

Demographics of the Profession: APSA Membership

The American Political Science Association serves a diverse membership around the world. Beginning in 2015, responses to demographic survey questions were required, with respondents having the option to respond with their demographic information or select "choose not to respond". Some of the main demographics provided by our members from 2016 to 2026 are illustrated below.

All figures presented are derived from administrative data on APSA membership. Missing data or "Prefer not to respond" responses have been omitted. Please hover over the figures to see percentages.
