Resources and Guidance on

Finding a Job in Political Science

Hundreds of academic positions are advertised each year in political science. Finding the openings is the easy part; knowing how to approach the application and interview process is a little more challenging. At APSA, we have collected resources to assist candidates in the academic job search. We would like to highlight a few of these key resources here. The complete list of job resources is available online at www.apsanet.org/jobs.

eJobs: This online resource contains comprehensive online listing of political science jobs, is updated daily with new job listings and candidate resumes, and is fully searchable by field of interest, name of employer/candidate, region, keyword, position, salary, type of institution, and most recent posts.

Data on Jobs Market: APSA gathers and releases data regarding the placement of political science Ph.D.s. View this information at www.apsanet.org/content\_7623.cfm.

Mentoring: Enroll in the APSA Mentoring Program online at www.apsanet.org/mentoring.

eJobs Placement Interview Services: The eJobs Annual Meeting Placement Interview Service provides space and facilities for employers who have eJobs posted to interview candidates at the APSA meeting. Many other conferences, such as the Northeastern and Western, also use the APSA online service to schedule placement interviews. Check the listings online in eJobs.

Ethics Guide: The APSA Guide to Professional Ethics in Political Science includes specific guidance on hiring and employment practices. Order a print copy or view online at www.apsanet.org/ethics.

Asking the Right Questions: APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask Program

Asking the right questions provides valuable information for career decisions. As part of the APSA Job Candidate Questions to Ask (JCQ) Program participating political science departments have agreed to answer the following questions from job candidates.

Salary

1. What is the salary structure?
2. How is salary normally negotiated?
3. How are annual increases handled?
4. Is there an automatic escalator to ensure the salaries of future hires will not outpace those of existing department members?

Service Activities

1. What are the expectations of pre-tenure and tenured faculty regarding:
  - departmental and institutional committee work,
  - professional or disciplinary activities, and
  - outreach activities to communities external to institution?

Research Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - access to research materials and equipment,
  - the employment of research assistants,
  - research expenses on/off campus, and
  - travel expenses for conferences?

2. What departmental or institutional resources are available to seek external funding and to administer external funding awards?

Teaching Support

1. What departmental or institutional resources are available to support:
  - the development of teaching expertise,
  - innovations in teaching, and
  - the introduction of new courses and new technologies?
2. What are departmental expectations regarding:
  - the average course load,
  - the number of different courses taught by faculty, and
  - advising of graduate and undergraduate students?

Tenure, Renewal, and Annual Review

1. What policies and procedures govern the granting of tenure, renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty, and annual reviews of faculty performance?
2. What are the department's expectations for successful performance leading to the granting of tenure or renewal of contracts for pre-tenure faculty?
3. What are the department's expectations for a positive annual review?

Mentoring and Faculty Support Initiatives

1. What attention does the department give to integrating new faculty into the department, the institution, and in the profession?
2. Does the department or institution have programs that address:
  - the employment of dual-career professional couples,
  - family needs of faculty and staff, and
  - issues associated with minority faculty and staff?

Health and Life Insurance

1. What are the plans offered?
2. How are benefits disbursed?
3. What are the out-of-pocket expenses?
4. Are partners and/or children covered, and to what extent?
5. What portion of my paycheck will be deducted for these benefits?

Retirement

1. How many types of retirement plans are offered?
2. What is the matching percentage of the institution?
3. Is contribution required (and how much)?

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Head/Professor-Department of Political Science

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in the University of Illinois at Chicago seeks to recruit an exceptional scholar who can provide effective and visionary leadership as the Head of the Department of Political Science.

The Head is the chief administrative officer of the department with responsibility for instructional programs and for administrative, budgetary, promotion, and recruitment matters. Political Science at UIC has benefited from the presence on campus of the Great Cities Institute, the Institute for the Humanities, the Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy, and other interdisciplinary venues. The ideal Head will work effectively with key units within LAS, the UIC community, and the Chicago metropolitan area to enhance the mission of the Department, the College, and the University.

Located in the heart of one of the world's great cities, the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) is the city's only Carnegie Research 1 public university. UIC has 30,000 students, 15 colleges, a law school, a hospital and a health sciences system. The Department of Political Science has 17 tenured, tenure-track, and clinical faculty, approximately 350 undergraduate majors and minors, 10 M.A. students, and 45 Ph.D. students. See <https://pols.uic.edu/> for more information.

UIC is recognized as having one of the most ethnically and culturally rich college campuses in America. UIC is federally recognized as a Minority Serving Institution (MSI) through its status as an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI) and a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI).

Applicants must have a PhD, a distinguished scholarship record commensurate with the rank of full professor, a strong teaching record, and appropriate academic administrative experience. A demonstrated ability to foster collaboration among a diverse group of scholars is highly desirable.

To apply for this position, please complete and submit an online application with the names and e-mail addresses of at least three references, and upload a cover letter, full curriculum vitae, and research and teaching statements at <https://jobs.uic.edu>. Click on the Job Board and then on the job link. To ensure full consideration, application materials must be received by October 1, 2019. Inquiries should be directed to Angie Kessell (apacho5@uic.edu). Final authorization of the position depends upon the availability of funding.

The University of Illinois at Chicago is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer, dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and covered veterans. The University of Illinois may conduct background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Director/Professor/Associate Professor--Latin American and Latino Studies

The Program in Latin American and Latino Studies in the College of Liberal Arts and Science at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) invites applications and nominations for the position of Director. The successful candidate will provide leadership for the program and a vision for its continued excellence in research, teaching, service, and community engagement. UIC is a Carnegie Doctoral/Research-Extensive University located in the heart of one of the nation's largest metropolitan areas. It is a comprehensive public university with a diverse student body of more than 29,000 undergraduate, graduate, and professional students. UIC is federally recognized as a Minority Serving Institution (MSI) through its status as a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI), and an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI) fully funded by the U.S. Department of Education.

The Program in Latin American and Latino Studies is comprised of an interdisciplinary group of scholars dedicated to working in a wide range of areas in the Social Sciences and Humanities of Latin America and the Latino communities of the United States. The program's faculty offers a variety of undergraduate and graduate courses and serves a diverse student body of approximately fifty majors and minors and 12 M.A. students (<https://lals.uic.edu/lals>). Faculty have exceptional research opportunities as a result of collaborations and affiliations with other interdisciplinary units in the college, as well as with UIC research centers such as the Great Cities Institute, the Institute for the Humanities, and the Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy. The program has served as the headquarters of Inter-University Program for Latino Research and presently houses the IUPLR/Andrew Mellon Dissertation Completion Fellows Program in Latino Humanities Studies.

The Director is the chief administrative officer of the program with responsibility for instructional programs and for administrative, budgetary, promotion, and recruitment matters. The successful candidate will have a PhD, a distinguished record of scholarship, evidence of excellent teaching, and appropriate academic administrative experience. Candidates with the rank of Full Professor preferred but advanced Associate Professors will be considered. A demonstrated ability to foster collaboration among a diverse group of scholars is desirable, as is a strong record of external funding and exemplary awards. The ideal Director will work with key units and communities at UIC and the Chicago metropolitan area to enhance the mission of the Program, the College, and the University.

The desired appointment date is August 16, 2020. Salary is competitive based on qualifications. To apply complete an on-line application and upload a cover letter, full curriculum vitae and the names and full contact information of four references at <https://jobs.uic.edu/job-board/job-details?jobID=118099> For information about the application processes please contact Edward Drogos at edrogo2@uic.edu. For information about the Program please contact Prof. María de los Ángeles Torres at torresma@uic.edu. Applications and nominations should be received by October 1, 2019 to receive full consideration.

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

Oberlin College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics

Specializations: Congress, Presidency, Bureaucracy & Organizational Behavior

The Oberlin College Politics Department invites applications for a non-continuing position for Spring semester 2020 in American national political institutions (other than the courts). Appointment to this position will be for one semester and will carry the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor depending on the qualifications of the candidate.

The Politics Department has thirteen full-time faculty positions and approximately 120 junior and senior majors. Information about the Department can be found at our web site: <http://www.oberlin.edu/politics/>

We seek candidates with teaching and research interests in America's main national political institutions other than the courts, namely

Congress, the Presidency and/or related institutions (e.g., bureaucracy, interest groups). The incumbent will teach three courses in the general area of American politics and American political institutions (other than the courts).

Among the qualifications required for this appointment is the Ph.D. degree in hand or in progress (ABD). Candidates must demonstrate interest and potential excellence in undergraduate teaching. Successful teaching experience at the college level is desirable.

Compensation - Within the range established for this position, salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience and includes an excellent benefits package.

To be assured of consideration, a letter of application, which includes a statement of research and teaching interests, curriculum vitae, graduate academic transcript, a short writing sample, evidence of teaching experience, and three recent letters of reference should be sent by October 15, 2019. Application materials received after that date may be considered until the position is filled. Salary will depend on qualifications and experience.

To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/postings/7374>.

All application materials must be submitted electronically through Oberlin College and Conservatory's online application process at: <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/>

*By providing three (3) Professional References (names and email addresses), you agree that we may contact them through our applicant web portal. Reference writers will be asked to submit an electronic Letter of Recommendation on behalf of the applicant. Please note: At this time we are unable to accept Letters of Recommendation from an Interfolio email address.

Finalists will be required to have official graduate academic transcripts submitted to Oberlin College directly by the degree granting institution.

Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. Completed applications received by the October 15th deadline will be guaranteed full consideration.

Address questions about applicant materials to the chair of the search committee, Professor Stephen Crowley scrowley@oberlin.edu

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor. We are open to candidates studying a range of policy areas; candidates should demonstrate an active and rigorous research agenda in their chosen policy specialty. The successful candidate will excel in the classroom and seek ways to integrate their scholarship and teaching. Candidates should be prepared to teach undergraduate courses on U.S. public policy. Candidates who can also expand our course offerings in other areas such as public administration, race & ethnic politics, gender & politics, or urban/local politics would be desirable, as would candidates who could teach research methods or specialized courses in data analytics/science. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester, with the possibility of a course release per year for research after the first year through a competitive proposal process. A Ph.D. is preferred, but the College will consider ABDs if the degree will be granted by time of appointment. Applications received by September 13, 2019, will receive full consideration.

The Department of Political Science is a supportive and dynamic community of scholars and students. The Department has seven tenured or tenure-track members and is conducting searches this year for two additional tenure-track positions. Over 180 students major in Political Science, and another 130 major in the interdisciplinary International Studies program. The Department offers minors in public policy and pre-law which draw students from across a wide range of academic disciplines.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ is a highly selective institution that has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its 6,500 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. The College also offers focused graduate programs in nursing, business, education and English. In 2006, TCNJ was awarded a Phi Beta Kappa chapter—an honor shared by less than 10 percent of colleges and universities nationally. A strong liberal arts core forms the foundation for programs offered through TCNJ's seven schools—Arts & Communication; Business; Education; Humanities & Social Sciences; Science; Nursing, Health, and Exercise Science; and Engineering. TCNJ faculty members are teacher-scholars who share a commitment to the liberal arts. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of NYC and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. TCNJ has 39 major buildings, including the 4th-best college library in the nation, according to the Princeton Review.

Applicants should submit the following materials using the online application system at link: <https://chm.tbe.taleo.net/chm03/ats/careers/v2/viewRequisition?org=TCNJ&cws=37&rid=1016>. A final offer of employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a background investigation.

- 1) A cover letter describing qualifications and research and teaching interests,
- 2) curriculum vitae,
- 3) one scholarly writing sample,
- 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness,
- 5) a statement on diversity and inclusion detailing how diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their work as teachers, scholars, and mentors, and
- 6) contact information for 3-5 references.

Applicants should also have three referees submit confidential letters of recommendation directly to publicpolicysearch-group@tcnj.edu. Questions about the position can be directed to Daniel Bowen (bowend@tcnj.edu), Public Policy Search Committee Chair.

Specializations: Economic Policy, Gender Politics & Policy, Race & Ethnic Politics

PENDING FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE APPROVAL

Tenure Track, Assistant Professor Position – Advertisement Department of Political Science at The University of Tennessee: Economic Racial/Ethnic and/or Gender Inequality

The Department of Political Science at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville invites applications for a tenure track, assistant professor position in economic, racial/ethnic, and/or gender inequality, to begin Fall 2020. The position is open with regard to field in Political Science (or related discipline) and methodological approach. We welcome applications from scholars across the discipline who analyze how political actors, processes, institutions, outcomes or individuals are racialized, classed, and/or gendered and/or who take intersectional approaches to understanding these questions. We are particularly interested in applicants with substantive research agendas that grapple with challenging issues of marginalization and exclusion.

The successful candidate must have strong research skills and a theoretically motivated research agenda that will lead to publication in peer-reviewed outlets (journals and/or books). The position is a 9-month, tenure-track appointment, and the salary is competitive and commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The University of Tennessee, Knoxville, is the state's flagship research institution, a campus of choice for outstanding undergraduates, and a premier graduate institution. As a land-grant university, it is committed to excellence in learning, scholarship, and engagement with society. More information about the Department is available at: polisci.utk.edu. Faculty within the department are also associated with a variety of interdisciplinary programs and working groups across the university, including but not limited to the Critical Race Collective; the Global Studies program; the Intersectionality Community of Scholars; and the Women, Gender, and Sexuality program.

All the requirements for a Ph.D. in political science, public policy, or related field must be finished at the time of appointment. Applicants should send a cover letter explaining their research and teaching experience, a current CV, graduate transcripts, a sample of scholarly writing, and teaching evaluations (if available). All applicants should request letters from three references to be sent directly to the search committee. Please submit application material in digital format via Interfolio (link will be added as soon as possible). Review of applications begins October 15, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. For questions or inquiries, contact Professor Jana Morgan at janamorgan@utk.edu.

The University of Tennessee is an EEO/AE>Title VI>Title IX/Section 504/ADA/ADEA institution in the provision of its education and employment programs and services. All qualified applicants will receive equal consideration for employment and admission without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, pregnancy, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, age, physical or mental disability, genetic information, veteran status, and parental status.

Council on Foreign Relations

Rank: CFR Call for 2020–2021 International Affairs Fellowship Applications

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, International Relations, Public Policy
Specializations: International Political Economy, African American Politics, Foreign Policy

CFR Call for 2020–2021 Fellowship Applications
The Council on Foreign Relations is seeking fellowship applicants for the 2020–2021 academic year. The programs offer unique opportunities, domestic and abroad, for mid and senior career U.S. citizens who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy. Selected fellows broaden their perspective of foreign affairs either by pursuing work in a policymaking settings or research in an academic environment.

International Affairs Fellowship (IAF)

Established in 1967, the IAF is the hallmark fellowship program of CFR. It aims to bridge the gap between the study and making of U.S. foreign policy by creating the next generation of scholar-practitioners. The program offers its fellows the unique chance to experience a new field and gain a different perspective at a pivotal moment in their careers. Academics are thus placed in public service and policy-oriented settings, while government officials are placed in scholarly settings. Over the years, the IAF program has produced approximately six hundred alumni that span the who's who of the U.S. foreign policy community, including a former secretary of state and several undersecretaries of state, U.S. ambassadors to NATO and the United Nations, and many other influential leaders in government, academia, and the private sector. The duration of the fellowship is twelve months, preferably beginning in September, and the program awards a stipend of $100,000.

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy Approaches to Sexual Violence - Cluster Hire

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Criminal Justice, Health Care

The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in policy issues around sexual violence.

The scholar should have expertise in the interplay between social science, policy, and government. This may include scholars who are interested in issues such as rehabilitation and reintegration of sexual violence criminals, disparities in policing and sentencing policies for sexual violence criminals, sexual harassment policy issues in the public sector or workplace, Title IX issues in educational policy, child and adult sex trafficking, or the geopolitics of gender-based violence and sexual violence such as the context of war (and political violence more broadly), migration, refugee experiences, and disaster experiences. Or, this may include scholars who study the policy issues attached to: sexual violence imposed by domestic partners; gender/social inequality and its impact on sexual violence; substance abuse (e.g., alcohol and drug) and sexual violence; sexual violence against sex workers; weapon use and sexual violence; history of child abuse and sexual violence; sexual violence and HIV and other sexually transmitted diseases; the role of physicians in screening for sexual assault; marriage laws and sexual violence; mental health and sexual violence; and the relationship between sexual violence and economic pressure, social norms, inter-generational transmission, forced marriage, or education levels.

Ideally the candidate will be positioned to contribute knowledge to improve laws, or the implementation of laws or policies, to prevent and address sexual violence. Public policy experts could use their expertise in the policymaking process, as well as policy analysis and evaluation to identify "what works" and (what doesn't & "work") within existing sexual violence policies and laws, and then, in the spirit of the Wisconsin Idea, to share these evidence-based solutions with the public, as well as public sector leaders.

This faculty position is part of a faculty cluster search, "Sexual Violence: Connecting Social Science Research with Policy." The cluster defines "Sexual Violence" broadly, and it includes sexual assault, sexual harassment, sex trafficking, violence against sexual minorities, as well as gender-based violence.

Three faculty positions will be hired in the cluster, which will build a world-class, new core of interdisciplinary strength in research to address issues of sexual violence domestically and/or globally-making UW-Madison a research leader in this critical area. The first faculty position [PVL 99483] focuses on "Psychological Aspects of Sexual Violence" (including potentially research on psychological aspects of victimization, psychological factors contributing to perpetration, and/or theory-based development of interventions designed to prevent sexual assault), while the second faculty position [PVL 99523] is around "Societal Aspects of Sexual Violence" (including potentially research on the social causes and consequences of sexual violence, addressing the disproportionate impact of sexual violence in particular communities (e.g., sexual minority groups, people with disabilities) or the geopolitics of sexual violence and trauma. The third faculty position is "Policy Approaches to Sexual Violence," the subject of this search [PVL 99600].

These positions are part of the UW's Cluster Hiring Initiative, designed to foster innovative, outstanding research programs that will stimulate productive interactions among faculty and students in sexual violence research across campus and to expand interdisciplinary research in this area. Further information regarding this initiative can be found at: <https://facstaff.provost.wisc.edu/cluster-hiring-initiative/>

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment at the La Follette School of Public Affairs or another pertinent unit on campus. Tenure home will be determined at the time of hiring. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank.

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required, with service at the professional and university level.

Teaching will include courses to undergraduate students, as well as graduate students. For example, the teaching load at the La Follette School of Public Affairs in a typical academic year consists of four courses each year. Mentoring graduate students will be required as well.

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 99600. To begin the application process, please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will also be asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application.

The deadline for assuring full consideration is October 15, 2019; however, positions will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled.

Bucknell University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science (American Politics)

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in American Politics beginning in the fall semester of 2020. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. We seek candidates whose scholarly and teaching interests include race and ethnic politics in the U.S. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in American politics, a course in race and ethnic politics, a course in quantitative or qualitative research methods, and other American politics courses in the candidate's areas of specialization.

We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence as well as the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in American politics, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to: Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 23, 2019.

Candidates who wish to meet for an optional preliminary interview at APSA should email a CV to smeinke@bucknell.edu by August 14 and indicate their expected availability during the conference.

About Bucknell

Founded in 1846 and located along the banks of the Susquehanna River in historic Lewisburg, Pa., Bucknell University is an undergraduate-focused institution that stands uniquely at the intersection of top-ranked liberal arts, engineering and management programs. Our students choose from more than 50 majors and 60 minors in the arts, engineering, humanities, management, and natural and social sciences, as well as extensive global study, service-learning and research opportunities. Bucknell's 3,600 undergraduate and 100 graduate students enjoy a low 9:1 student-faculty ratio and exceptional opportunities to collaborate with faculty mentors.

Bucknell's beautiful 450-acre campus includes first-rate facilities and is home to more than 90 percent of its students. Residential life is vibrant with about 150 student-run organizations, 27 NCAA Division I athletic teams, a robust arts culture, and a strong student commitment to community and global service work.

Bucknell is committed to fostering an environment that embraces diversity, equity and inclusion, and we seek candidates who will contribute to a climate that supports the growth and development of a diverse campus community. The University provides equal opportunity without regard to race, color, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, marital status, veteran status or disability in admissions, employment and in all of its educational programs and activities. We encourage individuals from historically underrepresented groups to apply.

The Community

Located in central Pennsylvania, Lewisburg features a variety of restaurants, beautiful Victorian homes, the restored art deco Campus Theatre (owned by the University), charming shops and boutiques, and the Barnes and Noble at Bucknell University Bookstore. About 33,000 residents live in the region.

The city of Williamsport is about a 30-minute drive from campus, and Penn State University's main campus is about an hour away, as is Harrisburg, Pennsylvania's state capital. Bucknell is about three hours from New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D.C.

The cost of living here is low compared to that of major U.S. cities and suburbs. Bucknell's surroundings yield fresh produce, cultural activities and events, and many opportunities for outdoor activity on the Susquehanna River and in the nearby state parks and forests. The Lewisburg Area School District receives excellent reviews for its schools at all grade levels. Lewisburg Area High School is consistently ranked among the top 50 high schools in Pennsylvania for SAT scores and statewide exams.

Center for American Women and Politics

Rank: Research Project Coordinator II

Subfield(s): Non-Academic, Other, American Government and Politics

Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, is seeking a Research Project Coordinator II for the Center for American Women and Politics (CAWP) at the Eagleton Institute of Politics. CAWP's national and international reputation depends in large part on the accuracy and timeliness of our data and research. In consultation and collaboration with their direct supervisor and senior Center leadership, the Research Project Coordinator II conducts research and data collection/analysis.

Among the key duties of this position are the following:

- Assists scholars and staff at the Center for American Women and Politics with data collection, management, and archiving as well as major research projects, including analysis and writing.
- Contributes to CAWP's research memos and blogs, providing analysis to CAWP data and relevant scholarship (gender, race, and politics) as it pertains to political news and events.
- Responsible for effective maintenance and expansion of CAWP's data on women candidates, elected officials and voters, in addition to yielding accurate and accessible public reporting of CAWP data.
- Oversees surveying and synthesizing new and relevant research from various sources (academia, research institutions, government agencies) to generate written CAWP materials.
- Organizes processes and procedures for gathering and organizing the data in consultation with senior staff and faculty.
- Assists regular CAWP staff meetings and other discussions that affect the research program area, including discussions of organizational or strategic planning.

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Political Science and International Relations

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Political Science and International Relations

Department Description:

The Department of Political Science and International Relations is committed to the liberal arts tradition of intellectual curiosity, academic rigor, and a pluralistic and diverse curriculum. We provide students with a solid understanding of the theories, practices and institutions of politics, but also with an appreciation of how to create a more just and humane world. Our courses cover every corner of the globe and prepare students to be keen political observers and actors. To supplement coursework, we also provide internship, community service learning, and study abroad opportunities that encourage learning outside of the classroom.

The department houses two separate majors. The Political Science major focuses attention on the shared and contending ideas, values, institutions and processes of public life. Courses range from the specific study of politics in one country or of a single institution or political process (the judiciary, Congress, the presidency or elections), to more general offerings such as courses on political theory, political development, revolution, race and ethnicity, environmental politics, research methods, human rights, and constitutional law.

The International Relations major is an interdisciplinary field of study designed for students who seek a holistic understanding of international affairs. The curriculum is rooted in political science and provides students with a strong background in international relations, comparative politics, and international political economy. At the same time, the curriculum reflects the recognition that international political phenomena are best understood from a variety of perspectives and includes courses from disciplines such as history, economics, religious studies, fine arts and literature.

The department offers the highly-regarded Masters of International Relations (MAIR) degree, which draws on our faculty's vast wealth of international experience and offers a variety of specialized subject matter courses focused on Africa, Europe, Latin America, and the Middle East. Areas of strength include international security, intelligence, and environmental policy. Courses in the program combine academic and professional instruction in an effort to connect theory and practice, both substantively and pedagogically.

Detailed Description:

The Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of San Diego invites applications for a tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level with expertise in East Asia and an ability to teach courses on China.

Successful candidates will be expected to offer a variety of courses that meet the needs of the Department of Political Science and International Relations. They should be prepared to teach introductory, upper division and graduate courses in Asian politics and foreign policy, international relations theory, and research methods, as well as other courses in international relations that fit with the applicant's interests.

Candidates must be fully committed to liberal arts education and to excellence in teaching and student advising. Candidates must also have a significant scholarly agenda and will be expected to engage actively in service at the departmental, college, and/or university levels after the first year. The normal teaching load is three courses per semester.

Job Requirements:

PhD: Applicants should have completed a PhD in Political Science/International Relations before September 2020.

Background check: Successful completion of a pre-employment background check.

Degree Verification Requirement: Persons offered employment in this position will be required to provide official education transcripts for degree verification purposes.

Posting Salary:

Commensurate with experience; Excellent Benefits.

The University of San Diego offers a very competitive benefits package, to include medical, dental, vision, a 12% retirement contribution given to you by the University (with three year vesting period), and access to on-campus Fitness Centers. Please visit the benefits section of our website to view all of the perks and benefits that USD has to offer. <http://www.sandiego.edu/hr/benefits/>

Special Application Instructions

Click 'Apply Now' to complete our online application.

Applicants must submit 1) a cover letter that describes the candidate's research agenda and the courses they would like to teach; 2) a CV; 3) official graduate transcripts; 4) three letters of recommendation that address both teaching and scholarship; 5) a writing sample; 6) a summary of teaching evaluations and evidence of teaching excellence; 7) a statement of teaching philosophy that includes discussion of how they approach diversity in the classroom. The Department of Political Science and International Relations is committed to diversity and seeks candidates who share that commitment.

Candidates are encouraged to submit application materials at their earliest convenience. To ensure full consideration, applications must be complete by September 15, 2019.

Questions and requests for informal interviews at the 2019 APSA conference in Washington D.C. should be directed to Search Committee Chair, Dr. Avi Spiegel (spiegel@sandiego.edu).

University of Richmond*Rank: Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies*Subfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and PoliticsSpecializations: Leadership Studies, Education Policy, Political Economy

The University of Richmond's Jepson School of Leadership Studies (JSLS) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track social scientist position at the rank of Assistant Professor for the 2020-21 academic year. Although ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have completed a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, educational policy, political economy, political science, sociology, or a related field, by August 19, 2020.

JSLS is a collaborative, inclusive community of scholars in anthropology, economics, history, literature, philosophy, politics, social psychology and religion. We seek applicants who study, or have the potential and desire to study, leadership by drawing on their disciplinary expertise to inform their work. We are particularly interested in candidates whose demonstrated scholarly interests focus on the empirical analysis of data related to justice and explaining social and economic inequality.

Applicants should have the potential and desire to teach in an interdisciplinary undergraduate liberal arts environment. The successful candidate will be expected to teach elective courses related to his or her disciplinary training and to contribute to the curriculum by teaching such required courses as Leadership and the Social Sciences, Quantitative Social Science, and Theories and Models of Leadership. In their cover letter, candidates should demonstrate how their scholarly and teaching interests connect, or have the potential to connect, to leadership, broadly construed. (See <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> for more information.)

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and 92% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment.

Applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.richmond.edu> and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter, and teaching statement. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, and future professional development goals as well as involvement in and commitment to inclusive pedagogy. The JSLS supports the University's commitment to promoting an inclusive campus community. For full consideration, applicants must specify in their cover letters how they are prepared to contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion. In addition, please include the names and emails of three references who will receive an email asking them to submit their reference letters to the University's Human Resources department at URHR@richmond.edu. Review of applications will commence August 15, 2019. Phone or Skype interviews will be conducted in September. Committee members will be in attendance at the APSA Conference; attendance is not required for consideration. We anticipate inviting candidates to campus in October.

Pomona College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

The Department of Politics at Pomona College invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor in the politics of the United States, with a focus on questions of race and ethnicity. Our department has a broad understanding of the field of political science and encourages applications from a variety of approaches, methodologies and perspectives.

Pomona is a top-ten liberal arts college with a diverse and outstanding student body of approximately 1,550 students. The College maintains a student-to-faculty ratio of eight to one and is strongly committed to small-scale residential education. Accordingly, the department values excellent teaching. Faculty at Pomona teach two courses a semester, including introductory courses (in this case, at least one section of "Introduction to American Politics" annually). College faculty are expected to maintain an active scholarship and service profile. The College offers many forms of support for scholarship, including a full-year, pre-tenure research leave.

Pomona has a need-blind, no-loan admission policy and values equal access to higher education. The successful candidate will have experience working with students from diverse backgrounds and a demonstrated commitment to improving access to and success in higher education for underrepresented students.

Founded in 1887, Pomona College is the founding member of the Claremont Colleges, a unique constellation of five small undergraduate colleges and two graduate institutions located in southern California near the foothills of the San Gabriel mountains, about 35 miles east of Los Angeles. Students of the Claremont Colleges can cross-register for courses at any of the colleges, and faculty and staff across the colleges often collaborate.

For full consideration, applications must be submitted by October 1, 2019. To apply, please submit to Academic Jobs Online: 1) a cover letter; 2) a curriculum vitae; 3) graduate school transcripts; 4) a statement of teaching philosophy; 5) evidence of teaching effectiveness;

6) three sample syllabi; 7) a research statement; 8) written samples of your research; 9) a statement addressing your demonstrated ability to mentor a diverse student body, and 10) three letters of recommendation. Alternatively, hard copies of the same materials may be sent to: Susan McWilliams Barndt, Chair, Pomona College Politics Department, 425 North College Avenue, Claremont, CA. 91711. Augustana College*Rank: Open Rank Visiting Professor

Augustana College, Rock Island, Illinois, invites applications for an open rank visiting position in Political Science (American Politics) beginning in August of the 2019-2020 academic year, with possible renewal for the 2020-2021 academic year.

Augustana College is a selective liberal arts college of approximately 2,500 students, including 29 percent first-generation college students, 23 percent Pell Grant students, 21 percent students of color, and 9 percent international students.

Our beautifully wooded and largely residential 115-acre campus is located in Rock Island, Illinois, a diverse Illinois-Iowa Quad Cities metropolitan area along the Mississippi River with 400,000 residents about three hours west of Chicago and 45 minutes east of Iowa City, home of the University of Iowa.

Strengthening our diverse and inclusive community is central to the college's mission and strategic plan. We seek applicants with an interest in fostering rigorous, inclusive, and high-impact learning environments for a diverse student body. The successful candidate will teach American National Government and upper division courses in American Politics. These include our current American politics courses such as American Political Participation and American Presidency, and the opportunity to teach a course in a specific area of interest. We are particularly interested in candidates with a focus on identity politics in the United States.

All faculty contribute to the first-year experience through a combination of teaching in the college's first-year inquiry program and/or offering January-term courses aimed at first-year students.

The successful candidate will join a diverse and active, five-member department. Each faculty colleague has interdisciplinary interests beyond political science that complement the political science curriculum such as Africana Studies, Environmental Studies, Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and more. Successful candidates will be able to demonstrate teaching effectiveness and an understanding of and/or willingness to embrace the nature of a liberal arts education. Experience and interest in working with students and community members of many backgrounds will be an asset for applicants. Preference will be given to candidates who will have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment, although ABD candidates also will be considered.

Augustana College is an equal opportunity employer and actively encourages applications from women and persons of diverse ethnic backgrounds. We do not discriminate based on age, race, color, ethnic origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability or creed and strongly encourage applicants from diverse backgrounds to apply for this position. Details about Augustana College, our expectations of the faculty, the selection process, and the Quad Cities all are available at Teaching at Augustana. Questions may be directed to the chair of the department, Xiaowen Zhang. Review of applications will begin March 1, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled.

A complete application includes: a cover letter indicating an interest in and understanding of teaching in a liberal arts setting, curriculum vitae, copy of graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation (including contact information), a statement of teaching philosophy, and writing sample.

The successful candidate will hold a tenure-track appointment in the Department of Political Science (www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience), and will work closely with the Indigenous Studies program (www.mcgill.ca/indigenous).

This position is part of a broader provostial initiative to strengthen Indigenous Studies and Education at McGill. The successful candidate will join a growing network of faculty committed to building Indigenous research and teaching capacity.

McGill University is located on unceded Kanien'kehà:ka Territory, land which has long served as a site of meeting and exchange amongst Indigenous peoples, including the Haudenosaunee and Anishinabeg nations. We acknowledge and thank the diverse Indigenous people whose footsteps have marked this territory on which peoples of the world now gather.

The position start date is August 1, 2020. Inquiries may be sent to the Chair of the Department, Juliet Johnson, at juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Job Duties

Teaching, research, and service in the Department of Political Science and the Indigenous Studies Program.

Qualifications and Education Requirements

Candidates should have completed a PhD in a relevant field or be near completion. The language of instruction at McGill is English, but a working knowledge of Indigenous language(s) and/or French would be considered an asset.

Preference will be given to candidates of Indigenous identity in filling this position.

Le Département de sciences politiques de l'Université McGill sollicite des candidatures en vue de pourvoir un poste de professeur adjoint ou agrégé menant à la permanence en politiques autochtones. Il est à la recherche de candidats qualifiés en politiques autochtones, œuvrant dans toute discipline relevant des sciences politiques. Une solide expérience en études autochtones, plus précisément en méthodologie et en recherche communautaire, constitue un atout.

Le candidat retenu sera titulaire d'un poste menant à la permanence au sein du Département de sciences politiques (www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience) et travaillera en étroite collaboration avec l'équipe du Programme d'études autochtones (www.mcgill.ca/indigenous).

Ce poste s'inscrit dans une initiative de mise en valeur des études autochtones à l'Université, qui émane du Bureau du vice-principal exécutif et vice-principal aux études. Le candidat retenu se joindra à un réseau grandissant de membres du personnel enseignant qui ont à cœur de faire croître la recherche et l'enseignement axés sur les communautés autochtones.

L'Université McGill se trouve en territoire Kanien'kehà:ka non cédé, qui a longtemps servi de lieu de rencontre et d'échange entre les peuples autochtones, y compris les nations Haudenosaunee et Anishinabeg. Nous reconnaissons et remercions les divers peuples autochtones dont les pas ont marqué ce territoire sur lequel les peuples du monde entier se réunissent maintenant.

La date d'entrée en fonction est le 1er août 2020. Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de ce poste doivent être envoyées à la Pre Juliet Johnson, directrice du département, à juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Fonctions du poste

Enseignement, recherche et attributions diverses au sein du Département de sciences politiques et du Programme d'études autochtones

Compétences et formation exigées

Le candidat doit posséder un doctorat dans une discipline pertinente ou être sur le point de l'obtenir. À l'Université McGill, la langue d'enseignement est l'anglais, mais la connaissance d'une ou de plusieurs langue(s) autochtone(s) ou du français est un atout.

La préférence sera accordée aux personnes d'identité autochtone.

RENSEIGNEMENTS SUR LE POSTE

---

Type de poste : Poste menant à la permanence

Rang : Professeur adjoint ou agrégé

Catégorie de poste : Temps plein

Salaire :

Le salaire sera déterminé en fonction de la compétence et de l'expérience de la personne retenue.

Date limite :

Toutes les demandes reçues d'ici le 1er octobre 2019 seront examinées; ensuite, les demandes seront étudiées sur une base continue jusqu'à ce que le poste soit pourvu.

SOUMISSION DE CANDIDATURES

Les candidatures doivent être soumises à : <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/13446>

Le dossier de candidature doit comprendre les documents suivants :

- une lettre de présentation et un curriculum vitæ;
- un énoncé sur les intérêts de recherche;
- un extrait d'un texte du candidat (de la longueur d'un article ou d'un chapitre);
- un énoncé sur les responsabilités et réalisations en matière d'enseignement accompagné, si possible, d'évaluations et de plans de cours;
- une déclaration personnelle du candidat portant sur les identités autochtones et sur les liens qui l'unissent aux communautés autochtones; et
- trois lettres de recommandation de personnes pouvant fournir des références.

ADHÉSION AUX PRINCIPES D'ÉQUITÉ ET DE DIVERSITÉ

L'Université McGill recrute en fonction du mérite et souscrit sans réserve à l'équité et à la diversité au sein de sa communauté. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi des personnes racisées et des minorités visibles, des femmes, des personnes autochtones, des personnes en situation de handicap, des minorités ethniques, des personnes de toute orientation sexuelle et identité de genre ainsi que de toute personne possédant les aptitudes et les connaissances lui permettant de travailler en collaboration avec diverses communautés.

En outre, McGill reconnaît et prend équitablement en considération l'incidence des congés (p. ex., obligations familiales ou congés pour raisons de santé) qui peuvent entraîner des interruptions ou des ralentissements de carrière. Les candidats sont encouragés à signaler tout congé ayant eu une incidence sur leur rendement et pouvant avoir modifié leur parcours de carrière. Ces renseignements seront pris en compte aux fins d'évaluation équitable de leur dossier.

L'Université McGill dispose d'un programme d'équité en matière d'emploi et invite les membres des groupes visés à indiquer leur appartenance à ces derniers dans leur dossier de candidature. Elle tient également à s'assurer que les personnes en situation de handicap reçoivent un traitement équitable et puissent pleinement s'intégrer à la vie universitaire en ayant à cœur de mettre en œuvre les principes de conception universelle dans toutes les sphères d'activité de l'Université, conformément aux politiques et procédures relatives aux aménagements. Les personnes en situation de handicap qui pourraient avoir besoin de certains aménagements pour soumettre leur candidature sont invitées à communiquer en toute confidentialité avec la professeure Angela Campbell, vice-principale exécutive adjointe (équité et politiques académiques), par courriel ou par téléphone, au 514 398-1660.

Tous les candidats qualifiés sont invités à postuler. Toutefois, conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2020. The applicant should have expertise in electoral politics, specializing in electoral integrity within the United States, or from a comparative or international perspective. Potential topics include standards and norms governing the proper conduct of elections, electoral system design and reform, and electoral justice such as voting rights, election monitoring and electoral dispute resolution. Candidates whose research and teaching engages applied approaches and potential reforms to ensure electoral integrity are especially encouraged to apply, as are candidates who could teach courses related to our new undergraduate options in global politics and/or practical politics.

Successful candidates will demonstrate an ability to produce high quality scholarly publications and a potential to excel in teaching. A Ph.D. in Political Science is expected at the time of appointment. We will also consider candidates with a Ph.D. in a closely related field if they have completed substantial coursework in Political Science. Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department offers the following degrees in Political Science: B.S., B.A. and M.A. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester and can include both undergraduate and graduate-level courses. Completed applications received by September 15, 2019 (depending on the position) will be given full consideration. Applicants are asked to submit the following through Interfolio <https://apply.interfolio.com/65885> a letter of application outlining your interest in this position, research expertise and teaching interests/experience; vitae; graduate transcripts; three letters of recommendation; evidence of successful teaching and scholarship; and short research and teaching statements.

The department is committed to creating an inclusive space for our students, faculty, and staff and to teaching and mentoring our undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. The department encourages applications from women and underrepresented racial/ethnic groups. About one third of our undergraduate majors are members of underrepresented groups. Among our tenure-track faculty, 9 percent are from underrepresented racial/ethnic groups and 55 percent are female. Oklahoma State University, as an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding non-discrimination and affirmative action. Oklahoma State University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all individuals and does not discriminate based on race, religion, age, sex, color, national origin, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, disability, or veteran status with regard to employment, educational programs and activities, and/or admissions. For more information, visit <https://eo.okstate.edu>. This position is contingent upon availability of funds.

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Assistant Professor, Politics and Policy of China -- Cluster Hire

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in comparative politics or international relations, with a primary focus on China and a secondary focus on East Asia and the Pacific Rim. Potential areas of substantive expertise in the politics and policy of China include: political and economic development, human rights, environmental politics and policy, international political economy, international security, international organizations/governance, non-governmental organizations, or political sociology.

This faculty position is part of a three-position research cluster, Rethinking East Asia and the World, which was proposed by the Title VI-funded National Resource Center, the Center for East Asian Studies, for the University's Cluster Hiring Initiative to enhance cross-disciplinary expertise on contemporary East Asia. Two candidates have been hired into this Cluster: Assistant Professor, Sociology of Contemporary Korea; and Assistant Professor, Educational Policy Studies in East Asia. Candidates for this position - Assistant Professor, Chinese Politics and Policy - should show a clear commitment to collaborating with the Cluster and to contributing to the intellectual life of the Center for East Asian Studies, the Department of Political Science, and the La Follette School of Public Affairs.

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment in either the Department of Political Science or the La Follette School of Public Affairs, with preference given to candidates interested in both political science and public affairs/public policy. Tenure home will be determined at the time of hiring. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank.

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required with service at the professional and university level.

Teaching will include courses to undergraduate students, as well as graduate students. The teaching load in a typical academic year will consist of two courses taught in the Department of Political Science and two courses taught in the La Follette School of Public Affairs. Mentoring graduate students will be required as well.

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 98888. To begin the application process, please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will also be asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application.

The deadline for assuring full consideration is September 18, 2019; however, positions will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled.

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

Rank: Assistant Professor -- International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Assistant Professor – International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor for appointment beginning in the 2020-2021 academic year. Candidates specializing in international relations and/or comparative politics are especially encouraged to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department which grants a B.A. degree, and which also has a Master's in Public Administration. The faculty member will primarily teach courses in international relations and/or comparative politics. A faculty member specializing in international relations will be expected to teach courses such as International Law, International Political Economy, and US Foreign Policy. A faculty member specializing in comparative politics will be expected to teach courses in a regional specialization other than Latin America. The ability to teach undergraduate research methods, whether qualitative and/or quantitative, will also be expected. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work demonstrates a commitment to inclusive excellence and diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many underrepresented minorities and first-generation college students.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field from an accredited university at the time of appointment
- University teaching experience as instructor of record and/or teaching assistant
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work, as well as experience fostering an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Research interests related to social or racial justice, gender inequities, and/or inequality would be a plus. Additionally, preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise under-served populations including, but not limited to, African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by Friday, September 13, 2019. Early submission is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/65857>.

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years), uploaded through Interfolio;
- A completed application form available on the application website;
- An unofficial transcript showing the highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and

- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

The University: Cal Poly Pomona is one of two polytechnic universities in the 23-campus California State University system. Our ethnically diverse student population of approximately 22,000 enrolls in 52 baccalaureate, 26 master's degree programs, 11 credential and certificate programs, and a doctorate in Educational Leadership, presented by 1,200 faculty. We recruit students increasingly from throughout California and beyond. The students are success and career focused and extremely diverse. We are proud of our status as a Hispanic Serving Institution. We have a strong commitment to supporting scholarship, research, and student achievement. Our scenic and historic 1,400-acre campus, once the winter ranch of cereal magnate W. K. Kellogg, is located about 30 miles east of downtown Los Angeles in one of the most dynamic economic and cultural regions in the country, and within an hour's drive of beaches, mountains, and desert. The university is committed to diversifying its faculty and staff and has made educational equity one of its highest priorities. The mission of the university is to advance learning and knowledge by linking theory and practice in all disciplines, and to prepare students for lifelong learning, leadership, and careers in a changing, multicultural world.

The College: The College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences cultivates one's intellectual development, ethical reasoning, and aesthetic sensibility to support creative and critical thinking in a diverse world of competing challenges. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in numerous degree and certificate programs across the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University is also central to the mission of the College. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single-subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to "cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation" lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/> .

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over three hundred and fifty undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

The Department of Political Science seeks to hire a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Comparative Politics, broadly defined. We are open with respect to methodological approach and substantive and/or regional area of interest.

We seek a scholar whose work is focused on the urgent and perennial questions of world politics. These are now, and for the next several decades, likely to be concerned with processes of democratization, threats to democracy, causes of global inequality, challenges to national identity posed by migration, the political economy of changing modes of production, the regional and global impact of climate change, and how social movements succeed or fail. We are open with respect to the successful candidate's areas of interest and expertise which could include but are not restricted to the above questions and other interests such as diaspora, Native American and comparative Indigenous politics, human rights, authoritarianism or non-violent political change.

Successful candidates will contribute to the intellectual diversity of the department. They should be able to teach introductory undergraduate courses and advanced undergraduate and graduate courses in comparative politics. They may also teach in their substantive area of expertise.

Boston University is an exciting place in which to study and teach politics. It has internationally known regionally focused centers, e.g. an African Studies Center and a Center for the Study of Europe. Other centers focus on religion, gender and sexuality, cities, and long-range futures.

Application materials, addressed to the Chair of the Comparative Politics Search Committee, should be submitted electronically on <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/14078> and include: a letter of interest describing your teaching and research interests and professional experience including your accomplishments in areas contributing to diversity, equity and inclusion; curriculum vitae; transcripts; evidence of previous teaching experience, including syllabi if those are available; a short writing sample, and three letters of reference sent directly from your recommenders.

Applications will be reviewed starting on 1 October 2019. Official transcripts are required prior to employment. The start day for employment is 1 July 2020, pending final budgetary approval.

Centre College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor of Politics

Specializations: Presidency, Congress, Quantitative Methods

Centre College invites applications for a Two-Year Visiting Assistant Professor in Politics with expertise in American and comparative political institutions. We seek teacher-scholars that demonstrate a commitment to excellence in teaching at a nationally-ranked liberal arts college.

Candidates may specialize in either American or comparative politics as their primary field but must have a strong secondary specialization in the other. Ideal candidates should be able to teach courses on U.S. political institutions (Congress, Presidency, state and local politics, e.g.) as well as equivalent global political institutions. This candidate must also be able to teach courses on quantitative data analysis and contribute to the major's political research curricular track. Previous work with applied politics (campaigns, data analytics, journalism, e.g.) and/or a research focus on the intersection of race, ethnicity, gender, or sexuality and political institutions is desirable.

At Centre College, a six-course teaching load is typically divided between two long semesters (five courses divided between fall and spring) and a three-week winter term (one course). Candidates must have a Ph.D. by the time of appointment. Applications from A.B.D.

candidates will be considered. The program strongly encourages applications from candidates who have experience with and enjoy teaching, mentoring, and creating inclusive environments where all students can thrive.

Centre College is committed to an environment that welcomes and supports diversity. Centre strives to create an environment where differences are celebrated rather than discouraged, where the individuals have the opportunity to exchange ideas and share in the richness of mutual experiences. Please view the Statement of Community.

Centre College, a highly selective liberal arts college of about 1,450 students, has one of the nation's premier study abroad programs and is ranked among the top fifty National Liberal Arts Colleges by U.S. News & World Report. Classes are small and academic standards are high. Centre graduates enjoy extraordinary success, with entrance to top graduate and professional schools, prestigious fellowships for further study abroad, and rewarding jobs. For information concerning the college, visit our website at <http://www.centre.edu>. The College is located in Danville, Kentucky, a town of 18,000 recognized for its high quality of life. It is within easy driving distance of Lexington, Louisville, and Cincinnati.

To apply, please submit the following materials by October 1, 2019: a letter of application, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, materials demonstrating teaching effectiveness, three confidential letters of recommendation, and transcripts. In addition, please include a diversity statement explaining how you would contribute to and/or address the issues of diversity and inclusion at Centre. The letter of application must include a statement addressing the candidate's experience and goals as a teacher/scholar in the liberal arts model. Review of applications will begin on October 1, 2019.

Copenhagen Business School

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Business and Government

Tenure Track Assistant Professorship in Business & Government at the Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) at Copenhagen Business School (CBS) – Call for expression of interest.

The Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) at CBS invites expressions of interest for a six-year Tenure-Track Assistant Professorship in Business & Government.

Candidates should hold, or be close to completing, a PhD in the fields of political science, political economy, international business, or related disciplines. Candidates should be able to demonstrate strong potential in research at the intersection of business and government. Applications are particularly encouraged from candidates with a research record in the fields of:

- Business-government relations
- Public Policy
- Comparative Politics
- Political Economy

Candidates should have excellent methodological skills. Participation in teaching in existing CBS programs and an interest in developing research-based teaching courses is expected. In addition, tenure track assistant professors are expected to live in Denmark and to actively contribute to department activities.

The Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) brings together the study of states, markets, and international firms in the context of the challenges faced by emerging and advanced economies. EGB's research is based in international business, economics, and politics, and is of direct relevance to business, policymakers, and scholars. Within this framework, the department has three principal areas of focus: States and markets, Firms and International Business and Societal challenges. The research environment is highly international. Department faculty directs a range of programs: BSc and MSc International Business, BSc and MSc International Business & Politics, International Business in Asia (IBA) and a graduate diploma program (HD) in International Business. For more information, please visit the department's homepage: <https://www.cbs.dk/en/research-departments-and-centres/department-of-international-economics-government-and-business>

Copenhagen Business School has more than 21,000 students and approximately 630 full-time faculty members. CBS thus is one of the largest business schools in Northern Europe, covering a wide range of academic fields related to business studies and the social sciences. CBS is ranked highly in an array of international rankings and aims to become a world-leading business university that recognizes the vital role of business and government in shaping society – and the equally important manner in which business practices and processes are shaped by governments and society.

Candidates who are available for an informal interview during the 2019 APSA Annual Conference in Washington D.C. (August 29 – September 1, 2019) should submit a letter of interest, a CV, and a job market paper by email to Professor (mso) Mogens K. Justesen, mkj.egb@cbs.dk. The deadline for submitting an expression of interest is August 20, 2019. Candidates invited for interview during APSA will be notified directly.

Informal interviews at APSA Annual Conference are highly encouraged, but it is also possible to apply for the position without an interview at the conference. To apply for the position, you must submit your application through CBS' online system: <https://www.cbs.dk/en/about-cbs/jobs-cbs/vacant-positions/tenure-track-assistant-professorship-in-business-government>. Deadline for applications is September 15, 2019.

Bentley University

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Public Policy/International Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

JOB DESCRIPTION SUMMARY:

The Global Studies Department at Bentley University, invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Public Policy/International Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2020. We particularly welcome candidates with expertise in policy areas such as sustainability, development, and health—areas that complement existing programs and appeal to students at a business university.

The successful candidate will be asked to contribute to enhancing our two departmental majors - Public Policy and International Affairs - and to complement the department's existing strengths, which are grounded in political science, geography and cultural studies. While the position is open with respect to region, we especially welcome candidates whose work focuses on regions with emerging economies, particularly in Asia or Africa.

Founded in 1917, Bentley University is a private, Business-focused university with a strong commitment to the Arts and Sciences. Bentley enrolls approximately 5,500 students at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. Located in Waltham, Massachusetts, Bentley is on the doorstep of one of the nation's leading cities. With over 35 colleges and universities, the greater Boston area is a vibrant place to work and live.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

The successful candidate will be expected to teach core courses in public policy/international affairs and electives in their area of expertise.

Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a continuing research agenda focused on publication and a strong dedication to excellence in teaching, with preference for candidates with classroom experience. We especially welcome candidates who bring diverse perspectives and experiences to the classroom.

PhD required. (Requirements for your doctoral degree must be confirmed prior to the start of the fall 2020 semester.)

Position will remain open until filled. However, priority consideration will be given to applications received by September 30, 2019.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS:

All application materials should be submitted through Bentley's online employment site at <https://bentley.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/faculty>. Applications should include a letter of interest and CV. Names and contact information for three references are required upon application. Bentley will contact these confidential references for those candidates moving forward in the process.

Bentley University requires references checks and may conduct other pre-employment screening.

DIVERSITY STATEMENT:

Bentley University strives to create a campus community that welcomes the exchange of ideas, and fosters a culture that values differences and views them as a strength in our community.

Bentley University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, building strength through diversity. The University is committed to building a community of talented students, faculty and staff who reflect the diversity of global business. We strongly encourage applications from persons from underrepresented groups, individuals with disabilities, covered veterans and those with diverse experiences and backgrounds.

University of Utah

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Asian American Politics, Central America, Central Asia

The Department of Political Science at the University of Utah invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position in Comparative Politics at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2020. We are interested in candidates who have experience with the comparative analysis of states, cultures, and a range of other agents. We have special interest in candidates with regional expertise in Latin America, Middle East, Africa, or Asia, and whose research makes novel theoretical contributions to such areas as state collapse, authoritarianism, ethno-religious movements, democratization and regime change, domestic conflict and violence, and/or the environment in one or more regions of the developing world. The successful candidate will have expertise in field research and data collection, with a preference for candidates with substantial training in qualitative and/or quantitative methods and a record of research productivity, strong grant potential, and a willingness to contribute to interdisciplinary research and teaching.

Applications should include a cover letter, CV, and three letters of recommendation. As part of the cover letter or teaching statement we invite you to describe how your work and other experience contribute to the success of underrepresented students. The University of Utah values candidates who have experience working in settings with students from diverse backgrounds and possess a strong commitment to improving access to higher education for historically underrepresented students.

The Department of Political Science invites applications from qualified candidates for a Tier 2 CRC Chair appointment in Diversity and Politics in Global North Democracies at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning July 1, 2020. The Department seeks an emerging scholar specializing in Indigenous, racialized, and/or gendered dimensions of political processes and institutions in democracies in the Global North and, in particular scholars whose research focus includes Canadian politics. An appointment with tenure is possible, depending on qualifications of the successful candidate.

Tier 2 Chairs are intended for exceptional emerging researchers (i.e. candidate will typically be less than 10 years from their highest degree at the time of nomination, or more than 10 years and has experienced legitimate career interruptions), acknowledged by their peers as having potential to lead in their field. Applicants who are more than 10 years from their highest degree may have their eligibility for a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair assessed through the program's Tier 2 justification process (<http://www.chairs-chaires.gc.ca/>). Carleton's research grants office can also provide more information (<https://carleton.ca/coris/>).

The successful candidate will work with the Faculty of Public Affairs to prepare the application for the Tier 2 CRC Chair. Academic appointment is conditional on the approval of the application by the CRC Program.

About the Academic Unit:

The Department of Political Science is a research-intensive unit, particularly proud of its pathbreaking tradition and continuing strength in the study of gender and politics, including establishing one of Canada's first political science PhD fields in Gender and Diversity. For more information , please visit: <https://carleton.ca/polisci/>.

Qualifications:

The successful applicant will possess:

- a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;
- an outstanding record of research and peer-reviewed publications on diversity and politics, relative to stage of career;
- a record of high-quality teaching and supervision, appropriate to stage of career;
- commitment to continuing improvement and excellence in teaching;
- capacity to attract external research funding;

Application Instructions:

Please submit your application electronically in three PDF files, including: (1) a cover letter and CV; (2) a statement of research interests and samples of research, ideally including peer-reviewed publications; and (3) a teaching portfolio with evidence of teaching experience. Please identify any past experiences in supporting equity, diversity and inclusion in your previous institutional environment such as in curriculum development and in supporting diverse students. Applicants should also arrange to have three referees send supporting letters electronically.

All application materials should be directed to: Ms. Sandy Herbert, Department Administrator, Department of Political Science, Carleton University at sandy.herbert@carleton.ca.

To help us develop our equity programs, a confidential equity and diversity self-identification survey will be sent to all applicants separately.

Please indicate in your application if you are a Canadian citizen or permanent resident of Canada.

About Carleton University:

Carleton University is a dynamic and innovative research and teaching institution with a national and international reputation as a leader in collaborative teaching and learning, research and governance. With over 30,000 students in more than 100 programs of study, we encourage creative risk-taking, discovery, and the generation of transformative knowledge. We are proud to be one of the most accessible campuses in North America and our Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities has been heralded as the gold standard for disability support services in Canada. To learn more about our university and the Ottawa, please visit www.carleton.ca/about.

We are strongly committed to equity, diversity, and inclusion in the nomination and appointment process. Carleton University is committed to fostering diversity within its community as a source of excellence, cultural enrichment, and social strength. We welcome those who would contribute to the further diversification of our university including, but not limited to: women; visible minorities; First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples; persons with disabilities; and persons of any sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression. Carleton understands that career paths vary. Legitimate career interruptions will in no way prejudice the assessment process and their impact will be carefully considered.

Applicants selected for an interview are asked to contact the Chair as soon as possible to discuss any accommodation requirements. Arrangements will be made in a timely manner.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. All positions are subject to budgetary approval.

We are especially, but not solely, interested in candidates with regional expertise in Russia, Eastern Europe, Sub-Saharan Africa, or South Asia and with substantive interest in issues of ethnic politics, conflict and conflict mitigation, democratization and de-democratization, political economy, political institutions, parties, and/or elections. Candidates must demonstrate teaching and research excellence.

Duties include the teaching of undergraduate and graduate courses in Comparative Politics (with courses cross-listed in the International Global Studies program, as appropriate), graduate student advising, doctoral dissertation supervision, undergraduate thesis advising, and university and departmental service.

The course load is 2/2.

Candidates applying at the rank of assistant professor should have a PhD in Political Science in hand by August 2020. Candidates applying at the rank of associate professor should have a proven publication record appropriate to this rank.

Applicants should submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a statement of research and teaching interests that includes potential course offerings and syllabi and student evaluations where available, a chapter or article-length writing sample, and three letters of reference. Brandeis University is committed to advancing diversity, equity, and inclusion in faculty scholarship, teaching, and service. Applicants are encouraged to address these goals in their cover letter or in their teaching and research statement. These materials can be submitted electronically at: <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/13898>.

First consideration will be given to applications received by September 20, 2019. Questions about the position can be directed to: Eva Bellin (ebellin@brandeis.edu), Chair, Search Committee on Comparative Politics.

This position is subject to budget approval.

At Brandeis we believe that diversity, equity, and inclusion are essential components of academic excellence. Brandeis is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer that is committed to creating equitable access and opportunities for applicants to all employment positions. Because diversity, equity, and inclusion are at the core of Brandeis' history and mission, we value and are seeking candidates with a variety of social identities, including those that have been under-represented in higher education. The search committee is therefore particularly interested in candidates who, through their scholarly pursuits, teaching, and/or service experiences, will build on Brandeis' reputation for academic excellence and prepare its students for creative engagement in a pluralistic society.

Princeton University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate/Center for the Study of Democratic Politics

The Center for the Study of Democratic Politics, a program in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University, invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Associate or more senior research position. Applications are welcome from recent PhDs and PhD students who will earn their degree soon after starting the position.

The researcher will be asked to participate in a new project on "time in politics" that combines study of institutions and individual psychology. The individual will work on aspects of the project that may include compilation and analysis of existing survey questions, development of an original survey, experimental design, and historical-institutional analysis. The project will combine a variety of different research approaches.

The position is offered for one year, with the possibility of renewal, contingent upon funding and satisfactory performance. Please submit online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acad Positions/position/12041>, a cover letter, a CV, contact information for three recommendations, and a statement of research skills and experience. The statement of research skills should be a separate document not included in the cover letter. Because the project will combine a variety of different approaches, a clear statement of research skills (including descriptions of not only technical/technological expertise, but also experience with particular conceptual approaches to politics) is an important part of the application. For questions about the position, contact Prof. Markus Prior at mprior@princeton.edu.

The successful candidate will have a strong background in quantitative research and statistical methods. Experience with survey design and analysis of complex survey data are highly desirable, as are data management and programming skills in STATA. The candidate should be well organized, flexible, attend to detail, and respond to deadlines in a timely fashion. This position is subject to the University's background check policy.

Georgia Institute of Technology

Rank: Assistant Professor in International Political Economy

The Sam Nunn School of International Affairs (www.inta.gatech.edu) at the Georgia Institute of Technology invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position in International Political Economy. Scholars with a specialization in the Global South are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates are expected to demonstrate an exceptional commitment to the teaching and mentoring of students.

Georgia Tech is a top-ranked public research university situated in the heart of Atlanta, a diverse and vibrant city with great economic and cultural strengths. The Institute is a member of the University System of Georgia, the Georgia Research Alliance, and the Association of American Universities. The Nunn School is a member of the Association of Professional Schools of International Affairs. Georgia Tech prides itself on its technology resources, collaborations, high-quality student body, and its commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion.

Applicants should submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a statement of research interests, a description of teaching interests and advising/mentoring philosophy, and the names and contact information for at least three references. Application materials should be submitted as .PDF files via IPResearch@inta.gatech.edu. The references should submit their letters directly at the time of application. Requests for information may be directed to Alasdair Young (alasdair.young@gatech.edu). Applications will be considered beginning 1 October 2019, but the search will continue until the position is filled. An earned doctorate is required by the start of the appointment, and a background check must be completed prior to employment.

Georgia Tech is an equal education/employment opportunity institution dedicated to building a diverse community. We strongly encourage applications from women, underrepresented minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans. Georgia Tech has policies to promote a healthy work-life balance and is aware that attracting faculty may require meeting the needs of two careers.

Occidental College

Rank: ASSOCIATE/ADVANCED ASSISTANT PROFESSOR in Global Political Economy

A search in Global Political Economy at the Associate Professor with tenure or at the Advanced Assistant levels. We are looking for applicants who have demonstrated an ambitious research and practice agenda with a particular interest in applicants whose work focuses on areas such as the Sustainable Development Goals; Human Rights-based Approaches to Economic Development; Equity/Equality in economic structures (with reference to race, class, identity, and/or gender and the imperative of democratic inclusion); or alternative approaches to studying dominant approaches to international trade, globalization and other topic areas in Global Political Economy. More information on the Young Initiative is here: <https://www.oxy.edu/academics/global-engagement/young-initiative>. The hire will eventually be expected to play a leadership role in the Young Initiative Committee, including its rotating chair-ship.

Priority will be given to applicants who have demonstrated a research agenda that leverages substantial fieldwork with international or regional organizations and/or transnational NGOs. An expectation will be that the hire will continue Occidental College's engagement with on-the-ground work in international affairs, at the local/Los Angeles, transnational, and/or global levels. A priority is the ability to advance the College's mission and an understanding of the distinctiveness of the Liberal Arts culture.

Occidental College is a highly-selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles. Occidental College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not unlawfully discriminate against employees or applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, breastfeeding or related medical condition, national origin, ancestry, citizenship, age, marital status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, genetic characteristic or information, sexual orientation, military and veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by State or Federal Law. We strongly encourage all underrepresented candidates, especially women and persons of color, to apply.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Chamnan Lim at youngsearch@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter that details the interest in teaching at Occidental and potential linkages to priorities of the Young Initiative in Global Political Economy; (2) a discussion of the applicant's academic research and field practice; (3) a statement of teaching experience and philosophy; (4) a scholarly work sample; (5) Curriculum Vitae; and (6) a list of referees.

All materials are due no later than October 1, 2019; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semi-finalists will be held via videoconference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. For information on the Young Initiative on the Global Political Economy, please visit our website at the address noted above. Inquiries about the position, the DWA department, or the Young Initiative can be directed to the Interim Young Initiative in the Global Political Economy Chair, Professor Anthony Tirado Chase: achase@oxy.edu.

We will consider for employment all qualified Applicants, including those with Criminal Histories, in a manner consistent with the requirements of applicable state and local laws, including the City of Los Angeles' Fair Chance Initiative for Hiring Ordinance.

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Fellow in Regional Political Economy – Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance, Princeton University

Specializations: Middle East, East Asia, Latin American

The Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance (NCGG) at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs seeks two visitors or more candidates for the Visiting Fellowship Program in regional political economy for the 2020-2021 academic year. This fellows program is targeted at developing a generation of scholars able to analyze and make policy recommendations about the regional political economy in the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America. The Center invites candidates with a background in economics, political science, contemporary history, sociology, law, business, and other disciplines bearing on the study of markets, politics, and economic development, focusing on the regions of the Middle East, East, South, or Southeast Asia, Africa and Latin America to apply. Scholarly work should explore the ways in which the politics within and between a set of countries intersect with natural resource endowments, market conditions, technological and physical infrastructure, and cultural biases to explain existing patterns of economic development and to promote higher levels of development more effectively. Selected candidates will be required to be in residence for the duration of the fellowship (September 1, 2020 - July 1, 2021).

Application Deadline – Applicants should apply by Monday, December 9, 2019 (11:59pm EST), for full consideration, however; posting will remain open until filled.

Application Process – All candidates must use the online application process to submit materials at: <https://www.princeton.edu/acadpositions/position/12562>.

Applicants are required to hold a Ph.D. in one of the above-mentioned disciplines. To apply, please provide the following:

- Cover letter explaining the candidate's scholarly career, prospective or actual doctoral defense date, and academic interests;
- Current curriculum vitae including publications;
- 2,000-word description of the proposed research project, including its specific objectives, importance, and research design;
- One writing sample (limit of 100 pages);
- Contact information for three references, who will be asked to comment specifically on the applicant's qualifications for the proposed research project. Referees will be contacted directly by email with instructions for submitting a confidential recommendation on your behalf. Letters of reference are to be submitted by the end of business day on Thursday, December 12, 2019. Complete your application well before the deadline so that references can be submitted in a timely manner.

Candidates who hold positions at academic institutions may also be required to submit:

- Home institution policy with regard to sabbatical pay;
- A confidential statement indicating salary for the current academic year (September 2019 - July 1, 2020).

Salary – Rank and salary will be contingent on qualifications. NCGG Fellows will receive applicable Princeton University benefits, a taxable moving allowance, and a $5,000 research fund.

CFR Call for 2020–2021 Fellowship Applications

The Council on Foreign Relations is seeking fellowship applicants for the 2020–2021 academic year. The programs offer unique opportunities, domestic and abroad, for mid and senior career U.S. citizens who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy. Selected fellows broaden their perspective of foreign affairs either by pursuing work in a policymaking settings or research in an academic environment.

International Affairs Fellowship (IAF)

Established in 1967, the IAF is the hallmark fellowship program of CFR. It aims to bridge the gap between the study and making of U.S. foreign policy by creating the next generation of scholar-practitioners. The program offers its fellows the unique chance to experience a new field and gain a different perspective at a pivotal moment in their careers. Academics are thus placed in public service and policy-oriented settings, while government officials are placed in scholarly settings. Over the years, the IAF program has produced approximately six hundred alumni that span the who's who of the U.S. foreign policy community, including a former secretary of state and several undersecretaries of state, U.S. ambassadors to NATO and the United Nations, and many other influential leaders in government, academia, and the private sector. The duration of the fellowship is twelve months, preferably beginning in September, and the program awards a stipend of $100,000.

Oklahoma State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Subfield(s): American Government and Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations

The Department of Political Science at Oklahoma State University (www.polsci.okstate.edu) invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position to begin in August 2020. The applicant should have expertise in electoral politics, specializing in electoral integrity within the United States, or from a comparative or international perspective. Potential topics include standards and norms governing the proper conduct of elections, electoral system design and reform, and electoral justice such as voting rights, election monitoring and electoral dispute resolution. Candidates whose research and teaching engages applied approaches and potential reforms to ensure electoral integrity are especially encouraged to apply, as are candidates who could teach courses related to our new undergraduate options in global politics and/or practical politics.

Successful candidates will demonstrate an ability to produce high quality scholarly publications and a potential to excel in teaching. A Ph.D. in Political Science is expected at the time of appointment. We will also consider candidates with a Ph.D. in a closely related field if they have completed substantial coursework in Political Science. Oklahoma State University is one of the state's two comprehensive research universities with a Stillwater campus population of 23,000 students. The Department offers the following degrees in Political Science: B.S., B.A. and M.A. The teaching load is normally two courses per semester and can include both undergraduate and graduate-level courses. Completed applications received by September 15, 2019 (depending on the position) will be given full consideration. Applicants are asked to submit the following through Interfolio <https://apply.interfolio.com/65885> a letter of application outlining your interest in this position, research expertise and teaching interests/experience; vitae; graduate transcripts; three letters of recommendation; evidence of successful teaching and scholarship; and short research and teaching statements.

The department is committed to creating an inclusive space for our students, faculty, and staff and to teaching and mentoring our undergraduate and graduate scholars from various backgrounds. The department encourages applications from women and underrepresented racial/ethnic groups. About one third of our undergraduate majors are members of underrepresented groups. Among our tenure-track faculty, 9 percent are from underrepresented racial/ethnic groups and 55 percent are female. Oklahoma State University, as an equal opportunity employer, complies with all applicable federal and state laws regarding non-discrimination and affirmative action. Oklahoma State University is committed to a policy of equal opportunity for all individuals and does not discriminate based on race, religion, age, sex, color, national origin, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity/expression, disability, or veteran status with regard to employment, educational programs and activities, and/or admissions. The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in comparative politics or international relations, with a primary focus on China and a secondary focus on East Asia and the Pacific Rim. Potential areas of substantive expertise in the politics and policy of China include: political and economic development, human rights, environmental politics and policy, international political economy, international security, international organizations/governance, non-governmental organizations, or political sociology.

This faculty position is part of a three-position research cluster, Rethinking East Asia and the World, which was proposed by the Title VI-funded National Resource Center, the Center for East Asian Studies, for the University's Cluster Hiring Initiative to enhance cross-disciplinary expertise on contemporary East Asia. Two candidates have been hired into this Cluster: Assistant Professor, Sociology of Contemporary Korea; and Assistant Professor, Educational Policy Studies in East Asia. Candidates for this position - Assistant Professor, Chinese Politics and Policy - should show a clear commitment to collaborating with the Cluster and to contributing to the intellectual life of the Center for East Asian Studies, the Department of Political Science, and the La Follette School of Public Affairs.

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment in either the Department of Political Science or the La Follette School of Public Affairs, with preference given to candidates interested in both political science and public affairs/public policy. Tenure home will be determined at the time of hiring. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank.

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required with service at the professional and university level.

Teaching will include courses to undergraduate students, as well as graduate students. The teaching load in a typical academic year will consist of two courses taught in the Department of Political Science and two courses taught in the La Follette School of Public Affairs. Mentoring graduate students will be required as well.

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 98888. To begin the application process, please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will also be asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application.

The deadline for assuring full consideration is September 18, 2019; however, positions will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled.

The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in policy issues around sexual violence.

The scholar should have expertise in the interplay between social science, policy, and government. This may include scholars who are interested in issues such as rehabilitation and reintegration of sexual violence criminals, disparities in policing and sentencing policies for sexual violence criminals, sexual harassment policy issues in the public sector or workplace, Title IX issues in educational policy, child and adult sex trafficking, or the geopolitics of gender-based violence and sexual violence such as the context of war (and political violence more broadly), migration, refugee experiences, and disaster experiences. Or, this may include scholars who study the policy issues attached to: sexual violence imposed by domestic partners; gender/social inequality and its impact on sexual violence; substance abuse (e.g., alcohol and drug) and sexual violence; sexual violence against sex workers; weapon use and sexual violence; history of child abuse and sexual violence; sexual violence and HIV and other sexually transmitted diseases; the role of physicians in screening for sexual assault; marriage laws and sexual violence; mental health and sexual violence; and the relationship between sexual violence and economic pressure, social norms, inter-generational transmission, forced marriage, or education levels.

Ideally the candidate will be positioned to contribute knowledge to improve laws, or the implementation of laws or policies, to prevent and address sexual violence. Public policy experts could use their expertise in the policymaking process, as well as policy analysis and evaluation to identify "what works" and (what doesn't & work;) within existing sexual violence policies and laws, and then, in the spirit of the Wisconsin Idea, to share these evidence-based solutions with the public, as well as public sector leaders.

This faculty position is part of a faculty cluster search, "Sexual Violence: Connecting Social Science Research with Policy." The cluster defines "Sexual Violence" broadly, and it includes sexual assault, sexual harassment, sex trafficking, violence against sexual minorities, as well as gender-based violence.

Three faculty positions will be hired in the cluster, which will build a world-class, new core of interdisciplinary strength in research to address issues of sexual violence domestically and/or globally-making UW-Madison a research leader in this critical area. The first faculty position [PVL 99483] focuses on "Psychological Aspects of Sexual Violence" (including potentially research on psychological aspects of victimization, psychological factors contributing to perpetration, and/or theory-based development of interventions designed to prevent sexual assault), while the second faculty position [PVL 99523] is around "Societal Aspects of Sexual Violence" (including potentially research on the social causes and consequences of sexual violence, addressing the disproportionate impact of sexual violence in particular communities (e.g., sexual minority groups, people with disabilities) or the geopolitics of sexual violence and trauma. The third faculty position is "Policy Approaches to Sexual Violence," the subject of this search [PVL 99600].

These positions are part of the UW's Cluster Hiring Initiative, designed to foster innovative, outstanding research programs that will stimulate productive interactions among faculty and students in sexual violence research across campus and to expand interdisciplinary research in this area. Further information regarding this initiative can be found at: <https://facstaff.provost.wisc.edu/cluster-hiring-initiative/>

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment at the La Follette School of Public Affairs or another pertinent unit on campus. Tenure home will be determined at the time of hiring. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank.

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required, with service at the professional and university level.

Teaching will include courses to undergraduate students, as well as graduate students. For example, the teaching load at the La Follette School of Public Affairs in a typical academic year consists of four courses each year. Mentoring graduate students will be required as well.

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 99600. To begin the application process, please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department which grants a B.A. degree, and which also has a Master's in Public Administration. The faculty member will primarily teach courses in international relations and/or comparative politics. A faculty member specializing in international relations will be expected to teach courses such as International Law, International Political Economy, and US Foreign Policy. A faculty member specializing in comparative politics will be expected to teach courses in a regional specialization other than Latin America. The ability to teach undergraduate research methods, whether qualitative and/or quantitative, will also be expected. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work demonstrates a commitment to inclusive excellence and diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many underrepresented minorities and first-generation college students.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field from an accredited university at the time of appointment
- University teaching experience as instructor of record and/or teaching assistant
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work, as well as experience fostering an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Research interests related to social or racial justice, gender inequities, and/or inequality would be a plus. Additionally, preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise under-served populations including, but not limited to, African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by Friday, September 13, 2019. Early submission is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/65857>.

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years), uploaded through Interfolio;
- A completed application form available on the application website;
- An unofficial transcript showing the highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

The University: Cal Poly Pomona is one of two polytechnic universities in the 23-campus California State University system. Our ethnically diverse student population of approximately 22,000 enrolls in 52 baccalaureate, 26 master's degree programs, 11 credential and certificate programs, and a doctorate in Educational Leadership, presented by 1,200 faculty. We recruit students increasingly from throughout California and beyond. The students are success and career focused and extremely diverse. We are proud of our status as a Hispanic Serving Institution. We have a strong commitment to supporting scholarship, research, and student achievement. Our scenic and historic 1,400-acre campus, once the winter ranch of cereal magnate W. K. Kellogg, is located about 30 miles east of downtown Los Angeles in one of the most dynamic economic and cultural regions in the country, and within an hour's drive of beaches, mountains, and desert. The university is committed to diversifying its faculty and staff and has made educational equity one of its highest priorities. The mission of the university is to advance learning and knowledge by linking theory and practice in all disciplines, and to prepare students for lifelong learning, leadership, and careers in a changing, multicultural world.

The College: The College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences cultivates one's intellectual development, ethical reasoning, and aesthetic sensibility to support creative and critical thinking in a diverse world of competing challenges. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in numerous degree and certificate programs across the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University is also central to the mission of the College. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single-subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to "cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation" lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: <http://www.cpp.edu/~class/> .

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over three hundred and fifty undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

Rank: Assistant Professor, Comparative Public Policy/International Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Comparative Politics, International Relations

JOB DESCRIPTION SUMMARY:

The Global Studies Department at Bentley University, invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Public Policy/International Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2020. We particularly welcome candidates with expertise in policy areas such as sustainability, development, and health—areas that complement existing programs and appeal to students at a business university.

The successful candidate will be asked to contribute to enhancing our two departmental majors - Public Policy and International Affairs - and to complement the department's existing strengths, which are grounded in political science, geography and cultural studies. While the position is open with respect to region, we especially welcome candidates whose work focuses on regions with emerging economies, particularly in Asia or Africa.

Founded in 1917, Bentley University is a private, Business-focused university with a strong commitment to the Arts and Sciences. Bentley enrolls approximately 5,500 students at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. Located in Waltham, Massachusetts, Bentley is on the doorstep of one of the nation's leading cities. With over 35 colleges and universities, the greater Boston area is a vibrant place to work and live.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

The successful candidate will be expected to teach core courses in public policy/international affairs and electives in their area of expertise.

Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a continuing research agenda focused on publication and a strong dedication to excellence in teaching, with preference for candidates with classroom experience. We especially welcome candidates who bring diverse perspectives and experiences to the classroom.

PhD required. (Requirements for your doctoral degree must be confirmed prior to the start of the fall 2020 semester.)

Position will remain open until filled. However, priority consideration will be given to applications received by September 30, 2019.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS:

All application materials should be submitted through Bentley's online employment site at <https://bentley.wd1.myworkdayjobs.com/faculty>. Applications should include a letter of interest and CV. Names and contact information for three references are required upon application. Bentley will contact these confidential references for those candidates moving forward in the process.

Bentley University requires references checks and may conduct other pre-employment screening.

DIVERSITY STATEMENT:

Bentley University strives to create a campus community that welcomes the exchange of ideas, and fosters a culture that values differences and views them as a strength in our community.

Bentley University is an Equal Opportunity Employer, building strength through diversity. The University is committed to building a community of talented students, faculty and staff who reflect the diversity of global business. We strongly encourage applications from persons from underrepresented groups, individuals with disabilities, covered veterans and those with diverse experiences and backgrounds.

University of San Diego

Rank: Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Political Science and International Relations

Assistant Professor (Tenure-Track), Political Science and International Relations

Department Description:

The Department of Political Science and International Relations is committed to the liberal arts tradition of intellectual curiosity, academic rigor, and a pluralistic and diverse curriculum. We provide students with a solid understanding of the theories, practices and institutions of politics, but also with an appreciation of how to create a more just and humane world. Our courses cover every corner of the globe and prepare students to be keen political observers and actors. To supplement coursework, we also provide internship, community service learning, and study abroad opportunities that encourage learning outside of the classroom.

The department houses two separate majors. The Political Science major focuses attention on the shared and contending ideas, values, institutions and processes of public life. Courses range from the specific study of politics in one country or of a single institution or political process (the judiciary, Congress, the presidency or elections), to more general offerings such as courses on political theory, political development, revolution, race and ethnicity, environmental politics, research methods, human rights, and constitutional law.

The International Relations major is an interdisciplinary field of study designed for students who seek a holistic understanding of international affairs. The curriculum is rooted in political science and provides students with a strong background in international relations, comparative politics, and international political economy. At the same time, the curriculum reflects the recognition that international political phenomena are best understood from a variety of perspectives and includes courses from disciplines such as history, economics, religious studies, fine arts and literature.

The department offers the highly-regarded Masters of International Relations (MAIR) degree, which draws on our faculty's vast wealth of international experience and offers a variety of specialized subject matter courses focused on Africa, Europe, Latin America, and the Middle East. Areas of strength include international security, intelligence, and environmental policy. Courses in the program combine academic and professional instruction in an effort to connect theory and practice, both substantively and pedagogically.

Whitman College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Politics

Subfield(s): Public Law, International Relations, Political Theory

Tenure-track position in law and politics in global context at the rank of assistant professor. Effective August 2020. Ph.D. required.

We are interested in a teacher-scholar with a focus on law and politics in a global context. We welcome candidates who work with a variety of methods, including fieldwork, archival, historical institutional, political theoretical, and/or legal textual approaches. Candidates might offer courses such as international law; international politics; decolonization; human rights; theories of empire; comparative constitutionalism; indigenous politics; and/or area-specific courses on Asia, Africa, or Latin America. The candidate selected for the position will have the opportunity to contribute to the work of the college's Center for Global Studies, as well as interdisciplinary programs such as Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender Studies, and Race and Ethnic Studies, as appropriate. Women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

The standard annual teaching load is five courses. The College provides a generous sabbatical leave program and professional development support for both research and teaching.

Whitman College is committed to cultivating a diverse learning community. Applicants should explain how their classroom and scholarly practices will serve to create and sustain an inclusive learning environment. This statement can be included in the cover letter or the teaching statement. In their cover letter, candidates should address their interest in working at a liberal arts college with undergraduates, majors as well as non-majors, at all levels of instruction.

To apply, go to <https://whitmanhr.simplehire.com/>, click "Faculty" and "Assistant Professor of Politics". The online application will prompt you to submit all of the required materials: a letter of application; separate statements addressing the candidate's teaching interests and scholarly agenda; curriculum vitae; the contact information for three people who will be contacted for letters of reference; graduate transcripts; and complete sets of teaching evaluations or other evidence of demonstrated or potential excellence in undergraduate instruction.

Deadline: August 15, 2019.

Whitman College is building a diverse academic community and especially encourages applications from women, members of historically underrepresented minority groups, persons with disabilities, and others who would bring additional dimensions to the college's learning environment. Whitman College is an EEO employer.

College of William & Mary

Rank: Geospatial Scientist

AidData Geospatial Scientist

The Global Research Institute is currently seeking a Geospatial Scientist to support and improve AidData's ongoing efforts to design and implement cutting-edge international development research with geospatial data, methods, and tools. The successful candidate will have at least 3-5 years of research experience, with particular expertise in geospatial information systems (GIS) and remote sensing in developing country contexts. Experience working with high-performance computing environments and machine learning applications is strongly preferred. Experience engaging with policymakers, practitioners, and/or information technology specialists from the global development community is also preferred. Depending on qualifications, the successful applicant may hold an affiliate appointment as research faculty in an appropriate department and/or interdisciplinary program at William and Mary. This position is based in Williamsburg, Virginia.

Responsibilities will include, but not necessarily be limited to the following:

- Designing and undertaking innovative, policy-oriented research on subnational aid distribution and impact, including research that supports existing AidData projects and programs and self-directed research
- Collaborating with a multidisciplinary team of AidData faculty and staff on geospatial impact evaluations, with primary responsibilities for remote sensing measurement and geospatial data management, potentially including machine learning approaches for data production
- Overseeing collection of geographic data (geo-referencing) for international development activities, including technical leadership and management staff and research assistants
- Leading the expansion and ongoing development of AidData's GeoQuery tool and backend infrastructure, with support from AidData and WM staff.

- Publishing articles, working papers, policy briefs, blogs and short commentaries that target the policy community, and engaging in AidData policy outreach activities and speaking engagements
- Working with AidData's leadership team to seek funding and prepare grant proposals
- Supervising and providing mentorship to AidData staff and student research assistants

Special Application Instructions

Candidates must apply via the William & Mary Employment Opportunities portal. For more details and to apply, please visit the position listing at <https://jobs.wm.edu/postings/35980>). Click Apply for this Job to apply with your resume/curriculum vitae, cover letter, and a writing sample in the "Other Documents" field in the Applicant Documents Tab.

Please provide a journal article or working paper that demonstrates your expertise in the use of satellite-based imagery and associated data products (such as those from the Landsat and Sentinel programs and private providers such as DigitalGlobe and Planet). Under Applicant Documents-Writing Sample.

Required Qualifications:

- An advanced degree in geography, GIS, statistics, or a related field
- Expertise in remote sensing, particularly satellite-based imagery and associated data products (such as those from the Landsat and Sentinel programs and private providers such as DigitalGlobe and Planet).
- 3-5 years of relevant experience working for or with an academic institution, a bilateral or multilateral aid agency, non-governmental organization, or think tank
- Demonstrated proficiency and interest in ArcGIS (or QGIS or similar GIS tools), R Studio (or Stata or similar statistical programs), and Python (or similar languages)
- Experience working in a high-performance computing environment (cluster- and/or cloud-based)
- Ability to work collaboratively with social scientists, computer engineers, and program staff
- Strong commitment and understanding of AidData's mission and goals
- Ability to work independently and collaboratively to support AidData projects, programs, or initiatives
- Demonstrated capacity to deliver high-quality policy-relevant publications and products within tight deadlines and budgets;
- Excellent interpersonal skills and leadership qualities;
- Ability to collaborate effectively with inter-disciplinary teams, governments, multilateral institutions, and donors
- Excellent written and oral communication skills in English, including the ability to present complex issues to non-specialist audiences.

Preferred Qualifications:

- A doctoral degree in geography, GIS, statistics, or a related field
- A track record of publishing rigorous, peer-reviewed social science research in a reproducible manner (i.e. making data and statistical code publicly available to enable independent, third party replication)
- Experience working with georeferenced development investment and outcome data
- Familiarity with and interest in machine learning and network analysis
- Ability to integrate sample surveys involving human interviews, administrative data, and/or social media-based data with the aforementioned remotely sensed data to address real-world problems

- Demonstrated experience managing and mentoring data analysts

Equal Employment Opportunity Statement

The College of William & Mary values diversity and invites applications from underrepresented groups who will enrich the research, teaching and service missions of the university. The College is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer and encourages applications from women, minorities, protected veterans, and individuals with disabilities.

Background Check Statement

The College of William & Mary is committed to providing a safe campus community. W&M conducts background investigations for applicants being considered for employment. Background investigations include reference checks, a criminal history record check, and when appropriate, a financial (credit) report or driving history check.

Missouri State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: International Security, Foreign Policy, East Asia

The Department of Political Science at Missouri State University invites applications for a nine-month, tenure-track appointment in International Relations at the assistant professor rank. Candidates whose work focuses on international security will receive special consideration, but we also encourage scholars of foreign policy to apply. We are seeking candidates with a regional specialization in East Asia. Teaching responsibilities will involve both undergraduate courses and graduate seminars in our Masters of Global Studies (MGS) program. The successful candidate will be expected to teach general courses on international relations, courses in their specific IR subfield, and courses on the comparative politics of East Asia. While ABDs will be considered, applicants must have a Ph.D. in political science by the time of appointment in August 2020. The successful candidate will be able to enhance the Public Affairs mission of the University and should demonstrate a commitment to working with diverse student and community populations. Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to teaching and service and possess an identifiable research agenda which demonstrates the potential for a sustained record of scholarship leading to publications in peer-reviewed journals.

The Department of Political Science has 16 full-time faculty members, approximately 150 undergraduate majors and master's programs in both Public Administration and Global Studies. Missouri State University is a selective-admission, comprehensive, and multi-campus university system with an enrollment of over 20,000 students, 150 undergraduate majors, and 47 graduate programs. MSU is located in Springfield, MO, with a metropolitan population of over 400,000, in the heart of the Ozarks region of Southwest Missouri.

Villanova University

Rank: Assistant Professor International Political Economy

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for a tenure track position in International Political Economy at the rank of Assistant Professor starting in the fall semester 2020. Ph.D. in political science is strongly preferred. ABDs in political science or government will be considered; however continued employment is subject to completion of the Ph.D.

Candidates should have a thorough grounding in International Relations and economics and demonstrate the ability to address questions of broad relevance to the global economy. The ability to teach undergraduate research methods is required. Evidence of teaching excellence and promise of a strong record of research and publication are essential. Broad training in political science is expected.

Teaching duties include a 3/2 teaching load for the first three years. After a successful Third Year Review, a one-semester sabbatical is available in the fourth year and the 3/2 teaching load is continued for another three years.

Applicants must apply online at <https://jobs.villanova.edu>. The online application should include a detailed letter of application indicating your interest in and suitability for the position, statements of teaching philosophy and research interests, curriculum vitae, official graduate and undergraduate transcripts, three letters of recommendation, two short writing samples, two syllabi (if available), and evidence of teaching effectiveness. All materials must be received by September 13, 2019. Questions about the position can be directed to the department chair, Dr. Marcus Kreuzer at political.science@villanova.edu.

Candidates interested in arranging an interview at the APSA conference, please send your CV to political.science@villanova.edu no later than August 15. We will notify prospective interviewees by August 20.

Occidental College

Rank: ASSOCIATE/ADVANCED ASSISTANT PROFESSOR in Global Political Economy

A search in Global Political Economy at the Associate Professor with tenure or at the Advanced Assistant levels. We are looking for applicants who have demonstrated an ambitious research and practice agenda with a particular interest in applicants whose work focuses on areas such as the Sustainable Development Goals; Human Rights-based Approaches to Economic Development; Equity/Equality in economic structures (with reference to race, class, identity, and/or gender and the imperative of democratic inclusion); or alternative approaches to studying dominant approaches to international trade, globalization and other topic areas in Global Political Economy. More information on the Young Initiative is here: <https://www.oxy.edu/academics/global-engagement/young-initiative>. The hire will eventually be expected to play a leadership role in the Young Initiative Committee, including its rotating chair-ship.

Priority will be given to applicants who have demonstrated a research agenda that leverages substantial fieldwork with international or regional organizations and/or transnational NGOs. An expectation will be that the hire will continue Occidental College's engagement with on-the-ground work in international affairs, at the local/Los Angeles, transnational, and/or global levels. A priority is the ability to advance the College's mission and an understanding of the distinctiveness of the Liberal Arts culture.

Occidental College is a highly-selective, urban liberal arts college recognized for its diverse student body, its commitment to academic excellence and equity, and its undergraduate research programs. Named one of America's most beautiful campuses, the College is situated in the vibrant neighborhoods of Eagle Rock and Highland Park in Northeast Los Angeles. As one of the few urban liberal arts colleges in the country, Occidental affords students and faculty unique engagement with communities, cultural institutions, and academic resources throughout Los Angeles. Occidental College is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not unlawfully discriminate against employees or applicants on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, pregnancy, breastfeeding or related medical condition, national origin, ancestry, citizenship, age, marital status, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition, genetic characteristic or information, sexual orientation, military and veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by State or Federal Law. We strongly encourage all underrepresented candidates, especially women and persons of color, to apply.

Candidates should send their application as an electronic file to Ms. Chamnan Lim at youngsearch@oxy.edu. A complete application will include the following materials: (1) a cover letter that details the interest in teaching at Occidental and potential linkages to priorities of the Young Initiative in Global Political Economy; (2) a discussion of the applicant's academic research and field practice; (3) a statement of teaching experience and philosophy; (4) a scholarly work sample; (5) Curriculum Vitae; and (6) a list of referees.

All materials are due no later than October 1, 2019; applications received after the deadline will not be reviewed. Interviews of semi-finalists will be held via videoconference.

For information on the Department of Diplomacy & World Affairs, including current course offerings, please visit our website at: <http://www.oxy.edu/diplomacy-world-affairs>. ## University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) has up to 3 postdoctoral positions available for the next four academic years (2019-2020, 2020-2021, 2021-2022, 2022-2023). Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director.

Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and “big data”) to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant’s interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase “cPASS Postdoc Fellow” in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

The Department of Political Science invites applicants for an open rank tenure track position in political science with a concentration in comparative public administration beginning on August 1, 2019. This is a ten-month tenure-track position at our Troy, Alabama location. The minimum qualifications are a Ph.D. in Public Administration/International Relations/Comparative Politics/Political Science, or related field by August 1, 2019 with a research specialization in comparative public administration. The teaching will be in our master's degree (MPA) in public administration as well as undergraduate political science courses, which will be delivered in person as well as online. The job requires that the hire may be asked to teach courses at another Troy location depending on departmental needs. Preferred candidates will have a secondary specialization (such as research methods, or a regional specialization) that can complement our existing faculty strengths. The candidate needs to demonstrate excellence in research and teaching. For best consideration, please submit application documents by October 31, 2019. The position will remain open until filled.

The Department of Political Science at Troy University currently employs twenty-five faculty members who work in three programs: undergraduate political science, graduate international relations, and graduate public administration.

Applicants need to electronically submit a cover letter, CV, writing sample, teaching philosophy, research statement, and arrange to have three reference letters uploaded. Please direct all questions to Dr Terry Anderson at tanderson@troy.edu.

METHODOLOGY

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor. We are open to candidates studying a range of policy areas; candidates should demonstrate an active and rigorous research agenda in their chosen policy specialty. The successful candidate will excel in the classroom and seek ways to integrate their scholarship and teaching. Candidates should be prepared to teach undergraduate courses on U.S. public policy. Candidates who can also expand our course offerings in other areas such as public administration, race & ethnic politics, gender & politics, or urban/local politics would be desirable, as would candidates who could teach research methods or specialized courses in data analytics/science. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester, with the possibility of a course release per year for research after the first year through a competitive proposal process. A Ph.D. is preferred, but the College will consider ABDS if the degree will be granted by time of appointment. Applications received by September 13, 2019, will receive full consideration.

The Department of Political Science is a supportive and dynamic community of scholars and students. The Department has seven tenured or tenure-track members and is conducting searches this year for two additional tenure-track positions. Over 180 students major in Political Science, and another 130 major in the interdisciplinary International Studies program. The Department offers minors in public policy and pre-law which draw students from across a wide range of academic disciplines.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ is a highly selective institution that has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its 6,500 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. The College also offers focused graduate programs in nursing, business, education and English. In 2006, TCNJ was awarded a Phi Beta Kappa chapter—an honor shared by less than 10 percent of colleges and universities nationally. A strong liberal arts core forms the foundation for programs offered through TCNJ's seven schools—Arts & Communication; Business; Education; Humanities & Social Sciences; Science; Nursing, Health, and Exercise Science; and Engineering. TCNJ faculty members are teacher-scholars who share a commitment to the liberal arts. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of NYC and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. TCNJ has 39 major buildings, including the 4th-best college library in the nation, according to the Princeton Review.

Applicants should submit the following materials using the online application system at link: <https://chm.tbe.taleo.net/chm03/ats/careers/v2/viewRequisition?org=TCNJ&cws=37&rid=1016>. A final offer of employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a background investigation.

- 1) A cover letter describing qualifications and research and teaching interests,
- 2) curriculum vitae,
- 3) one scholarly writing sample,
- 4) evidence of teaching effectiveness,
- 5) a statement on diversity and inclusion detailing how diversity and inclusion are incorporated into their work as teachers, scholars, and mentors, and
- 6) contact information for 3-5 references.

Applicants should also have three referees submit confidential letters of recommendation directly to publicpolicysearch-group@tcnj.edu. Questions about the position can be directed to Daniel Bowen (bowend@tcnj.edu), Public Policy Search Committee Chair.

California State Polytechnic University, Pomona
Rank: Assistant Professor -- International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

Subfield(s): International Relations, Comparative Politics, Methodology

Assistant Professor – International Relations and/or Comparative Politics

The Political Science Department in the College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona

(Cal Poly Pomona) invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor for appointment beginning in the 2020-2021 academic year. Candidates specializing in international relations and/or comparative politics are especially encouraged to apply.

At Cal Poly Pomona, we cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation. We demonstrate academic quality, relevance, and excellence through our teaching, learning, scholarship, and creative activities with student-centered faculty in an evidence-based culture. Cal Poly Pomona is committed to being the model for an inclusive polytechnic university that inspires creativity and innovation, embraces local and global challenges, and transforms lives.

The Position

The faculty member will be part of a small, collegial Political Science Department which grants a B.A. degree, and which also has a Master's in Public Administration. The faculty member will primarily teach courses in international relations and/or comparative politics. A faculty member specializing in international relations will be expected to teach courses such as International Law, International Political Economy, and US Foreign Policy. A faculty member specializing in comparative politics will be expected to teach courses in a regional specialization other than Latin America. The ability to teach undergraduate research methods, whether qualitative and/or quantitative, will also be expected. The position requires excellence in teaching and advising, professional and scholarly achievements, and a commitment to service to the university. Applicants whose work demonstrates a commitment to inclusive excellence and diversity in higher education are particularly encouraged to apply. Cal Poly Pomona is a Hispanic-serving institution and the faculty member will be an advisor to many underrepresented minorities and first-generation college students.

Minimum Qualifications

- Ph.D. in Political Science or a related field from an accredited university at the time of appointment
- University teaching experience as instructor of record and/or teaching assistant
- Evidence of scholarly potential (conference presentations, publications, grant development, etc.)
- Evidence of demonstrated ability to contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and/or service and work, as well as experience fostering an inclusive environment

Preferred/Desired Qualifications

Research interests related to social or racial justice, gender inequities, and/or inequality would be a plus. Additionally, preference will be given to candidates who can demonstrate the ability to mentor and advise under-served populations including, but not limited to, African-American, Hispanic, and Native American students.

Application Procedure

The position is open until filled. First consideration will be given to completed applications submitted by Friday, September 13, 2019. Early submission is encouraged. Electronic submissions of all application materials must be submitted online via Interfolio at <https://apply.interfolio.com/65857>.

A completed application will consist of:

- A cover letter that describes the candidate's teaching performance, research experience and interests, and that addresses the duties and qualifications articulated in the position description;
- A curriculum vitae comprising at least those elements specified on the application form and including the names, titles, addresses, email addresses, and telephone numbers of at least five individuals who can speak to the candidate's potential for success in this position;
- A 'Student Success Statement' about your teaching, or other experiences, successes, and challenges working with a diverse student population (approximately one page, single-spaced);
- Three recent letters of reference (on letterhead, signed and dated within the past two years), uploaded through Interfolio;
- A completed application form available on the application website;
- An unofficial transcript showing the highest degree earned from an accredited education institution. Finalists will be required to submit an official transcript; and
- Recent teaching evaluation summaries and sample syllabi, if available.
- Please submit all electronic documents in PDF format.

The University: Cal Poly Pomona is one of two polytechnic universities in the 23-campus California State University system. Our ethnically diverse student population of approximately 22,000 enrolls in 52 baccalaureate, 26 master's degree programs, 11 credential and certificate programs, and a doctorate in Educational Leadership, presented by 1,200 faculty. We recruit students increasingly from throughout California and beyond. The students are success and career focused and extremely diverse. We are proud of our status as a Hispanic Serving Institution. We have a strong commitment to supporting scholarship, research, and student achievement. Our scenic and historic 1,400-acre campus, once the winter ranch of cereal magnate W. K. Kellogg, is located about 30 miles east of downtown Los Angeles in one of the most dynamic economic and cultural regions in the country, and within an hour's drive of beaches, mountains, and desert. The university is committed to diversifying its faculty and staff and has made educational equity one of its highest priorities. The mission of the university is to advance learning and knowledge by linking theory and practice in all disciplines, and to prepare students for lifelong learning, leadership, and careers in a changing, multicultural world.

The College: The College of Letters, Arts, and Social Sciences cultivates one's intellectual development, ethical reasoning, and aesthetic sensibility to support creative and critical thinking in a diverse world of competing challenges. The College offers introductory and advanced course work in numerous degree and certificate programs across the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts. The General Education program offered to all students enrolled in the University is also central to the mission of the College. The College embraces its role in providing courses and curricula in support of multiple and single-subject teaching credential students. The University's mission to "cultivate success through a diverse culture of experiential learning, discovery, and innovation" lies at the heart of the College's commitment to offer programs that educate the whole person. Additional information is available at: <http://www.cpp.edu/-class/>.

The Department: The Department of Political Science has over three hundred and fifty undergraduate political science majors and approximately fifty students in our NASPAA-accredited MPA program. We also offer a Political Science minor and participate significantly in the university's General Education offerings. The Department sponsors a Model United Nations program and a Mock Trial Team, both with a history of national recognition. Members of the Department have traditionally been actively involved across campus and in the community.

Rowan University

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2020. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Washington D.C. and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, seven interdisciplinary programs, and seventeen majors. The College also has a number of established graduate programs and is in the process of developing more programs at the Master's and Doctoral level. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional teaching, research and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2020. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The first full review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/493760/assistant-professor-of-political-science-tenure-track>.

Applications must include a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) has up to 3 postdoctoral positions available for the next four academic years (2019-2020, 2020-2021, 2021-2022, 2022-2023). Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director.

Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and “big data”) to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant’s interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase "cPASS Postdoc Fellow" in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Neuroscience Professor - Open Rank

The Division of Social Science at NYUAD is seeking to hire a faculty member in the area of Social Neuroscience. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. Although the specific area of research is open, the focus should be human research explicitly linked to social processes. Individuals from all academic backgrounds are encouraged to apply (e.g., biology, psychology, economics, political science or sociology). Preference will be given to applicants who use fMRI, EEG, or process tracing methods, whose research reflects the interdisciplinary nature of social science and who can forge linkages to other areas of study both within the Division (i.e., with economists, political scientists and sociologists) and outside the Division.

The facilities available include a state-of-the-art brain- imaging center housing a Siemens Prisma 3T MRI, MEG, EEG, eye tracking and behavioral testing facilities. The successful candidates will also have access to state of the art core facilities that include High Performance Computing facilities with more than 6,400 computing cores and a peak performance of 70 TFLOPS.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format. We will begin consideration of applications October 1st, although review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

Center for American Women and Politics

Rank: Research Project Coordinator II

Subfield(s): Non-Academic, Other, American Government and Politics

Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, is seeking a Research Project Coordinator II for the Center for American Women and Politics (CAWP) at the Eagleton Institute of Politics. CAWP's national and international reputation depends in large part on the accuracy and timeliness of our data and research. In consultation and collaboration with their direct supervisor and senior Center leadership, the Research Project Coordinator II conducts research and data collection/analysis.

Among the key duties of this position are the following:

- Assists scholars and staff at the Center for American Women and Politics with data collection, management, and archiving as well as major research projects, including analysis and writing.
- Contributes to CAWP's research memos and blogs, providing analysis to CAWP data and relevant scholarship (gender, race, and politics) as it pertains to political news and events.
- Responsible for effective maintenance and expansion of CAWP's data on women candidates, elected officials and voters, in addition to yielding accurate and accessible public reporting of CAWP data.

- Oversees surveying and synthesizing new and relevant research from various sources (academia, research institutions, government agencies) to generate written CAWP materials.
- Organizes processes and procedures for gathering and organizing the data in consultation with senior staff and faculty.
- Assists regular CAWP staff meetings and other discussions that affect the research program area, including discussions of organizational or strategic planning.

OPEN

New York University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Wilf Family Department of Politics seeks qualified candidates for two positions, open to subfield. The primary focus of our search is at the tenure track assistant professor level; however, we may consider more senior candidates under certain circumstances. The department seeks outstanding scholars who rigorously approach the systematic study of political phenomena. The positions are to begin September 1, 2020, pending administrative approval.

Qualifications:

Candidates are expected to possess a Ph.D. by September 2020, in political science or a cognate discipline; to have records of excellent research that has been published or otherwise disseminated in a manner appropriate to career stage, and to indicate the potential to be future disciplinary leaders in their respective fields of expertise. Candidates should also have demonstrated ability as excellent teachers at the undergraduate and/or graduate level. NYU is dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community. Accordingly, we strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, research, experience, and service an ability to contribute to this goal, and a commitment to fostering inclusivity and teaching in a university setting.

Application Instructions:

Please apply online at <https://apply.interfolio.com/65911> with a letter of application, a curriculum vitae, three references, a sample of scholarly writing stripped of any identifying information, and teaching, research, and diversity statements (see below). While we will continue to review applications into the fall, candidates seeking the fullest consideration should submit their applications by September 15, 2019. Candidates are strongly encouraged to supply links to their professional websites; this will enhance their applications by allowing the search committee easy access to additional information that might be needed.

For the Diversity Statement: Please describe the ways in which your (1) scholarship, (2) teaching and mentoring, and/or (3) service and engagement demonstrate your commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. We are particularly interested in hearing about (1) concrete steps you have taken (or are planning to take) to foster an inclusive intellectual environment in the classroom, in the department and on campus, and/or in your field more generally, and (2) how these steps connect with your broader views on the topics of diversity, equity, and inclusion.

For the Writing Sample: Please be sure to remove any identifying information (e.g., name and institutional affiliation) from this document.

University of Illinois, Chicago

Rank: Head/Professor-Department of Political Science

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in the University of Illinois at Chicago seeks to recruit an exceptional scholar who can provide effective and visionary leadership as the Head of the Department of Political Science.

The Head is the chief administrative officer of the department with responsibility for instructional programs and for administrative, budgetary, promotion, and recruitment matters. Political Science at UIC has benefited from the presence on campus of the Great Cities Institute, the Institute for the Humanities, the Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy, and other interdisciplinary venues. The ideal Head will work effectively with key units within LAS, the UIC community, and the Chicago metropolitan area to enhance the mission of the Department, the College, and the University.

Located in the heart of one of the world's great cities, the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) is the city's only Carnegie Research 1 public university. UIC has 30,000 students, 15 colleges, a law school, a hospital and a health sciences system. The Department of Political Science has 17 tenured, tenure-track, and clinical faculty, approximately 350 undergraduate majors and minors, 10 M.A. students, and 45 Ph.D. students. See <https://pols.uic.edu/> for more information.

UIC is recognized as having one of the most ethnically and culturally rich college campuses in America. UIC is federally recognized as a Minority Serving Institution (MSI) through its status as an Asian American and Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution (AANAPISI) and a Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI).

Applicants must have a PhD, a distinguished scholarship record commensurate with the rank of full professor, a strong teaching record, and appropriate academic administrative experience. A demonstrated ability to foster collaboration among a diverse group of scholars is highly desirable.

To apply for this position, please complete and submit an online application with the names and e-mail addresses of at least three references, and upload a cover letter, full curriculum vitae, and research and teaching statements at <https://jobs.uic.edu>. Click on the Job Board and then on the job link. To ensure full consideration, application materials must be received by October 1, 2019. Inquiries should be directed to Angie Kessell (apacho5@uic.edu). Final authorization of the position depends upon the availability of funding.

The University of Illinois at Chicago is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer, dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment. We strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and covered veterans. The University of Illinois may conduct background checks on all job candidates upon acceptance of a contingent offer. Background checks will be performed in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

Start Date: Fall 2020Application Deadline: 10/1/2019Date Posted: 7/16/2019Salary: NegotiableeJobs ID: 5785Princeton University*Rank: Postdoctoral Research Associate, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select postdoctoral scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton for an academic year and to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The number of candidates hired will depend on the qualifications of the overall applicant pools. The postdoctoral appointment will be for one academic year for scholars who have received a Ph.D. at an institution outside the United States and, who at the time of application, do not have a tenure-track faculty appointment. The candidates must also demonstrate outstanding scholarly achievement and have exhibited unusual intellectual promise.

During the academic year 2020-21, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally." How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. For centuries, ideas of free trade, human rights or global governance have framed cooperation and competition, order and disorder. Such ideas have also spawned border-crossing movements, from campaigns to end slavery to commitments to reduce carbon emissions. In turn, global thinking and action have often reinforced commitments to national ideas and efforts to curb global exchange. The goal for the 2020-21 cohort will be to explore how ideas framed the understanding of interests and the making of institutions that have yielded commonness and conflict across and within borders. We will also explore how these ideas and practices came into being through scientific networks, foundations, and think tanks. We welcome applicants from all disciplinary and inter-disciplinary fields from the sciences to the humanities whose work addresses this set of themes in any historical period or world region.

Applicants must apply online at <https://www.princeton.edu/acadpositions/position/12281>. Applications are due by November 15, 2019 (11:59 p.m. EST).

To be eligible, post-doctoral applicants must have completed all requirements for their Ph.D. before July 1, 2020 but cannot have more than two years of postdoctoral experience prior to the start of the appointment, September 1, 2020. If a candidate has turned in a final draft of their dissertation but not yet completed their Ph.D. before the start date, they may be temporarily appointed as a Senior Research Assistant with a 10% reduction in salary. Upon providing verification that they have completed all requirements for the Ph.D., they would then be promoted in rank and salary. The postdoctoral selection will be made based on the strength of the candidates' proposed research projects, the relationship of their projects to the program theme, the candidates' scholarly records and their ability to contribute to the intellectual life of the program.

Princeton University

Rank: Visiting Research Scholar, Fung Global Fellows Program

Princeton University is pleased to announce the call for applications to the Fung Global Fellows Program at the Princeton Institute for International and Regional Studies (PIIRS). The program will select both senior scholars and early-career scholars from around the world to be in residence at Princeton to engage in research and discussion around a common theme. The number of candidates hired will depend on the qualifications of the overall applicant pool. The fellowship will be awarded to scholars employed outside the United States who have a faculty appointment, a professional research appointment, or are an established independent scholar in the designated theme of the program, and have exhibited unusual intellectual promise. They will be expected to return to their position after the conclusion of the fellowship. Early career scholars selected will be in residence at Princeton for an academic year; senior scholars selected will be in residence at Princeton between three to ten months during the academic year.

During the academic year 2020-21, the Fung Global Fellows Program theme will be "Thinking Globally." How people have thought about the planet has informed the institutions, norms, and policies that have pulled it together and torn it apart. ## University of Notre Dame

Rank: Faculty Position in the Study of Democracy

The University of Notre Dame's Keough School of Global Affairs invites applications for a tenured or tenure-track faculty position in the study of democracy in any region of the world, including policies and practices related to democratization and regime change. Scholars from a variety of disciplines who are engaged in rigorous social science research will be considered. Applicants should have an interest in contributing to a multi-disciplinary and policy-oriented school. Applicants attracted to a university with a Catholic identity, and minority and female applicants, are especially encouraged to apply. While priority will be given to consideration of junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant professors or non-tenured associate professors), senior applicants may also be considered. A Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree is required at the time of hire.

The successful hire will be based in the Keough School of Global Affairs, and affiliated with the Kellogg Institute for International Studies. Oriented toward research, teaching, and service dedicated to the advancement of integral human development, the Keough School (<http://keough.nd.edu/>) promotes interdisciplinary research on critical issues in global affairs, offers a professional master's degree and undergraduate degrees, and supports doctoral programs. The Kellogg Institute for International Studies (<http://kellogg.nd.edu/>) has for over 35 years been a leading center for interdisciplinary research and programming on issues of democracy and human development.

All applicants are required to submit a letter of interest and a C.V. Junior candidates (ABD, postdoc, assistant or non-tenured associate professors) should also arrange for the submission of three confidential letters of reference, a statement of research, a writing sample, and a teaching statement which includes a summary of any teaching evaluations available.

All application materials must be submitted through the Interfolio/Notre Dame online application system: <http://apply.interfolio.com/65959>

California State University, East Bay

Rank: Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Health Sciences

DUTIES OF THE POSITION: This tenure-track position requires specialized training and/or experience in health policy. Candidates should be able to demonstrate ability to teach one or more core courses in the Health Sciences Major, as well as required and elective courses in the Concentration in Health Policy. The successful applicant must articulate a clear research vision appropriate to the discipline, and demonstrate potential to contribute to an active program of scholarly or creative work, including evidence of productivity which reflect a coherent agenda.

The Department prefers candidates whose research focuses on health policy issues related to environmental influences on population health, particularly climate change. The successful candidate will also be expected to lead efforts in the Department in the development of additional courses and programs both within the Department and in collaboration with other departments that focus on the implications of human-driven changes to the environment and/or climate change on human health. In addition, the successful candidate should be familiar with and willing to teach courses using problem-based learning methodology. Applicants should note that teaching assignments at Cal State East Bay may include courses at the Hayward, Concord, and Online campuses. In addition to teaching, all faculty have advising responsibilities, assist the department with administrative and/or committee work, and are expected to assume campus-wide committee responsibilities.

RANK AND SALARY: Assistant Professor. Salary is dependent upon educational preparation and experience. Subject to budgetary authorization.

DATE OF APPOINTMENT: Fall Semester, 2020.

QUALIFICATIONS: The Department of Health Sciences seeks candidates who are aligned with its mission of building knowledge and skills necessary to practice in both population health and clinical settings. Candidates are required to have an earned doctorate no later than the effective date of the appointment. The successful applicant must have a cogent research agenda, specialized training, and/or experience in health policy. Applicants with an interdisciplinary focus complementing existing faculty strengths in health law, health policy, and public health are preferred.

Candidates must be able to demonstrate either successful teaching experience at the university level or promise in this area. The undergraduate major in Health Sciences employs a new curriculum based on problem-based learning; the Department seeks innovative and enthusiastic candidates to help build on this pedagogical foundation. It also prefers candidates with experience in course design, curriculum development, blended learning, case-based instruction, and an ability to use technology as a teaching and learning tool.

Applicants must demonstrate a record of scholarly activity. The Department is interested in individuals who have an interest in environmental issues, particularly climate change, and their impacts on human health from the perspective of health policy. Candidates must articulate a strong research agenda and should demonstrate potential to secure extramurally funded research.

Candidates should demonstrate experience in teaching, mentoring, research, and community service that has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. Additionally, applicants must demonstrate a record of scholarly activity. This University is fully committed to the rights of students, staff and faculty with disabilities in accordance with applicable state and federal laws. For more information about the University's program supporting the rights of our students with disabilities see: <http://www20.csueastbay.edu/af/departments/as/>

MIT Sloan School of Management

Rank: Open Faculty Position

The Work and Organization Studies (WOS) group at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) Sloan School is seeking to hire faculty members to start July 1, 2020, or soon thereafter, whose teaching and research focus on work, employment, and organizational issues. The rank is open and both junior and senior candidates will be considered.

Faculty responsibilities include teaching courses related to work and organization studies. WOS has current teaching needs in courses on organizational processes, power and influence, as well as courses on work and employment issues.

The WOS faculty is interdisciplinary and the new hire's background is open and might include sociology, organizational behavior, industrial relations, social psychology, political science, or economics. Candidates must possess, or be close to completion of, a Ph.D. in one of these, or another closely related field, at the start of employment.

WOS builds on the traditions of Organization Studies and the Institute for Work and Employment Research and has Ph.D. programs in both areas. We are open to a variety of styles of research (quantitative, ethnographic, field based, and lab based). (For more information about our group, go to: <https://mitsloan.mit.edu/faculty/academic-groups/work-and-organization-studies/about-us>).

The WOS group is part of the Behavioral and Policy Sciences Area, one of three major academic areas at Sloan. We encourage multidisciplinary work with colleagues in other parts of the School, and several members of the group are also members of other groups/units in the School (Communication; Economic Sociology; Technological Innovation, Entrepreneurship, and Strategy Management; System Dynamics; Global Economics and Management; and Information Technology).

Please submit applications electronically at <https://apply.interfolio.com/65628> providing a cover letter outlining interests and experience, a current CV, and one or two papers that indicate your research focus and capabilities. Applicants should also arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted via this link. Applications will be reviewed as received but are due no later than September 13, 2019.

MIT is an equal opportunity employer committed to building a culturally diverse and pluralistic intellectual community and strongly encourages applications from women and minorities.

University of Connecticut: Avery Point Campus

Rank: Assistant Professor in Residence

The Department of Political Science at the University of Connecticut invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in Residence at the University's Avery Point Campus with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2020.

The University of Connecticut (UConn) is engaged in a transformational period of growth supported by the $1.7B Next Generation Connecticut (<http://nextgenct.uconn.edu/>) and the $1B Bioscience Connecticut (<http://biosciencect.uchc.edu/>) investments and a bold new Academic Plan: Path to Excellence (http://issuu.com/uconnprovost/docs/academic-plan-single-hi-optimized\_1). We are pleased to continue these investments by inviting applications for a position at the Avery Point campus.

We seek an engaging and excellent instructor of Political Science with demonstrated interest or experience in environmental studies, especially related to marine or coastal environments, or in maritime studies. This position is intended to contribute to the general education of our undergraduate students and also provides an opportunity to work closely with our Maritime Studies and American Studies programs at Avery Point.

Avery Point, a land and sea grant institution, offers all the benefits of a prestigious public research university in a small, liberal arts college setting. Avery Point provides specialized programs that take advantage of the campus's waterfront location and delivers an exceptional education in more traditional areas of study. On-campus partners such as the Connecticut Institute for Resilience and Climate Adaptation, Connecticut Sea Grant and the Mystic Aquarium make available opportunities for collaboration both in and out of the classroom.

Avery Point contributes to the understanding - and solution - of problems relating to the intersection of the environment and people, both through the expertise of faculty and the education of students who will help ensure sustainable uses of environmental and marine resources as well as coastal regions and cities. In addition to supporting the University's graduate and undergraduate programs, the Avery Point campus places special emphasis on marine and maritime-oriented undergraduate curricula, as well as programs responsive to the needs of its significant corporate and industrial constituencies, and its unique regional economic and cultural characteristics.

Assistant Professors in Residence carry a course load of 21 credits per academic year or equivalent.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

A Ph.D. in Political Science or related field completed by start date; demonstrated experience in environmental or maritime politics; evidence or promise of a strong teaching record; and a deep commitment to promoting diversity through the applicant's academic and research programs. All candidates must demonstrate promise in their research program. Equivalent foreign degrees are acceptable.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants who can teach courses in a broad range of subfields are preferred. Preference will be given to candidates who have demonstrated experience in marine environmental politics. Preferred qualifications also include an outstanding record of research and scholarship excellence; commitment to effective teaching, integrating technology into instruction, online instruction; and the ability to contribute through research, teaching, and/or public engagement to the diversity and excellence of the learning experience.

APPOINTMENT TERMS

This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure track position with an anticipated start date of August 23, 2020. Position may be renewed annually. Applicants will be subject to formal review by the Department of Political Science. APiR applicants can pursue promotion to Associate and full Professor in Residence. The successful candidate's academic appointment will be at the Avery Point campus.

WZB Berlin Social Science Center*Rank: Director (f/m/x) in the field of democracy research

The Wissenschaftszentrum Berlin für Sozialforschung (WZB Berlin Social Science Center) is one of Germany's leading non-university research institutions for problem-centered, fundamental social science research. It is publicly funded and a member of the Leibniz Association. The WZB supports research with a focus on the development, problems, and opportunities for innovation in a globalizing world. Research at the WZB is both theory-driven and practice-oriented. It is characterized by long-term projects based on multi-disciplinary cooperation, international comparison, and transnational perspectives. The current research areas at the WZB are: Dynamics of Social Inequalities; Markets and Choice; Digitalization and Societal Transformation; International Politics and Law; Dynamics of Political Systems; Migration and Diversity; and Political Economy of Development.

The WZB seeks to establish a new research department and to fill the position of Director (f/m/x) in the field of democracy research at the earliest possible date.

The goal of this call is to appoint a world class scholar in the social sciences. Applicants must have a distinguished record of research excellence, as evidenced by outstanding international publications and other scholarly activities. They must also have an interest in developing an ambitious social science research agenda and setting up and leading a research team. Potential candidates will be expected to demonstrate a proven track record in the supervision of doctoral theses and career development of young researchers. He/she should be well established within the international academic community and willing to speak publicly to issues of democracy in Germany and Europe.

The new department should address fundamental questions in the field of democracy research, broadly interpreted. With its theory-driven empirical orientation, the research department should be able to cooperate with others in the WZB's environment of interdisciplinary social science research. Applicants are expected to present their vision for a long-term social science research agenda in relation to other research units at the WZB.

Ideally, the successful applicant will be appointed to a Special Professorship (W3) at a university. To this end, the successful applicant must meet the qualifications for appointment as a university professor. In general, the number of teaching hours will be 2 hours per week.

The WZB is committed to providing opportunities to people from all backgrounds to help create a welcoming and inclusive community. To this end, the WZB explicitly encourages women, persons with a migrant background, and people with disabilities to apply.

Applications should be submitted to the President of the WZB Berlin Social Science Center

Prof. Dr. h. c. Jutta Allmendinger, Ph.D.

Columbia University*Rank: Postdoctoral Research Fellow

Subfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Other

The Harriman Institute of Columbia University invites applications for a Russian Politics postdoctoral fellowship. This fellowship is for the academic years 2019-21 and is open to scholars conducting research in Russian politics. The fellowship will cover a 21-months period beginning October 1, 2019, and comes with a salary of $50,000/year (with benefits). This postdoctoral fellowship is provisional and contingent upon Harriman's receipt of a grant.

Requirements

The Russian Politics Postdoctoral Fellow's responsibilities would be to develop and coordinate the policy seminars (AY 2019-2020 and AY 2020-2021) with Professors Timothy Frye, Joshua Tucker (NYU), Elise Giuliano, and Alexander Cooley. The Fellow is required to be in residence in the New York City area.

Eligibility

We encourage applications from Social Science disciplines. The applicant's research must focus on Russian politics.

Fellowships are open to young scholars who have received (or will have received) a Ph.D. in a relevant discipline from July 31, 2016 to June 30, 2019 and do not hold a tenure-track position.

Recipients must complete all their Ph.D. requirements (completed and deposited the dissertation) by August 30, 2019.

Application Process

The following list of materials is required for all applicants:

- Curriculum Vitae.
- Research proposal: 2-3 page statement describing the research project you would pursue at Columbia University if awarded a fellowship, indicating its relation (if any) to your doctoral dissertation, as well as its relation to the mission of the Harriman Institute.
- A writing sample, such as an article or dissertation chapter.
- Letters of recommendation: 2 letters of reference that include an evaluation of your research and teaching proposals.
- Previous Education: Indicate on your curriculum vitae each college and university you have attended, with the inclusive dates.

All application materials (including letters of reference) must be received by the Institute on or before August 18, 2019. Candidates may be invited for a phone interview. All evaluations made in connection with applications received are confidential.

Awards will be announced no later than September 3, 2019.

Please send completed application materials by email in a single PDF file to Xan Faber at xlf2101@columbia.edu. Letters of recommendation should be sent separately by the referees to Ms. Faber by that deadline. For questions, please contact Xan Faber at 212-854-6219.

Arizona State University

Rank: Postdoctoral Research Scholar

Arizona State University (ASU - Tempe) seeks applications for a one-year postdoctoral research scholar in Political Economy, located in the Center for the Study of Economic Liberty (CSEL) and the School of Politics and Global Studies (SPGS). This position has an anticipated Fall 2019 start date. This is a full time benefits-eligible, academic year appointment, and has the possibility of a one-year renewal.

The postdoctoral research scholar will develop his or her own research, in addition to contributing to ongoing research of faculty mentor(s) within CSEL and SPGS. Specifically, the postdoc will assist with two ongoing faculty research projects. The first examines determinants of support for democracy; the second focuses on corruption in governance in the former Soviet Union. Teaching is not required; however, the postdoc will have opportunities to teach in SPGS if desired. The candidate's individual research topics may include, but are not limited to: The political economy of development and democratization; urbanization and migration; electoral protest and violence; civil conflict and repression. Strong writing skills, an ongoing independent research agenda, and a record of presenting at national and international conferences are required. The ideal candidate will have skills in advanced quantitative and survey research methods. Area studies expertise in the former Soviet Union is desired but not required. We anticipate that the postdoc will be an active participant in workshops, conferences and events at CSEL and SPGS.

Qualifications

Minimum Qualifications: Must possess a Ph.D. by time of appointment in Political Science, Sociology, or Economics.

Desired Qualifications: Strong writing skills; presentations skills developed at conferences; skills in advanced quantitative and survey research methods; and possession of an independent research agenda. Area studies expertise in the former Soviet Union desired but not required.

About the Position:

The Department of Political Science invites applications from qualified candidates for a Tier 2 CRC Chair appointment in Diversity and Politics in Global North Democracies at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning July 1, 2020. The Department seeks an emerging scholar specializing in Indigenous, racialized, and/or gendered dimensions of political processes and institutions in democracies in the Global North and, in particular scholars whose research focus includes Canadian politics. An appointment with tenure is possible, depending on qualifications of the successful candidate.

Tier 2 Chairs are intended for exceptional emerging researchers (i.e. candidate will typically be less than 10 years from their highest degree at the time of nomination, or more than 10 years and has experienced legitimate career interruptions), acknowledged by their peers as having potential to lead in their field. Applicants who are more than 10 years from their highest degree may have their eligibility for a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair assessed through the program's Tier 2 justification process (<http://www.chairs-chaires.gc.ca/>). Carleton's research grants office can also provide more information (<https://carleton.ca/coris/>).

The successful candidate will work with the Faculty of Public Affairs to prepare the application for the Tier 2 CRC Chair. Academic appointment is conditional on the approval of the application by the CRC Program.

About the Academic Unit:

The Department of Political Science is a research-intensive unit, particularly proud of its pathbreaking tradition and continuing strength in the study of gender and politics, including establishing one of Canada's first political science PhD fields in Gender and Diversity. For more information , please visit: <https://carleton.ca/polisci/>.

Qualifications:

The successful applicant will possess:

- a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;
- an outstanding record of research and peer-reviewed publications on diversity and politics, relative to stage of career;
- a record of high-quality teaching and supervision, appropriate to stage of career;
- commitment to continuing improvement and excellence in teaching;
- capacity to attract external research funding;

Application Instructions:

Please submit your application electronically in three PDF files, including: (1) a cover letter and CV; (2) a statement of research interests and samples of research, ideally including peer-reviewed publications; and (3) a teaching portfolio with evidence of teaching experience. Please identify any past experiences in supporting equity, diversity and inclusion in your previous institutional environment such as in curriculum development and in supporting diverse students. Applicants should also arrange to have three referees send supporting letters electronically.

All application materials should be directed to: Ms. Sandy Herbert, Department Administrator, Department of Political Science, Carleton University at sandy.herbert@carleton.ca.

To help us develop our equity programs, a confidential equity and diversity self-identification survey will be sent to all applicants separately.

Please indicate in your application if you are a Canadian citizen or permanent resident of Canada.

About Carleton University:

Carleton University is a dynamic and innovative research and teaching institution with a national and international reputation as a leader in collaborative teaching and learning, research and governance. With over 30,000 students in more than 100 programs of study, we encourage creative risk-taking, discovery, and the generation of transformative knowledge. We are proud to be one of the most accessible campuses in North America and our Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities has been heralded as the gold standard for disability support services in Canada. To learn more about our university and the Ottawa, please visit www.carleton.ca/about.

We are strongly committed to equity, diversity, and inclusion in the nomination and appointment process. Carleton University is committed to fostering diversity within its community as a source of excellence, cultural enrichment, and social strength. We welcome those who would contribute to the further diversification of our university including, but not limited to: women; visible minorities; First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples; persons with disabilities; and persons of any sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression. Carleton understands that career paths vary. Legitimate career interruptions will in no way prejudice the assessment process and their impact will be carefully considered.

Applicants selected for an interview are asked to contact the Chair as soon as possible to discuss any accommodation requirements. Arrangements will be made in a timely manner.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. All positions are subject to budgetary approval.

University of California, San Diego

Rank: Postdoctoral Fellow

Subfield(s): International Relations, Methodology, Other

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (cPASS) has up to 3 postdoctoral positions available for the next four academic years (2019-2020, 2020-2021, 2021-2022, 2022-2023). Each position is also renewable at the discretion of the cPASS Director.

Research at cPASS targets new and emerging security issues such as emerging modes of conflict and new modes of deterrence. cPASS is devoted to applying innovative thinking and diverse methodologies (experiments, deductive modeling, statistical analysis, case studies, archival research and “big data”) to traditional security issues made more dynamic and difficult by the increased complexity of interstate competition and conflict. We emphasize a team-based, multi-method approach to research that combines qualitative and quantitative perspectives.

Postdocs will work closely with the Center Director in conducting cPASS research activities such as data collection, analysis, preparing project reports and manuscripts for peer-reviewed journals, preparing and delivering oral presentations to diverse audiences, overseeing qualitative research or supervising project labs, and mentoring graduate and undergraduate research activities.

Applicants are required to have a PhD in hand at the time of appointment. A degree in Political Science, History, International Relations, Economics, or allied field is anticipated but other specialties may be appropriate, depending on an applicant’s interests and skills. Candidates will be assessed based on their expertise and knowledge of different key aspects of security studies and their ability to contribute to a diversified, integrated research team.

The initial period of appointment will be for 12 months from the date of appointment. Renewal is possible with the approval of the Center Director. Some flexibility exists as to start date, but candidates should expect to be in residence in San Diego throughout the appointment. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Interested applicants should provide a letter describing their qualifications and the reasons for interest in the position. A printed copy of a curriculum vitae is also required. Additional materials may be requested after initial review. Please send all materials to the following email address (jml110@ucsd.edu). Please ensure to include the phrase “cPASS Postdoc Fellow” in the subject heading. Review of applications will be ongoing.

New York University Abu Dhabi

Rank: Social Neuroscience Professor - Open Rank

The Division of Social Science at NYUAD is seeking to hire a faculty member in the area of Social Neuroscience. This tenure/tenure-track appointment is open rank. Although the specific area of research is open, the focus should be human research explicitly linked to social processes. Individuals from all academic backgrounds are encouraged to apply (e.g., biology, psychology, economics, political science or sociology). Preference will be given to applicants who use fMRI, EEG, or process tracing methods, whose research reflects the interdisciplinary nature of social science and who can forge linkages to other areas of study both within the Division (i.e., with economists, political scientists and sociologists) and outside the Division.

The facilities available include a state-of-the-art brain- imaging center housing a Siemens Prisma 3T MRI, MEG, EEG, eye tracking and behavioral testing facilities. The successful candidates will also have access to state of the art core facilities that include High Performance Computing facilities with more than 6,400 computing cores and a peak performance of 70 TFLOPS.

NYUAD expects successful candidates to publish in high quality internationally refereed journals. The terms of employment are very competitive and include generous start-up and on-going research funds, as well as housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Faculty may also spend an occasional semester at NYU New York and other sites of the global network, engaging in both research and teaching activities.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, a statement of research plans, a statement of teaching interests and three representative publications. To complete the online process, early career applicants will be prompted to enter the names and email addresses of at least three referees. Each referee will be contacted to upload their reference letter. Senior candidates should provide a list of three references in PDF format. We will begin consideration of applications October 1st, although review of applications will continue until the position is filled.

About NYUAD

New York University has established itself as a Global Network University. The network has three foundational degree-granting campuses: New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, complemented by a network of eleven research and study-away sites across five continents. Our students are drawn from around the world and surpass all traditional recruitment benchmarks, both US and global. Our goal is to develop a cohort of international students attuned to and educated for an inclusive global society. Students and Faculty will circulate within the global network in pursuit of common research interests and the promotion of cross-cultural and interdisciplinary solutions for problems both local and global.

Since its inception, NYU Abu Dhabi has recruited a cohort of faculty who are distinguished in their research and teaching. NYU Abu Dhabi's highly selective liberal arts enterprise is complemented by an institute for advanced research, sponsoring cutting-edge projects across the Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, Sciences, and Engineering. The Institute will invest significant funds in creating a hub for research related to social, economic, and political development in the broader region; applications from candidates with an ambition to contribute to this agenda are especially welcome.

UAE Nationals are encouraged to apply.

POLITICAL THEORY

Oberlin College

Rank: Visiting Assistant Professor

Specializations: Ethnic & Feminist Theory, Political Theory, Political Thought: Historical

The Oberlin College Politics Department invites applications for a non-continuing position for Spring semester 2020 in Political Theory. Appointment to this position will be for one semester and will carry the rank of Visiting Assistant Professor or Visiting Instructor depending on the qualifications of the candidate.

The Politics Department has thirteen full-time faculty positions and approximately 120 junior and senior majors. Information about the Department can be found at our web site: <http://www.oberlin.edu/politics/>

The incumbent will teach three courses in the general area of political theory. We seek someone who would be able to teach courses covering the history of European political thought. In addition, expertise in one or more of the following would be welcome: environmental political theory; feminist theory; queer theory; critical race theory; colonialism and postcolonialism; and citizenship.

Among the qualifications required for this appointment is the Ph.D. degree in hand or in progress (ABD). Candidates must demonstrate interest and potential excellence in undergraduate teaching. Successful teaching experience at the college level is desirable.

Within the range established for this position, salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience and includes an excellent benefits package.

To apply, candidates should visit the online application site found at <https://jobs.oberlin.edu>.

A complete application will be comprised of 1) a Cover Letter that includes an articulation of the applicant's teaching philosophy; 2) a Curriculum Vitae; 3) Unofficial transcript; 4) Writing Sample; 5) Evidence of Teaching; and, 6) Letters of Reference from three (3) recommenders.

All application materials must be submitted electronically through Oberlin College and Conservatory's online application process at: <https://jobs.oberlin.edu/>

Bard College

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Studies - Political Theory

The Political Studies program at Bard College invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position in Political Theory at the rank of assistant professor, to begin Fall 2020. The search is open to all areas of specialization within Political Theory, though we are seeking candidates whose teaching and research will complement rather than replicate the program's current strengths in Arendtian and American political thought. Applicants should be able to teach courses in canonical traditions of Political Theory, but we especially welcome applications from candidates who can bring critical approaches to the canon, focusing on race, gender and/or non-Western political thought. A candidate who is able to speak across the subfields of Political Science and to the wider social science and humanities communities at the College is especially welcome. Our program's concern with issues of social justice leads us to invest in recruiting colleagues who in their scholarship, teaching and service demonstrate experience with, knowledge of and sensitivity to the needs of culturally diverse populations and who are committed to working with students holding a range of worldviews. The successful candidate will be expected to have completed all the requirements for the doctoral degree by August 2020. Review of applications will begin on September 6, 2019. To apply, please submit a cover letter, curriculum vitae, a sample of written work, a teaching portfolio (including sample syllabi and student evaluations), and three letters of recommendation to <http://apply.interfolio.com/65906>. Candidates who would like to be considered for an optional preliminary interview at APSA should submit their application materials by August 10th. Bard College is a highly selective co-educational liberal arts college located in the Hudson Valley, 90 miles north of New York City. For more information on Bard, visit www.bard.edu. Bard College is an equal opportunity employer and is especially interested in candidates whose record of achievement will contribute to the diversity goals of the institution.

COMMITMENT TO EQUITY AND DIVERSITY

McGill University hires on the basis of merit and is strongly committed to equity and diversity within its community. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to productively engage with diverse communities.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, Professor Angela Campbell, Associate Provost (Equity and Academic Policies) by email or phone at 514-398-1660.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Il est à la recherche de candidats qualifiés en politiques autochtones, œuvrant dans toute discipline relevant des sciences politiques. Une solide expérience en études autochtones, plus précisément en méthodologie et en recherche communautaire, constitue un atout.

Le candidat retenu sera titulaire d'un poste menant à la permanence au sein du Département de sciences politiques (www.mcgill.ca/politicalscience) et travaillera en étroite collaboration avec l'équipe du Programme d'études autochtones (www.mcgill.ca/indigenous).

Ce poste s'inscrit dans une initiative de mise en valeur des études autochtones à l'Université, qui émane du Bureau du vice-principal exécutif et vice-principal aux études. Le candidat retenu se joindra à un réseau grandissant de membres du personnel enseignant qui ont à cœur de faire croître la recherche et l'enseignement axés sur les communautés autochtones.

L'Université McGill se trouve en territoire Kanien'kehà:ka non cédé, qui a longtemps servi de lieu de rencontre et d'échange entre les peuples autochtones, y compris les nations Haudenosaunee et Anishinabeg. Nous reconnaissons et remercions les divers peuples autochtones dont les pas ont marqué ce territoire sur lequel les peuples du monde entier se réunissent maintenant.

La date d'entrée en fonction est le 1er août 2020. Les demandes de renseignements au sujet de ce poste doivent être envoyées à la Pre Juliet Johnson, directrice du département, à juliet.johnson@mcgill.ca.

Fonctions du poste

Enseignement, recherche et attributions diverses au sein du Département de sciences politiques et du Programme d'études autochtones

Compétences et formation exigées

Le candidat doit posséder un doctorat dans une discipline pertinente ou être sur le point de l'obtenir. À l'Université McGill, la langue d'enseignement est l'anglais, mais la connaissance d'une ou de plusieurs langue(s) autochtone(s) ou du français est un atout.

La préférence sera accordée aux personnes d'identité autochtone.

---

Type de poste : Poste menant à la permanence

Rang : Professeur adjoint ou agrégé

Catégorie de poste : Temps plein

Salaire :

Le salaire sera déterminé en fonction de la compétence et de l'expérience de la personne retenue.

Date limite :

Toutes les demandes reçues d'ici le 1er octobre 2019 seront examinées; ensuite, les demandes seront étudiées sur une base continue jusqu'à ce que le poste soit pourvu.

---

Les candidatures doivent être soumises à : <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/13446>

Le dossier de candidature doit comprendre les documents suivants :

- une lettre de présentation et un curriculum vitae;
  - un énoncé sur les intérêts de recherche;
  - un extrait d'un texte du candidat (de la longueur d'un article ou d'un chapitre);
  - un énoncé sur les responsabilités et réalisations en matière d'enseignement accompagné, si possible, d'évaluations et de plans de cours;
  - une déclaration personnelle du candidat portant sur les identités autochtones et sur les liens qui l'unissent aux communautés autochtones; et
  - trois lettres de recommandation de personnes pouvant fournir des références.

ADHÉSION AUX PRINCIPES D'ÉQUITÉ ET DE DIVERSITÉ

L'Université McGill recrute en fonction du mérite et souscrit sans réserve à l'équité et à la diversité au sein de sa communauté. Elle accueille favorablement les demandes d'emploi des personnes racisées et des minorités visibles, des femmes, des personnes autochtones, des personnes en situation de handicap, des minorités ethniques, des personnes de toute orientation sexuelle et identité de genre ainsi que de toute personne possédant les aptitudes et les connaissances lui permettant de travailler en collaboration avec diverses communautés.

En outre, McGill reconnaît et prend équitablement en considération l'incidence des congés (p. ex., obligations familiales ou congés pour raisons de santé) qui peuvent entraîner des interruptions ou des ralentissements de carrière. Les candidats sont encouragés à signaler tout congé ayant eu une incidence sur leur rendement et pouvant avoir modifié leur parcours de carrière. Ces renseignements seront pris en compte aux fins d'évaluation équitable de leur dossier.

L'Université McGill dispose d'un programme d'équité en matière d'emploi et invite les membres des groupes visés à indiquer leur appartenance à ces derniers dans leur dossier de candidature. Elle tient également à s'assurer que les personnes en situation de handicap reçoivent un traitement équitable et puissent pleinement s'intégrer à la vie universitaire en ayant à cœur de mettre en œuvre les principes de conception universelle dans toutes les sphères d'activité de l'Université, conformément aux politiques et procédures relatives aux aménagements. Les personnes en situation de handicap qui pourraient avoir besoin de certains aménagements pour soumettre leur candidature sont invitées à communiquer en toute confidentialité avec la professeure Angela Campbell, vice-principale exécutive adjointe (équité et politiques académiques), par courriel ou par téléphone, au 514 398-1660.

Tous les candidats qualifiés sont invités à postuler. Toutefois, conformément aux exigences de l'immigration canadienne, la priorité sera accordée aux Canadiens ainsi qu'aux résidents permanents.

Yale-NUS College

Rank: J. Y. Pillay Chairs in the Social Sciences

Appointment J. Y. Pillay Chairs in the Social Sciences

Position Description Yale-NUS College is a liberal arts college of 1000 students, with approximately 100 full-time faculty. The College is a collaboration between the National University of Singapore and Yale University. Yale-NUS students are intellectually elite, with an acceptance rate of <7%, and extremely international, representing 66 countries. They go through a unique and rigorous Common Curriculum that combines Western and Eastern traditions with contemporary skills.

We will appoint two senior scholars as J. Y. Pillay Professors in the Social Sciences. The J. Y. Pillay chairs, established in honour of Professor J. Y. Pillay, an eminent policy maker and corporate leader in Singapore, are for scholars who are at the forefront of research and education in their field. These chairs positions are available for both fulltime tenured and short-term visiting appointments.

We encourage applicants in any field/discipline of the social sciences but are prioritizing political studies in this year's search. We welcome applications from scholars working in all areas of political science, political economy, or political thought, including those whose research bridges different disciplines. We would, for example, be interested to hear from scholars whose work explores tensions between liberal democracy and authoritarian rule, whether as a question for political theory or a subject for empirical research. Regardless of subject, we expect applicants to explain why the research they are doing is significant.

The J Y Pillay Professors will join in developing and teaching our programmes in Philosophy, Politics and Economics (PPE) and Global Affairs. They will also contribute to the College's distinctive Common Curriculum (<http://www.yale-nus.edu.sg/curriculum/common-curriculum>). They will provide academic leadership through their research and teaching by engaging in significant research, teaching well, helping to develop the curriculum in the College, and mentoring other faculty. The College places emphasis on productive and impactful research programs, akin to other top liberal arts colleges in the world.

The appointee will be expected to begin duties in time for the start of the 2020-2021 academic year.

Faculty receive salaries that are competitive with the most prestigious liberal arts colleges in the world, a substantial start-up grant as well as a yearly travel and research allowance, and are able to access additional funding from Yale-NUS, National University of Singapore, and Singapore's Ministry of Education. Most international faculty qualify for highly subsidized faculty housing. Yale-NUS College is located in Singapore, a multicultural city of six million that is known for its high quality of life and sits at the heart of a vibrant region.

Application Procedure

Applications should consist of the following: a cover letter explaining why the position at Yale-NUS is of interest; a full curriculum vitae, including a complete list of publications; statements on research interests, teaching experience, and teaching philosophy, including how these might fit with the College's particular mission and curriculum; names and contact information of three academic referees; and other relevant documents.

Applications should be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/YaleNUS>.

Review of applications begins in August 2019 and continues until the positions are filled. For general enquiries, please email: Enquiry_SocialSciencesDiv@yale-nus.edu.sg

Equal Opportunity Employer

Yale-NUS College achieves excellence through the diversity of its students, faculty, and staff and by embracing inclusivity, equity, and global engagement. We encourage applications by diverse individuals with a demonstrated commitment to continually support these values. For more information about the College, please visit <https://www.yale-nus.edu.sg>

Yale-NUS College

Rank: Three Tenure-Track or Tenured (open rank: assistant, associate, full and endowed professors) faculty positions in Global Affairs/Philosophy, Politics and Economics (PPE)

Appointment Three Tenure-Track or Tenured (open rank: assistant, associate, full and endowed professors) faculty positions in Global Affairs/Philosophy, Politics and Economics (PPE)

Position Description Yale-NUS College is a collaboration between the National University of Singapore and Yale University, offering a liberal arts curriculum combining Western and Eastern traditions with contemporary skills. Our community of 1000 students represent 66 countries and are intellectually elite, with an acceptance rate of & lt;7%. Our 100 full-time faculty teach two small seminars per semester, with a guaranteed pre-tenure sabbatical and generous research support. The College invites outstanding applications for at least three open rank, tenure-track or tenured positions in the social sciences. Candidates would teach in our Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) and / or Global Affairs (GA) majors, as well as in Yale-NUS's flagship common curriculum (<http://www.yale-nus.edu.sg/curriculum/common-curriculum>).

For GA, we particularly welcome applications from scholars who can teach international development or international/comparative political economy or quantitative methods, or who have regional expertise in the Middle East, Africa, or Latin America.

For PPE, evidence of scholarship or teaching that integrates two or more PPE fields (politics, economics, philosophy) would be an asset. Applicants require a PhD in a relevant discipline, such as politics, economics, sociology, development studies, or geography. They should be active researchers with a commitment to creative and effective undergraduate teaching and mentoring. The College places emphasis on productive and impactful research programs, akin to other top liberal arts colleges in the world. The appointee will be expected to begin duties in the 2020-2021 academic year.

Outstanding candidates at the junior level will be considered for the NUS Presidential Young Professorship. Outstanding senior candidates will be considered for a JY Pillay Chair in the Social Sciences - <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/13904>.

Faculty receive highly competitive salaries, a generous start-up grant, and yearly travel and research allowance, with access on a competitive basis to substantial additional grant funding. Most qualify for subsidized housing. Yale-NUS College is located in Singapore, a vibrant, multicultural city of six million, with a very high quality of life.

Application Procedure

Applications should include a cover letter; a full curriculum vitae; a research statement; a teaching philosophy statement; and teaching evaluations (if available). These should be submitted via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/YaleNUS>. The cover letter should: indicate for which position(s) the candidate wishes to be considered, explain the interest in Yale-NUS, and how the candidate's experience and expertise might fit with our mission and curriculum.

Additionally, applicants for the tenure-track position should ensure that three (3) academic referees submit a letter via <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/YaleNUS>. For tenured positions, applicants should provide names and contact information of three (3) academic referees.

Review of complete applications will begin August 1, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. Inquiries should be made to the Social Sciences Divisional Manager at Enquiry_SocialSciencesDiv@yale-nus.edu.sg.

Equal Opportunity Employer

Yale-NUS College achieves excellence through the diversity of its students, faculty, and staff and by embracing inclusivity, equity, and global engagement. We encourage applications by diverse individuals with a demonstrated commitment to continually support these values.

Bucknell University's Department of Political Science invites applications for a tenure-track position in political theory beginning in the fall semester of 2020. We expect to hire at the Assistant Professor level but are open to considering outstanding candidates at other ranks. We seek candidates whose scholarly and teaching interests include American political thought. The successful candidate will be prepared to teach a core course in political theory, a course in American political thought, and other courses in the candidate's areas of specialization.

We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the department's commitment to both diversity and academic excellence. Evidence of teaching experience and excellence as well as the promise of being a productive scholar are critically important. The teaching load is five courses over two semesters. By the start date of the position, candidates are expected to have a Ph.D. in Political Science with a sub-field specialization in political theory, but ABD candidates will also be considered with the understanding that the Ph.D. must be completed before the beginning of the second year.

For additional information and to apply, please go to careers.-bucknell.edu. The application should include a cover letter, CV, statement of teaching philosophy, statement of commitment to diversity, three letters of recommendation, graduate transcripts, sample publications or papers, course evaluations, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Questions about the position should be addressed by email to: Professor Scott Meinke at smeinke@bucknell.edu. The review of applications will begin on September 23, 2019.

Candidates who wish to meet for an optional preliminary interview at APSA should email a CV to smeinke@bucknell.edu by August 14 and indicate their expected availability during the conference.

About Bucknell

Founded in 1846 and located along the banks of the Susquehanna River in historic Lewisburg, Pa., Bucknell University is an undergraduate-focused institution that stands uniquely at the intersection of top-ranked liberal arts, engineering and management programs. Our students choose from more than 50 majors and 60 minors in the arts, engineering, humanities, management, and natural and social sciences, as well as extensive global study, service-learning and research opportunities. Bucknell's 3,600 undergraduate and 100 graduate students enjoy a low 9:1 student-faculty ratio and exceptional opportunities to collaborate with faculty mentors.

Bucknell's beautiful 450-acre campus includes first-rate facilities and is home to more than 90 percent of its students. Residential life is vibrant with about 150 student-run organizations, 27 NCAA Division I athletic teams, a robust arts culture, and a strong student commitment to community and global service work.

Bucknell is committed to fostering an environment that embraces diversity, equity and inclusion, and we seek candidates who will contribute to a climate that supports the growth and development of a diverse campus community. The University provides equal opportunity without regard to race, color, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sexual orientation, age, religion, national or ethnic origin, marital status, veteran status or disability in admissions, employment and in all of its educational programs and activities. We encourage individuals from historically underrepresented groups to apply.

The Community

Located in central Pennsylvania, Lewisburg features a variety of restaurants, beautiful Victorian homes, the restored art deco Campus Theatre (owned by the University), charming shops and boutiques, and the Barnes and Noble at Bucknell University Bookstore. About 33,000 residents live in the region.

The city of Williamsport is about a 30-minute drive from campus, and Penn State University's main campus is about an hour away, as is Harrisburg, Pennsylvania's state capital. Bucknell is about three hours from New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D.C.

The cost of living here is low compared to that of major U.S. cities and suburbs. Bucknell's surroundings yield fresh produce, cultural activities and events, and many opportunities for outdoor activity on the Susquehanna River and in the nearby state parks and forests. The Lewisburg Area School District receives excellent reviews for its schools at all grade levels. Lewisburg Area High School is consistently ranked among the top 50 high schools in Pennsylvania for SAT scores and statewide exams.

Michigan State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

Specializations: Religion & Politics, American Politics, Ethnic & Feminist Theory

James Madison College seeks to fill an assistant professor position in the Political Theory and Constitutional Democracy field. The position contributes substantially to a major that focuses on modern liberal democracy (its origins, practice, critics and defenders) from the perspective of political philosophy. We seek a teacher-scholar broadly trained in the history of political philosophy, knowledgeable about the debates regarding modern constitutional democracy and democratic politics. Potential areas of research and teaching focus include European politics, international war and peace, religion and politics, American constitutional politics, and feminist political theory.

Successful candidates will have demonstrated ability to teach core courses in the history of political thought, combining serious study of foundational texts with contemporary debates about constitutional democracy and its future. Applicants should demonstrate commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching in an interdisciplinary program and to achieving a substantial record of scholarship. Ph.D. in a related field is required by time of appointment.

Applicants should supply a statement addressing how their teaching and research interests would contribute to the Political Theory and Constitutional Democracy curriculum specifically and to James Madison College's curriculum and mission more broadly. Supporting materials should include a CV, transcript, evidence of teaching approach and effectiveness, sample syllabi, and a sample of scholarship (e.g., dissertation chapter, article, conference paper). The names and contact information for three confidential references that speak to teaching expertise and scholarly promise must be provided as part of the application process. MSU will contact these references within five business days after a candidate completes and submits their application with instructions for the references on how to upload their confidential letter into MSU's application system.

Applications must be submitted electronically to the Michigan State University Human Resources web site: <http://jobs.msu.edu>. Please see posting number 579640 for complete instructions on how to apply. Review of applications will begin on September 13, 2019 and will continue until the position is filled. McGill University*Rank: Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory

Applications are invited for a one-semester or full-year Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory in academic year 2020-21. This fellowship for US citizens includes a $US 25,000 stipend with no teaching responsibilities.

Hosted in the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS), a unit of the Yan P. Lin Centre for the Study of Freedom and Global Orders in the Ancient and Modern Worlds, this award is open to scholars in political theory and is open with respect to methodology and approach in that field. Applications are also invited from scholars in neighbouring areas of legal theory and jurisprudence, political philosophy and political science. The Chair will pursue research in political and constitutional theory broadly construed. The ability to engage with scholars and students across methodologies — normative, empirical, intellectual-historical, jurisprudential, and formal, for example — is more important than particular areas of emphasis.

While Ph.D. must be in hand, the fellowship is otherwise open as to seniority. Most applicants will be on sabbatical or other leave from an existing faculty position, but it is not a requirement that the applicant already hold a faculty appointment.

The Chair-holder will be in residence at RGCS for one semester, will deliver one public lecture, regularly attend and also present work at an RGCS workshop, and, if appropriate, guest-lecture or lead guest discussions in political science classes. The Chair will more generally take an active part in the intellectual life of McGill, RGCS, and the Groupe de Recherche Interuniversitaire en Philosophie Politique.

Full eligibility information and the online application are available at <https://www.fulbright.ca/programs/american-scholars/primary-awards/policy.html>. Those interested are encouraged to contact Jacob Levy at rgcs.mcgill@gmail.com (especially for questions about thematic fit) and Bred Hector at bhector@fulbright.ca (especially for procedural questions) early in the application process. University of Richmond*Rank: Visiting Faculty in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law (PPEL)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Public Law

The program in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law (PPEL) at the University of Richmond invites applications for a one-year visiting lecturer in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law, to begin August 2019. The successful candidate for this non-tenure track position will teach core PPEL courses that are required of all majors, such as: Theory and Public Policy; Law and Social Order; and Rational Choice and Political Theory. The teaching load is seven courses for the academic year. Completion of PhD (in Philosophy, Political Science, or Economics, or in an interdisciplinary field involving those subjects) is expected prior to appointment.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and 92% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the program in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law, see <https://ppel.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.richmond.edu> and submit the following materials: a brief cover letter; a statement of teaching interests, experience, and philosophy, as well as evidence of commitment to inclusive pedagogy; a current curriculum vitae; copies of graduate transcripts. Please provide the names and contact information for three references who will receive an email requesting them to submit their recommendation letters to the University's Human Resources department at URHR@richmond.edu. One of these references must be able to speak to the candidate's record of or potential for excellence in teaching.

Please address any questions about the application to Stephen Simon (ssimon@richmond.edu). Review of applications will begin on April 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

Augustana College

Rank: Open Rank Visiting Professor

Augustana College, Rock Island, Illinois, invites applications for an open rank visiting position in Political Science (Political Theory/Political Thought) beginning in August of the 2019-2020 academic year, with possible renewal for the 2020-2021 academic year.

Augustana College is a selective liberal arts college of approximately 2,500 students, including 29 percent first-generation college students, 23 percent Pell Grant students, 21 percent students of color, and 9 percent international students.

Our beautifully wooded and largely residential 115-acre campus is located in Rock Island, Illinois, a diverse Illinois-Iowa Quad Cities metropolitan area along the Mississippi River with 400,000 residents about three hours west of Chicago and 45 minutes east of Iowa City, home of the University of Iowa.

Strengthening our diverse and inclusive community is central to the college's mission and strategic plan. We seek applicants with an interest in fostering rigorous, inclusive, and high-impact learning environments for a diverse student body.

The successful candidate will be able to teach modern and contemporary political theory courses, while specializations within political theory will be open. Candidates with interests and expertise in perspectives such as feminist political thought, black political thought, LGBT political thought, and/or other perspectives of political theory that may have been historically marginalized are encouraged to apply. The department is open to candidates bringing new ideas for political theory courses. Additionally, the successful candidate will teach American National Government. All faculty contribute to the first-year experience through a combination of teaching in the college's first-year inquiry program and/or offering January-term courses aimed at first-year students.

The successful candidate will join a diverse and active, five-member department. Each faculty colleague has interdisciplinary interests beyond political science that complement the political science curriculum, such as Africana Studies, Environmental Studies, Latin American Studies, Asian Studies and more. Successful candidates will be able to demonstrate teaching effectiveness and an understanding of and/or willingness to embrace the nature of a liberal arts education. Experience and interest in working with students and community members of many backgrounds will be an asset for applicants. Preference will be given to candidates who will have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment, although ABD candidates also will be considered.

Augustana College is an equal opportunity employer and actively encourages applications from women and persons of diverse ethnic backgrounds. We do not discriminate based on age, race, color, ethnic origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability or creed and strongly encourage applicants from diverse backgrounds to apply for this position.

Details about Augustana College, our expectations of the faculty, the selection process, and the Quad Cities all are available at Teaching at Augustana. Questions may be directed to the chair of the department, Xiaowen Zhang. Review of applications will begin March 1, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled.

A complete application includes: a cover letter indicating an interest in and understanding of teaching in a liberal arts setting, curriculum vitae, copy of graduate transcript, three letters of recommendation (including contact information), a statement of teaching philosophy, and writing sample.

To apply, please email application materials to sherrydoherty@augustana.edu using the subject line: Search #114-19 Pol. Sci. – Theory/Thoughts, and directed to Jessica Schultz, Associate Dean of the College. Alternatively, application materials can be mailed to: Search #114-19 Pol. ## PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

Appalachian State University

Rank: Assistant Professor

The Department of Government and Justice Studies at Appalachian State University invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Administration at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall semester 2020. Areas of interest are open, however, there is a particular interest for candidates with expertise in Human Resource Management. Professional experience in Public Administration, particularly at the local or state level and/or in non-profit management, is desired. A doctorate in Public Administration, Political Science, or a related discipline is required at the time of appointment. A J.D. is not sufficient for this position.

The teaching load is three courses per semester for faculty who maintain an active research agenda. Responsibilities include instruction at the graduate and undergraduate levels, an active program of scholarship, instruction at on-campus and off-campus sites, student advising, and participation in service activities.

The Master of Public Administration program is NASPAA-accredited and has over 60 students, most of whom specialize in local government or non-profit administration (see mpa.appstate.edu). The Department houses undergraduate programs in criminal justice and political science and graduate programs in political science and public administration. Additional information about the Department of Government and Justice Studies can be found at <http://gjs.appstate.edu>.

Appalachian State University, in North Carolina's Blue Ridge Mountains, prepares students to lead purposeful lives as global citizens who understand and engage their responsibilities in creating a sustainable future for all. The transformational Appalachian experience promotes a spirit of inclusion that brings people together in inspiring ways to acquire and create knowledge, to grow holistically, to act with passion and determination, and embrace diversity and difference. As one of 17 campuses in the University of North Carolina system, Appalachian enrolls about 19,000 students, has a low student-to-faculty ratio and offers more than 150 undergraduate and graduate majors.

The initial review of applications will begin on September 9, 2019, and will continue until the position is filled. Applicants must send a completed application consisting of a letter outlining teaching and research interests, a current vitae, a transcript from the doctoral-granting institution, and recommendation letters from three references. References will not be contacted without prior notice to the candidate. Applications and inquiries should be sent to Dr. Kathryn Webb Farley at pubadmsearch@appstate.edu.

Proper documentation of identity and employability will be required before the hiring process can be finalized. Any offer of employment to a successful candidate will be conditioned upon the University's receipt of a satisfactory criminal background report. ## Whitman College

Subfield(s): Public Law, International Relations, Political Theory

Tenure-track position in law and politics in global context at the rank of assistant professor. Effective August 2020. Ph.D. required.

We are interested in a teacher-scholar with a focus on law and politics in a global context. We welcome candidates who work with a variety of methods, including fieldwork, archival, historical institutional, political theoretical, and/or legal textual approaches. Candidates might offer courses such as international law; international politics; decolonization; human rights; theories of empire; comparative constitutionalism; indigenous politics; and/or area-specific courses on Asia, Africa, or Latin America. The candidate selected for the position will have the opportunity to contribute to the work of the college's Center for Global Studies, as well as interdisciplinary programs such as Asian and Middle Eastern Studies, Environmental Studies, Gender Studies, and Race and Ethnic Studies, as appropriate. Women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.

The standard annual teaching load is five courses. The College provides a generous sabbatical leave program and professional development support for both research and teaching.

Whitman College is committed to cultivating a diverse learning community. Applicants should explain how their classroom and scholarly practices will serve to create and sustain an inclusive learning environment. This statement can be included in the cover letter or the teaching statement. In their cover letter, candidates should address their interest in working at a liberal arts college with undergraduates, majors as well as non-majors, at all levels of instruction.

To apply, go to <https://whitmanhr.simplehire.com/>, click "Faculty" and "Assistant Professor of Politics". The online application will prompt you to submit all of the required materials: a letter of application; separate statements addressing the candidate's teaching interests and scholarly agenda; curriculum vitae; the contact information for three people who will be contacted for letters of reference; graduate transcripts; and complete sets of teaching evaluations or other evidence of demonstrated or potential excellence in undergraduate instruction.

Deadline: August 15, 2019.

Whitman College is building a diverse academic community and especially encourages applications from women, members of historically underrepresented minority groups, persons with disabilities, and others who would bring additional dimensions to the college's learning environment. Whitman College is an EEO employer.

McGill University*Rank: Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory

Applications are invited for a one-semester or full-year Visiting Fulbright Research Chair in Constitutional and Political Theory in academic year 2020-21. This fellowship for US citizens includes a $US 25,000 stipend with no teaching responsibilities.

Hosted in the Research Group on Constitutional Studies (RGCS), a unit of the Yan P. Lin Centre for the Study of Freedom and Global Orders in the Ancient and Modern Worlds, this award is open to scholars in political theory and is open with respect to methodology and approach in that field. Applications are also invited from scholars in neighbouring areas of legal theory and jurisprudence, political philosophy and political science. The Chair will pursue research in political and constitutional theory broadly construed. The ability to engage with scholars and students across methodologies — normative, empirical, intellectual-historical, jurisprudential, and formal, for example — is more important than particular areas of emphasis.

While Ph.D. must be in hand, the fellowship is otherwise open as to seniority. Most applicants will be on sabbatical or other leave from an existing faculty position, but it is not a requirement that the applicant already hold a faculty appointment.

The Chair-holder will be in residence at RGCS for one semester, will deliver one public lecture, regularly attend and also present work at an RGCS workshop, and, if appropriate, guest-lecture or lead guest discussions in political science classes. The Chair will more generally take an active part in the intellectual life of McGill, RGCS, and the Groupe de Recherche Interuniversitaire en Philosophie Politique.

Full eligibility information and the online application are available at <https://www.fulbright.ca/programs/american-scholars/primary-awards/policy.html>. Those interested are encouraged to contact Jacob Levy at rgcs.mcgill@gmail.com (especially for questions about thematic fit) and Bred Hector at bhector@fulbright.ca (especially for procedural questions) early in the application process. Applications must be fully complete by September 16.

University of Oklahoma*Rank: Rod and Nancy Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty

Rod and Nancy Sanders Chair in Law and Liberty

The Institute for the American Constitutional Heritage (IACH) at the University of Oklahoma (OU) seeks an established and nationally recognized scholar to hold the newly established Sanders Family Chair in Law and Liberty. The position is at the associate or full professor level and will be jointly appointed in the Department of Classics & Letters and the successful candidate's home disciplinary department or College, e.g., History or Political Science (both in the College of Arts and Sciences), or the College of Law.

The successful candidate will contribute to the core mission of the IACH, a vibrant interdisciplinary center for the study of American constitutionalism housed in Classics & Letters. The IACH has four faculty lines and over 30 affiliated faculty across the university who offer courses to over 100 undergraduates majoring or minoring in Constitutional Studies.

We seek a candidate with a teaching and research profile that would include, but not be limited to, the ancient roots of law, liberty, and self-governance; the development of republican thought and ideas of liberty and the rule of law in the modern world; and the historical and ideological background of the American founding.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. (or a J.D. for exceptional candidates with established records of scholarly excellence) and a substantial scholarly record in a discipline related to the core mission of the IACH. The successful candidate should also have an established commitment to teaching and mentoring undergraduate students, as well as experience in graduate teaching and mentoring, or clear potential for excellence in this area. The teaching load will be three courses a year (2-1).

Application Instructions

Interested applicants should initially submit a letter of interest, a current C.V., and three letters of reference to. University of Richmond*Rank: Visiting Faculty in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law (PPEL)

Subfield(s): Public Policy, Political Theory, Public Law

The program in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law (PPEL) at the University of Richmond invites applications for a one-year visiting lecturer in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law, to begin August 2019. The successful candidate for this non-tenure track position will teach core PPEL courses that are required of all majors, such as: Theory and Public Policy; Law and Social Order; and Rational Choice and Political Theory. The teaching load is seven courses for the academic year. Completion of PhD (in Philosophy, Political Science, or Economics, or in an interdisciplinary field involving those subjects) is expected prior to appointment.

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and 92% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment. For more information on the program in Philosophy, Politics, Economics, and Law, see <https://ppel.richmond.edu/>.

Applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.richmond.edu> and submit the following materials: a brief cover letter; a statement of teaching interests, experience, and philosophy, as well as evidence of commitment to inclusive pedagogy; a current curriculum vitae; copies of graduate transcripts. Please provide the names and contact information for three references who will receive an email requesting them to submit their recommendation letters to the University's Human Resources department at URHR@richmond.edu. One of these references must be able to speak to the candidate's record of or potential for excellence in teaching.

Please address any questions about the application to Stephen Simon (ssimon@richmond.edu). Review of applications will begin on April 15, 2019 and continue until the position is filled.

The College of New Jersey

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science at The College of New Jersey (TCNJ) invites applications for a tenure-track position in Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor. We are open to candidates studying a range of policy areas; candidates should demonstrate an active and rigorous research agenda in their chosen policy specialty. The successful candidate will excel in the classroom and seek ways to integrate their scholarship and teaching. Candidates should be prepared to teach undergraduate courses on U.S. public policy. Candidates who can also expand our course offerings in other areas such as public administration, race & ethnic politics, gender & politics, or urban/local politics would be desirable, as would candidates who could teach research methods or specialized courses in data analytics/science. The typical teaching load is three courses per semester, with the possibility of a course release per year for research after the first year through a competitive proposal process. A Ph.D. is preferred, but the College will consider ABDs if the degree will be granted by time of appointment. Applications received by September 13, 2019, will receive full consideration.

The Department of Political Science is a supportive and dynamic community of scholars and students. The Department has seven tenured or tenure-track members and is conducting searches this year for two additional tenure-track positions. Over 180 students major in Political Science, and another 130 major in the interdisciplinary International Studies program. The Department offers minors in public policy and pre-law which draw students from across a wide range of academic disciplines.

Founded in 1855, TCNJ is a highly selective institution that has earned national recognition for its commitment to excellence. Emphasizing a residential experience for its 6,500 undergraduates, TCNJ is one of Barron's 75 "Most Competitive" American colleges, and U.S. News & World Report's No. 1 public institution of its kind in the northern region of the country. The College also offers focused graduate programs in nursing, business, education and English. In 2006, TCNJ was awarded a Phi Beta Kappa chapter—an honor shared by less than 10 percent of colleges and universities nationally. A strong liberal arts core forms the foundation for programs offered through TCNJ's seven schools—Arts & Communication; Business; Education; Humanities & Social Sciences; Science; Nursing, Health, and Exercise Science; and Engineering. TCNJ faculty members are teacher-scholars who share a commitment to the liberal arts. TCNJ is located within an hour, by train, of NYC and Philadelphia. The College's campus is set on 289 tree-lined acres in suburban Ewing Township and is known for its natural beauty. TCNJ has 39 major buildings, including the 4th-best college library in the nation, according to the Princeton Review.

Applicants should submit the following materials using the online application system at link: <https://chm.tbe.taleo.net/chm03/ats/careers/v2/viewRequisition?org=TCNJ&cws=37&rid=1016>. A final offer of employment will be contingent upon successful completion of a background investigation.

CFR Call for 2020–2021 Fellowship Applications

The Council on Foreign Relations is seeking fellowship applicants for the 2020–2021 academic year. The programs offer unique opportunities, domestic and abroad, for mid and senior career U.S. citizens who have a demonstrated commitment to a career in foreign policy. Selected fellows broaden their perspective of foreign affairs either by pursuing work in a policymaking settings or research in an academic environment.

International Affairs Fellowship (IAF)

Established in 1967, the IAF is the hallmark fellowship program of CFR. It aims to bridge the gap between the study and making of U.S. foreign policy by creating the next generation of scholar-practitioners. The program offers its fellows the unique chance to experience a new field and gain a different perspective at a pivotal moment in their careers. Academics are thus placed in public service and policy-oriented settings, while government officials are placed in scholarly settings. Over the years, the IAF program has produced approximately six hundred alumni that span the who's who of the U.S. foreign policy community, including a former secretary of state and several undersecretaries of state, U.S. ambassadors to NATO and the United Nations, and many other influential leaders in government, academia, and the private sector. The duration of the fellowship is twelve months, preferably beginning in September, and the program awards a stipend of $100,000.

Start Date: FallApplication Deadline: Open until FilledDate Posted: 7/24/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 5823University of Wisconsin, Madison*Rank: Assistant Professor, Politics and Policy of China -- Cluster HireSubfield(s): Comparative Politics, International Relations, Public Policy

The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in comparative politics or international relations, with a primary focus on China and a secondary focus on East Asia and the Pacific Rim. Potential areas of substantive expertise in the politics and policy of China include: political and economic development, human rights, environmental politics and policy, international political economy, international security, international organizations/governance, non-governmental organizations, or political sociology.

This faculty position is part of a three-position research cluster, Rethinking East Asia and the World, which was proposed by the Title VI-funded National Resource Center, the Center for East Asian Studies, for the University's Cluster Hiring Initiative to enhance cross-disciplinary expertise on contemporary East Asia. Two candidates have been hired into this Cluster: Assistant Professor, Sociology of Contemporary Korea; and Assistant Professor, Educational Policy Studies in East Asia. Candidates for this position - Assistant Professor, Chinese Politics and Policy - should show a clear commitment to collaborating with the Cluster and to contributing to the intellectual life of the Center for East Asian Studies, the Department of Political Science, and the La Follette School of Public Affairs.

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment in either the Department of Political Science or the La Follette School of Public Affairs, with preference given to candidates interested in both political science and public affairs/public policy. Tenure home will be determined at the time of hiring. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank.

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required with service at the professional and university level.

Teaching will include courses to undergraduate students, as well as graduate students. The teaching load in a typical academic year will consist of two courses taught in the Department of Political Science and two courses taught in the La Follette School of Public Affairs. Mentoring graduate students will be required as well.

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 98888. To begin the application process, please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will also be asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application.

The deadline for assuring full consideration is September 18, 2019; however, positions will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled.

University of Wisconsin, Madison

Rank: Assistant Professor, Public Policy Approaches to Sexual Violence - Cluster Hire

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, International Relations

Specializations: Gender Politics & Policy, Criminal Justice, Health Care

The University of Wisconsin-Madison seeks to hire a faculty member with research and teaching interests in policy issues around sexual violence.

The scholar should have expertise in the interplay between social science, policy, and government. This may include scholars who are interested in issues such as rehabilitation and reintegration of sexual violence criminals, disparities in policing and sentencing policies for sexual violence criminals, sexual harassment policy issues in the public sector or workplace, Title IX issues in educational policy, child and adult sex trafficking, or the geopolitics of gender-based violence and sexual violence such as the context of war (and political violence more broadly), migration, refugee experiences, and disaster experiences. Or, this may include scholars who study the policy issues attached to: sexual violence imposed by domestic partners; gender/social inequality and its impact on sexual violence; substance abuse (e.g., alcohol and drug) and sexual violence; sexual violence against sex workers; weapon use and sexual violence; history of child abuse and sexual violence; sexual violence and HIV and other sexually transmitted diseases; the role of physicians in screening for sexual assault; marriage laws and sexual violence; mental health and sexual violence; and the relationship between sexual violence and economic pressure, social norms, inter-generational transmission, forced marriage, or education levels.

Ideally the candidate will be positioned to contribute knowledge to improve laws, or the implementation of laws or policies, to prevent and address sexual violence. Public policy experts could use their expertise in the policymaking process, as well as policy analysis and evaluation to identify "what works" and (what doesn't & "work") within existing sexual violence policies and laws, and then, in the spirit of the Wisconsin Idea, to share these evidence-based solutions with the public, as well as public sector leaders.

This faculty position is part of a faculty cluster search, "Sexual Violence: Connecting Social Science Research with Policy." The cluster defines "Sexual Violence" broadly, and it includes sexual assault, sexual harassment, sex trafficking, violence against sexual minorities, as well as gender-based violence.

Three faculty positions will be hired in the cluster, which will build a world-class, new core of interdisciplinary strength in research to address issues of sexual violence domestically and/or globally-making UW-Madison a research leader in this critical area. The first faculty position [PVL 99483] focuses on "Psychological Aspects of Sexual Violence" (including potentially research on psychological aspects of victimization, psychological factors contributing to perpetration, and/or theory-based development of interventions designed to prevent sexual assault), while the second faculty position [PVL 99523] is around "Societal Aspects of Sexual Violence" (including potentially research on the social causes and consequences of sexual violence, addressing the disproportionate impact of sexual violence in particular communities (e.g., sexual minority groups, people with disabilities) or the geopolitics of sexual violence and trauma. The third faculty position is "Policy Approaches to Sexual Violence," the subject of this search [PVL 99600].

These positions are part of the UW's Cluster Hiring Initiative, designed to foster innovative, outstanding research programs that will stimulate productive interactions among faculty and students in sexual violence research across campus and to expand interdisciplinary research in this area. Further information regarding this initiative can be found at: <https://facstaff.provost.wisc.edu/cluster-hiring-initiative/>

The successful candidate will have a primary appointment at the La Follette School of Public Affairs or another pertinent unit on campus. Tenure home will be determined at the time of hiring. Expectations include a commitment to the important functions of research, instruction, and outreach, as well as professional and university service as appropriate to faculty rank.

Responsibilities include conducting research and teaching at all levels required, with service at the professional and university level.

Teaching will include courses to undergraduate students, as well as graduate students. For example, the teaching load at the La Follette School of Public Affairs in a typical academic year consists of four courses each year. Mentoring graduate students will be required as well.

To apply, go to <http://jobs.wisc.edu> and search for PVL 99600. To begin the application process, please click on the 'Apply Now' button. You will be asked to create a profile and upload a C.V., cover letter, a research statement, a teaching statement, and 2 samples of written work (please upload these 2 samples together). You will also be asked to provide contact information for three (3) references as part of your online application.

The deadline for assuring full consideration is October 15, 2019; however, positions will remain open and applications may be considered until the position is filled.

Copenhagen Business School

Rank: Tenure Track Assistant Professor in Business and Government

Tenure Track Assistant Professorship in Business & Government at the Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) at Copenhagen Business School (CBS) – Call for expression of interest.

The Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) at CBS invites expressions of interest for a six-year Tenure-Track Assistant Professorship in Business & Government.

Candidates should hold, or be close to completing, a PhD in the fields of political science, political economy, international business, or related disciplines. Candidates should be able to demonstrate strong potential in research at the intersection of business and government. Applications are particularly encouraged from candidates with a research record in the fields of:

- Business-government relations
- Public Policy
- Comparative Politics
- Political Economy

Candidates should have excellent methodological skills. Participation in teaching in existing CBS programs and an interest in developing research-based teaching courses is expected. In addition, tenure track assistant professors are expected to live in Denmark and to actively contribute to department activities.

The Department of International Economics, Government and Business (EGB) brings together the study of states, markets, and international firms in the context of the challenges faced by emerging and advanced economies. EGB's research is based in international business, economics, and politics, and is of direct relevance to business, policy-makers, and scholars. Within this framework, the department has three principal areas of focus: States and markets, Firms and International Business and Societal challenges. The research environment is highly international. Department faculty directs a range of programs: BSc and MSc International Business, BSc and MSc International Business & Politics, International Business in Asia (IBA) and a graduate diploma program (HD) in International Business. JOB DESCRIPTION SUMMARY:

The Global Studies Department at Bentley University, invites applications for a tenure-track position in Comparative Public Policy/International Public Policy at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning Fall 2020. We particularly welcome candidates with expertise in policy areas such as sustainability, development, and health—areas that complement existing programs and appeal to students at a business university.

The successful candidate will be asked to contribute to enhancing our two departmental majors - Public Policy and International Affairs - and to complement the department's existing strengths, which are grounded in political science, geography and cultural studies. While the position is open with respect to region, we especially welcome candidates whose work focuses on regions with emerging economies, particularly in Asia or Africa.

Founded in 1917, Bentley University is a private, Business-focused university with a strong commitment to the Arts and Sciences. Bentley enrolls approximately 5,500 students at the undergraduate, graduate and doctoral levels. Located in Waltham, Massachusetts, Bentley is on the doorstep of one of the nation's leading cities. With over 35 colleges and universities, the greater Boston area is a vibrant place to work and live.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

The successful candidate will be expected to teach core courses in public policy/international affairs and electives in their area of expertise.

Candidates must demonstrate evidence of a continuing research agenda focused on publication and a strong dedication to excellence in teaching, with preference for candidates with classroom experience. We especially welcome candidates who bring diverse perspectives and experiences to the classroom.

PhD required. (Requirements for your doctoral degree must be confirmed prior to the start of the fall 2020 semester.)

Position will remain open until filled. However, priority consideration will be given to applications received by September 30, 2019.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO APPLICANTS:

Start Date:*Date Posted: 7/3/2019Salary: CompetitiveeJobs ID: 5743University of Richmond*Rank: Assistant Professor of Leadership StudiesSubfield(s): Public Administration, Public Policy, American Government and PoliticsSpecializations: Leadership Studies, Education Policy, Political Economy

The University of Richmond's Jepson School of Leadership Studies (JSLS) invites applications for a full-time tenure-track social scientist position at the rank of Assistant Professor for the 2020-21 academic year. Although ABDs will be considered, the successful candidate must have completed a Ph.D. in public administration, public policy, educational policy, political economy, political science, sociology, or a related field, by August 19, 2020.

JSLS is a collaborative, inclusive community of scholars in anthropology, economics, history, literature, philosophy, politics, social psychology and religion. We seek applicants who study, or have the potential and desire to study, leadership by drawing on their disciplinary expertise to inform their work. We are particularly interested in candidates whose demonstrated scholarly interests focus on the empirical analysis of data related to justice and explaining social and economic inequality.

Applicants should have the potential and desire to teach in an interdisciplinary undergraduate liberal arts environment. The successful candidate will be expected to teach elective courses related to his or her disciplinary training and to contribute to the curriculum by teaching such required courses as Leadership and the Social Sciences, Quantitative Social Science, and Theories and Models of Leadership. In their cover letter, candidates should demonstrate how their scholarly and teaching interests connect, or have the potential to connect, to leadership, broadly construed. (See <http://jepson.richmond.edu/> for more information.)

The University of Richmond is a private university located just a short drive from downtown Richmond, Virginia. Through its five schools and wide array of campus programming, the University combines the best qualities of a small liberal arts college and a large university. With nearly 4,000 students, an 8:1 student-faculty ratio, and 92% of traditional undergraduate students living on campus, the University is remarkably student-centered, focused on preparing students "to live lives of purpose, thoughtful inquiry, and responsible leadership in a global and pluralistic society."

The University of Richmond is committed to developing a diverse workforce and student body, and to modeling an inclusive campus community which values the expression of difference in ways that promote excellence in teaching, learning, personal development, and institutional success. Our academic community strongly encourages applications that are in keeping with this commitment.

Applicants should apply online at <http://jobs.richmond.edu> and submit a curriculum vitae, cover letter, and teaching statement. The teaching statement should articulate the candidate's teaching philosophy, interests, and future professional development goals as well as involvement in and commitment to inclusive pedagogy. The JSLS supports the University's commitment to promoting an inclusive campus community. For full consideration, applicants must specify in their cover letters how they are prepared to contribute to the imperatives of diversity and inclusion. In addition, please include the names and emails of three references who will receive an email asking them to submit their reference letters to the University's Human Resources department at URHR@richmond.edu. Review of applications will commence August 15, 2019. Phone or Skype interviews will be conducted in September. Committee members will be in attendance at the APSA Conference; attendance is not required for consideration. We anticipate inviting candidates to campus in October.

About the Position:

The Department of Political Science invites applications from qualified candidates for a Tier 2 CRC Chair appointment in Diversity and Politics in Global North Democracies at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor beginning July 1, 2020. The Department seeks an emerging scholar specializing in Indigenous, racialized, and/or gendered dimensions of political processes and institutions in democracies in the Global North and, in particular scholars whose research focus includes Canadian politics. An appointment with tenure is possible, depending on qualifications of the successful candidate.

Tier 2 Chairs are intended for exceptional emerging researchers (i.e. candidate will typically be less than 10 years from their highest degree at the time of nomination, or more than 10 years and has experienced legitimate career interruptions), acknowledged by their peers as having potential to lead in their field. Applicants who are more than 10 years from their highest degree may have their eligibility for a Tier 2 Canada Research Chair assessed through the program's Tier 2 justification process (<http://www.chairs-chaires.gc.ca/>). Carleton's research grants office can also provide more information (<https://carleton.ca/coris/>).

The successful candidate will work with the Faculty of Public Affairs to prepare the application for the Tier 2 CRC Chair. Academic appointment is conditional on the approval of the application by the CRC Program.

About the Academic Unit:

The Department of Political Science is a research-intensive unit, particularly proud of its pathbreaking tradition and continuing strength in the study of gender and politics, including establishing one of Canada's first political science PhD fields in Gender and Diversity. For more information , please visit: <https://carleton.ca/polisci/>.

Qualifications:

The successful applicant will possess:

- a PhD in Political Science or a cognate discipline;
- an outstanding record of research and peer-reviewed publications on diversity and politics, relative to stage of career;
- a record of high-quality teaching and supervision, appropriate to stage of career;
- commitment to continuing improvement and excellence in teaching;
- capacity to attract external research funding;

Application Instructions:

Please submit your application electronically in three PDF files, including: (1) a cover letter and CV; (2) a statement of research interests and samples of research, ideally including peer-reviewed publications; and (3) a teaching portfolio with evidence of teaching experience. Please identify any past experiences in supporting equity, diversity and inclusion in your previous institutional environment such as in curriculum development and in supporting diverse students. Applicants should also arrange to have three referees send supporting letters electronically.

All application materials should be directed to: Ms. Sandy Herbert, Department Administrator, Department of Political Science, Carleton University at sandy.herbert@carleton.ca.

To help us develop our equity programs, a confidential equity and diversity self-identification survey will be sent to all applicants separately.

Please indicate in your application if you are a Canadian citizen or permanent resident of Canada.

About Carleton University:

Carleton University is a dynamic and innovative research and teaching institution with a national and international reputation as a leader in collaborative teaching and learning, research and governance. With over 30,000 students in more than 100 programs of study, we encourage creative risk-taking, discovery, and the generation of transformative knowledge. We are proud to be one of the most accessible campuses in North America and our Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities has been heralded as the gold standard for disability support services in Canada. To learn more about our university and the Ottawa, please visit www.carleton.ca/about.

We are strongly committed to equity, diversity, and inclusion in the nomination and appointment process. Carleton University is committed to fostering diversity within its community as a source of excellence, cultural enrichment, and social strength. We welcome those who would contribute to the further diversification of our university including, but not limited to: women; visible minorities; First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples; persons with disabilities; and persons of any sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression. Carleton understands that career paths vary. Legitimate career interruptions will in no way prejudice the assessment process and their impact will be carefully considered.

Applicants selected for an interview are asked to contact the Chair as soon as possible to discuss any accommodation requirements. Arrangements will be made in a timely manner.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. All positions are subject to budgetary approval.

Rank: Assistant Professor of Political Science

Subfield(s): Public Policy, American Government and Politics, Methodology

The Department of Political Science and Economics at Rowan University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Political Science position beginning in Fall 2020. The Department seeks candidates with expertise in public policy. Applicants must demonstrate a commitment to excellence in both research and teaching, as well as the potential to secure external grant/fellowship support. Teaching responsibilities include introductory and advanced courses in public policy and American politics. A 3/3 teaching load is guaranteed for the first two years and can be renewed annually with evidence of continuing scholarship. Female candidates and candidates of color are strongly encouraged to apply. Rowan University is an equal opportunity and affirmative action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to age, color, disability, gender, gender expression, gender identity, genetic information, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or status as a protected veteran.

If you plan to attend the American Political Science Association (APSA) conference in Washington D.C. and would like to meet, please send your CV and a letter of application by August 1 to pluta@rowan.edu. We plan to meet with a limited number of applicants during the conference; however, all applicants will have equal consideration, regardless of attendance at APSA. Full applications should be submitted through the online applicant tracking system as discussed below.

Rowan University is a comprehensive state-designated research institution with approximately 15,000 students. Its main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20-miles southeast of Philadelphia and it has a branch campus and medical school in Camden and a second medical school in nearby Stratford. The University boasts seven colleges—Rohrer College of Business and colleges of Communication and Creative Arts, Education, Engineering, Humanities and Social Sciences, Performing Arts, and Science and Mathematics.

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences (CHSS) is the second largest college at Rowan University with seven departments, seven interdisciplinary programs, and seventeen majors. The College also has a number of established graduate programs and is in the process of developing more programs at the Master's and Doctoral level. The College also houses a number of Centers and Institutes that serve both research and pedagogical functions. CHSS places a strong emphasis on exceptional teaching, research and service. Our mission is to empower, transform, and engage students and faculty, as well as the global communities in which we live. We actively support faculty research and strive to include faculty as full partners in governance within the College.

Candidates should have an earned doctorate in Political Science (or related field) by August 1, 2020. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The first full review of applications will begin on October 28, 2019. Applications must be submitted through our online applicant tracking system at <http://jobs.rowan.edu/cw/en-us/job/493760/assistant-professor-of-political-science-tenure-track>.

Applications must include a cover letter, a CV, unofficial transcripts, a writing sample, and a teaching portfolio (including a statement of teaching philosophy, courses taught, teaching evaluations, etc.). Please do not submit letters of reference at this time.

Rowan University values diversity and is committed to equal opportunity in employment. Candidates must demonstrate authorization to work in the United States. All positions are contingent upon budget appropriations.
