transcripts, three letters of reference, and student evaluations (if available) to Dr. Randy Wood, Chair of the Department of History, Political Science and Humanities, Lee University, P.O. Box 3450, Cleveland, TN 37320-3450 or by email to rwood@leeuniversity.edu. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. For additional information contact Dr. Randy Wood at rwood@leeuniversity.edu or (423) 614-8137. The application form is available at: <http://www.leeuniversity.edu/uploadedFiles/Content/human-resources/faculty-application%281%29.pdf>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/27/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3828

University of New Orleans

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Methodology, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of New Orleans seeks candidates for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin in fall 2018. The primary teaching need is nonprofit leadership in our NASPAA accredited MPA program, and the successful candidate will become a core faculty member in that program. Other areas of interest include applied research methodology, general public administration at graduate and undergraduate levels, hazards and disasters, and a range of undergraduate political science courses that fit the candidates' expertise and interests. We seek candidates with both a demonstrated potential for scholarly research and publication and an interest in engaged scholarship relevant to our urban environment.

- RESPONSIBILITIES:
- Teach both graduate and undergraduate courses in Public Administration and Political Science
- Serve on MPA and M.A. committees
- Participate in department, college and university committees
- Teach a 4-4 load with a reduction for an active research agenda.

- REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: Doctorate in Public Administration, Political Science or closely related field

Candidates should submit a vita, three letters of recommendation, writing samples, teaching evaluations, and a brief statement of interest to Michael Huelshoff, Chair, Department of Political Science, University of New Orleans, 2000 lakeshore Drive, New Orleans, LA 70148. Review of applications will begin upon receipt.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3797

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Position 1: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Campaigns and Public Opinion

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Comparative Politics, American Government and Politics, Methodology

Specialization: Electoral Behavior, Political Behavior, Public Opinion

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in Campaigns and Public Opinion starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, but not exclusively, interested in candidates whose research addresses the role of emerging technologies such as social media in campaigns and elections; and/or who are working with advanced methods in statistical or experimental analysis.

Candidates will be asked to teach courses in Public Opinion, Political Communication, Research Methods, and Statistics and Forecasting; and should show acumen for innovative, applied teaching methods focused on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current network and partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Campaigns and Public Opinion to IESIR1@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3784

Birmingham-Southern College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Comparative Politics

Specializations: American Politics, Quantitative Methods, Political Behavior

Birmingham-Southern College seeks candidates with a demonstrated excellence in teaching undergraduate courses for a tenure-track, Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning August 2018. Candidates should hold a doctorate in Political Science or expect to complete their degree by August 2018. The College seeks exceptional individuals committed to the liberal arts, with a proven record of teaching excellence and a demonstrated potential for developing a distinguished scholarly agenda. The successful candidate must be able to support one or more of the interdisciplinary programs offered at the College as well as the general education curriculum.

Teaching responsibilities will include at least four of the following courses: American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Statistics, Research Methods, Comparative or American Political Behavior.

The teaching load is 3-1-3 including an interim term in January. During January, professors offer unique, innovative, experiential, and/or travel courses.

Review of applicants will begin immediately. Submit letter of application, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, copies of graduate transcripts (unofficial), and three professional recommendation letters. Email applications are preferred: pssearch@bsc.edu. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Birmingham-Southern College (BSC) is a selective residential liberal arts college enrolling approximately 1,300 undergraduate students. BSC is included in Pope's Colleges that Change Lives and is a sheltering institution for Phi Beta Kappa. The College's curriculum is based on close faculty-student interaction in teaching, advising, and research. For more on the College's faculty, students, educational mission, and national reputation visit www.bsc.edu.

Birmingham-Southern College is located just minutes from downtown Birmingham, which is the largest city in Alabama and a leading hub for banking and medical care and research in the Southeast, and a vibrant center for entertainment, commerce, and recreational activities. There are six higher education institutions within a short commute; a symphony; a ballet; a zoo; botanical garden; the largest art museum in the Southeast; a world-class civil rights institute and annual art, music, and film festivals – as well as numerous opportunities for outdoor adventure activities. In 2015, Birmingham was ranked as the #1 “next hot food city” by Zagat's.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3769

Princeton University

Rank: Associate or More Senior Research Scholar

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a full time Associate or more senior Research Scholar with a preferred start date of September 1, 2018.

The Center conducts research that advances the study of contemporary China at Princeton University and provides substantive analysis from social science perspectives of the dramatic sociological shifts taking place in China today. The Research Scholar's duties include: working collaboratively with the Director to analyze multiple large datasets; coordinating, designing, implementing, and reporting on the results of such analyses; interfacing with collaborators or potential collaborators in research; potential course instruction pending departmental need, sufficient course enrollments and with the approval of the Office of the Dean of the Faculty; offering of workshops; preparing manuscripts for publication; training junior scholars and graduate students on research study design, methodology, and theory; guiding junior scholars and students in research projects; being familiar with quantitative data sources on China; providing data resource services on China to Princeton's scholars and students; and managing and participating in research conferences, seminars, and lecture series. The successful applicant will also contribute to the overall research agenda of the Center. There will be opportunities for authorship on publications, including first authorship, and preparing applications for external funding. The appointment is for three years with reappointment contingent upon successful department and University committee review.

Required Qualifications: Qualified individuals will have a Ph.D. in the social sciences and have: strong data management skills, ability to interpret data with coherent theory, strong methodological skills and interests, an interest in quantitative research methods and theory, strongly motivated, and work well in a team setting. Excellent written and oral communication skills in English and Chinese are required. The ideal candidate will have demonstrated productivity in terms of published journal articles and scientific conference presentations. Preference will be given to candidates who are interested in contemporary China.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy. Applicants must apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4941> by the application deadline of February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST and submit the following:

1. A cover letter
2. A current curriculum vitae
3. Contact information for two references
4. Two writing samples

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3764

American University in Cairo

Rank: Comparative Politics/Methods

Comparative Politics/ Methods

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (5 years renewable) position in Comparative Politics with emphasis on methods at the Assistant or Associate Level Professor beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses in comparative politics, using examples outside as well as inside the Middle East and North Africa. Candidates who can teach quantitative & qualitative methods and apply them to studies of surveys and elections in the Arab region are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu; Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3744

Qatar University

Rank: Lead Methodologist

Lead Methodologist

The Social and Economic Survey Research Institute (SESRI) at Qatar University invites applications for a full-time Lead Methodologist based in Doha, Qatar. The position is attached to SESRI's recently formed Randomized Controlled Trials (RCT) Unit within the Policy Department. The RCT Unit will push the boundaries of SESRI's policy work to new levels of scientific rigor and practical applicability, and ensure that SESRI and Qatar University remain at the forefront of social science research in the region.

The Lead Methodologist will be responsible for the design, implementation, and analysis of RCTs experiments, and may also contribute to proposing relevant and timely interventions. This position will work under the supervision of the Policy Department Manager and will be responsible for setting the agenda of SESRI's RCT interventions, oversee the successful implementation and completion of trails, monitor and observe the intervention and control groups closely, as well as develop and write proposals, reports, and other outputs for a wide variety of audiences. Applicants should possess expert-level knowledge and understanding of social sciences, economics, or other related field, with a demonstrated record of design and analysis of randomized controlled trails for the purposes of policy evaluation. Three or more years of relevant work experience is required, as well as knowledge of pertinent research and analytical methods. Applicants should possess strong research and analytical skills and demonstrate the ability to communicate clearly and effectively in both written and verbal forms. Quantitative analytical skills, experience using survey data, and experience working on the Gulf in particular or Middle East in general will be considered favorably. A PhD in Economics or relevant social sciences field is required.

This full-time position carries an initial three-year term, with a start date that is negotiable, and the possibility of a renewal upon mutual agreement.

Applications will be reviewed beginning on January 15, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

Compensation includes a competitive salary, which is tax-free in Qatar (but persons will still be responsible for any applicable taxes from their country of origin), along with a generous fringe benefits package that includes health insurance. Furnished housing is also provided at no additional cost outside of expenses such as utilities, cable, and Internet access. Applicants will have their flight and moving expenses paid for at the beginning and end of their appointment, as well as one round-trip flight home annually. Educational allowances for up to three accompanying children will also be available.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, recent curriculum vita, concise statement of research interests, writing sample or representative publication, confidential letter of reference from someone familiar with the candidate's work, and the names and contact information of two additional referees to rctsearch@qu.edu.qa

About SESRI: SESRI is an academic survey research institute established in 2008 at Qatar University in close association with the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. It undertakes original and groundbreaking surveys of citizens and residents of Qatar and other Gulf Cooperation Council states via telephone and face-to-face interviews, amassing a diverse collection of data unparalleled in the region. Previous areas of study include, among others, education, gender, labor, politics, regional integration, and survey methodology. SESRI has partnered with the World Values Survey, the World Economic Forum's Executive Opinion Survey, and other international survey efforts, and since 2010 has secured more than $5.3 million in external project funding through the Qatar National Research Fund. Widely recognized for their quality and variety, SESRI data have appeared in such forums as Foreign Affairs, Middle East Journal, and Middle East Policy. Established in June 2014, SESRI's Policy Unit utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirical-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3735

Qatar University

Rank: Senior Policy Analyst

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Middle East, Political Theory, Quantitative Methods

The Social and Economic Survey Research Institute (SESRI) at Qatar University invites applications for a full-time Senior Policy Analyst based in Doha, Qatar. The position is attached to SESRI Policy Department, which utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirically-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf region.

Senior Policy Analysts are expected to stay current on policy issues and best practices in their assigned substantive areas, oversee the successful completion of policy research projects, design and interpret analyses, and coordinate the work of Policy Analysts assigned to their projects. They will author reports and other research outputs for a wide variety of audiences, set agendas for convening with policy audiences, and make presentations as required.

Applicants should possess expert-level knowledge and understanding of one or more substantive areas of local and regional policy relevance, including but not limited to education, health, migration, marriage and family, performance evaluation, political attitudes, and economics. Five or more years of relevant work experience is required, as well as knowledge of pertinent research and analytical methods and the ability to apply such techniques to policy issues. Applicants should possess strong research and analytical skills and demonstrate the ability to communicate clearly and effectively in both written and verbal forms to a wide variety of specialist and non-specialist audiences. Successful candidates will be able to show evidence of an active research agenda and demonstrated record of engagement with policy and policymaking communities. Quantitative analytical skills, experience using survey data, and experience working on Gulf policy issues all will be considered favorably. A master's degree in public policy, public administration, or relevant social science field is required, with a Ph.D. preferred. Priority will be given to candidates who are bilingual in Arabic and English.

This full-time position carries an initial three-year term, with a start date that is negotiable, and the possibility of a renewal upon mutual agreement.

Applications will be reviewed beginning on January 15, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

Compensation includes a competitive salary, which is tax-free in Qatar (but persons will still be responsible for any applicable taxes from their country of origin), along with a generous fringe benefits package that includes health insurance. Furnished housing is also provided at no additional cost outside of expenses such as utilities, cable, and Internet access. Applicants will have their flight and moving expenses paid for at the beginning and end of their appointment, as well as one round-trip flight home annually. Educational allowances for up to three accompanying children are also available.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, recent curriculum vita, concise statement of research interests, writing sample or representative publication, confidential letter of reference from someone familiar with the candidate's work, and the names and contact information of two additional referees to spasearch@qu.edu.qa.

About SESRI: SESRI is an academic survey research institute established in 2008 at Qatar University in close association with the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. It undertakes original and groundbreaking surveys of citizens and residents of Qatar and other Gulf Cooperation Council states via telephone and face-to-face interviews, amassing a diverse collection of data unparalleled in the region. Previous areas of study include, among others, education, gender, labor, politics, regional integration, and survey methodology. SESRI has partnered with the World Values Survey, the World Economic Forum's Executive Opinion Survey, and other international survey efforts, and since 2010 has secured more than $5.3 million in external project funding through the Qatar National Research Fund. Widely recognized for their quality and variety, SESRI data have appeared in such forums as Foreign Affairs, Middle East Journal, and Middle East Policy. Established in June 2014, SESRI's Policy Unit utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirical-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf.

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 1/15/2018
Date Posted: 11/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3736

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Comparative Law and Courts
Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Economic, Political, and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas at Dallas (UTD) invites applications for a full-time, open rank tenure-track position beginning in August of 2018 in the Political Science Program. Candidates at the associate or full rank are preferred, although advanced assistants will be considered. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory undergraduate comparative law course, specialized upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, and to be involved with the pre-law administrative team. Possible specializations might include: human rights, cyberlaw, comparative and foreign law, or trade law, among others. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.

The University of Texas at Dallas is a fast-growing, suburban research university and has the highest freshman SAT scores of any public university in Texas. UTD is ranked 1st among the 100 best universities in the world under 50 years old by Times Higher Education magazine and is classified by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education as R1 (Highest Research Activity). The Political Science program currently has approximately 60 graduate students and 250 undergraduate majors.

Faculty typically teach two courses per semester, and opportunities for leave become available after a successful third-year review.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue through January 31, 2018. Position starts in August 2018.

Apply at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/8997>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/30/2018
Date Posted: 11/6/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3740

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Open Rank Faculty in Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR)

The University of Texas at Dallas seeks a quantitatively oriented social scientist to become an integral member of our new Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR) master's program within the School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences (<http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/>). The ideal candidate will have strengths in big data analytics, knowledge discovery/mining, data management, data visualization, research design, qualitative data analysis and multivariate statistics. In addition, this individual will have substantive interests in some area of the social sciences, including criminology, economics, geography/geospatial science, political science, public affairs, public policy, international political economy, and/or sociology. While individuals of all ranks will be considered, preference will be given to senior scholars who can immediately assume a leadership role in the SDAR program.

For information on the SDAR master's program, see: <http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/sdar/>

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Apply online at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/9031>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3741

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Open Rank Faculty in Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR)

The University of Texas at Dallas seeks a quantitatively oriented social scientist to become an integral member of our new Social Data Analytics and Research (SDAR) master's program within the School of Economic, Political and Policy Sciences (<http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/>). The ideal candidate will have strengths in big data analytics, knowledge discovery/mining, data management, data visualization, research design, qualitative data analysis and multivariate statistics. In addition, this individual will have substantive interests in some area of the social sciences, including criminology, economics, geography/geospatial science, political science, public affairs, public policy, international political economy, and/or sociology. While individuals of all ranks will be considered, preference will be given to senior scholars who can immediately assume a leadership role in the SDAR program.

For information on the SDAR master's program, see: <http://www.utdallas.edu/epps/sdar/>

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Apply online at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/9031>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3742

Harvard University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

The Harvard Kennedy School invites applications and nominations for a full-time, tenure track position in the study of politics. This is an open search with respect to subfield and topic of specialization, though we are particularly interested in candidates studying American politics. We seek candidates with strong methodological training, broadly defined, whose work focuses upon the empirical analysis of politics and policy processes broadly understood. This search focuses on candidates eligible for appointment as assistant or (untenured) associate professors. Qualifications include a distinguished Ph.D. record, strong evidence of a commitment to research, strong teaching skills, and a demonstrated interest in public policy issues. Applications from women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit online a research statement, C.V., writing samples, and three letters of recommendation: <http://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/7945> Review of applications will commence immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Early applications are encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3734

Missouri Southern State University

Rank: Master Instructor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

Seeking an Master Instructor to teach on campus in the area(s) of introductory American Government, public law, as well as supervise the MSSU Mock Trial program. Must have a Master's degree in the related discipline area, (PhD preferred). Certification in certain fields may also be accepted depending on subject matter. Employment will require a background check. E-verify participating employer. Applicant materials include a letter of application, curriculum vitae with the names, addresses, email and phone numbers of three references, and unofficial transcripts. Submit materials at www.mssu.edu/jobs. Official transcripts are required within 45 days of hire. Review of applicant materials begins immediately and will continue until the position(s) has been filled. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3721

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Specializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests
5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)
8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

Bilkent University

Rank: Faculty Position (Open rank) in International Relations
Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The International Relations Department at Bilkent University invites applicants for an open rank position, commencing Fall 2018. The Department is interested in applicants who specialize in International Security broadly defined, especially those with a concentration on Middle East politics. Bilkent University is committed to increasing the diversity of its Faculty. Female and international scholars are therefore especially encouraged to apply.

Bilkent University is an English-medium private research university located in Ankara, Turkey. It is the country's first private, non-profit university, and is placed in global rankings as one of the leading universities in Turkey. The university offers on-campus housing, International Baccalaureate schooling options for dependents, a diverse intellectual environment, and a variety of other facilities and outstanding opportunities for its staff.

The Department of International Relations, which serves approximately 600 undergraduate students and 35 graduate students, fully embraces the university's foundational objectives of providing high-quality education, high-impact research, and developing critical and analytical thinking.

Applicants should hold a PhD in International Relations, Political Science or a related field, though PhD candidates with publications and close to completing their studies are also encouraged to apply. However, the prospective candidate is required to receive a PhD no later than August 1, 2018. A strong publication record and promising research potential are essential. Successful applicants will teach two courses in their field of expertise at both the undergraduate and post-graduate levels, maintain productive research programs, and supervise graduate theses.

Applications should include (i) cover letter, (ii) up-to-date CV, (iii) one-page research statement, (iv) one-page teaching statement, and (v) contact details of three academic referees, and be submitted to ir@bilkent.edu.tr by the application deadline at 5:00pm on Friday 22 December 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3668

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Presidency, Research Methods, American Politics

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Academic accomplishment in Political Science with an emphasis in American Politics/Congress/Presidency (Ph.D. required); (ii) Authoritative knowledge of American political development, institutions, and political participation and experience teaching American politics; (iii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate courses in American politics and other related sub-fields; (iv) Ability to conduct research and present results in a variety of media; (v) Ability to lead and guide student research and offer academic counseling and mentorship.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/23/2017
Salary: $70,000 - $79,999
eJobs ID: 3672

Yale University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Specializations: American Politics, Political Behavior, Quantitative Methods

Professors Alan Gerber and Gregory Huber at the Yale Institution for Social and Policy Studies (ISPS) and Center for the Study of American Politics seek a postdoctoral research associate for a one-year, full-time appointment beginning July 1, 2018. Projects will include, but are not limited to, field experiments, studies on political identity formation, and research on the effects of political attitudes on political participation and voter choice. Job responsibilities will be tailored to the strengths of the successful applicant, but will likely include assisting with research projects involving researchers at multiple institutions, data collection and management, and preliminary data analysis. Technical skills such as computer programming or a math background are highly desirable. Excellent organizational skills, experience using computer databases and statistical software, and coursework in statistical methods are essential. Project management experience is a plus. Doctorate required. Salary is negotiable.

Yale is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values diversity among its students, staff, and faculty. Applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans, and persons with disabilities are particularly encouraged.

Please submit cover letter, current C.V., copy of graduate transcripts, 2 letters of recommendation, and one writing sample online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10216>.

The review process will begin February 1, 2018. Please submit your materials before that date to receive full consideration, although we will continue to accept applications if there is still a vacancy. For more information, contact the Yale Center for the Study of American Politics by email at csap@yale.edu.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/18/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3647

California Polytechnic State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science - Law and Society

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, POLITICAL SCIENCE - The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at California Polytechnic State University (Cal Poly), San Luis Obispo, California, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic year Assistant Professor with a specialization in empirical Law and Society to begin September 13, 2018. The successful candidate will have research expertise and the ability to teach courses in our pre-law concentration/Law & Society minor (e.g., judicial politics, judicial process, civil rights and/or constitutional law) as well as our undergraduate research design and/or quantitative methods courses. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work emphasizes issues of justice, diversity and inclusion.

The typical teaching assignment is 12 units (three courses) per quarter, with correspondingly reasonable research and service expectations, and with a significant reduction in course load in the first two years to help establish an active program of research and professional development. An earned doctorate (Ph.D. or equivalent) in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution or international equivalent is required. Candidates nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered, but must provide proof that the doctorate was completed prior to appointment. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

At California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, we believe that cultivating an environment that embraces and promotes diversity is fundamental to the success of our students, our employees and our community. Bringing people together from different backgrounds, experiences and value systems fosters the innovative and creative thinking that exemplifies Cal Poly's values of free inquiry, cultural and intellectual diversity, mutual respect, civic engagement, and social and environmental responsibility. Cal Poly's commitment to diversity informs our efforts in recruitment, hiring and retention. California Polytechnic State University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

HOW TO APPLY: Interested applicants should complete the required online faculty application at WWW.CALPOLYJOBS.ORG and submit to Requisition #104644. Please attach to your online application the following required materials: Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Statement of Teaching Philosophy, Evidence of teaching effectiveness and teaching evaluations, Statement of Professional/Research Goals, a PDF file of a recent publication or manuscript, a Statement of Diversity and Inclusion describing past experience and contributions to diversity and inclusion efforts and a description of how you will demonstrate a commitment in these areas regarding teaching, research and/or service at Cal Poly, and an unofficial copy of transcripts. Applicants should be prepared to submit the names and email addresses for a minimum of three professional references. Cal Poly will directly solicit letters from the individuals listed by applicants. Letters must be dated within the year of recruitment. Sealed official transcripts showing highest degree earned will be required prior to appointment.

REVIEW BEGIN DATE: December 1, 2017. This position is open until filled. Completed applications (all required materials submitted) received by the review begin date will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3628

University of Guam

Rank: Tenure Track IR

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Comparative Politics

The University of Guam, the premier institution of higher education in the Western Pacific, has a tenure track opening in its Political Science Program for an International Relations specialist with a focus on the Asia Pacific. The program has three faculty members representing the areas of American and regional politics, comparative politics and international relations. Courses in political philosophy and methods are shared among faculty.

The successful candidate will be expected to teach both lower and upper division undergraduate political science courses. He or she will (a) teach a normal load of twelve (12) contact hours (4 courses) per semester, with one course load reduction possible with the Dean's approval, for research, instructional innovation, or large service projects; (b) maintain a continuous record of scholarly activity and research relevant to the Asia/Pacific region; and (c) perform university and community service. Course assignments will include an introductory research methodology course including quantitative and qualitative methods and upper division courses in international relations. Possible additional course assignments include: introduction to government and politics, introduction to international relations, political philosophy, politics of Asia and special topics in political science.

Minimum qualifications: (a) Ph.D. in Political Science, International Relations or Government from a U.S. regionally accredited institution or foreign equivalent (appointment as Assistant or Associate Professor requires Ph.D. by August 2018 but initial appointment as Instructor is possible, contingent upon completion of the doctorate by the end of the first year of employment); (b) research or relevant professional experience in Asia and/or the Pacific region; (c) teaching experience in some of the subject areas listed above; and (d) willingness to teach online.

Preferred: (a) familiarity with issues of Pacific island societies; (b) experience teaching academically and culturally diverse populations; and (c) a record of winning grants.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience relevant to the position. The following salary figures are for nine (9) months:

Instructor $34,169 - $57,892 Per Academic Year

Assistant Professor $39,473 - $68,237 Per Academic Year

Associate Professor $43,703 - $77,498 Per Academic Year

Applicants for University of Guam faculty positions must complete an online job application through the UOG's online employment portal at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com>. Please have the following documents prepared and ready to upload with your application:

- (1) Letter of Intent, stating interest
- (2) Up-to-date curriculum vitae or resume
- (3) Copies of all graduate and undergraduate transcripts

Applicants who are short-listed for an interview will be required to provide a short (approximately 5 minutes) video clip of their lecture or presentation. Also, applicants may be requested by the search chair to submit supplemental materials including syllabi. Completed applications must be received no later than 11:59 p.m. on January 8, 2018 (Chamorro Standard Time/UTC+10).

Before applying, applicants should consult the full job announcement at <https://uog.peopleadmin.com/postings/1111>. For further information, please contact Dr. Arun R. Swamy, Chair, Political Science Search Committee at arswamy@triton.uog.edu or the Human Resources Office at uoghro@triton.uog.edu, telephone number, (671) 735-2350 or fax number at (671) 734-6005.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 10/14/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3621

Troy University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in political science with a concentration in international relations/comparative politics and an open regional focus beginning on August 1, 2018.

The Assistant professor position is a 10-month tenure-track position at the Ft. Benning/Columbus, GA/Phenix City, AL location. The successful candidate will primarily teach courses for the Master's in International Relations (MSIR) program; and as necessary, teach undergraduate Political Science courses. The courses taught will be both in person and online. The successful candidate will be required to assist with recruitment to the Troy MSIR program at Ft. Benning. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach at other Troy locations depending on department needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as international political economy, international relations theory, research methods, or a second regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2017. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2018

To Apply, please go to: <https://www.troyuniversityjobs.com>

For more information, please contact Dr. G. Doug Davis at gddavis@troy.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3574

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Immigration Policy Lab, Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Position: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (www.immigrationlab.org). The Immigration Policy Lab conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and cutting-edge analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can inspire solutions and ultimately improve lives.

The Immigration Policy Lab reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civi-tech startup.

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of projects related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, Jeremy Weinstein, and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. Additionally, the postdoc will work closely with faculty, staff and partner organizations in developing and designing innovative policies and programs to pilot and evaluate. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects related to immigration policy evaluation.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science program, with a preference for Political Science, Economics, or Sociology. She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Appointment: The initial appointment will be for one year beginning between January and June 2018, with an expected renewal for a second year contingent on satisfactory performance and funding. Salary is negotiable and based on experience. Benefits are provided. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications will only be accepted through AcademicJobsOnline.com (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10036>, ID 10036). Applications should be submitted by November 17, 2017, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2017).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3569

University of Gothenburg

Rank: Assistant Professor (tenure-track), V-Dem Institute, University of Gothenburg

The position (in Swedish: "biträdande lektor") is the equivalent of Assistant Professor (tenure track). The official time before coming up for tenure and promotion is four years, but can be extended to five years.

Varieties of Democracy (V-Dem) is a large-scale data collection and research program, see <https://v-dem.net> and the V-Dem Institute is Directed by Professor Staffan I. Lindberg. The successful candidate is expected to primarily conduct research with a focus on the main questions of the research program "Failing and Successful Sequences of Democratization", funded by an European Research Council Consolidator Grant. Teaching is expected up to equivalent of a 1/1 load, as well as contributions to the daily activities of the V-Dem Institute (as needed with administrative tasks, coding and quality control, data management etc). Research is guaranteed at a minimum of 50 percent of full time employment (FTE) and in practice it will probably be around 75 percent.

The position is open to candidates who have a PhD in political science or related field, within seven years of graduation. Applications will be evaluated primarily on research excellence in areas of relevance to the FASDEM project. The successful candidate will demonstrate ability at high international level in the field of comparative democratization and/or autocratization and breakdown, authoritarian regimes, and/or political development.

It is also meritorious with:

- A well developed proposal for a research project that falls within the area of FASDEM, of high scientific quality.

- Significant, explicit interest in further extending on and use the sequencing methods developed in the V-Dem research program
- Advanced time-series, cross-sectional regression techniques, Vector Auto-Regression (VAR), sequencing algorithms, optimal matching methods, Monte Carlo chains, and/or Dynamic treatment regimes

Documented experience with teaching at under-/graduate level, is required, and service to the profession and society is a merit.

The applicant should demonstrate resourcefulness, flexibility, and very good ability to work together in different configurations. Excellence in English (orally and written) is a requirement. Personal qualities relevant for the position are of great importance.

How to apply:

The deadline for this call has unfortunately passed

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3565

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Methodology

Rowan University
Glassboro, NJ

Assistant Professor or Junior Associate Professor of Political Economy

Rowan University is a public comprehensive state and Carnegie designated research institution with approximately 17,300 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 miles southeast of Philadelphia, with additional campuses in Camden and Stratford. The University comprises seven colleges and five schools: the William G. Rohrer College of Business; the Henry M. Rowan College of Engineering; the Colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics; the Cooper Medical School of Rowan University; the Rowan University School of Osteopathic Medicine; the Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences; the School of Health Professions; and the School of Earth and Environment. Rowan is one of two public universities in the country to offer M.D. and D.O. medical degree programs. The institution is also home to the South Jersey Technology Park, which fosters the translation of applied research into commercial products and processes. Rowan has been recognized as one of the top 100 public universities in the nation and is ranked third among public institutions in the North by U.S. News & World Report.

The Department of Political Science and Economics is housed in the College of Humanities and Social Sciences. The College supports students to earn degrees that provide a high quality liberal arts education (problem-solving aptitude, strong oral communications, asking good questions; respect others point of view), which at the same time prepare them for diverse career paths and future. The College's graduate programs also provide students with essential skills for continuing study through doctoral programs and for lifelong learning, including critical thinking, effective communication, and an understanding of the complexity of contemporary society in the context of diverse traditions and paradigms.

The Department of Political Science and Economics has an opening for one tenure-track Assistant Professor or a junior Associate Professor in either Economics or Political Science with a specialization in Political Economy beginning Fall 2018. We seek candidates with research and teaching interests in Political Economy. The position is open with respect to the substantive focus in political economy, broadly defined (e.g., comparative or international political economy, political economy of public/social choice, political economy of development, etc.).

The department offers two bachelor degree programs in both economics and political science. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first five years and can be renewed annually after the 6th year and attaining tenure with evidence of continuing scholarship. This is an interdisciplinary position where the faculty will teach 2 classes in one discipline and 1 class in the other discipline. The successful candidate will also teach calculus-based Intermediate Microeconomics to economics majors.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science or related discipline must be completed by July 31, 2018.

Evidence of excellence in undergraduate teaching is required. Applicants should demonstrate strong research abilities and the potential to secure external funding for research.

To assure full consideration, completed applications must be submitted electronically by November 10th, 2017.

We will conduct interviews at the Allied Social Science Association (ASSA) meetings Jan 5-7, 2018 in Philadelphia, Pa.

For full consideration, applications should include the items, assembled in the following order in a single PDF file: 1) a cover letter summarizing qualifications and interest in the position, 2) current CV, 3) statement of teaching interests (specifically including the list of courses taught and teaching philosophy), 4) a statement of research interests 5) and Contact information for three references. Please name the file as <LastName>_Application.pdf.

Do not forward reference letters at this time.

Additional required documentation include 1) unofficial transcripts, 2) student evaluations, and 3) research paper/publications. These should be submitted as a separate file, named <LastName>_Appendix.pdf.

Applications and supporting documentation must be submitted electronically through Rowan University's employment website <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/492317/assistant-professor-political-economy>

Rowan University, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences and the Department of Political Science and Economics are committed to diversity and inclusion.

All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

Questions should be e-mailed to Natalie Reaves, reaves@rowan.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/10/2017

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3548

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3560

St. Bonaventure University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Methodology, American Government and Politics

St. Bonaventure University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American politics and public law, beginning fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities include courses in law and society, the introductory course in American government and politics, a quantitative research methods course for undergraduate Political Science majors, as well as courses in your area of interest. Teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester. Additional responsibilities include assisting with the Law and Society program, advising pre-law students, involvement in student affairs and university service, and an active research agenda. Applicants must have a PhD in hand or demonstrate that they will defend their dissertation by August 2018. Founded in 1858, St. Bonaventure University is a Catholic university dedicated to educational excellence in the Franciscan tradition. We are a predominately undergraduate, liberal arts based institution with 2000 students located in the Allegheny Mountains near Olean, NY. St. Bonaventure University emphasizes small classes, close engagement with students, and a mission-based liberal arts curriculum. Applicants should send curriculum vitae, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching effectiveness such as summaries of student evaluations, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter that discusses your approach to teaching and your research interests. St. Bonaventure University is committed to enhancing the diversity of our faculty and strongly encourages applications from under-represented groups of all faiths.

The deadline for application is December 15, 2018. Email application and supporting documents to:

Josiah B. Lambert, PhD

poliscisearch@sbu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3549

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Methodology

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in quantitative methodology. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhniy Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3364

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in quantitative methodology, with a focus on causal inference and/or cost-benefit analysis. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, be able to teach quantitative methods and policy analysis effectively to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to an anticipated professional MA program in public policy. The candidate will also have opportunities to teach in his or her substantive area of expertise. The department is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; ability to attract external funding; potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods Cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3306

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Research Methods

The Government Department at the University of Texas at Austin is hoping to hire two distinguished methodologists (including statistical methodologists and formal theorists) at the rank of full Professor to begin in Fall 2018. The search is open to scholars working in any specialty within the field of political science research methods and formal theory, broadly defined.

Duties will include both undergraduate and graduate teaching, research, and service to the Department, College of Liberal Arts, and the University. The successful candidates will have a highly distinguished scholarly record of publication, a record of teaching excellence, and demonstrated excellence in intellectual and institutional leadership. Applicants must have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with rank, experience, and qualifications.

Applicants should upload a vitae, examples of scholarly work, and teaching materials. The department will begin reviewing applications immediately and continue receiving applications until the positions are filled. Applicants should apply online at: <http://apply.interfolio.com/44115>. Position funding is pending budgetary approval. A background check will be conducted for successful applicants. AA/EEO employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3269

Wichita State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Political Science Department at Wichita State University invites applications for a tenure track position in American Politics at the assistant professor level, to begin August 2018. Candidates should have completed their PhD by the time of appointment, have quantitative analytical skills, a demonstrated teaching effectiveness, the potential for scholarly publications, effective written and oral communication skills, and a demonstrated commitment to diversity. Preferred candidates will have the ability and willingness to teach an undergraduate quantitative methods course, willingness to teach periodic online/hybrid courses, and/or an interest in providing occasional Honors College course offerings. Teaching responsibilities will include: A variety of undergraduate American Politics courses, including introductory American Politics, as well as a course on quantitative methods. The teaching load is three courses per semester. The selected candidate will have the opportunity and the responsibility to help shape and enhance the curriculum of the American Politics offerings in the department. Wichita State University has a diverse student body with a large number of non-traditional students and an enrollment of approximately 14,400. Wichita is a thriving and expanding community of 600,000. The Political Science department offers BA degrees and has approximately 70 majors and five faculty members. Salary is competitive. Consideration of applications will begin September 29 and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants should submit a letter describing teaching and research interests, curriculum vitae, evidence of teaching ability, graduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, and a writing sample at <http://jobs.wichita.edu>. For assistance with online submission, employment@wichita.edu (316) 978-3065.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 9/29/2017
Date Posted: 8/11/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3192

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor
Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3130

Rice University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Rice University, as part of its $150 million investment in research excellence, intends to hire multiple tenure-track faculty members whose research focus is in data science. These new hires will join the four faculty members hired in the 2016-2017 academic year, along with the community of scholars at Rice who focus on data-driven research. We seek to hire two distinct kinds of specialists: (1) data scientists who can make fundamental contributions to the theory, algorithms, and systems aspects of data science, and (2) scholars who work on emerging applications of data science to problems in health and medicine, urban analytics, and high-volume or high-velocity data-intensive science. The candidate's cover letter or research statement should make clear how their research relates to one of these three problem areas.

The Data Science initiative seeks candidates at all ranks, for employment as early as July 1, 2018. All new hires will have an appointment in one or more relevant department. Assistant Professors will have a single primary department that will be responsible for their mentoring and promotion. At higher ranks, appointments across multiple departments are desirable. Individual departments at Rice also have active faculty searches this year. Those searches are distinct from the Data Science search and may include research areas beyond those included in the Data Science search. Interested candidates should consider applying to both the Data Science search and any appropriate departmental search.

Applicants to the Data Science search should submit the following: (1) cover letter; (2) curriculum vitae; (3) research statement which describes how the candidate's work fits with Rice's data science initiative and in one or more of the three problem areas (not to exceed three pages including figures); (4) teaching statement; and (5) the names, professional affiliations, and email addresses of three references. For full details, please visit: <http://datascience.rice.edu>, and to apply, please visit: <https://jobs.rice.edu/postings/11380>. These positions require a PhD, or PhD requirements fulfilled by November 1 of the year employment commences. Applications will be evaluated beginning on September 15, 2017 and will continue to be accepted until all positions are filled. Recommendation of candidates or questions regarding this opportunity can be directed to the committee at datascience@rice.edu.

Rice University, located in Houston, Texas, is a private, coeducational, nonsectarian university that aspires to path-breaking research, unsurpassed teaching, and contributions to the betterment of our world. Rice fulfills this mission by cultivating a diverse community of learning and discovery that produces leaders across the spectrum of human endeavor. From its beginning in 1912, Rice has been dedicated to excellence in all regards.

Rice University is an Equal Opportunity Employer with commitment to diversity at all levels, and considers for employment qualified applicants without regard to race, color, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national or ethnic origin, genetic information, disability or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3103

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

Indiana University, Bloomington

Rank: Assistant Professor

International Relations/Methodology (Assistant Professor)

The Department of Political Science at Indiana University Bloomington invites applications for a full-time tenure track assistant professor in the field of International Relations (IR) and/or methodology beginning August 2018. We have a particular interest in scholars who will contribute to our professional reputation in empirical International Relations and our research methods courses at all levels. The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to building and supporting a diverse, inclusive, and equitable community of students and scholars.

Candidates should demonstrate broad theoretical interests, active research agendas with the promise for publication in high-quality venues, strong teaching credentials, and proficiency in appropriate research methods. In addition to maintaining an ongoing research program, the candidate is expected to teach courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and to participate in departmental activities.

This position is authorized at the rank of Assistant Professor. Successful candidates who have completed their Ph.D. degree by Sept. 30, 2017 will be appointed as Assistant Professor, while Ph.D. candidates without degree in hand would be appointed as Acting Assistant Professor at a lower salary. Upon final completion of the degree by Jan. 31, 2018, the appointment would be changed to Assistant Professor at a higher salary for the spring semester. Candidates at the Associate Professor level or seeking a tenured appointment will be considered only under unusual circumstances.

Indiana University is an equal employment and affirmative action employer and a provider of ADA Services. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, ethnicity, color, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status or protected veteran status. To ensure full consideration applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, three letters of recommendation, copies of research publication and course syllabi, and teaching evaluations by October 1, 2017. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, however.

Interested candidates should review the job requirements and submit application materials on-line at <http://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/4339>. Questions regarding the position or application process should be directed to:

Jessica Williams
Department of Political Science
Indiana University Bloomington
1100 E. Seventh Street
Bloomington, IN 47405-7110
(812) 855-1209
jeewilli@indiana.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3078

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Formal Theory/Quantitative Methods

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3061

Gettysburg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor Comparative Politics

Specializations: Western Europe, Quantitative Methods, Electoral Systems

Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College seeks a Visiting Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics for the 2018-19 academic year beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach six courses, including introductory courses in Comparative Politics, advanced courses in European Politics, and one to two sections of research methods.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or ABD status is required. The opportunity to maintain a personal research program will be available.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2174>. A curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate statement of the applicant's teaching philosophy should be submitted. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu.

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2976

Dartmouth CollegeRank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science*Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, OtherSpecializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 7/31/2017Date Posted: 7/11/2017Salary: $50,000 - $59,999eJobs ID: 2963Dartmouth College*Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2018-19 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science.

During the 2018-19 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2018
2. Substantive interest in any social science field
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application InstructionsApplication instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2018. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42907

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 10/1/2017Date Posted: 7/11/2017Salary: $50,000 - $59,999eJobs ID: 2964NON-ACADEMIC*OTHER*University of Reading*Rank: Professor of War and Conflict Studies*Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, AdministrationSpecializations: Defense, International Security, Conflict Processes

The Department of Politics and International Relations at the University of Reading is seeking to appoint a Professor of War and Conflict Studies, to further strengthen our research profile in this area, and lead our engagement with defence and security actors. The successful candidate will be an outstanding scholar and excellent teacher, who can provide leadership in research, grant applications, and outreach. The successful candidate will enhance the department's existing relationship with the British military in both teaching and research activities, and play a central role in our Ways of War Centre. The department appreciates that war and conflict can be studied from different perspectives, and thus welcomes excellent candidates with backgrounds in International Relations, War Studies, International Security, Conflict Studies, Strategic Studies, Organisational Behaviour, Public Policy, Political Psychology and related disciplines.

This is an exciting time to join the department. Politics and International Relations is ranked among the top 10 politics departments in the UK by research intensity in the 2014 Research Excellence Framework (REF). We are a dynamic department with internationally recognised strength in Conflict, Security, and Strategy; International Relations; Applied Political Theory; Comparative Politics, and Public Policy Analysis. We are a partner in the £14 million Army Higher Education Pathway project to design and deliver online BSc and MSc teaching to approximately 500 cadets per year from the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst and the Defence Academy at Shrivenham.

Further details and application materials: <https://jobs.reading.ac.uk/displayjob.aspx?jobid=2334>

Informal discussion and questions about the position can be directed to Dr. Jonathan Golub, Head of Department, j.s.golub@reading.ac.uk

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/16/2018
Date Posted: 11/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3835

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW
Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Economic Policy, Energy Policy

FACULTY FELLOW
 Department of Environmental Studies
 ARTS AND SCIENCE
 New York University

The Department of Environmental Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for the position of Faculty Fellow. The appointment will be for one year beginning September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year pending administrative and budgetary approval. The successful applicant will be an interdisciplinary scholar ready to contribute to the education of undergraduates majoring in Environmental Studies, teaching three courses per year that fulfill the major's "governance" requirement. We welcome candidates from a broad range of social science and policy backgrounds (e.g., environmental studies, geography, political science, sociology, economics, public policy). We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in Global Environmental Governance. Applicants must have completed their Ph.D. no more than five years before the appointment date. Candidates should apply with a cover letter, CV, three (3) confidential letters of recommendation, a teaching statement, and a writing sample. Review of applications will begin on January 31, 2018 and will continue until the search is complete. To apply, please go to the following: <https://apply.interfolio.com/47361>. More information is available at <http://as.nyu.edu/environment/employment.html>.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here.

(<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>)

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3834

University of Toronto at Scarborough

Rank: Indigenous Knowledge and Canadian Environmental Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Policy, Other

Position Title/Rank: Assistant Professor – Indigenous Knowledge and Canadian Environmental Policy
 Faculty: University of Toronto Scarborough
 Deadline: January 29, 2018

The University of Toronto Scarborough invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in the field of Indigenous Knowledge and Canadian Environmental Policy. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2018. The successful candidate will be appointed to a relevant cognate discipline depending on their area of expertise.

We are seeking candidates with a geographic focus on Canada alone or on Canada within an international context. We welcome a broad range of theoretical and methodological approaches, with the appointment of the successful candidate in one or more of the Departments of Physical and Environmental Sciences, Political Science, and/or Biological Sciences, depending on area(s) of expertise.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Environmental Science, Political Science, or Biological Sciences, or a related field by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter, and must have a demonstrated record of research and publications centered on Indigenous environmental knowledge and politics or policy, as well as proven experience in community-engaged scholarship. A demonstrated record of experience and engagement including relationship building, long-standing relationships, and possible work with community leaders and Elders with at least one Indigenous community in Canada is required. Candidates must also demonstrate long-term experience and engagement with Indigenous organizations and institutions and evidence of understanding the importance of consensus-building relationships.

A demonstrated record of research and teaching excellence in one of the following fields would be an asset:

* The role and status of Indigenous knowledge in environmental law/policy-making and legal disputes.

* Decolonizing environmental and natural resource governance.

* The legal rights of Indigenous peoples related to land use and title and the relationship with the land.

* Legal standing and political influence of Indigenous communities in international environmental negotiations and organization (i.e. Arctic Council, climate negotiations).

* Indigenous environmental justice movements.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct innovative research in Indigenous environmental studies, foster research activities with Indigenous communities in Canada, and may combine areas of expertise across the Departments of Physical and Environmental Science, Political Science, and/or Biological Sciences.

The successful candidate will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishments and will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated by publications in leading, field relevant, academic journals, or forthcoming impactful publications, presentations at significant conferences, a strong record in Indigenous research methodologies and ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing including a letter of support commenting on Indigenous community engagement.

The successful candidate will contribute to the delivery of the core curricula within one of the following departments, or interdisciplinary curricula that links two or more of these departments: Departments of Physical and Environmental Sciences (<http://www.utsoc.utoronto.ca/physsci/>), Political Science (<http://www.utsoc.utoronto.ca/polisci/>), and/or Biological Sciences (<http://www.utsoc.utoronto.ca/biosci/>). They may also have the opportunity to participate in developing new graduate programs at UTSC.

The successful candidate must be able to demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. This can be demonstrated through a teaching portfolio including coherent statement of teaching philosophy that is linked to evidence of excellent pedagogical practice, strong endorsements from referees, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, excellent course evaluations, and/or demonstrated superior performance in other teaching related activities, including performance as a teaching assistant or course instructor, experience in leading successful workshops and seminars.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Toronto Scarborough is a research-intensive institution with an interdisciplinary commitment, a multicultural student body, and a modern campus. The University offers the opportunity to conduct research, teach, and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world. The Greater Toronto Area offers amazing cultural and demographic diversity, including a vibrant Indigenous community.

All qualified applicants should apply by clicking <https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl?job=1701631&tz=GMT-05%3A00> A complete application must include: a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a research proposal, and a teaching dossier, as well as a letter of support commenting on their Indigenous community engagement. If you have questions about this position, please contact Ms. Sue-Ann Hicks (sahicks@utsoc.utoronto.ca)

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. Applicants should list a minimum of three referees and arrange for these persons to submit their letter of recommendation (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to sahicks@utsoc.utoronto.ca.

The closing date for applications is January 29, 2018.

This position is part of the University of Toronto's response to the calls to action in Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) report.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons/persons of colour, women, Indigenous/ Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/29/2018

Date Posted: 11/27/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3827

Australian National University

Rank: Lecturer - Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations

- Work with Australia's highest leading University-affiliated think tank, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre
- Work with the award winning Military and Defence Studies program, at the Australian Command and Staff College
- Standard teaching load of two courses per year (or equivalent)

The Australian National University (ANU) is one of the world's foremost research universities. Distinguished by its relentless pursuit of excellence, the University attracts leading academics and outstanding students from Australia and around the world.

The ANU College of Asia and the Pacific (CAP) leads intellectual engagement with the Asia-Pacific region through research, teaching and contributions to public debate, and seeks to set the international standard for scholarship concerning the region.

Based at the College of Asia and the Pacific and within the highly regarded Coral Bell School of Asia Pacific Affairs, the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre (SDSC) is Australia's highest ranked and largest concentration of scholars working on strategic and defence issues.

The Lecturers in Strategic Studies and/or Contemporary Military Operations will deliver a major contribution to the SDSC's educational programs, particularly its Military and Defence Studies program. This graduate program is delivered by SDSC to mid-level military officers attending the Australian Command and Staff College (ACSC), where the Lecturers will primarily be based.

We are looking to appoint outstanding scholars to a Continuing (Contingent Funded) position with particular research and teaching expertise in one or more of the following areas:

- Australian Defence Policy
- Strategic Studies
- Strategic Theory / Concepts
- Contemporary Military Theory / Operations
- Nuclear strategy
- Theory and practice of air / maritime operations
- Military History / War Studies
- Insurgency and Counter-Insurgency

Experience in a regional language would be desirable.

Competitive remuneration packages are available, including various allowances and health insurance.

As part of our ongoing efforts to rectify historical gender imbalances in the field of Strategic Studies, we are particularly keen to encourage highly-qualified female applicants.

For information about this position please visit <http://jobs.anu.edu.au/cw/en/job/515211/lecturer-strategic-studies-andor-contemporary-military-operations>

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 12/3/2017

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3826

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations

Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations

School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations

Wellington campus, New Zealand

The Political Science and International Relations programme seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer (equivalent to tenured assistant professor) or Senior Lecturer (equivalent to tenured assistant or associate professor) in Strategic Studies/International Relations. The starting date is negotiable.

The successful candidate will possess the abilities required to teach strategic studies (broadly understood), with a related expertise in some aspect of global or regional security or New Zealand's defence and security policy. Expertise in strategic theory and concepts, cyber-security, terrorism or maritime security would also be useful, but all strong candidates with a background in some aspect of strategic studies are encouraged to apply.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

A PhD and an established research and teaching record are required for appointment as Senior Lecturer.

Each role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in Strategic Studies and/or International Relations; an active research profile; engagement with government agencies and/or media, and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Further information can be obtained from Dr David Capie, Director, Centre for Strategic Studies, email david.capie@vuw.ac.nz, phone +64 4 4637483.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3809

Washington University in St. Louis

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship in Digital Cultures

The Program in American Culture Studies (AMCS) at Washington University in St. Louis invites applications for a Postdoctoral Fellowship in Digital Cultures, renewable annually for up to two years contingent upon satisfactory performance; expected start date is July 1, 2018. AMCS is an endowed program in Arts & Sciences that fosters cross-disciplinary intellectual exchange and transformative scholarship at the intersections of the humanities and social sciences. It offers an undergraduate major, a Ph.D. certificate program, a Master's program, and a wide array of collaborative research and teaching activities, seeking to build community among students of American culture from many fields.

We are particularly interested in applicants, academics and/or practitioners, whose research, teaching, and practice (1) have a strong theoretical awareness, but at the same time deeply engage ethnographic, material, and/or historical particulars; (2) center on an historically-informed study of digital cultures, broadly defined, especially as they pertain to media as a site of cultural production; (3) engage the digital transformation of media and the public sphere, as it pertains to the history of political economy and power, and matters of identity, membership, and exclusion. We prefer applicants who engage digital cultures as a subject of study, and not only as a research or presentation methodology.

Candidates must have received the Ph.D. since July 1, 2014, or be scheduled to defend the dissertation before July 1, 2018. The Fellow will receive a salary of $55,000 per year, plus benefits and a $3,000 annual research/travel stipend.

Applications are due by January 1, 2018. For more information and How to Apply, please see our website at <http://amcs.wustl.edu/directory/?sec=postdoctoral%20fellows&sub=application%20process>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3808

University of Tampa

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Judicial Politics, International Security

The Department of Political Science and International Studies at The University of Tampa invites applicants for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin in August 2018.

The University of Tampa is a medium-sized, comprehensive, residentially-based private institution of 8,913 undergraduate and graduate students. The University is ideally situated on a beautiful 110-acre campus next to the Hillsborough River, adjacent to Tampa's dynamic central business district, which is a growing, vibrant, diverse metropolitan area. UT reflects this vibrancy; with 20 consecutive years of enrollment growth UT boasts 229 student organizations, a multicultural student body from 50 states and 140 countries, and "Top Tier" ranking in U.S. News and World Report.

Qualifications

Successful candidates will have evidence of teaching and research excellence in International Relations and/or Judicial Politics/Law. In particular, we welcome applicants with substantive specializations in international law, human rights, democracy, international security, political violence, or the Middle East. Broad training in Political Science is expected. Responsibilities include a 3-3 teaching load. Ph.D. in hand is strongly preferred. ABDs who will have completed a Ph.D. by August 2018 will be considered. Salary and benefits are competitive. Review of applications will begin December 11, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

For details and to apply on-line, please visit our website at <https://ut.edu/jobs>

Applicants should be prepared to include cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, statement of research interest, sample of written work, teaching evaluation, sample syllabus and copy of graduate transcript.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3804

University of New Orleans

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Methodology, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of New Orleans seeks candidates for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin in fall 2018. The primary teaching need is nonprofit leadership in our NASPAA accredited MPA program, and the successful candidate will become a core faculty member in that program. Other areas of interest include applied research methodology, general public administration at graduate and undergraduate levels, hazards and disasters, and a range of undergraduate political science courses that fit the candidates' expertise and interests. We seek candidates with both a demonstrated potential for scholarly research and publication and an interest in engaged scholarship relevant to our urban environment.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Teach both graduate and undergraduate courses in Public Administration and Political Science
- Serve on MPA and M.A. committees
- Participate in department, college and university committees
- Teach a 4-4 load with a reduction for an active research agenda.

- REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: Doctorate in Public Administration, Political Science or closely related field

Candidates should submit a vita, three letters of recommendation, writing samples, teaching evaluations, and a brief statement of interest to Michael Huelshoff, Chair, Department of Political Science, University of New Orleans, 2000 lakeshore Drive, New Orleans, LA 70148. Review of applications will begin upon receipt.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3797

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor

Junior Faculty Search in Cybersecurity, Tenure Track

Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy

The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia seeks to fill a tenure-track, junior faculty position in cybersecurity policy with a start date in Fall 2018. The successful candidate will show evidence of progress toward a record of strong research, teaching, and service. We are open to scholars from a broad array of disciplines including, but not limited to, political science, law, engineering, and data science. Given the interdisciplinary nature of this position, the successful candidate would have the potential for a joint or secondary appointment with other academic units at UVA. Whatever their discipline, successful candidates must have the desire and ability to speak to and influence ongoing policy debates in the area of cybersecurity.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The research faculty includes psychologists, economists, and political scientists, and is enriched by professors of practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership, as well as multiple dual degree programs with other units at UVA..

For more information about the position and to apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0621821, and complete a candidate profile. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests and contact information for three references. The position is open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3796

University of Oxford

Rank: Professorial Post in Public Policy (Security)

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Defense, International Security

The Blavatnik School of Government aspires to be one of the world's leading academic institutions for research, teaching, and public leadership development which improves government. The professorial post in public policy (security) is intended to bring to the School an academic with a globally recognized record of excellence in research, teaching, and public engagement in matters affecting security. The post is permanent (i.e., with tenure).

The School seeks to appoint an outstanding teacher, accomplished research scholar and committed institution builder, whose work advances understanding and practice of issues related to public security, be this terrorism, cybersecurity, intelligence, violent conflict within or among states, military studies, nuclear security, or policing.

The postholder will provide academic leadership in research in the field of security. S/he will conduct world-class research on public policy with emphasis on security (as defined above); and provide academic research leadership in this area. S/he will contribute to the development and delivery of the Master of Public Policy. The successful candidate will join a growing team of outstanding academics, researchers and support staff in this dynamic School, and will contribute to the overall development of the School's profile as a world-leading provider of public policy education, training and research of the highest academic standard. The post is associated with Brasenose College with the expectation of election to a College Fellowship.

The ideal candidate will be a scholar of authority on public policy and security with a considerable international reputation; s/he will have a depth of knowledge on public policy and security to enable the development of innovation and new understanding in the field; have significant experience of developing research strategies and managing research projects; and an outstanding publication record as lead author in prestigious international journals and/or as author of books published by leading academic presses.

Applications are particularly welcome from women and black and minority ethnic candidates, who are under-represented in academic posts in Oxford. We are committed to equality and valuing diversity.

The closing date for applications is 12 noon UK time on Friday 15 December 2017.

Please apply via the university website: <https://www.bsg.ox.ac.uk/node/4229>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3778

Harvard University

Rank: Professor (Criminal Justice Policy)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Harvard Kennedy School seeks to appoint a chaired professor in the field of criminal justice policy. Candidates should have distinguished records of research and engagements in a field such as criminal justice, law, sociology, political science, philosophy or economics, a commitment to teaching in professional degree programs, and practical involvement and/or governmental leadership in criminal justice policy and practice. It is hoped that the candidate could play a leading role in the Program in Criminal Justice Policy and Management at the Kennedy School. Candidates should send a cover letter, CV and lists of references and papers and publications to: David T. Ellwood, Chair, Criminal Justice Policy Search Committee, c/o Alexandra Kovalik, Coordinator, Mailbox 114, Harvard Kennedy School, 79

John F. Kennedy St., Cambridge MA 02138 or via email to: Alexandra_kovalik@hks.harvard.edu. The committee will begin reviewing candidates on December 1st. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3771

Harvard University

Rank: Professor (Social Policy)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Harvard Kennedy School invites applications for one or more tenured positions in inequality and social policy. Candidates should have distinguished records of research, a commitment to teaching in professional degree programs, and practical engagement with and interest in public policy and practice. Applications are encouraged from all relevant disciplines, including, but not limited to, economics, sociology, political science, public policy, and criminal justice.

Candidates should send a cover letter, CV and lists of references and papers and publications to: David T. Ellwood, Chair, Social Policy Search Committee, c/o Alexandra Kovalik, Coordinator, Mailbox 114, Harvard Kennedy School, 79 John F. Kennedy St., Cambridge MA 02138 or via email to: Alexandra_kovalik@hks.harvard.edu. The committee will begin reviewing candidates on December 1st. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3770

University of California, Berkeley

Rank: Assistant Professor - Religious Diversity - Haas Institute for a Fair and Inclusive Society (deadline extended)

TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION

Assistant Professor, untenured for initial appointment, with possibility for promotion

Religious Diversity, Haas Institute for a Fair and Inclusive Society

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY

The University of California, Berkeley invites applications for a non-tenured appointment to the faculty at the Assistant Professor level, with an expected start date of July 1, 2018. The successful candidate will be appointed to the Haas Institute for a Fair and Inclusive Society and in one or more Departments at Berkeley (depending on the candidate's background). The candidate will be expected to participate in the Religious Diversity Cluster of the Haas Institute and collaborate with the Chair to provide guidance and academic leadership in the field.

For more information about the position, including required qualifications and application materials, please go to:

<http://apptrkr.com/1119647>

The deadline to apply is December 15, 2017. For questions, please contact Sandra Ketchpel, Assistant Dean for Administration for the Goldman School of Public Policy at sandi_k@berkeley.edu

The University of California, Berkeley is an AA/EEO Employer.

jeid-6b89d1d5bccf4746bd70857d8657cd72

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3776

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Paul and Marcia Wythes Center on Contemporary China of the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for a postdoctoral or more senior research associate for the 2018-19 academic year for a 12-month appointment with the possibility of renewal contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. Preferred start date September 1, 2018. The position is open to a scholar who would be in residence and participate in all of the Center's activities, including student-faculty seminars, workshops, and public lectures. The ideal applicant will have received a Ph.D. within the past three years and studies aspects of contemporary Chinese society from a social science disciplinary perspective. He/she will have opportunities to collaborate with the Center's faculty. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4781> (D-18-PII-00004)

Applications should include:

1. A cover letter
2. A statement of research plans and their relation to CCC activities (1-3 pages)
3. A current curriculum vitae
4. Contact information for two references
5. Two writing samples.

Application deadline: February 2, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Yan Bennett at ybennett@princeton.edu. More information on the Center can be found at ccc.princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 2/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3765

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Mellon Foundation Sawyer Seminar

The Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS) invites applications for one postdoctoral research associate position for the 2018-19 year (12 months), beginning September 1, 2018. The position is open to scholars who would be in residence for the year and would participate in the activities of the Mellon Foundation-funded Sawyer Seminar on the theme "Global Migration: The Humanities and Social Sciences in Dialogue." The Seminar engages a multidisciplinary group of Princeton faculty and graduate students, which aims to advance the study of global migration as a many-faceted phenomenon requiring insights from both the humanities and social sciences. Political, legal, and demographic issues (and solutions sought) will therefore be discussed in tandem with more humanistic themes. Questions of particular interest for the Seminar are global narratives of migration (be these political/national, journalistic, artistic); linguistic and legal aspects of migration; and the historical, ethical, and philosophical issues that arise with migration. For more information on the PIIRS research community and its activities, see the PIIRS website at <http://piirs.princeton.edu/research-community/migration-people-and-cultures-across-borders>.

The postdoctoral research associate would be expected to participate regularly in the activities of the seminar and to be engaged in research and writing on a topic related to the Seminar's broader themes. Candidates must have completed their Ph.D. by the beginning of the appointment and have received the degree no earlier than September 2015. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

To apply, please link to: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4981>

Applications must include:

- (1) A cover letter;
- (2) A statement of plans for work and their relation to the community's theme (under 1,000 words);
- (3) A current curriculum vitae;
- (4) Names and contact information for two references; and
- (5) A representative sample of recent work (under 25 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred). The work sample need not be directly related to the theme of migration.

Application deadline: January 9, 2018 (11:59 PM EST).

For more information on PIIRS, see <http://piirs.princeton.edu/>. Questions about the application process for this position may be directed to Nicole Bergman (nbergman@princeton.edu).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/9/2018

Date Posted: 11/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3757

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor

Rank: RESEARCH PROFESSOR

http://careers.umich.edu/job_detail/149488/research_professor

Institute for Social Research Research Professor Track Social Science

The University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR) is seeking candidates for an open-rank appointment in the research professor track, with the potential for a joint appointment in a tenure-track position in another University of Michigan school or college. ISR seeks to recruit outstanding researchers with interests related to racial, ethnic, gender, and/or socioeconomic inequality.

The Institute for Social Research, founded in 1949, is one of the world's leading interdisciplinary social science research institutions.

ISR's five research centers – Center for Political Studies, Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research, Population Studies Center, Research Center for Group Dynamics, and Survey Research Center – span a wide range of disciplines and methodological approaches. Research faculty positions in ISR include 100% ISR appointments as well as joint appointments with many departments and colleges across the university. For more information about ISR, please visit our web site: <http://home.isr.umich.edu/>

Potential units for joint appointments for this position include the School of Social Work, the School of Information, the Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy, the School of Public Health, or social science departments within the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts. Disciplinary background of applicants could be in any of several areas of relevance, including, for example, economics, education, political science, psychology, public health, social work, sociology, or statistics.

Required Qualifications*

Candidates must have a Ph.D. in a social science or related field by the time the position begins.

Senior candidates should demonstrate experience and success with externally-funded research, along with a national reputation and strong publication record.

How to Apply: Review of submitted credentials will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. All candidates should submit the following materials electronically to: <https://apply.interfolio.com/46573>

Cover letter

Curriculum vitae

Three representative research papers or publications

Statement of current and future research plans

Statement of teaching experience

Junior candidates (new and recent PhDs): Three letters of recommendation

Senior candidates: Names of three references (letters will be solicited separately)

Additional Information

The Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the diverse people of Michigan, to maintain the excellence of the university, and to ground our research in varied disciplines, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning. The University of Michigan is supportive of the needs of dual career couples and is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Background Screening

The University of Michigan conducts background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer and may use a third party administrator to conduct background checks. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

U-M EEO/AA Statement

The University of Michigan is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/8/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3755

Brown University: Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowship

Specializations: Caribbean, Latin American, Latino Politics

The Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies at the Watson Institute for International and Public Affairs at Brown University invites applications for a one-year non-renewable postdoctoral fellowship as part of the Mellon Sawyer Seminar on Race and Indigeneity in the Americas. The successful applicant will have research and teaching interests that focus on race, racism, and indigeneity in the Americas. We seek candidates who can complement the Center's interdisciplinary strengths and contribute to the existing emphasis on race and racialization in Latin America, the Caribbean, and Latinx communities. Theoretical attention to questions of race, gender and sexuality is strongly encouraged.

The successful candidate must demonstrate scholarly promise and will be expected to collaborate with two graduate student fellows to coordinate workshops and seminars, co-curate a related exhibit, and contribute to the development of promotional materials. The postdoctoral fellow will teach an undergraduate course on race and indigeneity in Latin America and the Caribbean from the perspective of his/her own discipline.

Fellow will receive a salary of $60,000, benefits, and a research/travel fund of $3,000 per year.

Qualifications

The successful applicant will have research and teaching interests that focus on race, racism, and indigeneity in the Americas. We seek candidates who can complement the Center's interdisciplinary strengths and contribute to the existing emphasis on race and racialization in Latin America, the Caribbean, and Latinx communities. Theoretical attention to questions of race, gender and sexuality is strongly encouraged.

Ph.D. should be in hand by the start of the appointment on July 1, 2018.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. in any discipline in the humanities or social sciences from institutions other than Brown.

Application Instructions

To apply, please submit through Interfolio: <https://apply.interfolio.com/46311>.

1) a cover letter, including a discussion of the relevance of your research and training to the Sawyer Seminar theme as well as a discussion of any prior experience organizing interdisciplinary, scholarly events; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) a list of three referees; and 4) a brief undergraduate course proposal related to the Sawyer Seminar theme. Review of applications will begin on January 31, 2018, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999
eJobs ID: 3737

Columbia University

Rank: Visiting Professorships in the Core Curriculum

Columbia University invites applications for Visiting Professorships in the Core Curriculum for one academic year. The professorships are open to tenured faculty who have an active interest and accomplishments in liberal arts teaching and curricular development.

The visiting professors will be appointed in one of the Humanities or Social Science departments of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The visitors will each teach one year-long course in the Core Curriculum and possibly an additional course in their area of specialization. Visiting Professors will also pursue a scholarly project and develop a curricular plan for implementation at their home institution.

Ph.D. required. All candidates must be tenured at their home institution and have excellent record of liberal arts teaching and commitment to curricular development. Candidates for Visiting Professor should be widely recognized for their distinction and professional accomplishment. Candidates for Visiting Associate Professor should possess a demonstrated record of professional achievement and show great promise for attaining distinction in their fields of specialization.

Interest or experience in academic administration preferred.

All applications must be made through Columbia University's online Recruitment of Academic Personnel System (RAPS): academicjobs.columbia.edu/applicants/Central?quickFind=65440

Applicants should upload the following materials into RAPS: a letter of application, curriculum vitae, the names of two persons who may be asked to provide a letter of reference, a proposal for a scholarly project and a curriculum development plan with an attached letter of support for the curricular plan from the relevant senior academic officer at the home institution.

Review will begin December 1, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled.

For more information, go to: <https://www.college.columbia.edu/core/center/visiting-prof>

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3738

Qatar University

Rank: Lead Methodologist

Lead Methodologist

The Social and Economic Survey Research Institute (SESRI) at Qatar University invites applications for a full-time Lead Methodologist based in Doha, Qatar. The position is attached to SESRI's recently-formed Randomized Controlled Trials (RCT) Unit within the Policy Department. The RCT Unit will push the boundaries of SESRI's policy work to new levels of scientific rigor and practical applicability, and ensure that SESRI and Qatar University remain at the forefront of social science research in the region.

The Lead Methodologist will be responsible for the design, implementation, and analysis of RCTs experiments, and may also contribute to proposing relevant and timely interventions. This position will work under the supervision of the Policy Department Manager and will be responsible for setting the agenda of SESRI's RCT interventions, oversee the successful implementation and completion of trials, monitor and observe the intervention and control groups closely, as well as develop and write proposals, reports, and other outputs for a wide variety of audiences. Applicants should possess expert-level knowledge and understanding of social sciences, economics, or other related field, with a demonstrated record of design and analysis of randomized controlled trials for the purposes of policy evaluation. Three or more years of relevant work experience is required, as well as knowledge of pertinent research and analytical methods. Applicants should possess strong research and analytical skills and demonstrate the ability to communicate clearly and effectively in both written and verbal forms. Quantitative analytical skills, experience using survey data, and experience working on the Gulf in particular or Middle East in general will be considered favorably. A PhD in Economics or relevant social sciences field is required.

This full-time position carries an initial three-year term, with a start date that is negotiable, and the possibility of a renewal upon mutual agreement.

Applications will be reviewed beginning on January 15, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

Compensation includes a competitive salary, which is tax-free in Qatar (but persons will still be responsible for any applicable taxes from their country of origin), along with a generous fringe benefits package that includes health insurance. Furnished housing is also provided at no additional cost outside of expenses such as utilities, cable, and Internet access. Applicants will have their flight and moving expenses paid for at the beginning and end of their appointment, as well as one round-trip flight home annually. Educational allowances for up to three accompanying children will also be available.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, recent curriculum vita, concise statement of research interests, writing sample or representative publication, confidential letter of reference from someone familiar with the candidate's work, and the names and contact information of two additional referees to rcsearch@qu.edu.qa

About SESRI: SESRI is an academic survey research institute established in 2008 at Qatar University in close association with the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. It undertakes original and groundbreaking surveys of citizens and residents of Qatar and other Gulf Cooperation Council states via telephone and face-to-face interviews, amassing a diverse collection of data unparalleled in the region. Previous areas of study include, among others, education, gender, labor, politics, regional integration, and survey methodology. SESRI has partnered with the World Values Survey, the World Economic Forum's Executive Opinion Survey, and other international survey efforts, and since 2010 has secured more than $5.3 million in external project funding through the Qatar National Research Fund. Widely recognized for their quality and variety, SESRI data have appeared in such forums as Foreign Affairs, Middle East Journal, and Middle East Policy. Established in June 2014, SESRI's Policy Unit utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirical-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3735

RAND Corporation

Rank: Stanton Nuclear Security Fellowship

The RAND Corporation is accepting applications for up to three Stanton Nuclear Security Fellows. The application deadline is January 15, 2018.

The Stanton Nuclear Security Fellows Program was created to stimulate the development of the next generation of thought leaders on nuclear security related topics by supporting interdisciplinary research that will advance policy-relevant understanding of the issues.

Fellows carry out a year-long period of independent research. During their RAND tenure, fellows are expected to produce policy-relevant studies that contribute to the general body of knowledge on nuclear security. Fellows are located at one of three U.S. RAND offices: Santa Monica, CA; Washington, DC; or Pittsburgh, PA.

Doctoral students will receive a $50,000 stipend, post-doctoral fellows will receive an $80,000 stipend, and junior faculty fellows will receive a $110,000 stipend.

Preference will go to candidates who are post-doctoral students or junior faculty members. Doctoral students may be considered if they have a well-defined dissertation topic in the field of nuclear security and are enrolled in a widely recognized graduate program, and must include as part of their application at least three dissertation chapters (that have been approved by the candidate's adviser for submission). Junior faculty at law schools or with a law degree as their terminal degree are eligible. Prior experience is broadly defined to include disciplines such as nuclear policy, security, engineering, physics, and related fields.

The Stanton Foundation was created by former CBS President Frank Stanton, who is widely regarded as one of the greatest executives in electronic communications. In 1954, President Eisenhower appointed Stanton to a committee convened to develop the first comprehensive plan for the survival of the United States following a nuclear attack. Stanton led the effort to develop plans for national and international communication in the aftermath of a nuclear incident.

Stanton also served as the chairman (1961–67) and trustee (1957–78) of RAND. The Stanton Foundation aims, through its support of the Nuclear Security Fellows program, to perpetuate his efforts to meet these challenges.

For more information, contact Sarah Harting at (703) 413-1100, ext. 5675 or Sarah_Harting@rand.org.
www.rand.org/stanton

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3729

University at Albany

Rank: Full/Advanced Associate Professor, Multiple Positions

Full/Advanced Associate Professor, Multiple Positions

School of Criminal Justice

The School of Criminal Justice invites applications for multiple full-time tenure-track faculty positions at the Full or advanced Associate Professor level to begin Fall 2018. Area of specialization is open. A Ph.D. in criminal justice or a related discipline is required, and candidates must have a demonstrated potential for excellence in teaching and research.

The School of Criminal Justice has an internationally renowned doctoral program, offers a growing MA program, and provides a select group of undergraduates the opportunity to earn the BA in criminal justice. The University at Albany is one of four University Centers of the State University of New York. Its approximately 17,000 students include some 5000 graduate students, and its full-time faculty numbers about 700. Albany, the capital of New York, is in a metropolitan area with a population of approximately 800,000. Located in beautiful upstate New York, it is in close proximity to the Berkshires, the Catskills, the Adirondacks, and the Hudson River Valley and is also convenient to Boston, Montreal, and New York City.

Applicants should apply online via <http://albany.interviewexchange.com/candapply.jsp?JOBID=84218>

Applicants should send a letter of application, statement of research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, and the names and contact information of three references. Review of applications will begin November 29, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled. Position is contingent upon funding availability.

The University at Albany is an EO/AA/IRCA/ADA Employer.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/fq2dz24v7htm4dxdp>

PI100022468

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/2/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3727

Coastal Carolina University

Rank: Lecturer of Intelligence and National Security Studies

Lecturer of Intelligence and National Security Studies

The College of Humanities and Fine Arts at Coastal Carolina University invites applications for a Lecturer position in the Intelligence and National Security Studies program beginning August 2018.

The successful applicant must possess a graduate degree in Political Science (i.e. M.A., M.S., M.P.A., or M.P.P.) or other relevant field by the time of appointment. A Ph.D. is preferred but not required. Preference will be given to applicants with particular interests in intelligence, homeland security, emergency/disaster management, critical infrastructure protection at the state or local level, and cyber security. The ideal candidate will also have practical experience in the field.

The successful candidate will teach undergraduate courses in the field, as well as support the continued growth and development of the Intelligence and National Security Studies program.

Coastal Carolina University is a public comprehensive liberal arts institution located just nine miles from the Atlantic coast resort of Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Coastal enrolls more than 10,000 students from 45 states and 58 nations. The University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award the baccalaureate and selective master's degrees of national and/or regional significance in the arts and sciences, business, humanities, education, and health and human services, a specialist degree in educational leadership, and a Ph.D. degree in Marine Science.

Interested candidates should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcripts, recent teaching evaluations, and three (3) professional references electronically at <http://jobs.coastal.edu>. To ensure full consideration application must be received before January 15, 2018. Review of applications and materials will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Coastal Carolina University is building a culturally diverse faculty and strongly encourages applications from women and minority candidates. CCU is an EO/AA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/31/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3719

Cornell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Social & Behavioral Science in Nutrition

Assistant Professor of Social & Behavioral Science in Nutrition Division of Nutritional Sciences

Candidates for this position are expected to demonstrate future promise for establishing and maintaining a vibrant, independent and extramurally-funded research program, and for teaching undergraduate and graduate students. The qualifications of the candidate should be consistent with a tenure-track appointment at the level of an Assistant Professor, with a Doctoral degree in a social science discipline such as sociology, social psychology, cultural anthropology or another social science field. Prospective candidates should have foundational knowledge and experience in interdisciplinary research at the interface of food, eating, or human nutrition and the social and behavioral sciences, with an interest in U.S. community or public health settings. Demonstrated research excellence in areas of interest include, but are not limited to, maternal and child nutrition, obesity and chronic disease prevention, and nutrition disparities. Research excellence should be demonstrated through publications in recognized journals and prior experience in seeking independent research funding is highly desirable. The applicant must have an interest in and be qualified to teach an undergraduate course on Social Science Perspectives on Food and Nutrition and a graduate level course. Demonstrated scholarship within community and public health nutrition is central to this position.

The Division of Nutritional Sciences is a broadly based interdisciplinary unit that integrates theories and methods from across many academic disciplines to understand the complex relationships among biology, nutrition, food systems and lifestyle patterns, social and institutional environments and governmental policies in relation to human health. This position recognizes and highlights the importance of the relationship of factors in the social, cultural, information/electronic, economic, physical, and policy environments to the health and nutritional well-being of human populations. The successful candidate should have experience in and/or the potential to develop collaborations with other faculty who have broad interests in basic and applied aspects of food and nutrition.

Academic Environment at Cornell University

Cornell is a major Land Grant research and teaching institution established in 1865 with both endowed and state-assisted units. The student population on the Ithaca campus is approximately 5,350 graduate/professional students and 13,670 undergraduates. Cornell offers a strong, interdisciplinary research environment. Recently, the university initiated campus-wide investments in the Life Sciences, the Cornell Population Program, the Institute for Social Sciences, the Global Health Program, and the Weill Cornell Medical College and Cornell Technology Campus, which are located in New York City. The Division of Nutritional Sciences

The Division of Nutritional Sciences (DNS) at Cornell University is among the largest academic units in the United States devoted to human nutrition. DNS is a multidisciplinary unit with scholarly activities that integrate knowledge from the physical, biological and social sciences in the areas of molecular, human, international and community nutrition through teaching, research, and outreach related to food, food systems, nutrition and health. Multidisciplinary research, graduate training, and outreach programs include Maternal & Child Nutrition, Nutritional Genomics, Food Systems for Health and Nutrition, Global Health & International Nutrition and Obesity & Chronic Disease. In carrying out its mission, DNS supports and contributes to advancements in basic disciplines and promotes the health and well-being of populations in the US and globally. The DNS undergraduate program consists of four majors. The Nutritional Sciences major and the Global and Public Health Sciences major are offered through the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences and the College of Human Ecology. The Human Biology, Health and Society major is offered through the College of Human Ecology, and the concentration in Nutrition in the Biological Sciences Major is offered through the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences and the College of Arts and Sciences. The Division of Nutritional Sciences is the administrative home for the Cornell Graduate Field of Nutrition and the Graduate Field of Epidemiology.

Qualifications

- Ph.D., ScD, DrPH, or related degree in a social science discipline (i.e., sociology, social psychology, cultural anthropology, or another social science field) with foundational knowledge and a research focus at the interface of the social sciences and food, eating, and nutrition in U.S. community/public health settings;
- Demonstrated research excellence in areas generating knowledge that contributes to theory, methods, practice, and policy for understanding social aspects of food, eating, and nutrition in the context of nutritional disparities, maternal and child nutrition, obesity and chronic disease prevention, or other areas;
- Interest and/or experience in teaching at the undergraduate and/or graduate level with a focus on application of the social sciences to the study of food and nutrition;
- Research excellence that is demonstrated through publications in peer-reviewed journals in the field; and

- Experience in grant writing and/or a history of obtaining independent research funding.

Responsibilities

The candidate is expected to:

- Initiate and sustain a vigorous, externally funded research program;
- Teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses related to social science expertise and food, eating, and nutrition;
- Mentor and train graduate students;
- Maintain a high level of scholarly activity; and
- Forge professional relationships within the Division of Nutritional Sciences and with other academic units on campus and beyond.

Academic Rank and Compensation

Assistant Professor with 9-month appointment and expectation of tenure. Position is designated as 60% effort in research, 40% in teaching/instruction. Salary level will depend on experience and expertise and will be competitive with comparable positions at peer universities.

Applicants must apply through Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10158> and upload a cover letter, CV, research statement and a teaching statement. Applicants must also arrange to that three confidential letters of recommendation submitted through Academic Jobs Online. Review of applications will begin in November of 2017 and will continue until this position has been filled. Start date for this position is as soon as July 1, 2018.

Cornell University is an innovative Ivy League university and a great place to work. Our inclusive community of scholars, students and staff impart an uncommon sense of larger purpose and contribute creative ideas to further the university's mission of teaching, discovery and engagement. With our main campus located in Ithaca, NY, Cornell's far-flung global presence includes the medical college's campuses on the Upper East Side of Manhattan and Doha, Qatar, as well as the Cornell Tech campus located on Roosevelt Island in the heart of New York City.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2apply.net/mc4hfz4k47fhtrsf>

PI99985997

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/30/2017

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3714

Colorado Mesa UniversityRank: Visiting Professor of History or Political Science

Distinguished scholars in History or Political Science are invited to apply for the Wayne N. Aspinall Chair at Colorado Mesa University. For a $10,000 stipend, the visiting professor will spend three weeks on the Colorado Mesa University campus from late March-to mid-April 2019, teach a one credit course, give a major public lecture, and make any other invited appearances. Applications must include a vitae, a brief outline of a course proposal and a topic for the major public lecture. Submit application by February 9, 2018 to: Professor Steven C. Schulte, Department of History, Colorado Mesa University, 1100 North Ave., Grand Junction, CO 81501. Feel free to direct any inquiries to Schulte@coloradomesa.edu or 970 248-1418.

Start Date: Spring 2019

Application Deadline: 2/9/2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3677

University of Maryland, Baltimore CountyRank: Assistant/Associate Professor of Health Policy

The School of Public Policy in the College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC) is searching for an advanced assistant or associate professor of health policy, to begin August 2018. We are seeking candidates who have a commitment to inclusive excellence, a strong record of research productivity, a track-record of external funding, and expertise in teaching quantitative methods to graduate students. Candidates with interests in policy approaches to address health equity, and/or health disparities are strongly encouraged to apply.

The School of Public Policy includes 9 full-time tenured/tenure-track faculty members and more than 30 affiliate faculty members from related departments. The department offers Master's and PhD degrees in Public Policy, including a strong health policy concentration.

Successful candidates will have experience in or the potential for working collaboratively with faculty to mentor students with diverse life experiences, and from a variety of disciplines and academic backgrounds. Start up funds are available for the successful candidate.

A Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or a related field is required.

Full consideration will be given to applicants who submit all materials to apply.interfolio.com/45973 by January 2, 2018. Complete applications will include: Cover Letter; addressing teaching, research and advising; the names of 3 references; and a curriculum vitae. Candidates must also submit a statement concerning the candidate's experience with and commitment to diversity efforts and the mission of UMBC. Questions may be addressed to Ms. Pam Doppler, pmollen@umbc.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3687

University of OklahomaRank: Assistant/Associate Professor

As part of a multi-year, cross-discipline strategic hiring and growth initiative in Early Childhood, the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Oklahoma (OU) seeks applications and informal candidate nominations for a faculty opening at the rank of Assistant or Tenured Associate Professor. The disciplinary background for this position is open, and applicants from psychology, sociology, social work, political science, anthropology, and other relevant areas will be considered. The successful candidate will play a key role in shaping and building a cross-discipline Early Childhood research initiative. Over the next several years, we anticipate multiple Early Childhood hires in varied disciplines and colleges to augment OU's cutting-edge academic programming and research in Early Childhood; this cross-campus initiative includes Arts & Sciences, Education, Medicine, Engineering, and allied areas.

Ideal candidates will have established reputations for high-quality interdisciplinary scholarship, evidenced by (a) externally funded and published collaborative research, (b) effective graduate and undergraduate teaching and program development, and (c) inclusive service and professional outreach. The successful candidate will contribute to the University's growing national reputation for excellence in Early Childhood and enhance university-wide research capabilities through offering expertise in neurobiological processes (e.g., cortisol and HPA axis) associated with early adversity, as well as more generally the social, community, and psychological determinants (both proximal and distal) of children's development, health, and well-being. We also welcome expertise in innovative assessments, methodologies, and multilevel, longitudinal data analysis.

About the University of Oklahoma: Established in 1890, the University of Oklahoma is the flagship public research university in the state of Oklahoma (Carnegie Classification R1: highest research activity), with over 30,000 students and more than 2700 full-time faculty members offering nearly 500 different graduate and undergraduate degrees programs on three campuses (Norman, Oklahoma City, and Tulsa). OU continues to break external sponsored research and private fundraising records, including more than $2.3 billion in gifts and pledges since 1994, providing funding for dramatic capital improvements, as well as an unparalleled increase in faculty endowment and student scholarships. OU is the only public university in U.S. history to ever rank first among both public and private universities in freshman National Merit Scholar enrollment. OU is a leader in international exchange and study abroad programs, offering programs in 79 countries and over 223 cities on six continents. OU has one of the oldest comprehensive colleges of fine arts in the Great Plains states, with highly-regarded schools of Music, Musical Theatre, Drama, Art and Dance, and programs in opera and sculpture. The OU College of Law is Oklahoma's premiere law school and The Michael F. Price College is ranked as one of the nation's top business schools. The OU Health Sciences Center is one of only four comprehensive academic health centers in the nation with seven professional schools, including more than 660 doctors practicing in nearly every adult and child specialty.

OU Research & Innovation: In 2013, the Norman research campus was named the No.1 research campus in the nation by the Association of Research Parks. Adjacent to the beautiful and historic Main campus in Norman, with 277 acres and over 1 million square feet of high-tech facilities located along the Oklahoma Technology Corridor, the research campus hosts the National Weather Center and affiliated organizations, the National Institute for Risk & Resilience, the South Central Climate Science Center, the Center for Applied Social Research, the WaTER Center, and the FAA Center of Excellence for Technical Training & Human Performance, among numerous others. By synergistically co-locating State and Federal agency research and operational organizations, along with more than a dozen private companies and several University centers and academic programs, the Norman research campus creates a uniquely rich environment for collaboration, innovation, and commercialization. Over the last 20 years, OU's Office of Technology Development has helped faculty and other partners launch dozens of new companies that have generated more than $75 million in capital.

Local Community & Culture: The city of Norman, Oklahoma, is a perennial contender on "best place to live" rankings with outstanding schools, amenities, a low cost of living, small town charm, a variety of recreational opportunities, four distinct seasons, and more than 225 days of sunshine each year. Norman is located 20 miles south of Oklahoma City, the Capital and economic hub of the state of Oklahoma. The Oklahoma City Metroplex, including Norman and several other suburban cities, is home to about 1.5 million residents, offering all the amenities of a major modern metropolitan community, including rich cultural diversity and heritage, an abundance of the arts, superb dining and night-life, major sporting and concert events, family entertainment, recreational adventure activities, and much more.

The University of Oklahoma is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer and encourages diversity in the workplace. We strongly encourage applications from women, members of minority groups, veterans, those with disabilities, the LGBTQ community, and all others who are committed to excellence, inclusion, and diversity. The University of Oklahoma is also sensitive to the needs of dual-career couples. To the extent that opportunities exist, our goal is to recruit the whole family, not just the candidate.

QUALIFICATIONS

To be considered for this position, candidates must have a Ph.D. and evidence of excellence in Early Childhood scholarship. Successful candidates must demonstrate strong interest in contributing to the University's cross-campus, cross-discipline Early Childhood initiative; and a willingness to collaborate with the established research activities of the Early Childhood Education Institute (ECEI) located on the Tulsa Campus of OU; <http://www.ou.edu/content/tulsa/early-childhood-education-institute.html>. Candidates must also have an established record of excellence in undergraduate and graduate teaching, and be prepared to expand course offerings in their area of specialization. An established history of successful leadership and/or collaboration on funded research involving multidisciplinary teams is a highly-preferred qualification.

The University of Oklahoma is committed to investing in the success of its faculty at all stages of their careers. The University offers unique and essential research and professional development resources characteristic of a Flagship Public Research University. It is expected that the successful candidate will be affiliated with the Early Childhood Education Institute (ECEI). By mutual agreement, the successful candidate may also affiliate with other University-wide strategic research organizations and centers (e.g., the Center for Applied Social Research, the National Institute for Risk & Resilience). Salary, benefits, and start-up packages are highly-competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

To apply, please submit the following materials:

- a cover letter specifically addressing position fit, qualifications, and background
- a curriculum vitae
- three confidential letters of recommendation
- up to 3 publications/working papers
- a brief statement of research interests (e.g., 300-2000 words)
- a brief statement of teaching philosophy and interests (e.g., 300-2000 words)

Consideration of applications will begin immediately. For full consideration, submit application materials by January 1, 2018. The position will remain open until filled. All application materials must be submitted electronically using the OU Career web site [<http://apply.interfolio.com/45790>] (see the "apply now" link at the bottom of the page).

For help signing up, accessing your account, or submitting your application please check out our help and support section or get in touch via email at help@interfolio.com or phone at (877) 997-8807.

Please send inquiries, informal candidate nominations, and other suggestions or comments to the co-chairs of the search committee, Dr. Diane Horm (dhorm@ou.edu) and Dr. Eric Day (eday@ou.edu).

The University of Oklahoma, in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations, does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, genetic information, gender identity, gender expression, age, religion, disability, political beliefs, or status as a veteran in any of its policies, practices, or procedures. This includes, but is not limited to: admissions, employment, financial aid, and educational services.

APPLY NOW: <http://apply.interfolio.com/45790>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3688

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellowship at UCLA

The Project on Resources, Development, and Governance (PRDG) is a network of social scientists, policymakers, non-governmental organizations and industry representatives dedicated to finding policies that promote welfare, peace, and accountability in resource-rich countries. Its goals are to seed new research projects involving social scientists and practitioners and promote evidence-based policymaking. It is supported by grants from the Hewlett Foundation, the Natural Resources Governance Institute, and UCLA's Luskin Center for Innovation.

PRDG is soliciting applications for a two-year Post-Doctoral Fellowship beginning in Fall 2018 to support innovative research on programs addressing the economic and political challenges facing resource-rich countries. Applicants must have completed a Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, Public Policy or a related field in the last five years or have the Ph.D. expected in AY 2018-19; have ongoing or planned research projects on natural resources and development or governance in low or middle-income countries; and have strong training in quantitative research methods, particularly causal inference.

PRDG Fellows are expected to be in residence during the fellowship period and will receive applicable UCLA benefits. They will be based at UCLA's Political Science Department and the Luskin School of Public Affairs, and supervised by Professor Michael Ross. The Fellow will also engage with the co-PIs based at UCLA, Graeme Blair and Darin Christensen.

In addition to conducting independent research and (optionally) develop joint research with the co-PIs, the Fellow will work up to 10 hours a week on PRDG projects that may include: identifying and engaging with organizations implementing programs in this sector; crafting PRDG's research agenda, including drafting a white paper that reviews research on natural resources, governance, and development; and helping draft and edit policy briefs based on PRDG research.

The position is compensated with a competitive salary and outstanding UCLA benefits.

To apply, please fill out this Google form: <https://goo.gl/forms/KDN5pNgOFQ8cqWVH2>

We particularly encourage women and scholars of color to apply.

Applications are due by January 1, 2018.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination and Affirmative Action Policy at <http://policy.ucop.edu/doc/4000376/NondiscrimAffirmAct>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/24/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3680

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Director

The Johns Hopkins University seeks to appoint the inaugural Director of the SNF Agora Institute at JHU, a collaboration between the University and the Stavros Niarchos Foundation to forge new ways to facilitate the restoration of open and inclusive discourse that is the cornerstone of healthy democracies. Established with a $150 million gift from the Foundation and housed in the University's Krieger School of Arts and Sciences, the Institute will become a leading academic and public forum bringing together experts from a range of fields in order to design and test mechanisms for improving dialogue, decision-making, and social engagement. The Director will have an extraordinary opportunity to build and shape the Institute's faculty, programs, physical space, and reputation.

The Director will report to the Dean of the Krieger School and will work with the President and Provost and an international advisory board to fulfill the potential of the Agora vision. The Director will be a tenured member of the Arts and Sciences faculty and may have additional appointments elsewhere at Hopkins.

Candidates must possess academic stature worthy of appointment as full professor and a reputation that will attract attention to the Institute. The Director will exemplify both the inter-disciplinary and transnational ethos of the Institute and will have a track record of academic leadership and effective development and management of human, financial, and programmatic resources. S/he will have shown a strong commitment to enhancing diversity and inclusion.

Johns Hopkins University has retained Opus Partners to support this recruitment. Please send recommendations, nominations, or questions to lead Partner Craig Smith, PhD, via email: craig.smith@opuspartners.net. The search will continue in confidence until the Director is appointed, but candidates should submit their materials (c.v. and cover letter as separate PDF files) before December 1, 2017. The University intends to make this appointment effective no later than July 1, 2018.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3666

University of Delaware

Rank: Associate Professor of Political Psychology

University of Delaware
 College of Arts & Sciences
 Department of Political Science and International Relations
 ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY
 Location: Newark, DE

The University of Delaware's academic leadership has identified the Department Political Science and International Relations (<http://www.poscir.udel.edu>) (POSCIR) as a priority for academic growth and prominence. The POSCIR department aims to add a highly productive political psychology scholar to our nationally and internationally known faculty. The search is for a tenured associate professor of political psychology to begin September 1, 2018. While we anticipate making a tenured appointment at the Associate Professor level, we encourage advanced Assistant Professors to apply. The position will have a 75% appointment in POSCIR and a 25% appointment in the Department of Psychological and Brain Sciences (www.psych.udel.edu) (PSYCH).

We seek a scholar with an exemplary record of publishing, securing research funding, and teaching in political psychology. The ideal candidate will be a nationally and internationally recognized scholar with an interest in actively building the interdisciplinary political psychology field at UD, and developing an interdisciplinary political psychology lab.

We construe political psychology broadly, but are particularly interested in scholars who build upon our strengths in: the politics of racial, ethnic, gender, and other social identities; international security, conflict, and violence; political communication; the dynamics of public attitudes and behavior; and experimental and other research methodologies. The exact substantive area is open – scholarly excellence is preferred above all else. The successful candidate will have opportunities to associate with new facilities on campus, including the 11,600 square foot Center for Biomedical and Brain Imaging (<https://www.psych.udel.edu/research/fmri-center>), housing a 3T Siemens Magnetom Prisma and transcranial magnetic stimulation machine, and the newly formed Biden Institute (<https://www.sppa.udel.edu/bideninstitute>), a research and policy center devoted to solving the most pressing domestic policy problems facing America.

The PSYCH Department is simultaneously conducting a political psychology search (<http://apply.interfolio.com/46266>), with a 75% appointment in that department, and 25% in POSCIR. Applicants may wish to consider either position, depending on their primary discipline. The goal of this position, and others, is to strengthen the prominence and impact of collaborative interdisciplinary social science research at UD.

POSCIR, which resides within the College of Arts and Sciences, has 23 full-time faculty, nearly 850 undergraduate majors and minors and 39 graduate (mostly doctoral) students. The Department offers two undergraduate majors (Political Science and International Relations) and two undergraduate minors (Political Science and Political Communication) as well as a Ph.D. in Political Science. The department faculty covers four subfields of political science: American politics (including public law and U.S. foreign policy), comparative politics, international relations and political theory. The POSCIR faculty is methodologically diverse, and a collegial group of research-intensive scholars, outstanding teachers, engaged mentors, and committed advisers and public servants.

Applicants should submit a cover letter outlining interest in the position, academic strengths and proposed contributions to the above stated goals, and vision for a research laboratory; and a current CV that includes up to date contact information. The committee will request letters of recommendation at a later date. Questions, but not application materials, should be e-mailed to Professor Phil Jones (pejones@udel.edu), Chair, Political Psychology Search Committee. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Founded in 1743, the University of Delaware (www.udel.edu) combines tradition and innovation, offering students a rich heritage along with the latest in instructional and research technology. Located in scenic Newark, Delaware, within 2 hours of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., the University is one of the oldest land-grant institutions in the nation, one of 19 sea-grant institutions, and one of only 13 space-grant institutions. With external funding exceeding $200 million, the University ranks among the top 100 universities in federal R&D support for science and engineering and has nationally recognized research (Carnegie rated, very high research activity). With 23 academic departments, 27 interdisciplinary programs and centers, and more than 10,000 students, the College of Arts and Sciences is the largest college on campus (www.cas.udel.edu).

UD recognizes and values the importance of diversity and inclusion in enriching the employment experience of its employees and in supporting the academic mission. The University is committed to attracting and retaining employees with varying identities and backgrounds, and this is a primary goal for our department. We provide equal access to and opportunity in its programs, facilities, and employment without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression.

This institution is using Interfolio's Faculty Search to conduct this search. Applicants to this position receive a free Dossier account and can send all application materials, including confidential letters of recommendation, free of charge. Apply Now:

<https://apply.interfolio.com/46263>

The University of Delaware is an Equal Opportunity Employer which encourages applications from Minority Group Members, Women, Individuals with Disabilities and Veterans. The University's Notice of Non-Discrimination can be found at <http://www.udel.edu/aboutus/legalnotices.html>

The University of Delaware does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, disability, religion, age, veteran status, gender identity or expression, or sexual orientation in its employment, educational programs and activities, and admissions as required by Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and other applicable statutes and University policies. The University of Delaware prohibits sexual harassment, including sexual violence.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/18/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3653

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor, Gender Studies

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor with scholarly expertise in gender, broadly interpreted to embrace interdisciplinary and disciplinary approaches, to begin August 2018. The successful candidate's primary appointment will be either in their home discipline or joint with Gender Studies, as appropriate. This position is part of the first phase of a three-year College growth plan, with several cluster hires meant to support an interdisciplinary liberal arts approach.

We are open with respect to research and teaching interests. However, the successful candidate's work must engage with questions of intersectionality and we encourage those with expertise in transnational feminisms, the global south, or diasporic studies to apply. We will consider a variety of methodological approaches, although quantitative expertise would especially complement our existing strengths. We are particularly interested in applicants with PhDs in gender/women's/feminist/sexuality studies; we also welcome applications from those trained in other interdisciplinary fields, the social sciences, humanities, or natural sciences who have a graduate certificate or significant interdisciplinary training in gender studies. Receipt of the PhD is expected by the time of appointment.

Candidates should be prepared to teach an Introduction to Gender Studies course and additional courses in their areas of expertise. The teaching responsibility is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. In addition to classes and tutorials, faculty members provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior undergraduate theses/projects, and serve on baccalaureate committees. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to work collaboratively with faculty from across campus to develop the existing Gender Studies Program. Faculty are also expected to establish and maintain a strong program of research or creative work.

New College is committed to recruiting and retaining a diverse faculty interested in working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, LGBTQ+, underrepresented groups, and those whose knowledge or skills support an inclusive culture and learning environment.

Applications (submitted online at <http://www.ncf.edu/employment>) should include: a cover letter, CV, unofficial graduate transcript, description of teaching philosophy, brief course descriptions for Introduction to Gender Studies and one or two upper-level courses in your area of expertise (~300 words each), a research statement, and a statement regarding your contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment. Please also arrange to have three reference letters (at least one of which should speak to your teaching abilities) sent to: gendersearch@ncf.edu. We will begin reviewing files October 23rd, and continue until the position is filled.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, selective public honors college with a 10:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis/project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. New College is committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourages collaborative student-faculty scholarship. www.ncf.edu.

According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need reasonable accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. New College is an Equal Opportunity/Equal Access Institution.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/23/2017
Date Posted: 10/17/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3644

University of Toronto

Rank: Assistant Professor – Teaching Stream, The Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice

Assistant Professor – Teaching Stream
 The Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice
 Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto
 Closing Date: November 27th, 2017

The Munk School of Global Affairs at the University of Toronto invites applications for a teaching-stream position at the rank of Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, in the field of Peace, Conflict, and Justice. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018.

The School seeks a scholar with an emerging record of exceptional teaching and pedagogical research, with experience and a demonstrated commitment to pedagogical enquiry and teaching innovation. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in any field, with a focus on peace, conflict, and justice, by date of appointment or shortly thereafter.

Evidence of excellence in teaching is necessary, as demonstrated through strong letters of reference, teaching evaluations, and the teaching dossier also submitted here as part of the application. Candidates should also provide evidence of pedagogical research of an internationally competitive calibre, as evidenced by publications in leading journals in the field, presentations at significant conferences, and strong endorsements by referees.

The successful candidate will be expected to be committed to both undergraduate and graduate education. Applicants should also show well-articulated and innovative pedagogical practices and research and teaching interests that speak to the broad field of global peace, conflict, and justice. Areas of specialization could include post-conflict labour markets, poverty and inequality as drivers of conflict, and the effects of economic inequality. The School is particularly interested in a candidate with interests in the global south.

The successful candidate will be appointed in the Munk School of Global Affairs. The Trudeau Centre for Peace, Conflict and Justice hosts an undergraduate program that attracts outstanding students. The successful candidate would be expected to teach in the Peace, Conflict and Justice program. Collaboration with colleagues in disciplinary departments of the University of Toronto is encouraged.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply online

(<https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl?job=1701712>)

Applications should include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching dossier (including a teaching statement, course evaluations, as well as samples of syllabus), a statement outlining current and future pedagogical research interests, and a writing sample. If you have questions about this position, please contact munkschool.director@utoronto.ca. Submission guidelines can be found at <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF format.

In addition to the online submission, applicants must also arrange for at least three referees to e-mail letters (PDF format, signed, on letterhead) directly to the department via email to the attention of Professor Randall Hansen, Interim Director, Munk School of Global Affairs at the University of Toronto, at munkschool.director@utoronto.ca. Letters must be submitted by the closing date of November 27, 2017.

For more information about the Munk School of Global Affairs please visit us at www.munkschool.utoronto.ca

The University of Toronto is a preeminent research university and located at the center of one of North America's largest and the world's most cosmopolitan cities, offering the opportunity to teach, conduct research and live in one of the most vibrant intellectual and cultural settings in the world.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons / persons of colour, women, Indigenous / Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 11/27/2017

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3624

Davidson College

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Africana Studies Department at Davidson College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in Africana Studies with an emphasis in Africana politics and/or economics, starting July 1, 2018. Preference will be given to candidates who can complement our existing strengths in history, sociology, and literature by bringing expertise in the political economy of Africa and/or the African Diaspora. The successful candidate will be able to develop and teach the Africana methods course as well as Introduction to Africana Studies.

Collaborations with Political Science, Economics, Environmental Studies, Gender and Sexuality Studies, and/or Philosophy are encouraged, as are cross-listing courses with these areas. We are looking for a committed teacher-scholar who will maintain an active research agenda, participate in departmental and college-wide initiatives, advise and mentor students, supervise student research, and participate actively in curriculum building.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. (in hand before July 1, 2018) in Africana Studies, Political Science, Economics, and/or Philosophy is preferred although candidates with specializations in additional fields that are underrepresented in our department will also be considered.

Basic Functions:

We seek applicants whose research and teaching interests focus on Africana politics and/or economics. We encourage applicants with teaching and research interests in Africana Studies in one or more of the following areas: electoral politics, political theory, black political economy, development and underdevelopment theory, gerrymandering/gentrification, environmental justice, criminal justice, carceral studies, immigration, colonialism, and/or capitalism and slavery.

The candidate must show clear evidence of an active research agenda, demonstrated or potential excellence in teaching, and interest in departmental and college-wide initiatives that promote Africana Studies. Regular teaching load is five courses over two semesters, with four courses in the first year. These include Introduction to Africana Studies, 300-level methods course, and courses in the applicant's areas of expertise. The successful candidate will also mentor undergraduate research projects. The candidate is expected to participate in an active young department with a vision of Africana Studies that celebrates interdisciplinary teaching and scholarship and a transnational and diasporic focus.

Application Procedures: Deadline for submissions is December 1. All interested applicants should apply online at <http://employment.davidson.edu>. The following materials are required:

1. Letter of application describing research and teaching interests,
2. Curriculum Vitae,
3. Unofficial graduate transcripts (official ones will be required before hire),
4. Teaching dossier (1-page statement of inclusive pedagogy and 2 sample syllabi)
5. One sample publication, or article-length manuscript
6. Names and email addresses for at least three references who are prepared to provide letters of recommendation.

All questions can be directed to the Search Committee Co-Chairs, Devyn Spence Benson and Laurian Bowles at africanapoliecon@davidson.edu.

Other Information: Davidson College is a highly selective, independent liberal arts college located 20 miles north of the city of Charlotte. The College has graduated 23 Rhodes Scholars and is consistently ranked among the top liberal arts colleges in the country. Davidson faculty enjoy a low faculty-student ratio, emphasis on and appreciation of excellence in teaching, and a collegial, respectful atmosphere that honors academic achievement and integrity. Davidson is strongly committed to achieving excellence and cultural diversity, and welcomes applications from women, members of minority groups, and others who would bring additional dimensions to the college's mission.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3597

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). Each year the program selects six scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. Fellowships are awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who are expected to return to their positions, and who have demonstrated outstanding scholarly achievement and exhibit unusual intellectual promise but who are still early in their careers.

During the academic year 2018-19, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Interdependence." Food, clothes, entertainment, and the security and health of the planet depend on what distant people do for, with, and against others. Sometimes, recognition of interdependence has led to cooperation, other times to conquest or competition, and frequently to a mixture of all three. Oftentimes, new social identities and movements, national, regional, and religious, emerge in response to rising interdependence and the convergences and inequities it has produced. The goal of the 2018-19 Fung Global Fellows cohort will be to explore the ways people learned to rely on or to reject strangers far away, as well as to imagine how global relationships came to be and could be different. We invite applications from scholars whose work addresses this topic in any historical period or world region and from any disciplinary background.

The application deadline has been extended to November 20, 2017. To be eligible, applicants must have received their Ph.D. or equivalent no earlier than September 1, 2008. Fellowships will be awarded on the strength of a candidate's proposed research project, the relationship of the project to the program theme, the candidate's scholarly record and ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program. For more information on eligibility requirements and the application process, see <http://piirs.princeton.edu/funggfp/>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/20/2017

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3600

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Director of Global Studies Program

Vanderbilt University invites applications from established scholars in the social sciences and the humanities to serve as the inaugural Director of a new Global Studies Program in the College of Arts & Science. We seek applicants with proven leadership abilities, whose research and teaching engage issues of global concern informed by interdisciplinary insights, as well as firm grounding and demonstrated accomplishments in a discipline. Substantive themes of interest include, but are not limited to, migration and diaspora; health, environment, and sustainability; political economy; global humanities; and conflict and peace studies, either current or historical.

We anticipate that the appointment will be made at the Associate or Full Professor rank in the Global Studies Program and an appropriate home department. All applications must include 1) a cover letter, 2) curriculum vitae (including relevant language, method, and field experience), 3) research statement, 4) a recent piece of scholarship, and 5) a list of three references. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Interested candidates must apply online at <https://apply.interfolio.com/45834>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/7/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3578

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Immigration Policy Lab, Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Position: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (www.immigrationlab.org). The Immigration Policy Lab conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and cutting-edge analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can inspire solutions and ultimately improve lives.

The Immigration Policy Lab reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civictech startup.

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of projects related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, Jeremy Weinstein, and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. Additionally, the postdoc will work closely with faculty, staff and partner organizations in developing and designing innovative policies and programs to pilot and evaluate. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects related to immigration policy evaluation.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science program, with a preference for Political Science, Economics, or Sociology. She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Appointment: The initial appointment will be for one year beginning between January and June 2018, with an expected renewal for a second year contingent on satisfactory performance and funding. Salary is negotiable and based on experience. Benefits are provided. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications will only be accepted through AcademicJobsOnline.com (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10036>, ID 10036). Applications should be submitted by November 17, 2017, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2017).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3569

University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Rank: Chair, Department of Africana Studies

Specializations: African American Politics, Africa, Latin American

Chair, Department of Africana Studies, University of North Carolina at Charlotte

Senior level twelve-month appointment beginning July 1, 2018.

Applications are invited from candidates in any disciplinary tradition whose teaching and research demonstrate a commitment to Africana Studies as an interdisciplinary enterprise and a vision that holistically embraces the experiences of peoples of African descent with emphasis on Africa, the United States, the Caribbean, and Latin America. Candidates should (1) have a doctoral degree, (2) be a tenured associate or full professor with credentials and experience that are appropriate for a senior level appointment at UNC Charlotte, (3) have administrative experience that demonstrates potential for success as a department chair, (4) have a commitment to the education of the department's diverse student population, and (5) have a strong interest in community engagement. A record of success in securing program-related funding is highly desirable. Finalists will be asked during their screening interview to discuss how the topics of diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their teaching and research.

The Department of Africana Studies at UNC Charlotte has eight core faculty whose disciplinary affiliations include both the humanities and social sciences; the department also has close curricular and faculty connections with departments and programs across the University. More than 25 faculty in other units are affiliated with the Africana Studies department. The department enjoys a collegial and collaborative culture, and its faculty are committed to advancing scholarship, and serving students and community. The department offers a B.A. in Africana Studies (with an optional Concentration in Health and Environment), a minor in Africana Studies, and a Graduate Certificate in Africana Studies.

UNC Charlotte is a rapidly growing doctoral-granting urban university located in the largest metropolitan area between Washington DC, and Atlanta. The University is a Carnegie Foundation Community Engagement campus. Close to 29,000 culturally diverse students currently are enrolled at the University. As the largest college at UNC Charlotte, the College of Liberal Arts & Sciences houses 20 departments in the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and natural sciences, as well as 25 applied research centers and interdisciplinary programs. It offers eight doctoral degrees, 36 master's degrees and graduate certificates, and 34 undergraduate degrees.

Applications must be made electronically at <https://jobs.uncc.edu> (position number 005161). We are asking applicants to submit a letter of interest including your vision for the department, curriculum vitae, and the names of three referees. AA/EOE employer: minorities, persons with disabilities, and women are especially encouraged to apply. Screening of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. For more information please contact the chair of the search committee, Dr. Gregory Weeks at gbweeks@uncc.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3562

Rider University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Intelligence, Criminal Justice, International Security

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

Rider University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of homeland security politics with emphases on counter terrorism, intelligence studies, public policy, crime, or national security to start Fall 2018. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, or related discipline, be broadly trained, have strong communication skills, a commitment to both teaching and research in the liberal arts environment, the ability to establish a research program that can engage undergraduate and graduate students and be able to teach courses on any of the following areas: military operations, law enforcement policy at the national level, disaster management, conflict management, counter-terrorism, intelligence gathering, national preparedness for conventional, hybrid, unconventional war or homeland security policy challenges. Prior teaching experience and post-doctoral research are desirable. Field experience is also preferable.

The Rider University community is composed of faculty, staff and students from a wide range of culturally diverse backgrounds. Applicants should be experienced with, and committed to work in and with, such a diverse population. Rider University is a private, coeducational university of nearly 4,500 students located between Philadelphia and New York, near Princeton, New Jersey. Rider is ranked in the top tier of northern regional universities offering master's degrees by US News and World Report and is ranked as "A Best 378 College" by the Princeton Review.

All applicants must complete an on-line application at www.rider.edu/hr, 'Employment Opportunities'; 'Create Application'; and attach letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and goals, and a detailed statement of research interests, plans, goals, and needs. Undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation also are required and can be sent separately to: Associate Director, Human Resources, 2083 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648. Please reference Position # 312261.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 3558

New College of Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor (open field) in Migration Studies

New College of Florida invites applications for a tenure-track position as Assistant Professor focusing on Migration Studies. This position is open with regard to field of Ph.D, and the appointment will be in that field with the opportunity of a joint appointment in another field or interdisciplinary program. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline, teaching experience, a career interest in liberal arts education, and a vibrant research agenda. The person filling this line will be expected to teach courses on migration and build and coordinate interdisciplinary initiatives related to this subject, as well as contribute to the curriculum in the field of appointment. Experience using and teaching GIS and a willingness to guide students in developing GIS research skills is highly valued. The candidate must have completed the Ph.D. by the start of employment in August 2018.

Situated on the Gulf Coast of Florida and Sarasota Bay, New College is a nationally recognized, highly selective public honors college with an 11:1 student/faculty ratio. Students are intellectually independent and highly motivated. Undergraduate research has a central role in the curriculum, and a senior thesis or project is required of all students. Students receive narrative evaluations in lieu of grades. We are committed to excellence in undergraduate teaching and research and encourage collaborative student-faculty scholarship. The teaching load is two courses per semester plus sponsoring individual and group tutorials. Faculty members also provide academic advising, supervise independent study projects, sponsor senior theses, and serve on baccalaureate committees. Professors are expected to maintain a program of research or creative work. We are particularly interested in candidates with a commitment to innovative undergraduate liberal arts teaching.

Candidates should apply on-line at <https://www.ncf.edu/employment> and upload the following: a cover letter; c.v.; statements regarding teaching philosophy, the candidate's contributions or approaches to supporting an inclusive culture and learning environment, and research interests; syllabi; teaching evaluations; one writing sample (article or chapter length); and unofficial graduate transcript(s). In addition, please ask at least three references to send signed letters on letterhead electronically to MigrationSearch@ncf.edu or in hard copy to: Migration Search, Division of Social Sciences, New College of Florida, 5800 Bay Shore Rd, Sarasota, FL 34243. According to Florida law, applications and meetings regarding applications are open to the public upon request. Applicants who need accommodations in order to participate in the selection process must notify the chair of the search committee 48 hours in advance of a meeting. For questions about the application process, please contact Ms. Kristi Fecteau at kfecteau@ncf.edu. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3551

Florida State University

Rank: Teaching Faculty 1

Title: Teaching Faculty I 9 Mo SAL
 Closing Date: 12/01/17

Florida State University – College of Social Science and Public Policy, Interdisciplinary Programs in Social Science
 Position Description

The College of Social Sciences and Public Policy at Florida State University invites applications for a non-tenure track teaching position in the field of Interdisciplinary Social Science (ISS). This is a unique position designed to integrate disciplinary education and related activities within the College. The successful applicant will have a strong interdisciplinary orientation grounded in Political Science, Sociology, Economics, Geography, Urban and Regional Planning or Public Administration. He or she will work with faculty in several disciplines to create and teach courses for majors in Interdisciplinary Social Science that demonstrate how insights from multiple disciplines bring value to the analysis of public policy issues and that emphasize evidence based decision making.

Additional responsibilities will include mentoring and advising students, engaging ISS majors in undergraduate research and policy seminars, internship opportunities and similar activities. The position will begin in August, 2018.

Application Requirements

Applicants should hold a PhD in one of the disciplines of social science and have interdisciplinary teaching and research experience. Preferred qualifications include demonstrated commitment to and success in teaching undergraduates, as well as experience with contemporary instructional technology and on-line teaching applications.

Our Program

The Florida State University program in Interdisciplinary Social Science strives to engender individually driven social goals that guide student vision and learning attainment. To that end, we focus our efforts on providing an environment which promotes holistic understandings of complex social dynamics through the integration of various social, economic and political perspectives. We are committed to the creation of an environment of creative learning based on the goals and tenets of interdisciplinary study.

For more information about the Florida State University program for Interdisciplinary Social Science please visit <http://www.coss.fsu.edu/iss/>.

FSU is an Equal Opportunity/Access/Affirmative Action/Pro Disabled & Veteran Employer and educational provider committed to a policy of non-discrimination for any member of the University's community. http://www.hr.fsu.edu/PDF/Publications/diversity/EEO_Statement.pdf

How to Apply:

Applicants should provide one pdf attachment that includes a letter of application, CV and contact information for three recommendations. Apply at Florida State University at <https://jobs.fsu.edu>. If you are a current FSU employee, apply via myFSU > Self Service. Review of applications will begin on December 1, 2017.

For additional information please visit our website: <https://jobs.fsu.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3512

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Program in Latin American Studies (PLAS) is seeking candidates from a mix of disciplines who are engaged in scholarly or creative work on topics related to Latin American Studies to fill one to two Postdoctoral [or more senior] Research Associate positions. Candidates will be expected to devote themselves to research and writing, and may teach not more than 1 course per semester. They also will be invited to participate regularly in the scholarly activities of the PLAS intellectual community.

Appointments are for a 12-month term, starting September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal, contingent on satisfactory performance and continued funding. A competitive salary commensurate with experience and excellent benefits will be offered. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to Apply:

For full consideration, applications should be submitted by January 5, 2018, 11:59 p.m. EST. All candidates must apply online and submit the below materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/1902>.

- 1) Cover letter
- 2) Curriculum vitae
- 3) Statement of research interests (one-two pages)
- 4) A representative sample of recent work (under 30 written pages or equivalent in the candidate's professional medium; for artistic work, links within a PDF preferred).
- 5) Names and contact information for three references (the Program will contact them, if needed, at a later date)

Required Qualifications: Doctoral degree. Academic excellence, potential to bring new ideas and approaches to Princeton University and to interact successfully with a broad range of faculty and students.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 9/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3509

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Purdue UniversityRank: Professor of Political Science

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenured full professor with the area of expertise open. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an excellent record of research and teaching in any subfield of political science. We are especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include a record of attracting external funding; teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required. Credentials commensurate with a full professor are required. A successful candidate is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate level courses.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus and anticipates developing a professional master's program in public policy. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include a letter discussing the applicant's interest in the position and a curriculum vitae. Letters of recommendation may be requested at a later date.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to search committee chair Dr. S. Laurel Weldon, weldons@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/7/2017

Date Posted: 9/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3460

Princeton UniversityRank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3447

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential "core" of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position.

The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant's academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3419

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3407

University of Colorado, Boulder

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and the Program in Jewish Studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder invite applications for a tenure-track appointment at the Assistant Professor level in Religion and Politics or Minorities in Politics or Jewish Studies. The appointment begins in August 2018. The search will focus on but will not be limited to scholars with a research interest in Jewish Studies. Priority will be given to candidates whose teaching interests include Jews and Judaism in the public sphere, anti-Semitism in American politics, or the politics of the Jewish experience in America, for example. The position will be fully rostered in Political Science, with teaching split evenly between the two academic units. Because the position requires substantial undergraduate teaching in Jewish Studies, the successful candidate must have demonstrable strength and interest in teaching in courses in the area of Jewish Studies. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to diversity and equality in education and employment. Members of underrepresented groups are especially encouraged to apply. Applications are accepted electronically at <https://www.jobsatcu.com>, posting #10194, and should include a letter of interest along with a current CV, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names and email addresses of three references. Candidates who have completed a PhD in political science and those who are ABD may apply. ABDs will be hired at the instructor level and will be allowed up to two years to complete the PhD. PhDs will be hired at the Assistant Professor level. Please direct inquiries to the Political Science/Jewish Studies Search Committee, Department of Political Science, 333 UCB, University of Colorado, Boulder, CO 80309-0333. See www.colorado.edu/ArtsSciences/Jobs/ for full job description.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3411

Stanford University, Graduate School of Business

Rank: Faculty positions in Political Economy

The Graduate School of Business invites applications for tenure-track positions at all ranks beginning September 1, 2018. The positions are for scholars of exceptional caliber who will strengthen the political economy group's research and teaching and make a distinctive programmatic contribution to the Graduate School of Business. The political economy group at the GSB is a collaboration of economists and political scientists. We welcome applications from across political economy and political science broadly construed, both theoretical and empirical, and focusing on developed as well as developing countries. Outstanding research and teaching skills are essential. Applicants at all ranks will be considered and must have a PhD or expect to complete one before September 1, 2018.

Applicants should submit their applications electronically by visiting the web site <http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/recruiting> and uploading their curriculum vitae, research papers and publications, and teaching evaluations, if applicable, on that site. Each applicant must upload their files and arrange for three letters or recommendation to be submitted by November 30, 2017. For an application to be considered complete, it must contain a CV, a job market paper and three letters of recommendation. Please note that we will be reviewing and considering applications as they come in. For questions regarding the application process, please send an email to Faculty_Recruiter@gsb.stanford.edu.

Stanford is an equal employment opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 11/30/2017

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3377

University of Hawaii, Manoa

Rank: Assistant Professor

Job Announcement: Assistant Professor (Indigenous and Native Hawaiian Politics)

Position Number: #84121

Date Posted: 08/01/2017

Closing Date: Continuous - application review begins 01/02/2018

Monthly Type: 9-Month

Tenure Track: Tenure track

Full Time/Part Time: Full Time

Temporary/Permanent: Permanent

Funding Type: General

Other Conditions: To begin on 08/01/2018, pending position clearance and availability of funds.

The College of Social Sciences and the Political Science Department at the University of Hawaii at Manoa have strongly supported the growth of Native Hawaiian and Indigenous politics as areas of research and teaching. At the heart of the College's vision for a globally-connected Hawaiian Place of Learning lies an ethos of Aloha 'Aina. The College of Social Sciences seeks applications from interested and qualified candidates for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor rank to sustain and grow this area of focus within the department and college. We seek scholars who approach Native Hawaiian and Indigenous politics from a critical lens, with an emphasis on engaged scholarship and community engagement. We welcome scholars with interdisciplinary training and research experience.

Duties: Candidates will be expected to teach courses in Native Hawaiian politics, Hawai'i politics and Indigenous politics; advise and mentor undergraduate and graduate students, develop and conduct high-quality research, sustain strong community relations for teaching and research purposes, work collaboratively towards solving challenging and complex problems in Hawai'i and beyond, support the College's Native Hawaiian Initiative, and participate in departmental, university, and professional activities, with a particular focus on developing interdisciplinary partnerships to advance the Indigenous politics concentration. The candidate will be expected to strengthen the college and university focus on Hawai'i and Oceania. Other duties as assigned.

Minimum qualifications:

Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field relevant to the position, with a research specialization in Native Hawaiian issues [ABD with all requirements for degree completed by date of hire considered] from an accredited college or university or foreign equivalent. Demonstrated ability to teach on Native Hawaiian and Indigenous political theories and issues. Demonstrated commitment to Native Hawaiian communities and/or political issues. Demonstrated record of peer-reviewed research commensurate with time in field.

Desirable qualifications:

Teaching experience with innovative educational strategies, attentive to issues of diversity; Ability to work effectively as part of an interdisciplinary team in cooperative endeavors; Ability to supplement the Indigenous politics concentration with a focus on Oceania/Pacific Islands, political theory, Indigenous governance, Indigenous epistemologies, environmental politics, and/or futures studies.

Pay range: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

To Apply: Electronic applications only. All documents should be uploaded at this link:

<http://adminserv.socialsciences.manoa.hawaii.edu/pols-84121/>. Submit a curriculum vitae; a writing sample in which you are sole author or primary author; a statement of teaching that includes areas of strength in teaching; a sample course syllabus; a cover letter indicating how you satisfy the minimum and desirable qualifications, as well as how you would enhance the College's Native Hawaiian Initiative; the names and contact information of three professional references; and official transcripts (copies are acceptable, however, official transcripts will be required upon hire). Questions about the position can be sent to Kathy Ferguson, Chair of the Department of Political Science, at polisci@hawaii.edu.

Review of applications will begin Jan 2, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Applications received by that date will be given priority. Incomplete applications will not be considered.

The University of Hawaii is an EEO/AA Employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3245

University of Michigan

Rank: Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship

Fellowship period: September 2018 – August 2020

Application deadline: January 15, 2018

The Weiser Center for Emerging Democracies (WCED) at the University of Michigan invites postdoctoral scholars to apply for the Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellowship. The two-year fellowship supports research on the broad historical, political, economic, and societal conditions under which democracies emerge—and autocracies endure.

Up to three awards are available for the 2018-20 fellowship. Emerging Democracies Postdoctoral Fellows are expected to focus on their own research, participate in WCED workshops and events, and present at least one public lecture during their fellowship year, while in residence at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. A teaching opportunity may be possible during the second year of the fellowship, if desired.

We welcome excellent applicants from all disciplines. Fellows must have successfully defended and filed their dissertation before beginning the fellowship. Eligibility is restricted to those who have received their PhD after January 1, 2016.

Fellowships carry an annual salary of $50,000 and up to $7,000 per year in research funds during the post-doctoral appointment. Fellowship recipients will be eligible for U-M health, dental, and life insurance options (beginning September 1, 2018 through August 31, 2020). Fellows have full access to U-M library resources.

Candidates will be required to submit:

- A two-page research plan that outlines the research project and how the fellow will spend his/her time during the fellowship year.
- Curriculum Vitae.
- A scholarly writing sample, such as a dissertation chapter, conference paper, or journal article.
- Two letters of recommendation.

Fellowship applications must be received by January 15, 2018, 11:59 pm EST. Applicants will be notified in March 2018.

Application link available at <https://www.ii.umich.edu/wced/postdoctoral-fellows.html>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 9/1/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3235

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long BeachRank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3314

University of California Irvine

Rank: Lecturer - International Studies

Specializations: International Security, Africa, Gender Politics & Policy

International Studies
 University of California, Irvine
 School of Social Sciences - International Studies Lecturers

The Program in International Studies is establishing a pool of qualified applicants as Lecturers to teach courses in International Studies, including but not limited to International Political Economy, Regional Studies (Middle East and Africa), Humanitarianism, NGOs, Public Policy, Gender, and Global Trade.

These positions may be available during Winter 2018 and/or Spring 2018 quarters. We are seeking candidates with strong teaching credentials who can contribute to the quality of our undergraduate program. The number of courses available varies by quarter and year.

Rank: Lecturer
Salary Range: $5,700 - $6,200 per course
Qualifications: Ph.D. preferred in the related area of International Studies disciplines.

Positions May Be Available: Winter 2018 and Spring 2018
 Completed applications must include: a cover letter; curriculum vitae; statement which addresses past and/or potential contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion and three letters of recommendation. Candidates may also provide a writing sample of recent research. Submit application materials via UC Irvine's online application system, RECRUIT, located at:

<https://recruit.ap.uci.edu/apply/JPF04263>

The University of California, Irvine is an equal opportunity employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Closing Dates:
 Winter 2018 Quarter, November 30, 2017
 Spring 2018 Quarter, January 30, 2018

The University of California, Irvine is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer advancing inclusive excellence. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age, protected veteran status, or other protected categories covered by the UC nondiscrimination policy.

Start Date: Winter 2018
Application Deadline: 2/1/2018
Date Posted: 8/28/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3286

Yale University

Rank: Open Rank Search in Comparative Political Economy

The Department of Political Science at Yale University invites applications for an open rank search in Comparative Political Economy. The appointment will begin on July 1, 2018. Ph.D. or equivalent degree required at the time of hire. Applications including a cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation (if untenured), and a writing sample should be uploaded to <http://apply.interfolio.com/43427>.

Review of applications and nominations will begin September 15, 2017, and to guarantee full consideration your file should be complete by this date. Please contact Lani Colianna (lani.colianna@yale.edu or 203-432-5238), Sr. Administrative Assistant for the Political Science Department, if you have questions about the application process.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/7/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3135

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/1/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3045

College of William & Mary

Rank: Assistant Professor of Government: Middle East and North Africa

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Department of Government at the College of William and Mary seeks applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level in politics of the Middle East and North Africa. Applicants from all subfields of political science or cognate disciplines are encouraged to apply. We are especially interested in candidates with interests in race, ethnicity, diaspora or migration politics. The successful candidate will have excellent preparation; will possess a demonstrated commitment to producing high-level scholarship and outstanding classroom teaching; will help the Department bring new perspectives to its research profile and curricular offerings; and will be interested in mentoring student research or conducting collaborative research with students. Teaching will include a mix of lecture and seminar courses at the undergraduate level and, for interested candidates, also can include opportunities to teach at the master's level in the W&M Public Policy Program.

Applicants must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a cognate discipline at the time of appointment (August 10, 2018). Applicants must be prepared to teach Middle East politics to undergraduates at the intermediate and advanced level. Demonstrated interest or previous experience teaching research methods (introductory level and intermediate level qualitative or quantitative methods) is preferred but not required.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.wm.edu>. Submit a curriculum vitae, a cover letter, statement of research, teaching interests, evidence of teaching effectiveness, transcript (unofficial is acceptable for initial application), a writing sample, and a statement describing previous professional experiences or future plans (or both) that demonstrate a commitment to diversity and inclusion. You will be prompted to submit online the names and email addresses of three references who will be contacted with instructions for how to submit a letter of reference. For full consideration, submit application materials by the review date, September 15, 2017. Applications received after the review date will be considered if needed.

Information on the Department of Government is at <http://www.wm.edu/as/government/>. We are one of the largest majors on campus and our faculty participate in and receive support from various research centers on campus as well. Our faculty also contribute to interdisciplinary programs such as Africana Studies, Environmental Science and Policy, Gender Sexuality and Women's Studies, Global Studies (which includes Asian and Middle Eastern Studies), International Relations, and Public Policy. William & Mary is located in Williamsburg, Virginia, convenient to Richmond (the state capital) and Washington, DC.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 9/15/2017

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3018

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant or Associate Professor in Faculty Cluster for Cyber Security and Privacy

Subfield(s): Other, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Defense, Intelligence, Science & Technology

The University of Central Florida (UCF) has established a focus area in cyber security and privacy, as one of several interdisciplinary clusters established to strengthen its academic offerings and research mission. In support of this effort, we are recruiting faculty in the broad area of cyber security and privacy. We plan to hire one tenure-track assistant or associate professor for the UCF cyber security and privacy cluster. This position has a start date of August 8, 2018.

This will be an interdisciplinary position that will be expected to strengthen both the cluster and a chosen tenure home department, as well as a possible combination of joint appointments. A strong advantage of this position is the ability of the candidate to choose a combination of units from the cluster for their appointment. (See <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty/cluster/cyber-security-and-privacy/> for a complete list of all the units involved.) Both individual and interdisciplinary infrastructure and startup support will be provided with this new position.

The ideal junior candidates will have a strong background in cyber security and privacy, and be on an upward leadership trajectory in these areas. They will have research impact, as reflected in high-quality publications and the ability to build a well-funded research program. All relevant technical areas will be considered. We are looking for a team player who can help bring together current campus efforts in cyber security or privacy. In particular, we are looking for someone who will work at the intersection of several areas, such as: (a) hardware and IoT security, (b) explaining and predicting human behavior, creating policies, studying ethics, and ensuring privacy, (c) cryptography and theory of security or privacy, or (d) tools, methods, training, and evaluation of human behavior.

Minimum qualifications include a Ph.D., terminal degree, or foreign degree equivalent from an accredited institution in an area appropriate to the cluster at the time of appointment, and a record of high impact research related to cyber security and privacy, demonstrated by a strong scholarly and/or funding record. A history of working with teams, especially teams that span multiple disciplines, is a strongly preferred qualification. The position will carry a rank commensurate with the candidate's prior experience and record.

UCF is one of the nation's largest universities with a diverse student body of more than 64,000 students and has grown substantially in size, quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years. Today, the university offers more than 200 degree programs at its main campus in Orlando. UCF is an economic engine, attracting and supporting industries vital to the region's future while providing students with real-world experiences that help them succeed after graduation. UCF's Orlando location also puts it at the center of the Florida High Tech Corridor. The corridor has an excellent industrial base that includes software, defense, space, simulation and training, and a world-renowned entertainment industry. Adjacent to UCF is a thriving research park that conducts over $2 billion in funded research, hosting more than 100 high-technology companies and UCF's Institute for Simulation and Training. The Central Florida area is designated by the State of Florida as the Center of Excellence in Modeling and Simulation. UCF also has an accredited medical school, which was established in 2006. UCF is a neighbor to large corporations, such as Disney, Harris Corporation, Lockheed Martin, Siemens, and many others, all of which have a strong interest in cyber security and privacy. Great weather, easy access to the seashore, one of the largest convention centers in the nation, and one of the world's best airports are just a few features that make Orlando an ideal location. We encourage you to learn more about UCF at <http://www.ucf.edu/faculty>.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/50404> and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter, candidates must address their background in cyber security and privacy, and identify the department or departments for their potential tenure home and the joint appointments they would desire. When applying, have all documents ready so they can be attached at that time, as the system does not allow resubmittal to update applications.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

For more information about this position, please contact the Cluster's Search Committee Chair, Gary T. Leavens, at Leavens@ucf.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3019

University of Alaska, Anchorage

Rank: UAA Post-Doctoral Fellow for Political Science

Political Science Professor Landry Signé is looking for a postdoctoral political economist to assist on the project entitled "Why African Nations Fail: The Political Economy of Economic Growth and Democratic Development," partly funded by the Andrew Carnegie fellowship for 2016-2018. He is conducting a systematic comparative analysis of the evolution, determinants, performance, and impacts of all African economies, governance and political systems from the pre-colonial era to date, combining quantitative and qualitative methods.

The successful candidate may have background in economics, political science, statistics, international affairs, or a related field. Experience in using statistical software, creating and analyzing large datasets, geocoding, and collaboration with research teams are desirable. Consideration is highly selective and limited to candidates of exceptional scholarly promise and strong orientation toward rigorous mathematical approaches to economics and political science. Candidates with limited but reasonable statistical skills, who have an outstanding understanding of Africa, and superior qualitative and mix method and writing skills may also be considered. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellence writing, editorial, and organizational skills; and expertise in causality models, barro regressions, experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science. The postdoctoral political economist is also expected to contribute to group publications, both disciplinary, and interdisciplinary.

Although employed by the Department of Political Science of the University of Alaska Anchorage, the candidate may be fully hosted as a visiting scholar in one of the centers (upon their approval) where Professor Signé anticipates periods of residency during his Andrew Carnegie Fellowship (Stanford University, a New York or Washington D.C. university or research center, and possibly Harvard University). Being hosted in their home city is possible if the candidate lives in a city where one of the five largest libraries with African resources is hosted.

This position may be part or full time.

Qualifications

1. Ph.D. in economics, political science, statistics, or a related social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2017 or during fall 2017.

2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise.
3. A proven ability to work expeditiously, independently, collaboratively, and prolifically.
4. Proven knowledge or interest for African economies, governance, development, or political systems.

TO APPLY, PLEASE VISIT: <http://careers.alaska.edu/cw/en-us/job/506331/uaa-postdoctoral-fellow-for-political-science>

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/13/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 2987

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Methodology, Other

Specializations: Political Behavior, Political Psychology, Political Communication

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) seeks a postdoctoral research fellow for the 2018-2019 academic year. The fellow will work with Professor of Government Brendan Nyhan and be housed in and affiliated with QSS, an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Applicants should have a proven record of research success; excellent writing and organizational skills; and expertise in experimental design, applied statistics, and/or computational social science.

The QSS fellow will work with Nyhan on new and ongoing projects in areas including studies of misperceptions and fact-checking in politics and health. Project work will be determined in consultation with the fellow based on their skills and interests. In addition, the fellow will conduct their own research with mentoring from Nyhan and other faculty associated with QSS and participate in the intellectual life of QSS by working with QSS faculty and honors students on ongoing research, attending seminars and workshops, and presenting research results.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of Nyhan and the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in a social science discipline or expected Ph.D. by September 2018
2. Related substantive research interests and methodological expertise
3. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth

- 3) Three letters of reference
- 4) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2017. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42855.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 7/31/2017
Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2963

Dartmouth College

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow in the Program in Quantitative Social Science

The Program in Quantitative Social Science (QSS) at Dartmouth College is pleased to announce that it is searching for up to three postdoctoral fellows for the 2018-19 academic year. QSS is an interdisciplinary program that integrates modern statistical, computational, and mathematical tools with social science questions. Each fellow should be highly motivated, collegial, and able to work independently on a research agenda that is grounded in quantitative social science.

During the 2018-19 academic year, QSS fellows will participate in the intellectual life of the program by interacting with each other, with QSS faculty, and with undergraduate students pursuing a minor or major in QSS. Fellows will also attend seminars and workshops and are expected to present their own research on a regular basis. There are many postdoctoral fellows at Dartmouth College, and QSS fellows will be part of a large community on campus.

The annual stipend for each QSS fellow is $50,000. The fellowship can be extended through the 2019-20 academic year with the approval of the QSS Chair. Each fellow will receive a one-time $5,000 account for equipment, travel, and research materials. There may also be an opportunity to teach a one-quarter course with an extra stipend with the approval of the QSS chair.

Qualifications:

1. Ph.D. in any discipline or expected Ph.D. by September, 2018
2. Substantive interest in any social science field
3. Research interests that strongly intersect statistical, computational, or mathematical methods
4. A proven ability to work both independently and collaboratively
5. A demonstrated interest in interdisciplinary research

Application Instructions

Application instructions:

- 1) Curriculum vitae that includes all publications
- 2) Statement of research interests (two pages or fewer) that includes a short description of the research the applicant would like to pursue while in residence at Dartmouth
- 3) Names of Dartmouth faculty of interest to the applicant
- 4) Three letters of reference
- 5) A paper written in English, either published or unpublished

Applications will be reviewed starting on October 1, 2018. Interested individuals can apply at the following URL: apply.interfolio.com/42907

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/11/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 2964

POLITICAL THEORY

U.S. Naval Academy

Rank: Resident Fellowship in Ethics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Normative Political Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory

Resident Fellowship in Ethics

Vice Admiral James B. Stockdale Center for Ethical Leadership
 U.S. Naval Academy

The U.S. Naval Academy's Stockdale Center invites applications for its annual Resident Fellowship Program for academic year 2018-2019.

The Secretary of the Navy and the Superintendent of the Naval Academy established the Center in 1998 to be a thought leader in the field of military ethics and leadership and serve the Naval Academy, the Naval Service and national institutions of influence.

Minimum qualifications: dissertation phase of a Ph.D. program in a humanities or social science area and U.S. citizenship. Ideal candidates will be published Ph.D. holders with university teaching experience in ethics, political theory, international relations, public policy, and/or history. We are especially interested in scholars familiar with the literature on human rights, moral virtue and/or the just war theory.

The Stockdale Center anticipates selecting up to three residential fellows, whose focus will be a weekly seminar devoted to defense-related ethics topics. Fellows will also have the opportunity to conduct additional research projects in cooperation with the Naval Academy's civilian and military faculty members.

Application review will begin January 1, 2018. Click here to be directed to the full advertisement on the United States Naval Academy Human Resources website, which includes application instructions: <https://www.usna.edu/HRO/jobinfo/EthicsFellow18.php>.

The United States Naval Academy is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3840

Hillsdale College

Rank: Politics Faculty Position (Open Rank)

Subfield(s): Political Theory, International Relations, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Thought: Historical, Foreign Policy

The Department of Politics and The Van Andel Graduate School at Hillsdale College invite application for a tenure-track faculty position (rank open), beginning August, 2018. The Department's needs are greatest in Classical Political Philosophy, so candidates with a credible record of teaching and scholarly work in that area will receive strongest consideration. Candidates with an additional specialty in International Relations, Comparative Politics, or American Foreign Policy will be prioritized. Applicants should be aware that their teaching responsibilities will range from an introductory core course for freshmen and sophomores to graduate level classes. Since the Department services a graduate program, applicants will need to have a record of scholarly publication, and should have a Ph.D. in hand.

Hillsdale College is a small (1400 students) independent college of liberal arts, dedicated to excellence in teaching and advising students. Applicants should familiarize themselves with the College's mission statement: <https://www.hillsdale.edu/about/mission/>. The College also considers itself a trustee of our Western philosophical and theological inheritance tracing to Athens and Jerusalem, a heritage finding its clearest expression in the American experiment of self-government under law.

Complete applications will include: (a) letter of application; (b) curriculum vitae; (c) transcripts; (d) three up-to-date letters of recommendation, (e) a statement of teaching and research interests; (f) samples of publications or other scholarly manuscripts. Within the statement of teaching and research interests there should be a detailed response to the College's mission statement that includes a discussion of the applicant's ability to teach in light of its commitments. For further information on the undergraduate and graduate programs, visit www.hillsdale.edu and gradschool.hillsdale.edu.

Review of applications will begin on January 15th and continue until the position is filled. Send all application materials by email or regular mail to Dr. Ronald J. Pestritto, Graduate Dean and Professor of Politics, Hillsdale College, 33 E. College Street, Hillsdale, MI 49242. Email submissions may be sent to PoliticsSearch@hillsdale.edu. Salary competitive. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/15/2018
Date Posted: 11/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3830

Tulane University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The Center for Inter-American Policy and Research (CIPR) invites applications for four (4) research fellowships for the Academic Year of 2018-2019, two with program administration duties and two with light teaching. Applications from the social sciences in the fields of international relations, international political economy, comparative politics, political sociology, and policy studies are encouraged. Latin American expertise and Spanish or Portuguese fluency required. Fellows will be selected based on intellectual merit, experience, the potential impact of their planned research for CIPR programs, and teaching needs of the host department.

Fellowships are one-year, residential, full-time appointments with a stipend of $47,500 plus benefits. Travel and moving expenses are not supported. In addition to their planned research, applicants must be prepared to carry out either program administration or adjunct teaching responsibilities. In the program administration track, fellows will be expected to work with CIPR's director in the Commitment to Equity Project, and/or to develop programmatic content and projects in Inter-American relations, comparative political economy, citizenship rights, human development, and others. The other fellowship carries a one course per semester adjunct teaching load in the department of the fellow's primary discipline and in the candidate's major subfields, without administrative responsibilities. In both cases, specific responsibilities will be defined jointly during the initial phase of the appointment.

QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants must plan to complete their Ph.D. no later than May 2018. Recent graduates with no longer than three years since receiving their Ph.D. are especially encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Application must be submitted via Interfolio by visiting <https://apply.interfolio.com/47253> and must include (1) a curriculum vitae; (2) a cover letter describing research interests and intended research at CIPR if selected, fit to the program and teaching experience; (3) a graduate transcript; (4) two recommendation letters; (5) a writing sample; and (6) teaching evaluations if available. For further information please contact Ludovico Feoli, Director, Center for Inter-American Policy Research. Applications will be reviewed starting December 31, 2017 until the positions are filled.

Start Date: Summer 2018
Application Deadline: 12/31/2017
Date Posted: 11/28/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3831

Dartmouth College

Rank: U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security Post-doctoral Fellowship

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

U.S. Foreign Policy and International Security Fellows are selected to spend a minimum of ten months and up to one year in-residence at Dartmouth on research and writing about international issues related to one of the Dickey Center's research areas: environment, health, human development, gender, and security. Scholars from all disciplines, including political science and history, are welcome to apply.

Fellows will utilize their year at Dartmouth to maximize progress on their research, build contacts with other Fellows, Dartmouth faculty and with policy networks, and contribute to the intellectual life of the College. All Fellows are assigned a faculty mentor. Faculty mentors are intended to provide professional advice for career building and integrating into the Dartmouth intellectual community as well as substantive expertise.

Fellows typically will:

- Give a faculty seminar on the work discussed in the Dickey Center's seminar series on international politics and foreign policy
- Present work in the departments of Government, History, and in other seminar series at the College
- Participate with other Fellows in an undergraduate course, taught with a Dartmouth faculty member. Fellows also often make guest appearances in other classes, and interact with undergraduate students in Dickey Center student groups or other organization as interest warrants

- Participate in events for Fellows organized throughout the year – topics will be determined on the basis of mutual interest and perceived need

Fellows are provided with an office and access to Dartmouth faculty and resources. They must be in-residence during their fellowship and participate in Dickey Center seminars and events.

How to apply

Dartmouth College is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer with a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion. We prohibit discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, disability, veteran status, marital status, or any other legally protected status.

The application period for the 2018-19 fellowship is now open. Applications will be accepted until January 2, 2018. While scholars at any stage of their career are eligible, applications from recent recipients of a PhD or equivalent degree are especially encouraged to apply.

Applicants should submit the following documents:

- A curriculum vitae
- Research abstract (200 words max.)
- A statement of up to 1,500 words describing the proposed research project
- A writing sample (50 pp. max)
- Two confidential letters of reference
- Graduate school transcript (Unofficial transcripts are acceptable. Junior faculty and professionals may include a transcript, but are not required to do so.)
- A confidential financial statement on a separate page indicating the applicant's other sources of support available during fellowship period and – for current faculty only – current salary.

Application materials should be submitted electronically at: apply.interfolio.com/47094. Questions may be sent to: Thomas.K.Candon@dartmouth.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3822

University of Calgary

Rank: Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in The Politics of Decolonization

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

The University of Calgary is engaged in a consultative process with knowledge keepers, Elders, and leaders of the Treaty #7 peoples, the Métis Nation, and academics and university administrators. This ongoing process has resulted in the development of an Indigenous Strategy designed to guide the University's relationship with the Indigenous peoples in whose territory the University resides. One of the goals identified during this consultation is to increase the number of Indigenous scholars in leading positions on campus. In addition to Indigenous cluster hires in the Faculty of Arts and the Werklund School of Education, the University of Calgary is now seeking three Canada Research Chairs (Tier II).

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a Canada Research Chair (Tier II) in the Politics of Decolonization. We are seeking a scholar who will establish and maintain an active research program leading to excellence in our understanding of decolonization. Themes may include, but are not limited to, the study of political processes that redistribute land from colonial states to Indigenous nations, the revitalization of Indigenous land-based governance practices, the study of Indigenous decolonizing political movements, and gendered perspectives on decolonization. The successful candidate will be appointed at the rank of Assistant Professor (Tenure-track) or Associate Professor (with tenure). The anticipated start date is July 1, 2018.

The successful candidate will hold a PhD in Political Science or a related field. The appointee's research agenda may be grounded in any of the fields of political science (political theory, Canadian politics, comparative politics, international relations) or be inter-disciplinary in focus. A research program focused on Canada would be an asset but is not required to be considered for this position. The successful candidate will be expected to build relationships with the Treaty #7 Nations and the Métis Nation. This may include incorporating the experiences and needs of the Treaty #7 peoples and the Métis into their research. This appointment will contribute to the University of Calgary's commitment to create a rich, vibrant and culturally competent campus – one that welcomes and supports Indigenous learners, is inclusive of Indigenous perspectives in teaching and learning, encourages Indigenous community partnerships in research and academic programming and is appropriate and thoughtful in its response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's 'Calls to Action'.

The successful candidate at the Assistant Professor level must demonstrate evidence of excellence in research, teaching and community engagement, commensurate with academic experience. This would normally include publications in high quality journals, success with securing competitive research funding, and evidence of a commitment to teaching effectiveness and to engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions. The successful candidate at the Associate Professor level must demonstrate a proven track record of research and teaching excellence, including a record of publications in high quality journals, proven success in obtaining competitive research funding, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a record of successful graduate student supervision, where possible. The successful candidate at this level should also provide evidence of successful engagement with Indigenous communities, organizations and/or institutions, including evidence of success in community-engaged projects and scholarship.

The Department of Political Science is housed in the Faculty of Arts. The Department administers the International Indigenous Studies interdisciplinary program that attracts students from across the University. The program focuses on various aspects of Indigenous people's experience including arts, culture, ways of knowing, languages, economies, politics, and community structures. The candidate's willingness to teach in this program will be considered an asset. As part of its Indigenous Strategy, the Faculty has created eight tenure-track positions in Indigenous research and scholarship, across various departments. This community of scholars facilitates cross-disciplinary and collaborative research, education and outreach by building on Indigenous knowledges, cultures, traditions and experiences developed among, and in partnership with, First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples in Canada. The Canada Research Chair in the Politics of Decolonization will provide leadership in these areas.

Tier II chairs are intended for exceptional emerging scholars (i.e., candidates must have been an active researcher in their field for fewer than 10 years at the time of nomination). Applicants who are more than 10 years from having earned their highest degree (and where career breaks exist, such as maternity, parental or extended sick leave, clinical training, etc.) may have their eligibility for a Tier II chair assessed through the program's Tier II justification process. Please consult the Government of Canada's CRC website for full program information, including further details on eligibility criteria.

Interested individuals are encouraged to submit their application online via the 'Apply Now' link at <http://careers.ucalgary.ca/jobs/8164474-canada-research-chair-tier-ii-in-the-politics-of-decolonization-faculty-of-arts> and include:

- A letter of interest and curriculum vitae, including a statement providing evidence of the applicant's connection to the Indigenous community
- Three examples of recent scholarly work
- Evidence of teaching experience and effectiveness
- Description of a proposed 5-year research plan for the Chair

Applicants should also arrange to have three electronic confidential letters of reference sent under separate cover directly to the chair of the selection committee:

Dr. Antonio Franceschet
 Department Head, Department of Political Science
 Faculty of Arts, University of Calgary
 Email: polihire@ucalgary.ca

Questions regarding this opportunity should be addressed to Dr. Antonio Franceschet by email (polihire@ucalgary.ca)

Deadline: January 30, 2018

The University of Calgary recognizes that a diverse staff/faculty benefits and enriches the work, learning and research experiences of the entire campus and greater community. We are committed to removing barriers that have been historically encountered by some people in our society. We strive to recruit individuals who will further enhance our diversity and will support their academic and professional success while they are here; in particular, we encourage members of the four designated groups (women, Aboriginal People, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities) to apply. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. To ensure a fair and equitable assessment, we offer accommodation at any stage during the recruitment process to applicants with disabilities. Questions regarding diversity or requests for accommodation can be sent to Human Resources (hrhire@ucalgary.ca).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3813

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations

Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations
 School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations
 Wellington, New Zealand

The Political Science and International Relations programme and Centre for Strategic Studies seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer in Strategic Studies (equivalent to tenured assistant professor)/International Relations. The starting date is negotiable.

The successful candidate will possess the abilities required to teach strategic studies (broadly understood), with a related expertise in some aspect of global or regional security or New Zealand's defence and security policy. Expertise in strategic theory and concepts, cyber-security, terrorism or maritime security would also be useful, but all strong candidates with a background in some aspect of strategic studies are encouraged to apply.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer. Each role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in Strategic Studies and/or International Relations; an active research profile; engagement with government agencies and/or media, and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Further information can be obtained from Dr David Capie, Director, Centre for Strategic Studies, email david.capie@vuw.ac.nz, phone +64 4 4637483.

Please complete the online application form and submit your CV and cover letter by attachment at our website below.

Applications close at 12am NZST Monday, 22 January 2018.

Reference 1856

Start Date:

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3815

Victoria University of Wellington

Rank: Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations

Lecturer or Senior Lecturer in Strategic Studies or International Relations

School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations
 Wellington campus, New Zealand

The Political Science and International Relations programme seeks to appoint a permanent Lecturer (equivalent to tenured assistant professor) or Senior Lecturer (equivalent to tenured assistant or associate professor) in Strategic Studies/International Relations. The starting date is negotiable.

The successful candidate will possess the abilities required to teach strategic studies (broadly understood), with a related expertise in some aspect of global or regional security or New Zealand's defence and security policy. Expertise in strategic theory and concepts, cyber-security, terrorism or maritime security would also be useful, but all strong candidates with a background in some aspect of strategic studies are encouraged to apply.

A PhD must be in hand prior to taking up the appointment as Lecturer.

A PhD and an established research and teaching record are required for appointment as Senior Lecturer.

Each role will require: preparation and delivery of graduate and undergraduate courses in Strategic Studies and/or International Relations; an active research profile; engagement with government agencies and/or media, and other teaching or administrative duties as agreed with the Head of School, School of History, Philosophy, Political Studies and International Relations.

Further information can be obtained from Dr David Capie, Director, Centre for Strategic Studies, email david.capie@vuw.ac.nz, phone +64 4 4637483.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/20/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3809

College of Charleston

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invites applications for an assistant professor position in political theory and law beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level classes in political theory and public law and contribute to the department's Politics, Philosophy, and Law (PPLW) concentration. The PPLW concentration allows focused attention on theoretical issues related to the law, so the ability to offer classes in jurisprudence, legal theory, or constitutional law would be particularly welcome. A PhD in Political Science or a related field is required. Primary teaching and advising responsibilities will be in the undergraduate political science program, and the teaching load is six courses per academic year. The College of Charleston is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 1,100 graduate students. The Political Science Department has 21 fulltime faculty, approximately 320 undergraduate majors (<http://polisci.cofc.edu/>), and a Geography Minor (<http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/>). The department also supports a Master of Public Administration (<http://puba.cofc.edu/>) and Master of Science in Environmental Studies (<http://mes.cofc.edu/>) program. The College is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 750,000. Additional information about the institution and the surrounding area is available at <https://www.cofc.edu/>. Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.cofc.edu/> and submit a cover letter, a curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for three references. Questions about the search can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Claire Curtis (curtisc@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin December 16, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The College of Charleston is an AA/EO employer and strongly encourages women and minority candidates to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3798

Brown University

Rank: Mellon Post-doc in Environmental and Indigenous Political Theory

Brown University invites applications for a 2-year Mellon Postdoctoral Fellowship in the area of Environmental and Indigenous Political Theory. This position is to be held jointly at the Cogut Center for the Humanities and the Department of Political Science, effective July 1, 2018. We are especially interested in scholarship that explores the processes and procedures of social and civic engagement that can address the issues of environmental impact on particular communities that have longstanding spiritual, residential, economic, or religious claims to land and water. Work in this area can be engaged from all the approaches common to contemporary political theory: normative, critical, genealogical, historical, feminist, activist, engaged, indigenous, and deliberative. The appointment would be open to any approach, with the department seeking to appoint the person who is best able to offer courses and inspire students to attend to this important area of research, while producing work of importance for publication. The successful candidate will teach two courses per year, one in each semester, in the Department of Political Science cross-listed in the Cogut Center's Humanities course offerings. The fellow will also be affiliated with the Cogut Center and is expected to participate in the weekly Tuesday seminars as well as other activities of the Center. PhD must be in hand by July 1, 2018 and must have been awarded in the last five years. Stipend of $61,500 with an increase to $63,907 the second year plus benefits and a research budget of $2,000 per year. Applications will be reviewed beginning January 15, 2018 and accepted until the position is filled.

Candidates should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, writing sample, two sample course descriptions, and three letters of recommendation. To view more details and to apply, please see: <http://apply.interfolio.com/47158>. Brown University is an EEO/AA employer. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 3788

Princeton University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Political Economy, International Security

Princeton University & Harvard University

China and the World Program (CWP)

Princeton University and Harvard University jointly founded the fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations, the Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program (CWP), in 2005. The program's co-directors are Thomas J. Christensen of Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard's Government Department. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

In Fall 2018 the China & the World Program will move from Princeton University to Columbia University in New York City. For academic year 2018-2019, the program will award one-year postdoctoral research fellowships. Fellows will be expected to be in residence at Columbia University. Fellows should have defended their dissertations in the past five years. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project. Fellows are expected to participate actively in the intellectual life of Columbia University during their tenure.

Qualifications:

Applicants must have received a PhD before starting the appointment. Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's mission need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, you will be required to submit an online application to CWP using the email cwp@princeton.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration.

You are required to submit:

- 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
 - CV
 - project description
 - 2 scholarly writing samples
 - Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
 - Contact information for two references.
- The deadline for submission is December 15, 2017, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Please note that you will only submit contact information and the email of your referees. Your referee will then receive an email with instructions on how to submit a confidential recommendation on your behalf. All references must be received by the deadline. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2018 and a public announcement will be made by March/April 2018.

For more information about the Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program, please visit its website at www.princeton.edu/cwp (link is external).

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3772

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3759

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3760

American University in Cairo

Rank: Political Theory

Political Theory

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political theory at the Assistant Professor level beginning in Fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities will include a combination of courses on classical and contemporary political theories. Candidates who can teach courses on issues of religion in politics are encouraged to apply. This position will involve teaching at the BA and MA level within the Department of Political Science. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, an accomplished and active research agenda, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East. The American University in Cairo is committed to recruiting a diverse faculty to complement the diversity of its student body.

Requirements:

PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is required. Applicants should address the two criteria of teaching and research Excellence. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University. Priority will be given to applications received by December 1st, 2017. Position is open until filled.

Application Procedures:

All applicants must submit the following documents online: a) a current C.V; b) a letter of interest; c) a statement of teaching philosophy; d) a completed AUC Personal Information Form (PIF); e) a copy of a recently published article or manuscript chapter in progress. f) Please ask three referees familiar with your professional background to send reference letters directly to hussref@aucegypt.edu; All applications should be uploaded online: <http://www.aucegypt.edu/faculty/services/faculty-vacancies>

Please remember your account login enables you to respond to AUC additional questions (if required). For more information, e-mail Dr. Ibrahim Elnur, Chair, (ielnur@aucegypt.edu); Ms. Gehan Wissa, Executive Assistant to the Chair, (gehanwm@aucegypt.edu) or visit the department's website at <http://www.aucegypt.edu/huss/pols/pages/default.aspx>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3747

Virginia Commonwealth University

Rank: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR - AMERICAN POLITICS (CONGRESS)/POLITICAL THEORY

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Methodology

Specializations: Congress, Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Research Methods

Assistant Professor: (Tenure-Eligible, Political Science)

The Department of Political Science at Virginia Commonwealth University is seeking applications for a tenure eligible faculty position at the Assistant Professor rank to begin August 2018 to support the Department's teaching and research mission in the area of American Politics with expertise in American Institutions (especially, Congress), and Contemporary Political Theory. In addition to subfield expertise in Congress, specialization(s) in gender, race, sexuality, class, and/or ethnicity politics is preferred. The successful candidate will also be able to teach our undergraduate and graduate level research methods.

RESEARCH

The faculty member will be central to the political science department's concentrations in U.S. Government, Civil and Human Rights, Politics and Government, Policy and Administration, Political Theory & Methodology, among others. We are seeking active researchers who study issues related to the U.S. Congress and/or American Political Theory.

TEACHING

In addition to the faculty member's research responsibilities, the teaching responsibilities will include courses at the undergraduate level in her/his areas of specialization, as well as providing support to the Department's core curriculum and general education requirements, including Introduction to American Politics, Introduction to Political Theory, and Senior Seminar, a 400-level Capstone course. Specifically, this candidate will teach courses in legislative politics, advanced research methods, and political theory. The ability to teach courses in Contemporary Political Theory (e.g., Black Political Thought, Feminist Theory, Queer Political Theory) is preferred, but not required. This position also includes an expectation of service to the Department.

SERVICE

The faculty member will serve on departmental, College, and/or University committees as necessary, as well as in a professional capacity in their field, e.g., reviewer, conference organizer, etc.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS

- PhD in political science or closely related field at the time of employment
- Demonstrated expertise and potential for publication in the faculty area of research
- Demonstrated experience working in and fostering a diverse faculty, staff, and student environment or commitment to do so as a faculty member at VCU

REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

1. Cover Letter
2. Three Letters of Recommendation
3. CV/Resume
4. Statement of Teaching Interests

5. Statement of Research Interests
6. Teaching Evaluations (Evidence of Teaching Effectiveness)
7. Graduate Transcript (unofficial is accepted)
8. Writing Sample
9. Statement on Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion

Only electronic applications will be accepted. Please apply online at www.vcujobs.com. Please submit the required documents with your online application. Letters of Reference should be sent to the search committee under separate cover directly via the automated email system at the application site. Questions should be directed to Dr. Alexandra Reckendorf at anreckendorf@vcu.edu. Application deadline is December 15, 2017. Start date will be August 16, 2018.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3725

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Department Chair, specialization in Political Theory

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured faculty position beginning Fall 2018 at the Associate or Full Professor level to serve as the Department Chair with a teaching specialization in political theory, ethics, and history of political thought. The position is a 12-month appointment that includes full administrative and leadership responsibilities for a department offering B.A. and M.A. degree programs in Political Science, Global Affairs, Politics and Law, and Geography/Environmental Sustainability. The Department is in UTSA's College of Liberal and Fine Arts and is home to approximately 570 undergraduate and graduate majors, 18 T/TT faculty, and several adjunct faculty focused on research and instructional missions. Faculty are actively engaged in areas of individual and collaborative research leading to publication in such areas as Latin American governance; Middle East, Asian and European political developments; security regimes; national security and intelligence; cyber security and politics; political communications; federal justice policies; race and gender issues; human migration patterns; and political and policy research using geographic information systems. The Department is actively engaged in pursuing internal and collaborative research grants in some of these areas. We are especially interested in candidates with a research and teaching portfolio in political theory and who considers major theoretical questions underlying contemporary social, political, economic, and policy issues.

Responsibilities include overseeing departmental organization, administration (including curricular and fiscal management), program development and leadership, supervision and evaluation of faculty and staff, communications with internal and external constituents, pursuit of grant opportunities, and participation in teaching, research, and scholarly publication.

Required Qualifications: As an element in the application process, all applicants must provide evidence of a Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field and evidence of significant high-quality teaching experience in political theory; evidence of sustained excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; strong interpersonal, written, and oral communication skills; and successful administrative and leadership experience in an academic unit, including budgetary experience, time management and scheduling, conflict resolution, and unit advancement. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of political theory courses.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have a significant record of department-level administrative experience, an established research agenda and record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must have an established record of department-level administrative experience, an established long-term research agenda, a strong record of publications in political theory or related areas, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Associate or Full Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to pursue or to manage external funding opportunities.

The University of Texas at San Antonio is a dynamic institution with a diverse and growing student population of approximately 31,000. The City of San Antonio is the second largest in Texas and the seventh largest in the nation. Its cosmopolitan character, extensive recreational opportunities, low cost-of-living, excellent health care, and temperate climate make it a highly desirable place to live.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, teaching experiences, research interests, and focus on position qualifications;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Separate statements on research, teaching, and leadership;
4. Copies of all graduate transcripts;
5. Representative samples of scholarly work (no more than three);
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's administrative experiences, scholarship, and teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants who are selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3711

University of Texas, San Antonio

Rank: Department Chair, specialization in Political Theory

The Department of Political Science and Geography at The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) invites applications for a tenured faculty position beginning Fall 2018 at the Associate or Full Professor level to serve as the Department Chair with a teaching specialization in political theory, ethics, and history of political thought. The position is a 12-month appointment that includes full administrative and leadership responsibilities for a department offering B.A. and M.A. degree programs in Political Science, Global Affairs, Politics and Law, and Geography/Environmental Sustainability. The Department is in UTSA's College of Liberal and Fine Arts and is home to approximately 570 undergraduate and graduate majors, 18 T/TT faculty, and several adjunct faculty focused on research and instructional missions. Faculty are actively engaged in areas of individual and collaborative research leading to publication in such areas as Latin American governance; Middle East, Asian and European political developments; security regimes; national security and intelligence; cyber security and politics; political communications; federal justice policies; race and gender issues; human migration patterns; and political and policy research using geographic information systems. The Department is actively engaged in pursuing internal and collaborative research grants in some of these areas. We are especially interested in candidates with a research and teaching portfolio in political theory and who considers major theoretical questions underlying contemporary social, political, economic, and policy issues.

Responsibilities include overseeing departmental organization, administration (including curricular and fiscal management), program development and leadership, supervision and evaluation of faculty and staff, communications with internal and external constituents, pursuit of grant opportunities, and participation in teaching, research, and scholarly publication.

Required Qualifications: As an element in the application process, all applicants must provide evidence of a Ph.D. in Political Science or closely related field and evidence of significant high-quality teaching experience in political theory; evidence of sustained excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; strong interpersonal, written, and oral communication skills; and successful administrative and leadership experience in an academic unit, including budgetary experience, time management and scheduling, conflict resolution, and unit advancement. Applicants must also be willing to teach a range of political theory courses.

To be considered at the tenured Associate Professor level, successful applicants must have a significant record of department-level administrative experience, an established research agenda and record of publications, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

To be considered at the tenured Full Professor level, successful applicants must have an established record of department-level administrative experience, an established long-term research agenda, a strong record of publications in political theory or related areas, excellent teaching skills with demonstrated effectiveness, and a track record of service. Tenure is contingent on Board of Regents approval.

Preferred Qualifications: Applicants at the Associate or Full Professor levels should demonstrate an ability to pursue or to manage external funding opportunities.

The University of Texas at San Antonio is a dynamic institution with a diverse and growing student population of approximately 31,000. The City of San Antonio is the second largest in Texas and the seventh largest in the nation. Its cosmopolitan character, extensive recreational opportunities, low cost-of-living, excellent health care, and temperate climate make it a highly desirable place to live.

All information and materials associated with an application for this position must be submitted electronically through <https://jobs.utsa.edu/>. In PDF format, applicants should submit the following items electronically:

1. Letter of application that states the rank for which the candidate is applying, teaching experiences, research interests, and focus on position qualifications;
2. Current curriculum vita;
3. Separate statements on research, teaching, and leadership;
4. Copies of all graduate transcripts;
5. Representative samples of scholarly work (no more than three);
6. Two representative samples of syllabi for courses taught or proposed by the applicant;
7. Teaching evaluations (if available or other evidence of course instruction evaluation);
8. Names, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses of three references who are familiar with the applicant's administrative experiences, scholarship, and teaching and can be contacted to provide letters of recommendation.

Review of applications will begin on December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Applicants who are selected for interviews must be able to show proof that they will be eligible and qualified to work in the United States by time of hire.

As an Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action employer, it is the policy of The University of Texas at San Antonio to promote and ensure equal employment opportunity for all individuals without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or veteran status. The University is committed to the Affirmative Action Program in compliance with all government requirements to ensure nondiscrimination. The UTSA campus is accessible to persons with disabilities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/30/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3712

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor, in American Constitutionalism and Political Thought with an anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and exploring questions of freedom and governance.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a vigorous, externally-funded research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on American constitutionalism and institutions, and American political thought; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: expertise and interest in the American presidency with a historical focus, and in civic education and leadership; interest in the study, teaching, and discussion of civic education and leadership as well as the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is December 1, 2017; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to: American Politics Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Peter McNamara; email: peter.mcnamara@asu.edu.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3697

Arizona State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, in Classical and Medieval Political Philosophy

The School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership at Arizona State University (<https://scetl.asu.edu/>) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position as Assistant Professor, in Classical and Medieval Political Philosophy, with an anticipated start date of August 2018. U.S. News and World Report has ranked Arizona State University as the most innovative university in the country for the past three years, ahead of Stanford and the Massachusetts Institute for Technology. Contributing to that no. 1 ranking with regard to "Innovation in Leadership" is the new School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership, which aims to create a new kind of leader, blending tradition and innovation, and exploring questions of freedom and governance.

The successful candidate will be expected to develop a vigorous, externally-funded research program, engage undergraduate and graduate students through effective teaching, participate in service to the university and profession, and build productive relationships with faculty both within and beyond the School of Civic and Economic Thought and Leadership.

Required qualifications include: a doctorate in political science, history, or closely related field by time of appointment; dissertation or research focused on Classical Greek, Roman, or Medieval political philosophy, or the intellectual history of Classical and Medieval Political thought; an active research program with clear potential for excellence in research activity and publications; evidence of university teaching experience. Desired qualifications: interest and ability to teach courses that span Western political theory and some comparative theory; interest in civic education and leadership; interest in study, teaching and discussion of civic education and leadership as well as the great texts and debates of the Western tradition and liberal education; demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Application Deadline/Procedures: Initial deadline for review of complete applications is December 1, 2017; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue on the 1st and 15th of each month thereafter until the search is closed. A background check is required prior to employment. Applicants must send via email to scetl@asu.edu: 1) a letter of interest outlining their qualifications; 2) curriculum vita; 3) reprints of representative publications; 4) contact information (including email addresses) for three references; 5) copy of graduate transcript; to: Classical and Medieval Political Philosophy Search Committee, School of Civic & Economic Thought and Leadership, at scetl@asu.edu. For further information, contact the Search Committee Chair: Dr. Carol McNamara; email: carol.mcnamara@asu.edu.

Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will be considered without regard to race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. ASU's full non-discrimination statement (ACD 401) is located on the ASU website at <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3696

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Theory, Normative Political Theory

For 2018-2019, the McCoy Family Center for Ethics in Society at Stanford seeks to appoint up to three postdoctoral fellows. Selected fellows will be designated as either General Ethics Fellows or Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows. The two types of fellows have some distinct training opportunities and responsibilities, but they form a common community at the Center and participate together in the Center's intellectual life. The programs are described in detail below.

We aim to appoint fellows in both programs (three total across the two programs). All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships and do not need to tailor their application for one or the other fellowship.

General Ethics Fellowship

Some selected fellows will be part of our longstanding postdoctoral program that is open to candidates with substantial normative research in any area within philosophy or political science. For 2018-19, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in inequality, immigration, global justice, environmental ethics, and ethics and technology, but we welcome all applicants with strong normative interests. Applicants must have normative training and hold a PhD in philosophy or political science. Scholars with a PhD in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. General Ethics Fellows participate in the intellectual life of the Center for Ethics in Society (attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), teach one class per year, interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across the campus.

Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellowship

2018-19 will be the third year of this fellowship program at the Center. The program is rooted in the Center's commitment to bringing ethical reflection to bear on pressing social problems. Addressing many of these social problems involves knowledge of the work of social science, law, and the life sciences. The premise of this program is that the normative scholarship of our fellows will be enhanced by engagement with empirically-oriented scholars. To that end, each fellow in the program will be matched with a partner research center at Stanford that is dedicated to interdisciplinary research. For 2018-19, we are especially interested in candidates with research interests in engineering/computer science or biomedical ethics, but all applicants whose work may intersect with empirically-oriented scholarship will be considered. Applicants need not name a possible partner center on campus or tailor their materials for this type of fellowship. The Interdisciplinary Ethics Fellows and partner centers will be selected based on the natural match between their work.

Applicants must have normative training and hold a PhD in Philosophy or Political Science. Scholars with a PhD in Law will also be considered so long as their work focuses on ethical dimensions of public policy or law. Fellows will participate in the regular intellectual life of the partner center and the Center for Ethics in Society (e.g., attend weekly workshops; events; professional training opportunities), interact with undergraduates in the Ethics in Society Program, and contribute to an interdisciplinary ethics community across campus.

Appointment Requirements and Application Details

For both types of fellowships, the appointment term is September 1, 2018 - August 31, 2019. The initial term may be renewed for an additional year. Applicants must have completed all requirements for their PhD by June 30, 2018. Candidates must also be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2015).

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its scholarly community. We welcome applications from women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research and teaching missions. Salary is competitive.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, a writing sample (no more than 25 pages double-spaced), three letters of recommendation, a one-page research statement (single spaced), and list of classes they have taught and/or are prepared to teach. Additional materials will not be considered. All applicants will be considered for both types of fellowships, and finalists will be consulted about whether they may be designated as Interdisciplinary Ethics or General Ethics fellows.

Applications will be collected via Interfolio. Applications will not be accepted by email. Please visit the Center's website for information about how to submit your materials: <https://ethicsinsociety.stanford.edu/postdocs/application-process>

If you have questions, please email ethics_submissions@stanford.edu. Application Due Date: December 11, 2017 at 5:00 pm PST.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/11/2017

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3646

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences
Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Governance/International Policy Theory with an emphasis on human security governance and sub-specializations in critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area. (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in global governance theory/international policy theory. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in human security, critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching global governance, international policy, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170154, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than four academic references. Screening of applications will begin December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Karen Hult (khult@vt.edu), chairs, Global Governance Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Major Williams Hall, Room 531 (0130), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3607

University of Southern Denmark

Rank: Assistant Professor in Social Science: War Studies (D-IAS)

The Danish Institute for Advanced Study (D-IAS) seeks outstanding candidates to fill a position as assistant professor at Faculty of Business and Social Sciences, Department of Political Science and Public Management.

This announcement is available on our website www.sdu.dk/vacancies

You can therefore not apply for the position based on this advertisement.

Application deadline 27 November 2017.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: 11/27/2017

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3606

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Postcolonial Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor
Postcolonial Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences
Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Postcolonial Theory and Global Governance/Globalization Theory with an emphasis on human security and sub-specializations in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in postcolonial theory and global governance/globalization theory with an emphasis on human security. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching postcolonial, global governance/globalization, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170155, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than 4 academic references. Screening of applications will begin January 5, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Timothy W. Luke (twluke@vt.edu), chairs, Postcolonial Theory Search Committee, ASPECT, Major Williams Hall, Room 202 (0192), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3608

Northeastern University

Rank: Network Science - Open Rank

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: Health Care, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Communication

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars in Network Science with an expected start date of Fall 2018. Candidates at all ranks are welcome. Areas of interest are open. We are especially interested in candidates with expertise in economics, statistical methods, and social media analysis. The position includes an appointment in one of the social science units in CSSH (Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Criminal Justice, and/or Public Policy) as well as affiliation with the Network Science Institute (www.networkscienceinstitute.org/). Cross-departmental appointments within CSSH are possible as are cross-college appointments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record or promise of one and will join an outstanding interdisciplinary community representing 7 departments, including Political Science, Physics, Computer Science, Business, Health Science, Communications, and Mathematics. The individual filling this position will contribute to our distinctive PhD program in Network Science, which is currently the only NetSci graduate program in the US and will teach courses at all levels of Network Science as well as in their domain area.

Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to d.lazer@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3603

Northeastern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: International Security, Civil Rights & Liberties, Science & Technology

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor College of Social Sciences & Humanities Northeastern University

Responsibilities

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, tenure/tenure-track, in the area(s) of cyber security, privacy, ethics, and resilience (all broadly defined), with an expected start date of Fall 2018. We welcome applications from scholars working in any combination of these areas and are especially interested in those that focus on key issues in cybersecurity and privacy as they relate to applied ethics, human behavior, economics, institutions and policy. Interdisciplinary expertise in computational methods, data science, social science and/or humanities is preferred. This is an interdisciplinary position and candidates will be considered for joint appointments across suitable colleges and departments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record and demonstrated potential for excellence in leadership and interdisciplinary collaboration.

The position will facilitate cross-college teaching, research and collaboration between the College of Social Sciences and Humanities and the College of Computer and Information Science. The position will also support the University's commitment to innovation in teaching and contribute to the Cybersecurity & Privacy Institute ([\[cyber.ccis.northeastern.edu/\]\(https://cyber.ccis.northeastern.edu/\)\), the Global Resilience Institute \(<https://globalresilience.northeastern.edu/>\), and/or the Security & Resilience Studies program \(<https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/polisci/security-resilience-studies/>\). The candidate who fills this position will share the college's commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.](https://

<div data-bbox=)

Qualifications

Candidates must have a PhD or its equivalent at the time of appointment.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

How to Apply

Applicants should submit a CV and letter of interest along with the names of three references. Candidates will be notified before their references are contacted. Full dossiers will be requested for first-round interviews.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Rory Smead at r.smead@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3599

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Assistant Professor in the Area of History, Politics, or International Relations with a focus on Southeast Asia

Subfield(s): International Relations, Other, Political Theory

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Conflict Processes, History & Politics

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Southeast Asia Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/southeast-asia-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the areas of history, politics, or international relations with a primary focus on Southeast Asia. Candidates who combine their work on Southeast Asia with an interest in domestic politics, conflict management, international development, or international relations are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISSEAProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Asian Studies Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3473

Johns Hopkins University

Rank: Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies With a focus on Iran

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Middle East, Foreign Policy, International Law & Organizations

School Overview

Founded in 1943 and a Johns Hopkins division since 1950, The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University (SAIS) has been educating global leaders for more than 70 years. As a highly selective graduate institution with a distinguished faculty, SAIS consistently ranks as one of the top schools of international relations in the world. SAIS was founded to provide a practical approach to training students in international leadership and foreign relations, and to provide mid-career educational opportunities for those already working in related fields. To learn more about SAIS, visit <http://www.sais-jhu.edu>. To learn more about the Middle East Studies Program, visit <https://www.sais-jhu.edu/content/middle-east-studies#overview>.

Position Details

SAIS is seeking to fill a position for a full-time tenure-track Warren Weinstein Assistant Professor of Middle East Studies with a primary focus on Iran. Candidates who combine their work on Iran with an interest in international security, international law, conflict management, international development, foreign policy, or domestic politics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates with a background in other social sciences with an interest in policy are also encouraged to apply. The position is located in Washington, D.C. The goal is to fill the position during the Fall 2017 semester, with the appointment starting effectively on July 1, 2018.

Qualifications

A Ph.D. awarded by June 2018 will be a condition for employment. The ideal applicant will have strong academic credentials and a commitment to improve public policy. A record of excellence in teaching would be a distinct advantage.

Application

Electronic submissions are preferred. A letter of application, curriculum vitae that include contact information (email, telephone, and/or skype) as well as the names and contact details for three people who can provide letters of reference should be submitted to:

SAISMESProfSearch@jhu.edu

Or send via USPS to:

SAIS Weinstein Professor Search Committee
School of Advanced International Studies
The Johns Hopkins University
1740 Massachusetts Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20036 USA

Review Process

Applications will be reviewed beginning October 1, 2017 and will be accepted until a final decision is made. Please send all inquiries to the email address listed above.

Equal Opportunity Employer Statement

Johns Hopkins University is an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, gender, religion, age, sexual orientation, national or ethnic origin, disability, marital status, veteran status, or any other occupationally irrelevant criteria. The university promotes affirmative action for minorities, women, disabled persons, and veterans.

All applicants who share this goal are encouraged to apply.

*** **

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3474

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3447

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.

Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.

Executive Director

James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions

Princeton University

83 Prospect Avenue

Princeton, NJ 08540

E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu

Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton UniversityRank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research AssociateSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: 12/1/2016Date Posted: 9/15/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3429Princeton University*Rank: James Madison Program Visiting FellowSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public PolicySpecializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;

* a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3426

University of South Carolina, Aiken

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

The Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy at University of South Carolina Aiken invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in political theory, beginning August 16, 2018. Candidate must demonstrate teaching excellence and research potential. Responsibilities include teaching ten to twelve credit hours a semester (typically two or three sections of American government and one or two upper level courses per semester), research and productive scholarship, and after the first year, student advisement, as well as service to the department, university, profession, and community.

Position requires a Ph.D. in Political Science in hand by August 16, 2018 and ability to teach introductory and upper level undergraduate courses in political theory and the introductory American Government course.

The University of South Carolina Aiken, a public comprehensive university in the University of South Carolina system, located just 20 minutes from Augusta, GA, offers undergraduate and master's degrees to more than 3,500 students in 50 programs of study. USC Aiken is ranked the #1 public regional college in the South by U.S. News & World Report's guide "America's Best Colleges." The 2017 distinction marks USC Aiken's 19th consecutive ranking among the top three in this category and its 12th time in first place.

USC Aiken pumps $281 million into the local economy every year, and was listed among the 2016 Great Colleges to Work For. We boast students from 35 states and 32 countries. USC Aiken has eleven NCAA Division II Athletic programs. The City of Aiken is best noted as a cultural and horse community. Visit: www.usca.edu.

Application deadline is November 15, 2017.

Apply online at: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/postings/19196>

Please submit the following documents with your online application: curriculum vitae; letter of application with your teaching philosophy, and upload copies of your undergraduate and graduate transcripts. Send three letters of recommendation to Dr. Matthew Thornburg

Search Committee Chair
 Department of History, Political Science, and Philosophy
 USC Aiken
 471 University Parkway
 Aiken, SC 29801

Questions may be directed to Dr. Thornburg at matthewth@usca.edu, 803-641-3222. Additional materials may be sought from some candidates as the search progresses. Finalists will be required to submit official hard copy transcripts.

Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. USCA is an AA/EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3423

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS, SSEL - Social Science, NYU Abu Dhabi

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Comparative Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Economic Policy, Social Movements, Political Economy

POST-DOCTORAL RESEARCHER POSITIONS

SSEL - Social Science

NYU Abu Dhabi

The Social Sciences Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at NYU Abu Dhabi is seeking a talented post-doctoral researcher. The position will commence January 1, 2018 (but the exact start date is negotiable) and will be based in Abu Dhabi although the position is likely to involve travel to NYU's New York and Shanghai campuses as well as other locations. The position is for two-years, but can be renewed for a third year after successful performance in the first year. The position provides remuneration higher than internationally competitive rates for postdoctoral positions in addition to generous benefits and travel allowances, subject to final budget approval.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate will take a leadership role in conducting lab, lab-in-the-field, and field experiments through SSEL under the direction of Professor Rebecca Morton, SSEL Director. The candidate will conduct their own research and experiments in the social sciences as well. In addition, the candidate is expected to allocate approximately 25% of your working time to provide assistance to faculty and students conducting experiments in the laboratory.

Qualifications:

Applicants should have a doctoral degree in economics, political science, sociology, or a related field or be near completion of such degree. Previous experience conducting social science experimental research (either lab, lab-in-the-field, and/or field) is essential. The successful candidate will have strong experimental design, data analysis, writing, and organizational skills. Knowledge of Z-Tree or a similar experimental programming language such as o-tree is required. In addition, STATA, MATLAB, R, H-Root, ORSEE, and/or other computer languages used in laboratory experimentation is desirable. Candidates should also be self-motivated and willing to travel.

Applications will be accepted immediately. To be considered, all applicants need to submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae with full publication list, statement of research, research sample and two letters of reference, all in PDF format. For instructions and information on how to apply, please visit our website at <http://nyuad.nyu.edu/en/about/careers/faculty-positions.html>. (Scroll down to postdoctoral positions, the position is listed toward the end of the list) If you have any questions, please email ssel@nyu.edu

The anticipated appointment starting date is January 1, 2018 and applications will be considered on a rolling basis starting September 22, 2017. The terms of employment include competitive salary, housing, and other benefits.

About NYUAD:

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, and complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Entering its eighth year, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3401

SUNY, Cortland

Rank: Assistant Professor

Start Date: Fall 2018; Salary: Competitive

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Specialization: Political Theory, Legal Theory, American Politics

The Department Political Science at the State University of New York College at Cortland in Cortland, NY, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor position with duties to begin Fall 2018.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: Teach political theory, legal theory, and American politics. Course responsibilities include Introduction to Political Theory, American Political Thought, Introduction to American Government. Course load is three courses per semester.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: A Ph.D. in political science by the time of the appointment (or ABD with designated date of completion) is required. Candidates demonstrate a strong commitment to teaching and research, with a willingness/ability to participate in the department's Law and Justice concentration. College teaching experience and evidence of scholarly ability are also required.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Teach possible upper level courses such as Legal Theory, Justice and Society, and/or other possible courses in the areas of theory and law in the undergraduate curriculum according to the instructor's expertise.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Political Science Department is a mid-size, undergraduate-teaching department in the school of Arts and Sciences, but is one of the most active and visible in the college. The department has about 110 majors, and is composed of eight full-time faculty, along with several adjuncts. Key departmental programs include the Political Science major, Adolescence Education with a concentration in political science, a concentration in Law and Justice, and a B.S. degree in Public Administration and Policy.

THE COLLEGE AND COMMUNITY: SUNY Cortland is a comprehensive college within the State University of New York system and is known for a number of leading liberal arts programs in the natural and social sciences as well as the arts and humanities, its superb programs in speech-language pathology, teacher education, recreation, parks and leisure studies, health, and physical education. Our many programs are designed to support our commitment to civic responsibility, environmental responsibility, international education, professional education and social justice. More than 90 percent of SUNY Cortland's 7,200 undergraduate and graduate students gain hands-on experience through internships, volunteerism, civic engagement and study abroad. Its three schools - education, arts and sciences and professional studies - are committed to excellence in teaching, research, scholarship, service and international education.

The campus is located in the geographic center of New York State and is a half-hour drive from Syracuse and Ithaca and four hours from New York City and Philadelphia. Situated in the beautiful Finger Lakes region, Cortland offers an array of regional cultural and recreational opportunities, as well as affordable housing and excellent school systems.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES: For a full job description and to apply on line, go to: <http://jobs.cortland.edu>. Applications should include: a letter of application summarizing qualifications and research interests; a curriculum vita; the names of three references (with letters to be supplied on request); evidence of teaching effectiveness including sample syllabi if available; academic transcripts from most recent degree; and a publication or writing sample. Applications will be accepted and reviewed on a rolling basis until the position is filled. Final hiring is subject to final budgetary authorization.

The State University of New York College at Cortland is an AA/EEO/ADA employer. The College actively seeks applications from women, veterans, individuals with a disability, members of underrepresented groups or anyone that would enrich the diversity of the College.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3413

University of North Texas

Rank: Open Rank Search in Political Theory

We invite applications for an open-rank position beginning fall 2018 in the broadly defined field of the history of political theory. We are interested in prospective candidates who specialize in Medieval, early modern/Enlightenment, or 19th/20th century German (post-rationalist) thought. An additional strength in non-Western thought, such as Islamic or Chinese political thought, is considered an advantage.

All applicants must meet the following criteria: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science, (2) evidence of excellence in scholarly productivity, and (3) evidence of demonstrated excellence in teaching and mentoring students in independent activities. Preference will be given to candidates who have published books and/or articles in top-tier journals.

The successful candidate will have responsibilities that may include but are not limited to teaching core, upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, continuing a record of robust scholarly research, directing graduate research in the Theory field, and providing service to the department, college, and university. The typical teaching load is 2/2.

The Department of Political Science at UNT is a highly productive department with 25 faculty members who are committed to excellence in both teaching and research. It offers BA, MA/MS, and PhD degrees. Faculty in the department have previously edited the American Political Science Review, International Studies Quarterly, and Journal of Political Science Education, and is the current home of Religion and Politics. The department is also home to the Castleberry Peace Institute, the Peace Studies Program and the Latina/o Mexican-American Studies Program. The Department's web site is: <http://politicalscience.unt.edu>.

With 37,000 students, UNT is the nation's 26th largest public university. As the largest, most comprehensive university in Dallas-Fort Worth, UNT drives the North Texas region. UNT offers 99 bachelor's, 83 master's, and 36 doctoral degree programs, many nationally and internationally recognized. UNT is a Carnegie Tier I public research university deeply committed to advancing educational excellence and preparing students to become thoughtful, engaged citizens of the world.

Applicants must submit: (1) a cover letter, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a narrative describing scholarly research, (4) two published writing samples, (5) a statement of teaching philosophy, and (6) the names and contact information of three references via UNT's Faculty Jobs portal at <https://facultyjobs.unt.edu>. Direct inquires to Richard Ruderman, search committee chair (Richard.Ruderman@unt.edu)

Review of applications will begin on October 18, 2017 and will remain open until the position is closed. To ensure full consideration, applicants are encouraged to submit their applications and all supporting materials as close as possible to the review date.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3400

Ohio State University

Rank: Nationalism and Citizenship

Description: The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position focusing on nationalism and citizenship. The position is open to scholars in any subfield of political science, although we are especially interested in people who bring a strong theoretical perspective grounded in both normative and analytic reasoning. We are especially interested in the relationship between nationalism and citizenship as political ideals, and how different understandings of this relationship affect political behavior and outcomes. Successful candidates may come at this question from a variety of perspectives, including normative political theory, political behavior, and political psychology, or through the study of social movements, political mobilization, or the functioning of political institutions. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants must have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by August 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus: The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9662>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Chris Gelpi at Gelpi.10@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3389

University of North Carolina, Greensboro

Rank: Assistant Professor

THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA AT GREENSBORO: Assistant Professor Position in Political Science: Political Theory

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political theory at the rank of Assistant Professor, beginning August 1, 2018. Candidates should have a Ph.D. by time of appointment. Applicants should have teaching experience and an active research agenda. The faculty member will be expected to teach introductory and advanced undergraduate classes in political theory. The ability to teach in a second field in women's and gender studies, environmental politics/policy or minority politics is desirable. The department has fifteen full-time faculty and has strong B.A. and M.P.A. programs. Salary is competitive.

UNCG is proud of the diversity of its student body and we seek to attract an equally diverse applicant pool. UNCG is a Minority Serving Institution, with an undergraduate student body consisting of approximately 28% African Americans and 8% Hispanic or Latino Americans. UNCG and the Political Science Department foster an environment of collaboration across departments and schools. We are an EOE/Affirmative Action/F/D/V employer and are strongly committed to increasing faculty diversity.

Applicants should submit all materials electronically (to apply, visit <https://jobsearch.uncg.edu> and click on "Faculty" and apply to position #998942), including a cover letter, a CV, a description of their research program, up to three representative writing samples, sample syllabi, and a statement of teaching interests. Applicants are asked to provide the names and email addresses of at least three (3) references in the References section of the electronic application. These references will be solicited by The UNCG jobsearch system via email. They will be asked to provide a confidential letter of reference/recommendation on behalf of the applicant. This will occur as soon as the applicant successfully submits the application and receives a confirmation number from the UNCG jobsearch system.

Inquiries can be sent to Professor Ruth DeHoog (rhdehoog@uncg.edu). The program webpage is <http://www.uncg.edu/psc/>. The review of applications will begin on October 30, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/11/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3382

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - multiple positions

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in comparative politics, international relations, political theory and quantitative methods. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhny Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3360

Higher School of Economics

Rank: Assistant Professor - Political Theory

Political Science Department at Higher School of Economics (Moscow, Russia) invites applications for full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor positions in political theory. The appointees will teach and advise in English, at the undergraduate and graduate levels. For best consideration apply by October 15, 2017. The search will continue until the positions are filled.

The applicants are expected to have a Ph.D. in political science or related disciplines by the time the appointment begins. The successful candidate is expected to conduct high-quality research publishable in reputable peer-reviewed journals with research support provided by the university. The appointment begins on September 1, 2018 and will be made for three years in the first instance, with reviews of teaching and research during the third year. Teaching and research are both conducted in English.

Interested candidates should send a CV, a research statement, a teaching statement, a recent writing sample, and 3 letters of recommendation to HSE International Faculty Recruitment Initiative at email address: iri@hse.ru

For questions regarding the application process contact Leila Ashurova at lashurova@hse.ru, +7(495) 772-9590 ext. 22535.

About HSE

The Higher School of Economics (HSE) is a young, dynamic, fast-growing Russian research university. Over the past twenty five years, HSE has become one of Russia's largest universities focused on social sciences, and has earned the reputation of a national leader in higher education.

In 2017 Higher School of Economics was listed in the QS Top 50 Under 50 ranking, and was among the world's Top 100 universities in Economics & Econometrics, Sociology, Politics & International Studies.

Committed to high-quality research, HSE now has a considerable number of international research laboratories, led by eminent professors from all over the world. Currently, HSE employs 96 international tenure-track, post-doctoral and teaching-track fellows in 16 different faculties, 11 research labs and multiple research centers in Moscow, St. Petersburg, Perm and Nizhny Novgorod.

Information about the university: <http://www.hse.ru/en/>

Information about Political Science Department: <https://social.hse.ru/en/ps/>

Information about recruitment procedures: https://iri.hse.ru/PoliticalScience_2017_2018

International Faculty Support Unit: <https://ifaculty.hse.ru/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3363

Ohio State University

Rank: The Health of Democracy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science seeks candidates for a tenure-track position affiliated with the university's new Institute for Democratic Engagement and Accountability. In keeping with the university's motto, "Education for Citizenship," we welcome applications from scholars broadly interested in the health of democracy, especially the conditions for energetic democratic participation and effective governance. Successful candidates may specialize in one or more areas, including political behavior, political communication, political economy, political psychology, political theory, the policymaking process, race and ethnic politics, or others. Further, we are open with respect to subfield, though we are especially interested in applicants who focus on or include the American case. This position is available pending budget approval.

Qualifications: Applicants should have a PhD or plan to have a PhD in political science by autumn 2018. A successful candidate will have a strong research agenda, evidence of teaching excellence, and the promise of attracting external funding. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check.

About Columbus:The Ohio State University campus is located in Columbus, the capital city of Ohio. Columbus is the center of a rapidly growing and diverse metropolitan area with a population of over 1.5 million. The area offers a wide range of affordable housing, many cultural and recreational opportunities, excellent schools, and a strong economy based on government as well as service, transportation and technology industries. Columbus has consistently been rated as one of the Top U.S. cities for quality of life, and was selected as one of the Top 10 cities for African Americans to live, work, and play by Black Enterprise magazine. Additional information about the Columbus area is available at <http://www.columbus.org>.

Application Instructions: Apply to Academic Jobs Online at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9663>. A complete application consists of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, research and teaching statements, and three letters of reference. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. Inquiries may be directed to Michael Neblo at Neblo.1@osu.edu.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies. We are an NSF Advance Institution and a member of the Ohio/Western Pennsylvania/West Virginia Higher Education Recruitment Consortium (HERC).

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3336

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017

Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3313

California State University, Long Beach

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Political Theory)

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in Political Science or appropriate related discipline with specialization in Political Theory.

Degree at time of application or official notification of completion of the doctoral degree by August 1, 2018.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, effective teaching.

Record of, or demonstrated potential for, successful research and publication.

Experience with, or demonstrated potential for, effective participation in faculty governance.

Demonstrated commitment to working successfully with a diverse student population.

DESIRED/PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Evidence of broad training in the canon of Western political theory.

Evidence of ability for excellence in teaching and research grounded in political theory and focusing on topics central to the discipline at large: e.g., ancient, modern, and contemporary theories; democratic theory; critical race theory; immigration; the carceral state; postcolonial theory; identity; hybridity; intersectionality; queer theory; deconstruction's focus on alterity; globalization, and neoliberalism.

Evidence of ability to effectively teach current University course offerings in political theory at the undergraduate and graduate levels (e.g., Classical Political Theory, Modern Political Theory, Recent Political Theory, Senior Seminar in Political Theory, and Graduate Seminar in Political Theory).

Evidence of ability to develop new course offerings in political theory that engage issues of diversity, particularly as related to race and ethnicity.

Evidence of support for and/or experience related to the University's strong commitment to the academic success of its diverse student body.

Evidence of ability to engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Evidence of interest in and/or experience with department, college, university and community service.

DUTIES

Teach and develop courses in political theory at the lower and upper-division, and Master's levels.

Advise and mentor students, including the supervision of Master's students taking comprehensive exams and those writing a thesis.

Engage in research leading to conference participation and publication.

Participate in faculty governance.

Participate in service to the department, college, university, and community.

CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

REQUIRED DOCUMENTATION

A Student Success Statement about your teaching or other experiences, successes, and challenges in working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced)

Letter of application addressing the minimum and desired/preferred qualifications

CV (including current email address)

Three recent academic letters of recommendation

Writing sample

Teaching evaluations

Copy of transcript from institution awarding highest degree.

Finalists will also be required to submit a signed SC-1 form, three current letters of recommendation, and an official transcript

A background check (including a criminal records check and telephone reference check with most recent employer) must be completed satisfactorily before any candidate can be offered a position with the CSU. Failure to satisfactorily complete the background check may affect the application status of applicants or continued employment of current CSU employees who apply for the position.

All required documentation shall be submitted electronically through:

<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9408>

Applications, required documentation, and/or requests for information should be addressed to:

Teresa Wright, Chair and Professor
California State University, Long Beach
Department of Political Science
1250 Bellflower Boulevard
Long Beach, CA 90840-4605

(562) 985-4705 or E-Mail: teresa.wright@csulb.edu

APPLICATION DEADLINE

Review of applications to begin October 1, 2017
Position opened until filled (or recruitment canceled)

CSULB is committed to creating a community in which a diverse population can learn, live, and work in an atmosphere of tolerance, civility and respect for the rights and sensibilities of each individual, without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry, religious creed, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, medical condition, age, Vietnam era veteran status, or any other veteran's status. CSULB is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3314

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3130

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

Princeton University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Theory

The Department of Politics is seeking applications from well-qualified individuals for one or more tenure-track junior faculty positions, which may be joint with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. These positions are open with respect to sub-field and involve teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. Interested applicants should apply online at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2641>. Candidates should submit a vita, cover letter, writing sample, and the names and contact information of three references. No transcripts are requested at this time. For best consideration apply by September 1, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3062

Gettysburg College

Rank: Assistant Professor: American Politics, Political Theory, Race & Ethnicity

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor – American Politics/Political Thought/Race, Ethnicity, and Politics

Position Summary:

The Department of Political Science at Gettysburg College invites applications for a tenure-track position in Political Science at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning August 2018.

Qualifications:

The successful candidate should have a commitment to teaching in the liberal arts tradition and show potential for scholarly engagement. The Department seeks candidates in the subfields of American Politics and American Political Thought. The successful candidate is expected to offer introductory courses in political thought and advanced courses in American politics, political thought, and race, ethnicity, and politics.

A Ph.D. in political science or ABD status is required. The teaching load is 3/2.

Application Details:

Applicants should apply online at: <http://gettysburg.peopleadmin.com/postings/2180>. Submit a curriculum vitae; cover letter, addressed to Professor Bruce Larson, Chair, Department of Political Science; writing sample; transcripts; and a separate teaching philosophy statement. In addition, applicants should enter the names and email addresses of three professional references. After the applicant completes his/her on-line application, the professional references indicated will be contacted by Gettysburg College via email to submit letters of recommendation electronically. At least one of the letters of recommendation must address the applicant's teaching effectiveness.

Review of applications will begin immediately, and will continue until a successful candidate is found. Application materials must be received by December 8, 2017, for full consideration. Inquiries can be addressed to Professor Larson: blarson@gettysburg.edu

Gettysburg College, an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal, state, local laws and regulations regarding nondiscrimination. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and admission. The College prohibits discrimination and harassment, and provides equal opportunity without regard to race, ethnicity, color, religion, national origin, disability, veteran status, marital/familial status, possession of a General Education Development Certificate (GED) as compared to a high school diploma, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, sex, age, or genetic information in all aspects of employment, educational programs, activities, and admissions. Pursuant to Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, Gettysburg College prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex (i.e., which includes but is not limited to the prohibition of sexual misconduct and relationship violence, including sexual assault and harassment) in all of its educational programs and activities.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 7/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2977

PUBLIC ADMINISTRATIONAuburn University Montgomery*Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position in public policy or public administration beginning August 2018. The appointment is renewable based on funding, need, performance, and mutual agreement; this position also may be converted to tenure track based on enrollment growth in the Department's programs. The teaching load for this position is nine hours (three courses) per semester.

The position is open with regard to specialization. Successful candidates will be able to offer courses for the department's undergraduate program in political science and its NASPAA-accredited master's degree program in public administration; evidence of a promising research agenda in topics related to public administration and/or public policy is also essential. A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or public administration is expected at the time of the appointment.

Preference will be given to applications received by January 31, 2018, but applicants will be considered until the position is filled. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/2963 and upload 1) a letter of application to include research agenda and teaching interests and philosophy, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) graduate transcript (official transcript is required at time of appointment), 4) one writing sample, 5) teaching evaluations and sample syllabi; and 6) a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

Visiting Assistant Professor Search Committee
Department of Political Science and Public Administration
Auburn University at Montgomery
P.O. Box 244023
Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers a bachelor's and master's degree in political science, a master's degree in public administration, and a Ph.D. in public administration and public policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3833

St. Mary's UniversityRank: Assistant Professor of Political Science*Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The St. Mary's University Political Science Department is conducting a search for an Assistant Professor and Director of its onsite Masters in Public Administration program. The desired applicant must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a Doctorate in public administration (DPA) from an accredited University with major concentrations in areas related to Public Administration and American Politics. Teaching, professional expertise, and research in areas of Public Sector Performance or Organizational Management, Research Methods in Public Administration, Public Policy or American Political Behavior or some combination is preferable. The typical teaching load at the University is four courses per semester. One course release per semester is available for a successful candidate for directing the graduate program in Public Administration. The duties of this directorship include course and program scheduling, program assessment, and developing relationships for internship opportunities with local municipal and state government agencies and employers. The Director would also explore further extending the MPA program online. Experience with the Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs and Administration (NASPAA) or the American Society for Public Administration (ASPA) or with the International City/County Management Association (ICMA) - or other professional administration organizations- is highly desirable. Preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate an interest in affiliating with the University's Center for Catholic Studies, which will explore a wide range of human issues across disciplinary boundaries, and in a global or local context, including, but not limited to, poverty, economic justice, religious freedom, or immigration, etc...

The position is a full-time, tenure track appointment, commencing in August 2018. Department faculty cover a full range of courses in a general graduate degree in public administration, an undergraduate political science degree, and provide support to core courses in the university core curriculum. The department is the civic conscience of the university and fosters the building of "the good life" through education of the whole student, committed to civic engagement, justice and service to society. The Department resides in the School of Humanities and Social Science.

St. Mary's is the oldest Catholic university in the Southwest, and continues to advocate the Marianist mission of academic excellence and servant leadership. Founded in 1852 by the Society of Mary, St. Mary's is a comprehensive Catholic and Marianist university with a strong tradition of integrating liberal arts with professional studies. St. Mary's enrolls approximately 3,800 students in a diverse university with four schools, more than 40 academic programs including Ph.D. and J.D. programs, and numerous pre-professional programs.

Applications can be found at <http://stmarytx.applicantpro.com/jobs/> with the option to upload all supporting documents electronically. Along with the employment application, please also submit (1) letter of application addressing interest in position, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) official graduate transcript confirming the doctoral degree, (4) three letters of reference; (5) statements of research agenda and teaching philosophy; and (6) evidence of teaching excellence. The Chair of the search committee for this Political Science position is Dr. Arturo Vega, avega2@stmarytx.edu Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science (210) 431-8028.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Any offer of employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a clear background check. EOE

Start Date:Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 11/17/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3807Vanderbilt University*Rank: CSDI Senior Visiting ScholarSubfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Administration

The Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) at Vanderbilt University's Department of Political Science seeks applicants for up to two (2) Senior Visiting Scholars who seek to conduct research on political institutions, opinion or behavior. Applications are welcome from scholars of all ranks or equivalent professional positions. The specific length of the appointment will be negotiated on a case-by-case basis, but we especially welcome applications from scholars who are interested in spending an entire year at Vanderbilt during the 2018-2019 academic year. There is no teaching requirement associated with the fellowship. Successful candidates will be provided financial support (e.g. a stipend equivalent to half-salary to make a full year's leave possible), office space, and computing resources.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing their research project, what they hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. The letter should also indicate how long the desired time in residence would be and whether there are existing financial arrangements that would be relevant (e.g., if you have a paid semester's leave and health care benefits). Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 15, 2018. Applications should be submitted online through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47217>

Vanderbilt University has a strong institutional commitment to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of faculty. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of other underrepresented groups, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 11/17/2017Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 3803University of New Orleans*Rank: Assistant ProfessorSubfield(s): Public Administration, Methodology, Other

The Department of Political Science at the University of New Orleans seeks candidates for a tenure-track, assistant professor position to begin in fall 2018. The primary teaching need is nonprofit leadership in our NASPAA accredited MPA program, and the successful candidate will become a core faculty member in that program. Other areas of interest include applied research methodology, general public administration at graduate and undergraduate levels, hazards and disasters, and a range of undergraduate political science courses that fit the candidates' expertise and interests. We seek candidates with both a demonstrated potential for scholarly research and publication and an interest in engaged scholarship relevant to our urban environment.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Teach both graduate and undergraduate courses in Public Administration and Political Science
- Serve on MPA and M.A. committees
- Participate in department, college and university committees
- Teach a 4-4 load with a reduction for an active research agenda.

- REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: Doctorate in Public Administration, Political Science or closely related field

Candidates should submit a vita, three letters of recommendation, writing samples, teaching evaluations, and a brief statement of interest to Michael Huelshoff, Chair, Department of Political Science, University of New Orleans, 2000 lakeshore Drive, New Orleans, LA 70148. Review of applications will begin upon receipt.

Start Date: Fall 2018Application Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 11/16/2017Salary: $50,000 - $59,999eJobs ID: 3797IE University*Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

Position 2: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

TENURE TRACK FACULTY POSITION-The Governance of Emerging Technologies

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Public Policy, Public Administration

Area of Expertise: Science and Technology

Deadline: January 31st, 2018

Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in Public Policy and Governance of Emerging Technologies starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a solid track record of monographs and articles in top-tier peer-reviewed international journals, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. He/she will also have acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving, and show passion for institution building, and desire to have a strong impact on society.

He/she is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses on the political, social, and economic challenges and opportunities brought by new technological trends such as Big Data, Digitalization, Automation, and Artificial Intelligence. He/she should know the current state of these technologies and reflect on their implications for governments, the private sector, educational systems and society.

He/she should also be willing to collaborate with the IE's Center for the Governance of Change, a newly created institution that seeks to enhance our ability to understand, anticipate, and manage technological innovation and its externalities in a variety of domains – political, economic, and societal. This collaboration will include the organization of academic events and the securing and management of research grants in his/her area. Experience in policy-making and consulting of governments, tech companies, and international organizations will be advantages.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Governance of Emerging Technologies to IESIR2@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/31/2018

Date Posted: 11/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3785

Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor (Public Policy and/or Public Administration)

Public Policy and Global Affairs
School of Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Young and research-intensive, Nanyang Technological University (NTU Singapore is ranked 11th globally. It is also placed 1st among the world's best young universities.

The School of Social Sciences nurtures interdisciplinary study and research for the betterment of society. We promote a holistic approach to advance learning through research and teaching. Our research and educational programmes are aligned with NTU's new five-year strategic plan, NTU 2020 focuses on five key research thrusts – Sustainable Earth, Global Asia, Secure Community, Healthy Society and Future Learning. For more information about the University, please visit our website at: <http://www.ntu.edu.sg/Pages/home.aspx>.

Public Policy and Global Affairs (PPGA) in SSS offers a Minor in Public Administration, a Major in Public Policy and Global Affairs, MA and PhD programmes by research, and general electives.

The School of Social Sciences (SSS) is inviting applications for one tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Policy and/or Public Administration in the Context of a Globalizing Asia.

Candidates should possess a PhD in a relevant discipline, and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in research as well as teaching at both the undergraduate and postgraduate levels.

Emoluments

Salary will be competitive and will commensurate with qualifications and experience. The University offers a comprehensive fringe benefit package.

Application Procedure

To apply, please refer to the Guidelines for Submitting an Application for Faculty Appointment (<http://www.ntu.edu.sg/ohr/career/submit-an-application/Pages/Faculty-Positions.aspx>) and email your application package (consisting of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, personal particulars form, teaching and research statements, evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available), three selected reprint/preprints of publications, and the names and email addresses of three potential referees) to:

Chair, Search Committee
c/o Public Policy and Global Affairs
School of Social Sciences
Nanyang Technological University
14 Nanyang Drive, #03-86
Singapore 637332

email: ppga-search@ntu.edu.sg

Applications sent by email should include "Assistant Professor (Public Policy and/or Public Administration)" in the subject line. Enquiries about the position can also be addressed to the above email address.

Closing date for application is 31 December 2017. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 11/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3781

George Mason University

Rank: Instructional Faculty: Full or Associate Professor Master of Public Administration Director

George Mason University
Instructional Faculty: Full or Associate Professor – Master of Public Administration Director

The George Mason University Schar School of Policy and Government is seeking an innovative scholar, at the Full or Associate Professor level, to lead the Master of Public Administration (MPA) Program starting in Fall 2018. The school offers both graduate and undergraduate programs in public administration, public policy, government, and a variety of specializations. George Mason University has a strong institutional commitment to the achievement of excellence and diversity among its faculty and staff, and strongly encourages candidates to apply who will enrich Mason's academic and culturally inclusive environment.

Responsibilities:

We seek an energetic individual to provide leadership, management and vision for the MPA program. The Director works closely with the Dean, Associate Deans, and other Program Directors.

Required Qualifications:

Applicants should have an established academic record with a Ph.D. in public administration, political science or a related field. The candidate should be able to teach MPA core and elective classes with the expectation that the Director will be an active scholar while providing the public face of the program.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience with the Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs, and Administration (NASPAA), the American Society for Public Administration (ASPA), or other professional organization(s) is desired. Senior management experience in the public or nonprofit sector is welcome. We encourage faculty members to be active in seeking outside funding for a variety of research, service and training areas; experience in generating funding support would be a benefit. The Schar School's highly-ranked, NASPAA-accredited MPA program has over 250 students and 2,500 graduates. Located in the National Capital region, we offer many courses and concentrations to a diverse population. Our approach to scholarship is interdisciplinary and collaborative. Many faculty members have held high-level positions in government and private organizations; our students and graduates work in all three sectors, at all levels of government and internationally. Our faculty consists of core MPA faculty, as well as those from a variety of fields who contribute to the intellectual diversity of the Schar School including political science, law, anthropology, sociology, international security, geography and history. With more than 33,000 students, George Mason University is the largest state university in the commonwealth of Virginia. Located on two campuses, Arlington and Fairfax, the Schar School is at the crossroads of government, nonprofit organizations, and private industry—just minutes from the nation's capital.

For more information, see schar.gmu.edu/. The committee will begin reviewing applications immediately, but the position will remain open until filled. For full consideration completed applications must be received by January 12, 2018. Fall 2018 is the highly desired start date. Salary will be commensurate with education and experience.

For full consideration, applicants must apply for position number F8613z at <http://jobs.gmu.edu/>; complete and submit the online application; and upload a letter of interest, a CV, and the names of three references.

George Mason University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, committed to promoting inclusion and equity in its community. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, disability, or protected veteran status.

Apply Here: <http://www.Click2Apply.net/87d8zcyt5sdqdf7k>

PI100163571

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/13/2017

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3773

Harvard University

Rank: Professor (Criminal Justice Policy)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Harvard Kennedy School seeks to appoint a chaired professor in the field of criminal justice policy. Candidates should have distinguished records of research and engagements in a field such as criminal justice, law, sociology, political science, philosophy or economics, a commitment to teaching in professional degree programs, and practical involvement and/or governmental leadership in criminal justice policy and practice. It is hoped that the candidate could play a leading role in the Program in Criminal Justice Policy and Management at the Kennedy School. Candidates should send a cover letter, CV and lists of references and papers and publications to: David T. Ellwood, Chair, Criminal Justice Policy Search Committee, c/o Alexandra Kovalik, Coordinator, Mailbox 114, Harvard Kennedy School, 79 John F. Kennedy St., Cambridge MA 02138 or via email to: Alexandra_kovalik@hks.harvard.edu. The committee will begin reviewing candidates on December 1st. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3771

Harvard University

Rank: Professor (Social Policy)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Harvard Kennedy School invites applications for one or more tenured positions in inequality and social policy. Candidates should have distinguished records of research, a commitment to teaching in professional degree programs, and practical engagement with and interest in public policy and practice. Applications are encouraged from all relevant disciplines, including, but not limited to, economics, sociology, political science, public policy, and criminal justice.

Candidates should send a cover letter, CV and lists of references and papers and publications to: David T. Ellwood, Chair, Social Policy Search Committee, c/o Alexandra Kovalik, Coordinator, Mailbox 114, Harvard Kennedy School, 79 John F. Kennedy St., Cambridge MA 02138 or via email to: Alexandra_kovalik@hks.harvard.edu. The committee will begin reviewing candidates on December 1st. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3770

Aurora University

Rank: MPA Director - Clinical Track or Tenure Track, Rank Open

In recent years, Aurora University (Aurora, IL) has earned national recognition as an educational innovator. Drawing on a unique vision of public-private partnership and the great resources of the Chicago metropolitan area, our faculty have developed ground-breaking curricula for undergraduate and graduate students.

Aurora University is excited to announce the launch of a new Master in Public Administration degree. In anticipation of the new degree, the university invites applications for a clinical- or tenure-track MPA Director (open faculty rank commensurate with the successful candidate's experience). Teaching and professional experience are highly valued. Prior higher education teaching experience preferred.

Aurora University's new MPA program prepares students for careers as successful public-sector practitioners upon graduation. While the ideal candidate will have a terminal degree in public administration (or a related-field), non-terminally degreed practitioners with significant public administration experience will also be considered.

The successful candidate is expected to lead in the MPA's successful launch and delivery, including supporting students through advising and mentoring, curriculum development, program assessment, and faculty hiring and supervision. As the program champion, the MPA Director is expected to collaborate with university enrollment and recruiting efforts for all sites of program delivery. S/he is expected to build and maintain an appropriate professional network that advances the university MPA program. S/he will teach a range of MPA courses, including core and elective courses in his/her area of expertise (i.e. public administration theory, community and economic development, nonprofit management, public safety management, research methods, public sector leadership, etc.). The MPA Director will participate in institutional service and professional activity appropriate to and commensurate with her/his rank and faculty-type (tenure or clinical appointment).

All faculty positions offer a competitive salary and excellent benefits including health, dental, vision, life, long term disability, a 403(b) retirement plan through TIAA, and tuition remission included for benefit-eligible positions.

Applications must include a letter of intent including description of education, certifications held, and all relevant experience, current curriculum vitae, and contact information for three references including phone numbers (candidates will be notified prior to references being contacted).

Please submit application materials as follows:

Faculty Search, Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs
Aurora University
347 S. Gladstone Ave.
Aurora, IL 60506
Electronic Submissions: facultysearch@aurora.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 11/8/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3758

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow, One Earth Future - Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy at the University of Denver's Josef Korbel School of International Studies, and the One Earth Future (OEF) are seeking qualified candidates for a new, innovative post-doctoral scholar program. The goal of this position is to contribute to the mission of both organizations through collaborative research on policy-relevant questions. Additionally, this position will serve as a bridge between the two Denver-based organizations and will have the opportunity to develop an OEF/Sié Center collaborative project. We will accept applications from candidates who specialize in global peace and security (broadly construed) and/or transnational governance but are particularly interested in those doing policy-relevant research on actions by non-state actors and their effects on violence, peacebuilding, and governance. The fellowship will begin September 1, 2018 and will extend for a one-year term, with the individual's time spent at both OEF and the Sié Center.

The Sié Center is a center of excellence within the Josef Korbel School that leads research, education and policy programs focused on global peace and security. Eight faculty, visiting and post-doctoral scholars, and over 40 Korbel MA and PhD students contribute to the Center's activities. While at the Sié Center, post-doctoral fellows have opportunities to work with Center faculty and graduate students, engage with relevant policy practitioners, and receive clerical and research/travel support sufficient to allow the completion of a major research product. Fellows will be expected to attend and contribute to a seminar series and engage with other program initiatives including conferences, commentary, and publications.

One Earth Future is a self-funded, private operating foundation seeking to create a more peaceful world through collaborative, data-driven initiatives that eliminate root causes of political conflict. Specific issue areas include enhancing maritime cooperation, creating sustainable jobs in fragile economies, improving natural resource governance, and research actively contributing to thought leadership on global issues. OEF Research is One Earth Future's think tank focused on global peace and security. OEF Research conducts empirical research on the predictors of peace and on the role of good governance in building and sustaining peace and shares that research with scholars, policymakers and all interested in a more peaceful world through published reports, discussion papers, and educational forums.

The fellowship carries an annual stipend of $50,000 and access to additional funding for research support, professional development, and travel, and a comprehensive benefits package. For administrative purposes, the selected candidate will be an employee of the University of Denver.

Essential Functions

- Conduct independent and collaborative research, with a focus on policy-relevant empirical research.
- With organizational partners, develop a joint OEF/Sié Center collaborative project (workshop or other sets of activities that will increase cooperation between the organizations and promote joint interests).
- Work with Sié faculty and OEF staff on research projects as consistent with his/her interests and expertise.
- Participate in events and workshops hosted by OEF and the Sié Center.
- Present research findings to interdisciplinary academic and audiences.

Required Qualifications

- Substantial progress toward a Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant discipline. Applicants should complete all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- Policy-relevant research agenda related to the Organizations' programs.

Preferred Qualifications

- Applicants should be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2014).

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 6:00 p.m. (MST) on December 15, 2017.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions regarding this position, please contact Jill Schmieder-Hereau, Executive Director of the Sié Center at Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

1. Cover Letter
2. CV
3. Writing Sample
4. Two letters of recommendation sent directly to Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

The University of Denver is committed to enhancing the diversity of its faculty and staff and encourages applications from women, minorities, members of the LGBTQ community, people with disabilities and veterans. The University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3751

Eastern Kentucky University

Rank: Public Law - Assistant Professor

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Religion & Politics

The Department of Government at Eastern Kentucky University seeks an Assistant Professor, tenure track, beginning August 15, 2018. The Department houses a NASPAA accredited MPA program, as well as undergraduate majors in Political Science and Paralegal Science and a post-baccalaureate certificate in Paralegal Science. Teaching load is 12 hours per semester. Candidates must have expertise in public law and possess a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration or Public Policy from a regionally accredited institution by the time of appointment on August 15, 2018. Successful candidates must be able to teach Political Science and public law courses. The candidate will also be expected to teach introductory courses in American Government or other areas of undergraduate and/or graduate political science and/or public administration. For additional information see the Department web site at <http://www.government.eku.edu/>

Review of applications will begin November 27, and continue until the position is filled. Qualified candidates must apply to requisition number 0620875 at <http://jobs.eku.edu>.

Eastern Kentucky University is an EEO/AA institution that values diversity in its faculty, staff, and student body. In keeping with this commitment, the University welcomes applications from diverse candidates and candidates who support diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3730

University of North Carolina, Wilmington

Rank: Assistant Professor - Public and International Affairs

Summary of Position

The Department of Public and International Affairs (PIA) at the University of North Carolina Wilmington (UNCW) invites applications for a position as a tenure-track assistant professor to play a role in our Master of Public Administration (MPA) Program. This position requires an active research program and carries a 3-3 teaching load. The candidate will teach primarily in the Master of Public Administration program but may also contribute to one or more of the other PIA programs: the undergraduate major in political science, the Master of Coastal and Ocean Policy (MCOP) program, and/or our Master of Conflict Management and Resolution (CMR) program.

Minimum Requirements

The successful candidate must be able to teach one of the core MPA courses (e.g., budgeting, human resources management) and contribute to one of the MPA concentrations in Public Management, Non-profit Management, Public Policy, etc. A doctorate in Public Administration, Public Affairs, Public Policy, or a closely related field is required. ABD candidates will be considered, however, the candidate must complete their doctorate prior to starting the position in August 2018.

Preferred Qualifications

The preferred candidate will be able to teach more than one of the core MPA courses and/or contribute to more than one of the MPA concentrations. Prior professional experience and prior teaching experience are desirable. A willingness to teach courses using online and distance education technologies and alternative scheduling formats is desired. Additional information about the PIA department and the MPA program can be found at <http://uncw.edu/pia/> and <http://uncw.edu/mpa/>.

Primary Function of Organizational Unit

The Department of Public and International Affairs supports the Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and several minors: International Affairs, Nonprofit Management and Leadership, Political Science, Pre-Law, Public Administration, and Security Studies. At the graduate level, faculty support courses in the Master of Public Administration, Master of Arts in Conflict Management and Resolution, and Master of Coastal and Ocean Policy.

College/School Information

At UNCW, the College of Arts and Sciences provides the vital foundation for the university's pursuit of excellence. Through our teaching, we educate students for lives of fulfillment in the twenty-first century. Through our research, we advance the state of knowledge and creativity in the arts and sciences. And through our outreach, we improve the quality of life in Southeastern North Carolina and beyond.

University Information

The University of North Carolina Wilmington, the state's coastal university, is dedicated to learning through the integration of teaching and mentoring with research and service. A public institution with over 15,000 students, the university is known for its superb faculty and staff and powerful academic experience. With an array of high-quality programs at the baccalaureate and master's levels, and doctoral programs in marine biology, educational leadership, psychology and nursing practice. UNCW is consistently recognized at a national level for academic excellence and affordability by publications like U.S. News & World Report, Kiplinger's Personal Finance and The Business Journals. UNCW also recently earned the 2015 Community Engagement Classification from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, bestowed to higher education institutions dedicated to community involvement.

EEO Statement

UNC Wilmington actively fosters a diverse and inclusive working and learning environment and is an equal opportunity employer. Qualified persons from all racial, ethnic or other minority groups, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged to apply.

Priority Consideration Information

Priority consideration will be given to applications received by January 01, 2018; however, applications will be accepted until the position is filled.

Position details and full applicant instructions can be found at <https://jobs.uncw.edu/postings/9783>

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3731

Bowling Green State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Department of Political Science: Assistant Professor, Bowling Green State University (Main Campus). Tenure-track faculty position available August 2018.

Responsibilities: Successful candidates are expected to be effective teachers and scholars. They are expected to teach a variety of courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels, develop an academic and/or applied research program that results in high levels of productivity, and participate in unit/college/university professional service.

Minimum Qualifications: A Ph.D. or D.P.A in Political Science, Public Administration, or related field is required (ABD candidates will be considered but must complete requirements for the doctoral degree prior to employment); college-level teaching experience; and a demonstrated record of scholarly activity. Preferred areas of specialization for this position include nonprofit management, urban planning, GIS, and/or local government.

For a complete job description & instructions on how to apply for this position visit <https://bgsu.hiretouch.com/> or contact the Office of Human Resources, BGSU.

Questions may be directed to the Faculty Search Committee Chair, Dr. Shannon K. Orr, skorr@bgsu.edu.

Application deadline is December 1, 2017. Background check is required for employment. BGSU is an AA/EEO/Vet employer. We encourage applications from women, minorities, veterans, and persons with disabilities regardless of age, gender identity, genetic information, religion, or sexual orientation.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3706

University of South Carolina

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

Assistant Professor, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Administration to begin August 16, 2018. The position is open with regard to substantive specialization. We seek candidates with rigorous, theoretically-informed research agendas who have an established record of publishing in leading public administration and political science outlets. Successful candidates will be able to contribute to the department's Master in Public Administration program, with the ability to teach core and elective classes in this program. Successful candidates will also be able to contribute to the department's methods sequence in the undergraduate, MPA, and/or Ph.D. programs. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, or a closely related field of study is required by the start date of appointment.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a writing sample, statements of research and teaching interests, graduate transcript, and three letters of recommendation. Applications received by November 6, 2017 are assured full consideration. All applicants must fill out an online application at USC Jobs: <https://uscjobs.sc.edu/>.

The University of South Carolina-Columbia is classified as R1: Doctoral Universities – Highest research activity in the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education. The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Minorities and women are encouraged to apply. The University of South Carolina does not discriminate in educational or employment opportunities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender, age, disability, veteran status or genetics. Please contact the search committee chair, Susan Miller (sumiller@mail-box.sc.edu), with any questions. Information regarding the Department of Political Science can be found at the department's website: <http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/poli/welcome>.

Thursday, October 26, 2017

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/6/2017

Date Posted: 10/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3701

The Bush School of Government & Public Service, Texas A&M University

Rank: Department Head

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2018, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and nonprofit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tamuedu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective.

The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3679

East Tennessee State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: American Politics, Latin American, Middle East

The Department of Political Science, International Affairs and Public Administration in the College of Arts and Sciences at East Tennessee State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in public administration at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in August 2018. The department offers undergraduate majors in Political Science and International Affairs, a Master of Public Administration, and undergraduate minor programs in Political Science, International Affairs, Legal Studies, and Public Administration.

Required Qualifications: Candidates for the position must hold a D.P.A. or Ph.D. in Public Administration, or a Ph.D. in Political Science with substantial expertise in public administration, by no later than August 1, 2018. Applicants must be prepared to teach a variety of graduate courses in the Master of Public Administration Program as well as some undergraduate courses in political science.

Preferred Qualifications: Ability to teach undergraduate courses in either Latin American or Middle Eastern Politics and in American government is preferred.

More information may be found on the ETSU HR website at <https://jobs.etsu.edu/postings/9580>

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/10/2018

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3610

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, AL, invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level beginning August 16, 2018. The successful candidate will become a core faculty member in the Master of Public Administration Program, and will also be expected to teach undergraduate public policy and administration courses. Although applicants from all disciplines of public administration who demonstrate excellence in research and teaching are encouraged to apply, we are particularly interested in those with teaching and research interests in either public budgeting, human resources, or quantitative methods. A completed Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, political science, or related discipline is required for appointment at the level of Assistant Professor.

The University of Alabama is the flagship campus of the University of Alabama system, enrolling over 38,000 students. Its Department of Political Science has 18 faculty members and offers a Masters of Public Administration degree, along with a B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degree in Political Science.

To apply, go to <https://facultyjobs.ua.edu/postings/41898> and complete the online application. Attach a letter of application, curriculum vitae, research statement, a transcript of graduate work, samples of publications and papers, and teaching evaluations, if available. Send three letters of recommendation directly to: Public Administration Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Alabama, Box 870213, Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0213, or via email at apatrack@ua.edu (please state the position in the email). For more information, contact James Gerard Caillier, Search Committee Chair, at jgcaillier@ua.edu. We will begin reviewing applications on January 15, 2018 and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled. The University of Alabama is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer, and actively seeks diversity among its employees. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3616

Bocconi University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Public Administration or/and Management

The Department of Policy Analysis and Public Management at Bocconi University is inviting applications from scholars in public management, public administration or management. The position is at assistant professor level, for appointment on September 1, 2018. We are particularly, though not exclusively interested in applications in the field of Human Resources Management, organizational behavior or organizational theory. Respondents should have research experience on public or non-profit organizations. We also encourage applications from candidates with research experience on international institutions. Bocconi University is a leading institution in economics, management and related disciplines in Europe, and it is currently expanding in the areas of political and social sciences. As part of this development, the Department has a major role in staffing a Bachelor in International Politics and Government (BIG), a Master in Government and International Organizations (GIO) and, starting 2018, a Master in Politics and Public Policy. Public Management is a major field in the Ph.D. Program in Public Policy and Administration, launched in 2014.

Bocconi provides an ideal interdisciplinary research environment. The Department of Policy Analysis and Public Management combines faculty from several social sciences (public administration, political science, sociology, economics, history, public health, demography), who shares an interest policy-relevant research, from analysis and design to implementation and management. The Department counts 60 tenured or tenure-track faculty members.

The successful candidate is expected to teach at the undergraduate and graduate level, including SDA-Bocconi (executive education). The excellent terms of employment are competitive. Bocconi University is located in Italy's most vibrant center, Milan, a historical and cosmopolitan city in a metro area of 3 million and well connected to the rest of Europe.

Applications are due by January 7th, 2018. Review will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Campus visits will be scheduled accordingly.

Knowledge of Italian is not required. Responsibilities include teaching and productivity in research. Applicants should have – or be close to completing – a PhD and will have demonstrated strong potential in research.

To ensure full consideration, applicants must submit:

- A scientific curriculum;
 - Titles, publications and documents which the candidates intend to submit for this evaluation;
 - The name of at least two highly qualified academic referees
- Submissions must be done via the on-line e-form with pdf attachments which can be found at www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket.

To complete the online process and be considered for the position, applicants will have to include at least two letters of recommendation. The letters should be sent by the referees no later than January 15th 2018.

For further information, please contact prof. Greta Nasi (greta.nasi@unibocconi.it) and prof. Valentina Mele (valentina.mele@unibocconi.it).

Bocconi University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. Applications are particularly welcome from women and members of groups who are under-represented in academic posts.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/7/2018

Date Posted: 10/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3581

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

Sam Houston State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration

The Political Science Department at Sam Houston State University invites applications for a tenure track assistant professor position in public administration beginning in Fall 2018. The position requires teaching online MPA level courses. Specialization in disasters and emergency management is required, as is the ability to teach budgeting/finance and research methods. Successful candidates will possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and show a strong potential for a productive scholarly program. The teaching load for this position will be 3/3. The successful candidate will be expected to hold regular on-campus office hours and participate in program, department, and university activities.

A Ph.D. in political science, government, politics, public administration, public affairs, or public policy is required. ABD will be considered but must have a Ph.D. by the start date (August 2018).

Salary commensurate with education and experience.

Those interested should apply online at <https://shsu.peopleadmin.com/>. To complete the application, the following documents are required: cover letter, CV, three letters of recommendation, writing sample, and copies of graduate transcripts. Please direct any questions about the position to Dr. Jonathan Brown at jnb047@shsu.edu. The search committee will begin reviewing materials immediately and continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3540

Northern Arizona University

Rank: Lecturer, Public Administration

We're Hiring At Northern Arizona University. You can address questions to me at Lori.Poloni-Staudinger@nau.edu:

Special Information

Northern Arizona University's Department of Politics and International Affairs invites applications for a Lecturer appointment, with a focus on public administration and policy beginning August 2018. The position is expected to be continuing, with potential for promotion. Renewal is contingent on performance and department needs. The typical teaching load for a lecturer is 4-4.

The NAU Department of Politics and International Affairs is a research-oriented department that offers three undergraduate degree programs, two masters degree programs (including an MPA degree for which we are seeking accreditation) and a doctoral program. The department currently has 20 full-time faculty (both tenure track and non tenure track). The Department's strengths and foci are in environmental politics, global development, and diversity politics. We also have expertise in social movements. All faculty members are expected to promote student learning and help students achieve academic outcomes. The university is committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment.

Job Description

We are seeking applicants for a full-time, nine month, non-tenure-track lecturer position to join the Department faculty.

We are seeking individuals who can teach our core Master's of Public Administration courses as well as a broad range of electives for that program. Candidates must be able to offer courses at both the undergraduate and graduate levels in public administration and policy. Teaching will constitute at least 80% of assignments, with remaining workload time to be devoted to research and/or service activity.

This is an online teaching position; however, there will be options to teach in person on the Flagstaff campus.

Applicants must reside in Arizona or be willing to relocate to Arizona by the time of appointment.

Minimum Qualifications

Applicants must be A.B.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs or related discipline by the time of appointment, and have completed graduate level coursework in public administration and policy. Applicants must have an ability to teach organizational theory.

Preferred Qualifications

Preferred qualifications include:

Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration, Public Affairs, or related discipline broadly trained in public administration and public policy demonstrated evidence of teaching skills and effectiveness (through sample syllabi, student opinion surveys, and teaching statements) demonstrated potential or evidence of effective online teaching demonstrated professional development activities (including research, applied work, grant work or other professional development) in public administration and policy demonstrated evidence of commitment to working effectively within a diverse university community

We encourage applications from individuals who have an ability to teach budgeting and human resources or other areas of specialization in public administration.

Preference will also be given to individuals who are able to contribute to our MPA program as well as to our NASPAA accreditation process. We are also looking for candidates who complement the Department's particular strengths and foci in global development, environmental policy, and diversity.

General Information

Northern Arizona University has a student population of 30,368, including approximately 22,000 on its main campus in Flagstaff and the remainder at more than 20 locations statewide and online.

Committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment, NAU has earned a solid reputation as a university with all the features of a large institution but with a personal touch. NAU carefully balances teaching, scholarship and service with a faculty and staff dedicated to each student's success. All faculty members are expected to promote student learning and help students achieve academic outcomes.

While our emphasis is undergraduate education, we offer a wide range of graduate programs and research that extend to such national concerns as forest health and bioterrorism. Our institution has carefully integrated on-campus education with distance learning, forming seamless avenues for students to earn degrees.

Flagstaff has a population of about 70,000, rich in cultural diversity. Located at the base of the majestic San Francisco Peaks, Flagstaff is 140 miles north of Phoenix at the intersection of Interstate 17 and Interstate 40.

With its elevation of 7,000 feet and four-season climate, Flagstaff is ideal for year-round outdoor activities. Nearby attractions include the Grand Canyon, Lowell Observatory, Oak Creek Canyon, Sedona, Monument Valley, Sunset Crater, Meteor Crater, and Arizona Snowbowl.

The university is committed to a diverse and civil working and learning environment.

For information about diversity, access and equity at NAU, see nau.edu/Center-for-University-Access-and-Inclusion/.

Background Information

Northern Arizona University requires satisfactory results for the following: a criminal background investigation, an employment history verification and a degree verification (in some cases) prior to employment. You may also be required to complete a fingerprint background check.

Additionally, as an employer in the state of Arizona, NAU is required to participate in the federal E-Verify program that assists employers with verifying new employees' right to work in the United States.

Finally, each year the Northern Arizona University Police Department releases an annual security report. The report is a result of the federal law known as the Clery Act and contains policy statements that address the school's policies, procedures and programs concerning safety and security including policies for responding to emergency situations and sexual offenses. The report contains three years of data for Clery reportable crime statistics for the campus along with the most current year's Fire Safety Report, which includes policy statements and fire statistics for Flagstaff on-campus student housing.

The report may be viewed at nau.edu/clery or by visiting the NAUPD website at: <http://www.nau.edu/police>. A printed copy of the report is available upon request by contacting the NAU Police Department, Records Department at (928)523-8884 or by visiting the department at Building 98A on the NAU Mountain Campus.

Salary

Commensurate with experience and educational qualifications.

Benefits

This is a Faculty (FAC) position. NAU offers an excellent benefit package including generous health, dental and vision insurance; participation in the Arizona State Retirement System (ASRS) or the Optional Retirement Program (ORP); sick leave accruals and 10 holidays per year; and tuition reduction for employees and qualified family members. More information on benefits at NAU is available at <https://nau.edu/Human-Resources/Benefits/>

Faculty are hired on a contract basis, renewable according to terms of the Conditions of Faculty Service <http://nau.edu/Provost/Resources-Policies/>

Employees offered a position will be eligible for state health plans (including NAU's BCBS Plan). Employees will have 31 days from date of hire to enroll in benefits, and their benefits will then be effective the first day of the pay period following their completed enrollment.

If a new employee chooses the Arizona State Retirement System (ASRS) retirement option, participation in the ASRS Plan (and the long-term disability coverage that accompanies it) will begin on the first of the pay period following 183 days of employment. New employees who choose to participate in the Optional Retirement Plan (ORP; an alternative to the ASRS plan) will begin to participate on the first day of employment. The long-term disability plan that accompanies the ORP will begin on the first day of the pay period following 90 days of employment. More information about NAU benefits is available at <https://nau.edu/Human-Resources/Benefits/>

Submission Deadline

This vacancy will be open until filled or closed. Review of applications will begin on October 27, 2017.

How to Apply

To apply for this position, please click on the "Apply" button on this [NAU Human Resources] page. Application must include a single attachment, either a word document or pdf, that contains: 1) letter of interest including your relevant experience for the position, 2) sample syllabi, 3) a teaching statement, 4) teaching evaluations, 5) a statement or evidence of professional development (such as but not limited to research, grants, applied reports, or other professional development experience), 6) a curriculum vita, 7) unofficial academic transcripts.

Additionally, three letters of reference should be sent under separate cover by referees to Heaven Johnson, Administrative Assistant at <Heaven.Johnson@nau.edu>.

If you have problems submitting application attachments in the form of a Word or PDF document please contact the department for assistance.

If you need assistance completing your application there are instructions available on line at <http://hr.nau.edu> or in person in the Human Resources Department located in Building 91 on the NAU Campus - on the corner of Beaver and DuPont Streets.

If you are an individual with a disability and need reasonable accommodation to participate in the hiring process please contact the Office of Equity and Access at: 928-523-3312/TDD - 928-523-1006 or PO Box 4083, Flagstaff AZ 86011.

FLSA Status

This position is exempt from the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and therefore will not earn overtime or compensatory time for additional time worked.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Northern Arizona University is a committed Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Institution. Women, minorities, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply. NAU is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

EEO is the Law Poster and Supplements

NAU is an Employer of National Service. AmeriCorps, Peace Corps, and other National Service alumni are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/27/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3523

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Positions in Values and Public Policy

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Other, Public Administration

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Environmental Policy, Civil Rights & Liberties

The University Center for Human Values and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs invite applications for postdoctoral positions in Values and Public Policy. We aim to support highly promising scholars trained in moral and political philosophy, political theory, normative economics and related areas to develop a research agenda in the ethical dimensions of public policy.

Candidates selected will undertake a research project exploring a normative problem arising in an area of public policy in which the Woodrow Wilson School conducts research. They will be affiliated with a unit of the School that can inform and support their work. They will also be invited to participate in programs of the University Center for Human Values. Candidates will be expected to contribute the equivalent of one course each year to the undergraduate or graduate programs of the School or the University Center. This contribution may be fulfilled by teaching a course on a topic related to ethical issues in public policy, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval by the Dean of the Faculty, or service to the School or Center.

Qualifications

Applicants must have a Ph.D. and should not have held the degree for more than three years by the date of appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment.

Applicants' dissertation research need not be specifically in values and public policy, but they will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to working on a research project in this area during their time at Princeton. Projects must be related to an area in which the School has a Center or Program (such as science and environmental policy, health and well-being, democratic institutions and processes, information technology policy or globalization and governance). For more information about these areas, please consult <http://www.princeton.edu/centers-programs>.

Applications will be evaluated on the basis of the applicant's previous accomplishments, the promise of the proposed research project in values and public policy, and the likelihood that the project will be enhanced by being carried out at the Woodrow Wilson School. The capacity to contribute to the University's teaching program will also be taken into account.

Term of Appointment

The term of appointment is one year, normally beginning September 1, 2018, with the expectation of renewal for one further year assuming good performance. Applicants are expected to be in residence for the duration of the appointment. Princeton offers competitive salary and employee benefits.

How to Apply

Candidates must submit an online application at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/2245>

A complete application will include the following materials:

1. A current curriculum vitae;
2. A research proposal (not to exceed 1,500 words), conforming to the expectations stated above. Please identify the Woodrow Wilson School center or program with which you wish to be associated and briefly describe what you hope to gain from carrying out the project there. Also please supply an indicative title for the project at the beginning of the proposal;
3. A scholarly paper or dissertation chapter (not to exceed 12,000 words) representing your scholarly achievement or potential;
4. Contact information for two referees, who will be asked to comment specifically on your qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for uploading letters of reference.

These materials should be submitted online by Monday, November 13, 2017. We cannot accept application materials by any other method. Letters of reference are to be submitted by end of business day on Thursday, November 16, 2017. The selection committee will begin reviewing applications immediately and applications lacking any of the elements listed above may be at a disadvantage. Decisions will be announced in March 2018.

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/13/2017

Date Posted: 9/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3447

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant's area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva College, the undergraduate men's College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3390

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3308

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair
Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
 Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
 Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future;

leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3205

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/9/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3169

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3130

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

Subfield(s): Methodology, Political Theory, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3116

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont

Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2988

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Urban Politics, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Urban Studies, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and urban government and politics. Additionally, the applicant should be able to develop and teach courses in urban policy and/or local government. Particular area(s) of specialization may include poverty, racial segregation, transportation, housing, infrastructure, homelessness, crime, education, collaborative governance, and/or economic development.

Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and a show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until October 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 6/26/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2920

Lamar University

Rank: Jack Brooks Endowed Chair of Government & Public Service

Specializations: Congress, Leadership Studies, Legislative Studies

The Department of Political Science is seeking a scholar with outstanding teaching and research potential for the Jack Brooks Chair in Government and Public Service beginning August 15, 2018.

The holder of the Chair will have a tenure track appointment at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the Department of Political Science. The Chair will teach six hours per semester, including graduate seminars and undergraduate courses in Congress, Legislative Processes and Leadership.

In addition to a nine-month salary, which is dependent on qualifications and experience, the Brooks Chair includes a summer research stipend.

Candidates should have a PhD in Political Science or Government. Salary and rank are dependent on experience and credentials. Preference will be given to PhD candidates with advanced degrees in Political Science or Government and specializing in leadership studies or the legislature.

The successful candidate will implement effective teaching strategies and communicate with, motivate, and evaluate students; maintain an active service agenda; participate with other faculty in professional and scholarly exchanges within the department and throughout the university; and participate in educationally related aspects of community and civic affairs.

Submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, transcripts, evidence of teaching effectiveness, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation to: Political Science Search Committee Chairperson, <https://jobs.lamar.edu>

If your letters of recommendation are confidential, please have the letters mailed to the address above or emailed to: jobs@lamar.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/12/2018

Date Posted: 6/19/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 2894

PUBLIC LAW

Rhode Island College

Rank: Assistant Professor, Political Science

Assistant Professor, Political Science. The Political Science Department at Rhode Island College invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in the field of Public Law / Judicial Politics, to begin Fall, 2018. The person hired will teach Intro. American Government & Politics, an upper-level course in Civil Liberties, and other upper-level courses in their area of specialization. Additionally, we seek candidates who can teach our required course on research and writing in Political Science. The standard teaching load is three 4-credit courses per semester. Additional information on the position and application instructions can be found at <https://employment.ric.edu>.

Rhode Island College serves a diverse student population and is located in the vibrant city of Providence, Rhode Island.

The application deadline is December, 31st, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Any

eJobs ID: 3823

College of Charleston

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Specializations: Political Philosophy & Theory, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Theory

The Department of Political Science at the College of Charleston invites applications for an assistant professor position in political theory and law beginning August 2018. The successful candidate will teach introductory and upper level classes in political theory and public law and contribute to the department's Politics, Philosophy, and Law (PPLW) concentration. The PPLW concentration allows focused attention on theoretical issues related to the law, so the ability to offer classes in jurisprudence, legal theory, or constitutional law would be particularly welcome. A PhD in Political Science or a related field is required. Primary teaching and advising responsibilities will be in the undergraduate political science program, and the teaching load is six courses per academic year. The College of Charleston is a public, liberal arts and sciences institution with approximately 10,000 undergraduate students and 1,100 graduate students. The Political Science Department has 21 fulltime faculty, approximately 320 undergraduate majors (<http://polisci.cofc.edu/>), and a Geography Minor (<http://geography-minor.cofc.edu/>). The department also supports a Master of Public Administration (<http://puba.cofc.edu/>) and Master of Science in Environmental Studies (<http://mes.cofc.edu/>) program. The College is located in historic downtown Charleston in a coastal metropolitan area of 750,000. Additional information about the institution and the surrounding area is available at <https://www.cofc.edu/>. Applicants should apply online at <https://jobs.cofc.edu/> and submit a cover letter, a curriculum vita, graduate transcripts, sample publication/example of scholarly research, a teaching portfolio (with evidence of teaching effectiveness including, but not limited to course syllabi and course evaluations), and contact information for three references. Questions about the search can be directed to the search committee chair, Dr. Claire Curtis (curtisc@cofc.edu). Review of applications will begin December 16, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. The College of Charleston is an AA/EO employer and strongly encourages women and minority candidates to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3798

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3759

Radford University

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Law, Political Theory, American Government and Politics

The Department of Political Science at Radford University invites applications for the position of Chair of the Political Science Department. The Department is seeking a strong leader who brings relevant academic and administrative experience to the position. Specialists in American Government, Public Law and Political Theory are preferred. The Department Chair is expected to provide administrative leadership to 7 faculty members and staff, model excellence in teaching, maintain an active program of scholarship and oversee departmental operations that includes budgets, scheduling, and engaging in appropriate college level service. Beginning August 10, 2018. Radford University prides itself in the quality of its teaching, instructional support, and strong faculty-student ties.

Required Qualifications: Applicants should possess the following: (1) a Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field; (b) Obtained the rank of either Full or Associate Professor; (3) an established record of research and teaching excellence; and (4) previous administrative experience or university service that would demonstrate the applicant's capacity to carry out the duties of department chair.

Located in the scenic New River Valley, between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the south and the Appalachians to the north, Radford University is a growing university with approximately 9,500 students. A student-focused institution, Radford's commitment to student engagement provides a wide range of opportunities for learning, growth, and collaboration for faculty as well as students.

As the largest college at Radford University and home to Liberal Arts instruction on campus, the College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is central to the mission of the university. Faculty members strive to develop in their students a range of intellectual skills and habits of mind that will serve them well throughout their academic and professional lives, as well as in their personal lives as productive citizens. Students regularly engage with faculty in experiential learning activities as well as in professional internships that provide opportunities to serve communities while preparing for careers. Faculty members' scholarly and creative activity is viewed as a vital corollary to the instructional mission of the institution, with faculty encouraged to co-author research with undergraduate and graduate students.

The College of Humanities and Behavioral Sciences at Radford University is located in the new 145,000 square foot state-of-the-art instructional facility that is home to all 125+ college faculty members. Centrally located on the main quad of the campus, it is the largest academic building at the university and houses an array of specialized teaching and research facilities.

Apply online at <http://jobs.radford.edu/postings/5559>. Only online applications will be accepted. Candidates will need to submit an electronic copy of the following: a letter of application, current and complete curriculum vitae, a statement of management philosophy (under "other" document), evidence of teaching effectiveness, a research sample, contact information for three references (not the letters themselves), and copies of unofficial transcripts. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Radford University is an EO/AA employer committed to diversity. All new hires to Radford University will be subject to E-Verify beginning June 1, 2011. E-Verify is administered by the U. S. Department of Homeland Security, USCIS-Verification Division and the Social Security Administration and allows participating employers to electronically verify employment eligibility.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/9/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3760

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow, One Earth Future - Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy at the University of Denver's Josef Korbel School of International Studies, and the One Earth Future (OEF) are seeking qualified candidates for a new, innovative post-doctoral scholar program. The goal of this position is to contribute to the mission of both organizations through collaborative research on policy-relevant questions. Additionally, this position will serve as a bridge between the two Denver-based organizations and will have the opportunity to develop an OEF/Sié Center collaborative project. We will accept applications from candidates who specialize in global peace and security (broadly construed) and/or transnational governance but are particularly interested in those doing policy-relevant research on actions by non-state actors and their effects on violence, peacebuilding, and governance. The fellowship will begin September 1, 2018 and will extend for a one-year term, with the individual's time spent at both OEF and the Sié Center.

The Sié Center is a center of excellence within the Josef Korbel School that leads research, education and policy programs focused on global peace and security. Eight faculty, visiting and post-doctoral scholars, and over 40 Korbel MA and PhD students contribute to the Center's activities. While at the Sié Center, post-doctoral fellows have opportunities to work with Center faculty and graduate students, engage with relevant policy practitioners, and receive clerical and research/travel support sufficient to allow the completion of a major research product. Fellows will be expected to attend and contribute to a seminar series and engage with other program initiatives including conferences, commentary, and publications.

One Earth Future is a self-funded, private operating foundation seeking to create a more peaceful world through collaborative, data-driven initiatives that eliminate root causes of political conflict. Specific issue areas include enhancing maritime cooperation, creating sustainable jobs in fragile economies, improving natural resource governance, and research actively contributing to thought leadership on global issues. OEF Research is One Earth Future's think tank focused on global peace and security. OEF Research conducts empirical research on the predictors of peace and on the role of good governance in building and sustaining peace and shares that research with scholars, policymakers and all interested in a more peaceful world through published reports, discussion papers, and educational forums.

The fellowship carries an annual stipend of $50,000 and access to additional funding for research support, professional development, and travel, and a comprehensive benefits package. For administrative purposes, the selected candidate will be an employee of the University of Denver.

Essential Functions

- Conduct independent and collaborative research, with a focus on policy-relevant empirical research.
- With organizational partners, develop a joint OEF/Sié Center collaborative project (workshop or other sets of activities that will increase cooperation between the organizations and promote joint interests).
- Work with Sié faculty and OEF staff on research projects as consistent with his/her interests and expertise.
- Participate in events and workshops hosted by OEF and the Sié Center.
- Present research findings to interdisciplinary academic and audiences.

Required Qualifications

- Substantial progress toward a Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant discipline. Applicants should complete all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- Policy-relevant research agenda related to the Organizations' programs.

Preferred Qualifications

- Applicants should be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2014).

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 6:00 p.m. (MST) on December 15, 2017.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions regarding this position, please contact Jill Schmieder-Hereau, Executive Director of the Sié Center at Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

1. Cover Letter
2. CV
3. Writing Sample
4. Two letters of recommendation sent directly to Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

The University of Denver is committed to enhancing the diversity of its faculty and staff and encourages applications from women, minorities, members of the LGBTQ community, people with disabilities and veterans. The University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3751

University of Texas at Dallas

Rank: Comparative Law and Courts

Subfield(s): Public Law, Comparative Politics, Methodology

The School of Economic, Political, and Policy Sciences at The University of Texas at Dallas (UTD) invites applications for a full-time, open rank tenure-track position beginning in August of 2018 in the Political Science Program. Candidates at the associate or full rank are preferred, although advanced assistants will be considered. The successful candidate will be expected to teach an introductory undergraduate comparative law course, specialized upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses, and to be involved with the pre-law administrative team. Possible specializations might include: human rights, cyberlaw, comparative and foreign law, or trade law, among others. Ideal candidates will demonstrate their ability to contribute to existing program strengths in quantitative methods and teaching excellence.

The University of Texas at Dallas is a fast-growing, suburban research university and has the highest freshman SAT scores of any public university in Texas. UTD is ranked 1st among the 100 best universities in the world under 50 years old by Times Higher Education magazine and is classified by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education as R1 (Highest Research Activity). The Political Science program currently has approximately 60 graduate students and 250 undergraduate majors.

Faculty typically teach two courses per semester, and opportunities for leave become available after a successful third-year review.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue through January 31, 2018. Position starts in August 2018.

Apply at: <https://jobs.utdallas.edu/postings/8997>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/30/2018

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3740

Eastern Kentucky University

Rank: Public Law - Assistant Professor

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Religion & Politics

The Department of Government at Eastern Kentucky University seeks an Assistant Professor, tenure track, beginning August 15, 2018. The Department houses a NASPAA accredited MPA program, as well as undergraduate majors in Political Science and Paralegal Science and a post-baccalaureate certificate in Paralegal Science. Teaching load is 12 hours per semester. Candidates must have expertise in public law and possess a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Administration or Public Policy from a regionally accredited institution by the time of appointment on August 15, 2018. Successful candidates must be able to teach Political Science and public law courses. The candidate will also be expected to teach introductory courses in American Government or other areas of undergraduate and/or graduate political science and/or public administration. For additional information see the Department web site at <http://www.government.eku.edu/>

Review of applications will begin November 27, and continue until the position is filled. Qualified candidates must apply to requisition number 0620875 at <http://jobs.eku.edu>.

Eastern Kentucky University is an EEO/AA institution that values diversity in its faculty, staff, and student body. In keeping with this commitment, the University welcomes applications from diverse candidates and candidates who support diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3730

Missouri Southern State University

Rank: Master Instructor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Methodology

Specializations: American Politics, Judicial Politics, Quantitative Methods

Seeking an Master Instructor to teach on campus in the area(s) of introductory American Government, public law, as well as supervise the MSSU Mock Trial program. Must have a Master's degree in the related discipline area, (PhD preferred). Certification in certain fields may also be accepted depending on subject matter. Employment will require a background check. E-verify participating employer. Applicant materials include a letter of application, curriculum vitae with the names, addresses, email and phone numbers of three references, and unofficial transcripts. Submit materials at www.mssu.edu/jobs. Official transcripts are required within 45 days of hire. Review of applicant materials begins immediately and will continue until the position(s) has been filled. EOE.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3721

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: 3-Year Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin Fall 2018. The successful candidate will teach four sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/21/2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3661

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Vanderbilt Political Science faculty member, Alan Wiseman, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are required. Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their PhD by August 1, 2018. These positions involve a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2018. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita, a cover letter, and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective Lawmaking during the postdoc. Please review www.thelawmakers.org for more information about the Center. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and letters of reference are also required. Applicants should submit materials electronically through Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46317>. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before October 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3658

California Polytechnic State University

Rank: Assistant Professor in Political Science - Law and Society

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, POLITICAL SCIENCE - The Department of Political Science in the College of Liberal Arts at California Polytechnic State University (Cal Poly), San Luis Obispo, California, invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track academic year Assistant Professor with a specialization in empirical Law and Society to begin September 13, 2018. The successful candidate will have research expertise and the ability to teach courses in our pre-law concentration/Law & Society minor (e.g., judicial politics, judicial process, civil rights and/or constitutional law) as well as our undergraduate research design and/or quantitative methods courses. We are particularly interested in candidates whose work emphasizes issues of justice, diversity and inclusion.

The typical teaching assignment is 12 units (three courses) per quarter, with correspondingly reasonable research and service expectations, and with a significant reduction in course load in the first two years to help establish an active program of research and professional development. An earned doctorate (Ph.D. or equivalent) in Political Science or a closely related field from an accredited institution or international equivalent is required. Candidates nearing completion of the doctorate (ABD) may be considered, but must provide proof that the doctorate was completed prior to appointment. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

At California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, we believe that cultivating an environment that embraces and promotes diversity is fundamental to the success of our students, our employees and our community. Bringing people together from different backgrounds, experiences and value systems fosters the innovative and creative thinking that exemplifies Cal Poly's values of free inquiry, cultural and intellectual diversity, mutual respect, civic engagement, and social and environmental responsibility. Cal Poly's commitment to diversity informs our efforts in recruitment, hiring and retention. California Polytechnic State University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

HOW TO APPLY: Interested applicants should complete the required online faculty application at WWW.CALPOLYJOBS.ORG and submit to Requisition #104644. Please attach to your online application the following required materials: Cover Letter, Curriculum Vitae, Statement of Teaching Philosophy, Evidence of teaching effectiveness and teaching evaluations, Statement of Professional/Research Goals, a PDF file of a recent publication or manuscript, a Statement of Diversity and Inclusion describing past experience and contributions to diversity and inclusion efforts and a description of how you will demonstrate a commitment in these areas regarding teaching, research and/or service at Cal Poly, and an unofficial copy of transcripts. Applicants should be prepared to submit the names and email addresses for a minimum of three professional references. Cal Poly will directly solicit letters from the individuals listed by applicants. Letters must be dated within the year of recruitment. Sealed official transcripts showing highest degree earned will be required prior to appointment.

REVIEW BEGIN DATE: December 1, 2017. This position is open until filled. Completed applications (all required materials submitted) received by the review begin date will receive full consideration.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3628

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

St. Bonaventure University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Law, Methodology, American Government and Politics

St. Bonaventure University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in American politics and public law, beginning fall 2018. Teaching responsibilities include courses in law and society, the introductory course in American government and politics, a quantitative research methods course for undergraduate Political Science majors, as well as courses in your area of interest. Teaching load is twelve credit hours per semester. Additional responsibilities include assisting with the Law and Society program, advising pre-law students, involvement in student affairs and university service, and an active research agenda. Applicants must have a PhD in hand or demonstrate that they will defend their dissertation by August 2018. Founded in 1858, St. Bonaventure University is a Catholic university dedicated to educational excellence in the Franciscan tradition. We are a predominately undergraduate, liberal arts based institution with 2000 students located in the Allegheny Mountains near Olean, NY. St. Bonaventure University emphasizes small classes, close engagement with students, and a mission-based liberal arts curriculum. Applicants should send curriculum vitae, graduate school transcript, evidence of teaching effectiveness such as summaries of student evaluations, three letters of recommendation, and a cover letter that discusses your approach to teaching and your research interests. St. Bonaventure University is committed to enhancing the diversity of our faculty and strongly encourages applications from under-represented groups of all faiths. The deadline for application is December 15, 2018. Email application and supporting documents to:

Josiah B. Lambert, PhD

poliscisearch@sbu.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/2/2017

Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3549

Louisiana State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track)
 Department of Political Science
 Louisiana State University

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a junior level, tenure-track, Assistant Professor position in judicial politics/public law to begin Fall 2018. Pending final approval, the position will be full-time, tenure-track, with a teaching load of two courses per semester. Candidates should be prepared to teach both undergraduate and graduate courses. Required Qualifications: Ph.D. in Political Science or related field by the Fall of 2018. Candidates with Ph.D. in hand are preferred, but we will consider those who are close to completion and will finish by the time of the appointment. An active and rigorous research agenda is critical, as well as a commitment to teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. Applications should be submitted online at www.lssystemcareers.lsu.edu <<http://www.lssystemcareers.lsu.edu/>>, Req. number is R00017208. Application materials should include a letter of application stating the candidate's research and teaching interests, a curriculum vitae, and evidence of research and teaching effectiveness. In addition three current letters of recommendation should be sent directly to Wayne Parent, Department of Political Science, 240 Stubbs, Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, LA 70803-5433 or by email to popare@lsu.edu. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2017. Salary for the appointment will be commensurate with educational preparation and experience. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. LSU is an equal access/equal opportunity employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/1/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3502

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3532

Muhlenberg College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Constitutional Law & Theory, Judicial Politics, American Politics

The Department of Political Science at Muhlenberg College invites applications for a one-year Visiting Assistant Professor to begin August 2018. The successful candidate will be broadly trained in political science with a primarily interest in American public law. We are open to candidates with a variety of substantive teaching and research interests, for example, constitutional law and theory; judicial politics; civil rights; law and society; criminal justice politics; democracy, law, and race; global legal studies; immigration. We are especially interested in candidates who desire to work across subfield and disciplinary boundaries and welcome a variety of methodological approaches. Teaching responsibilities include three courses per semester to include one or two classes in American constitutional law or constitutional theory.

Ideally, candidates will hold a PhD in Political Science by August 2018. Successful candidates will demonstrate a commitment to excellence in liberal arts undergraduate teaching and mentoring students from all backgrounds (including first-generation students, low-income students, racial and ethnic minorities, women, LGBTQ, etc.), the potential for scholarly publications and effective written and oral communication.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter describing their teaching and research interests, a curriculum vita, sample teaching materials (e.g., sample syllabi, a statement describing a potential new course, and/or a statement of teaching philosophy), graduate transcripts, and contact information for three references. Candidates are encouraged to submit a separate statement describing how their teaching, research, and potential course offerings will support Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity, inclusion, and equity.

Complete applications should be sent as a single PDF document, addressed to Lanethea Mathews-Schultz, Political Science Department Chair, and emailed to pscsearch@muhlenberg.edu. Applications must be received no later than December 1, 2017.

Allentown is a diverse city of 116,000, and along with Bethlehem and Easton, anchors the third-largest metropolitan area in Pennsylvania. The greater Lehigh Valley is home to a vibrant arts scene, a nationally unique parks system, and a rich blend of cuisine and ethnic restaurants. In addition, Allentown is within close proximity to both New York City and Philadelphia. An equal opportunity employer, Muhlenberg College is committed to recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty and staff from racial and ethnic groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in higher education. For additional information about Muhlenberg's commitment to diversity and inclusion, please see our Diversity Strategic Plan.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3533

Towson University

Rank: Lecturer

LECTURER SEARCH
 DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
 ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Law, Judicial Process

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a position at the Lecturer level. The position entails teaching courses including Introduction to Law and the Judicial Process.

Applicants with Ph.D. and/or J.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference. J.D. applicants must have political science background. The teaching load is four courses per semester. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Cindy Cates, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/18/2017
Salary: $40,000 - $49,999
eJobs ID: 3436

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Garwood Teaching Fellow
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Law

Invitation for Garwood Teaching Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointment as Garwood Teaching Fellow for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. The Garwood Teaching Fellowship can be for one semester or the academic year. Garwood Fellows teach at least one undergraduate course on statesmanship and presidential leadership in Princeton University's Department of Politics, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Depending on the needs of the University, additional teaching opportunities may be available, again subject to enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

James Madison Program Fellows will spend their Fellowship in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University, and are encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00011. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a course proposal and draft syllabus;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, what financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:
 Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.

Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3427

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;

- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3428

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associate
Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Political Theory

Invitation for Postdoctoral Research Associate Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites recent Ph.D. recipients to apply for appointments as Postdoctoral Research Associates or more senior for the year from September 1, 2018 to September 1, 2019 with the possibility of renewal for an additional year, contingent on good performance. All James Madison Program postdocs are expected to be in residence at Princeton University for the duration of the appointment. They may not be employed by another institution during the term of their Princeton appointment. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to the approval of the Dean of the Faculty. Postdoctoral Research Associates are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

The position is a fully funded, 12-month postdoctoral research associate appointment with benefits. All James Madison Program Postdoctoral Research Associates must have a Ph.D. degree. Applications are evaluated on the basis of (1) the significance of the proposed research; (2) the quality of the applicant's past research; and (3) the contribution the applicant is likely to make to higher education in the future. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

How to apply:

For full consideration, applicants should submit an online application at AHIRE link by December 1, 2017; however, applications will continue to be reviewed until positions are filled. Awards will be announced in March 2018. To apply for a Postdoctoral Research Associate position, go directly to the link. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D.
Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu
Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2016
Date Posted: 9/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3429

University of Connecticut

Rank: Associate Professor or Professor of Law

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Constitutional Law & Theory, Criminal Justice

The University of Connecticut School of Law solicits applications for one or two tenured or tenure-track faculty positions to commence in fall 2018. We are considering candidates with a broad range of scholarly interests, including with those with a terminal degree (such as a Ph.D.) in a field other than law, so long as their research and teaching address questions relating to the law.

The School of Law is the top-ranked public law school in the Northeast, with a nationally landmarked campus in Hartford, and part of one of the nation's top research universities. The School is committed to building and supporting a vibrant, multicultural and diverse community of students, faculty and staff. As an Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity employer, and in keeping with our strong commitment to build a diverse community, we encourage applications from such traditionally under-represented populations as members of minority groups, people with disabilities, veterans and women.

Successful candidates will teach courses; advise students on independent projects; complete research in their academic areas of interest; and publish scholarship. As members of the faculty, successful candidates will participate in faculty management via committee work; participate in national organizations related to their area of research/scholarship interest; attend and speak at national, regional and local conferences and other events; work closely with other departments and faculty; and perform related duties as required.

Minimum Qualifications: A J.D. from an accredited institution or equivalent terminal degree such as a Ph.D. in a relevant field (equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable); a demonstrated capacity for serious and sustained scholarly work of a quality commensurate with, or leading to, a tenured position; a well-defined research and teaching agenda; and demonstrated skills to be an effective teacher.

Preferred Qualifications: Expertise and ability to teach in one or more of the following areas: inequalities related to race and ethnicity, advanced constitutional law, criminal procedure, commercial law, intellectual property, trusts and estates, evidence, and other areas of specialization; the completion of one or more works of scholarship that demonstrate intellectual depth and facility with written expression; and a demonstrated ability to contribute through research, teaching, and public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the law school.

This is a full time 9-month position. Salary and position rank at Associate or Full Professor will be commensurate with background, qualifications, and experience. Candidates should expect to work at the Law School located in Hartford, Connecticut.

To Apply: Applications must be submitted online at <http://hr.uconn.edu/faculty>. Please upload a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a list of references, a writing sample, recent teaching evaluations, if any, and a research agenda.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3326

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3308

University of Houston

Rank: Assistant Professor – Judicial Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Houston invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Law/Law and Courts at the assistant professor level. The position will begin in the fall of 2018. We are particularly interested in candidates with expertise in American courts, empirical legal studies, public law, and/or judicial behavior. The successful applicant will primarily teach undergraduate courses on American law, including constitutional law.

Successful candidates should have rigorous methodological training, demonstrated excellence in scholarly research and publication, and a clear commitment to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Applicants should also have a well thought out research agenda. Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie Tier-1 research university with one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation, seeks to recruit and retain a diverse community of scholars. With over 600 majors and 75 M.A. and Ph.D. students, the UH Department of Political Science provides high-quality undergraduate and graduate education. The Department capitalizes on the strengths of our city, offering students and faculty opportunities to research the politics of the future in a dynamic hub of international commerce, and in a region which is on the leading edge of national demographic and economic trends.

Applications should be submitted through the University's online job site, <http://www.uh.edu/human-resources/uh-careers/>. The position number keyword is FAC000255. To apply, please submit a letter of application, CV, short writing sample, statement of research and teaching interests, and contact information for three professional references. Listed references will be asked to provide a letter of recommendation.

For further information please contact Associate Professor Lydia Tiede, Chair, Public Law Search Committee, Department of Political Science, University of Houston.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, veterans, women and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply. The University of Houston is responsive to the needs of dual career couples.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 8/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3204

PUBLIC POLICY

Auburn University Montgomery

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science and Public Administration at Auburn University at Montgomery invites applications for a visiting assistant professor position in public policy or public administration beginning August 2018. The appointment is renewable based on funding, need, performance, and mutual agreement; this position also may be converted to tenure track based on enrollment growth in the Department's programs. The teaching load for this position is nine hours (three courses) per semester.

The position is open with regard to specialization. Successful candidates will be able to offer courses for the department's undergraduate program in political science and its NASPAA-accredited master's degree program in public administration; evidence of a promising research agenda in topics related to public administration and/or public policy is also essential. A Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or public administration is expected at the time of the appointment.

Preference will be given to applications received by January 31, 2018, but applicants will be considered until the position is filled. To apply, complete an online application at www.jobs.aum.edu/postings/2963 and upload 1) a letter of application to include research agenda and teaching interests and philosophy, 2) a curriculum vitae, 3) graduate transcript (official transcript is required at time of appointment), 4) one writing sample, 5) teaching evaluations and sample syllabi; and 6) a professional reference sheet. Three confidential letters of reference must be sent by email to politicalscience@aum.edu or by mail to:

Visiting Assistant Professor Search Committee
 Department of Political Science and Public Administration
 Auburn University at Montgomery
 P.O. Box 244023
 Montgomery, AL 36124-4023

Auburn University at Montgomery ranks among the South's top universities by U.S. News and World Report, and is located seven miles from the city center and state capitol complex. The university enrolls approximately 5000 undergraduate and graduate students and attracts a diverse student body. The Department of Political Science and Public Administration offers a bachelor's and master's degree in political science, a master's degree in public administration, and a Ph.D. in public administration and public policy jointly with Auburn University's Department of Political Science.

Auburn University at Montgomery is an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to achieving excellence through diversity; therefore, we encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups, veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

While this position is opened until filled, Auburn University at Montgomery reserves the right once interviewing has begun to stop accepting applications.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3833

New York University Arts and Science

Rank: FACULTY FELLOW
Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other
Specializations: Environmental Policy, Economic Policy, Energy Policy

FACULTY FELLOW
 Department of Environmental Studies
 ARTS AND SCIENCE
 New York University

The Department of Environmental Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for the position of Faculty Fellow. The appointment will be for one year beginning September 1, 2018, with the possibility of renewal for an additional year pending administrative and budgetary approval. The successful applicant will be an interdisciplinary scholar ready to contribute to the education of undergraduates majoring in Environmental Studies, teaching three courses per year that fulfill the major's "governance" requirement. We welcome candidates from a broad range of social science and policy backgrounds (e.g., environmental studies, geography, political science, sociology, economics, public policy). We are particularly interested in candidates specializing in Global Environmental Governance. Applicants must have completed their Ph.D. no more than five years before the appointment date. Candidates should apply with a cover letter, CV, three (3) confidential letters of recommendation, a teaching statement, and a writing sample. Review of applications will begin on January 31, 2018 and will continue until the search is complete. To apply, please go to the following: <https://apply.interfolio.com/47361>. More information is available at <http://as.nyu.edu/environment/employment.html>.

The Faculty of Arts and Science at NYU is at the heart of a leading research university that spans the globe. We seek scholars of the highest caliber that embody the diversity of the United States as well as the global society in which we live. We strongly encourage applications from women, racial and ethnic minorities, and other individuals who are under-represented in the profession, across color, creed, race, ethnic and national origin, physical ability, gender and sexual identity, or any other legally protected basis. NYU affirms the value of differing perspectives on the world as we strive to build the strongest possible university with the widest reach. To learn more about the FAS commitment to diversity, equality and inclusion, please read here.

(<http://as.nyu.edu/content/nyu-as/as/administrative-resources/office/dean/diversity-initiative.html>)

EOE/Affirmative Action/Minorities/Females/Vet/Disabled/Sexual Orientation/Gender Identity.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/28/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3834

University of Toronto at Scarborough

Rank: Indigenous Knowledge and Canadian Environmental Policy
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Policy, Other

Position Title/Rank: Assistant Professor – Indigenous Knowledge and Canadian Environmental Policy
 Faculty: University of Toronto Scarborough
 Deadline: January 29, 2018

The University of Toronto Scarborough invites applications for a tenure-stream appointment in the field of Indigenous Knowledge and Canadian Environmental Policy. The appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor and will commence on July 1, 2018. The successful candidate will be appointed to a relevant cognate discipline depending on their area of expertise.

We are seeking candidates with a geographic focus on Canada alone or on Canada within an international context. We welcome a broad range of theoretical and methodological approaches, with the appointment of the successful candidate in one or more of the Departments of Physical and Environmental Sciences, Political Science, and/or Biological Sciences, depending on area(s) of expertise.

Applicants must have earned a Ph.D. degree in Environmental Science, Political Science, or Biological Sciences, or a related field by the time of appointment or shortly thereafter, and must have a demonstrated record of research and publications centered on Indigenous environmental knowledge and politics or policy, as well as proven experience in community-engaged scholarship. A demonstrated record of experience and engagement including relationship building, long-standing relationships, and possible work with community leaders and Elders with at least one Indigenous community in Canada is required. Candidates must also demonstrate long-term experience and engagement with Indigenous organizations and institutions and evidence of understanding the importance of consensus-building relationships.

A demonstrated record of research and teaching excellence in one of the following fields would be an asset:

- * The role and status of Indigenous knowledge in environmental law/policy-making and legal disputes.
- * Decolonizing environmental and natural resource governance.
- * The legal rights of Indigenous peoples related to land use and title and the relationship with the land.
- * Legal standing and political influence of Indigenous communities in international environmental negotiations and organization (i.e. Arctic Council, climate negotiations).
- * Indigenous environmental justice movements.

The successful candidate will be expected to conduct innovative research in Indigenous environmental studies, foster research activities with Indigenous communities in Canada, and may combine areas of expertise across the Departments of Physical and Environmental Science, Political Science, and/or Biological Sciences.

The successful candidate will have an emerging record of scholarly accomplishments and will provide evidence of excellence in research as demonstrated by publications in leading, field relevant, academic journals, or forthcoming impactful publications, presentations at significant conferences, a strong record in Indigenous research methodologies and ethical engagement and collaboration with Indigenous communities, organizations, and institutions, and strong endorsements by referees of high standing including a letter of support commenting on Indigenous community engagement.

The successful candidate will contribute to the delivery of the core curricula within one of the following departments, or interdisciplinary curricula that links two or more of these departments: Departments of Physical and Environmental Sciences (<http://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/physsci/>), Political Science (<http://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/polisci/>), and/or Biological Sciences (<http://www.utsc.utoronto.ca/biosci/>). They may also have the opportunity to participate in developing new graduate programs at UTSC.

The successful candidate must be able to demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels. This can be demonstrated through a teaching portfolio including coherent statement of teaching philosophy that is linked to evidence of excellent pedagogical practice, strong endorsements from referees, demonstrated knowledge and experience in Indigenous-based teaching methods, excellent course evaluations, and/or demonstrated superior performance in other teaching related activities, including performance as a teaching assistant or course instructor, experience in leading successful workshops and seminars.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Toronto Scarborough is a research-intensive institution with an interdisciplinary commitment, a multicultural student body, and a modern campus. The University offers the opportunity to conduct research, teach, and live in one of the most diverse cities in the world. The Greater Toronto Area offers amazing cultural and demographic diversity, including a vibrant Indigenous community.

All qualified applicants should apply by clicking <https://utoronto.taleo.net/careersection/10050/jobdetail.ftl?job=1701631&tz=GMT-05%3A00> A complete application must include: a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a research proposal, and a teaching dossier, as well as a letter of support commenting on their Indigenous community engagement. If you have questions about this position, please contact Ms. Sue-Ann Hicks (sahicks@utsc.utoronto.ca)

Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS Word format. Applicants should list a minimum of three referees and arrange for these persons to submit their letter of recommendation (on letterhead, signed and scanned) directly to sahicks@utsc.utoronto.ca.

The closing date for applications is January 29, 2018.

This position is part of the University of Toronto's response to the calls to action in Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) report.

The University of Toronto is strongly committed to diversity within its community and especially welcomes applications from racialized persons/persons of colour, women, Indigenous/ Aboriginal People of North America, persons with disabilities, LGBTQ persons, and others who may contribute to the further diversification of ideas.

As part of your application, you will be asked to complete a brief Diversity Survey. This survey is voluntary. Any information directly related to you is confidential and cannot be accessed by search committees or human resources staff. Results will be aggregated for institutional planning purposes. For more information, please see <http://uoft.me/UP>.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 1/29/2018

Date Posted: 11/27/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3827

National University of Singapore

Rank: Senior Tutor or Assistant Professor

The National University of Singapore is offering Overseas Graduate Scholarships (OGS), a prestigious and much sought after Scholarship to attract talented Singaporeans to embark on an academic career with us. The OGS provides attractive financial support for an overseas PhD degree program, and an offer of an academic position after completion of the PhD candidature.

OGS Scholarships may be awarded to Singaporean applicants who:

- are currently completing their Masters' degree and looking to pursue a PhD thereafter
- are currently enrolled in a PhD program overseas

On successful completion of the PhD degree program, the OGS Scholar will be

- sponsored for a further 2 years' postdoctoral degree before joining NUS as a Tenure Track Assistant Professor or

- considered to join NUS as a Tenure Track Senior Tutor or Assistant Professor in any of the NUS Faculties / Schools

Eligibility & Selection Criteria

- Singapore Citizens
- Graduates with Master degrees
- Excellent and consistent academic track record
- A keen motivation to join NUS' academic career

Application Procedure

Candidates who are keen to apply for a position in the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy or to any other NUS School/Faculty may contact:

Ms Laura Lim

Senior Associate Director

NUS Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

Email : spplfy@nus.edu.sg

Information Session

We would like to invite all candidates who are interested to learn more about NUS' OGS scheme, to meet us in San Francisco for an information session-

Date: 2 & 3 April 2018 (Monday & Tuesday)

Time: 3-6pm

Venue: Parc 55 Hilton Hotel

RSVP: by 21 Feb 2018

Please register for the session and confirm your attendance via email to: spplfy@nus.edu.sg

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 2/21/2018

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3818

University of Wisconsin, Whitewater

Rank: Assistant Professor

The College of Letters and Sciences at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater seeks a social scientist with expertise in global health to fill a tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor in an appropriate department in the College. This is a full-time position beginning in August 2018 with responsibilities for undergraduate teaching, research, and service to the university and community. The successful candidate will teach global health and other social science courses that contribute to the College's interdisciplinary minors in Family, Health and Disabilities Studies and Public Health. Depending on expertise, the candidate will also contribute to other related programs such as Anthropology, Sociology, Women's and Gender Studies, and/or Public Policy and Administration. An introductory-level general education course will be part of the candidate's regular rotation. The candidate will also be expected to pursue an active research agenda that engages undergraduate students, results in publications, and contributes to advancing the department, university, the profession, and society. In addition, the candidate will be expected to participate in service activities and embrace the principles of diversity and inclusion as a member of the university community. The successful candidate will have a tenure home in an appropriate social science or interdisciplinary department in the College. Salary is commensurate with academic preparation and experience.

A doctoral degree in a social science field, global health, or public health is required. ABD candidates may apply but must have their degree completed by the contract start date in August 2018. Research specialization is open but should complement existing faculty expertise. Demonstrated commitment to teaching with an emphasis on promoting the success of undergraduate students, clear evidence of scholarly potential, commitment to working with diverse populations, and serving as active member of the university community are required. We are interested in applicants with a record of and interest in successful teaching and mentoring of students from underrepresented backgrounds (i.e. students of color, first-generation college students, low-income students, students with disabilities, and members of the LGBT community). Ability to teach courses in global health is required. Preference will be given to candidates who can fill existing curricular needs. Further details about the position and University of Wisconsin-Whitewater is available at <http://www.uww.edu/employment/academic-staff-instructional/posting?listing=1556>

Applications received by January 2, 2018 are ensured full consideration. Applications received after that date may be given consideration at the discretion of the search committee. Complete applications will include online submission of the following materials: cover letter/letter of interest; statement of teaching philosophy; Curriculum Vita; letters of recommendation from three professional references; copies of unofficial graduate transcripts (official transcripts will be required if offered the position); a scholarly writing sample may be solicited at a later time. This Job ID is 13501. Apply online: <http://www.uww.edu/employment/academic-staff-instructional/posting?listing=1556>

For questions regarding this position, please contact:

Dr. Elizabeth A. Hachten

Search Committee Chair

Assistant Dean

College of Letters and Sciences

4106 Laurentide Hall

University of Wisconsin-Whitewater

Whitewater, WI 53190

hachtene@uww.edu

262-472-1713

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 11/22/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3825

National University of Singapore

Rank: Assistant/Associate Professors in International Affairs/Comparative Politics

The Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy (National University of Singapore), a premier public policy institution in Asia, invites applications for full-time tenure track positions at the Assistant and Associate Professor level in International Relations/Comparative Politics. Candidates are expected to demonstrate evidence of a high level of competence in theoretically sound, empirically grounded policy-relevant research in International Relations/Comparative Politics. We are especially interested in candidates who work on (A) International Political Economy; (B) Global Governance; and (C) The International Relations of ASEAN/Southeast Asia. For positions (A) and (B), applicants whose research and writing focus on Asia will have an advantage. The School is interested in candidates with a strong commitment to publishing at the highest level and would particularly welcome applications with a demonstrated record of research excellence. The School has just launched a new 2-year Master in International Affairs (MIA) and it is keen to hire faculty who will contribute energetically to the new programme.

Candidates should possess the following: a PhD degree in the relevant discipline; have a commitment to research and teaching excellence; and an ability to engage with policy and research communities in Asia and around the world.

Application Procedure

Applicants should submit, in electronic form (MS Word or PDF file), the following:

- Cover note
- Detailed curriculum vitae
- Names of three references
- Brief statement of past and current research
- Top 5 publications
- Three courses that you would be interested in teaching (please refer to <http://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/admissions/> for the list of courses)

Those who have a teaching record should submit the following as well:

- Teaching dossier including teaching evaluations (for those who have a teaching record)

- Representative samples of course outlines (for those who have a teaching record)

Please send the electronic submission to Ms Laura Lim, lkysppjoi-nus@nus.edu.sg.

Applicants may submit hard copies to the following address:

Ms Laura Lim

Senior Associate Director, Human Resources

Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy

National University of Singapore

469C Bukit Timah Road

Singapore 259772

The deadline for applications is Jan 1, 2018. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified and it is possible that interviews will be held at the International Studies Association Annual Meeting in San Francisco in April. Interested candidates are encouraged to find out more about the National University of Singapore and the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy at <http://lkyspp.nus.edu.sg/>.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/1/2018

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3800

St. Mary's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

The St. Mary's University Political Science Department is conducting a search for an Assistant Professor and Director of its onsite Masters in Public Administration program. The desired applicant must hold a Ph.D. in political science or a Doctorate in public administration (DPA) from an accredited University with major concentrations in areas related to Public Administration and American Politics. Teaching, professional expertise, and research in areas of Public Sector Performance or Organizational Management, Research Methods in Public Administration, Public Policy or American Political Behavior or some combination is preferable. The typical teaching load at the University is four courses per semester. One course release per semester is available for a successful candidate for directing the graduate program in Public Administration. The duties of this directorship include course and program scheduling, program assessment, and developing relationships for internship opportunities with local municipal and state government agencies and employers. The Director would also explore further extending the MPA program online. Experience with the Network of Schools of Public Policy, Affairs and Administration (NASPAA) or the American Society for Public Administration (ASPA) or with the International City/County Management Association (ICMA) - or other professional administration organizations- is highly desirable. Preference will be given to candidates who demonstrate an interest in affiliating with the University's Center for Catholic Studies, which will explore a wide range of human issues across disciplinary boundaries, and in a global or local context, including, but not limited to, poverty, economic justice, religious freedom, or immigration, etc...

The position is a full-time, tenure track appointment, commencing in August 2018. Department faculty cover a full range of courses in a general graduate degree in public administration, an undergraduate political science degree, and provide support to core courses in the university core curriculum. The department is the civic conscience of the university and fosters the building of "the good life" through education of the whole student, committed to civic engagement, justice and service to society. The Department resides in the School of Humanities and Social Science.

St. Mary's is the oldest Catholic university in the Southwest, and continues to advocate the Marianist mission of academic excellence and servant leadership. Founded in 1852 by the Society of Mary, St. Mary's is a comprehensive Catholic and Marianist university with a strong tradition of integrating liberal arts with professional studies. St. Mary's enrolls approximately 3,800 students in a diverse university with four schools, more than 40 academic programs including Ph.D. and J.D. programs, and numerous pre-professional programs.

Applications can be found at <http://stmarytx.applicantpro.com/jobs/> with the option to upload all supporting documents electronically. Along with the employment application, please also submit (1) letter of application addressing interest in position, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) official graduate transcript confirming the doctoral degree, (4) three letters of reference; (5) statements of research agenda and teaching philosophy; and (6) evidence of teaching excellence. The Chair of the search committee for this Political Science position is Dr. Arturo Vega, avega2@stmarytx.edu Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science (210) 431-8028.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Any offer of employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a clear background check. EOE

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3807

Vanderbilt University

Rank: CSDI Post-doctoral Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

The Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions (CSDI) at Vanderbilt University's Department of Political Science seeks applicants for up to four (4) Post-doctoral Research Scholars to support research on political institutions, opinion or behavior. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their PhD by August 1, 2018. These positions involve a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2018. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment, but there may be some research associated with the mission of the Center as part of the fellowship. It would be no more than 10 hours per week. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, office space, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita and a cover letter describing their research project, what they hope to accomplish while at CSDI, and why spending time at Vanderbilt would provide a useful setting for that research. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and letters of reference are also required. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before January 15, 2018. Applications should be submitted online through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/47216>

Vanderbilt University has a strong institutional commitment to recruiting and retaining an academically and culturally diverse community of faculty. Minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and members of other underrepresented groups, in particular, are encouraged to apply. Vanderbilt is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3802

Stetson University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (Public Health)

Stetson University seeks an individual with expertise in domestic or international health policy who has a desire to teach and conduct research in a liberal arts setting for a tenure-track position in the Department of Political Science. Besides teaching introductory and upper-level courses in health policy and offering innovative first-year and/or junior seminars, the candidate will develop courses to complement existing strengths in the Department of Political Science and contribute to our new major in Public Management and the university's interdisciplinary program in Public Health. We are interested in candidates with a commitment to mentoring students from diverse backgrounds.

Qualifications:

A Ph.D. in Political Science or Public Policy in hand by August 2018. Prior experience coordinating or directing an academic program and teaching experience beyond typical TA duties in graduate school are advantages but not required.

Responsibilities:

The teacher-scholar model at Stetson requires that tenure-track faculty teach three courses each semester complemented with quality scholarship and service. Primary teaching responsibilities include introductory courses in public policy and public health and upper-level courses in health policy, with the opportunity to develop additional courses that contribute to the university's interdisciplinary major in Public Health and/or the department's Political Science and Public Management majors. Other courses will be based on the candidate's expertise and may include offerings for the University's requirements in General Education, including First Year Seminars and Junior Seminars. The faculty member is also expected to mentor students academically and professionally.

Candidates should demonstrate a passion for the highest quality of teaching, combined with the ability to produce rigorous peer-reviewed academic scholarship. Scholarly activity leading to publication in peer-reviewed journals and service to the Department, the College of Arts and Sciences, the University, and the profession are required. For more information on our expectations in teaching and scholarship, our tenure policies, and our support for faculty development, please see the Office of the Provost and Academic Affairs website: <http://www.stetson.edu/provost://www.stetson.edu/provost>.

The Department:

The Department of Political Science (<http://www.stetson.edu/political-science/>www.stetson.edu/political-science/>) offers academically rigorous majors in both Political Science and Public Management. Departmental faculty contribute regularly to interdisciplinary programs such as International Studies, Russian, East European and Eurasian Studies, Latin American Studies, the Honors Program, and Environmental Science and Studies. We have had considerable success placing students in high-quality graduate programs in Political Science, International Affairs, and Public Administration and in prominent law schools. Faculty in the Department are committed to the teacher-scholar model, which involves teaching within a traditional liberal arts environment where the primary focus is extensive interaction with undergraduate students in a small class environment, while also maintaining an active research agenda.

The Program:

The Public Health Program capitalizes on the strengths of outstanding faculty scholars who share interests and expertise in the diverse disciplines of Public Health. Core faculty from the Departments of Economics, Environmental Science and Studies, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology have developed a rigorous but flexible program of study for undergraduates pursuing public-health related careers. Active faculty research and dynamic collaborations with local health care organizations like Florida Hospital afford students with outstanding opportunities to engage in evidence-based public health research and practice. Students majoring in Public Health can pursue specializations in Health Promotion and Behavior, Health and Society, Health Policy, Health Economics, and Environmental Health.

The College of Arts and Sciences:

Stetson's College of Arts and Sciences (<http://www.stetson.edu/portal/arts/>www.stetson.edu/arts/>) is the largest and most diverse of the University's colleges and schools; it includes the humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, education, and creative arts. With nineteen academic departments and eight interdisciplinary programs, the College is the liberal arts core of the University. A great strength of the College is its faculty of approximately 140 full-time teacher-scholars. The College offers 31 undergraduate majors and 34 undergraduate minors; six graduate degrees are offered in Education, Counselor Education, and Creative Writing. Every undergraduate major requires a senior research project, allowing students the opportunity to design and carry out independent research under faculty mentorship. Our academic programs are shaped by the values of social justice and civic responsibility. All of our courses and programs of study promote engaged learning, whereby students create connections between the classroom or lab and the local, regional, and global community. The academic programs of the College of Arts and Sciences prepare students to live significant lives, to interact with and positively affect the world around them.

The University:

Founded in 1883, Stetson University (<http://www.stetson.edu/>www.stetson.edu/>) is a private, selective university comprised of a rich array of liberal arts and professional academic programs. Collectively, Stetson's faculty works with nearly 4,000 students in undergraduate, graduate, and professional programs. The University's historic main campus, located in DeLand, enrolls more than 3,000 students in undergraduate programs in the College of Arts & Sciences, the School of Business Administration, and the School of Music. Stetson University College of Law, Florida's first law school, moved from the main campus to Gulfport in 1954, and, with the addition of the Tampa Law Center, serves approximately 1,000 students working full-time or part-time toward J.D. or LL.M. degrees. Graduate programs offered at the main campus and at Stetson University Center in Celebration include Business, Accounting, Elementary Education – Education for Social Justice, Educational Leadership, Counseling, and Creative Writing. Florida's oldest private institution of higher learning, Stetson has regularly been ranked among the best regional universities in the Southeast and was the first private college in Florida to be granted a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Stetson University provides an inspiring education that engages students with rigorous academic and creative study grounded in liberal learning and promotes civic values of personal and social responsibility. Working closely with faculty and with one another, students cultivate abilities to explore issues deeply, think critically, reason empirically, speak persuasively, and connect ideas creatively. Firmly committed to inclusive excellence, our vibrant community of teacher-scholars nurtures the potential of individual students to lead lives of significance and prepares each to meet the challenges of shaping the future—locally, nationally, and globally.

The Community:

DeLand is a picturesque residential community of 25,000 located 20 miles west of Daytona Beach and 35 miles northeast of Orlando. The area offers extensive cultural as well as recreational activities.

Salary: Salary is competitive.

Starting Date: August 13, 2018

Application:

Applicants must send the following materials for consideration: 1) a cover letter summarizing the candidate's interest in the position and qualifications, 2) a statement of the candidate's teaching philosophy and a representative sample of teaching evaluations, 3) a curriculum vitae, 4) copies of undergraduate and graduate transcripts, 5) three letters of recommendation, at least one of which should include an evaluation of teaching ability, and 6) a statement of research interests and a description of how undergraduate students might participate in that research. Candidates are encouraged to highlight skills and experiences that demonstrate a commitment to social justice, diversity, and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin on December 15 and continue until the position is filled.

Application materials may be submitted electronically to the search committee at <mailto:polisearch@stetson.edu> or mailed to the following address:

Dr. David Hill, Chair
Department of Political Science
Stetson University
421 N. Woodland Blvd. Unit 8301
DeLand, FL 32723

Stetson University is an Equal Opportunity Employer that affirms cultural diversity and inclusion as a core value of academic excellence at Stetson University. We are committed to achieving equal access in education, employment, and participation through the recruitment and retention of outstanding faculty, staff, and students from diverse backgrounds, and to meaningful academic and intellectual transformation in curriculum, research and service. We are dedicated to actions and policies that foster a community in which individuals with various identities, cultures, backgrounds, and viewpoints work together to create opportunities for engagement through rewarding and fulfilling careers and personal experiences in a culturally and racially diverse society and a globalized world. We strongly encourage members of historically under-represented and economically-disadvantaged groups and women to apply for employment. Stetson University is an EEO, ADA, ADEA, and GINA employer.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3794

University of Virginia

Rank: Assistant Professor

Junior Faculty Search in Cybersecurity, Tenure Track
Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy
The Frank Batten School of Leadership and Public Policy at the University of Virginia seeks to fill a tenure-track, junior faculty position in cybersecurity policy with a start date in Fall 2018. The successful candidate will show evidence of progress toward a record of strong research, teaching, and service. We are open to scholars from a broad array of disciplines including, but not limited to, political science, law, engineering, and data science. Given the interdisciplinary nature of this position, the successful candidate would have the potential for a joint or secondary appointment with other academic units at UVA. Whatever their discipline, successful candidates must have the desire and ability to speak to and influence ongoing policy debates in the area of cybersecurity.

Built upon the strong foundation of one of the nation's top public universities, the Batten School combines rigorous training in policy analysis with a unique emphasis on the acquisition of leadership skills. The research faculty includes psychologists, economists, and political scientists, and is enriched by professors of practice who bring real-world policymaking expertise to the classroom. The School currently offers an MPP degree and an undergraduate major in public policy and leadership, as well as multiple dual degree programs with other units at UVA.

For more information about the position and to apply, visit <https://jobs.virginia.edu>, search on posting number 0621821, and complete a candidate profile. Applicants should submit a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of research interests and contact information for three references. The position is open until filled.

The University of Virginia is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. Women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3796

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

Position 2: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Governance of Emerging Technologies

TENURE TRACK FACULTY POSITION-The Governance of Emerging Technologies
Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield: Public Policy, Public Administration
 Area of Expertise: Science and Technology
 Deadline: January 31st, 2018
 Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track assistant professor position in Public Policy and Governance of Emerging Technologies starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a solid track record of monographs and articles in top-tier peer-reviewed international journals, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. He/she will also have acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving, and show passion for institution building, and desire to have a strong impact on society.

He/she is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate courses on the political, social, and economic challenges and opportunities brought by new technological trends such as Big Data, Digitalization, Automation, and Artificial Intelligence. He/she should know the current state of these technologies and reflect on their implications for governments, the private sector, educational systems and society.

He/she should also be willing to collaborate with the IE's Center for the Governance of Change, a newly created institution that seeks to enhance our ability to understand, anticipate, and manage technological innovation and its externalities in a variety of domains – political, economic, and societal. This collaboration will include the organization of academic events and the securing and management of research grants in his/her area. Experience in policy-making and consulting of governments, tech companies, and international organizations will be advantages.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a 1-page statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science or Public Policy is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Governance of Emerging Technologies to IESIR2@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We are able to offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3785

IE University

Rank: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy
Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
Specializations: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy

Position 3: TENURE TRACK FACULTY-Political Economy
 Rank: Assistant Professor
 Disciplines: International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy
 Subfield: International Political Economy, Economic Policy, Political Economy
 Deadline: January 31st, 2018
 Salary: Competitive

IE University's School of International Relations at (IESIR) seeks qualified applicants for a tenure track faculty position in International or Comparative Political Economy starting September 1st, 2018. The successful candidate will have a strong publication record of monographs and top-tier international peer reviewed articles, or the proven potential of producing them in the coming two years. We are especially, though not exclusively, interested in candidates with knowledge of the latest developments in technologies impacting global economic governance such as Blockchain, FinTech and others.

Candidates will be expected to teach courses in International Political Economy, International Trade, and International Finance, as well as core courses in Micro- and Macro-Economics. Furthermore, they should show acumen for innovative and applied teaching methods, with a focus on critical thinking and problem solving.

Beyond these traditional academic criteria, we seek academics with the capacity to engage in meaningful and policy relevant work, and to participate in contemporary policy debates. As well, we seek faculty members to be institution-builders: to apply for research grants, participate in affiliated research centers and academic programs, and expand IE's current partnerships.

Applications should include a cover letter and vita, 1-2 current research papers (including the job-market paper), three academic references, a statement of teaching philosophy, and evidence of teaching excellence (e.g., teaching evaluations). A PhD degree from a recognized department of Political Science, Public Policy, International Relations, or Economics is required. Entry-level ABD candidates must demonstrate clear evidence that the PhD will be complete by July, 2018. Send applications with the subheading Political Economy to IESIR3@ie.edu

The IESIR is part of IE University and the IE Business School, located in Madrid and Segovia, Spain; and is a full-member of the Association of Professional Schools in International Affairs (APSIA). We are committed to world-class professional education and academic research in international affairs, public policy, and the social sciences. As well, we are committed to becoming a global leader in research and training relating to the governance of emerging technologies.

We offer a competitive remuneration package, attractive teaching commitments, and an enriching and cosmopolitan work environment in the heart of Madrid. Our working language is English, and both our faculty and students body are highly diverse and international. IE University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, and strongly encourages applications from individuals who will expand the ethnic and gender diversity of our faculty.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 1/31/2018
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3786

University of Oxford

Rank: Professorial Post in Public Policy (Security)

Specializations: Conflict Processes, Defense, International Security

The Blavatnik School of Government aspires to be one of the world's leading academic institutions for research, teaching, and public leadership development which improves government. The professorial post in public policy (security) is intended to bring to the School an academic with a globally recognized record of excellence in research, teaching, and public engagement in matters affecting security. The post is permanent (i.e., with tenure).

The School seeks to appoint an outstanding teacher, accomplished research scholar and committed institution builder, whose work advances understanding and practice of issues related to public security, be this terrorism, cybersecurity, intelligence, violent conflict within or among states, military studies, nuclear security, or policing.

The postholder will provide academic leadership in research in the field of security. S/he will conduct world-class research on public policy with emphasis on security (as defined above); and provide academic research leadership in this area. S/he will contribute to the development and delivery of the Master of Public Policy. The successful candidate will join a growing team of outstanding academics, researchers and support staff in this dynamic School, and will contribute to the overall development of the School's profile as a world-leading provider of public policy education, training and research of the highest academic standard. The post is associated with Brasenose College with the expectation of election to a College Fellowship.

The ideal candidate will be a scholar of authority on public policy and security with a considerable international reputation; s/he will have a depth of knowledge on public policy and security to enable the development of innovation and new understanding in the field; have significant experience of developing research strategies and managing research projects; and an outstanding publication record as lead author in prestigious international journals and/or as author of books published by leading academic presses.

Applications are particularly welcome from women and black and minority ethnic candidates, who are under-represented in academic posts in Oxford. We are committed to equality and valuing diversity.

The closing date for applications is 12 noon UK time on Friday 15 December 2017.

Please apply via the university website: <https://www.bsg.ox.ac.uk/node/4229>

Start Date:
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 11/15/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3778

Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Rank: Assistant Professor (Public Policy and/or Public Administration)

Public Policy and Global Affairs
 School of Social Sciences
 Nanyang Technological University, Singapore

Young and research-intensive, Nanyang Technological University (NTU Singapore is ranked 11th globally. It is also placed 1st among the world's best young universities.

The School of Social Sciences nurtures interdisciplinary study and research for the betterment of society. We promote a holistic approach to advance learning through research and teaching. Our research and educational programmes are aligned with NTU's new five-year strategic plan, NTU 2020 focuses on five key research thrusts – Sustainable Earth, Global Asia, Secure Community, Healthy Society and Future Learning. For more information about the University, please visit our website at: <http://www.ntu.edu.sg/Pages/home.aspx>.

Public Policy and Global Affairs (PPGA) in SSS offers a Minor in Public Administration, a Major in Public Policy and Global Affairs, MA and PhD programmes by research, and general electives.

The School of Social Sciences (SSS) is inviting applications for one tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Policy and/or Public Administration in the Context of a Globalizing Asia.

Candidates should possess a PhD in a relevant discipline, and demonstrate a commitment to excellence in research as well as teaching at both the undergraduate and postgraduate levels.

Emoluments

Salary will be competitive and will commensurate with qualifications and experience. The University offers a comprehensive fringe benefit package.

Application Procedure

To apply, please refer to the Guidelines for Submitting an Application for Faculty Appointment (<http://www.ntu.edu.sg/ohr/career/submit-an-application/Pages/Faculty-Positions.aspx>) and email your application package (consisting of a cover letter, curriculum vitae, personal particulars form, teaching and research statements, evidence of teaching effectiveness (if available), three selected reprint/preprints of publications, and the names and email addresses of three potential referees) to:

Chair, Search Committee
 c/o Public Policy and Global Affairs
 School of Social Sciences
 Nanyang Technological University
 14 Nanyang Drive, #03-86
 Singapore 637332

email: ppga-search@ntu.edu.sg

Applications sent by email should include "Assistant Professor (Public Policy and/or Public Administration)" in the subject line. Enquiries about the position can also be addressed to the above email address.

Closing date for application is 31 December 2017. Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 12/31/2017
Date Posted: 11/14/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3781

Harvard University

Rank: Professor (Criminal Justice Policy)
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Harvard Kennedy School seeks to appoint a chaired professor in the field of criminal justice policy. Candidates should have distinguished records of research and engagements in a field such as criminal justice, law, sociology, political science, philosophy or economics, a commitment to teaching in professional degree programs, and practical involvement and/or governmental leadership in criminal justice policy and practice. It is hoped that the candidate could play a leading role in the Program in Criminal Justice Policy and Management at the Kennedy School. Candidates should send a cover letter, CV and lists of references and papers and publications to: David T. Ellwood, Chair, Criminal Justice Policy Search Committee, c/o Alexandra Kovalik, Coordinator, Mailbox 114, Harvard Kennedy School, 79 John F. Kennedy St., Cambridge MA 02138 or via email to: Alexandra_kovalik@hks.harvard.edu. The committee will begin reviewing candidates on December 1st. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3771

Harvard University

Rank: Professor (Social Policy)
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Administration, Other

The Harvard Kennedy School invites applications for one or more tenured positions in inequality and social policy. Candidates should have distinguished records of research, a commitment to teaching in professional degree programs, and practical engagement with and interest in public policy and practice. Applications are encouraged from all relevant disciplines, including, but not limited to, economics, sociology, political science, public policy, and criminal justice.

Candidates should send a cover letter, CV and lists of references and papers and publications to: David T. Ellwood, Chair, Social Policy Search Committee, c/o Alexandra Kovalik, Coordinator, Mailbox 114, Harvard Kennedy School, 79 John F. Kennedy St., Cambridge MA 02138 or via email to: Alexandra_kovalik@hks.harvard.edu. The committee will begin reviewing candidates on December 1st. Women and members of minority groups are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 11/13/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3770

Princeton University

Rank: Post Doctoral Fellow
Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy
Specializations: Foreign Policy, International Political Economy, International Security

Princeton University & Harvard University

China and the World Program (CWP)

Princeton University and Harvard University jointly founded the fellowship program for the advanced study of China's international relations, the Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program (CWP), in 2005. The program's co-directors are Thomas J. Christensen of Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs and Alastair Iain Johnston of Harvard's Government Department. The China and the World Program supports research that integrates theoretical innovations in the field of international relations with the rigorous study of China's interactions with countries, regions, institutions, and non-state actors.

In Fall 2018 the China & the World Program will move from Princeton University to Columbia University in New York City. For academic year 2018-2019, the program will award one-year postdoctoral research fellowships. Fellows will be expected to be in residence at Columbia University. Fellows should have defended their dissertations in the past five years. Preference will be given to applicants who are currently working on revising their Ph.D. thesis for publication as a book, or who are just beginning a second major research project. Fellows are expected to participate actively in the intellectual life of Columbia University during their tenure.

Qualifications:

Applicants must have received a PhD before starting the appointment. Only applicants working on some aspect of China's relations with the outside world that supports CWP's mission need apply.

Application Process:

To apply, you will be required to submit an online application to CWP using the email cwp@princeton.edu. Please note that applicants are required to send all files in one email or to upload them to a cloud based application and send the URL via email for full consideration.

You are required to submit:

- 1-2 page cover letter that briefly states your interest in the program, your background, and a summary of your research project
 - CV
 - project description
 - 2 scholarly writing samples
 - Unofficial transcripts from all graduate-level degrees
 - Contact information for two references.
- The deadline for submission is December 15, 2017, 11:59 p.m. EST.

Please note that you will only submit contact information and the email of your referees. Your referee will then receive an email with instructions on how to submit a confidential recommendation on your behalf. All references must be received by the deadline. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their applications in February 2018 and a public announcement will be made by March/April 2018.

For more information about the Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program, please visit its website at www.princeton.edu/cwp (link is external).

Start Date: Winter 2017

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/13/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3772

University of Denver

Rank: Post-Doctoral Fellow, One Earth Future - Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy

Subfield(s): Public Law, Public Administration, Public Policy

The Sié Chéou-Kang Center for International Security and Diplomacy at the University of Denver's Josef Korbel School of International Studies, and the One Earth Future (OEF) are seeking qualified candidates for a new, innovative post-doctoral scholar program. The goal of this position is to contribute to the mission of both organizations through collaborative research on policy-relevant questions. Additionally, this position will serve as a bridge between the two Denver-based organizations and will have the opportunity to develop an OEF/Sié Center collaborative project. We will accept applications from candidates who specialize in global peace and security (broadly construed) and/or transnational governance but are particularly interested in those doing policy-relevant research on actions by non-state actors and their effects on violence, peacebuilding, and governance. The fellowship will begin September 1, 2018 and will extend for a one-year term, with the individual's time spent at both OEF and the Sié Center.

The Sié Center is a center of excellence within the Josef Korbel School that leads research, education and policy programs focused on global peace and security. Eight faculty, visiting and post-doctoral scholars, and over 40 Korbel MA and PhD students contribute to the Center's activities. While at the Sié Center, post-doctoral fellows have opportunities to work with Center faculty and graduate students, engage with relevant policy practitioners, and receive clerical and research/travel support sufficient to allow the completion of a major research product. Fellows will be expected to attend and contribute to a seminar series and engage with other program initiatives including conferences, commentary, and publications.

One Earth Future is a self-funded, private operating foundation seeking to create a more peaceful world through collaborative, data-driven initiatives that eliminate root causes of political conflict. Specific issue areas include enhancing maritime cooperation, creating sustainable jobs in fragile economies, improving natural resource governance, and research actively contributing to thought leadership on global issues. OEF Research is One Earth Future's think tank focused on global peace and security. OEF Research conducts empirical research on the predictors of peace and on the role of good governance in building and sustaining peace and shares that research with scholars, policymakers and all interested in a more peaceful world through published reports, discussion papers, and educational forums.

The fellowship carries an annual stipend of $50,000 and access to additional funding for research support, professional development, and travel, and a comprehensive benefits package. For administrative purposes, the selected candidate will be an employee of the University of Denver.

Essential Functions

- Conduct independent and collaborative research, with a focus on policy-relevant empirical research.
- With organizational partners, develop a joint OEF/Sié Center collaborative project (workshop or other sets of activities that will increase cooperation between the organizations and promote joint interests).
- Work with Sié faculty and OEF staff on research projects as consistent with his/her interests and expertise.
- Participate in events and workshops hosted by OEF and the Sié Center.
- Present research findings to interdisciplinary academic and audiences.

Required Qualifications

- Substantial progress toward a Ph.D. in Political Science or other relevant discipline. Applicants should complete all requirements for their Ph.D. by June 30, 2018.
- Policy-relevant research agenda related to the Organizations' programs.

Preferred Qualifications

- Applicants should be no more than 3 years from the awarding of their degree (i.e., September 2014).

Application Deadline

For best consideration, please submit your application materials by 6:00 p.m. (MST) on December 15, 2017.

Special Instructions

Candidates must apply online through www.du.edu/jobs to be considered. Only applications submitted online will be accepted. Once within the job description online, please scroll to the bottom of the page to apply. For questions regarding this position, please contact Jill Schmieder-Hereau, Executive Director of the Sié Center at Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

Please include the following documents with your application:

1. Cover Letter
2. CV
3. Writing Sample
4. Two letters of recommendation sent directly to Jill.Schmiederhereau@du.edu.

NOTE: The online system is limited to uploading 5 files. Please combine content if necessary to get all content uploaded.

The University of Denver is committed to enhancing the diversity of its faculty and staff and encourages applications from women, minorities, members of the LGBTQ community, people with disabilities and veterans. The University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer.

All offers of employment are based upon satisfactory completion of a criminal history background check.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 11/7/2017

Salary: $40,000 - $49,999

eJobs ID: 3751

Qatar University

Rank: Senior Policy Analyst

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Specializations: Middle East, Political Theory, Quantitative Methods

The Social and Economic Survey Research Institute (SESRI) at Qatar University invites applications for a full-time Senior Policy Analyst based in Doha, Qatar. The position is attached to SESRI Policy Department, which utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirically-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf region.

Senior Policy Analysts are expected to stay current on policy issues and best practices in their assigned substantive areas, oversee the successful completion of policy research projects, design and interpret analyses, and coordinate the work of Policy Analysts assigned to their projects. They will author reports and other research outputs for a wide variety of audiences, set agendas for convening with policy audiences, and make presentations as required.

Applicants should possess expert-level knowledge and understanding of one or more substantive areas of local and regional policy relevance, including but not limited to education, health, migration, marriage and family, performance evaluation, political attitudes, and economics. Five or more years of relevant work experience is required, as well as knowledge of pertinent research and analytical methods and the ability to apply such techniques to policy issues. Applicants should possess strong research and analytical skills and demonstrate the ability to communicate clearly and effectively in both written and verbal forms to a wide variety of specialist and non-specialist audiences. Successful candidates will be able to show evidence of an active research agenda and demonstrated record of engagement with policy and policymaking communities. Quantitative analytical skills, experience using survey data, and experience working on Gulf policy issues all will be considered favorably. A master's degree in public policy, public administration, or relevant social science field is required, with a Ph.D. preferred. Priority will be given to candidates who are bilingual in Arabic and English.

This full-time position carries an initial three-year term, with a start date that is negotiable, and the possibility of a renewal upon mutual agreement.

Applications will be reviewed beginning on January 15, 2018. The position will remain open until filled.

Compensation includes a competitive salary, which is tax-free in Qatar (but persons will still be responsible for any applicable taxes from their country of origin), along with a generous fringe benefits package that includes health insurance. Furnished housing is also provided at no additional cost outside of expenses such as utilities, cable, and Internet access. Applicants will have their flight and moving expenses paid for at the beginning and end of their appointment, as well as one round-trip flight home annually. Educational allowances for up to three accompanying children are also available.

Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, recent curriculum vita, concise statement of research interests, writing sample or representative publication, confidential letter of reference from someone familiar with the candidate's work, and the names and contact information of two additional referees to spasearch@qu.edu.qa.

About SESRI: SESRI is an academic survey research institute established in 2008 at Qatar University in close association with the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. It undertakes original and groundbreaking surveys of citizens and residents of Qatar and other Gulf Cooperation Council states via telephone and face-to-face interviews, amassing a diverse collection of data unparalleled in the region. Previous areas of study include, among others, education, gender, labor, politics, regional integration, and survey methodology. SESRI has partnered with the World Values Survey, the World Economic Forum's Executive Opinion Survey, and other international survey efforts, and since 2010 has secured more than $5.3 million in external project funding through the Qatar National Research Fund. Widely recognized for their quality and variety, SESRI data have appeared in such forums as Foreign Affairs, Middle East Journal, and Middle East Policy. Established in June 2014, SESRI's Policy Unit utilizes new and existing SESRI data to engage in empirical-backed analysis and debate of policy questions of relevance to Qatar and the Gulf.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/15/2018

Date Posted: 11/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3736

Harvard University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

The Harvard Kennedy School invites applications and nominations for a full-time, tenure track position in the study of politics. This is an open search with respect to subfield and topic of specialization, though we are particularly interested in candidates studying American politics. We seek candidates with strong methodological training, broadly defined, whose work focuses upon the empirical analysis of politics and policy processes broadly understood. This search focuses on candidates eligible for appointment as assistant or (untenured) associate professors. Qualifications include a distinguished Ph.D. record, strong evidence of a commitment to research, strong teaching skills, and a demonstrated interest in public policy issues. Applications from women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged. Applicants should submit online a research statement, C.V., writing samples, and three letters of recommendation: <http://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/7945> Review of applications will commence immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Early applications are encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 11/3/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3734

Georgetown University

Rank: Professor of International Business and Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, International Political Economy, Political Economy

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business (MSB) and the Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS) invite applications and nominations for a senior tenured scholar to hold a joint appointment in both Schools. The position is one of a number of multidisciplinary new positions at Georgetown intended to foster multidisciplinary scholarship and teaching on some of the important problems of our times. Georgetown has a unique opportunity to integrate the fields of business and international affairs in its scholarship and programs, and this joint position will play an important role in these initiatives.

The MSB has strengths in the core business disciplines as well as international business, international political economy and trade, and ethics. The MSB offers highly ranked undergraduate, MBA, and executive programs. Each of these programs contains successful and innovative global components. The SFS is a preeminent international affairs school with deep expertise in international political economy, regional studies, and security studies. Both the MSB and the SFS are collegial and multi-disciplinary.

It is our expectation that the successful candidate will be someone whose scholarship addresses some aspect of business and policy in the global economy. The successful candidate's work has appeared, and will continue to appear, in leading scholarly outlets.

Georgetown University prides itself on the teaching excellence of its faculty, and the successful applicant will be someone who fits that tradition. We expect to make this appointment at the level of Associate or Full Professor.

The MSB and SFS already have a number of joint initiatives in place, including two joint graduate degrees (the Global Executive MBA and the newly launched Master's in International Business and Policy) and a jointly administered Global Business Fellows program for undergraduates. In our joint activities, we seek to enhance both research and teaching by focusing on the creative integration of business with the international public policy environment. The successful candidate will provide leadership in deepening and broadening the linkages between the schools.

ABOUT THE MCDONOUGH SCHOOL OF BUSINESS: Located in Washington, D.C., Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business offers unparalleled access to the world's business, policy, and thought leaders. The school, which attracts faculty and students from around the world, is committed to developing principled leaders capable of making complex business decisions in a global environment and who are dedicated to serving both business and society. Georgetown McDonough offers undergraduate, MBA, Executive MBA, and specialized programs. More information can be found here.

ABOUT THE WALSH SCHOOL OF FOREIGN SERVICE

The Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS), founded in 1919, is a premier school of international affairs. At Georgetown's Washington, D.C., and Qatar campuses, SFS provides a rigorous education grounded in both theory and practice while instilling the Jesuit values of service. SFS hosts top-ranked undergraduate and graduate studies which feature an interdisciplinary core curriculum that focuses on international affairs, government, economics, history, theology, philosophy, geography, and languages. The SFS is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, led by a faculty of both scholars and practitioners. SFS faculty are scholars in political science, economics, history, and cultural studies, as well as professionals with backgrounds in business, government, and the nonprofit sector. In the study of international affairs, Georgetown's Jesuit values inspire SFS students to be principled, just practitioners of diplomacy. Students apply these values of service internationally across the public, private, and academic sectors in pursuit of a better world.

ABOUT GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Georgetown University is one of the world's leading academic and research institutions, offering a unique educational experience that prepares the next generation of global citizens to lead and make a difference in the world. We are a vibrant community of exceptional students, faculty, alumni and professionals dedicated to real-world applications of our research, scholarship, faith and service.

Established in 1789, Georgetown is the nation's oldest Catholic and Jesuit university. Drawing upon the 450-year-old legacy of Jesuit education, we provide students with a world-class learning experience focused on educating the whole person through exposure to different faiths, cultures and beliefs. More information can be found here.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Interested applicants should upload a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://www.econjobmarket.org/postings.php?posid=4681>. Please send nominations to the same address. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2017, but will accept inquiries until the position is filled.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: 1/10/2018

Date Posted: 10/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3691

The Bush School of Government & Public Service, Texas A&M University

Rank: Department Head

Subfield(s): Administration, Public Administration, Public Policy

Public Administration/Public Management/Public Policy

Public Service and Administration Department Head. The Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites nominations and applications for the position of Department Head and Professor of Public Service and Administration, with responsibilities for a NASPAA accredited Master's Degree in Public Service and Administration and certificate programs in Homeland Security and Nonprofit Management. The successful candidate will meet qualifications required of a tenured full professor and will assume a 10.5 month academic administrative appointment as full professor of public service and administration beginning as early as July 1, 2018, with the possibility of holding an endowed chair. In addition, the successful candidate will have a substantial record of professional and university service, with a special emphasis on graduate education and research, provide evidence of excellent leadership, communication and management skills demonstrated through leadership roles in universities, government, organizations or associations, and demonstrate a commitment to working effectively with individuals of diverse backgrounds.

The Department of Public Service and Administration at the Bush School of Government and Public Service offers three tracks of curriculum, including public management, public policy analysis, and nonprofit management. The School is ranked in the top 12 percent of graduate public affairs schools in the nation (U.S. News & World Report) and 1st in the Nation for "Best Value in MPA Programs" (Value College). The curriculum within the department is a blend of both the theoretical and the practical—providing students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed for successful careers in public service. Students can choose from a number of concentrations to focus their studies including state and local government; health policy; education policy; security policy; energy, environment, and technology; international nongovernmental organizations; and individually designed concentrations offering flexibility to students with specific interests. The department continues to grow, and currently enrolls 168 full-time in-residence students, with 18 tenured or tenure-track faculty.

Send nominations and applications (letter of interest, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references) to Dr. Frank Ashley, Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (preferably as electronic attachments to Ms. Rane Cunningham at BushSchoolGBS-search@tam.u.edu), The Bush School of Government and Public Service, Texas A&M University, 4220 TAMU, College Station, TX 77843-4220. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. As a major land-grant university, Texas A&M has both an extraordinary opportunity and a special responsibility to create and maintain a campus climate that affirms diversity of thought, background, ethnicity, and perspective.

The Texas A&M System is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action/Veterans/Disability Employer committed to diversity.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3679

United States Military Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor, American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Methodology

Specializations: Presidency, Research Methods, American Politics

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF AMERICAN POLITICS at West Point. Position beginning in Academic Year 2018-2019. Candidates will be evaluated according to the following factors: (i) Academic accomplishment in Political Science with an emphasis in American Politics/Congress/Presidency (Ph.D. required); (ii) Authoritative knowledge of American political development, institutions, and political participation and experience teaching American politics; (iii) Ability to develop, design, direct, and teach undergraduate courses in American politics and other related sub-fields; (iv) Ability to conduct research and present results in a variety of media; (v) Ability to lead and guide student research and offer academic counseling and mentorship.

This is a full-time appointment for a period of one to three years. Successful candidates for this position must be available to begin work no later than early July 2018. U.S. citizens and non-citizens with allegiance to the United States may apply. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience. To receive full consideration, application packages must include: a cover letter to include discussion of your teaching philosophy as one of the topics, a curriculum vitae, academic transcripts, three letters of recommendation, one writing sample, DD214 (if claiming veteran's preference), and a copy of sponsor's Permanent Change of Station orders, (if claiming a military spouse preference). Mail all material to: Department of Social Sciences, ATTN: Ms. Marianne Daniello, 607 Cullum Road, United States Military Academy, West Point, New York 10996-1718. If you have any other questions, please contact by email: marianne.daniello@usma.edu or telephone: (845) 938-3397. In order to receive full consideration, applications should be postmarked or received by 1 December 2017. Only paper submissions will be considered.

The United States Military Academy at West Point was established in 1802 and continues to be the nation's premier leader development

institution. It is the only college specifically charged with preparing young men and women for service as officers in the United States Army. As such, it has a singular educational focus on graduating enlightened military leaders of strong moral character whose minds are creative, critical, and resourceful. Located 50 miles north of New York City, this prestigious institution is nestled in the beautiful Hudson River Valley.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 10/23/2017

Salary: $70,000 - $79,999

eJobs ID: 3672

University of Texas, Rio Grande Valley

Rank: 3-Year Lecturer (Full-Time)

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Law

The Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley invites applications for a 3-Year Full-Time Lecturer in US Federal Government & Politics and/or Texas Government & Politics to begin Fall 2018. The successful candidate will teach four sections per semester, including U.S. Federal Government & Politics, Texas Government & Politics, and upper-division courses in the candidate's sub-field specialization. Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018.

UTRGV faculty are expected to demonstrate a strong commitment to student success and to advancing the university, college, and program missions, as well as a commitment to UTRGV's guiding principles which include promoting access to postsecondary education to a diverse student body and to become one of the largest and most successful Hispanic-serving emerging research institutions in the U.S.A.

To apply, go to: <https://careers.utrgv.edu/postings/search>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/21/2018

Date Posted: 10/20/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3661

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

The Department of Political Science at Vanderbilt University invites applications for a postdoctoral research position. In addition to carrying out his or her own research, the appointee will collaborate with a Vanderbilt Political Science faculty member, Alan Wiseman, on research related to the Center for Effective Lawmaking. Strong quantitative, communication, and project management skills are required. Applicants with a track record of publication are strongly preferred. Applications are welcome from scholars who have received their doctoral degrees within the three years prior to the start of the fellowship, or who will complete their PhD by August 1, 2018. These positions involve a year of supported research at Vanderbilt University starting August 16, 2018. There is no teaching requirement associated with the appointment. Successful candidates will be given a competitive salary, health care benefits, computing resources, and a research fund.

Candidates should submit a vita, a cover letter, and a two-page proposal for how you would like to contribute to the Center for Effective

Lawmaking during the postdoc. Please review www.thelawmakers.org for more information about the Center. A graduate school transcript, a writing sample, and letters of reference are also required. Applicants should submit materials electronically through Interfolio at this link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/46317>. Applications will be considered on a rolling basis, but priority will be given to those received before October 30, 2017.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/19/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3658

Northwestern University

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellowships in Global, Comparative, or International Affairs

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Conflict Processes, Social Movements

The Buffett Institute for Global Studies at Northwestern University invites applications for two-year postdoctoral fellowships in the study of global, comparative, or international affairs. Up to three fellows will be selected. Applications are welcome from scholars from any range of social science or interdisciplinary perspectives whose research addresses global, international, or transnational social processes, problems, governance, or conflicts. Fellowships will run from September 1, 2018 to August 31, 2020.

The salary is $55,000. In addition, fellows are eligible for $5,000 per year to fund research and conference travel and up to $2,000 in reimbursement for allowable relocation expenses in the first year. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position.

Applicants must have received their PhD between December 14, 2015, and August 31, 2018.

Application deadline is December 15, 2017, at 5 p.m. (CT).

For a complete position description and application procedures, visit: <http://buffett.northwestern.edu/funding-grants/buffett-postdocs.html>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 12/15/2017

Date Posted: 10/18/2017

Salary: $50,000 - $59,999

eJobs ID: 3651

Georgetown University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy Group

Georgetown University's McDonough School of Business invites applications for a tenure-track position in its Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy group. The Strategy, Economics, Ethics, and Public Policy area includes individuals whose primary research and teaching interests lie in economics, international business, international political economy, and strategy. The area is collegial and multi-disciplinary, with several members crossing boundaries in research and teaching.

The position is open to scholars interested in conducting applied, international research. It is our expectation that the successful candidate will be someone whose scholarship addresses firm behavior in the global economy and whose work has appeared or will appear in leading scholarly outlets.

The position is at the rank of assistant professor. Georgetown University prides itself on the teaching excellence of its faculty and the successful applicant will be someone who fits that tradition. Our preference is for someone who has demonstrated teaching ability.

We encourage applicants to send a cover letter and curriculum vitae to <https://www.econjobmarket.org/postings.php?posid=4719>. We will begin consideration of applications and nominations on 1 November 2017, but will accept inquiries until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3626

University of Memphis

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

The Department of Political Science at The University of Memphis invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Policy at the level of Assistant Professor. The position will start in the fall 2018 pending the availability of funds. Candidates must have the Ph.D. in hand by August 2018. We seek applications from candidates with research and teaching interests in Public Policy. Candidates from across all subfields of Political Science and Public Policy are encouraged to apply. Areas of particular interest for the department include environmental policy, political economy, public health, race, gender and social justice. Individuals with cross-cutting disciplinary and/or methodological interests are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates must be able to teach undergraduate and graduate classes in Public Policy and must show promise of excellence in research and teaching. Salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Please submit a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a graduate transcript, a writing sample (dissertation chapter, published article or conference paper), evidence of teaching potential, and letters from at least three professional references on-line at <https://workforum.memphis.edu>. For all other inquiries please contact: Public Policy Search Committee, Department of Political Science, The University of Memphis, TN 38152. Review of applications will begin on January 5, 2018. The University of Memphis is a Research II University with an enrollment of approximately 20,000 students. The University of Memphis is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer committed to diversifying its work force. Applications from women, minorities, and individuals with disabilities are strongly encouraged.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 1/5/2018

Date Posted: 10/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3643

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Global Governance Theory/International Policy Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences
Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Global Governance/International Policy Theory with an emphasis on human security governance and sub-specializations in critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area. (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in global governance theory/international policy theory. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in human security, critical social theory, the critical, theoretical, gendered, and race-based dimensions of human governance/security, and qualitative methodologies in the social sciences are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching global governance, international policy, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170154, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than four academic references. Screening of applications will begin December 4, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Karen Hult (khult@vt.edu), chairs, Global Governance Theory Search Committee, Department of Political Science, Major Williams Hall, Room 531 (0130), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency

Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/13/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3607

Virginia Tech

Rank: Assistant Professor, Postcolonial Theory

Subfield(s): International Relations, Political Theory, Public Policy

Assistant Professor

Postcolonial Theory

ASPECT and the Department of Political Science
College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences
Virginia Tech

The interdisciplinary doctoral program ASPECT (Alliance for Social, Political, Ethical, and Cultural Thought) and the Department of Political Science at Virginia Tech invite applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Postcolonial Theory and Global Governance/Globalization Theory with an emphasis on human security and sub-specializations in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies. Evidence of excellence in research and demonstrated experience in teaching are required. Ability and desire to mentor/advise graduate students in interdisciplinary and theory-driven ASPECT doctoral program are essential. ASPECT and the Department of Political Science encourage applications from a diverse pool of applicants. The standard teaching load is four courses per academic year, including at least one course to be offered for the ASPECT PhD program. This position will begin August 10, 2018.

The successful candidate also will have the opportunity to engage in transdisciplinary research, curriculum, and/or outreach initiatives with other university faculty working in the Integrated Security Destination Area. The Integrated Security Destination Area is focused on understanding and fostering a world in which individuals, institutions, and nations are secured by technology and social systems that follow ethical principles and promote values of social justice. Faculty working together in this area are bringing a transdisciplinary approach to the complex range of human and systems security challenges. The successful candidate will have additional opportunities to join University colleagues in research and teaching initiatives in the Policy Strategic Growth Area (<http://provost.vt.edu/destination-areas.html>).

Required qualifications: Earned doctorate in political science or closely related field at the time of application or degree in hand by August 10, 2018. Candidates must have a clear specialization in postcolonial theory and global governance/globalization theory with an emphasis on human security. Applications demonstrating strong research interests in critical gender or race perspectives, the governance/management of displaced populations, urban/rural dynamics, and qualitative methodologies are especially encouraged. Additionally, successful candidates will need to demonstrate an ability to mentor doctoral students in ASPECT and in the Political Science department's MA program and will have documented effectiveness in teaching postcolonial, global governance/globalization, and security courses at the undergraduate level.

Desired qualifications: Preference will be given to political theorists who can teach a wide array of courses at the graduate and undergraduate levels in the areas listed above. Ability to work in disciplinary and interdisciplinary settings (and collaborate in teaching and research with colleagues across disciplines in the context of the ASPECT program and the cross-university Integrated Security Destination Area and Policy Strategic Growth Area) is highly desirable. Prior teaching experience at the undergraduate and graduate levels is strongly preferred. Commitment to work effectively with a diverse campus population is key.

Interested persons must apply at www.jobs.vt.edu posting #TR0170155, where they will submit a cover letter, a current curriculum vitae, no more than one recent writing sample representative of their research, teaching evaluations, a short research précis (1-2 pages) that stresses the applicant's theoretical background and contributions, and contact information for no more than 4 academic references. Screening of applications will begin January 5, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. All inquiries can be sent to: Dr. François Debrix (fdebrix@vt.edu) or Dr. Timothy W. Luke (twluke@vt.edu), chairs, Postcolonial Theory Search Committee, ASPECT, Major Williams Hall, Room 202 (0192), 220 Stanger St., Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, VA 24061. Individuals with additional questions or with disabilities desiring accommodations in the application process should contact the search committee chairs.

Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Agency
Virginia Tech does not discriminate against employees, students, or applicants on the basis of age, color, disability, gender, gender identity, gender expression, national origin, political affiliation, race, religion, sexual orientation, genetic information, or veteran status; or otherwise discriminate against employees or applicants who inquire about, discuss, or disclose their compensation or the compensation of other employees, or applicants; or any other basis protected by law (<http://www.vt.edu/about/equal-opportunity.html>). For inquiries regarding non-discrimination policies, contact the Office of Equity and Access at 540-231-2010 or Virginia Tech, North End Center, Suite 2300 (0318), 300 Turner St. NW, Blacksburg, VA 24061.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3608

Northeastern University

Rank: Network Science - Open Rank

Subfield(s): Political Theory, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: Health Care, Political Philosophy & Theory, Political Communication

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars in Network Science with an expected start date of Fall 2018. Candidates at all ranks are welcome. Areas of interest are open. We are especially interested in candidates with expertise in economics, statistical methods, and social media analysis. The position includes an appointment in one of the social science units in CSSH (Economics, Political Science, Sociology, Criminal Justice, and/or Public Policy) as well as affiliation with the Network Science Institute (www.networkscienceinstitute.org/). Cross-departmental appointments within CSSH are possible as are cross-college appointments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record or promise of one and will join an outstanding interdisciplinary community representing 7 departments, including Political Science, Physics, Computer Science, Business, Health Science, Communications, and Mathematics. The individual filling this position will contribute to our distinctive PhD program in Network Science, which is currently the only NetSci graduate program in the US and will teach courses at all levels of Network Science as well as in their domain area.

Candidates should have demonstrated commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to d.lazer@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin October 15, and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/11/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3603

Northeastern University

Rank: Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Political Theory

Specializations: International Security, Civil Rights & Liberties, Science & Technology

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor College of Social Sciences & Humanities Northeastern University

Responsibilities

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University seeks nominations and applications from leading scholars for the position of Assistant, Associate or Full Professor, tenure/tenure-track, in the area(s) of cyber security, privacy, ethics, and resilience (all broadly defined), with an expected start date of Fall 2018. We welcome applications from scholars working in any combination of these areas and are especially interested in those that focus on key issues in cybersecurity and privacy as they relate to applied ethics, human behavior, economics, institutions and policy. Interdisciplinary expertise in computational methods, data science, social science and/or humanities is preferred. This is an interdisciplinary position and candidates will be considered for joint appointments across suitable colleges and departments. The successful candidate will have a distinguished scholarly record and demonstrated potential for excellence in leadership and interdisciplinary collaboration.

The position will facilitate cross-college teaching, research and collaboration between the College of Social Sciences and Humanities and the College of Computer and Information Science. The position will also support the University's commitment to innovation in teaching and contribute to the Cybersecurity & Privacy Institute (<https://cyber.ccis.northeastern.edu/>), the Global Resilience Institute (<https://globalresilience.northeastern.edu/>), and/or the Security & Resilience Studies program (<https://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/polisci/security-resilience-studies/>). The candidate who fills this position will share the college's commitment to fostering diverse and inclusive environments as well as to promoting experiential learning, which are central to a Northeastern University education.

Qualifications

Candidates must have a PhD or its equivalent at the time of appointment.

Additional Information

The College of Social Sciences and Humanities is a leader in the Experiential Liberal Arts (www.northeastern.edu/cssh/about/deans-welcome). Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. The College is strongly committed to fostering excellence through diversity and enthusiastically welcomes nominations and applications from members of groups that have been, and continue to be, underrepresented in academia.

How to Apply

Applicants should submit a CV and letter of interest along with the names of three references. Candidates will be notified before their references are contacted. Full dossiers will be requested for first-round interviews.

To apply, please go to <http://www.northeastern.edu/cssh/faculty-positions> and click on the link for full-time positions or full-time interdisciplinary positions or if viewing this description on the Northeastern University website, click "Apply to this job." Please address nominations and inquiries about the position to Rory Smead at r.smead@northeastern.edu. Review of applications will begin November 1, 2017 and will continue until the position is filled.

Start Date: Fall 2019

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/10/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3599

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant Professor American Politics

Specializations: Latino Politics, African American Politics, Women & Politics

The Department of Political Science at the University of Central Florida invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-earning Assistant Professor position at its main Orlando Campus in the field of American Politics, with an anticipated start date of August 2018. Preferred subfields in American politics are public policy, race, ethnicity, gender, or identity politics. The successful candidate will be expected to teach research methods. It is expected that some courses will be taught online. Ph.D. in Political Science or related field from an accredited institution by the time of appointment required.

The University of Central Florida (UCF) is a research-intensive university with a diverse enrollment in excess of 66,000 students. Information about UCF may be found at www.ucf.edu. The Political Science department has approximately 1,300 undergraduates in the Political Science and International & Global Studies majors combined, as well as several minors. The department also offers an M.A. in Political Science and a Ph.D. in Security Studies. The Kurdish Political Studies Program, the India Center, the Prince Mohammed bin Fahd Program for Strategic Research and Studies, and the Lou Frey Institute of Politics & Government, as well as the Intelligence Community Center for Academic Excellence are all housed in the Political Science department. We value the perspectives and contributions of a diverse student and faculty body.

Interested applicants must apply using the UCF online application system at <https://www.jobswithucf.com> by November 16, 2017. Applicants must submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, syllabi of any courses taught as instructor of record, student evaluations (where available), a statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of recommendation. All materials other than reference letters must be uploaded to the online submission system. Note: Please have all documents ready when applying so they can be attached at that time. Once the online submission process is finalized, the system does not allow applicants to submit additional documents at a later date. Reference letters can be emailed to Politics@ucf.edu, or mailed to: Attn: Dr. Terri Susan Fine, Assistant Professor Search Committee Chair, 4297 Andromeda Loop N., Howard Phillips Hall 302, Orlando, FL 32816. All materials must be postmarked no later than November 16, 2017. Questions can be addressed to the Assistant Professor Search Committee Chair, at the mailing address or email address listed above.

As an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer, UCF encourages all qualified applicants to apply, including women, veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of traditionally underrepresented populations. UCF's Equal Opportunity Statement can be viewed at: <http://eeo.ucf.edu/documents/PresidentsStatement.pdf>. As a Florida public university, UCF makes all application materials and selection procedures available to the public upon request.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 11/16/2017

Date Posted: 10/6/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3573

Dickinson College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Law, Public Policy

Dickinson College seeks applicants for a full-time, tenure-track assistant professor position. Appointment begins in Fall 2018. A Ph.D. in Political Science or related discipline (e.g. Government) is required; a Ph.D./J.D. is welcome.

Applicants should be able to teach introductory courses in American politics and public policy as well as upper-level courses related to their research interests. The preferred candidate will be able to teach "The Judiciary" (federal and state) and topics covering a public policy issue area or areas. Dickinson College is located in a county seat and is immediately adjacent to the Penn State Dickinson Law school. As such, Dickinson has ready access to pedagogical, research, and internship resources for the study of law and public policy. The state capital Harrisburg is a 20-minute drive away and Washington DC two hours by car. The ability to create an inclusive environment for an increasingly diverse student body is vital. Dickinson is committed to building a representative and diverse faculty, administrative staff, and student body. We encourage applications from all qualified persons.

Dickinson College is a highly selective four-year, independent liberal arts college with 2300 students located approximately two-hour's drive from Washington, DC, Baltimore, MD, and Philadelphia, PA.

Review of applications will begin October 30 and will continue until the position is filled.

<https://jobs.dickinson.edu/>

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3567

Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Methodology, Public Policy, Other

Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Immigration Policy Lab, Stanford University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Position: Stanford University is seeking to appoint a Postdoctoral Research Fellow to join the Immigration Policy Lab (www.immigrationlab.org). The Immigration Policy Lab conducts research that employs field and natural experimental methods to quantify the impacts of immigration and integration policies throughout the world. Using large datasets, creative research designs, and cutting-edge analytical tools, we bring new evidence to bear on the urgent problems practitioners face. By guiding the people who set public policy, as well as those who directly serve immigrant communities, our research can inspire solutions and ultimately improve lives.

The Immigration Policy Lab reorients academic training by placing postdocs in a hub of experiential research activity. Working side by side with faculty and professional staff, postdocs are fully immersed in an innovative research model that combines the efficiency and rigor of an academic lab with the energy and innovation of a civic-tech startup.

We are looking for a postdoctoral fellow to join our team and help grow our exciting portfolio of projects related to immigrant and refugee integration in the United States, Europe and other regions throughout the world. The principal job of the postdoc will be to design and implement immigration policy evaluations and conduct rigorous quantitative analyses using advanced methods of causal inference under the supervision of Professors Jens Hainmueller, Jeremy Weinstein, and David Laitin. She or he will be involved in all aspects of the research, but with a particular emphasis on identification, survey design, data acquisition, data analysis and interpretation of results. Additionally, the postdoc will work closely with faculty, staff and partner organizations in developing and designing innovative policies and programs to pilot and evaluate. The postdoc will have the opportunity to co-author papers envisioned to appear in top journals that report on the results of the studies, work with an array of affiliated faculty from top institutions, and develop independent projects related to immigration policy evaluation.

Qualifications: The Postdoctoral Research Fellow will have completed a Ph.D. in a social science program, with a preference for Political Science, Economics, or Sociology. She or he should have a range of statistical skills including graduate level knowledge of program evaluation methods, data management, and data analysis. Experience in running and analyzing field experiments and/or conducting quasi-experimental program evaluations would be highly useful. Knowledge of immigration/refugee policy, with the ability to operate in a language other than English, will also be highly valued.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer. It welcomes nominations of, and applications from, women and members of minority groups, as well as others who would bring additional dimensions to the university's research missions.

Appointment: The initial appointment will be for one year beginning between January and June 2018, with an expected renewal for a second year contingent on satisfactory performance and funding. Salary is negotiable and based on experience. Benefits are provided. Applications should include a cover letter, CV, graduate school transcripts, a writing sample and at least two letters of recommendation. Additional papers may be requested at a later date. Applicants should be prepared to complete a research design and data analysis exercise as part of the interview process. Applications will only be accepted through AcademicJobsOnline.com (<https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/10036>, ID 10036). Applications should be submitted by November 17, 2017, though applications may be considered after the deadline. Applicants who have questions about the position may contact the Executive Director of the Immigration Policy Lab, Duncan Lawrence directly (dlawrenc@stanford.edu, Subject: Immigration Lab Postdoc 2017).

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 10/5/2017

Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3569

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate 2018-2019

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks post-doctoral or more senior research associates for the ten-month 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. PhD required.

Each research associate will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary and applicable Princeton University benefits in accordance with university guidelines, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, and the names of two (and not more than two) references. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this 2018-2019 postdoctoral research associate position must apply to position req number D-18-WWS-00013 <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4161>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST (including letters of recommendation from the two references).

This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3564

Princeton University/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP)

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, Public Policy

Princeton University's Center for the Study of Democratic Politics (CSDP) seeks visiting scholars for the 2018-2019 academic year. The Center supports empirical research on democratic political processes and institutions. Applications are welcome from political scientists and scholars in related social science disciplines. CSDP visiting scholar positions are restricted to employed scholars on leave who are expected to return to their position.

Each scholar will pursue research and contribute to the intellectual life of the Center, the Department of Politics, and the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. CSDP scholars must be in residence at Princeton during the academic terms, and are expected to participate in the weekly CSDP seminars and related weekly research seminars in the Department of Politics, as well as occasional lectures, conferences, and other events. Successful candidates will receive a competitive salary (those who hold faculty appointments at other academic institutions normally receive one-half their academic-year salaries for the appointment period, but this may vary depending on level of support from the home institution), applicable benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a research allowance.

Verification of employment and salary will be requested prior to approval by the Dean of the Faculty. PhD or equivalent doctoral degree required. Applicants must apply online and submit a CV, a 3-5 page (double-spaced) statement of research interest/research proposal, a writing sample, a brief statement of anticipated (estimated) salary support from the home institution for the 2018-2019 academic year, and statement of the home institution's leave policy. A cover letter is optional. Applicants for this Visiting Research Scholar position for 2018-2019 should apply to req number D-18-WWS-00014. <https://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/4221>. The deadline for receipt of complete applications is Friday, December 1, 2017 at 11:59 p.m. EST

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/4/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3563

Rider University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): Other, Public Policy, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Intelligence, Criminal Justice, International Security

Tenure-Track Position in Political Science

Rider University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant or Associate Professor level in the area of homeland security politics with emphases on counter terrorism, intelligence studies, public policy, crime, or national security to start Fall 2018. The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, or related discipline, be broadly trained, have strong communication skills, a commitment to both teaching and research in the liberal arts environment, the ability to establish a research program that can engage undergraduate and graduate students and be able to teach courses on any of the following areas: military operations, law enforcement policy at the national level, disaster management, conflict management, counter-terrorism, intelligence gathering, national preparedness for conventional, hybrid, unconventional war or homeland security policy challenges. Prior teaching experience and post-doctoral research are desirable. Field experience is also preferable.

The Rider University community is composed of faculty, staff and students from a wide range of culturally diverse backgrounds. Applicants should be experienced with, and committed to work in and with, such a diverse population. Rider University is a private, coeducational university of nearly 4,500 students located between Philadelphia and New York, near Princeton, New Jersey. Rider is ranked in the top tier of northern regional universities offering master's degrees by US News and World Report and is ranked as "A Best 378 College" by the Princeton Review.

All applicants must complete an on-line application at www.rider.edu/hr, 'Employment Opportunities'; 'Create Application'; and attach letter of interest, curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy and goals, and a detailed statement of research interests, plans, goals, and needs. Undergraduate and graduate transcripts and three letters of recommendation also are required and can be sent separately to: Associate Director, Human Resources, 2083 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648. Please reference Position # 312261.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/1/2017
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: $80,000 - $89,999
eJobs ID: 3558

University of Texas, Austin

Rank: Tenure Track Business and Public Policy Position
Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, Administration

The Business, Government & Society (BGS) Department in the McCombs School of Business at the University of Texas at Austin teaches future leaders how to recognize and respond to the legal, ethical, social, and regulatory expectations that businesses face and contributes to important public policy debates through research that rigorously applies social science research methods to relevant questions at the intersection of business activity and government regulation.

BGS now invites applications for a tenure-track position starting in the 2018-2019 school year. The ideal candidate will possess a Ph.D. in political science or economics and have core research interest in areas such as political economy, CSR, business and public policy, and ethical decision making. Research interests in international political economy, sustainability, health care and technological innovation and regulation are a plus. Candidates should have a demonstrable methodological skill set, a rigorous research agenda relevant to business and its non-market environment, and the potential to publish in top journals in these areas.

Apply here: <https://apply.interfolio.com/45561>

Additional information here: <https://facultyjobs.utexas.edu/position/28188>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: Open until Filled
Date Posted: 10/3/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3560

Stanford University

Rank: Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow in Contemporary Asia 2018-19
Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics
Specializations: East Asia, Southeast Asia, South Asia

Stanford University: 2018–2019 Postdoctoral Fellowships in Contemporary Asia

The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University is pleased to announce its search for two 2018–19 Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellows in Contemporary Asia-Pacific Studies. Made possible through the generosity of Walter H. Shorenstein, awards will be made to two junior scholars (recent PhDs must have degree conferral by July 31, 2018) for research and writing on Asia.

The primary focus of the fellowship is on contemporary political, economic, or social change in the Asia-Pacific region (including Northeast, Southeast, and South Asia), or topics in international relations and international political economy. The postdoctoral fellowship is a 10-month appointment with a salary rate of $52,000 plus $2,000 for research expenses. Appointments will begin in the fall quarter of the 2018–19 academic year.

Applications must be received by December 20, 2017. For additional information and to apply, visit: <https://aparc.fsi.stanford.edu/fellowships>

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/20/2017
Date Posted: 10/2/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3528

Saint John's University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy
Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics
Specializations: Public Finance & Budgeting, American Politics, Urban Politics

The Department of Government and Politics in St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at St. John's University (New York) is seeking applicants for a full-time tenure track faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor of Public Administration and Public Policy to begin in fall 2018.

Description of Responsibilities:

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University invites applications for a tenure track position in Public Administration and Public Policy. We seek individuals with research and teaching interests in public budgeting and finance. The applicant's background and interests should also be conducive to effective teaching of research methods and introductory American politics courses. The Department is particularly interested in applicants whose research interests address the intersection between public policy and inequality, social integration, or diversity as broadly understood. The Department and the University strongly encourages applicants from under-represented, and minority communities.

Qualifications:

Candidates should have a doctoral degree in Political Science, Public Administration, or Public Policy in hand, or should have a firm commitment to completion by May 2019. Applicants with later completion dates should be able to demonstrate their progress toward completion through references by their dissertation committee chairperson.

Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Submit your letter of interest, CV, and an academic writing sample online.

Apply here: <https://stjohnsedu.silkroad.com/epostings/?fuseaction=app.jobinfo&jobid=218327&version=1&source=PSA>

Separately, please have your three letters of reference emailed to osulivm@stjohns.edu.

St. John's University (www.stjohns.edu), founded in 1870, is a Catholic and Vincentian university that prepares students for personal and professional success in today's global society. The Princeton Review and other top rankings consistently recognize the University's outstanding academics, diverse student body, dynamic internship and volunteer opportunities, focus on student life, and diverse study abroad offerings. Our quality springs from an institutional vision of excellence and service. Students come from nearly 50 states and 127 countries to pursue more than 100 associate, bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degrees in the arts, humanities, business, education, law, pharmacy, the sciences, and specialized professional programs. The University is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education and 12 other major academic and professional associations. St. John's has three New York City campuses; a Graduate Center in Hauppauge, NY; international campuses in Rome, Italy, and Paris, France; and study abroad locations in Seville, Spain, and around the world. The University's Division I athletic program offers 17 men's and women's programs in the Big East Conference.

St. John's College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is the cornerstone and oldest division of St. John's University. The College offers three undergraduate degrees: the Bachelor of Arts, the Bachelor of Science and the Bachelor of Fine Arts. Although the College has always emphasized the liberal arts tradition, we offer more than thirty majors and forty minors in the arts and sciences, business, and education. The college's graduate division provides numerous programs leading to master's and doctorate degrees. St. John's College serves approximately 3300 undergraduate and graduate students. Faculty in the College also teach the majority of courses in the University's core curriculum whose courses are taken by every St. John's University undergraduate student regardless of college/school or major. For additional information, please visit <http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences>.

The Department of Government and Politics

The Department of Government and Politics at St. John's University is a well-established department within the University's College of Arts and Sciences. With faculty covering all of the major Political Science subfields: American Government, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Political Theory, and Public Administration; the Department seeks to educate its undergraduate and graduate students with a broad understanding of the discipline. The Department maintains Bachelors and Masters degree programs in Government and Politics, as well distinct programs in Public Administration. Although the core of the program is based on the University's main campus in Queens, New York, the Department also serves undergraduate students in Staten Island, New York, and graduate students in Rome, Italy.

<http://www.stjohns.edu/academics/schools-and-colleges/st-johns-college-liberal-arts-and-sciences/government-and-politics>

Please understand that any offer of employment is subject to receipt by St. John's University of satisfactory references, verification of employment and education.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3539

Vanderbilt University

Rank: Postdoctoral Scholar

The Vanderbilt LGBT Policy Lab seeks an in-residence postdoctoral scholar in LGBT Policy Studies (broadly defined) for AY 18-19 and 19-20. The ideal candidate is an empirical social scientist who has an interest in studying the causes and consequences of LGBT-related public policies (e.g., same-sex marriage, non-discrimination laws, 'bathroom bills', religious freedom restoration acts, and others) on a range of social, economic, political, health, education, and demographic outcomes. Experience with programming in advanced statistical packages (e.g., STATA, SAS, and/or R) and handling large datasets is required. A PhD (or equivalent) in anthropology, demography, economics, education, health services research, law/jurisprudence, LGBT studies, political science, public health, public policy, sociology, or a related field is required.

Responsibilities include:

1. Carrying out an active research program focusing on LGBT policies and populations.
2. Developing a course on LGBT policies and advocacy to be co-taught with a Vanderbilt faculty member in AY 18-19 and AY 19-20.
3. Coordinating a regular colloquium series on LGBT policies and populations.
4. Coordinating a national academic conference to be held at Vanderbilt in Spring 2020.
5. Serving as a liaison to campus and community leaders on LGBT policy topics.

With funding from a Vanderbilt Trans-Institutional Programs Award (<http://vanderbilt.edu/strategicplan/trans-institutional-programs/tipshome.php>), the LGBT Policy Lab brings together Vanderbilt experts from multiple units including: economics; education; divinity; health policy; law; medicine; MHS; political science; religious studies; and sociology. The postdoc would work closely with the PI (Kitt Carpenter) and related faculty.

The fellowship term is 7/1/2018-6/30/2020. The position carries a twelve-month salary of $55,000, a $5,000 research fund, office space, health insurance, and eligibility for other benefits (<https://gradschool.vanderbilt.edu/postdoctoral/postdoctoral-scholars/benefits.php>). This in-residence position requires a physical presence in Nashville for the term of the fellowship.

Applicants should apply via Interfolio at the following link: <http://apply.interfolio.com/45287>. A complete application requires a cover letter describing the candidate's interest, a cv, a writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Please note that the application portal references the postdoc's logistical home is in the economics department, but this search is not limited to economists, nor is it primarily targeted to economists. We strongly encourage qualified applicants from any of the above disciplines, and every effort will be made to obtain office space nearest the postdoc's main disciplinary home.

Questions about the position can be directed to Kitt Carpenter at: christopher.s.carpenter@vanderbilt.edu. Applications will be reviewed immediately.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/29/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 3543

Florida State University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

The Department of Political Science (<http://coss.fsu.edu/polisci/home>) seeks applications for a tenure track assistant professor to begin in Fall 2018. We are open with respect to specialization and are especially interested in candidates in institutions and political economy. The department has particular interest in applicants who add to the department's diversity. Regardless of specialization, successful candidates will add to the department's strengths in quantitative, experimental and/or formal methods.

Florida State University is a Carnegie Foundation-classified Research I institution. Among its 42,000 students are 8,500 graduate students pursuing over 200 programs of study. Tallahassee is Florida's capital and has a metropolitan population of over 375,000. Its principal employers are state government and three higher education institutions.

Applicants should submit (1) a letter of application indicating research and teaching interests, (2) a curriculum vitae, (3) a writing sample, (4) three letters of recommendation, and (5) a graduate school transcript. Items (1) to (3) must be submitted electronically; items (4) and (5) may be sent as hard copies or electronically. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

Electronic files may be submitted to polisci@fsu.edu, as may questions about the search. Mailed letters of reference and transcripts may be addressed to Assistant Professor Search, Department of Political Science, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2230.

Florida State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and racial/ethnic minority applicants are particularly encouraged to apply (http://hr.fsu.edu/?page=eoc/eo/ceo_home).

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/15/2017

Date Posted: 9/25/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3493

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight appointees for the 2018-2019 academic year Postdoctoral Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3901>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. These positions are subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3469

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two postdoctoral or more candidates for the Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in regional political economy

for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process - All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3922>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3471

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Program Visiting Fellow

Specializations: Political Economy, International Political Economy, Political Economy

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks up to eight visitors for the 2018-2019 academic year Visiting Fellowship Program. These awards are designed to promote basic research in the broad areas of international and comparative political economy, international organization and global governance, and globalization. Research on the causes and consequences of globalization, the political economy of foreign trade, monetary and regulatory policies, the sources of international cooperation at the global and regional level, the domestic and international politics of economic development, the political economy of human security issues, the evolution and impact of international institutions, and the politics of international law and human rights policies is of relevance.

Outstanding scholars anywhere in the world are eligible to apply. The Center invites candidates with a background in political science, economics, modern history, sociology, anthropology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of globalization to apply. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3921>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Friday, December 8, 2017. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Friday, December 8, 2017, 11:59p.m. EST.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Princeton University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 12/8/2017

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3468

Princeton University

Rank: Niehaus Center Visiting Fellowship Program in Regional Political Economy

Specializations: Middle East, Africa, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2018-2019 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2018 - July 1, 2019).

Application Deadline – January 02, 2018

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <http://www.princeton.edu/acad-positions/position/3923>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Tuesday, January 2, 2018. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Statement indicating if a sabbatical leave is available;
- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- History of 'sabbatical leaves' over the past seven years;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2017 - July 1, 2018).

These materials must be submitted online by Tuesday, January 2, 2018.

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

Successful applicants will be notified of the outcome of their application in March 2018.

For more information about the Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance fellowship program, please contact Patricia Trinity, Assistant Director at ptrinity@princeton.edu.

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 1/2/2018

Date Posted: 9/21/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3470

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2016

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3425

Princeton University

Rank: James Madison Program Visiting Fellow

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Political Theory, Public Policy

Specializations: United States, Constitutional Law & Theory, Political Thought: Historical

Invitation for Visiting Fellow Applications

The James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions at Princeton University is dedicated to the pursuit of scholarly excellence in the fields of constitutional law and political thought. Sponsored by Princeton's Department of Politics, the Program seeks to enrich the intellectual life of Princeton students and faculty by exploring American constitutional principles and structures through research and public discussion.

The Program invites college and university professors and other professionals with established records of scholarship to apply for appointments as Visiting Fellows for the academic year running from September 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019. One-semester appointments are possible but not preferred. Among the research fellowships offered are the Ann and Herbert W. Vaughan Visiting Fellowship and the William E. Simon Visiting Fellowship in Religion and Public Life. Depending on the needs of the University, teaching opportunities may be available, subject to sufficient enrollment and approval of the Dean of the Faculty.

All James Madison Program Visiting Fellows will spend an academic year (10-month term) in residence at Princeton University. They enjoy access to Firestone Library and a wide range of other facilities and activities throughout the University.

Visiting Fellows are expected to devote full time to their proposed research. They are, however, encouraged to attend or participate in various activities of the Program, including faculty-graduate student seminars, colloquia, and public lectures.

All James Madison Program Fellows must have a doctorate or equivalent degree. Positions are open to all regardless of citizenship. Fellows normally receive a stipend of one-half their academic-year salary plus a living allowance. The fellows' home institutions are expected to provide at least half of their academic-year salaries.

How to apply: For full consideration, applicants are required to submit an online application at AHIRE link. To apply for a Visiting Fellow position please go to requisition D-18-POL-00010. A complete application must include the following:

- * a curriculum vitae;
- * a scholarly paper written in the past three years;
- * a statement (no more than 1,500 words) describing the proposed research;
- * contact information for two references;
- * a confidential statement from home institution that indicates the applicant's salary for the current academic year, financial support their home institution and other sources are likely to provide, and what support they are likely to need from the Program.

The deadline for application materials is 11:59 p.m. EST on December 1, 2017 for appointments beginning in September 2018. Awards will be announced in March 2018.

Please address any inquiries to:

Bradford P. Wilson, Ph.D., Executive Director
James Madison Program in American Ideals and Institutions
Princeton University
83 Prospect Avenue
Princeton, NJ 08540
E-mail: bpwilson@princeton.edu / Web address: <http://jmp.princeton.edu>

Start Date: Fall

Application Deadline: 12/1/2017

Date Posted: 9/15/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3426

Carnegie Mellon University

Rank: Adjunct Instructor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Other

The Institute for Politics and Strategy (IPS) at Carnegie Mellon University invites candidates to apply for a spring 2018 semester adjunct instructor position leading the Internship Seminar as part of the Carnegie Mellon University Washington Semester Program (CMU/WSP) in Washington, DC.

In the semester-long CMU/WSP, students live, work, and study in Washington, DC, coming into direct contact with political, business, and community leaders and learning about the most pressing policy issues of the day.

CMU/WSP students intern three days per week in any sector or field of interest within Washington, DC, while taking classes in the late afternoons and evenings. IPS sponsors events and policy-oriented opportunities in Washington for participating students to further enrich their experience and enhance their understanding of how Washington functions as a hub of international and public policy decision making.

The adjunct instructor will teach the Internship Seminar for the program. The internship is the experiential “core” of the Washington Semester Program. In conjunction with their part-time internship, students meet weekly for the Internship Seminar to report and reflect on their internship experiences, often joined by DC-based CMU alumni working in a variety of professional fields. The internship and Internship Seminar have three major sets of goals and expected learning outcomes: knowledge goals, skill development, and personal and professional growth. Together, the internship and Internship Seminar require approximately 27-28 hours of student work per week.

The adjunct instructor position will run from January 16, 2018 to May 4, 2018. The instructor will be paid $15,000 for teaching the course. This is a part-time position.

The application deadline is 5:00 p.m. EST, on October 20, 2017.

Materials to be submitted:

- Cover letter stating the applicant’s academic background and interest in the program;
- CV;
- Teaching Statement (titles and short descriptions of at least two undergraduate courses that the candidate is eligible to teach or has taught); and
- Contact information for two references.

Please email your application to cmuips@andrew.cmu.edu. Please contact this email address if you have any questions or concerns about the application.

Start Date: Spring 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/14/2017

Salary: Below $20,000

eJobs ID: 3419

Yeshiva University

Rank: Assistant Professor - American Politics

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science of Yeshiva College at Yeshiva University invites applications for a tenure-track appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in American politics, beginning Fall 2018. The subfield specialization is open, but candidates with research and teaching interests in such fields as elections, public policy, public opinion, media and politics, quantitative methods, and constitutional law are especially encouraged to apply. The department seeks a broadly trained scholar capable of teaching introductory courses plus upper-level courses in the applicant’s area of specialization. Applicants should have a commitment to both undergraduate teaching within a liberal arts environment and maintaining an active research agenda. Teaching experience and Ph.D. at the time of appointment are preferred. Salary is competitive. For full consideration, applications should be received by October 15, 2017 but applications will continue to be accepted until the position is filled. The position will be based at Yeshiva

College, the undergraduate men’s College of Yeshiva University, which is located in the Washington Heights section of New York City. Applications should contain a cover letter, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, one writing sample, and three letters of recommendation. Reference letters should be sent to: yu.politics.search@gmail.com. All other documents should be uploaded at: <https://faculty-yeshiva.icims.com/jobs/9878/assistant-professor-of-political-science/job> Questions about the position may be directed to Prof. Joseph Luders (luders@yu.edu). Yeshiva University is an equal opportunity employer committed to hiring minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/12/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3390

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: UCLA Luskin School Assistant or Associate Professor: Latino Social Policy

Specializations: Civil Rights & Liberties, Immigration Policy, Latino Politics

The Luskin School of Public Affairs, in partnership with the Chicano Studies Research Center (CSRC) at UCLA, seeks an advanced assistant or tenured associate professor in the general fields of Latino social, economic, and political issues. (A starting full professor may be appointed under extraordinary circumstances.) A successful applicant should be appointable in one or more of three departments in the Luskin School of Public Affairs: Public Policy, Social Welfare, or Urban Planning.

The Luskin School is an interdisciplinary environment that focuses on human well-being at every level of analysis. As part of this mission, the School, the CSRC, and UCLA’s Division of Social Sciences have launched the Latino Policy and Politics Initiative, with the goal of establishing a multi-faceted think tank working on a broad range of challenges faced by the California Latino plurality. Latinos in the US face a multitude of challenges beyond immigration, including issues such as voting rights, environmental racism, K12 educational equity, quality health care, job opportunities, higher education access, worker protection, and criminal justice reform among many others. Scholars of all methodological traditions, interested in any of these substantive areas, as well as others, are invited to apply.

Applicants should hold a PhD in Social Welfare, Public Policy, Urban Planning or any of the cognate fields of Sociology, Political Science, Psychology, Economic, Law, etc., and be interested in problem-driven research and teaching. The Luskin School offers Masters Degrees in the three fields, doctoral degrees in Urban Planning and Social Welfare, and in 2018 will be launching an undergraduate major in Public Affairs. In addition to three departments, the School has several large and thriving research institutes focused on various aspects of governance, social well-being, and solution seeking for challenging issues. The University of California, Los Angeles, is the largest and most comprehensive campus in the UC system, with 45,000 students seeking degrees across the liberal arts and sciences and professional schools, located in the second largest city in the nation and the largest Spanish-speaking city in the nation. By consensus, UCLA is regularly identified in the top five of all public universities in the US, and the top 15 of universities, public and private.

The position is opened until filled, but early inquiries are encouraged. Applications will be reviewed beginning September 15, 2017. To apply go to UC Recruit, submit a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, writing sample/representative publications and three letters of recommendation to: <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03247>. For questions related to the position, please contact Julie Straub at jstraub@luskin.ucla.edu.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu for other academic opportunities in Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Start Date: Summer 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/6/2017

Salary: Negotiable

eJobs ID: 3350

Georgetown University

Rank: Associate Director of the Data Science Program (non-tenure track)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Methodology, American Government and Politics

The McCourt School of Public Policy and the Graduate School of Georgetown University invite applications for the position of Associate Director of the Data Science in Public Policy Program.

A successful candidate will have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, Economics, Computer Science, Statistics, or a related field, experience in the emerging field of data science and a broad vision of its future directions, experience in graduate education, an established research agenda and strong administrative and interpersonal skills.

Tasks for the Associate Director include supervision of the program, continued curriculum development, interaction with current and prospective students, management of the admissions process, recruitment of part-time faculty and representing the program in the lively data science community in the Washington area. The Associate Director will also teach in the program.

This is a 12-month non-tenure line position with an initial appointment of up to three years.

Applications can be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/program/9414>. The committee will begin considering applications in early September and will continue to do so until the position is filled.

A generous naming gift from Frank McCourt in 2013 has allowed the McCourt School to expand faculty and create a Massive Data Institute and a new Institute of Politics and Public Service. The Data Analytics Program has been offering a Master of Science in Analytics degree since 2015. The Analytics program provides students with a rigorous training in computational, mathematical, and statistical methods.

Georgetown University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer fully dedicated to achieving a diverse faculty and staff. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply and will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, sex, sexual orientation, age, religion, national origin, marital status, veteran status, disability or other categories protected by law.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 9/5/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3333

Harvard University

Rank: China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellow

Specializations: China, Political Economy, History & Politics

Harvard Kennedy School China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowships AY 2018-19

The Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation at the Harvard Kennedy School will offer two postdoctoral fellowships in the field of contemporary Chinese public policy to recent Ph.D.s of exceptional promise.

Applicants must have received their Ph.D. within five years of the start of the fellowship in a relevant discipline in the social sciences. Preference will be given to those working in the areas of contemporary domestic politics, political economy, business-government relations, state-society relations, and social/legal/economic development of China, particularly on issues related to urbanization, political/economic reform, energy/environment, social welfare, and civil society. Knowledge of Chinese is required, as well as the ability to work with original sources. Residence in the Cambridge area and participation in the activities of the Center throughout the academic year also required (e.g. weekly doctoral fellows workshop series). It is expected that the successful applicant will give at least one research presentation during the fellowship period as well as participate in the Center's publication program. Those who are chosen to receive fellowships must have his/her degree conferral by June 1, 2018.

Each fellowship will begin on August 1, 2018 and run for a period of up to two years. The recipient will receive an annual stipend of $50,000, health insurance, and work space. Some research/travel funds may also be available.

To submit an application for the 2018-20 fellowship, please refer to <http://ash.harvard.edu/china-public-policy-postdoctoral-fellowships>. Email the completed application form, research proposal, current CV, 2 writing samples, and 2 letters of recommendation by December 15, 2017 (Friday) at 11:59PM EST to Ash_Fellowships@hks.harvard.edu with "China Public Policy Postdoctoral Fellowship" in the SUBJECT line. Recommendation letters must be emailed directly by the recommenders. All recommendation letters must be received for full consideration.

Further inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Kaori Urayama
Manager for Ash Center Fellows Programs
Harvard Kennedy School
E-mail: Kaori_Urayama@hks.harvard.edu

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 12/15/2017
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: $50,000 - $59,999
eJobs ID: 1968

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Immigration/Migration Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Immigration Policy, Latino Politics, International Political Economy

Immigration and/or Migration Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to understanding immigration and/or migration. We seek a scholar whose research advances our understanding of the causes and consequences of these population movements. He or she may also study the social, political, economic, and demographic realignments that migrants produce in their communities of destination or origin. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, History, Sociology, Psychology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03189>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017
Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3328

University of California, Los Angeles

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Policy: Social Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Social Welfare, Labor Politics, Economic Policy
 Social Policy

We welcome applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Public Policy whose research is relevant to social policy. We seek a scholar whose research advances our knowledge of policies that address the economic and social disparities—inclusive of differences in geography, race, and ethnicity. His or her research may deepen our understanding of the changing dynamics of labor-market opportunities or how employment contributes to the social welfare of individuals and families. Successful candidates will have doctorates in Economics, Political Science, Political Economy, Public Policy, Sociology, or a related field. Applicants' research should have important public policy implications. A Ph.D. or equivalent is required by the time of appointment.

We are a collegial, interdisciplinary department within a school of public affairs located at an excellent and diverse public university in one of the greatest cities in the world. We offer a Master of Public Policy degree, are developing an undergraduate major, and help train doctoral students from varied departments across campus.

A letter of interest, CV, three reference letters, and a research paper should be submitted at <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/apply/JPF03183>. In your cover letter please provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach. You may also submit an optional diversity statement with examples of your contribution to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service. Applications are due October 1, but they will be reviewed as received until this position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Learn More: Please visit our website at www.luskin.ucla.edu/jobs to learn more about this position and other academic opportunities with the Luskin School of Public Affairs.

Requirements

- Curriculum Vitae: Please provide your most recent C.V.
- Cover Letter: Please additionally provide examples of public policy courses that you could teach
- Research Paper
- Diversity Statement: Please submit a statement with examples of contributions to diversity-related research, teaching, and/or service (Optional)
- Three letters of reference

Start Date: Fall 2017

Application Deadline: 10/1/2017
Date Posted: 9/5/2017
Salary: Negotiable
eJobs ID: 3329

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Administrative Law and Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Public Law, Public Administration

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in Administrative Law and Policy. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda and be able to teach administrative law and public policy classes to undergraduate and graduate students in political science and to contribute to an anticipated professional master's program in public policy. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach administrative law and policy in one or more of the department's cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. We also welcome applications from candidates who can teach constitutional law. Desired qualifications include the ability to attract external funding; the potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science, Public Policy, or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. Patricia Boling, boling@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018
Application Deadline: 10/2/2017
Date Posted: 8/30/2017
Salary: Competitive
eJobs ID: 3308

Purdue University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science - Quantitative Methods

The Department of Political Science at Purdue University seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor in quantitative methodology, with a focus on causal inference and/or cost-benefit analysis. The position will start in August 2018.

The successful candidate will have an active research agenda, be able to teach quantitative methods and policy analysis effectively to undergraduate and graduate students, and contribute to an anticipated professional MA program in public policy. The candidate will also have opportunities to teach in his or her substantive area of expertise. The department is especially interested in candidates who can contribute to one or more of our cross-cutting research areas in the politics of groups and identities; environmental politics and policy; and human security and political violence. Desired qualifications include interest in contributing to social science methodological training across campus; ability to attract external funding; potential for teaching excellence; and a commitment to diversity and inclusion. A Ph.D. in Political Science or a related discipline is required.

Founded in 1869, Purdue is a research-intensive, PhD-granting institution and a public land-grant university. The Political Science Department is home to the journal Politics, Groups, and Identities. Faculty members are actively involved with several interdisciplinary programs and centers, including the Advanced Methods Cluster, the Building Sustainable Communities initiative, the Center for the Environment, the Center for Research on Diversity and Inclusion, Peace Studies, Asian Studies, the Purdue Systems Collaboratory, and the Purdue Policy Research Institute. Many faculty hold joint appointments or affiliations with other departments and programs, including Communication, African American Studies, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies. The department offers graduate certificates in Social Policy and Environmental Policy to students across campus. The department is also home to the director of the award-winning C-SPAN Archives, located at the Purdue Research Park.

Application materials should be submitted electronically as .pdf attachments to Ms. Annie Wheeldon at politicalscience@purdue.edu. Applications should include curriculum vitae, graduate transcript, three letters of reference, a sample of written work, instructional materials such as syllabi and course evaluations, and a cover letter discussing the applicant's qualifications for the position.

Purdue University's Department of Political Science is committed to advancing diversity in all areas of faculty effort, including scholarship, instruction, and engagement. Candidates should address at least one of these in their cover letter, indicating their past experiences, current interests or activities, and/or future goals to promote a climate that values diversity and inclusion.

Review of applications will begin October 2, 2017, and continue until the position is filled. Questions should be addressed to search committee chair Dr. James McCann, mccannj@purdue.edu. A background check will be required for employment in this position.

Purdue University is an EOE/AA employer. All individuals, including minorities, women, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/2/2017

Date Posted: 8/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3306

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.
4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).
5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3218

Tecnologico de Monterrey

Rank: Open Rank Faculty Position

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, Public Policy, International Relations

Specializations: Political Economy, Latin American, Energy Policy

The School of Government has one vacant open rank research-professor position. The search is open with respect to specialty and approach. We welcome candidates in public policy, economics, political science, public administration, sociology, law, education policy or other related fields in the social sciences.

Candidates are expected to strengthen the ability of the School of Government and Public Transformation to influence policy debates in areas such as data science for public services and governance, poverty and social policy, inequality, public finance and budgeting, federalism and local government, democracy and elections, security and justice, education policy, energy, and environmental policy in Mexico and globally. The School of Government offers a dynamic academic environment with excellent research support.

Candidates must have the ability to conduct high quality, original research and to publish in internationally-recognized peer-reviewed outlets. They should also be committed to teaching and mentoring Masters and PhD students.

Responsibilities include teaching in the graduate programs and undergraduate courses offered by the School of Government, and fulfillment of a research program as presented in the candidate's application. Teaching may be done exclusively in English, although a solid knowledge of Spanish is strongly encouraged. The teaching load is 4 courses per year, and specific agreements will depend on the candidate's rank and potential contribution to the School's mission.

Deadline:

Review will begin on October 5th and continue until the position is filled. Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Minimum Requirements:

Candidates must have a strong academic background, and proven interest in empirical research. We specifically search for candidates with a strong background in defining theoretical and applied research in one or more of the aforementioned areas. This is an open-rank search, whereby status as tenured, tenure-track, Assistant, Associate or Full Professor will be awarded on the basis of his/her publishing record, teaching experience, and academic status. We expect candidates to hold a Doctoral degree, and may or may not have a current appointment at another institution. Applications from ABD candidates will only be considered if they include a letter from the chair of the committee stating a date for the defense of the doctoral dissertation. The latter should occur at the latest before June 2018.

Compensation is competitive, and includes incentives and support for research activities. Tec de Monterrey will provide legal assistance in case the candidate is a foreign national, for working permit and visa for the candidate and his/her dependents.

Tec de Monterrey is an equal opportunity employer, committed to building a culturally diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities. The university is committed to attracting and retaining outstanding and diverse faculty both in terms of gender and race.

Non-Discrimination Statement

Our institution does not discriminate against job candidates on the basis of actual or perceived gender, gender identity, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, or religion.

Documents Required:

Applicants should send the following documents in PDF format through the AcademicJobsOnline.org (see <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/5869>):

1. Research statement for the next 3 years (no longer than three pages).
2. Teaching philosophy (no more than two pages) that includes potential course offerings.
3. Curriculum Vitae accompanied by a cover letter.

4. Writing sample not exceeding 50 double spaced pages (the candidate should be the first author of the text, preferably a refereed journal article).

5. Three letters of recommendation written within the last year. In the case of early career scholars (2014-2016), at least one of these letters should come from the PhD advisor.

Please submit as optional applicant documents evidence of teaching performance, such as teaching evaluations, if they are available.

Contact Information:

Marco Fernandez:
schoolofgov@itesm.mx or
AV Carlos Lazo No. 100
Col. Santa Fe
Delegacion Alvaro Obregon
Mexico D.F.
01389

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/16/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3219

Pace University, NYC

Rank: Department Chair

Subfield(s): Public Administration, American Government and Politics, Public Policy

Chair, Department of Political Science
Dyson College of Arts and Sciences
Pace University

Dyson College of Arts and Sciences of Pace University invites applications for an anticipated position of Chair of the Department of Political Science at the rank of Associate or Full Professor to begin September 2018. The position is at the Pace University campus in lower Manhattan, NYC. The Political Science major is one of the largest in the College. The department has a long history of achievements in innovative co-curricular enrichment activities, service learning, civic engagement, and collaborative research between professors and students.

Applicants should have an earned PhD in a relevant field (e.g., Political Science, Government, Public Administration, Public Policy, Latina/o Studies, etc.) with demonstrated expertise and familiarity with at least one major subfield of the political science discipline (preferably US politics and/or Latina/o Studies), an excellent record of teaching, research and service, and a record of leadership and administration, and strong quantitative training.

Duties and responsibilities include: working in a shared governance environment, modeling collegiality and collaboration; articulating a clear, compelling, and inclusive vision for the department's future; leading a diverse and growing team of faculty and staff; cultivating a welcoming environment for diversity; valuing the interests, abilities, and perspectives of all faculty; strengthening the department's ties with the rest of university and professional community; performing departmental administration in an efficient, highly competent, fair, and transparent manner; demonstrating and modeling a record of excellence in scholarship, teaching, and service; mentoring tenured and tenure-track full time faculty.

Candidates should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, and contact information for three references in a single PDF file to Alfred Ward, Ph.D. (award@pace.edu).

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled; applications received by January 1, 2018 are guaranteed full consideration.

Pace University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3205

Bridgewater State University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Administration/Nonprofit Management

Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and Politics

The Political Science Department invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in the fall semester of 2018 at the level of assistant professor. This is an open field search but the successful candidate will be expected to teach courses on Nongovernmental Organizations, Nonprofit Management, Interest Groups and Introduction to American Government. An ability to teach other graduate courses in the department's Master of Public Administration Program would be an asset.

Earned Ph.D., commitment to teaching excellence, and evidence of scholarly activity in the field of political science, public administration, nonprofit management or public policy are required. Applicants should be strongly committed to excellence in teaching and advising, and to working in a multicultural environment that fosters diversity. They should also have an ability to use technology effectively in teaching and learning, the ability to work collaboratively, evidence of scholarly activity, and a commitment to public higher education.

Please submit materials through the online application portal below:

https://jobs.bridgew.edu/postings/search?&query=&query_v0_posted_at_date=&query_position_type_id=&435=&query_organizational_tier_3_id=any&1426=3&commit=Search

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/9/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3169

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/4/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3131

Texas A&M University

Rank: Associate/Full Professor

The Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University is recruiting for two tenure-track and one tenured positions that are open with respect to subfield. We welcome applications from clusters of scholars who would find it attractive to join our faculty together. Successful candidates will be expected to carry out a vigorous program of research and actively contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching. Strong research and teaching interests that cut across traditional subfields of political science would be highly valued. Ph.D. required. The starting date for these positions is Fall 2018.

The department offers Ph.D., MA, BA, and BS degrees and has 37 tenured/tenure track faculty members, 50 graduate students, and approximately 1000 undergraduate majors. Further information about the department is available at <http://pols.tamu.edu>. Texas A&M is a research-intensive flagship university with more than 60,000 students including 10,000 graduate students making it the sixth largest university in the United States. The student body includes 26% African American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, and American Indian or Alaskan Native students, as well as approximately 5,000 international students from 130 countries. We seek candidates who can teach effectively in a diverse and global classroom. Texas A&M ranks among the top universities nationally in total research expenditures (with more than $800 million dollars per year). Texas A&M University is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer that is deeply committed to enhancing the diversity and excellence of its faculty and is responsive to the needs of dual-career couples.

Applicants should send a letter of interest (referencing research agenda and teaching interests), a curriculum vitae, a writing sample, and, for un-tenured applicants, three letters of reference, graduate school transcripts, and any available teaching evaluations. All materials should be submitted electronically to Professor William Roberts Clark, Head, Department of Political Science at poliscijobs@tamu.edu. Our review of applications will begin on September 18, 2017 and will continue until the positions are filled. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3117

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Comparative Politics

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego <http://gps.ucsd.edu> (formerly known as School of International Relations and Pacific Studies) invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in public policy to begin July 1, 2018.

Applicants should be new or recent PhD graduates with an outstanding record in a PhD program in political science, public policy or economics. The successful candidate will have a background broadly in the field of public policy. Examples include political scientists within the fields of American, comparative or international politics with focuses on: institutions; the politics of policy design; policy implementation. GPS has a special interest in candidates who can provide leadership in our public policy (MPP) program. Applicants must have a PhD conferred or to be completed by July 1, 2018.

The School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego (UCSD) is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body. Preferred candidates should demonstrate the highest standards of professional research, teaching, and service and contribute to our commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion in higher education.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and based on University of California pay scales. Review of applications will begin September 15, 2017 and continue until the position is filled.

To Apply: Candidates should submit: a curriculum vitae; two writing samples; a personal statement that includes a description of research, training, and teaching; a summary of past or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyequity.ucsd.edu/Faculty-Applicant-C2D-Info.asp>); and three (3) letters of reference.

All applicant materials including referee information should be submitted via UCSD Academic Personnel On-Line at <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01483>.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/3/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3108

U.S. Coast Guard Academy

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track) of Maritime Policy and Governance

Subfield(s): Public Policy, International Relations, Other

Specializations: International Law & Organizations, Regulatory Policy, International Security

The Coast Guard Academy anticipates an opening for an Assistant Professor of Maritime Policy and Governance. The successful candidate will teach undergraduate, upper-level maritime policy courses and, occasionally, introductory government / political science courses. The ideal candidate will be able to teach one or more of the following topic areas: ocean and arctic policy; coastal governance; marine resource management; marine safety; port security; maritime transportation, commerce, and industry. The anticipated teaching load for this position will be 9-12 credit hours (up to 4 sections – total - of one or more 3-credit courses) per semester. Other possible responsibilities include fostering opportunities for cadets via speakers, travel, and contacts; academic advising; work as a faculty advisor to student research projects, clubs, and other co-curricular activities; individual research and scholarship; and institutional, divisional, and departmental service.

Qualifications: Successful candidate will possess either (1) a Doctor of Philosophy in Political Science (or a closely related field); or (2) a Juris Doctor degree with relevant maritime practice or teaching experience. Experience with teaching college or law school courses is required; the preferred candidate will have a publication and teaching record in Maritime Policy and Governance. Excellent interpersonal, teaching, and communications skills are essential. Experience mentoring diverse student populations, and/or experience promoting diversity initiatives - including efforts at creating communities of inclusion - is highly desirable.

For more information, contact PROF Richard Zuczek (see contact enclosed), or Commander Russell Bowman, at 860-444-8381, or Russell.E.Bowman@uscga.edu. If you are attending the APSA annual conference, you can contact CDR Bowman to arrange a meeting at APSA's Placement Service.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 8/1/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3045

Texas A&M University

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Relations/Comparative Politics/Cyber Policy, Strategy and Security

International Relations/Comparative Politics/Cyber Policy, Strategy and Security

The Department of International Affairs in the Bush School of Government and Public Service at Texas A&M University invites applications and nominations for a tenure-track, assistant professor position in the area of cyber policy, strategy and security within the field of international relations, comparative politics, economics, or public policy. Texas A&M University has invested considerable resources in the cyber realm, including standing up the Texas A&M Cybersecurity Center. The Bush School will be a central contributor to that University-wide effort, with this position playing an important role in that contribution. Candidates with research competency in cyber policy, strategy and security who specialize in areas such as international law and institutions, regulatory law, science and technology, international security, the comparative politics of information, and other relevant topics are invited to apply.

Ideally, the successful candidate would teach a required course in introductory-level research methods for our students, all of whom are seeking a master's degree in international affairs, along with offerings in the cyber area. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Political Science, Economics or a related discipline by September 2018. The individual selected will have demonstrated a strong commitment to teaching and research in the context of a public policy graduate school environment. The start date for this position will be September 1, 2018.

Applicants should send a formal letter of interest that includes reference to the position, a curriculum vitae, a sample of written work and three letters of recommendation to:

Professor Gregory Gause
c/o Ms. Janeen Wood (preferably as electronic attachments to bushschoolinta-facultysearch@tam.u.edu)
The Bush School of Government & Public Service
Texas A&M University
4220 TAMU
College Station, TX 77843-4220
The review of applications will begin on September 20, 2017 and continue until the position is filled. Additional information is available at <http://bush.tamu.edu>.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/26/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3048

University of Redlands

Rank: Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics

DESCRIPTION: The Department of Political Science at the University of Redlands welcomes applications for the Fletcher Jones Foundation Chair in American Politics to begin in the Fall 2018 semester.

POSITION CRITERIA: Candidates should hold a Ph.D. in Political Science (American Politics and Public Policy), with at least five years of professional experience, preferably at a liberal arts institution. We especially welcome applications from candidates from historically under-represented groups and those interested in making contributions to the University's Public Policy and other interdisciplinary programs. Excellence in teaching and dedication to mentoring our diverse undergraduate student population are essential qualifications for this position.

TO APPLY: Please submit application materials (including letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, samples of scholarly work, and three letters of reference, under separate cover) electronically at apply@redlands.edu or mail to: Human Resources, University of Redlands, PO Box 3080, Redlands CA 92373-0999. Review of applications will begin on November 1, 2017, and position will remain open until filled.

INQUIRIES: Inquiries can be directed to steve_wuhs@redlands.edu, including requests for interview at the annual meeting of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 11/1/2017

Date Posted: 7/18/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3006

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Temporary Lecturer

Subfield(s): International Relations, Public Policy, Comparative Politics

Specializations: Southeast Asia, Latin American, Mexico

The School of Global Policy and Strategy (GPS) and The International Studies Program at the School of Global Policy and Strategy at UC San Diego, is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff and student body.

Pending budgetary approval, several non tenure-track lectureships are expected to be available for the 2017-18 academic year, and possibly Summer Session 2018.

Appointments may be for one or more quarters/sessions based on department need.

All areas of international affairs, international studies, regional studies, business-government relations, and international economics will be considered.

A Ph.D. in Economics, Political Science, International Management or related fields and outstanding teaching experience are required. Research experience and a commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion are highly desirable.

In compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, individuals offered employment with the University of California must be authorized to work in the United States.

The 9-month salary and level of appointment are based on qualifications and UC pay scale.

Applications received by September 15, 2017 will be given full consideration.

Apply via <https://apol-recruit.ucsd.edu/apply/JPF01465>

Submit:

- CV
- Teaching evaluations (2-3 course evaluations)
- Statement of Teaching
- Sample Course Syllabus
- Statement describing past and/or potential contributions to diversity (see <http://facultyexcellence.ucsd.edu/c2d/index.html> for further information).

UCSD is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer with a strong institutional commitment to excellence through diversity.

Start Date:

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/17/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 3001

Claremont McKenna College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Public Administration or Public Policy

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Public Policy, Public Administration

The Department of Government of Claremont McKenna College (CMC) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the assistant professor level in the subfields of public administration or public policy, beginning July 1, 2018. A qualified candidate, with PhD in hand or a nearly completed doctoral dissertation, would have research and teaching focus in public administration and/or public policy, as well as capacity to teach quantitative research methods. Desirable secondary competencies could include public opinion, state and local government, and urban politics. The candidate may also be asked to teach Introduction to American Politics. The candidate must have deep substantive interests in politics and government, a love of the liberal arts, and demonstrated quantitative skills. He or she must maintain an active, high quality research program and the highest standards of excellence in teaching. The teaching load at CMC is two courses per semester.

All applications must include a cover letter, curriculum vitae, detailed research statement, and a statement regarding teaching philosophy. Letters of recommendation are required from three or more references and should evaluate the candidate's research and teaching. Applications must be submitted electronically at https://webapps.cmc.edu/jobs/faculty/faculty_opening_detail.php?PostingID=16022

The review of applications will begin August 15, 2017, and will continue until the position is filled.

CMC is a highly selective undergraduate institution ranked among the top liberal arts colleges nationally. It is part of The Claremont Colleges, which also includes Pomona College, Scripps College, Harvey Mudd College, Pitzer College, Claremont Graduate University, and Keck Graduate Institute. Combined, the members of The Claremont Colleges have more than 6,000 students. Claremont is located 35 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Given our commitment to cultivating a challenging and inclusive educational environment, we seek candidates who can demonstrate a commitment to teaching, mentoring, and inspiring students representing a broad range of socioeconomic backgrounds, political opinions, genders, races, ethnicities, nationalities, sexual orientations, and religions.

Claremont McKenna College is an Equal Opportunity Employer, strongly committed to diversity, and encourages applications from the broadest range of individuals.

Start Date: Summer 2018

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 7/14/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2988

Towson University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Urban Politics, Social Welfare, Economic Policy

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR TENURE TRACK SEARCH
DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE – TOWSON UNIVERSITY
ACADEMIC YEAR 2018-2019

Areas of Specialization: Urban Studies, Public Policy

The Department of Political Science at Towson University invites applications for a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level. The position entails teaching general survey courses in metropolitan studies and urban government and politics. Additionally, the applicant should be able to develop and teach courses in urban policy and/or local government. Particular area(s) of specialization may include poverty, racial segregation, transportation, housing, infrastructure, homelessness, crime, education, collaborative governance, and/or economic development.

Applicants with Ph.D. in hand at the time of application will receive preference, although ABDs may be considered if degree will be completed by the spring of 2018. Applicants must possess a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and a show a solid potential for a productive scholarly program. Interest in pursuing external funding is desirable. The teaching load is six courses during the first year, but will rise to seven courses thereafter. Applicants should send: letter of intent; curriculum vitae; one sample of written work; evidence of teaching effectiveness; official transcripts of all graduate and undergraduate work; and three letters of recommendation to Dr. Donn Worgs, Department of Political Science, Towson University, 8000 York Road, Towson, MD 21252

Application review will begin immediately. The position will remain open until October 15, 2017.

Towson University is the second largest institution in the University System of Maryland. It is located just outside Baltimore and is only an hour from Washington, D.C. by car or train. Towson is an equal opportunity employer and has a strong institutional commitment to diversity.

Start Date: Fall 2018

Application Deadline: 10/16/2017

Date Posted: 6/26/2017

Salary: $60,000 - $69,999

eJobs ID: 2920

University of Central Florida

Rank: Assistant/Associate/Full Professor in Coastal Environmental Policy/Coastal Political Geography

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics

Applicants for a position in Coastal Environmental Policy or Coastal Political Geography, open rank, must have a Ph.D. from an accredited institution in political science, geography, or a related discipline, such as environmental policy/political geography or environmental anthropology/sociology. Preference will be given to applicants who have expertise in public policy related to coastal environments and/or experience in interdisciplinary, environmental social sciences focusing on public policy and coastal ecology. The anticipated starting date is flexible and can be as early as August 2017.

The successful applicant will be expected to bring expertise in environmental policy and politics to an interdisciplinary team in order to advance understanding of the social-ecological systems in coastal areas. They must demonstrate a strong commitment to interdisciplinary research and publication; a commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative research, have demonstrated an ability to perform high-impact research, and be able to develop a program that will lead to strong extramurally-funded research. The successful candidate will also have, or be able to establish, a strong teaching record with the ability to teach and mentor students at both graduate and undergraduate levels.

We are bringing together a core group of faculty who work across traditional research boundaries, or are working in transdisciplinary fields, in the broad interdisciplinary area of Sustainable Coastal Systems (<http://ucf.edu/research/coastalsystems>). This new hire will join current cluster faculty, representing twelve departments and seven colleges, to lead a world-class effort to understand and assess natural and human-related impacts to coastal ecosystem health, restoration, sustainability, and mitigation; and ultimately to characterize and integrate physical, chemical, biological, and socio-economic processes impacting coastal communities and ecosystems. This individual will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department as well as the Sustainable Coastal Systems cluster.

Candidates must apply online at <http://www.jobswithucf.com/postings/46716> (Position #38660) and attach the following materials: a cover letter, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, research statement, and contact information for three professional references. In the cover letter candidates should address their background in their discipline and should identify the department(s) for their potential tenure home. In the research statement candidates should include descriptions of any history of interdisciplinary research collaborations and how their current and future research can contribute to the cluster's overall interdisciplinary objectives.

The search committee will review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.

The University of Central Florida, with more than 63,000 students, has grown in quality, diversity, and reputation in its first 50 years and is committed to being inclusive and diverse by building a faculty who are a reflection of the students they teach. For more information about this position please contact the Sustainable Coastal Systems Cluster search committee Chair, Dr. Graham Worthy at CoastalCluster@ucf.edu

Start Date: Spring 2017

Application Deadline: Open until Filled

Date Posted: 3/30/2017

Salary: Competitive

eJobs ID: 2747